DEC 10 1944

3D ARMY DRIVES NORTH FOR SAAR AFTER JUNCTION OF TWO DIVISIONS; CIRCLE CLOSING AROUND BUDAPEST

DEC 10 1944

MAGINOT LINE CRACKED FOR 2-MILE GAIN

3d Army Slugs Deeper Into Enemy Defenses In Heavy Fighting

Supreme Allied Headquarters, Paris, Dec. 9 (AP)—United States 3d Army troops slugged deeper into the Siegfried Line fortifications around the Saar Basin today while other Allied armies on the Western front continued their slow progress against desperate opposition.

The stubborn German resistance along the entire front, the Allied supreme command said, cost the enemy the equivalent of seventeen divisions in the first three weeks of the current winter offensive. The German losses up to the end of November were estimated at 152,000, of which 74,000 were captured.

Heavy Fighting All Along Line

There was heavy fighting all along the 3d Army line.

The 26th Division cracked the Maginot Line defenses near Achen, 7 miles southeast of Sarreguemines, and, plowing ahead up to two miles, joined the 35th Division on the east bank of the Saar River for a drive from the south on the rich Saarland, already under attack from the west.

The 5th Division, operating south of Saarlautern, continues its advance and reached the junction of the Saar and Roselle rivers.

Part of the 35th which crossed at Sarreguemines pushed on north into Neunkirsch, less than half a mile from the Saar Basin's frontier in the forefront of a potential enveloping drive against the Saar's capital of Saarbrucken, 8 miles northwest.

Enemy Salient Wiped Out

The 6th Armored Division wiped out an enemy salient 3 miles deep and 2 miles wide located 5 miles southeast of Saarbrucken.

The 90th Division, pressing deeper into the Siegfried Line in the western Saar Basin, seized the Dillingen railroad station 2 miles north of Saarlautern, and beat back enemy counterblows inside Dillingen.

The 26th Division was the first to cross the Saar, breaking across last month some seventeen miles south of Sarreguemines, and since then has been beating up the east bank. It ran into stiff resistance at Achen, where it came up against the old French fortifications for the first time.

Nazi Version Of 3d's Strength

[The German agency Transocean declared the 3d Army on that front was attacking with six to ten tank divisions and four mechanized infantry divisions—far more than the Allies have announced.]

The United States 7th Army kept the Allied winter offensive rolling all the way east to the Rhine with attacks northwest of Haguenau within 4 miles of Germany and was hacking at the approaches to Haguenau itself. The city is the most important enemy base left in northern Alsace.

Snow Blankets North Front

Snow blanketed the northern front, where the United States 9th Army smashed the last two German pockets on the Roer at Julich, and the United States 1st Army edged closer to the river some 18 miles south of Julich, near Bergstein.

The Supreme command, surveying the first three weeks of the offensive ending Nov. 30, claimed destruction of the equivalent of 17 German divisions, a rate of attrition which in theory would destroy the enemy's whole front line army well before the end of Winter.

With the British and Canadians in Holland and the U. S. First and Ninth armies at the edge of the Cologne plain stabilized for the moment by weather and flooded river barriers, action centered on the fronts of the U. S. Third and Ninth and French First armies.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army 35th division pushed about a half mile east in extending to a mile its bridgeheads on the east bank of the Saar river at Sarreguemines and at Dieding and Wittring, three and five miles southeast.

Enemy Attack Repulsed

Northwest of Saarlautern, the 90th division knocked back a strong counterattack at Dillingen and knocked out 12 more pillboxes in a slow gouging into the Siegfried Line, the last big barrier before the Rhine.

The German counterblow was hurled by 600 infantry and 11 tanks and fighting raged from house to house and wall to wall yesterday before the Germans gave and withdrew from the city.

Fighting still was in progress inside Saarlautern, and a German force massing for a counterattack against the Saar bridgehead there was broken up by artillery fire.

Both the 95th division here and the 90th to the north were under heavy fire from the Siegfried Line.

Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army, using surprise tactics similar to the Third, fought into Bischwiller four and a half miles from the Rhine north of Strasbourg, jumping off before dawn in a double envelopment attack without artillery preparation.

The surprise enabled infantry to take intact a 100-foot bridge across the Moder river in the northeastern part of the town.

Once Bischwiller is cleared, the defense of Haguenau, four miles northeast, will be impossible. The Seventh holds more than a score of towns immediately south, west and northwest of the city.

Other Seventh army troops nine miles northwest of Haguenau slashed to within four miles of the palatinate border northwest of Niederbronn.

Drive into Eifel Pass

Farther west, the Seventh dug deeper into heavily-wooded Eifel pass, just south of the French fortress town of Bitche, seven miles south of the Saar border.

The French First army, fighting out of Bonhomme pass, were closing on the Alsatian city of Colmar, no more than four miles ahead of them.

Their progress was slowed by desperate German rearguards protecting the German withdrawal across the Rhine east of Colmar, where a temporary bridge at Neuf-Brisach was attacked by Allied warplanes.

The French cleared most of Thann, 10 miles northwest of Mulhouse, but fighting continued in the southwestern part of the town. Other French troops clung to the Lutterbach bridgehead across the Doller River, just west of Mulhouse, but lost the railroad station there in the face of fierce resistance.

On the snow-covered hills and forests at the edge of the Cologne Plain, the 9th Army drove the Germans across the Roer from their long-held positions in the swimming pool and stadium at Julich. Only patrol action was reported elsewhere.

Lt. Courtney H. Hodges' First army infantrymen found the going slow along the ridge-ribbed wooded countryside studded with camouflaged pillboxes southwest of Bergstein.

A front dispatch said the German command had ordered Bergstein recaptured at all cost, and the incessant counterattacks made consolidation and expansion of American positions difficult.

House-To-House Sarreguemines Fighting On

Paris, Dec. 9 (AP)—The United States 3d Army stabbed half a mile to a mile farther beyond the Saar River today.

Meanwhile, at supreme headquarters it was estimated that the Germans lost 152,000 men in the first three weeks of the winter offensive. At present strength, the toll is equal to seventeen enemy divisions—almost one fourth of the 72 divisions that authoritative French sources had estimated earlier this week as the total German strength on the Western front.

84,000 Nazis Captured

Seven German divisions are regarded as utterly destroyed—meaning that they are no longer appearing at the front in any form—and 22 others, four of them armored or armored grenadiers—are "very severely battered."

Of the 152,000 German casualties, 84,000 have been taken prisoner, the rest killed or permanently put out of action.

Some of the divisions wiped out—the 47th, 48th, 91st, 275th and 338th—have been counted as destroyed once before since the invasion, but were reformed from reserves and sent back to action.

Fighting In Sarreguemines

Third Army men were fighting house-to-house in the eastern part of Sarreguemines after one of two new crossings of the Saar.

The United States 7th Army to the southeast drove into Bischwiller, three miles southeast of Haguenau. Infantrymen, supported by tanks, made the thrust.

To the north, rapidly melting snow fell on the United States 9th Army front, where only patrol activity was reported this morning. The Germans began digging deeper behind minefields and rearranging defense forces on the eastern bank of the Roer River.

Fort Crevecour Taken

United States 1st Army troops had slow going in the snow against well-camouflaged German pillboxes in woods near Bergstein, southwest of Duren. The Germans have been ordered to retake Bergstein at all costs, a field dispatch said.

Canadian troops battling a holdout pocket of Germans captured Fort Crevecour, just below the Maas River and due north of 's-Hertogenbosch in Holland, at 3 P.M. today after a fourteen-hour battle. The German defenders, about one company, were wiped out.

Still Shelling Saarbrucken

The 3d Army was beating against eight Saar Valley steel towns smoldering from fighter-bomber attacks, and field guns continued to rip at Saarbrucken.

Americans were within a couple of miles of Saarbrucken, but supreme headquarters had no confirmation of reports that the city's outskirts had been reached.

Above Saarlautern their comrades repulsed a strong German counterattack and then captured twelve more pillboxes in the Siegfried Line.

Nazi Escape Bridge Bombed

Farther south, the Nazis' last Alsatian stand was cracking up, and dive-bombers struck at the Neuf Brisach escape bridge over the Rhine near Colmar.

[The German communiqué indicated that the whole western bank of the Roer River at Julich had been surrendered at last, stating that the bridgehead garrisons there "battled their way back to the eastern bank of the Roer after repulsing grim enemy attacks." The Allied communiqué had reported only two small pockets remaining west of the river near Julich.]

The New Saar Crossings

The new crossings of the Saar were made by the 35th Infantry Division at Dieding and Wittring, three and a half and five miles southeast of Sarreguemines, respectively.

Sarreinsming, on the east bank just southeast of Sarraguemines, was captured.

The 26th Division, edging northward along the east bank of the Saar, had almost joined the 35th, but was also meeting stiff opposition. It reduced five pillboxes, presumably part of the old Maginot defenses.

Nazi Attack Repulsed

The Germans in Dillingen, three miles northwest of Saarlautern, attacked with 600 infantrymen and 11 tanks, but were knocked back by the 90th Infantry Division. The Nazis quit the town after a close-quarter battle.

The wedge into the Siegfried Line was not appreciably deepened, however, in the face of such stubborn resistance.

Germans forming up for an assault on the 95th Division near Saarlautern were scattered by artillery. German guns from Siegfried positions continued to hammer at the 90th and 95th Divisions.

7th Nearer Reich Border

The United States 7th Army had driven within four and a half miles of the German border, prying loose the last German hold on northeastern Lorraine, and was making progress against stiffening Nazi resistance.

The 7th got deeper into the heavily wooded Eifel Pass just south of Bitche, and closed up to the Rhine above Strasbourg with the capture of Gambsheim.

French 1st Army troops pouring out of Bonhomme Pass reached Beenwihr, widening a wedge driven within four miles of Colmar from the northwest.

Thur Valley Mopped Up

Farther south, French units mopped up all the Thur Valley northwest of Mulhouse except a three-mile stretch between St. Amarin and Thann.

There were no changes reported along the British 2d or American 9th Army fronts in the north.

While the Allied Tactical Air Forces were pounding the German front lines and supply routes on 1,500 sorties yesterday, the Germans struck back with a strong force of planes. The 9th Army lines particularly were bombed and strafed.

26 NAZIS KILLED BY TENN. SOLDIER

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY IN FRANCE, Dec. 9—(AP) Sgt. Charley Coolidge—a straight shooter from Signal Mountain Tenn.—helped stand off a three day enemy attack and when it was over his buddies credited him and his grenades with killing 26 Germans and wounding 60.

Before it all started Coolidge showed his mettle by going with German-speaking Sgt. George Ferguson, Hollis, N. Y., to within ten yards of the German lines and having Ferguson demand they surrender.

The Germans foolishly answered with a machinegun burst.

A sniper's bullet whistled near Coolidge's head and the Tennesseean dropped the sniper with his carbine.

This was the signal for the Germans to attack. The Americans took cover with their own men and poured machinegun fire into the ranks of the Germans, who withdrew after learning what others of their comrades had learned—never try to assault any 36th division position frontally.

The Germans attacked again the next day. Coolidge, who was in charge of the entire area in the absence of an officer, went from rifleman to rifleman, directing fire and offering encouragement.

When the lulls came he was scouting, or obtaining more ammunition.

On the next day the Germans threw two Mark Four tanks into the fight.

Coolidge bounced bullets off their armor with his carbine and directed machinegun fire against them, but still they came on.

He got a bazooka, crawled within 25 yards of the tanks and pulled the trigger. The batteries were dead and the bazooka missed fire.

Enemy infantry moved out to infiltrate under cover of the tank fire. In the new two hours Coolidge threw 70 grenades at the Germans, slowing their advance, but as the tanks closed in Coolidge was forced to order a withdrawal.

The next day the Americans retook the hill and 26 dead Germans were proof that Coolidge has a pretty fair aim.

TROOPS GET REVENGE FOR ANZIO BATTERING

AT A UNITED STATES OBSERVATION POST, in the Vosges Mountains, France, Dec. 9 (AP)—In an 800-year-old Germanic castle a group of American artillery observers—as cozy as eagles in their nest—are getting revenge for what the Germans dished out to them at Anzio in Italy.

Their castle post is on a Vosges peak at the edge of the Alsatian Plain within sight of Colmar and the Rhine, and from it they can and do direct murderously accurate fire on the enemy below.

They are perched so high that clouds often suddenly settle in below them. It is like being on an ocean with only the tops of the snow-capped Vosges peaks sticking out.

"We are getting our revenge now," Pvt. Stanley Schein of 737 Snedicker Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., said.

"We were at Anzio and there the Germans held high ground like this and we were on the bottom.

"The other day when we took St. Hippolyte we watched our infantry walk in this side of the town, with the Germans going out the other, and did we pour it on those Krauts. I saw all records for the mile broken when we let them have it with the big guns."

"Yeah," chimed in Corporal Conrad Ordal, of Sioux Falls, S.D., "one of them had a horse and went by the others like Whirlaway past a milk wagon."

The castle, one of several dotting the peaks, was built in 1148. It has battlements, drawbridges, a room decorated with armor, ancient locks and stained windows.

Tactical Air Force Colonel Is Promoted

Paris, Dec. 9 (AP)—Col. John P. Doyle, of Garden City, N.Y., commander of the 26th Wing of the 1st Tactical Air Force, has been promoted to brigadier general, Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, commanding general of the force, announced today.

Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, commanding general of the European theater communications zone, announced promotion of Brig. Gen. Royal B. Lord, of Washington, his chief of staff, to major general.

Lee also announced promotion of three colonels to brigadier general. They are Roy W. Grower, of St. Louis, commander of the Brittany base section; Fenton S. Jacobs, of San Francisco, commander of the Channel base section, and Oscar N. Solbert, of Washington, chief of special and information services.

Hero Raised to Lieutenant

WITH AMERICAN FIRST ARMY in Germany, Dec. 9 (AP)—This was a big day in the soldier life of Staff Sgt. Walter D. Ehlers, thrice-wounded winner of the Congressional Medal. The First Infantry Division hero was commissioned a second lieutenant this morning and later in the day he was to start the long trip home to Manhattan, Kan., for a thirty-day leave under the rotation plan.

'Ike' Issues Financial Proclamation To Reich

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—A proclamation by General Eisenhower today told the German people that financial practices inside the Reich discriminating against any person on account of race, religion or political opinions will be abrogated and all persons will be treated with equal justice under the law.

The proclamation, reported here by the Office of War Information, was the sixth in a series explaining Allied plans for Germany.

German officials will be instructed to continue measures against inflation, such as rationing and price control, the proclamation said.

Existing German currency will be continued as legal tender, but Allied military marks will be made legal tender, as well, and "must be accepted on the same basis as the Reichsmarks."

REDS 9 MILES FROM CENTER OF BUDAPEST

Hungarian Capital Almost Three Fourths Circled By Russ Forces

London, Sunday, Dec. 10 (AP)—Russian troops have smashed to within nine miles of the heart of Budapest at two points and sealed off the last land of the city on the eastern bank of the Danube by breaking through to the river at captured Vac, 13 miles above the Hungarian capital, Moscow announced last night.

At the same time Russian troops have crossed the water barrier 13 miles southwest of the city in a big envelopment drive, Moscow said.

Almost Three Fourths Encircled

Berlin disclosed that the Hungarian Government had fled to the Austrian frontier town of Sopron as two big Soviet armies in a double flanking movement converged on the besieged city and also sent flying columns racing far around it on the northwest toward Czechoslovakia and Austria. Budapest was almost three quarters encircled.

Premier Stalin in an order of the day announced that Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2nd Ukraine Army had advanced up to 37 miles on a 75-mile front, hurling the Germans back to the former Czechoslovakian border north of Budapest.

Rakosliget Taken

Malinovsky's central columns captured the eastern suburbs of Rakosliget, penetrating to within nine miles of the heart of Budapest, while his southern wing overran most of the 30-mile-long Csepel Island in the Danube due south of Budapest, capturing Szigetszentmiklos, only five miles from Budapest's municipal boundary.

Crossing the Danube at Ercsi, 13 miles southeast of Budapest, Malinovsky's units established a solid link with Marshal Fedor I. Tolbukhin's 3d Ukraine Army pushing up the west bank of the river from the south, Stalin said.

This contact was made at Velencze Lake, 22 miles southwest of Budapest, and the Russians cut the Budapest-Szekesfehervar railway at Dinnyes, six miles east of Szekesfehervar, last big stronghold below the capital.

Release Of Forces Seen

Tolbukhin's forces, in their advance on Szekesfehervar, 110 miles southeast of Vienna, captured Szerecseny and Seregelyes, 7 and 8 miles southeast of the stronghold, in addition to Dinnyes rail station.

The fall of Szekesfehervar would release a large part of Tolbukhin's forces for another direct drive through western Hnugary while Malinovsky's troops are engaged in a twin offensive above the Danube bend northwest of Budapest.

Malinovsky's troops captured 150 places in their big advance, including Balassagyarmat, on the old central Slovakian border 36 miles north of Budapest.

While some of his units turned south along the river from Vac to aid in the reduction of Budapest, others pushed on five miles and took Veroce, on the north bank of the Danube beyond the bend, and only eight miles from the former Slovak frontier.

A German Transocean agency report disclosed that the Hungarian ministers of Ferenc Szalasi's government had fled Budapest and temporarily settled in Sopron, near the Austrian frontier.

Sopron, 34 miles southeast of Vienna, Austrian capital, is only 75 miles northwest of Tolbukhin's southwestern wing, battling around the lower end of Lake Batalon about 40 miles from the Austrian frontier.

Transocean said that Hungarian Foreign Minister Baron Gabor Kemeny, had "left Budapest to attend a ministerial meeting in Sopron," thus affirming what had been reported for several days past—that the Nazi-dominated Szalasi cabinet had abandoned Budapest.

Budapest now is ruled by a Field Marshal Military distator and "Hungarian officials leave no doubt that Szalasi's government will fight on—wherever it may be," the German broadcast said.

In the eastern outskirts of Budapest the Germans admitted fresh Soviet gains, too, as the final phase of the siege began.

The Soviet spearhead which took Balassagyarmat was only forty-five miles south of Banska Bystrica, until a few weeks ago the headquarters of Czechoslovak patriots who maintained an airplane liaison service with the Russians in Poland and the western Allies in Italy. A German punitive expedition forced the patriots to abandon Banska Bystrica.

Russians Reach Danube North Of Budapest

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—Premier Stalin announced tonight in an order of the day that the Russian army under Marshal Rodion Malinovsky had broken through German defenses northeast of Budapest on a 75-mile front and reached the Danube north of the Hungarian capital.

In storming to the Danube, Stalin said, the town of Vac on the Danube, fifteen miles north of the capital, was captured by the Russians. Fall of the town already had been admitted by the German high command.

Nograd, eight miles northwest of Vac, also was taken, the order of the day said.

Others Cross Danube

Stalin's broadcast order said other forces under Malinovsky had forced their way across the Danube below the capital and linked up with Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's 3d Ukranian Army driving toward the capital from the southwest.

Below Budapest the Russians also captured Brcsi, on the Danube, only 12 miles south of the capital's outskirts.

More than 150 other places were captured, Stalin announced, including Aszod and Balassagyarmat, on the Czechoslovak border, 40 miles north of Budapest.

The Paris radio said Russian troops had "penetrated into" Pest—that half of Budapest on the east bank of the Danube.

Cabinet Flees Capital

The Berlin radio disclosed that the Hungarian Cabinet had fled to Sopron on the Austrian border, and announced loss of the town of Vac, fifteen miles northeast of Budapest, to Russian forces closing a trap on the capital.

Sopron, a commercial and industrial center, lies 112 miles west of Budapest. The town is near Neusiedler Lake.

A German Transocean Agency broadcast said the Hungarian Foreign Minister, Baron Gabor Kemeny, had "left Budapest to attend a ministerial meeting in Sopron," thus disclosing that the rest of Nazi-dominated Ferenc Szalasi's Cabinet had moved there.

Military Rule

"Hungarian officials leave no doubt that Szalasi's government will fight on—wherever it may be," the broadcast said. Budapest now is under rule of a field marshal, who is military dictator.

"The sounds of battle can be heard more clearly than ever in Budapest," Transocean said, "but there are as yet no indications that Russian forces from the northeast and south have opened their general offensive on the capital."

Berlin said Vac, a Danube city, was lost after hard fighting.

Admit Retreat

Asserting the Russians had thrown in fresh reinforcements in the battle for Budapest, Transocean said German lines "had to be taken back several miles east of the capital."

"From their penetration north of Budapest," the news agency said, "the Soviets increased their pressure southward on Budapest, at the same time attacking toward the north."

Defections Reported

As the Russians were closing in on Budapest like a vise, there were Moscow reports of wholesale defections by Hungarians from the defending forces.

A midnight Soviet bulletin said an entire Hungarian infantry regiment, comprising 29 officers and 1,390 men, surrendered on the Danube front. The bulletin also said 1,500 Germans and Hungarians were killed yesterday on the front west of the Danube.

AMERICAN PLANES POUND STUTTGART

LONDON, Dec. 9—(AP) Boring through blinding snowstorms, in 54 degrees-below-zero weather, more than 700 American warplanes reached the German industrial center of Stuttgart in perfect bombing formation today and carpeted a strategic airdrome and congested freight yards with 1,500 tons of explosives.

Convoyed by some 300 Mustangs and Thunderbolts of the U. S. Eighth air force, 400 Flying Fortresses dropped their loads by visual aiming and instrume

Four of our bombers were reported missing. All the escorting fighters returned safely.

Flak was reported light and, with the exception of one Nazi jet-propelled plane, which was shot down, the Luftwaffe was absent.

This first attack on Stuttgart by American heavies since Sept. 16 proved to be one of the coldest missions the Britain-based bombers have flown.

The intense cold 25,000 to 30,000 feet above the target area possibly could explain lack of initiative by Nazi fighters. Lubricants in their planes may now be of such poor quality that they could not stand such severe cold.

Stuttgart, 70 miles east of Strasbourg and 110 miles east of the Saarbrucken area which is being approached by Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army, is the home of large truck and ball-bearing factories as well as a transportation junction for the southern hinge of the Western front.

While the American warplanes were leaving their British fields for the first time in two days, double-edged aerial blow against the Reich developed as Italy-based bombers were reported by the Berlin radio to have attacked Munich, 120 miles southeast of Stuttgart.

Stuttgart's Rail Yards Bombed By 'Forts'

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—American Flying Fortresses from Britain shook Stuttgart's railyards with 1,500 tons of bombs today—part of a two-way air attack on Germany from the west and south.

The Berlin radio said heavy bombers ranged into the Munich area from Italy before noon.

Fewer than 300 Mustang and Thunderbolt fighters accompanied 400 B-17 to Stuttgart in southwestern Germany, headquarters of United States Strategic Air Forces in Europe said.

70 Miles From Fighting

Railroad facilities there lie 70 miles east of the fighting in the Strasbourg area and 110 miles from Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's troops on the approaches to Saarbrucken.

British Lancasters and Mosquitos punched twice yesterday at Duisburg, Rhine River city on the western edge of the Ruhr, using 3,000 tons of bombs against the railroad yards and a synthetic oil plant.

An Air Ministry communique said six fighters were lost from the Spitfire-Mustang escort, but all bombers returned.

54 Below Zero

The American bombers and fighters battled through snowstorms to Stuttgart and at their great height the temperature was 54 degrees below zero.

The Americans encountered no German fighter opposition. Stuttgart was last bombed by United States planes September 16.

SHOWDOWN DUE IN LABOR PARTY

Is Aftermath of Confidence Vote Given Churchill.

London, Dec. 9 (A. P.).—A showdown brewed today in the minority Labor party as an aftermath of the 279-to-30 vote of confidence by the House of Commons in Prime Minister Churchill's policy in the liberated countries.

In the balloting yesterday Mr. Churchill won solid support from his own Conservative party and from Laborites serving in the coalition Government as ministers or parliamentary private secretaries, but only one Laborite rank and file member voted for the Government. This vote was cast by Ivor Thomas.

Laborites in the Government may demand a vote of confidence from their own party, which is opening a conference Monday. A resolution was being drafted for the conference outlining the party's attitude toward liberated countries.

One bloc was known to be drafting a new demand that the Government send a representative to Athens immediately to make a special investigation of the Greek crisis for the House.

Say Law May Go to Greece.

A report was heard in the Commons lobby that Richard Law, Minister of State, would be sent to Greece to try to straighten out the political situation.

Most of the Labor members of Parliament refrained from voting yesterday, hesitant about committing themselves to the British policy, yet reluctant to create a government crisis. Among those who refrained were about thirty-five who were seen in the building.

The breakdown of those who supported the government — including two tellers, whose votes are not officially counted — was 229 Conservatives, twenty-three Laborites, ten Liberals, ten Liberal Nationalists and nine Independents.

While there are 615 seats in Commons, the attendance did not come anywhere near approaching that number. However, dozens of members are in the armed forces or in other war jobs overseas.

Press Finds No Solution.

Sections of the British press, agreeing that Britain had barely escaped being plunged into a political crisis, asserted today that Prime Minister Churchill's speech on Greece did nothing to relieve public anxiety about the lack of a unified Allied political strategy.

The conservative London Times maintained that the situation "supplies good reason" for an early meeting of the Big Three.

Most of the British press, with the exception of the Communist Daily Worker, agreed that Mr. Churchill made "a good speech" but they found nothing in it to give rope for an early solution of the Greek crisis.

M.P. Sees Leftist Rising In Europe

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—Stephen King-Hall, Independent Nationalist Member of Parliament, warned today that a people's movement, leftist and revolutionary in character, was taking shape in Europe, and suggested Great Britain "lead it and guide it into truly democratic channels to avoid danger of a dictatorship from the left."

The gray-haired, outspoken former naval officer, who invoked the wrath of Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels in 1939 over letters he wrote to German citizens seeking their views for establishing peaceful international relations, said the most significant system in Europe is the new radicalism "which is expressed in its most obvious form in most of the resistance movements."

Spanish Press Plays Up Churchill Speech

Madrid, Spain, Dec. 9 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's House of Commons speech was printed in all Madrid newspapers today under huge headlines and the Spanish national radio broadcast long quotations.

The only speech of an Allied leader to get so much publicity in Spain was the British Prime Minister's complimentary remarks about Spain last May.

ABC headlined its report of the speech: "Churchill Against Communist Dictatorship."

Adm. Doenitz Still Hopes

His First Flotilla of Stormboats Will Be Named Hitler Youth

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP).—Admiral Karl Doenitz welcomed the name Hitler Youth today for the first flotilla of his one-man torpedoes and miniature submarines with the assertion, "no situation is ever hopeless."

The commander of the German Navy, addressing the Hitler Youth organization on the occasion of Adolf Hitler's bestowal of the name on the first stormboat flotilla, said: "Show us that you have stout hearts and can give the devil himself a licking in hell."

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—Nazi propagandists pepped up their "Hitler-is-well" campaign today by broadcasting statements attributed to a U-boat commander and a Hungarian Army official who were declared to have visited Hitler's headquarters recently. Both were quoted as saying "the Fuehrer looks fresh and healthy."

Polish Cruiser a Blockship

LONDON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Polish cruiser Dragon was damaged in action with the enemy during operations before the Allied invasion of France and was later sunk as one of the blockships that formed breakwaters for the artificial harbors off Normandy on D-day, the Polish naval staff in London announced tonight.

British Envoy Back Home

London, Dec. 9 (AP)—Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, British Ambassador to Russia, arrived here today by plane from Moscow.

Promote U. S. Chief in Britain.

London, Dec. 9 (A. P.).—Brig.-Gen. Harry B. Vaughan Jr. of Philadelphia, commander of the United Kingdom base of the United States Army, has been advanced to the rank of major-general. He has commanded the United Kingdom base since its activation last September.

CONGRESSMEN DENY PRISONER PAMPERING

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP)—German prisoners are neither pampered nor persecuted—and they are not receiving any American cigarettes, members of a United States House Military Affairs Committee reported today after a visit to a camp at Chartres, forty-five miles southwest of Paris.

"They [the prisoners] are sleeping in warehouses, on straw pallets, with one blanket underneath them and one on top, eating in a mess hall with good cooking—with captured German equipment—but at no table," Representative Forest Harness, Republican of Indiana, said.

"They are being treated fairly under the Geneva Convention, but if they could see that camp life a lot of them never would go to war," remarked Representative Matthew Merritt, Democrat of New York.

"People at home have no grounds for considering prisoners pampered," added Representative Charles Elston, Republican, of Ohio. "They receive what they're entitled to and not a bit more."

The Representatives discovered the prisoners were given captured regular German post exchange rations, which are like American K-rations, containing tobacco, cigaret papers, toothbrush, toothpaste and other items.

"Nobody can say they're getting used badly when they get their own supplies," remarked Representative Paul Kilday, Democrat, of Texas.

Joins Opponents Of Franco in Spain

Paris, Dec. 9 (A. P.).—The exiled leaders of Izquierda Republicana, which was one of the largest political parties in Spain before the civil war, yesterday closed a two-day Congress by declaring its support for the 1931 constitution and for ex-Premier Diego Martinez Barrios as the legal head of the Spanish Republic.

The group authorized party executives to enter into a coalition with other political parties for the removal of Gen. Franco.

French Leftist Militia Stays as 'Security' Units

20 Regional Commands Set Up in Compromise

PARIS, Dec. 9 (AP).—The government announced a compromise today with the left-wing resistance groups on the militia issue by the creation of special republican security companies divided among twenty regional commands.

The new organization will be subject to orders of the secretary-general of police in each district. The authorized strength of each company is seventy men.

The security companies afford a place for members of the left-wing militia. The government's recent order dissolving and disarming the militia evoked strenuous protests from the resistance groups.

Pierlot Fears Greater Pinch In Food and Fuel

Says Belgians Can Hope for No Relief Until They Can Import Through Antwerp

BRUSSELS, Dec. 9 (AP).—Economic conditions in Belgium are going to get much worse before they can get better, Premier Hubert Pierlot said at an interview today. He said Belgium's shrinking food and coal supplies could not be supplemented until Antwerp harbor was opened to civilian as well as military use.

"Importation of foodstuffs is our biggest problem," said the former lawyer who headed the Belgian government in exile during the four years of the German occupation. "We realize the military needs of the Allied armies must come first, but in the mean time opposition forces are trying to take advantage of the situation and seize control of the government."

Pierlot was referring to the Independence Front movement headed by Fernand Demany.

"For Belgium the situation is very, very serious," Pierlot said. "We have a population of 750 inhabitants to the square mile and can produce only enough food during normal times to feed our people for six months of the year. Now it has been almost four months since our country was liberated, and the harvest saved from the Germans is almost gone.

"In less than a month oil for making margarine will be gone. In two months there probably will be complete exhaustion of meat and wheat."

"We don't ask more than a chance to work on the Allied side," Pierlot said. "We could pay for materials and food with our own money."

British Capture Town Only Mile From Faenza

Rome, Dec. 9 (AP)—A noose was steadily being tightened about the northern Italian highway coastal point of Faenza today by British 8th Army forces in bitter fighting.

Already as much as five miles beyond the Lamone River, the town of Faenza on the south, the British seized San Prospero on the west bank only a mile southwest of Faenza.

A parallel column, beating back steady resistance, fought to a spur less than a mile south of Celle, two miles west of Faenza and only a mile from Highway 9 running northwest to Bologna.

The withdrawing Germans, fighting back hard to protect their flank, recaptured yesterday the village of Pideura, across the Lamone five miles southwest of Faenza, but Allied tanks and infantry won it back after vicious fighting in the houses.

Allies Closing In On Faenza In Italy

Rome, Dec. 9 (AP)—Eighth Army troops, rapidly completing the encirclement of Faenza, have captured San Prospero, on the west bank of the Lamone River a mile and a half due west of the Bologna-Rimini highway stronghold.

Capture of San Prospero represented an advance of approximately three miles from Pideura, around which Allied headquarters today described the fighting as "particularly bitter."

Nazis Pulling Back

German troops already had been reported pulling back west of Faenza toward the next large highway center of Imola, eight miles from Faenza and only nineteen from the Po Valley city of Bologna.

Elsewhere on the front activity yesterday was confined to patrol operations, headquarters said.

The withdrawing Germans were putting up stiff resistance in an attempt to prevent the outflanking movement of Faenza.

Allied fire was directed across the Lamone, north of the Bologna-Rimini highway, where the Germans had dug in on the west bank of the stream.

Five Miles Deep

The bridgehead over the Lamone below the highway was already five miles deep in some places.

In the bloody battling for Pideura, enemy infantry and armor counterattacked and recaptured the village yesterday. The Nazis held it most of the day in vicious house-to-house fighting until Allied tanks and troops regained control.

River Bank Cleared

The east bank of the Lamone north of Faenza has been cleared as far as three miles south of Mezzano and Allied patrols were active all the way to Faenza itself.

Activity on the 5th Army front was slowed by the weather. Heavy rains bogged down troops and winds as strong as 50 miles an hour prevailed in the mountainous terrain south of Bologna.

BONOMI FILES CABINET LIST

Communist To Be One Of Three Vice-Premiers

Rome, Dec. 9 (AP)—Three vice premiers, including Palmiro Togliatti, Communist leader, will be included in the new Italian Government headed by Ivanoe Bonomi, expected to be announced officially tomorrow, it was learned tonight. A list of ministers has been submitted to Allied authorities for approval.

Authoritative sources said that Togliatti, who broke the deadlock in the two-weeks-old crisis by throwing his support to Bonomi, will share the vice premierships with Giulio di Rodino, of the Christian Democrats, and a Liberal party member.

To Plan Reconstruction

From the fourth party in the new Government, the Labor Democrats, will be selected a minister who will head the newly-created interministerial committee, which will supervise a porgram of economic reconstruction, an Italian communique said.

Meanwhile 71-year-old Count Carlo Sforza, opposed by the British and described yesterday by Prime Minister Churchill as not regarded as a "true and trustworthy man," apparently was out of the picture in the new Government.

Slated to become Foreign Minister, the post for which Sforza had been proposed, is Christian Democrat Degasperi, a minister without portfolio in the former Bonomi Government.

Sforza declared in an interview today that he had failed to adhere to a written promise to the United States State Department to support Marshal Pietro Badoglio because under Badoglio's regime defeated Italian generals were attempting to create a new type of Fascism.

Suggested By Department

Sforza, a leader of anti-Fascism in Italy through a score of years of exile, asserted that before his return in October, 1943, he wrote a letter containing the Badoglio pledge at the suggestion of the State Department "in order to overcome certain oppositions raised from abroad to my return to Italy."

Degasperi, a native of Trento, was elected to the Italian Parliament in 1921, after which he succeeded Don Luigi Sturza, now in the United States, as secretary of the Popular party. He served as secretary until the Fascists ended the party, which has now reappeared as the Christian Democrats.

Regarded also as certain of appointments in the new Government are Alexandro Casati as War Minister, Raffaele de Courten as Navy Minister, Marcello Soleri as Minister of the Treasury, Fausto Gullo as Minister of Agriculture. They held the same posts in the preceding Bonomi Government.

Opposed Badoglio From Sense Of Duty, Sforza Asserts

Rome, Dec. 9 (AP)—Count Carlo Sforza declared today he abandoned a pledge given the United States State Department to support Marshal Pietro Badoglio, because the former premier was unable to "revive a military spirit" and because under his regime a new form of Fascism was being created in Italy.

In an interview, Sforza, who is vigorously opposed by Britain for any prominent place in a new Italian Government, said he had given the pledge "in order to overcome certain oppositions raised from abroad to my return to Italy."

Commenting on Prime Minister Churchill's statements in the House of Commons yesterday Sforza asserted: "It was my sacred duty to oppose Badoglio, which I did, not with intrigues, but with an open fight, during which all the nation was with me."

Text Of Statement

The text of Sforza's statement:

"What matters now is the war against the Germans; British soldiers are dying on our soil and this means to me much more than any speech. It is only out of respect for the very many friends I have in America and England that I feel it is my duty to state the following facts:

"I wrote the letter suggested to me by the State Department in order to overcome certain opposition raised from abroad to my return to Italy. I wrote it after having heard a broadcast from Badoglio where all he said was acceptable to me; I was glad to show that I was going to Italy without any personal ambitions of mine.

Disclaims Fault

"It was not my fault that, if after my arrival in Italy, I was reluctantly obliged to admit that it was impossible for Badoglio to revive a military spirit and that, instead of fighting Fascism, the beaten generals were trying to create a more hypocritical and more dangerous Neo-Fascism.

"It is not me; it is the Bonomi (Premier Ivanoe Bonomi) Government that has arrested under the most serious charges General Basso, who under Badoglio was all powerful.

"Therefore, it was my sacred duty to oppose Badoglio, which I did, not with 'intrigues,' but with an open fight during which all the nation was with me.

"My words may be thrown at me, but the facts will always show that it was impossible to act with more loyalty and frankness than I did."

Gen. Antonio Basso formerly was head of the Naples police.

Probe Italian Bomb Blast

Rome, Dec. 9 (AP)—Allied authorities are investigating a bomb explosion at an Italian recruiting station in Teramo the night of November 29, the same night that manifestos appeared in the town urging youths not to enlist because the Italians were "a conquered and destroyed people."

Two youths were taken into custody after the bombing, which smashed a wall of the station, but no charges were lodged against them.

Air Wing Leader Made A General

Mediterranean Air Force Headquarters, Rome, Dec. 9 (AP)—Col. William L. Lee, of Jackson, Miss., commander of the youngest heavy bombardment wing of the United States 15th Air Force, has been promoted to the rank of brigadier general.

General Lee is a former resident of San Antonio, Texas. He was commissioned in 1929 after four years' R.O.T.C. training at Texas A.&M. Under Gen. Douglas MacArthur he was assistant liaison officer and chief of the Philippine Air Corps.

General Clark Gives Pa. Man Promotion

U. S. 5th Army Front in Italy, Dec. 9 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark pinned the eagles of a full colonelcy on Lieut. Col. Allen F. Carter, Jr., of Hanover, Pa., today during an inspection of a sector where Colonel Carter's 108th Engineers are maintaining roads for a South African force.

General Clark also presented a carbine and a plaque to Maj. Gen. Evered Poole, commander of a South African armored force.

ELAS GENERAL SAID TO YIELD

Athens Reports Surrender As Ministers Seek To Mediate

Athens, Dec. 9 (AP)—A general of the ELAS forces, whose conflict with the regular Government and British troops turned Athens into a civil-war battleground, was reported to have surrendered tonight, while liberals who have been acting as mediators indicated that peace might be restored to the capital by tomorrow or Monday.

The name of the surrendering general was not announced. The report of his capitulation came even as additional ELAS units were massing outside the city.

[The American broadcasting station in Europe (ABSIE) relayed an official Greek Government announcement tonight that "British, American and Soviet military missions are still at ELAS headquarters at Lamia in central Greece."]

Acts As Intermediary

Dimitri Lambrakis, an Independent Liberal and publisher of the newspaper Eleutheron Vima, said he had been consulting all day as intermediary between the moderates, dissenting extremists and Government leaders in an effort to stop the armed clashes and find a solution to the nation's political problems.

Lambrakis said:

"Efforts have been made in all directions and hopes are entertained that a favorable solution may be reached Sunday or Monday at the latest. Of course, the British cannot yield, but, nevertheless, a solution might be possible through formation of a national government under Themistokles Sophoulis, with the other parties participating and including (Premier George) Papandreou."

Sophoulis is the 85-year-old dean of the Liberal party.

A communique from Lieutenant General Ronald M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, disclosed the augmenting of the E. L. A. S. forces (the armed detachments of the Left-Wing E. A. M.). The bulletin added that "progress is being made despite increased hostile activity on the part of the rebel forces in the deliberate demolition of an important bridge in Piraeus," the port of Athens.

Snipers In Civilian Garb

Within Athens British troops engaged in anti-sniper patrols found their task difficult because a majority of the snipers wore civilian clothes, the communique declared. Snipers shot a British ambulance driver assisting a wounded Greek civilian and captured the ambulance.

Yesterday in the eastern suburbs of the city ELAS units launched attacks supported by heavy machine-gun and mortar fire, the communique added. These were repulsed by a regular Greek formation.

The British used tanks and fire from light naval craft to clear the areas farther south of Port Leontos, but were held up by strong ELAS positions in buildings and on high ground, the bulletin said. These were sprayed with machine-gun fire in low-level air attacks.

Three of the six Leftist ministers who resigned from Premier George Papandreou's Cabinet told the Associated Press they were "striving as mediators with a view of finding some possible means of negotiations."

Said To Be Breaking Away

The "Liberal" section of the Left Wing EAM party, headed by Ilias Tsirimokos, former Minister of National Economy, also was understood to be breaking away from EAM.

Gen. Stephanos Seraphis, commander in chief of the ELAS, the armed force of EAM which rebelled against Papandreou, was reported reliably to have sent word to Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, that he was remaining under Scobie's command. Seraphis's whereabouts have remained a mystery.

At least twenty per cent of Athens was cleared of the ELAS, and it was believed that no more than 250 still were sniping in uncleared sections of the city. Scobie was reported insisting that the ELAS quit the Attica Peninsula, which includes Athens, as a prelude to negotiations.

Act As Mediators

The mediators were Nicolas Askoutsis, former Minister of Transport; Alexander Svolos, former Finance Minister, and Finance Under Secretary Anghelopoulos, who dissociated themselves from responsibility for the fighting.

"Our role," Askoutsis told the Associated Press, "has been one of reconciliation and compromise. However, since Greek affairs have been complicated, and wound up in civil war, we have stated on both sides that we cannot take part in the strife, the results of which would be disastrous for our country.

"We are now striving as mediators with a view of finding some possible means of negotiating."

The former minister said none of the three ever belonged to EAM, but were part of an action committee that was formed in the mountains during the German occupation.

Rift Among Greek EAM Heads Develops

Athens, Dec. 9 [Reuter]—ELAS troops have demolished the important bridge at Piraeus, a communique from Gen. Ronald Scobie, British commander in chief in Greece, said tonight. The communique reported that further rebel forces were arriving outside Athens.

Athens, Dec. 9 (AP)—A rift developed today among leaders of the seven-party EAM coalition as the British announced that one fifth of Athens had been cleared of armed bands.

Gen. Stephanos Serafis, commander in chief of the ELAS, was reported to have assured Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, head of British and Allied troops in Greece, that he was remaining under the latter's command.

Former Transport Minister Askoutsis, one of six Leftists who resigned in the dispute over disarmament of the EAM's military formations, from the Cabinet of Premier George Papandreou, said in an interview that he, former Finance Minister Svolos and Finance Under Secretary Anghelopoulos "never belonged to the EAM." They previously had been identified with the Right wing of the EAM.

"Role Of Compromise"

The Liberal section of the EAM headed by former National Economy Minister Tsirimokos also was reported to be breaking away.

"Our role," said Askoutsis, "has been one of reconciliation and compromise. However, since Greek affairs have been complicated and wound up in civil war we have stated to both sides that we cannot take part in a strife the results of which would be disasterous for the country. We now are striving as mediators with a view of finding some possible means of negotiations."

Although about twenty per cent of the city was cleared of ELAS bands, heavy new concentrations of Leftist militia were reported north of the capital after a march from the provinces.

"Death Or Glory"

The ELAS within the city were reported to consist of about 250 "death or glory" members of inner Communist cells. There are about 25 of these cells, each with its own headquarters, scattered over the capital and suburbs.

These die-hards were still sniping in the uncleared sections of the city, often at extreme range.

Scobie was reported to have demanded that ELAS troops quit the Attica peninsula on which Athens and Piraeus are situated, as a prelude to any negotiations.

One-Hour Truce

The Left Ministers, however, apparently have refused to or dare not, accept Scobie's demand. Repeated attempts by the Archbishop of Athens to mediate the dispute have met with no success.

A one-hour truce was observed this morning to allow Red Cross trucks to distribute milk and medical supplies to hospitals.

Life in the freed sections of Athens gradually was returning to normal.

A serious food shortage has developed, however, and prices are fantastic.

One of the fiercest battles was fought in the market place in the center of town where the ELAS, barricaded in buildings and shops, held out until last night. It was only after tanks opened fire and a few shops and buildings were damaged that the defenders surrendered.

While there were large concentrations of Leftists outside of Athens, the British found little open hostility among many of the Leftist groups. The British military mission with the ELAS at Lamai continued to function with "normal relations," the British said.

Two British trucks drove 150 miles from Salonika to Athens without opposition, although they passed numerous ELAS strongholds.

Temporizing Policy

Prisoners thus far taken by the British seem to be unorganized, not even knowing their brigade or battalion commanders.

The difficulties that the British have encountered in clearing Athens was increased by the temporizing political policy adopted in an attempt to solve the problem of disbanding the Guerrillas bloodlessly. It was known that the ELAS were storing arms at various points in the city. But, with the Left-wingers paying lip service to Premier Papandreou, it was difficult to prevent this.

The British had not supplied arms to the ELAS since April, 1943, but had replaced their ammunition on a small scale. ELAS forces in the Athens area appear to be armed largely with German and Italian equipment.

Ambulance Driver Killed

An ELAS force estimated at between 800 and 1,200 men was said to be besieging a Greek mountain brigade stationed in a barracks to the northeast. Heavy sniping fire was reported.

The 2d and 13th ELAS divisions drew up last night to the village of Hassia, northwest of the capital on the road between the port of Piraeus and Elevsis. A British ambulance driver was killed yesterday on the Athens-Piraeus road and his vehicle captured.

Leftists Use Mortars

One ELAS battalion is known to be equipped with 75-mm. guns. During yesterday's fighting the Leftist forces employed mortars against British tanks.

The Cairo radio said last night word had been received from Athens that a member of the leftist EAM had met a Greek Government representative to discuss cessation of fighting.

Agreement Reported

On the island of Crete, where a German garrison remains, the two major guerrilla forces—the ELAS and the EOK—are reported to have agreed on common measures to avoid civil war. Cretan nationalists make up the EOK.

In Athens, the residence of Princess Helen of Greece—the aunt of King George—was attacked and damaged yesterday by a small ELAS detachment.

Asked by The Associated Press for the Elas side of the story and for any comment on Mr. Churchill's assertions in the House of Commons yesterday in defending British armed intervention in Greece, the Eam-Elas group, through a spokesman, declared:

"If the Elas desired to take over the reins of authority by force it could have done so immediately after the liberation of Athens, when there were no Allied troops or sufficient police or Quisling forces in the capital."

[This dispatch came through the Allied censorship in Athens, which is under British and Greek Government control. It does not identify the Eam spokesman.]

"For two and a half years," the spokesman said, "the sole effort of the Elas was to exterminate the Germans, Italians and Bulgarians.

Plans for Coup Denied

"Churchill's contention that the Elas had long prepared for a coup d'état is unfounded. In fact, the Elas has been attacking German garrisons and convoys continuously and relentlessly.

"On many occasions, while the Elas was engaged in a fight with the Germans, Zervas bands attacked the Elas simultaneously."

[This was a reference to the Edes anti-German group led by Gen. Napoleon Zervas. Mr. Churchill said the Elas had fought members of this group instead of the Germans. The Elas and Edes long were admittedly rivals.]

"The argument that the Elas ravaged villages also is unfounded," the spokesman said, taking up another of Mr. Churchill's allegations. "Villages were destroyed by the Germans whenever their columns were trying to clear mountainous regions of Elas troops so they should not offer shelter to the Andartes (Greek underground).

"On the contrary," contended the spokesman, "it was the Zervas bands that ravaged villages."

The Elas spokesman asserted that the Elas never had any dealings or contact with the Germans, "whereas, according to evidence held by the Elas, the Germans never harassed Zervas (Edes) men when the Edes were attacking Elas troops."

In response to Mr. Churchill's statement that there were Germans in the Elas ranks, the spokesman declared:

"The only Germans among the Elas are a few dozen anti-Fascists who joined the Elas and were used in making propaganda and in writing leaflets inviting other Germans to desert or cease fighting and denouncing Hitler."

The Eam spokesman went on:

"The Elas has been fighting for nearly three years to liberate the country from invaders and to secure the people's sovereignty.

Monarchist Plot Alleged

"For fifty days after liberation nothing was done as promised by Papandreou in his speech Oct. 18. In the meantime, the Elas was aware of plans for the King's restoration by reactionaries encouraged by the attitude of British authorities here, and there was ample evidence to corroborate our argument.

"For this reason we demanded additional securities—mainly consisting of disarmament of all regular forces in Greece and setting up a new Regular Army. This new army would include only loyal officers after a thorough purge by the Supreme Military Council, which was agreed upon.

"The ban on Sunday's demonstration gave rise to the armed conflict between the Elas and the reactionaries," said the Elas' spokesman. "The fact that our argument is irrefutable can be substantiated by the appearance of armed Edes and Exe (Royalists) with the police and regular troops.

"Elas will fight on until Papandreou resigns because they consider him responsible for the bloodshed and because the great majority of the Greek people is on the Elas side for a reaffirmation of political liberty."

EAM DENIES PLOT TO SEIZE CONTROL

Greek Leftist Says His Group Could Have Done So Before British Troops Landed

ATHENS, Dec. 9 (AP)—A spokesman for the Eam (National Liberation Front) made a blanket denial today of British Prime Minister Churchill's charges that the Eam and its military auxiliary, the Elas, were seeking to seize power in Greece and terrorize the countryside, but said the present battle would continue until the Government of Premier Papandreou resigned.

Greeks Hungry For News

Chios, Greece, Dec. 9 (AP)—Medical supplies, spare parts for transport ships and land vehicles and reading matter are the most urgently needed items in Greece, Lieut. Col. Kenneth Musson, United States Army, says.

Moscow, Dec. 9 (A. P.).—The Soviet press and radio gave extensive coverage to the Greek situation today but made no editorial comment.

Dr. Goerdeler A Guinea Pig?

Bern, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Swiss newspaper Journal de Geneve said today the Gestapo is using Dr. Karl Goerdeler as a guinea pig to extract from him forcibly confessions which form the basis for the arrests of dozens of prominent Germans opposing the Nazi regime.

The former Mayor of Leipzig, arrested in connection with the plot to slay Hitler, has not been executed, but has been given drug injections daily and then has been submitted to questioning, the newspaper declared.

As a result of the induced statements several industrialists and scores of other important men have been arrested, De Geneve's story said.

The newspaper reported also that Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler in his efforts to rout out all opposition has ordered hanged or beheaded more thna 200 lawyers and intellectuals in the environs of Berlin alone.

FLIERS HONORED IN RUSSIA

Soviet and France Decorate Heroes on Eastern Front

MOSCOW, Dec. 9 (AP)—France and the Soviet Union bestowed high honors today on French and Russian airmen who served on the eastern front.

In a ceremony held in the grand salon of the French Embassy, Gen. Charles de Gaulle presented orders and decorations to eleven Soviet officers and forty-three members of the French Normandie Air Regiment.

Earlier Soviet Air Chief Marshal Alexander A. Novikoff pinned the Gold Star of the Hero of the Soviet Union on two Normandie aces and distributed the Patriotic War Order of the Red Star on seventeen other Frenchmen.

PRAVDA TAKES WHITE TO TASK

Soviet Journal Calls His Book On Russia "Calumny"

Moscow, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda today charged William L. White, American author and foreign correspondent, with having made a trip into the Soviet Union with "the premeditated intention of spreading calumny."

White, son of the late William Allen White, noted editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, toured Russia last summer with United States Chamber of Commerce President Eric Johnston.

David Zaslavsky, author of the Pravda article, based his attack on excerpts from White's new book, "Report on the Russians," as published in the Reader's Digest.

Peculiar, But Correct

Zaslavsky asserted White's conclusions were drawn during the trip, and declared the book charged that Russian industry had developed no technique of its own, but copied American methods.

"We remember the speech in Moscow of the president of the Chamber of Commerce," Zaslavsky wrote. "He was far from liking everything he saw in our country. His speech was peculiar but it was correct. In fact, he talked about the Soviet Union just as he would about any Allied country."

Zaslavsky said White saw whatever Johnston saw in Russia, but wrote things "opposite from the views expressed by Johnston in press interviews after returning home."

White, The "Contrary"

The Soviet commenator declared that in Johnston's statements "there seemed to be a desire to express impartial judgment about our people. If Johnston made use of the trip to avail himself of impartial judgment, White did the contrary. White declares his sources are not exactly the same as Johnston's."

Zaslavsky said White, as Johnston's companion, enjoyed the hospitality and confidences of the Soviet Union and "abused both. . . . There is no doubt his trip was made with the premeditated intention of spreading calumny. The truth about the Soviet Union penetrates the United States irrespective of the efforts of Fascist agitators to prevent it. . . ."

Comment by White

Mr. White, in New York last night on business from Emporia, said it was the primary obligation "of every American reporter abroad . . . to give his people at home an honest and complete picture of whatever country he is covering."

"If the Russians do not understand this, I can only regret the misunderstanding, for I enjoyed their hospitality . . . feeling that it was a sincere gesture of the Russian people, whom I greatly admire.

"The Soviet Union never had in America a more valuable friend than Wendell L. Willkie, and David Zaslavsky is, I believe, the same man who attacked him last January as a 'political gambler' who was 'playing a peculiar political game' because he discussed the situation of the Baltic states and Poland."

In "Reader's Digest," which permitted quotation from a condensation of White's book, the author said he found "one marked difference between inmates of the Soviet Union and of the Kansas penitentiary, where I have often visited an old friend."

"Food and clothing in both places are about the same, maybe a little better at Lansing," he said. "But should my Kansas friend declare his penitentiary was not well run, and express the hope that there might be a change of wardens, he would run no danger of being shot if he were overheard by a stool pigeon."

White wrote that "competition with the state is outlawed" in the Soviet Union, "hence inefficiency is protected. The people accept it because they know nothing better."

Russ Commentator Assails White

Moscow, Dec. 9 (AP)—A commentator in the Communist party newspaper Pravda today attacked William L. White, American correspondent and son of the late William Allen White, famous editor of the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette, and charged him with having made a trip to Russia with "the premeditated intention of spreading calumny."

Commentator David Zaslavsky based his attack on excerpts of White's forthcoming book, "About Russians," as published in the Readers Digest. White accompanied Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, to the Soviet Union last summer.

"Doubtful Reputation"

Zaslavsky, asserting White's conclusions were drawn during that trip, called the correspondent an obscure American newspaperman of "doubtful reputation," and said that the book's conclusions were "the usual stew from the Fascist kitchen, with all its smells, calumnies, ignorance and hidden anger."

The Pravda writer said White's book charged that Russian workers were deprived of any independence and that Russian industry had developed no techniques of its own, but copied American methods.

Zaslavsky commented:

"We remember the speech in Moscow of the president of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Speech Peculiar, But Correct"

"He was far from liking everything he saw in our country. His speech was peculiar, but it was correct. In fact, he talked about the Soviet Union just as he would about any Allied country."

The Pravda writer said that White saw whatever Johnston saw in the Soviet Union but wrote things "opposite from the views expressed by Johnston in press interviews after re'urning home."

Johnston's statements were welcomed in the United States, Zaslavsky wrote, adding that "there seemed to be a desire to express impartial judgment about our people.

"Sources Not The Same"

"If Johnston made use of the trip to avail himself of impartial judgment, White did the contrary. White declares his sources are not exactly the same as Johnston's."

"White writes as if he never met a Soviet citizen," the article said. "We may believe that in each city White met another White.

"White, as Johnston's companion, enjoyed the hospitality of the Soviet Union. He enjoyed the confidences. He abused both. He deceived Johnston, who trusted him. There is no doubt that his trip was made with the premeditated intention of spreading calumny.

"The truth about the Soviet Union penetrates the United States irrespective of thhe efforts of Fascist agitators to prevent it.

"The White book is not a revelation of the morality of the Soviet country, but a revelation of the morality of a certain and worst part of the American press. The morality is uncommonly ugly."

Statement Promised

In New York city, Mr. White said he would have a statement later.

CHINESE MAKE 18-MILE GAIN

Railway Town Of Shangssu Retaken In Kweichow

Chungking, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Chinese counteroffensive in Kweichow province has recaptured the railway town of Shangssu in an eighteen-mile advance from Tuhsan, thus almost completing the task of hurling the Japanese back into Kwangsi province, the Chinese high command disclosed today.

The pursuit southward is continuing, the Chinese said, and the new War Minister, Gen. Chen Cheng, declared: "The crisis in Kweichow is passing, but we must be prepared for a resumption of the enemy offensive."

82 Miles From Kweiyang

Shangssu is 82 miles southeast of Kweiyang, Kweichow's capital, and less than five miles from the Kwangsi border. Previously the Chinese had hurled another Japanese column back to the Kwangsi border farther east.

The Japanese invasion was backed by six divisions and one brigade along the Kwangsi-Kweichow border, but only 9,000 of the enemy actually entered Kweichow, it was stated.

General Chen said he intended to strengthen the more efficient divisions of the Chinese Army in hope of an eventual general counteroffensive.

He disclosed incidentally that Gen. Tang En-po no longer was the Chinese commander in Kweichow but did not identify his successor.

Chinese Retake Rail Hub In Kweichow

Chungking, Dec. 9 (AP)—The railroad town of Shangssu, eighteen miles south of newly recaptured Tuhshan, was regained last night in the Chinese campaign to clear Kweichow province of the Japanese, the Chinese high command announced today.

"The Tuhshan sector now has been cleared of enemy remnants and pursuing operations to the south are continuing," the high command communique said.

Chinese Reinforced

Shangssu lies 82 miles southeast of Kweiyang, the provincial capital, and less than five miles from the border of Kwangsi province, from which the enemy spearheads thrust into Kweichow toward Kweiyang and the Burma Road center of Kunming. Most of the invaders already have been ousted by the reinforced divisions of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

Gen. Chen Cheng, new Chinese War Minister, announced earlier that the retreating enemy was being pursued in the area of Liming (Dawn) Pass, northeast of the Kwangsi border town of Liuchai.

Had Been Encircled

Tuhshan, only 75 miles southeast of Kweiyang, had been enveloped by the Japanese in their drive along the Kwangsi-Kweichow railroad. Liuchai is 40 miles from Tuhshan.

Chungking newspapers issued extras telling of the victorious Chinese counterattacks and predicting the Japanese would be driven from Kweichow.

A Chinese military spokesman cautioned that "the situation still is serious and we should not be too optimistic."

Fighting At Pass

The Japanese left column was thrown back from Tuhshan, along the railroad to a point only twenty miles from the border. Fighting was in progress there and at Liming Pass. This meant the Japanese nowhere were now more than twenty miles inside Kweichow, though at one time the right column had penetrated as far as 70 miles.

Six Japanese divisions and one brigade have been deployed along the Kwangsi-Kweichow border, the War Minister said, but only 9,000 men penetrated Kweichow — 6,000 in the direction of Tuhshan and 3,000 toward Pachai.

Chiang Reported Agreed To Let Reds Share Power

By The Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 9—It was reported authoritatively today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had agreed in principle to Communist participation in his government and in military affairs.

Gen. Chou En-lai, Communist negotiator who recently returned to Communist headquarters at Yenan with proposals, is expected to return here soon for implementing any agreement.

The Communists, who had sought a formal coalition of government and armed forces, believe that, if properly equipped, they would be able to make diversionary offensives against the Japanese in north China.

Chinese Reds To Share In War Affairs

Chungking, Dec. 9 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek has agreed in principle to the participation of the Communists in the national Government and in the direction of China's military affairs, it was authoritatively reported today.

This assessment following upon recent Government changes—particularly the appointment of Foreign Minister T. V. Soong to the additional post of acting Premier—is the most important development which could have occurred in the present critical phase of Chinese history.

Capable Of Offensives

The Communists, it is believed, if properly equipped, would be able to launch successful diversionary offensives in north China.

It was expected here that Gen Chou En-lai, Communist delegate who recently returned to Yenan from Chungking, would be back shortly for implementation of any conclusive understanding that may be reached.

The Communists originally sought a formal agreement for the establishment of a coalition government and joint direction of the Chinese armies.

China Plans To Train 30 More Divisions

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Chungking newspaper Ta Kung Pao said today in an article quoted by the OWI that owing to the "unrelenting efforts" of Gen. Chen Cheng, the new Chinese War Minister, 30 Chinese divisions would be trained and equipped with modern weapons within a year with "the aid of the Allies."

The article also said Chen had decided to "better the living conditions of Chinese soldiers" and that "concrete measures regarding the food allowance, shoe allowance and vegetables have already been adopted."

British Gain Seven Miles

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 9 (AP)—British forces driving south in Burma along the north-south railway have reached the Naba station, 160 miles north of Mandalay, in a seven-mile advance from captured Pinwe, it was announced today. No Japanese have been encountered, Allied headquarters said.

In the Bhamo sector in northeast Burma, American-trained Chinese engaged in a minor action, while British East Africans on the Chindwin front continued a southerly thrust and made contact with the enemy toward Hwegyin.

Chinese Near Wanting In Burma Road Fight

Chungking, Dec. 9 (AP)—Chinese troops gained today in their offensive down the Burma Road toward the border town of Wanting despite stiffening Japanese resistance on the Yunnan Province front, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

The Chinese occupied a height south of Tiger Tail Mountain, northwest of Manpeng, which is about twelve miles from Wanting. Other troops, in a flanking movement have reached a point ten and a half miles east of Wanting.

British Reach Naba Without Meeting Japs

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Dec. 9 (AP). British patrols pressing south along the main north-south Burma railway have reached the station of Naba, 160 airline miles north of Mandalay, without meeting any Japanese, Allied headquarters announced today.

The station is about a half-mile north of the town. The Japanese defense in this area had been based at now-captured Pinwe, seven miles north of Naba.

Tahe advance down the railway was part of a four-pronged Allied offensive aimed at driving the Japanese out of all north Burma. The offensive was moving along a 100-mile front east of the Chindwin River.

A WEST CHINA B-29 BASE, Dec. 7 (Delayed) (AP)—The Twentieth Bomber Command, completing the first six months of operation, sent a large force this Pearl Harbor anniversary day over Mukden, where the Japanese began the China war in 1931.

Maj. Gen. Curtis Lemay said that "ninety bombers were on the target," a Japanese airplane factory at Mukden.

Neyland Made General

New Delhi, India, Dec. 9 (AP)—Col. Robert R. Neyland, former University of Tennessee football coach and now commander of the Calcutta section of the Army Service Forces, has been promoted to brigadier general. His home is Greenville, Texas.

By The Associated Press.

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 9—Maj. Gen. Frank Merrill, commander of the Marauders who helped break the back of the Japanese strength in North Burma, was appointed deputy United States commander in the India-Burma theatre today under Lieut. Gen. Daniel I. Sultan.

Col. Deen Rusk of Oakland, Calif., has been named deputy chief of staff in this theatre.

Col. Robert R. Neyland, former football coach at the University of Tennessee, has been advanced to brigadier general. He is serving in the Calcutta section. His home is in Greenville, Tex.

Bronze Star Given Former AP Editor

Myitkyina, Burma, Dec. 9 (AP)—Capt. Clarence (Clancy) Topp, of Freemont, Neb., a Signal Corps officer attached to the North Burma Combat Area Command, was awarded the Bronze Star today.

Formerly an Associated Press photo editor in New York, Topp was decorated "for meritorious service as a public relations officer who showed initiative and ingenuity in organizing superior photographic coverage of frontline action in the Hukawan valleys and often performed his duties under hazardous conditions at great personal risk."

YANKS OPEN DRIVE TO DESTROY JAP POCKET AT ORMOC

30. 24— 21109

Heavy Rains Hamper Operations, Enemy Suffers Heavy Losses.

ALBUERA CAPTURED

U.S. Troops Behind Yamashita Line Smash Battered Japanese.

MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Dec. 10.—(Sunday)—(AP) The two American infantry divisions south of Ormoc concentrated yesterday on the sizeable job of destroying Japanese troops pocketed there, but torrents of rain hampered the operations.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique today said the 77th division, which was landed there behind the enemy's Yamashita line in a surprise move three days ago, was probing southward, toward the cornered Japanese force.

Yanks Take Albuera

On the south side of the pocket, the 7th U. S. division drove forward three miles, capturing Albuera, terminus of a road crossing Leyte island from east to west.

The trapped enemy force was being squeezed into an ever-narrowing area and his losses were heavy, MacArthur said.

North of Ormoc, where the rain was the worst, the American 32nd division kept up its pressure against the enemy, capturing a field battery and large dumps of munitions and supplies.

On the eastern side of the island Yanks with the aid of light tanks cleared Japanese paratroopers from two U. S. air fields and the sky soldiers were pushed into a narrow pocket where they were contained, the MacArthur communique stated.

The paratroopers landed the night of Dec. 6, while a U. S. convoy was taking the 77th division around the south end of Leyte island for the landing at Ormoc, principal enemy port. The paratroops succeeded in sabotaging some American facilities before counteraction could be taken.

Narrow Jap Pocket

The greatest ground advance in the 24-hour period ending last night was the Albuera capture. This drive was made against intense opposition but it narrowed the space occupied by the Japanese between the 7th and 77th divisions' positions.

This leaves the enemy force in an area extending four miles along the coastal area between Albuera and Camp Downs, pre-war U. S. army post on the outskirts of Ormoc. The Japanese remain in strength, however, to the north and east of Ormoc town.

General MacArthur messaged commendations to Lt. Gen. Walter Kreuger's Sixth army, Vice Adm. Thomas C. Kinkaid's 7th fleet and Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney's Far East airforce on the success of the Ormoc landing.

"Please extend to your command my hearty congratulations on the success of the Ormoc operation," MacArthur messaged each. "It was executed with that cool courage, resolute determination and indomitable will for victory which so far has characterized our forces in all campaigns."

The Americans have set up 105 and 155-mm guns on the Ormoc plain to speed the destruction of the enemy.

Former Camp Seized

The 77th, veterans of Guam, drove north for two miles from the point of Thursday's amphibious landing to seize the former United States Army base of Camp Downs on the edge of Ormoc. This advance was scored yesterday.

Five miles south of the 77th's beachhead, the northbound 7th Division swept beyond Palanas to seize Balogo and inland high ground north of the Tabgas River. Atop a hill in the 7th's sector, Alva N. Dopkins, Associated Press war correspondent, saw trapped Japanese run first toward the 77th's beachhead, recoil under fire back toward the 7th which also blasted them and sent many scurrying into wild mountain country.

Six Miles From Coast

But not far away to the northeast, other Yanks scaling those hogbacks from conquered east Leyte were disclosed today to be within six miles of the west coast after capturing the mountain pass at Mahonag.

That pass is ten miles due west of Burauen, near where American ground forces still are probing the wilds for any survivors of the 200 Nipponese paratroopers dropped behind the lines Wednesday.

Pockets Wiped Out

In addition to the tight squeeze being clamped on the south end of Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's severed defense line a larger trap north of Ormoc was narrowed.

The 32d Division, moving south from Carigara Bay, wiped out bypassed enemy pockets, then inched forward down the rugged corridor beyond the Leyte River, which forks below Limon. The Japanese resisted this advance fiercely.

Shipping Attacked

The Japanese air force, whose nine-hour attack on the American convoy after the 77th's landing was a terrific demonstration of the enemy's still potent striking power, kept pounding away at shipping in Leyte Gulf.

The raid on the east side of Leyte where the invasion forces landed October 20, cost the Nipponese fourteen planes and five more were shot down over west Leyte, headquarters said today.

Although Japan has lost more than 1,000 planes in the Leyte campaign, her air force still is capable of hitting hard.

"Normandy Easier"

James Hutcheson, Associated Press war correspondent aboard a destroyer, heard veterans of the invasion of France say "Take us back to Normandy" after that nine-hour assault on the convoy retiring Thursday from Ormoc harbor.

But the enemy air force is getting a hot reception by American planes and ground guns. Those five newly announced as shot down over west Leyte made a total of 67 bagged in direct relation to the 77th's landing operation.

Americans Storming Ormoc Outskirts

MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 9 (AP)—Storming the outskirts of the port city of Ormoc, the recently landed United States 77th Division broadened the coastal center of its beachhead and a frontline dispatch told of bewildered Japanese fleeing in disregard of orders to stand or die.

In the main, however, there was bitter Nipponese resistance.

Lieut. Gen. Walter Krueger's 6th Army, going all-out to wind up the central Philippines campaign, was on the move in all sectors, converging from three directions on Ormoc.

Six Vessels Sunk

Vigilant naval patrols were maintained in the Camotes Sea in an effort to choke off the last trickle of enemy shipments to that menaced reinforcement base. Today's communique disclosed the patrols sank six fully loaded small vessel and set a seventh ablaze.

Far out over the Philippines from Luzon to Mindanao, army, marine and navy planes hunted down other enemy ships, sinking a 9,000-ton transport and destroying or damaging fourteen small freighters.

Big Guns Rip Foe Trapped On Leyte

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Leyte, Philippines, Dec. 9 (AP). A ring of big guns today continued to hammer the divided Jap forces in the Ormoc area despite low-hanging clouds and torrential downpours which slowed as well as concealed ground activity.

The Yank heavy artillery is now ranged on the Japs from all sides and additional batteries are being landed by the invading 77th Division below Ormoc, which can also sweep the bay in event the enemy cares to risk a move from the sea.

The guns which are beating the Japanese into submission are mortars, 75's, 105's and huge 155's.

G. I.'S HUNT BURIED TREASURE

Forty-first Division Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Dec. 9 (A. P.).—Documents indicate that the Japanese garrison buried a 30,000 yen pay roll somewhere on this island before being wiped out by the Forty-first Division.

The G. I.'s now are digging for the treasure which at prewar exchange rates amounts to about $5,100.

Most of the soldiers are using picks and shovels but one went to work with a bulldozer.

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—American Superfortresses raided Tokyo again yesterday, the Nippon radio asserted, but said the attack was limited to the dropping of "a few incendiaries."

Iwo Jima Threat To B-29 Base Reduced

Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 9 (AP)—Iwo Jima's threat to the American Superfortress base at Saipan was considerably diminished today after a thorough coordinated pounding by warships and perhaps the biggest landbased air fleet ever used against an island target in the Pacific war.

Scores of Superfortresses and 108 four-engined Liberators, flying under a shield of 30 Lightning fighters, poured a fearsome load of bombs yesterday on the Japanese base in the Boni Island while warships sent destructive salvos ashore in the first combined action of its kind.

Five Japs Shot Down

Six Japanese planes took the air in a feeble attempt to intercept. Five were shot down and the sixth was damaged.

Rear Admiral Allan E. Smith's task force almost certainly included cruisers and possibly even heavily gunned battleships with escorting destroyers.

The crushing blow on the island only eight square miles in size, 750 miles south of Tokyo, served to clear the B-29 bombing route between Saipan and the Nippon capital, and to knock out for the time being the enemy's take-off point for raids on Saipan.

Sizable Force Of B-29's

In announcing the mighty assault yesterday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz disclosed also that Lieut. Gen. Millard F. Harmon was the new commander of strategic air forces, Pacific Ocean areas. Harmon also is deputy commander of the 20th Air Force, which has charge of all B-29 operations.

Nimitz said a "sizable" force of B-29's participated in the raid. Each Superfort could carry ten tons of bombs on such a mission, and the Liberators could pack at least two tons. In the past official counts the use of "sizable" force by Nimitz has meant 75 to 100 planes.

Airfield Blasted

The absence of anti-aircraft fire enabled the Superfortresses to fly low enough to make their precision bombing deadly accurate. Most of the bombs were concentrated on the main airfield at the south end, but not an important installation was neglected despite considerable overcast.

Even should the Japanese manage to put the installations back into service, they could be neutralized indefinitely by routine air strikes.

Other raids announced by Admiral Nimitz included an 11th Air Force strike on Paramushiro in the Northern Kuriles on Wednesday. On the same day, marine fighters strafed installations on Babelthuap in the Palaus.

Iwo Jima Raid Described

SAIPAN, Marianas, Dec. 9 (Via Navy radio) (AP).—The American air attack on Iwo Jima yesterday was just a curtain raiser for a newly established strategical task force, Lieutenant General Millard F. Harmon, commander of Army Air Forces in the Pacific Ocean area, said today.

Superfortress and Liberator bombers, escorted by Lightning fighters, hit the Japanese island, only 750 miles south of Tokyo, preceding a naval bombardment of the enemy plane base. It was the greatest single co-ordinated Army-Navy air and sea attack of the war on a Nipponese installation.

Speaking at a press conference in the office of Major General Robert W. Douglass, commander of the 7th Air Force, Harmon estimated that 600,000 pounds of bombs were dropped on Iwo Jima. His figure was based on incomplete reports.

"Roughly, 20 per cent of the bombs landed in the target area," he said. "But that doesn't mean that the other 80 per cent didn't do damage, because Iwo is pretty densely covered with installations of all kinds."

"The results appeared good despite a thick cloud cover. The best part is that the attack cost nothing except time, fuel and the bombs used. We lost no aircraft or personnel and none of the planes was damaged."

Iwo Raid Called Biggest Blow In Pacific

By Vern Haugland

Saipan, Dec. 8 [Delayed—Via Navy Radio AP]—Today's Army and Navy smash upon Iwo Jima was the greatest single strike of the war against Japanese bases, Brig. Gen. Truman H. Landon, commanding officer of the 7th Bomber Command, said today.

"Today's bombardment at Iwo Jima is indicative of what the Japanese may expect in the way of a combined surface and aerial attack as our forces move closer to the enemy's home islands.

Only "The Beginning"

"This mission, the greatest single strike against a Japanese base during three years of the Pacific war, is the culmination of plans initiated thirteen months ago with the opening of the Central Pacific campaign.

"The 7th Bomber Command is proud of its part in developing and continuing the action, which reached its peak today. We consider it merely the beginning of increasingly powerful uses of our Liberators in co-operative missions with the fleet surface units, fighters and Superfortresses."

No Losses Reported

No plane losses were reported, although the report is still incomplete.

The weather was a great disappointment and interfered with an observation of results, although fires were seen.

The B-29's and B-24's pounded the island with about 900 tons of bombs through the day before the cruisers and destroyers moved in late in the afternoon and shelled the base steadily for an hour.

Earlier a 7th Air Force spokesman said the Iwo Jima Blitz was the largest Liberator force and the largest Liberator bomb tonnage every carried in the Central Pacific campaign as well as one of the longest unbroken fighter escort missions of the war.

The 5th Air Force has staged larger strikes, however, he said.

Maximum Loads

The 7th Air Force has been hammering at the Bonin Islands for months with Liberators, whose numbers have been increased almost daily.

The Liberators and B-29's attacked Iwo Jima from approximately the same altitude, and both types of planes were carrying maximum bomb loads.

The B-24's were over the target for an hour and a half, centering on air installations.

Carried Fleet Spotters

The last six Liberators over the target carried navy spotters to direct the cruiser and destroyer bombardments, which finished the day's activities.

The senior officer in the B-24 strike was Col. William M. Prince, of Laurinburg, N.C., whose wife lives at Mountain Lakes, N.J. He flew in the Aleutians.

Major Warren K. Roeser, of Flushing, Long Island, and Capt. Winston H. Park, of Flint, Mich., led the P-38's on the 720-mile flight to Iwo Jima.

Fighters Lured

Some of the Lightnings went high to lure up enemy fighters and divert anti-aircraft fire, while others strafed the runway and went after anything on the ground and stayed around the target up to 25 minutes.

Three B-29's led the fighters to Iwo Jima and navigated them home.

The fighter sweep preceded the bombings.

Col. Lewis Sanders, of Elkhart, Ind., said it was the longest unbroken fighter mission on record except for one by the 5th Air Force to Halmahera.

By contrast, on the 675-700-mile London-to-Berlin run, fighters have gone in in chain fashion not remaining over the target.

Yokohama Bombed Nov. 30

HEADQUARTERS OF THE TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND, on Saipan, Dec. 9 (AP)—It may now be disclosed that Yokohama shuddered under its first aerial bombing of the war in the early morning darkness of Nov. 30.

The Yokohama area was hit while American Superfortresses were making their third raid on Tokyo.

The B-29 commanded by Capt. James C. Arnold of Corpus Christi, Tex., failed to reach Tokyo and it hit Yokohama, twenty miles southwest, instead.

Nelson, Curtin Confer

Melbourne, Dec. 9 (AP)—Donald Nelson, President Roosevelt's personal representative who is returning to the United States from Chungking, arrived here today, where he conferred with Prime Minister John Curtin.

Jersey Flyer's Exploit

A LEYTE AIR BASE, Dec. 7 (Delayed) (AP).—Captain O. Bates, Essex Fells, N. J., was credited with a direct hit between the wheelhouse and stern of a 7,000-ton Japanese transport which broke in two and sunk under attack from four Marine Corsair planes carrying half-ton bombs. The transport was one of five hiding in San Isidro Bay on the west coast of Leyte Island, which were attacked by the United States Marine Air Force making its debut in the Philippine air war.

Jap Peace Move Or Suicide Blow After Nazi Fall Seen

Pearl Harbor, Dec. 2 [AP—Delayed]—Collapse of the Nazi forces in Europe may bring two immediate and far-reaching effects in the war against Japan.

This is strongly believed by many military leaders in the Pacific, who see these alternative probabilities:

1. Strong peace feelers from Japan when Germany falls; possibly efforts by Japan to bring about a negotiated peace.

2. A last-ditch suicidal effort by the Japanese to strike another staggering blow such as the December 7, 1941, attack on Pearl Harbor.

Face-Saving Psychology

Both possibilities are based upon the enemy's psychology—his desire to save face in the ultimate certain defeat.

If the first tack should be followed it seems likely that the Japanese Government could explain defeat to its people by saying in effect "the world is against us, we are superior, but we are hopelessly overpowered."

On the other hand, it seems equally logical that the Imperial Government might order one supreme attack.

Another Pearl Harbor?

Some observers even believe it possible, in fact likely, that Japan's final gesture might be another assault on Pearl Harbor. In Tokyo, December 7, now is a holiday in commemoration of the sneak assault which opened the war.

However, an attempted repetition of the Pearl Harbor attack certainly would have no chances of success and could only be suicidal for any air and naval forces assigned to the face-saving gesture.

But, like the first scheme of seeking peace because "the world is against us," it also would give the Nipponese Government an opportunity to explain loss of the war was due not to inferiority, but to the overwhelming power of Allied forces.

San Salvador Uprising

San Jose, Costa Rica, Dec. 9 (AP). The Guatemalan radio announced today that "bloody riots" broke out in San Salvador, capital of El Salvador, yesterday between armed civilians and police and that many were killed and wounded.

However, the Salvadorean government apparently is in control of the situation, the broadcast said.

A traveler from Guatemala, the neighboring republic, said Salvadorean oppositionists living in Guatemala City were leaving for the Salvadorean border, possibly with the purpose of fomenting an uprising.

T.A.C.A. Airlines announced that all flights to San Salvador had been suspended, although Pan-American said its planes were landing in the capital without difficulties.

4 POLICEMEN KILLED

El Salvador Rioters Also Wound Another in San Miguelito

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Dec. 9 (AP)—Four policemen were killed and one was wounded yesterday when rebel forces attacked a telegraph office in the San Miguelito district and cut communications wires.

Police reinforcements broke up the attack and captured the instigators, it was reported by authorities, who said calm now prevailed.

Peru Reveals Cabinet Has Been Reorganized

Lima, Peru, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Peruvian Cabinet has been reorganized, resolving a ministerial crisis, it was disclosed today.

Finance Minister Julio East became premier and retained his finance portfolio. Manuel Gallagher, former Minister of Justice and Labor, became Foreign Affairs Minister.

Inland Sea Raid Also Reported By Japanese

San Francisco, Dec. 9 (AP)—American planes raided Tokyo and the inland sea area today (Japanese time), the Japanese radio announced.

The Japanese reported that one B-29 flew over the capital and "dropped a few incendiaries." Later two other B-29's appeared separately and flew over Tokyo, one of them for "about an hour . . . without dropping one bomb," the broadcast, recorded here, said.

The second sortie over the Japanese capital was followed an hour later by an hour-long raid "on the Seto Naikai (Japanese designation for the inland sea) coastal area."

No Report Of Damage

There was no indication by Tokyo on how many planes were involved in the Seto Naikai action. The Japanese made no report of damage at either Tokyo or Seto Naikai.

The inland sea flows between the home Japanese islands of Honshu, Shikoku and Kyushu. The strong Kure naval base, which lies on the inland sea, may have been the target of the bombers. The broadcast did not say B-29's were involved in the Seto Naikai raid.

Said Tokyo:

"That the enemy is making raids in this way with a very small number of planes, night and day, is indicative of the fact that they are aimed at a war of nerves."

Argentina Increases Curbs On Axis Firms

Buenos Aires, Dec. 9 (AP)—Government spokesmen say new restrictions which have been placed on Axis firms in Argentina will render them incapable of interfering with the Allied war effort.

If this assertion turns out to be true, Argentina at long last has fulfilled one of her commitments of the Rio de Janeiro conference of foreign ministers in 1942, which called for the elimination of all commercial ties inimical to the security of the Western Hemisphere.

Charges that the Internal Revenue Department had failed to exercise due vigilance over the Axis firms were admitted by the Government in accepting the resignation of the director, Adolfo Silenzi de Stagni, and transferring jurisdiction to the Department of Industry and Commerce.

Mexico Extending Oil Export

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 9 (AP)—Mexico is about to resume the export of oil to nations other than the United States and Britain after several years' suspension forced upon her by the war. The Swedish tanker Falsterbohus of 10,000 tons has arrived at Tampico to take on oil.

Rubber Swap In Making

Rio de Janeiro, Dec. 9 (AP)—Unconfirmed reports circulating here have it that the United States and Brazil are soon to sign a new rubber accord whereby Brazil increases its shipments of crude to the United States in exchange for a like amount of synthetic from American war plants.

LAUDS SUICIDE PILOTS

Suicide pilots have accounted for "great war results" and their tactics could possibly mean the ultimate defeat of the United Nations, Gen. Tokoyuki Yamashita asserted today, accordng to the Associated Press.

His broadcast from the front to the Japanese people was picked up and translated by the Federal Communications Commission.

Praising the "body-crash spirit of our heroes," the supreme commander of the Japanese Army in the Philippines declared:

"When we down one B29 through a deliberate crash, the rate of losses will be one to ten. However, when we sink one carrier with one plane, the ratio of losses will be one to 100, or 1,000, or even 10,000."

13 MORE JAPANESE ADMIRALS KILLED

The death of thirteen Japanese admirals—many of them probably in the air and sea battles related to American reinvasion of the Phillippines—was announced today by Japanese headquarters at the Yokosuka Naval Station, the Associated Press reports.

Vice Admiral Hideo Yano, former chief of the Navy Press section, who on last October 4 himself announced the deaths of seven other admirals, was on the list.

The broadcast said the men "met gallant and heroic deaths while fighting dauntlessly and gallantly at the front lines in the southern region."

Tokyo thus has announced the death of 32 admirals since early September. The October 4 announcement of seven death had brought the total within a month to nineteen.

Airfields Taken, Japs Say

The Japanese radio also claimed today that Imperial Japanese paratroops "completely captured" the north and south airfields at Burauen December 6.

The broadcast followed an imperial headquarters communiqué which merely claimed paratroopers landed at Burauen the night of December 6 and that fighting was still going on.

Yesterday Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced the landing, but said it was a failure with the bulk of 200 paratroopers being eliminated and the remainder being hunted down. They succeeded, however, in doing some damage, he said.

Burauen is about ten miles west of Dulag on the east coast of Leyte Island.

Claim Airfield Capture.

Imperial Japanese paratroops completely captured the north and south airfields at Burauen on December 6, the Japanese radio claimed today, according to the Associated Press.

The propaganda broadcast, recorded by the FCC, followed an Imperial Headquarters communique which merely claimed paratroopers landed at Burauen the night of December 6 and that fighting was still going on.

Norse Police Head Slain By 'Terrorists'

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Berlin radio said today that Reidar Voigt, head of the Norwegian police force, was shot and killed by "terrorists" at his home in Oslo on December 4. The broadcast said the attackers escaped.

A British-made pistol and remnants of British parachute ropes were found near Voigt's body, Berlin said.

Drafting of Men 26-37 Ordered Increased As War Production Lags

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9. — (AP) Drafting of men aged 26 to 37 was ordered increased tonight to provide replacements for soldiers and sailors released to manpower-short war plants.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes asked this step as the government drove to get 300,000 needed workers into war industries and bring lagging production of critical materials up to schedule.

Work Week Extended

In another move, the Army asked and secured an agreement for a 7-day work week for four months in plants manufacturing truck tires and tubes, products which the Army lists among its most important shortages.

Byrnes said in a statement that the Army and Navy had released "several thousand" men to war plants and that the demands for such releases were increasing.

"In order that these men may be replaced," he said, "it is deemed necessary to increase the number of calls by Selective Service for men between the ages of 26 and 37 who are not now doing their part to contribute to the war effort."

Consequently, he said, he had asked Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to amend his regulations to provide for induction of such men and also to provide for reclassification of those in the 26-37 age group who now have occupational deferment and who leave essential industry.

Draft boards never have been formally ordered to halt induction of men over 26 but few have been drafted since last September when Hershey advised draft boards that it appeared needs of the armed services for the rest of this year could be met from men under that age.

At that time, Hershey stressed that "the armed forces continue to want the younger men."

Both the Army and Navy said they were unable to give exact figures tonight on the number of men they have released to war industries. About 800 were recently released from the Army to the tire industry and releases also have been made to logging and lumbering, foundries and forges, aircraft and ammunition plants and, earlier in the war, to nonferrous mining.

Byrnes' action appeared calculated, however, not only to secure replacements for those released but to stem a growing movement by workers to leave war jobs and seek employment they could be assured would continue after peace returns. This movement has been one of the principal worries of manpower officials.

The agreement for a 7-day work week in the truck tire industry was announced after a meeting of officials of most of the rubber companies with Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army's service forces.

All-Out Effort Urged

Sherman H. Dalrymple, president of the C.I.O. United Rubber workers, asked that all union members "give all-out effort" to the program.

In addition to truck tires and tubes, materials which the Army and Navy have reported are in shortest supply and most needed include heavy caliber ammunition, mortar shells, small arms ammunition, radar, and cotton duck.

"Essential war industries," Byrnes said, "must be provided with the requisite manpower to meet military requirements if full pressure on the enemy is to be continued.

"The importance of war production schedules has necessitated the release of men already in the service. In order that these men may be replaced, it is deemed necessary to increase the number of calls by Selective Service for men between the ages of 26 and 37 who are not now doing their part to contribute to the war effort."

Byrnes also asked Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to give "immediate consideration" to amendment of draft regulations so as to provide for reclassification of men in the 26-37 age group who now have occupational deferment and who leave essential industry.

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — The White House statement on the manpower situation today was as follows:

Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion Byrnes announced today that after consultation with representatives of the Army, Navy, War Manpower Commission and Selective Service he had requested the Director of Selective Service to amend Selective Service regulations to provide for the calling of additional men in the higher age groups into the armed services to replace men released by the Army and Navy to man critical war programs.

The Director pointed out that in addition to the veterans returning to civilian jobs, at his insistence the Army and Navy had already released several thousand men to fill in part the existing manpower shortage in critical war plants and that the demands for such releases are increasing.

The larger number of American divisions now actually engaged in combat and the continuing pressure against the enemy has not only increased the requirement for physically fit soldiers but has also greatly expanded the requirements for military supplies of all kinds.

Justice Byrnes stated:

"Essential war industries must be provided with the requisite manpower to meet military requirements if full pressure on the enemy is to be continued. The importance of war production schedules has necessitated the release of men already in the service.

"In order that these men may be replaced, it is deemed necessary to increase the number of calls by Selective Service for men between the ages of 26 and 37 who are not now doing their part to contribute to the war effort.

"More than two million men over 30 years of age are now serving their country in the armed services, and, hence, it is not too much to expect that all other men in this age group not in the armed service are prepared to contribute to the war effort by working in those industries which are essential to the war effort."

General Hershey has been requested to amend his regulations immediately to provide for the induction of men in this age group who are not now contributing to the war effort as replacement for men in the armed services who have been or may have to be released for war production purposes.

General Hershey has also been requested in consultation with the War Manpower Commission to give immediate consideration to the amendment of Selective Service regulations to provide for the reclassification of men in this age group now having occupational deferment who leave essential industry during this critical period when full war production is required to maintain the relentless pressure now being brought to bear upon the enemy by our soldiers and sailors on every front.

STIMSON SAYS ARMY WON'T LINGER ABROAD

MIAMI BEACH, Dec. 9 (AP)—Secretary Stimson said today that "no country need ever fear a United States Army of occupation—our boys want to get home."

"The American soldier is not afraid of anything, but he's the most homesick creature when he's at war in foreign land," the Secretary added in an interview.

"I remember that I shared that feeling in the last war. The effect was to idealize our home—America was the place where the sun shone all the time."

Returning soldiers must be made to realize, he declared, that this country is not made up entirely of strikers and exploiters. The discharged serviceman and his return to civilian life without bitterness or disappointment were among the primary concerns of the War Department, he said, and he told of intimate talks he has had with soldiers back from battlefields who are being re-processed at the Army redistribution stations.

He asserted that no one person was to blame for the ammunition shortage reported by General Eisenhower.

"Throughout the war," he stated, "the ammunition requirements have fluctuated wildly. Sometimes we have had a surplus of ammunition. At others we have used it up as fast as we could get it."

SAYS PLANE, ROBOT MAY 'DRY UP' OCEAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Secretary Forrestal said today in re-endorsing universal military training that the airplane and the robot plane might "dry up the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans." They "already have dried up the English Channel," he said.

The Secretary wrote Archibald G. Thacher of New York, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Universal Training, expressing appreciation for the committee's work.

"I hope you continue and intensify your activities, confident in the knowledge that the measure which you are advocating is of prime importance to the future security of the country," he said in the letter.

"Whether we as a nation become embroiled in war and whether we as individuals must serve in the armed forces is not a decision in which we have a free choice. The attack on Pearl Harbor demonstrated that. So did Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare during 1914-16. Whether we like it or not, we live in a world where we may have to fight—or be conquered.

"That statement implies no disbelief in the efforts to establish a sytem of war security. We do not need to abandon hope for a world association of nations that will insure peace, but our aspirations toward that ideal must be tempered with the cold facts of reality."

NavyPlanning 30 Carriers

Boston, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Navy is planning to construct 30 new carriers, requiring 3,000 planes, in 1945, Walker Mason, New England War Production Board chief, said today.

Mason said he had received the information in a recent conference with naval officials in Washington.

In an address prepared for a conference of the WPB and Labor officials of the metal industry, Mason asserted that "down at Bridgeport (Conn.) alone the requirement has been jumped from 220 planes to 300 per month."

The regional chief said that he had been informed by naval authorities that "Victory-in-Europe Day" would have "absolutely no effect on arms and armament for the Navy."

GERMAN GENERAL TAKEN BY 50 M.P.'S

Capture Followed by 14-Hour Battle With 1,200 Enemy Troops Outside Brest

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—Fifty MP's kept a German general prisoner, but it took some doing.

They helped to fight off 1,200 of the generals' soldiers who tried to rescue him.

That action precipitated a pitched battle in which artillery, mortars, bazookas and tanks were thrown in by the opposing forces. The battle lasted more than fourteen hours and when it was over an estimated 350 Germans were dead, 750 had been taken prisoner and more than 200 German vehicles had been destroyed or captured.

The War Department told about the incident today from the report of Maj. Frederick P. Field of Flushing, Queens, provost marshal for the Sixth Armored Division of the American Third Army. The action occurred Aug. 8 as the Sixth was spearheading its way into the French port of Brest.

Two MP's brought into a bivouac barrier a prize prisoner—Lieut. Gen. Karl Spang, commander of the German 266th Infantry Division.

About the moment the general was turned into a collecting station "all hell broke loose," Major Field said. American combat troops were engaged elsewhere and for hours the half hundred Army police stood off the would-be rescuers.

Eventually, reinforcements for the MP's began to arrive and finally the skirmish developed into full-scale battle.

12 Army Air Units Cited

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP).—Distinguished unit citations for extraordinary heroism have been awarded twelve Army Air Forces units, the War Department announced today. They include the 459th Bombardment Group, 95th Bombardment Group, 321st Bombardment Group, 52d Fighter Group, 1st Fighter Group, 451st Bombardment Group, 483d Bombardment Group, 31st Fighter Group, 455th Bombardment Group, 17th Bombardment Group, 64th Troop Carrier Group, 4th Troop Carrier Squadron of the 62d Troop Carrier Group.

Boy Veterans Get Discharges

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Dec. 9 (AP)—Two of the nation's youngest battle-scarred veterans of fighting in France and Germany, James J. Garvin, 17, and Raymond B. Wallace, 15, both of Chicago, were honorably discharged from the Army today.

Their chests debecked with Army awards, including the Purple Heart, the beardless youngsters, proud of their army records, said they were glad to get back to civilian life. Wallace, 14 years old when he enlisted in 1943, planned to return to school, and Garvin said he hoped to return to work on the farm of Thomas Fisk, near Verona, Ill.

Both youths were fighting in Europe when army officials learned their real ages and sent them home. Garvin was wounded last July 7 but returned to battle the same day. Through losses in his unit, the 17-year-old soldier eventually became a squad leader in France.

Wallace, son of Mrs. Ethel Kinsey, of San Francisco, but raised by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Cotton, Chicago, was wounded at St. Lo and evacuated.

Yank Eats Army Map

Memphis, Dec. 9 (AP)—Corporal David M. Snyder, recovering here from boobie-trap wounds, related how he ate a 16x20 inch army map in France to keep it from falling into German hands.

The Kenton (Tenn.) soldier was wounded in the abdomen near St. Lo. While waiting for aid, he realized he had in his pocket a map showing strategic plans of attack for his company. Snyder said he knew only one way to keep the map from the Germans if they counterattacked.

He chewed and swallowed it.

Hospital Ship's Leyte Feat

400 Patients Taken Off Beachhead By the Mercy Amid Air Raids

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP).—More than 400 patients were embarked on the hospital ship Mercy when she moved in close to a Leyte beachhead in the early days of the Philippine invasion, the Navy disclosed today.

The situation, the Navy added, was made precarious by air raids and landing operations as well as by the proximity of Japanese naval units.

The Mercy was the first hospital ship to take part in the Philippine action.

SIXTH SULLIVAN, A WAVE, TO BE WED

Seattle, Dec. 9 (A. P.).—The last of the Navy's fighting Sulli-vans from Waterloo, Iowa, soon will be a Sullivan no more.

Wave Genevieve Marie Sullivan, whose five brothers were lost when the U. S. S. Juneau, Navy cruiser, was sunk, has announced her engagement to Chief Storekeeper Carleton McCauley, with whom she grew up in Waterloo.

Her fiance is on duty aboard an aircraft carrier in the Atlantic, she explained, and they will be married as soon as he gets leave.

Saipan Mouse Gets Furlough

Chicago, Dec. 9 (AP)—A white mouse that turns up his nose at cheese but devours apples and bread arrived in Chicago from Saipan with 51 marines on furlough.

The mouse, inspected and approved by a marine physician, was the mascot of Pfc. Andrew Borkowski, who duffed him Sad Sack.

Action Slated On Palestine

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—A resolution calling for an open door to immigration in Palestine today appeared headed toward Senate Foreign Relations Committee approval.

Handling this politically hot potato gingerly, the committee set Monday for a showdown after debating yesterday over proposals offered by Senators Wagner (D., N. Y.), Taft (R., Ohio) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.).

State Department Opposed

The Taft-Wagner resolution, putting Congress on record as favoring resumption of British-halted Jewish immigration to Palestine, has faced quiet State Department opposition for more than a year. Diplomatic officials have told the committee that it would offend Britain and, more important, might stir Arabic unrest.

But committee members have felt the weight of appeals by Jewish leaders. They decided yesterday by a one-vote margin to report favorably Vandenberg's penciled substitute.

Contents Withheld

Withheld from publication, this reportedly calls for resumption of immigration to Palestine but does not specifically mention Jews.

Wagner won a postponement. He said later that he hoped to work out a compromise with Vandenberg stating clearly that Congress feels the Jews should be invited to emigrate to Palestine.

One influential committee member predicted approval of a "diluted" resolution.

Federal Study Furthers Disabled Vets' Job Aid

DEC 10 1944

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Employers—who wish to find jobs for disabled veterans—might benefit from a Government study recently made.

The study—largest of its kind ever undertaken—was made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. It covered 300 plants.

BLS says:

"It is clear from the reports that the majority of companies consider handicapped (a nice word for disabled) persons to be as good or better than the nonhandicapped as regards performance on the job."

Just As Efficient

The study showed that the disabled were just as efficient as the nondisabled.

It also showed that the disabled workers were absent less often, were injured less often and quit their jobs less frequently.

The reason: Disabled workers have a harder time getting a job and therefore try harder to keep it.

The 300 plants in this study employed 1,300,000 workers. Of that number, 63,000 were disabled. Their disability ranged from the crippled to the deaf and blind.

Disabled Workers Studied

This was a study of disabled workers—not of disabled veterans—although there were some of those in the 63,000.

The total number of disabled persons in this country is not known. Several years ago it was estimated that there were at least 5,000,000, and that 3,000,000 of them were of employable age.

Great numbers of them have been employed during the war because of the manpower shortage. Many will retire from their jobs after the war.

But many won't. And the disabled veterans will be coming back. Room will have to be made for them.

Finding Right Job Is Key

These are some of the things BLS has to say as a result of the study:

A majority of the employers said emphatically that finding the right job for the disabled worker is the key to their successful employment.

There has been some difficulty—because they are disabled—in transferring them from one job to another.

But, to overcome this, special training services have been set up in a number of plants.

Many plants now make detailed studies of the physical requirements for each job in order to place a disabled worker where he can do the best for himself and his employer.

WMC Ready To Help

[If a plant isn't large enough to have its own people make such a study, specialists of the War Manpower Commission are ready to help.]

Some companies are so concerned with the problem of placing returning veterans that they are making surveys of their men in service.

In this way they can determine the new skills the men have acquired and the type of work each desires when he returns.

Then these employers earmark at least three jobs for each returning veteran. And one of these jobs is being selected on the supposition that the veteran may return disabled.

Communities Assist

In some cities, finding jobs for disabled people has been made a community project.

Some examples of where the disabled fit in:

Blind workers can sort rivets, bolts or do other work depending on touch; deaf workers are more satisfactory in a boiler shop than workers who can hear; a man minus his right arm, where the lever was always on the right, can do the work if the lever is placed on the left side.

PUT '45-46 BUDGET AT NINETY BILLIONS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Government's budget for next year will be about $90,000,000,000.

As it stands, the total is roughly double the current income of some $46,000,000,000 a year. The new budget is based on the assumption that America will be fighting only Japan in the fiscal year beginning next July.

About $80,000,000,000 will be labeled for war spending as compared with nearly $89,000,000,000 this year. The rest will go for normal Government expenses and interest payments on the public debt.

By the end of the next fiscal year the debt will be upward of $300,000,000,000.

Powder Plant Rocked By Blast

DEC 10 1944

Pinole, Cal., Dec. 9 (AP)—An explosion of nitroglycerin at the Hercules powder plant today demolished two wooden buildings, spraying debris so high it could be seen five miles away, and rocked buildings and shattered windows for many miles around.

Sheriff James N. Long, of Contra Costa county, said there probably were two or three persons killed and at least 25 injured, some seriously.

Four doctors and eight nurses were sent to the scene promptly by the Richmond chapter of the American Red Cross, Don Cramer, disaster director for the Pacific area, reported. Victims were being treated at the scene.

Medical Unit Sent

A naval medical unit also was sent from the Mare Island base.

At the company's home office in Wilmington, Del., a company spokesman said two men were believed killed and "several others" injured.

Many Workers Cut

Many workers in the building were cut by flying glass of broken windows.

At the yard gate, a guard told newsmen he had heard that two men on duty near the main field magazine were killed.

Effect of the explosion was felt across the wide northern part of San Francisco Bay, in Marin county, where houses were jolted. At Mare Island Navy Yard, about ten miles from the plant, windows were broken.

Plant Is Spread Out

Mark Inskeep, assistant superintendent at the plant, said it was impossible to make an authoritative statement of casualties—or even of the site of the explosion—until injured persons were treated.

An employé who was working about 300 yards from the scene was reported knocked out by empty dynamite boxes piled near by.

All the buildings at the Hercules plant are separated from each other, as the plant is spread over many acres of rolling hills.

The entire area was in a state of high excitement, since recollections of the Port Chicago blast of last July 17, in which 322 were killed, are still vivid. Port Chicago is about ten miles east of Pinole.

Biddle Denies Corcoran Holds Undue Powers

His Influence in Justice Department Overrated, Senate Committee Hears

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP).—Attorney General Francis Biddle expressed the opinion today that Thomas G. Corcoran's influence with the Justice Department was somewhat overrated.

The Cabinet official appeared before the Senate Immigration Committee ostensibly to recommend approval of his executive assistant, Ugo Carusi, as immigration and naturalization commissioner replacing Earl G. Harrison, resigned.

The Carusi nomination, however, became only a peg on which to hang a three-hour give and take on the recent ouster of Assistant Attorney General Norman M. Littell. Mr. Littell contended Mr. Corcoran, a former New Deal intimate, had been able to summon Mr. Biddle to his apartment when he (Littell) had to wait days for an appointment with his chief.

Littell Incident Is Brought Up

After Mr. Biddle delivered a warm recommendation of Mr. Carusi for the immigration post, Senator Homer Ferguson, Republican, of Michigan, led the attorney General into a general rehash of the Littell incident. Mr. Biddle appeared eager to present his side of the affair to the Senators.

"I think that Mr. Corcoran is a completely honest man, and he is a friend of mine," Mr. Biddle told the committee. He declared he felt very strongly about inferences as to Mr. Corcoran's influence with his department.

Mr. Littell was ousted by President Roosevelt last week for insubordination after he had sent the Senate War Investigating Committee a memorandum alleging that Mr. Biddle had sought to intervene in a condemnation suit on Mr. Corcoran's behalf.

After hours of talk about a dozen lawsuits in which Littell, Carusi, Corcoran or Biddle had taken part, Senator Ferguson suggested that Mr. Littell be called up next week to present his side of the affair, but Chairman Richard B. Russell, Democrat, of Georgia, objected.

Mr. Biddle told the committee that Mr. Littell had demonstrated "complete disloyalty" toward him and also had made "most vicious remarks" about Mr. Biddle which the Attorney General declined to repeat.

Senator Burnet R. Maybank, Democrat, of South Carolina, observed: "That's enough for me."

In a Justice Department squabble involving condemnation proceedings against the Savannah Shipyards Co., Mr. Littell had alleged that the law firm of Dempsey & Koplovitz had acted as the "front" for Mr. Corcoran. Mr. Biddle said Mr. Corcoran did not represent the shipyards, but did represent certain interests in the Empire Ordnance Company, which he said had some sort of connection with the shipyard. (Mr. Littell had said Savannah Shipyards was a subsidiary of Empire).

The Attorney General said Mr. Corcoran telephoned him suggested that the condemnation suit could be settled for about a million dollars. Mr. Biddle said he arranged a conference of himself, Dempsey & Koplovitz and Mr Littell at which a settlement was suggested. Mr. Littell advised against a settlement and said he wanted to bring the case to trial.

Government Lost Case

Mr. Biddle said that in the face of a "firm offer" to settle the suit for $1,085,000, he allowed Mr. Littell to take the case to trial. The government eventually lost.

"The final cost to the government, including interest and fees, made a difference of about $300,000 (more) between the firm offer and the final settlement," Mr. Biddle testified.

Then Mr. Biddle said he wanted to tell about "the famous midnight ride." That turned out to be an automobile jaunt to Mr. Biddle's Virginia farm in connection with the Sterling Products case.

The department had filed an anti-trust case against the pharmaceutical house, alleging a tie-up with the German I. G. Farben interests. Mr. Biddle testified that Mr. Corcoran was able to persuade the firm to plead nolo contendere.

Meanwhile Mr. Corcoran and Thurman Arnold, then head of the anti-trust division, had worked out a suggestion that the Secretary of Commerce "police" the reorganized company to see that it remained clear of German influence. Mr. Biddle was out at his farm, the telephone lines were down because of a storm, so they drove out at night.

"Both of them have a sort of flair for the dramatic, you know," Mr. Biddle said.

Mr. Biddle said he turned them down cold.

In New York, Mr. Littell said in a statement:

"The Attorney General charges that I made 'vicious' remarks about him. This smoke-screen attack on a former subordinate whose integrity has never been questioned, except by Tommy Corcoran or Biddle, is another gross misreprentation to a Congressional committee of which several are now a matter of record.

"I stated facts—names, places, dates—in serious charges against an Attorney General of the United States. Why does he not reply in kind, instead of repeating idle gossip, which he declines to substantiate?

"As to his explanation of the settlement of the Savannah Shipyards case, I expected the Attorney General to crawl out on the limb where his statements now place him.

"I shall saw that limb off behind him in another statement which I shall issue in the next day or so."

CORCORAN SUBPOENAED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — (AP) Chairman Rep Lea (D-Calif) of the House committee investigating the Federal communications commission, announced today the committee has subpoenaed Thomas Corcoran, attorney and former White House advisor.

Lea did not say on what day Corcoran—known as "Tommy the Cork"—would appear but said it would be some time next week. Neither would he disclose why the Committee desired to question Corcoran.

The Committee currently is inquiring into the sale of radio station WMCA in New York. Donald Flamm, its former owner, testified he sold the station under "pressure." Corcoran's name has been mentioned several times at public hearings during the WMCA investigation.

Lea also disclosed that the Committee is studying Corcoran's income tax returns. He did not explain the purposes of the inquiry.

PAY-RISE COST $60,000,000

OPA Estimates Steelworkers' Increase At That

DEC 10 1944

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration figures $60,000,000 as rock bottom for the probable annual cost of the wage awards recommended for the CIO steelworkers.

The agency's top figure for the extra pay is $150,000,000.

It expects to pin the amount down precisely at some point in that range next week.

Against this finding it will match the steel industry's financial position as disclosed by a cost survey nearing completion, and decide whether the proposed wage adjustment can be absorbed without a price increase.

Vinson To Get Conclusions

The agency's onclusions will be submitted to the stabilization director, Fred M. Vinson, who will make any announcement.

If there are price consequences Vinson must rule whether the wage hike will be allowed. If no price increase is necessary, the War Labor Board, which approved the wage scale revision two weeks ago, will order it into effect.

OPA officials explained that their greatest problem has been calculation of the effect of WLB's grants on each of the 86 basic companies.

The board authorized increases for night-shift workers, additional pay and other revisions but did not disturb basic wages which the Little Steel formula holds to 15 per cent above January, 1941 levels.

To A "Fine" Point

"We estimate that the maximum cost of these adjustments would be about 11 cents an hour per man, or about $150,000,000 a year," an OPA official said. "The minimum cost would be around 5 cents a man per hour, or about $60,000,000.

This range will be narrowed "to a pretty fine point" when the study is ready for Vinson, he said.

While declining to say whether OPA has reached any conclusions that a price increase may be necessary, the official asserted:

"This much is obviously true: A $150,000,000 cost increase would take a whale of a bite out of industry's earnings before taxes."

He pointed out that a number of the companies affected by the WLB findings have been granted "financial hardship" price increases for some products in the last several months. "That kind of additional cost could wipe out entirely the 1944 earnings of those companies," he said.

There is still a possibility, he added, that the steel industry may appeal the WLB decision, which would delay the report or even kill it.

Increase Reported In Coal Production

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP) — Coal production increased in the week ended December 2 over the preceding week, when some mine workers observed the Thanksgiving holiday.

Bituminous production totaled 11,835,000 tons, an increase of 535,000, the Solid Fuels Administration reported today.

Anthracite production totaled 1,193,000 tons, an increase of 58,000.

Four Ward Stores Hit By Walkout

Detroit, Dec. 9 (AP)—An undetermined number of employés of four Montgomery Ward & Co. stores in the Detroit area walked out this morning and established picket lines.

Spokesmen for the strikers, who are members of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes (CIO), said the workers were seeking to enforce demands for back pay and adjustment of other grievances.

Affected were two Detroit stores and one each in suburban Royal Oak and Dearborn, employing some 2,200 persons.

Stores Remain Open

At the Gratiot avenue store in Detroit, police detained for investigation a man who gave his name as Loyal Cameron, 44, of Grand Rapids. Bernard Mulligan, police lieutenant said the man was taken into custody for attempting to prevent women clerks at a store entrance from passing him.

Officials of the stores declined comment except to say that, "The stores are open and business is being conducted as usual." A management spokesman said 80 per cent of employés at the Gratiot avenue store remained at work and that 60 per cent of those at Royal Oak were at work.

Bendix Employes Walk Out

DEC 10 1944

Teterboro, N.J., Dec. 9 (AP)—Production of flight instruments and aviation accessory equipment at the Eclipse-Pioneer division plant of the Bendix Aviation Corporation halted today when 1,800 workers walked off the job in protest over a new work schedule, a management spokesman said.

The walkout, which involved nearly one third of the plant's 6,000 workers, was staged by members of the Aircraft Workers Union of New Jersey (independent), management said.

Union officials said the walkout was "spontaneous" and that they had taken no part in its arrangement. They said they would negotiate with the company for the absent workers, however.

Tire Factories Agree to Adopt 7-Day Week

Program to Meet Army's Demands Drawn Up at Meeting With Somervell

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP).—Plants manufacturing truck tires and tubes will go on a seven-day work week for four months in an effort to supply the Army's heavy demands.

This decision followed a meeting today of officials of most of the rubber companies with Lieutenant General Brehon Somervell, commanding general of the Army's Service Forces.

The rubber company executives signed a statement pledging themselves to take immediate steps to institute the seven-day work week and to "co-operate with our employees in efforts to stimulate production."

Sherman H. Dalrymple, international president of the United Rubber Workers of America, Congress of Industrial Organizations affiliate, then asked all members of his organization engaged in the production of truck tires and tubes to "give all-out effort" to the program.

Some "bottleneck" operations in rubber plants have been on a seven-day schedule, but most of the industry has shut down on Sunday, officials said.

The program will involve a seven-day work week for most workers, since the industry has found the rotation of employees unsatisfactory for the most part.

Workers averaged forty-six and a half hours a week in September, the last month for which figures were available here. This allowed for absenteeism, and included only workers engaged in the making of tires and tubes.

Government production agencies, which early in the war program sponsored a seven-day week for some industries, including shipbuilding, no longer favor such a long week except in emergencies.

This attitude was reflected in the limiting of the seven-day work week in the rubber industry to a four-month period.

On the basis of present allocations, General Somervell said, the Army will be 472,000 tires short of its requirements for the first quarter of 1945 unless production is stepped up.

At the present time, he said, 500,000 rubber-tired vehicles are in operation on the western front.

Only last week General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander on the western front, said the tire shortage had become so serious that it threatened to tie up a large number of vehicles by early February.

Workers will receive pay at the rate of time and a half for the sixth day and double time for the seventh day in accordance with their contracts.

Promptness Is Stressed

War Production Board sources revealed that a big increase in heavy overcoats, battle jackets, uniforms, heavy trousers and blankets is sought promptly by the Army.

Saying that he based his belief on testimony of Army Service Force, WPB and manpower officials, Mead declared:

"A closer co-ordination of Army and Navy procurement, a more efficient utilization of workers already in plants, and nation-wide recruiting by organized labor will produce the men and women needed."

Mead said his committee will issue a report soon on Army and Navy surplus property accumulations which will "point out some of the answers to the wasteage of manpower and materials."

Charles M. Hay, deputy manpower chairman, agreed with Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) yesterday that "propaganda" is the commission's chief weapon for enforcing its decrees against workers leaving war plants and limiting civilian industry's manpower quotas.

"In my opinion," Hay said, "the principal thing needed—and it is an imperative need—is a deepening sense of the urgency upon the part of the people respecting war needs."

Reflected In War Plants

Reports last summer speculating over prospects for an early end of the war, he said, were reflected in war plants where many workers left to seek peacetime jobs.

"If people can be persuaded now as to the urgent need for their services, the people will respond to the urgency," he said.

Hay added that while he would welcome early legislation penalizing civilian plants which hire workers in excess of manpower commission quotas, he thinks the problem can be solved without it.

California Steel Plant Made Idle By Walkout

DEC 10 1944

Pittsburg, Cal., Dec. 9 (AP)—All work at Columbia Steel's plants here was stopped last night and CIO Steelworkers International Union officers called a mass meeting today in an effort to induce 3,500 men to return to work.

A 12th Naval District spokesman in San Francisco said the plants had been working on "critical" naval castings.

Both company and union said that Sunday work was involved in the dispute leading to the walkout.

Charles J. Smith, international representative for the United Steelworkers of America, said that while the plants had been on seven-day weeks, the men had worked only six days, alternating Sunday work on a five-week schedule. He declared the company recently had obtained some additional contracts and had ordered the full force to work Sundays.

Company officials, however, asserted that only six riggers had been directed to work a Sunday out of turn, that they refused and walked out. Sympathy work stoppages spread gradually through the plants.

Propaganda Increased To Combat Labor Need

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—The full force of propaganda was set in motion today to combat manpower shortages as new calls came from the Army for vitally needed winter equipment.

Chairman Mead (D., N.Y.), of the Senate War Investigating Committee, said that voluntary methods, including appeals to public patriotism, will meet current needs for war workers.

Clothing and blankets were added, meanwhile, to a list of war materials needed as quickly as possible.

Dewey Peace Role Lasts

Albany, N.Y., Dec. 9 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Republican standard bearer, stood committed today to continue his presidential campaign efforts for bipartisanship in the formation of a world peace organization.

In a two-paragraph statement issued yesterday, Dewey disclosed that he and John Foster Dulles, his foreign affairs adviser, previously had discussed "at length" Dulles's world security talks in Washington with Edward R. Stettinius, Secretary of State, and Republican Senate leaders.

Conferred With Dulles

Dewey's statement, in reply to a query as to whether Dulles represented him in Washington, said:

"Last Monday Mr. Dulles and I discussed at length his proposed visit to Washington today for conferences with Secretary of State Stettinius and Senators Vandenberg and Austin.

"Mr. Dulles and I worked very closely together during the campaign while he acted as my representative at conferences with Secretary Cordell Hull in lifting the organization for lasting peace above partisanship. Our deep interest in the building of a lasting peace in the world and our joint efforts to that end will continue."

Urged Nonpolitical Action

Throughout his campaign, and particularly in his Louisville speech, Dewey urged that politics be kept out of world peace discussions.

Dulles conferred with Hull three times on the Dumbarton Oakes peace organization.

There had been general belief that Dewey would assume an outspoken role as the party's titular leader, but yesterday's statement was his first utterance on foreign affairs since the election.

Billion for Flood Control Approved in Conference

All Senate Additions to House Measure Are Accepted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 (AP).—A $1,000,000,000 post-war flood-control bill was approved today by a conference committee which accepted all projects added by the Senate to the House Bill.

Conferees said their report will be ready for the House Monday. Approval there would send the bill to the Senate for final Congressional action.

A section stipulating that projects be handled by "existing Federal agencies" was eliminated on the theory that it might impede development of regional authorities.

But the committee retained provisions allowing state review of Federal works, giving irrigation preference over navigation in arid sections, and permitting the Secretary of the Interior to dispose of surplus power at hydroelectric projects.

The bill authorizes development of the Missouri River basin under an integrated program prepared by the Reclamation Bureau and the Army engineers. The program, calling for an initial authorization of $200,000,000, was recommended by President Roosevelt who also suggested establishment of a Missouri Valley Authority as the administrative agency.

IT HAD SLACKENED AFTER THE RUSSIAN CAPTURE OF HATVAN NOV.26, AND BERLIN FIRST BEGAN TALKING SERIOUSLY OF SOVIET ASSAULTS FOUR DAYS AGO. THE RUSSIANS HAD TO FIGHT THEIR WAY THROUGH A STRONGLY-FORTIFIED AREA CRISS-CROSSED BY MANY CANALS.

BERLIN BROADCASTS ADMITTED LAST NIGHT THAT PEST AND ITS HEAVILY FORTIFIED SUBURBS ON THE EAST BANK OF THE DANUBE HAD NOW BEEN ISOLATED AND TOLD OF "BLOODY AND CONFUSED" FIGHTING IN THE OUTSKIRTS. GERMAN LINES EAST OF THE CITY WERE DRAWN BACK SEVERAL MILES, BERLIN SAID.

IN CAPTURING SZIGETSZENTMIKLOS ON CSEPEL ISLAND IN THE DANUBE THE RUSSIANS WERE ONLY SIX MILES FROM THE LAST NAZI ESCAPE RAILWAY WHICH ENTERS BUDAPEST ON THE SOUTHWEST. ON THE WEST BANK OF THE DANUBE OPPOSITE CSEPEL, AT CAPTURED ERCSI AND NEARBY RACKERESZTUR, THE RUSSIANS WERE WITHIN 15 MILES OF THAT BUDAPEST-VIENNA TRUNK LINE.

LONDON, SUNDAY, DEC. 10-(AP)-A FORCE OF RAF HEAVY BOMBERS, APPARENTLY IN SOME STRENGTH, SWEPT OVER GERMANY LAST NIGHT, FOLLOWING A DOUBLE DAYLIGHT BLOW AGAINST STUTTGART AND MUNICH.

THE BRITISH BOMBERS STARTED OUT ACROSS THE CHANNEL SOON AFTER 6 P.M. (BRITISH TIME) AND RETURNED ABOUT 9 P.M. AFTER THE GERMAN RADIO HAS REPORTED THEM OVER THE BERLIN AND HANOVER-BRUNSWICK AREAS.

THE AIR MINISTRY DID NOT DISCLOSE THEIR TARGETS IMMEDIATELY.

YESTERDAY MORE THAN 700 AMERICAN WARPLANES, FLYING THROUGH BLINDING SNOWSTORMS AND IN SKIES WHERE THE TEMPERATURE REGISTERED 54 DEGREES BELOW ZERO, STRUCK AT STUTTGART'S INDUSTRIAL CENTER AND DROPPED 1,500 TONS OF EXPLOSIVES ON A STRATEGIC AIRDROME AND ON FREIGHT YARDS.

NORTH OF HANNOVER, 12 LOCOMOTIVES AND 28 RAILWAY CARS WERE DESTROYED. SEVEN OF THE CARS WERE TROOP CARRYING COACHES, AND FIVE OTHERS WERE LOADED WITH AMMUNITION. IN HOLLAND NEAR AMERSFOORT, ROCKET-FIRING TYPHOON STREAKED THROUGH AN INTENSE "BOX BARRAGE" AND SMASHED A GERMAN HEADQUARTERS WHILE SPITFIRES HURLED BOMBS ON TWO FACTORIES. FIVE ENEMY PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN.

DEC 10 1944

IN THE UTRECHT AREA, RAIL LINES BEING USED TO CARRY SUPPLIES TO V2 ROCKET SITES WERE CUT IN AT LEAST 12 PLACES. A NEW ZEALAND SQUADRON POUNCED ON A TRAIN LOAD OF EXPLOSIVES. THE LOCOMOTIVE BLEW UP AND ONE OF ITS RAIL CARS DISINTEGRATED IN A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

MEANWHILE, 325 MEDIUM AND LIGHT BOMBERS OF THE U.S.NINTH AIR FORCE BASED ON THE CONTINENT ATTACKED FIVE NAZI DISTRIBUTING POINTS BEHIND THE SAAR FRONT TODAY, THEY RAINED EXPLOSIVES ON BAUMHOLDER, SAARWELLIGEN, LABACH, LOSHEIM AND OBERTHAL.

THE ONE JET PLANE ENCOUNTERED BY THE EIGHTH AIR FORCE FLIERS

WAS SHOT DOWN SOUTHWEST OF STUTTGART BY LT.HARRY L.EDWARDS, A MUSTANG PILOT OF 543 CHARKEY ST., MINCIE, IND. NO OTHER ENEMY AIRCRAFT WERE SEEN.

HIS FIRST BURST KNOCKED ONE OF THE TWIN JET UNITS OUT OF OPERATION AND SENT THE ENEMY INTO A STEEP GLIDE. HE FOLLOWED IT DOWN TO ABOUT 100 FEET. WHERE THE PILOT TRIED TO LEVEL OUT. EDWARDS SQUIRTED LEAD INTO IT AGAIN, SHOOTING OUT THE SECOND JET UNIT. THE NAZI CRAFT BEGAN FALLING APART. THE CANOPY FLEW OPEN AND ONE OF THE WINGTIPS RIPPED AWAY. IT FINALLY HIT THE GROUND AND EXPLODED. ITS PILOT DID NOT HAVE A CHANCE TO FIRE A SHOT.

EDWARDS EARLIER HAD FOUND A SUPPLY TRAIN AND DESTROYED FIVE FREIGHT CARS.

ANOTHER MUSTANG PILOT IN THE SAME GROUP, LT.BRUNO J.GABROVSKI, 85 CASS ST., SPRINGFIELD, MASS., SHOT UP SIX LOCOMOTIVES, RAISING HIS TOTAL SCORE TO 35 LOCOMOTIVES DESTROYED OR DAMAGED.

BY JAMES F.KING

LONDON, DEC. 9-(AP)-A POTENTIALLY SERIOUS DIVISION AMONG SUPPORTERS OF BRITAIN'S COALITION GOVERNMENT BECAME APPARENT TONIGHT DESPITE THE HOUSE OF COMMONS' VOTE OF CONFIDENCE YESTERDAY ON PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S DETERMINED POLICY OF "INTERVENTION TO KEEP PEACE" IN LIBERATED EUROPE.

THE RANK-AND-FILE OF THE STRONG MINORITY LABOR PARTY THREATENED TO ADOPT A "HANDS-OFF" ATTITUDE ON CHURCHILL'S HANDLING OF THE REBELLIOUS FACTIONS IN GREECE AND ON HIS DENUNCIATION OF COUNT CARLO SFORZA OF ITALY, ALTHOUGH FEW APPEARED READY TO BREAK ENTIRELY WITH THE COALITION.

IN AN EFFORT TO RELIEVE PERSISTING TENSENESS, CREATED BY THE CONFUSION OF THE GREEK FIGHTING, CHURCHILL WAS REPORTED PLANNING TO SEND TO ATHENS ONE OF HIS ACE TROUBLE-SHOOTERS, RICHARD LAW, MINISTER OF STATE.

EVEN AS THE BRITISH PRESS TOOK SIDES--VIGOROUSLY SUPPORTING THE PRIME MINISTER OR VOICING INCREASED ANXIETY OVER BRITAIN'S POLICY--THE L

LONDON TRADES COUNCIL THIS AFTERNOON ADOPTED A RESOLUTION EXPRESSING "ALARM" AT BRITISH ARMED INTERVENTION.

THE YORKSHIRE POST, TAKING AN OPPOSITE VIEW, DECLARED THE PRIME MINISTER'S SPEECH "WAS NOT MERELY A DEFENSE: IT WAS A VINDICATION."

WHILE CHURCHILL WON 279 TO 30, THE VOTE AGAINST HIM WAS THE LARGEST IN SIX TESTS OF CONFIDENCE HE HAS UNDERGONE.

THE LABOR PARTY SPLIT. EVEN THOUGH DEPUTY PREMIER CLEMENT ATTLEE, LABOR PARTY LEADER, URGED HIS MEMBERS TO SUPPORT THE GOVERNMENT, ONLY 23, NEARLY ALL MINISTERS AND THEIR PARLIAMENTARY PRIVATE SECRETARIES, VOTED FOR CHURCHILL'S POLICIES. MOST OF THE LABOR MEMBERS REFRAINED FROM VOTING.

THE PARTY ADMINISTRATIVE COMMITTEE ADOPTED A MORE NEUTRAL ATTITUDE, ONLY ADVISING LABORITES NOT TO VOTE AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT AND LEAVING THEM A FREE HAND IN GOING ALONG WITH THE PREMIER.

IN DEFIANCE OF THE PARTY POLICY, 24 LABORITES VOTED AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

THE LABOR PARTY ORGAN--THE LONDON DAILY HERALD--CAUTIOUSLY REMARKED: "MR.CHURCHILL NO DOUBT HOPES THAT THE VOTE WILL BE REGARDED AS AN ENDORSEMENT OF HIS ENTIRE POLICY IN RELATION TO THE LIBERATED COUNTRIES, AND, IN FACT, TO THE EUROPEAN SITUATION GENERALLY.

"IT WILL NOT BE SO CONSIDERED. THE FACT STILL REMAINS THAT HE IS APT, BY HIS UTTERANCES, TO CREATE AN IMPRESSION THAT HE IS BIASED IN FAVOR OF REGIMES OF THE RIGHT."

A MOVEMENT WAS UNDERWAY TO BRING BEFORE THE LABOR PARTY CONFERENCE OPENING MONDAY AN EMERGENCY RESOLUTION DEFINING THE PARTY'S WHOLE ATTITUDE TO LIBERATED COUNTRIES.

A POSSIBILITY AROSE, TOO, THAT THE LABOR MINISTERS IN THE CHURCHILL GOVERNMENT WOULD ASK THE PARTY FOR A VOTE OF CONFIDENCE IN THEMSELVES.

WHILE THERE ARE 615 SEATS IN COMMONS, LESS THAN 400 ATTENDED YESTERDAY'S DEBATE, ALTHOUGH IT WAS THE LARGEST TURNOUT FOR A FRIDAY SESSION IN YEARS.

THE ABSENTEES INCLUDED MANY OF THE 75 TO 100 WHO ARE IN THE ARMED FORCES OR AWAY ON OTHER WAR ASSIGNMENTS, MANY WHO STAYED AWAY PURPOSELY TO AVOID COMMITTING THEMSELVES, SOME WHO WERE ILL, AND SOME WITH PREVIOUS BUSINESS APPOINTMENTS.

CHURCHILL'S SUDDEN DEMAND FOR A VOTE OF CO NCE CAUGHT MANY BY SURPRISE, INCLUDING SOME ABSENT MEMBERS OF H OWN CONSERVATIVE PARTY WHO PERHAPS OTHERWISE MIGHT HAVE ATTENDED. THE PRIME MINISTER WON SOLID SUPPORT FROM CONSERVATIVES AND LIBERALS WHO VOTED.

THE CONSERVATIVES WITH 363 MEMBERS AND LABOR WITH 170 ARE THE TWO DOMINANT PARTIES IN COMMONS.

(ADVANCE)..LONDON, DEC.9-(AP)-ENGLAND'S SHOPKEEPERS MOVED TOWARD THE BUSY CHRISTMAS SEASON TODAY WITH A DISTINCTLY BRIGHTER BACKLOG OF RETAIL TRADE AND INDICATIONS OF CONTINUING IMPROVEMENT.

THE RETAIL DISTRIBUTORS ASSOCIATION RELEASED FIGURES SHOWING SHARP IMPROVEMENT FOR OCTOBER OVER THE PREVIOUS FOUR MONTHS IN SALES OF APPAREL, HOUSEHOLD GOODS AND NON-FOOD MERCHANDISE, AS WELL AS A 4.4 PER CENT GAIN IN TOTAL SALES OVER OCT.1943.

THE SURVEY POINTED OUT THAT THE FOUR MONTHS PRIOR TO OCTOBER WERE ARTIFICIALLY DEPRESSED. THE FLYING BOMB ATTACKS SENT THOUSANDS OUT OF LONDON AND RESTRICTED THE MARKET.

IT IS IN RETAIL SALES, RATHER THAN IN THE SHADOWY HINTERLAND OF FACTORY CONVERSION AND EXPORT TRADE, THAT THE LITTLE MAN SEES THE RETURN PATH TO A KIND OF PROSPERITY.

THE AVERAGE CITIZEN JOSTLING IN THE BIG DEPARTMENT STORES FOR TOYS AND CLOTHING, STANDING IN LINE TO BE WAITED ON FOR FURNITURE, OR FOR A BITE TO EAT AFTER THE SHOPPING IS DONE, IS LIVING IN A QUICKENED LONDON THESE DAYS.

OUT IN THE PROVINCES THE SHOPS ARE CROWDED TOO. PEOPLE ARE BUYING OVER THE COUNTERS, AND HEAVILY.

IN COMMONS AND IN TRADE COUNCIL OFFICES PHRASES WERE REITERATED--THERE WOULD BE CONVERSION TO PEACE TIME OUTPUT AS QUICKLY AS POSSIBLE, BRITAIN WOULD RECAPTURE HER EXPORT TRADE, LEND-LEASE WOULD BE MITIGATED TO GIVE BRITISH INDUSTRY FREER PLAY.

THE LITTLE MAN DIDN'T SHOW MUCH INTEREST IN THE PROMISES BUT ACTUAL DISSENT CAME FROM FINANCIAL PULSE TAKERS.

"NO CLEAR STATEMENT OF POLICY IS DISCERNIBLE IN WHAT WAS SAID DURING WEDNESDAY'S DEBATE (ON EXPORT TRADE) IN COMMONS", THE FINANCIAL TIMES SAID. "IT SEEMS CLEAR THAT TOO OFTEN PROGRESS MADE IN PRINCIPLE AND IN ONE DIRECTION IS CANCELLED BY THE METHODS FOLLOWED BY THE CONTROLLING DEPARTMENTS."

THE ECONOMIST SAID THE DEBATE ON EXPORT POLICY WAS "NOT VERY ENCOURAGING."

"IT SOUNDED AT TIMES MORE LIKE A SEARCH FOR ALIBIS THAN A SEARCH FOR POLICY" THE MAGAZINE SAID.

WITH THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY NEAR BISCHWILLER, GERMANY, DEC. 9-(AP)-TANK-SUPPORTED AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN IN A SURPRISE PRE-DAWN ATTACK DROVE TODAY INTO BISCHWILLER, FOUR MILES SOUTHEAST OF HAGUENAU--MOST IMPORTANT ENEMY SUPPLY AND COMMUNICATIONS CENTER IN NORTHEASTERN ALSACE.

THE ADVANCE INTO BISCHWILLER WAS ORDERED WITHOUT ARTILLERY PREPARATION TO ACHIEVE SURPRISE, AND SO WELL DID IT WORK THAT THE INFANTRY SEIZED INTACT A 100-FOOT BRIDGE OVER THE MODER RIVER IN THE NORTH PART OF TOWN.

SUCCESSFUL DEFENSE OF HAGUENAU IS OUT OF THE QUESTION ONCE BISCHWILLER IS CLEARED. THE SEVENTH HOLDS MORE THAN A SCORE OF TOWNS IMMEDIATELY SOUTH, WEST AND NORTHWEST OF HAGUENAU, WHILE A THICK AND WIDE FOREST LIES ON THE NORTHEAST.

TANKS ARRIVED IN TIME TO PROTECT THE ENGINEERS AND, WHEN THE BRIDGE WAS READY, RUMBLED INTO TOWN.

THE GERMANS TRIED TWO COUNTERATTACKS SUPPORTED BY TANKS AND SELF-PROPELLED GUNS IN THIS AREA, BUT WITHOUT SUCCESS. EARLY TONIGHT NEARLY 200 PRISONERS HAD BEEN TAKEN.

THERE WAS A BIG SHOP WITH COUNTLESS LATHES WHERE SHELL CASES WERE MADE FOR THE FORTS AROUND METZ. THERE WAS A VAST AMOUNT OF STORAGE SPACE FOR AMMUNITION AND FOOD. THE COLONEL ENJOYED ICE CREAM FROM A PHILADELPHIA-MADE FREEZER.

FOR RECREATION THE GERMANS HAD A BAND, EQUIPPED WITH DRUMS AND SOME OTHER INSTRUMENTS BELONGING TO THE "BLACK WATCH" UNIT OF THE BRITISH HIGHLAND DIVISION AND WHICH THE GERMANS HAD CAPTURED NEAR DUNKERQUE IN 1940. WHETHER THE BLACK WATCH OCCUPIED DRIANT BEFORE THE RETREAT WAS NOT LEARNED.

WITH HER TRANSPORT, INDUSTRIES, FOOD AND COAL SUPPLY LINES STILL BURDENED DAMAGED FROM THE EFFECTS OF WAR, FRANCE IS FACING THE WORST WINTER IN HER HISTORY SINCE THE WAR OF 1870.

THERE HAVE BEEN SOME IMPROVEMENTS SINCE THE FLIGHT OF THE NAZIS, BUT LIVING CONDITIONS NOWHERE APPROACH THE RELATIVELY COMFORTABLE MONTHS BEFORE D-DAY.

THE AVERAGE CITIZEN, HIS POCKETS FREQUENTLY STUFFED WITH FANCY, EXPENSIVE LOOKING FRANC NOTES, IS PACING HIS COUNTRY'S BOULEVARDS AMID THE PRE-CHRISTMAS RUSH WITHOUT KNOWING HOW MUCH THESE NOTES WILL BE WORTH TOMORROW.

HE DOESN'T KNOW HOW HIS FAMILY WILL BE ABLE TO KEEP WARM,

HOW HE WILL BE ABLE TO FEED THEM OR WHETHER HE WILL BE ABLE TO CONTINUE WORKING.

MUCH OF HIS COUNTRY'S INDUSTRY WAS BOMBED OR SABOTAGED DURING THE OCCUPATION. PORTIONS WERE W CARRIED OFF TO WW GERMANY. MANY OF INDUSTRY'S W SKILLED WWWWWW WERE DEPORTED TO THE REICH. MANY INDUSTRIAL LEADERS WERE SHOT BY THE GE MANS FOR RESISTING NAZI-FICATION. MANY ARE IN DANGE OF BEINGW SHOT BY THE PRESENT REGIME FOR ASSISTING NAZIFICATION.

DURING THE OCCUPATION WELL TO DO FRENCHMEN MANAGED QUITE WELL BY MAKING WWW PERIODICAL TRIPS INTO THE RICH WWWW FARMING DISTRICTS OF NORMANDY OR WWWWW BRITTANY, OR SIMILAR DISTRICTS WWWWWWS UTH OF PARIS. DISRUPTED TRAIN SERVICE AND RESTRUCTIONS ON USE OF TRUCKS AND PRIVATE CARS WW RESTRICT THISW NOW.

OTHERS TOOK MEALS AND BOUGHT OTHER NECESSITIES THROUGH THE BLACK MARKET RESTAURANTS AND STORES WHICH FLOURISHED UNDER ENCOURAGEMENT OF VICHY AND NAZI RACKETEERS. WWW

THE FARMERS, KNOWING THAT THE GE MANS WERE TAKING AS MUCH PRODUCE AS POSSIBLE FROM FRANCE, SOLD GLADLY AT HIGH PRICES TO BLACK MARKET TRADERS ON THE THEORY THAT THE MORE SOLD TO FRENCHMEN THE LESS WOULD GO TO GERMANY.

WWWW TRADE IS WWW NO LONGER POSSIBLE, WWWWWWWWWWWW

NOW, FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE 1939, THE AVERAGE FRENCHMAN FINDS HIMSELF FORCED TO EXIST ON MEAGE OFFICIAL RATIONS. DIFFICULTIES OF SUPPLY AND INFLATION HAVE SENT BLACK MARKET PRICES BEYOND THE AVERAGE CITIZEN'S REACH.

A SIMILAR SITUATION PREVAILED IN REGARD TO FUEL. DURING THE OCCUPATION THE RAIL SYSTEM FUNCTIONED WELL ENOUGH TO BRING AN ADEQUATE AMOUNT OF COAL INTO THE CITIES. FRENCHMEN OBTAINED ENOUGH DESPITE THE DRAIN INTO THE REICH AND SUPPLEMENTED COAL WITH WWWWW CORDWOOD.

NOW TRANSPORTATION KINKS HAMPER THE FLOW OF MINING EQUIPMENT INTO THE MINING DISTRICTS, THROTTLES SHIPMENTS OF COAL BACK TO THE FACTORIES, POWER PLANTS AND HOMES. PRIVATE CITIZENS ARE UNABLE TO HAUL IN WOOD FROM THE COUNTRYSIDE.

NORMALLY FRANCE DEPENDS ON RIVER BARGE TRANSPORT TO DELIVER MUCH OF ITS COAL FROM THE MINES TO THE CITIES. THIS YEAR RECORD RAINS HAVE CAUSED HIGH WATERS AND FLOODS ALONG MANY STREAMS. FOR THE LAST TWO WEEKS BARGES HAVE BEEN UNABLE TO OPERATE ON MANY RIVERS BECAUSE THEY ARE UNABLE TO PASS UNDER THE BRIDGES.

THE BRITISH FOUND LITTLE OPEN HOSTILITY OUTSIDE ATHENS. A BRITISH MILITARY MISSION STILL IS WITH ELAS GUERRILLAS AT LAMIA, 100 MILES NORTHWEST OF ATHENS ON THE ROAD TO SALONIKA. TWO BRITISH TRUCKS DROVE FROM SALONIKA TO ATHENS PAST ELAS STRONGHOLDS WITHOUT BEING FIRED UPON.

BRITISH DETERMINATION TO DISARM THE GUERRILLAS AS BLOODLESSLY AS POSSIBLE WAS SLOWING THE TASK OF CLEARING ATHENS. BUT YESTERDAY GROUND FORCES SUMMONED WARPLANES, WHICH STRAFFED ELAS POSITIONS AT THE FOOT OF THE ACROPOLIS AND HILLTOP POSITIONS AROUND PIRAEUS.

A GREEK MOUNTAIN BRIGADE WAS BESIEGED IN BARRACKS NORTHEAST OF ATHENS, WHERE A FORCE OF UP TO 1,200 GUERRILLAS WAS REPORTEDLY MASSING IN THE HILLS AROUND FOR AN ATTACK.

ONE OF THE FIERCEST STRUGGLES INSIDE ATHENS EDDIED AROUND THE MARKET PLACE IN THE CENTER OF TOWN, WHERE ELAS HELD OUT UNTIL LAST NIGHT, WHEN TANKS OPENED FIRE ON THEIR POSITIONS IN BARRICADED BUILDINGS AND SHOPS.

JAPANESE CAUGHT IN THE POCKET BETWEEN THE 77TH AND THE ADVANCING 7TH DIVISION FARTHER SOUTH, FOUND THEIR FIGHTING SPACE NARROWED TO THE EASTWARD, WHERE YANK TROOPS HAVE CAPTURED MAHONG, IN A MOUNTAIN PASS SIX MILES FROM THE COAST.

GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR SAID YESTERDAY THE 7TH HAD CAPTURED HIGH GROUND NORTH OF THE TABGAS RIVER, SEIZED BALOGO, A COASTAL TOWN, AND HAD PUSHED TO WITHIN FIVE MILES OF THE 77TH.

A SUBSTANTIAL NUMBER OF JAPANESE TROOPS CAUGHT BETWEEN THESE TWO DIVISIONS FACE ANNIHILATION, MACARTHUR SAID.

FAVORED BY STRONG POSITIONS IN MOUNTAIN TERRAIN, THE JAPANESE NORTH OF ORMOC ARE PUTTING UP STRONG RESISTANCE TO THE AMERICAN 32ND DIVISION'S ADVANCE SOUTHWARD FROM LEYTE RIVER.

THE YANKS HAVE THE ADDITIONAL TASK OF MOPPING UP NIPPONESE POCKETS BYPASSED WHEN THE ENEMY WAS DRIVEN FROM LEYTE VILLAGE TWO WEEKS AGO IN ONE OF THE BITTEREST BATTLES OF THE PHILIPPINES CAMPAIGN.

(ADVANCE) US PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, DEC. 9-(AP)-THE NIGHT JOE MCCABE HUNTED DOWN EIGHT ENEMY SHIPS IN A CELEBES ISLAND HARBOR HE BOMBED AND STRAFED UNTIL THE MOON WENT DOWN.

THEN HE TURNED HIS LANDING LIGHTS ON.

TIME AFTER TIME THE CATALINA FLYING BOAT SWUNG LOW OVER EIGHT SHIPS, ALL SMALL. WHEN HIS AMMUNITION AND BOMBS WERE EXHAUSTED THE CREW BEGAN TO THROW DOWN EMPTY BOXES--ANYTHING TO DISCONCERT THE ENEMY.

DEC 10 1944

THEY SANK FOUR SHIPS AND BEACHED TWO OTHERS. THEN LIKE SOME CINDERELLA OF THE SKY, THE LUMBERING "BLACK CAT" HEADED BACK FOR AN ADVANCED BASE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC BEFORE COMING OF DAYLIGHT.

THIS MISSION BY LIEUT. JOSEPH MCCABE, 27, OF 4015 GREEN ST., PHILADELPHIA, WAS ONE OF 75 HOPS BY MEMBERS OF A NAVY PBY SQUADRON WHICH FOR 34 NIGHTS BETWEEN SEPTEMBER 1 AND OCTOBER 4 PLAYED HAVOC WITH JAP SHIPPING IN THE NETHERLANDS EAST INDIES AND THE SOUTHERN PHILIPPINES.

"THE NIGHT WOULD NOT PASS WITHOUT GETTING AT LEAST ONE SHIP," SAID LIEUT. DONALD A. BINGWALL, 29, OF CRESTWOOD, TUCKAHOE, N.Y., AN AIR COMBAT INTELLIGENCE OFFICER.

THE SQUADRON IS CREDITED WITH SINKING 103,500 TONS OF ENEMY WARSHIPS AND MERCHANT VESSELS AND DAMAGING ANOTHER 53,000 TONS. THE SHIPS SUNK INCLUDED A LIGHT CRUISER, FOUR ARMED ESCORTS, A 9,000 TON SEAPLAN TENDER AND FOUR BIG FREIGHTERS OR TANKERS.

THE SAME UNIT, OPERATING FROM NEW GUINEA, EARLIER IN THE YEAR SANK 23,000 TONS AND DAMAGED 15,000 TONS.

DEC 10 1944

NO OTHER BLACK CAT SQUADRON HAS ROLLED UP SUCH A TOTAL -- 94,500 TONS SUNK AND DAMAGED.

MCCABE, LIEUT.COLIN B.SILLERS, 27, OF CALVIN, N.DAK., AND LIEUT.(JG) WILLIAM B.SUMPTER, 29, OF NATIONAL CITY, CALIF., IN A PRESS INTERVIEW RELATED SOME OF THE INDIVIDUAL ACTIONS BEHIND THESE FIGURES. TWO FELLOW PILOTS, LIEUT (JG) JOHN R.ZUBLER, 29, OF SPRINGMILLS, PA., AND LIEUT.(JG) WILLIAM R.POPE, 26, OF MT.HOURNE, N.C. ALSO ATTENDED THE CONFERENCE. THESE FIVE PATROL PLANE COMMANDERS HAVE 35 SHIPS TO THEIR CREDIT.

ON THE FIRST HOP, MCCABE WENT BARGE HUNTING ALONG THE NEW GUINEA COAST. FLYING LOW THROUGH DARKNESS IN HIS BLACK-PAINTED PLANE, HE SIGHTED A THOUSAND TON FREIGHTER.

AFTER TWO STRAFING RUNS, THE PHILADELPHIAN LET GO WITH FOUR 100-POUND BOMBS.

"I HAD ONE OF THOSE LUCKY HITS. THE BOMBS LANDED UNDER THE FANTAIL AND WHEN I WENT BACK THERE WASN'T ANY SHIP."

MCCABE TOPPED OFF THE NIGHT BY STRAFING A 3,000 TON CARGO SHIP WHICH HE LEFT DOWN BY THE STERN AND SINKING, TWO BARGES AND A SAIL-BOAT.

THE MAN WHO GOT THE CRUISER WAS SUMPTER. IT WAS WHILE MAKING THE NORTHERN CELEBES RUN, SEPTEMBER 3.

HIS LONE CATALINA CAME ACROSS A JAP LIGHT CRUISER, A DES-TROYER AND A DESTROYER ESCORT.

THE CATALINA CAME IN SO CLOSE TO THE ENEMY WARSHIPS THAT "WE COULD ALMOST COUNT THEIR TEETH." ALL EIGHT BOMBS DROPPED IN A SALVO.

DEC 10 1944

THE CRUISER SANK IN APPROXIMATELY TWENTY MINUTES, SUMPTER SAID.

U.S.PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS,PEARL HARBOR,DEC.9-(AP)-THE MIGHTIEST WARSHIP AND PLANE BLOW YET TO CRASH DOWN ON A JAPANESE BASE -- THE DEC. 7 (U.S.TIME) ATTEMPT TO ELIMINATE IWO JIMA AS AN INTERVENING MENACE TO THE B-29S NOW RAIDING TOKYO -- WAS EXPANDED BY NEW NAVY REPORTS TODAY.

A COMMUNIQUE TODAY SAID NAVY SEARCH PLANES, IN THE FACE OF INTENSE ENEMY ANTI-AIRCRAFT FIRE, FLEW LOW TO BOMB AIRSTRIP INSTALLATIONS AT IWO JIMA, WHICH IS IN THE BONIN ISLANDS AREA 750 MILES FROM TOKYO AND ABOUT AN EQUAL DISTANCE NORTH OF THE B-29 BASE ON SAIPAN.

PREVIOUSLY OFFICIAL AND SPOKESMAN REPORTS HAD TOLD OF MORE THAN 100 LIBERATOR BOMBERS AND PERHAPS AS MANY AS 70 SUPERFORTRESSES (B-29S), ESCORTED BY LONG RANGE LIGHTNINGS, POURING DOWN AN ESTIMATED 900 TONS OF BOMBS ON IWO JIMA DURING THE DAY. THE REPORTS ALSO TOLD OF A NAVAL TASK FORCE HEAVILY SHELLING THE ISLAND WITH THE AID OF AERIAL SPOTTERS.

TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE DID NOT SPECIFY WHETHER THE NAVY SEARCH PLANES PRECEDED OR FOLLOWED UP THE BOMBERS AND WARSHIPS.

(MENTION OF THE HEAVY ANTI-AIRCRAFT MIGHT INDICATE THE SEARCH PLANES WENT IN FIRST INASMUCH AS ACK ACK WAS REDUCED TO ALMOST THE VANISHING POINT DURING THE HEAVIER ASSAULTS).

ONE NAVY SEARCH PLANE WAS DAMAGED, THE COMMUNIQUE SAID. ALL RETURNED SAFELY.

THE COMMUNIQUE ALSO REPORTED RAIDS DEC. 7 ON PAGAN AND ROTA, ENEMY BASES IN THE MARIANAS CLOSE TO SAIPAN.

AT THE B-29 BASE ON SAIPAN, LT.GEN.MILLARD F.HARMON, COMMANDER OF THE ARMY AIR FORCES IN THE PACIFIC OCEAN AREAS, SAID THE IWO JIMA ATTACK WAS JUST A CURTAIN RAISER AND THAT ALTHOUGH THE RESULTS APPEARED GOOD "WE DEFINITELY ARE NOT HAPPY ABOUT THE OVERALL RESULT" BECAUSE THE WEATHER PROVED A HANDICAP.

"ROUGHLY, 20 PER CENT OF THE BOMBS LANDED IN THE TARGET AREA," HE SAID. "BUT THAT DOESN'T MEAN THAT THE OTHER 80 PER CENT DIDN'T DO DAMAGE, BECAUSE IWO IS PRETTY DENSELY COVERED WITH INSTALLATIONS OF ALL KINDS.

"THE RESULTS APPEARED GOOD DESPITE A THICK CLOUD COVER. THE BEST PART IS THAT THE ATTACK COST NOTHING EXCEPT TIME, FUEL AND THE BOMBS USED. WE LOST NO AIRCRAFT OR PERSONNEL AND NONE OF THE PLANES WAS DAMAGED."

HARMON DISCLOSED THAT THE ARMY'S FORWARD AIR COMMAND SETUP IN THE PACIFIC, COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.WILLIS H.HALE, HAS BEEN REPLACED BY A NEW TASK FORCE CALLED "COMSTRATAIR." THE ABBREVIATION MEANS COMMAND STRATEGICAL AIR FORCES.

THE NEW ORGANIZATION IS COMMANDED BY HARMON AND EMBRACES AL LAND-BASED UNITS IN THIS AREA THAT CAN BE USED FOR LONG-RANGE OFFENSIVE OPERATIONS. THESE INCLUDE MEDIUM BOMBERS AND LONG-RANGE FIGHTERS.

HARMON SAID HALE HAS RETURNED TO THE UNITED STATES,BUT WILL BE REASSIGNED IN THE NEW ORGANIZATION WHEN HE RETURNS TO THE MARIANAS.

WHEN HARMON IS ABSENT FROM THE MARIANAS, DOUGLASS WILL SERVE TEMPORARILY AS DEPUTY COMMANDER OF COMSTRATAIR.

GUAM, NOV. 20-(DELAYED)-(AP)-JAPANESE STRONGPOINTS IN THE MOUNTAINS NEVER SHOULD HAVE BEEN DESIGNATED AS "CAVES"--INSTEAD, THEY ARE UNDERGROUND FORTS.

PARTLY NATURAL INFORMATION, PARTLY HEWN BY HAND, THE "CAVES" IN SOME INSTANCES EXTEND FOR MILES THROUGH THE CORAL AND LIMESTONE FORMATIONS.

ONE ON THIS FORMER AMERICAN ISLAND REGAINED ONLY RECENTLY AFTER IT HAD BEEN CAPTURED BY THE JAPANESE IN THE EARLY DAYS OF THE WAR, IS SO LARGE THAT ITS JAPANESE OCCIPANTS HAD TABLE TENNIS EQUIPMENT NEAR THE HEADQUARTERS ROOM.

BUT LET'S VISIT A "CAVE":

THE ENTRANCE IS NARROW AND LOW. STOOPING, SLIPPING AND SLIDING DOWN CRUSHED CORAL, WE REACH A MAIN PASSAGEWAY.

THERE IS ONLY A GHOSTLY GLOW FROM THE ENTRANCE--TORN BY AMERICAN GUNFIRE. BATTERED EQUIPMENT LITTERS THE FLOOR, SMOKE STAINS COVER THE WALLS AND VAULTED CEILING.

WE MOVE SLOWLY FORWARD. THE LIGHT FADES. THERE ARE NO FLASHLIGHTS, SO POCKET LIGHTERS ARE USED FOR MEAGER ILLUMINATION.

"BE CAREFUL," CALLS A YOUNG MARINE WHO EARLIER HAD SAID, "I DON'T WANT TO GO IN THERE ALONE, BUT I'LL GO WITH ANYBODY ELSE FOR COMPANY."

WE HOLD THE FLICKERING LIGHTERS HIGH AND STEP CAREFULLY.

ON AND ON THE PASSAGEWAY LEADS. THERE ISN'T EVEN A GLOW FROM THE ENTRANCE NOW. BROKEN GUNS, TIN MESS KITS, PAPERS, SHATTERED CHAIRS, DESKS, EQUIPMENT OF ALL TYPES COVER THE "CAVE'S" FLOOR.

ON ALL SIDES OTHER PASSAGEWAYS BRANCH OFF INTO THE MOUNTAIN. POCKET LIGHTERS JUST AREN'T EFFICIENT ENOUGH FOR EXPLORATION OF A SIDE PASSAGE.

THERE IS A SHARP TURN TO THE RIGHT. AT WHAT HAD BEEN AN ENEMY COMMAND POST THERE IS A BATTERED DESK AGAINST THE WALL.

D107WX

THE PASSAGE CONTINUES TO CURVE TO THE RIGHT. STORED ONLY A FEW FEET FROM THE COMMAND POST DESK--JUST AROUND A CORNER--IS A GIANT BOMB. POSSIBLY IT WAS INTENDED FOR DEMOLITION OF THE "CAVE" AND MARINES STRUCK TOO QUICKLY FOR IT TO BE EXPLODED.

WE CRAWL CAREFULY AROUND THE BOMB.

ON AND ON THE PASSAGE CONTINUES. SOMEONE FINALLY CALLS "THERE'S LIGHT." WE CONTINUE, PICKING OUR WAY THROUGH THE LITTER.

THE LIGHT GROWS BRIGHTER. THE PASSAGEWAY, AFTER REACHING DEEP INTO THE MOUNTAIN, HAS CURVED AROUND. WE STEP THROUGH AN ENTRY. WE ARE BACK WHERE WE STARTED AT THE BEGINNING OF THE PASSAGEWAY.

THEY CERTAINLY ARE MORE THAN CAVES.

UNDATED JAPANESE LEYTE PLIGHT
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RADIO TOKYO TODAY TOLD THE JAPANESE PEOPLE THAT THE FIGHTING IN THE PHILIPPINES REPRESENTED "THE DECISIVE BATTLE IN WHICH WE CANNOT WITHDRAW EVEN A SINGLE STEP FOR WE HAVE BURNED OUR BRIDGES BEHIND US."

THE LEYTE BATTLE, TOKYO SAID, "IS A GREAT DECISIVE BATTLE ON WHICH THE LIFE OF THE GEA (GREATER EAST ASIA) WAR DEPENDS, FOR IT DECIDES WHETHER WE LOSE OUR SEA ROUTES TO OUR SOUTHERN REGIONS. X X X

"AIR FORCE STRENGTH AND SUPPLY MAINTENANCE ARE PARTICULARLY IMPORTANT FOR THEY DECIDE THE SITUATION. X X X THE SUPPLY OF PLANES AND AMMUNITION, OF COURSE, HAVE ALL CHANGED FAVORABLY FOR US."

TOKYO SAID ON LEYTE "FIERCE BATTLES, IN WHICH ONE CANNOT PAUSE EVEN FOR A BREATH, ARE RAGING EVERY MOMENT AND EVERY MINUTE REGARDLESS OF NIGHT OR DAY." IT ADDED THAT ORMOC PORT, ON THE WEST COAST, "HAS BEEN REDUCED TO ASHES BY THE BOMBARDMENT OF ENEMY PLANES AND LONG-DISTANCE GUNS."

DEC 10 1944

THE BROADCAST, RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION PICTURED JAPANESE OFFICERS AND SOLDIERS ON LEYTE AS LIVING A TOUGH LIFE, AT TIMES GOING WITHOUT FOOD FOR TWO DAYS. IT ADDED WOUNDED NIPPON SOLDIERS WERE IN A BAMBOO FOREST "WITH NO ROOF TO KEEP RAIN AND DEW AWAY FROM THEM."

TOKYO REPORTED THAT "IT APPEARS THE ENEMY IS EMPLOYING A BRITISH FLEET IN LEYTE OPERATIONS. REGULAR BRITISH SOLDIERS FROM THE BRITISH HOMELAND AND REGULAR AUSTRALIAN SOLDIERS ARE APPARENTLY NOT SUFFICIENT FOR THE ENEMY."

77th Captures Ormoc, Traps Foe on Leyte; 1st Army Drives a Mile in Roer Snowstorm

DEC 11 1944

ENEMY CORNERED IN DEATH POCKET BY 3 U.S. COLUMNS

MacArthur Sees Heavy Fighting Ahead Before Campaign Is Ended.

THOUSANDS CORNERED

Doughboys Capture Stronghold After Surprise Landings on West Coast.

Scripps

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, PHILIPPINES, Monday, Dec. 11—(AP) Four days after the American 77th division surprised the Japanses with swift landings on the west coast of Leyte island, these battle-hardened veterans smashed through strong resistance yesterday to seize Ormoc, vital supply port.

The capture came in mid-afternoon after an attack launched in the early morning from the vicinity of Camp Downes, on the southern outskirts of Ormoc.

Heavy Fighting Ahead

While the town was a Japanese reinforcement point for the entire Ormoc corridor and its loss represents a heavy blow to the enemy, it does not mean the Leyte campaign is concluded. There is still much heavy fighting to be done before Japanese forces both south and north of Ormoc are wiped out.

There have been no recent estimates of the strength of the Japanese forces, but after reinforcement moves they were estimated at "many thousand."

Gen. Douglas MacAarthur described the force trapped between the 7th and 77th divisions as "many thousand strong."

Three forces were converging on the trapped Japanese. The 77th was pushing southward and expected momentarily to join with the 7th moving relentlessly northward. A third force already had joined with the 7th after breaking through to the coast from the eastern side of the island.

After destruction of the enemy force, Gen. MacArthur said, "We will be in a position to take the northern segment of the Yamashita line in reverse." Northern fighting is on a line north from Ormoc to positions a short distance south of Limon.

Associated Press Correspondent Al Dopkins reported that the Japanese appeared to be retreating from the 7th division, but are expected to make a final stand. General MacArthur said this force will be unable to extricate itself from the American trap.

U. S. Planes Hit Visayas

American warplanes again ranged widely. Liberators, Lightnings and Corsairs bombed the Visayas, and three small freighters were damage off Luzon.

American fighter planes dropped 268 tons of bombs on runways and other airdrome installations at Cebu, Negros, Panay and Masbate islands in the Central Philippines.

MacArthur said the Seventh division pushing up from the south was less than a mile from a junction with the 77th in Ormoc. Yanks moving westward from Burauen have made contact with the Seventh near Albuera.

"Trapped and compressed into a narrow pocket by these three Allied columns," the communique said, "the enemy's forces in the southern segment of the Yamashita line, although many thousands strong, are unable to extricate themselves.

"They are being destroyed with little opportunity for effective retaliation."

MacArthur said American fighter planes were active in combat over Leyte.

Seventh Overruns Abuera

The Seventh overran the ruined town of Abuera, after breaking stiff rearguard resistance and crossing the rain-swollen Calingatngan and Sibugay rivers.

Al Dopking, Associated Press correspondent with the Seventh, said the Japanese were definitely on the retreat toward the north where they may be forming for a death stand.

The Japanese breaking point in the Seventh's advance came when the American veterans of Attu and Kwajalein scaled Hill 606 overlooking the valley beyond. Until then the enemy had been fighting a skilful delaying action in the bamboo jungles.

From the top of the hill, Dopking said, the devastation at Ormoc could plainly be seen. The town, once the main supply port for the Japanese on west Leyte, has been heavily hit by American aircraft and artillery.

COLONELS UNLOAD CARGO

Help Troops to Speed Supplies to Forces in Ormoc Bay

ABOARD A LANDING SHIP off Ormoc, Dec. 9 (Delayed) (AP)—Three colonels shouldered heavy crates, helping a working party to get the urgently needed material onto the beach here before Japanese planes could attack.

The colonels—all West Pointers—were Frank H. Britton and William Ryder of St. Louis and Forrest Cookson of Troy, Ohio.

As they pulled and puffed along with the GI's, a sailor on duty at a gun station remarked to a buddy:

"This is sure some Army. We have colonels and corporals working cargo."

4 TOWNS SEIZED BY FIRST ARMY IN SMASHING ATTACK

Doughboys Advance in Saar Assault, Repulse Nazi Counter-Blows.

BATTLE IN HAGUENAU

Bombers Blast Enemy Rail Lines in Support of New Offensive.

Bellmer

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(AP) Doughboys of the U. S. First Army opened a vicious drive against the enemy's last footholds west of the Roer river at dawn today and by nightfall had gained nearly a mile, captured four towns and fought into three others.

Their concerted blows rained down along a 10-mile, snow-covered front after 500 medium bombers and fighterbombers and hundreds of big guns had pulverized enemy positions in their path.

Nazi Attacks Repulsed

The First's biggest attack in a week was loosed as the U. S. Third Army beat off four attacks against its Saar bridgeheads and sent its 26th division to within three miles of the Saar basin on the south after overrunning Gros Rederching, southeast of virtually liberated Sarreguemines, in a one-mile advance.

The U. S. Seventh Army, keeping up the terrific pressure on Germany from the south, fought house-to-house into Haguenau, most important enemy base left in northern Alsace, after breaking through bunkers emplaced along railway tracks on the southwest.

Nearly 2,000 heavy bombers and fighters, daring the intermittent snow and temperatures as low as 50 degrees below zero, backed the First Army attack with smashing blows on crowded rail lines and other targets in the Rhineland.

In southern Alsace, the French First army captured the enemy stronghold of Thann, 10 miles northwest of Mulhouse, as it pressed eastward against an enemy withdrawing across the Rhine.

Floods slowed American and French forces trying to close the gap between them north and south of German-held Colmar, but the First tactical air force poured 300 tons of bombs on the Rhine rail bridge at Neuf-Brisach, one of the last escape spans for the enemy east of Colmar.

Patrols felt out enemy positions on the U. S. Ninth Army front on the Roer north of the First Army, and along the British Second and Canadian First army fronts in eastern Holland.

Renewed thrusts were indicated by air activity. Some 500 sorties were flown by Second Tactical air force fighterbombers and many of them blasted at dams and canal locks with the announced purpose of creating floods to block enemy retreat.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army jumped off in six inches of snow, and as more fell intermittently Yanks bent back the enemy's whole Roer river line before the main fortress of Duren. At some places the Americans were but a few hundred yards from the river.

So effective was the preliminary barrage, which opened before dawn, that on some sectors tanks and infantry were driving east against little or no enemy artillery fire.

The American assault lines stretched from Schophoven, six miles northwest of Duren, to Schafberg, five miles southwest of Duren. Latest accounts presented this picture of the attack from north to south:

Hodges troops were within 500 yards of Schophoven, almost on the Roer, and were fighting across open, rolling country.

One mile south they entered the outskirts of Pier, less than a mile from the Roer. One unit fought into the center of the town, ran into heavy fire, and withdrew to permit artillery to pound the positions.

Another force moved a half-mile out of Lucherberg, a mile south of Pier, and took vital high ground in concert with other troops just to the south who moved nearly a mile out of Luchem toward Echtz, two and a half miles northwest of Duren.

Biggest gains were rolled up by a tank-paced attack which overran Geich and Obergeich, three and a half miles west and slightly north of Duren and within two and a half miles of the Roer.

Hodges' forces fought into the bitterly-defended forest town of Merode, three and a half miles west of Duren, where two "lost" companies of the First division had been cut off but refused to surrender.

First Captures Gey

They captured Gey, a village four miles southwest of Duren, overwhelmed Strass, 1,000 yards southeast, and pressed into Schafberg, another 1,000 yards to the south.

(A Berlin military commentator called this a "large-scale attack" and declared that smoke screens shrouded the U. S. Ninth army front to the north along the Roer's west bank indicated a drive there was imminent).

Gey, a village four miles southwest of the Roer citadel of Duren which had been converted into a strongpoint, was captured three hours after the battle began a front dispatch said. Other forces fought into the western section of Schafberg, a mile to the southeast. Light snow was falling.

Skies cleared just before mid-day and fighterbombers shot into action, blasting enemy front-line targets, including Schophoven, where 10 German tanks had concentrated.

Enemy attempts to retake high ground overlooking the Roer in the area of Bergstein, seven miles southwest of Duren, were beaten back.

In the battle for Germany's Saar basin, Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third army threw back four tank-supported counterattacks and took 1,150 prisoners.

The heaviest fighting was raging inside the Siegfried Line fortifications around the fortified city of Dillingen, three miles north of Saarlautern. A fifth of Dillingen was in American hands. Dillingen, a town of 15,000 to 20,000, was a maze of pillboxes and fortress cellars. The railroad station in Saarlautern was captured, the Germans were cleared from a hotel strongpoint, and nine pillboxes inside the city were knocked out.

Enemy Hits Back

On the lower part of the Third army front, the Germans hurled 20 tanks and tank-riding infantry into two assaults aimed at the 35th division's bridgeheads near Sarreinsming and Wittring, two and five miles southeast of Sarreguemines. Two enemy tanks were destroyed.

Biggest Patton gains were recorded near Rohrbach, 10 miles southeast of Sarreguemines, where the Americans moved on a mile and a half.

In Saareguemines, troops of the German 17th SS Panzer division were donning civilian clothes and engaging in street sniping. Some were caught and presumably summarily dealt with, since under military law they are subject to trial and execution.

Just north of Sarreguemines, patrols were stabbing into Neunkirch, less than a half mile from the Saar border, but no further progress was reported in the assault on Saarbrucken, first city and capital of the basin.

While the Third was being slowed in its push against the Siegfried defenses, the Seventh army of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch kept up the pressure eastward all the way to the Rhine.

Hydra-Like Forts Blast Americans at Saar River

When One Is Flattened Others Open Fire, Officer Says

WITH THE AMERICAN 90TH DIVISION ON THE SAAR RIVER FRONT, Dec. 10 (AP).—The monster of Greek mythology (Hydra), which sprouted two heads when one was cut off, has almost been created by the Germans in the Westwall, the toughest obstacle struck by the American 3d Army since it started churning across France last summer.

"You never are out of range of from one to three of these little forts, and as fast as you knock out one of these over-sized pillboxes others start shooting at you," one officer said.

EISENHOWER EXPLAINS AMMUNITION SHORTAGE

PARIS, Dec. 10.—(AP) Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today told members of the Military Affairs committee of the U. S. House of Representatives that the current shell shortage was due to fluctuating conditions of warfare and weather which had upset estimates of ammunition needs.

Eisenhower said the blame could not be placed in any one quarter and added that the main point was to deliver more shells in the shortest possible time.

The Supreme Allied commander also discussed the French military position with the congressional group, saying France will share with other Allied nations in the eventual occupation of the Reich.

The congressmen visited Eisenhower at his headquarters and brought him a number of Christmas presents, including a bottle of bourbon whiskey—which he sent to a hospital.

REDS ADVANCE ON 2 FRONTS

Take Town North Of Budapest And Push To Slovak Border

London, Monday, Dec. 11 (AP)—A Red Army battered along the Danube's east bank yesterday to within seven miles north of Budapest, as other Russian columns far to the north reached the central Slovakian border on a front of at least 11 miles.

Soviet tanks and infantry, overcoming stiff German resistance bolstered by fresh armor and motorized SS (Elite Guard) divisions, smashed 6 miles from Vacs and captured Alsogod in the closest approach to Budapest from the north.

Frontier Junction Taken

Along the Slovak frontier the Russians advanced more than 9 miles from Balassagyarmat and captured the road junction of Dregelypalank, on the Slovak frontier.

Red Army infantry pressed two German companies against the Ipoly River that runs along the frontier and wiped them out in an outflanking maneuver, said a supplement to the Soviet communique.

More than 40 places fell yesterday to Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine Army north and northeast of Budapest. From December 5 to yesterday his forces captured 5,600 prisoners.

Move To Envelop Capital

The drive that resulted in the capture of Alsogod was part of an enveloping move on Budapest. Only about a 35-mile arc on the western side of the city remained to be closed. On the south the Russians already were within five miles of the capital and within three miles on the east.

The Germans disclosed the Russians had thrust up the west bank of the Danube southwest of the capital to Erd, less than five miles southwest from its outskirts.

The Germans said Erd was recaptured, but the Russians have never claimed it.

Moscow front dispatches expressed belief Soviet [illegible] troops already were battling inside the gates of Budapest, striking the blows that will knock Hungary out of the war and pave the way for an invasion of Germany through Austria.

Hungary's puppet government had already fled to the Austrian frontier town of Sopron, 112 miles west of Budapest, leaving the city to be defended by the Germans and those Hungarians with enough heart left to put up a fight.

A late report by Col. Ernst Von Hammer, German news agency military expert, disclosed the Russians had thrust up the west side of the Danube to Erd, eight miles beyond captured Ercsi and less than five miles southwest of the capital's outskirts. He said Erd was recaptured by the Germans. The Russians have not claimed the town.

Farther southwest of Budapest the Nazis claimed they had regained the initiative between Lake Balaton and the Drava river frontier with Yugoslavia, recapturing Kethely and Marcali near the lake's lower tip.

A German war reporter's description of the situation inside Budapest said artillery blasts were rattling windows, and air raid sirens were howling hourly, chasing citizens to shelters.

Streets along the Danube river were prickly with gun positions and anti-tank barriers, the report added. Russian siege guns were bucking and roaring within sight of the city's tall buildings and domed turrets.

A front dispatch in the Moscow newspaper Izvestia said entire Hungarian units had been surrendering to the Russians without firing a shot, and that special Hungarian military police had failed to halt a wave of desertions.

Malinovsky's recent crossing of the Danube at Ercsi, thirteen miles southwest of Budapest, and his linking with Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's troops at Velencze Lake, twenty-two miles southwest of the capital, was made under cover of darkness, Moscow disclosed.

Red Army men carried one-ton pontoons about a mile to the river's east bank and set out across the wide, murky stream. A German searchlight discovered the miniature fleet midway in the river, and hundreds of Russian guns immediately opened a barrage.

By daylight the Russian forces had driven a wedge into log-buttressed German trenches and pillboxes lining the river's west bank.

8TH BOMBS TRAFFIC AT COBLENZ, BINGEN

U.S. 'Heavies' Blast Congested Rail Yards Along Rhine in Extremely Cold Weather

LUFTWAFFE AGAIN WARY

Planes From Italy Hit Skoda Works at Pilsen—Mosquitos Stab at Berlin by Night

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Nearly 1,200 American warplanes saturated the congested rail yards of Coblenz and Bingen on the Rhine today with 1,500 tons of explosives.

Bomb bays had to be cracked open by hand after freezing shut in 50-degree below zero weather, crewmen from the more than 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators that made the attacks reported.

For the second successive day the fleets of Britain-based planes of the United States Eighth Air Force hit vital military targets in the Reich without being molested by the Luftwaffe or encountering much flak. Three of our "heavies" were reported missing and one of the more than 650 Mustang and Thunderbolt escorts failed to come back.

Despite hazardous flying conditions the Eighth Air Force's losses in yesterday's attack on Stuttgart and the day's double blow at Coblenz and Bingen were seven bombers and one fighter missing out of about 2,000 planes.

Two Nazi Jet Planes Sighted

The only Nazi aircraft sighted during the attack were one jet-propelled Messerschmitt 262 yesterday, which was shot down, and two more today that kept clear of the American formations.

[The Luftwaffe was said to be forming new jet squadrons and training pilots as rapidly as possible, according to a United Press dispatch. It was estimated that the Germans might soon have a first-line strength of at least 500 jet planes.]

Coblenz and Bingen, thirty miles to the south, are river and rail transportation junctions, vital for the enemy's lateral movement of supplies in the rear of the battle lines as well as for direct distribution of equipment to the front.

Heavy rolling clouds screened the targets and bombs were dropped by instrument.

Following up Saturday's daylight attacks on the Stuttgart rail yards by the Eighth Air Force and on German oil and rail targets by Italy-based heavyweights of the Fifteenth Air Force, a formation of Mosquitos of the Royal Air Force bombed Berlin last night—handing the Nazi capital its 185th attack of the war.

RAF Typhoons scored direct hits with 1,000-pound bombs on a dam in the Netherlands twelve miles northwest of Nijmegen.

Other Typhoons hurled twenty-four rockets into a suspected German headquarters in the Reichwald Forest east of Nijmegen and other RAF planes shot up a railway yard at Borhen, where the Germans are marshaling white-painted cars. Six cars were destroyed and fifteen damaged by the RAF pilots.

French and American crews of Marauders operating from bases in France claimed hits today on the 1,000-foot railroad bridge over the Rhine at Neuf-Brisach, east of Colmar. Germans evacuating the Colmar area have been using this bridge at night and under smoke screens in daylight.

Nearly 1,000 sorties were flown by the continental-based United States 9th Air Force and the 1st and 2d Tactical Air Forces, with a loss of six planes. The three forces hit enemy targets in close support of the United States 3d and 9th Army drives.

Mosquitos Bomb Berlin

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP).—A force of Mosquitos bombed Berlin last night, handing the Nazi capital its 185th raid of the war.

R. A. F. Typhoons scored direct hits with 1,000-pound bombs on a dam twelve miles northeast of Nijmegen.

FLYING BOMBS FIRED AT

British Guns Are Believed to Have Hit Missiles

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Anti-aircraft guns lifted a heavy barrage tonight as flying bombs came in from the east coast. Several of the missiles were believed to have been hit.

FLAK-CRIPPLED FLIER CARRIES OUT HIS TASK

A UNITED STATES EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER STATION, in England, Dec. 10 (AP)—His right arm nearly severed recently by flak over Germany, Lieut. Frederic T. Kiessel of Los Angeles, a Flying Fortress bombardier, regained consciousness in time to aim his bombs at the target. Lieut. Kiessel now is in a hospital recuperating. His arm had to be amputated.

While on a bombing mission over Ludwigshafen, Lieutenant Kiessel's ship was hit by flak, which knocked out two engines and shattered the nose as he was bending over his equipment, ready to drop the bomb load. He was thrown into a corner, his arm severely cut and his hip stinging from another piece of shrapnel.

Lieut. Benjamin Starr, also of Los Angeles, grasped the emergency bomb release to dump the load, but Lieutenant Kiessel regained consciousness and dragged himself back to his station to do his job.

The crippled bomber dropped behind the formation after having left the target and was pounced on by German planes. The engineer, whose guns had been hit by flak, was preparing to man the chin turret guns, ordinarily operated by the bombardier, when Lieutenant Kiessel raised himself from the floor and directed the firing until the fighters had been dispersed.

4 Escaped German Prisoners Are Recaptured In Bomber

Leigh, Lancaster, England, Dec. 10 (AP)—Four German prisoners of war who escaped from a camp near here last night sneaked into an American air force base, climbed into a Marauder bomber and had started its engines for an escape flight to Germany before they were overpowered and captured by a sentry.

The noise of the engines and the gleam of a match in the darkened nose of the bomber attracted the sentry, Private Arthur Seher, a military policeman from Putnam, Okla., as he was walking his beat.

Experimenting With Controls

He approached the plane quietly in the dark and when he saw a pair of feet jutting from the bomb-bay, he challenged the man. The other three were experimenting with the controls by the light of a match.

"I pulled my gun and ordered them out," Seher said.

After a short struggle with the trio, who were armed with a commando knife and a kitchen fork, he marched them off for delivery to British authorities.

Wore British Trousers

The prisoners were wearing British trousers and German uniform jackets. Three of them claimed to be flyers.

"When I asked them in my broken German what they were trying to do," Seher related, "one told me they were trying to get back to Germany for Christmas."

Seher today received commendation from the commanding general of the air service command depot to which he is attached.

BRITAIN FORMS PACIFIC FLEET

Admiral Fraser To Command New Force In War On Japan

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Britain now has two naval fleets to hurl against the Japanese in the Far East—one in the Pacific and the other in the Indian Ocean.

These first major steps to implement Prime Minister Churchill's promise that Britain would send the greatest possible forces to the Orient to help defeat Japan were disclosed tonight when the Admiralty announced appointment of the men who are to command the new fleets.

New Pacific Forces

The new forces are:

The British Pacific Fleet, an entirely new command under Admiral Sir Bruce A. Fraser, a famous gunnery expert who becomes its commander in chief to lead it into battle in conjunction with the United States Pacific fleets.

The fleet of the East Indies station under Vice Admiral Sir Arthur J. Power.

Fraser since August has been commander in chief of the Eastern Fleet and Power his second in command. Under the new division Power becomes commander in chief of the East Indies station, a command which lapsed when the Japanese overran the Malayan peninsula and captured Singapore.

To Serve Under Nimitz

The Admiralty declined to describe the precise limits of Fraser's new command, but informed quarters believed his fleet would operate in any section of the Pacific where its power was needed.

It was believed there would be no appointment of a supreme Allied commander responsible to the combined chiefs of staff, but that Fraser's fleet would operate under command of Admiral Chester Nimitz in the central Pacific and under Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Southwest Pacific, as strategy demands.

The East Indies station command would provide floating power to support Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's advance into lower Burma and Malaya, or to slash at Japanese sea communications anywhere between Rangoon and Rabaul.

Conqueror Of Scharnhorst

Fraser, junior to Nimitz as an admiral by about three years, is known to Britons as the man who sank the Scharnhorst, having been in command of the British Home Fleet when it sank the German raider off Norway last December.

The 55-year-old Fraser is regarded as one of the Royal Navy's greatest gunners.

Rear-Admiral C. S. Daniel, who won the D. S. O. for anti-submarine work early in the war, has been made vice-admiral and placed in charge of administration of the British Pacific Fleet.

"The British Pacific Fleet will operate in any part of the Pacific where the situation requires," an Admiralty spokesman said.

MacMillan Returning To Mediterranean Post

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Harold MacMillan, British resident Minister for the central Mediterranean who had been in London for consultations with the Government, has rushed back to the Mediterranean and it was believed tonight in informed quarters that he would proceed at once to Athens to act in the Greek civil war.

Various speakers in the House of Commons debate on Greece Friday had demanded that Prime Minister Winston Churchill send to Athens as "trouble shooter" a Cabinet Minister with full responsibility to intervene for peace.

Morton Downey in Europe

LONDON, Dec. 10 (AP)—Morton Downey, singer, has arrived in the European theatre of operations to entertain troops.

2 NAZI SHIPS ATTACKED

LONDON, Dec. 10—(AP) British carrier-borne aircraft attacked and left afire two small enemy supply ships and damaged two cargo barges in successful sweeps into Norwegian coastal waters, the Admiralty announced today.

Communist Warns Churchill

BIRMINGHAM, England, Dec. 10 (AP)—R. Palme Dutt, vice chairman of the Communist party, denouncing Britain's policy of intervention in Greece, told an audience today that Prime Minister Churchill should be cautioned that he had been accepted as a war leader "and never for his private political views and notorious sympathies to reaction."

Subasic Returns To London

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—Prime Minister Ivan Subasic, of Yugoslavia, returned to London today after consultations with Marshal Tito and talks in Moscow with Soviet authorities.

Channel Island Relief May Await War's End

London, Dec. 10 (AP)—The liberation of Britain's own Channel islands must wait perhaps until the end of the war while British troops fight elsewhere, it was reported here today.

They're a part of Britain—the islands of Guernsey, Jersey, Alderney and Sark, nestled a few miles off the Cherbourg peninsula—but their military importance is considered insufficient to divert a liberating force from the main task of invading Germany.

It is estimated the German garrison on the islands numbers about 15,000. To attack them with guns and bombs would mean casualties among the 65,000 Britons who remain there.

No Soap, No Medicine

Herbert Hopgood, a secretary of the Channel Islands Refugee Association, declared today that starvation and lack of medical supplies under German rule threaten as great a loss of life as bombs and shells might cause.

There is no clothing available for replacements and no fuel but wood. There is no soap, no tea, no medicines, no flour. Fortnightly rations include two ounces of meat while supplies last, five pounds of potatoes, and nine pounds of bread made with sea water.

Hopgood said there have been epidemics of diphtheria, scarlet fever and influenza.

French High Court Rejects Treason Verdict

Paris, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Appellate Court at Lyon today refused to uphold the conviction and death sentence meted out by a collaboration court to Angelo Angeli, Vichy regional prefect, and ordered a new trial—the first time that this has occurred since the purge trials were begun in France.

Former Mayor Marrant of Sollies-Pont in southern France was condemned to death on a collaborationist charge in a trial at Toulon.

6 MAIN ISSUES IN BELGIAN ROW

Resistance Leader Lists Counts Against Pierlot

By ROBERT EUNSON

Brussels, Dec. 10 (AP)—A former Brussels newspaper reporter who heads the resistance movement in Belgium is challenging the leadership of Prime Minister Hubert Pierlot, on six main issues.

Chief of these is his charge that the Government has been ineffective in dealing with collaborators and even is friendly to them.

Forty-year-old Fernand Demany, who founded and led the front of resistance through the years of German occupation, eluded the Gestapo for four years and was once saved from capture and execution by his 9-year-old daughter, told me he does not wish to be Prime Minister himself.

Demany Not Communist

I found Demany in an old building four blocks from Parliament. Uniformed, but unarmed, guards ushered me to a reception room past walls bearing placards announcing meetings of the Communist party.

"But Monsieur Demany, he is not Communistic," Mlle. Van Foren, whispered while the guards gave us the once over and a blond girl in khaki slacks and battle jacket strode through the room.

"He is practically the only one of them that isn't," she paused, "shall we say pink?"

Covered Chicago World Fair

Smallish, dapper, Demany met us at the door and led us to chairs in his spacious, ancient office.

He explained that he covered the world's fair in Chicago for his newspaper and could speak English with effort but preferred talking through an interpreter.

Demany recently resigned as Minister without portolio when demonstrators demanded resignation of the government Pierlot brought from exile in London and clashed with police in a gun battle on the streets.

Disputes With Pierlot

He outlined these disputes with Pierlot's Government.

1. The Prime Minister did not integrate the resistance forces into the new Belgian Army. This young army had been more active in resisting the Germans than any in other occupied countries, Demany said, and it desired to fight on as a unit.

2. Many economic collaborators are still at large while most of the ones Pierlot's Government has arrested have been of little importance.

[About 100,000 arrests have been made and three have been put to death.]

3. "We should fight in an atmosphere of confidence in our leaders." Demany said. "Instead Pierlot's Government has become friendly toward many who opposed ours resisting the Germans."

Would Confiscate New Factories

4. Several important collaborators are working for the Allies because they have newer equipment given them by the Germans than have the men who refused to collaborate and let their machinery get outdated. Demany says he would requisition these newer factories and give the jobs to those who took part in resistance.

5. The resistance in Belgium opposed any government coming back from exile to take over a country in which resistance members lived and fought during the occupation.

6. In 1940 the Government had almost capitulated. "The resistance we created inside our country was often against the wishes of the Government in exile," Demany said.

Created Army In 1942

Demany created the resistance army in April, 1942, and was forced to hide from the Gestapo which was hot on his trail for editing a tiny mimeographed newspaper Resistance.

This clandestine newspaper was founded in February, 1942. At first he printed it at home but later moved his office to the Museum, Belgium's arcade built in 1880 to celebrate 50 years of Belgian liberty.

Demany said the Museum keeper helped publish anti-German periodicals. Resistance first had a circulation of 500, but Demany's present paper, Front goes to 50,000 readers.

Saved By Little Daughter

Three times before he moved Demany was almost captured by Gestapo agents. A fourth time they picked up his little girl en route from school and tried to make her tell where her daddy was hiding. The little patriot knew, but fearlessly replied, "Messieurs, Demany is in London where you Germans can't get him."

Through underground arrangements the BBC announced later that he was safe in England. His wife and daughter later joined him in the Belgian underground.

Demany insisted he does not want to be Prime Minister.

"You know," he said, "M. Pierlot's big watch and the big clocks in the Chamber and in the Senate stopped May 10, 1940. They have never been started since.

"I favor a coalition government until the Germans are beaten and then let the people decide."

German Faenza Lines Are Bombed

Rome, Dec. 10 (AP)—Five waves of United States Mitchell bombers dropped thousands of fragmentation bombs today on German lines around Faenza, where British 8th Army men have fought off savage counterattacks seeking to break the ring slowly being forged around the Po highway city.

Hundreds of medium and fighter-bombers pounded enemy lines, hit a barracks on Bologna's outskirts, and again attempted to close the Brenner Pass route, through which "a heavy flow of supplies" again is rolling from Germany to support Nazi soldiers in Italy.

The Germans used tanks in their assaults upon the 8th Army's new Lamone River bridgehead flanking Faenza, strong point on the Bologna highway, but all attacks were beaten back, Allied headquarters announced.

Germans Claim Successes

Heavy fighting fluctuated near the village of Celle, 2 miles due west of Faenza, and in the bridgehead sector near San Prospero, 1½ miles southwest of Faenza.

[The German high command communiqué declared counterattacking Nazi tanks had thrown the British from most of the ground the 8th had won in five big attacks. The bulletin asserted the British were "thrown back beyond the Lamone sector on the western ridge of Faenza"—an apparent claim that the river bridgehead had been eliminated.]

A British unit pierced enemy defenses and reached a road junction 800 yards below Celle. Armored counterattacks, however, forced a withdrawal to original positions 200 yards farther south.

Battlefield A Quagmire

Heavy rains made the battlefield a quagmire as a spearhead from the Lamone bridgehead force tried unsuccessfully to advance near San Prospero. A counterblow shoved the British back at one point, but they ended the day with a net gain of 500 yards.

Faenza, 29 miles southeast of Bologna on Highway 9, is slowly being flanked. Northeast of the town, where the 8th Army holds a long stretch of the flooded Lamone River's east bank, patrols found Germans strongly entrenched on the high west bank.

Gales and heavy rain kept activity on the 5th Army front in the mountains south and southeast of Bologna to a minimum.

15th Air Force Also Meets "Jets"

ROME, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Germans sent up at least eight of their new jet-propelled fighters in vain efforts yesterday to head off United States Fifteenth Air Force Flying Fortresses and Liberators attacking targets at Linz, and Villaach, Austria; Pilsen in Czechoslovakia and Regensburg in southern Germany.

The enemy "jets" did not get a single American plane and suffered no losses when they tangled with the bombers and their Lighting and Mustang escorts.

The American "heavies" targets included an oil refinery and the rail yards at Regensburg and the Skoda armament works at Pilsen.

Four big bombers and twenty-four other planes were missing from the day's operations of the Mediterranian Allied Air Forces, which included hundreds of fighter-bomber attacks in close support of Allied troops in the Po Valley, bombing of the Zagreb rail yards in Yugoslavia and RAF Spitfire attacks on Elas troops trying to dig in positions in the southern suburbs of Athens.

BONOMI FORMS NEW CABINET

Communist And Christian Democrat Named Vice Premier

Rome, Dec. 10 (AP)—A new government of Premier Ivanhoe Bonomi with two vice premiers—the Communist Palmiro Togliatti and the Christian Democrat Giulio Dirodino—was announced officially tonight.

Portfolios were distributed evenly among the Liberals, Christian Democrats, Labor Democrats and Communists—the four parties which decided to support Bonomi in remaking his cabinet. The Socialists and Actionists, which are the other two parties of the Committee of National Liberation, have decided to stay out.

Gasperi Foreign Minister

Alcide de Gasperi, Christian Democrat, who formerly was Minister without portfolio, is the new Foreign Minister.

Count Carlo Sforza, Minister without portfolio in the last cabinet who was rejected by Britain for the post of Foreign Minister, is not a member of the new Government and it is reported that his position as commissioner for sanctions against Fascism will be replaced by a committee.

Bonomi Heads Interior

Bonomi himself retains the Ministry of the Interior.

Besides Di Rodino, a pre-Fascism Minister of Justice, and War, new figures in the Government include Manlio Brosio, Liberal, a new Minister without portfolio, who won the silver medal for bravery in the first World War and later was a member of a special committee to investigate the Matteotti murder.

Others In Cabinet

Among others were:

Vincenzo Aranzo Ruiz, Liberal, lawyer and professor of Roman law, Minister of Education.

M. Cerabona, Labor-Democrat, Minister of Transportation.

Meuccio Ruini, Labor-Democrat, Minister of Public Works.

Mario Cevolotto, Labor-Democrat, Minister of Posts and Telegraph.

Carlo Sciaoia, Labor-Democrat, Minister of Air.

Mauro Scoccimarro, Communist, former commissioner of the Fascist purge, Minister of State Administration of German-occupied territory, a portfolio dealing with patriot activities.

Antonio Pesenti, Communist, Minister of Finance.

Ministers who hold the same posts in the new Government that they held in the last one include:

Marcello Soleri, Liberal, Minister of the Treasury.

Alexandro Casati, Liberal, Minister of War.

Giovanni Gronchi, Christian Democrat, Minister of Labor.

Tupini, Christian Democrat, Minister of Justice.

Fausto Gullo, Communist, Minister of Agriculture.

Raffaele de Courten, Independent, Minister of the Navy.

Earlier, it was learned that Bonomi had written two letters to Allied authorities, pledging the Government would keep the armistice terms and would not raise the question of a monarchy for Italy until after the war. These pledges also were the conditions for Allied approval of the first Bonomi Government which resigned two weeks ago.

Shot Fired At Cardinal, Rome Paper Reports

Rome, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Christian Democrat newspaper Il Popolo said today that a shot was fired at the automobile carrying Pietro Cardinal Fumasoni Biondi while the prelate was returning recently to Rome from Tuscany.

The shot struck the windshield but no one was injured.

Pope Pius Officiates At Penitence Services

Vatican City, Dec. 10 (AP)—Pope Pius XII today officiated at a special penitence ceremony at St. Peter's, attended by thousands, including Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's personal representative to the Vatican.

Mr. Taylor sat on the same row with the Japanese Ambassador Ken Harada and the Nazi Ambassador Baron Ernst Weizsacker.

Many races and nationalities, including hundreds of Allied soldiers, gathered in the great basilica and offered prayers, asking Divine intervention to alleviate the suffering of mankind.

The Pope received a tremendous ovation when he appeared in the church.

Desertion Rumors Denied

ROME, Dec. 10 (AP).—Allied headquarters officially denied today what it said were rumors current in Greece that part of the Greek Navy and the entire Greek air force operating under Allied command in the Piraeus area had deserted to E. L. A. S. ranks.

Bomb Blast In Naples Theater

Rome, Dec. 10 (AP)—Dispatches to the Rome press today said 25 persons were injured in Naples yesterday when a bomb exploded in a motion picture theater. An investigation is underway.

IMPOTENT REICH IS URGED

Russian Paper Calls for Ban on Fascism in Europe

MOSCOW, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Allied powers must completely liquidate fascism in Europe to win the peace, Russian newspapers said today.

Hailing the victorious wartime alliance of Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union, Red Star declared, "Freedom-loving nations face the task of clearing liberated territories of political time-bombs." This time, it added, Germany "must be completely disarmed militarily, politically and economically."

Pravda warned, "It is necessary to watch vigilantly against intrigues of Hitlerites in 'neutral' countries, as well as the activities of collaborationists in countries liberated from German oppression."

France And Russia Sign Mutual Assistance Pact

Moscow, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle crowned his mission to Moscow with a treaty of alliance and mutual assistance with Soviet Russia today and started for home in France, once again in the front rank of European powers.

As a special train carried de Gaulle's delegation toward Baku, on the Black Sea and his waiting plane, the Moscow radio announced the signing of the new entente with an old ally.

Seeks To End German Menace

The treaty, the text of which will be made public later, embodies Russian-French determination to remove the menace of German aggression. It pledged partnership in the war against Germany "until complete victory" and joint measures to safeguard Europe from new aggression after the war.

It parallels the twenty-year alliance between Britain and Russia that was signed in 1941 after Germany invaded the Soviet Union, and fills a gap in Russia's future defenses in the west, where she started building a ring around Germany with her Czechoslovak alliance.

The treaty was signed at the Kremlin at 4.40 this morning after an all-night meeting which began with a formal banquet where the French and Russians were joined by British and United States diplomatic and military missions in Moscow.

Molotov Sees De Gaulle Off

At the station this morning a Red Army band played the French and Soviet national anthems and an honor guard of infantry marched past.

De Gaulle, in a formal good-by ending his 16-day visit, declared: "I am sure the days we have spent here will leave a mark in a history of this war and I believe, too, they will leave a mark in the peace for the good of all men. Long live Soviet Russia!"

The tall French general, shaking hands with Foreign Commissar Molotov, said, "Thank you for everything."

16 Days Set Speed Record

The fact that the treaty was discussed, written and signed within sixteen days was something of a diplomatic speed record. It realized the highest hopes expressed by de Gaulle before he left Paris.

He returns now with an intimate acquaintanceship established with Stalin in five separate talks in Moscow.

There were few, if any, European problems interesting the two countries which were not reviewed in detail by the French and Russian leaders.

The French termed de Gaulle's visit an unqualified success, and judged it had raised his stature as a statesman immeasurably.

Americans, British Informed

The Russian and French negotiators kept the British and Americans informed of all developments during the negotiations. The definite impression was sustained that the strengthening of the Franco-Soviet entente was being done within the larger framework of the friendship of both countries with Britain and the United States.

De Gaulle's party was accompanied on the return trip by Soviet Ambassador Bogomolov and Major General Kutuzov representing the Red Army.

Text Of Communique

The communiqué announcing conclusion of the new pact said:

"The sojourn in Moscow of General de Gaulle, chairman of the Provisional Government of the French Republic, and M. Bidault, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was marked by numerous manifestations of sympathy which unites the people of France and those of the Soviet Union and which was strengthened by the trials experienced during the war.

"Conversations took place with the chairman of the Council of People's Commissars of the U.S.S.R., J. V. Stalin, and the People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs V. M. Molotov.

Wide Accord Shown

"These talks were concerned with the sum total of problems appertaining to the conduct of the war and the organization of peace, and in particular to the German problem.

"These talks disclosed the existence of a wide concord of the point of view between both governments as well as the most sincere desire for close collaboration. Both governments again confirmed their decision to conduct military operations until complete victory over Germany, and their will to take jointly all the necessary measures to safeguard Europe from new aggression.

"In the spirit of these decisions on December 10 this year both governments signed a treaty of alliance and mutual assistance, the text of which will be published separately."

Original Pact Signed In '34

France and the Soviet Union signed their prewar alliance, providing for mutual assistance in event of attack by a third power, on May 2, 1934. A similar Soviet-Czechoslovak treaty followed on May 16 of that year.

These facts later were adopted by Adolf Hitler as an excess for tearing up the Locarno pact and remilitarization of the Rhineland.

But although Russia had mutual-assistance treaties with both France and Czechoslovakia, she was not invited to the Munich conference in 1938 which gave the Sudetenland to the Germans, and the pact was widely regarded as a dead letter thenceforth.

When the war broke out in 1939 Russia adopted a "hands-off" policy.

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The ELAS, Greek left-wing forces, now hold most of the port of Piraeus and the bulk of the police stations in Athens, the London radio said tonight, quoting a dispatch from its Athens correspondent.

BOMBERS BLAST ELAS IN ATHENS

Leftist Attack Supported by Artillery, Repulsed by British.

ATHENS, Dec. 10 — (AP) R.A.F. Wellington bombers and cannon-firing Spitfires attacked ELAS concentrations around Athens today after an earlier ELAS attack supported by mortars and artillery had been repelled by British troops using tanks and field guns.

Several mortar shells fired from ELAS positions fell near British headquarters on the eastern outskirts of the city and some sniper bullets hit the upper floors of the Grande Bretagne hotel, which is the temporary seat of the Greek government on Constitution Square in the center of the city.

British Headquarters Hit

At least one 75 millimeter shell hit the British headquarters. Artillery experts said the shell fire came from high ground outside the city and probably was fired over open sights.

The British replied with 76 mm. guns and 25 pound mortars.

Peter Garayafalas, press minister for the Government, said ELAS casualties to date numbered 1,500 killed and wounded and 2,500 captured.

The danger of epidemics was causing growing concern after the week-long strife. All unloading of relief ships was at a complete standstill. U.N.R.R.A. plans to organize soup kitchens had failed to materialize.

Large numbers of dead still are waiting burial.

With the battle of Athens only beginning and large forces massed on both sides neither the ELAS or British are putting all their weight into the punches, hoping a settlement still may be reached.

Dimitri Lambrakis, publisher of an independent liberal newspaper who has been working to mediate the crisis, said tonight he had found the Communist and EAM leaders taking a less emphatic view of their demands.

Lambrakis said the left wingers were insisting that a new national government be formed in which all parties—both left and right—participate.

The publisher said he was confident the ELAS would take orders from a new government headed by the liberal leader, Themistocles Sopohoulis, and would evacuate Athens and the Attica peninsula. He said they would have no objection to Premier George Papandreou remaining in the cabinet.

Sees New Regime Needed

Former Finance Minister Alexander Svolos also said in an interview that the formation of a new government including all parties was necessary to end the civil strife.

The ELAS, armed militia of the left-wing EAM political party, are well dug in the stadium area, in the park around the Zappion building and east of Hadrian's arch and the temple of Zeus. The stadium offers excellent defensive covering with its underground rooms and corridors.

As the Greek civil war, which flared into open bloodshed last Sunday in a clash on Constitution Square between police and left-wingers, went into its second week strong ELAS forces were massed west of Pireaus and north and east of Athens. So far these forces have made no move to come to the relief of their comrades battling in Athens. Strong detachments, however, have attacked in force several points, notably a police barracks, a mile east of British headquarters at the eastern foot of the Acropolis.

British Spitfires strafed concentrations and strongpoints within the city in an effort to scatter the ELAS.

"Peace" Pleas Denied

British headquarters said that Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, head of Allied troops in Greece, had received "no peace proposals" from the ELAS.

Correspondents attached to British headquarters were told not to attempt any direct contact with "the enemy" in view of the possibility they might be the taken prisoner and forced to divulge military information.

(An ELAS spokesman told two Associated Press interviewers yesterday that the government's ban on a demonstration last Sunday gave rise to the present conflict. They made a blanket denial of Prime Minister Churchill's charges that the EAM and its military auxiliary, the ELAS, sought to seize power in Greece and terrorize the countryside, and said their only purpose was to force the resignation of Premier Papandreou.)

PRAVDA ATTACKS CORRESPONDENT

MOSCOW, Dec. 10 — (AP) The Communist party newspaper Pravda today charged William L. White, American author and foreign correspondent, with having made a trip into the Soviet union with "the premeditated intention of spreading calumny."

White, son of the late William Allen White, noted editor of the Emporia (Kans.) Gazette, toured Russia last Summer with U. S. Chamber of Commerce President Eric Johnston.

David Zaslavsky, author of the Pravda article, based his attack on excerpts from White's new book, "Report On the Russians," as published in Readers Digest.

Zaslavsky asserted White's conclusions were drawn during the trip, and declared the book charged that Russian industry had developed no technique of its own, but copied American methods.

"We remember the speech in Moscow of the president of the Chamber of Commerce," Zaslavsky wrote. "He was far from liking everything he saw in our country. His speech was peculiar but it was correct. In fact, he talked about the Soviet Union just as he would about any Allied country."

Zaslavsky said White saw whatever Johnston saw in Russia, but wrote things "opposite from the views expressed by Johnston in press interviews after returning home."

The Soviet commentator declared that in Johnston's statements "there seemed to be a desire to express impartial judgment about our people. If Johnston made use of the trip to avail himself of impartial judgment, White did the contrary. White declares his sources are not exactly the same as Johnston's."

Zaslavsky said White, as Johnston's companion, enjoyed the hospitality and confidences of the Soviet Union and "abused both. There is no doubt his trip was made with the premeditated intention of spreading calumny. The truth about the Soviet Union penetrates the United States irrespective of the efforts of Fascist agitators to prevent it."

Revolt In Hungary Reported Crushed

Stockholm, Dec. 10 (AP)—The newspaper Svenska Dagbladet today reported an attempted revolt against Premier Ferenc Szalasi's régime in Hungary had been crushed, and that martial law had been declared in all parts of the country still under Nazi control.

The story, the source of which was not given, declared that mixed German-Hungarian military courts had been established and "sensational arrests and death sentences" resulted from the attempted coup. Three generals were reported hanged.

Leader of the revolt was said to have been a peasant party leader, Bajcsi-Zsilinsky, who went underground when the Nazis took full power in Hungary last October.

Dr. Endre Named To New Hungarian Puppet Post

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Nazi-controlled Hungarian home radio tonight announced the appointment of Dr. Vitz Leszlo Endre, Under Secretary of State in the puppet Ministry of the Interior, as "leader of the civilian administration of the operational area," and Dr. Laszlo Szlavy, as Endre's deputy in the new post.

Spain Hails Churchill Speech

Madrid, Dec. 10 (AP)—The entire Spanish press, from the régime's international commentators to the smallest provincial dailies, devoted columns of praise today to Prime Minister Churchill's Friday speech, which all the writers viewed as the first suggestion of a break between Britain and Russia.

CHINESE FORCES RETAKE HSIASU

CHUNGKING, Dec. 10—(AP) The Kweichow railroad town of Hsiasu, 12 miles from the Kwangsi province border, has been recaptured by the Chinese in their current counter-offensive which virtually has cleared Kweichow province of the invaders, the Chinese High command announced today.

The Japanese once penetrated to a point 70 miles within Kweichow in a drive toward Kweiyang, capital of the province and a strategic Burma road town from which they could have driven 300 miles southwest to Kumming or to Chungking, 200 miles northwest.

High command said Hsiasu fell yesterday and "the battered enemy is fleeing toward Liuchai pursued by our troops." Liuchai is just over the border in Kwangsi province.

Earlier a Chinese communique had reported that a second Japanese force which had penetrated Kweichow along the Yuyun-Ishan trail had been driven to within five miles of the Kwangsi border and that Shangsu, 82 miles southeast of Kweiyang, had been recaptured.

Although the Chinese comeback was achieved against comparatively small enemy forces it put new heart and new hope in Chungking after the anxiety of the past fortnight. Even formerly pessimistic quarters now believe the Chinese might be able to withstand any full-scale invasion of Kweichow and some predict the Japanese never will be able to take Kweiyang or Kunming.

The High command revealed today that Chinese forces, apparently in a diversionary move to prevent the enemy from concentrating too much strength in Kwangsi, had delivered surprise attacks Dec. 7 on the Hunan city of Lengshuitan, 55 miles southwest of Hengyang, and Tienmengchien, north of Hengyang, inflicting "considerable losses" on the enemy.

The same day, the communique said, other Chinese forces operating along the Siang river, north of Changsha, sank 13 Japanese river boats and killed a number of enemy troops.

In powerful support of the south China land offensive planes, of the U. S. 14th Air force on Dec. 7 and 8 destroyed 56 Japanese planes, sank a destroyer, a transport and a freighter, left two freighters burning and probably sank another, said a communique from Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's Chinese-American wing.

The attacks were made in the areas of Hong Kong, Nanking and Anking, occupied capital of Anhwei province, the communique said.

Bhamo Pounded By Chinese Guns

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Ceylon, Dec. 10 (AP)—Chinese troops have brought up heavy siege guns and are blasting Bhamo, Burma road stronghold in northern Burma, the Southeast Asia Command announced today.

Guns of 105 and 155-mm. have been brought up through the jungle to aid in reducing the stronghold on the Irrawaddy, 170 miles northeast of Mandalay.

On the Chindwin River front, to the southwest, East African troops were harassing the enemy along the main road between the river port of Kalewa and Yeu, 80 miles east on the Mu River.

TOKYO BLACKS OUT, YANK FLIERS REPORT

TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND, Saipan, Dec. 9—(Via Navy Radio)—(Delayed—(AP) Tokyo is blacking out at night now.

The Japanese capital was brightly lighted during the early B-29 raids, and the Japanese radio boasted that there was nothing to fear from the American raiders. But a weather reconnaissance Superfortress which bombed the city shortly before dawn today found even the suburbs dark.

Not only Tokyo, but also Yokahama and other cities were blacked out, the Superfortress commander, Lt. John Thomas Garvin said.

The only lights were at Chofu airdrome 17 miles from Tokyo where three Japanese planes were going in with landing lights on.

Garvin bombed the capital's industrial center between the Sumida river and Ara waterway through a partial overcast. His crew saw the bombs glow against clouds.

YANK WARSHIPS HAMMER IWO JIMA

SAIPAN, Dec. 9—(Via Navy Radio—Delayed)—(AP) Firing salvos every twenty seconds, American cruisers and destroyers slowly paraded around Japan's Iwo Jima for a full hour yesterday pouring some 300 tons of explosives into the Nippon base.

The warships cut loose on the island shortly after it was battered by twice or three times that weight in aerial bombs dropped by B-29s and B-24s.

There was slight Japanese return fire during the first five minutes and it "didn't even come close" said Associated Press Photographer Charles Gorry.

The photographer, who comes from Arlington, Va., and Hollis, Long Island, reported "an hour before we got to Iwa we could see smoke all over the island from Superfortress bombs, one column reaching 2,000 feet. Then we saw Liberators come in and lay down the most beautiful bomb pattern I ever saw straight across the island. Not one bomb landed in the water.

"We started shelling at 1:47 p. m. from the north end of Iwo we circled the entire island at about 20 knots firing salvos every 20 seconds. We finished shelling at 2:47 p. m.

"The Japs opened up with a few six-inch guns without effect and after five minutes they didn't fire at all. Our destroyers fired five-inchers all the time. The cruisers used eight-inchers and then closed to 7,000 yards firing five-inchers during the last 20 minutes of the bombardment.

"The continuous roar of the guns left us worn out so I can imagine how it left those Japs on Iwo. We raked every cliff, beach and airfield and all the gun positions our airmen could spot. A couple of Jap planes hung around, but beyond our range. Evidently they were out of ammunition.

"We were only 700 miles or so from Japan yet not one Japanese ship or submarine came near."

Japanese Big Leaguer Forced Off Base, Killed

UNITED STATES 41ST INFANTRY DIVISION HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific (AP).—Captain Hikichi Kazuo, one of Japan's leading baseball players, has been killed by 41st Division troops on this hard-won Pacific island. Infantry patrols, mopping up, flushed Kazuo and 100 of his men from a coral cave. All were killed.

On Kazuo's body was found a thick wad of newspaper clippings telling of his baseball exploits. He played third base with the Osaka club in Japan's big league.

Chilean-Russ Ties Forecast

Santiago, Dec. 10 (AP)—Santiago newspapers said today Chile would establish relations with Russia tomorrow.

Reports 120,000 Jews Deported From France

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Baron Guy de Rothschild, captain of the staff of Gen. Pierre Koenig, military governor of Paris, said today that of 350,000 Jews in France when the war began 120,000 have been deported and 10,000 to 15,000 were known to have been exterminated.

He spoke at the 50th annual meeting of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee.

JAP 'SUICIDE' FLIERS COMMENDED BY CHIEF

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Japanese, in a Tokyo radio broadcast Sunday, listed 24 Nippon "suicide" airmen who, it was claimed, crashed the bomb-laden planes into American ships in Surigao strait, Ormoc bay and Leyte gulf, central Philippines.

The broadcast, recorded by Federal Communications commission, listed these claimed "war results" by suicide fliers Dec. 5-7-8-9:

Two large transports and 16 landing barges sunk; one warship of unknown category and four large transports seriously damaged and left in flames; Ormoc landing beaches blasted. The claims lacked American confirmation.

Maj. Gen. Shuichi Matsumura, chief of the Japanese army press section, Imperial headquarters, highly praised the airmen. He quoted these slogans of the flying suicide squadrons:

"In serving on the seas, be a corpse saturated with water.

"In serving on land, be a corpse covered with weeds.

"In serving in the sky, be a corpse that challenges the clouds.

"Let's all die close by the side of our sovereign."

JAPS TERM BATTLE OF LEYTE 'DECISIVE'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Radio Tokyo yesterday told the Japanese people that the fighting in the Philippines represented "the decisive battle in which we cannot withdraw even a single step for we have burned our bridges behind us."

The Leyte battle, Tokyo said, "is a great decisive battle on which the life of the GEA (greater East Asia) war depends, for it decides whether we lose our sea routes to our southern regions.

"Air force strength and supply maintenance are particularly important for they decide the situation. The supply of planes and ammunition, of course, have all changed favorably for us."

PARIS TAKEN 60 DAYS AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP) Paris was taken by the Allies 60 days ahead of schedule, undersecretary of War Patterson said today.

The Whole of France and Belgium also was cleared "months ahead of schedule" although the Allies had fallen behind the military time-table when they were penned up, at the outset, on the Normandy peninsula, he reported.

Then, with reference to the recent phases of the Western front campaign, Patterson said that "the time for renewing large-scale operations had to be deferred until the necessary supplies were again accumulated at the front."

Patterson made this presentation of the Allied schedule in an address prepared for the Philharmonic symphony hour of CBS, in which he emphasized the government's plea for greater production of war goods.

Pratt Commands West Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10 (AP) The War Department announced today the designation of Maj. Gen. Henry C. Pratt as commanding general of the Western Defense Command here during the temporary absence of Maj. Gen. Charles H. Bonesteel.

Admiral Kimmel's Son, Missing, Awarded Medal

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Bronze Star Medal has been awarded Lieut. Com. Manning Marius Kimmel, USN, 31, who is missing in action, and son of Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel, USN (retired), the Navy Department announced today.

Commander Kimmel's wife, Mrs. Agatha Kimmel, lives at University, Va. He was born in Washington, D.C., and previously was awarded the Silver Star.

BRITISH, REDS CHARGED WITH PROLONGING WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10. — (AP) The Army and Navy Journal holds that British and Russian "preoccupation" with affairs in eastern and southern Europe prolonged the war with Germany past Dec. 7.

The unofficial service publication says:

"Since D-day in France, greater preoccupation has been shown by Russia in her Baltic and Balkan campaigns, intended to insure her security, and by Great Britain in Italy, Greece and Albania, to protect her lifeline through the Mediterranean, than in achievement of the prime objection of our armies—the prompt defeat of Germany and concentration of all possible power to that end.

"The result has been that the expectation in Washington that the war in Europe would be over by the Pearl Harbor anniversary this week, has not been realized."

UNIFIED COMMAND TO FACE CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP) First direct step toward consolidating the Army and Navy by statute, legislation to establish the joint chiefs of staff as a permanent body will face the new Congress.

It was introduced last week in the House by Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the Military committee and Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the Naval committee, but will not be pushed during the remaining days of the resent session. The joint chiefs, whose purpose in coordination, includes the heads of the services and the President's chief of staff.

"We just want to get the subject before Congress and have a bill ready for action next month," May said in an interview. "The members will have an opportunity to study it between now and the time the new Congress convenes."

While May declined to say whether the Army and Navy are sponsoring the legislation, it was learned elsewhere that it was introduced with their knowledge and consent.

The joint chiefs of staff now operate only under temporary authority. The legislation pending would cloak the Army-Navy high command with power to "formulate and collaborate in the execution of policies and plans concerning military and naval operations and make studies and recommendations as to strength, organization and equipment of the several components of the armed forces."

The special House committee on post war military policy has held extensive hearings on proposals to merge the Army and the Navy, but has reached no conclusions. Its members generally are in agreement, however, that a joint staff should guide the two armed forces and that a peacetime military-naval establishment should be built around universal military training.

Early enactment of the May-Vinson bill next year would require the joint chiefs of staff to make recommendations concerning the peace-time strength of the Army and Navy. As soon as these recommendations are made, the post-war military committee is expected to recommend enactment of compulsory peace time military training legislation.

Adjournment of Congress Expected Late This Week

End of 78th Session Depends on Crowded Calendar in Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — (AP) This is the last week of the 78th Congress—it hopes.

If there's one thing the members want for Christmas it's some time at home, but there's a lot of work to be done before they get away.

Adjournment sights have been fixed tentatively on the coming week-end, and House leaders say they can make it. But the Senate faces a full week of work and the threat that some of it might spill over into the following week.

With its major short-session problems out of the way, the House finds itself Monday with a lot of tag ends to dispose of. Its most serious business may come on legislation to modernize congressional procedure by streamlining routine committees.

Service Bill Pending

On the Senate's calendar of unfinished business is a house-passed bill to create eight temporary five-star commands atop the Army and Navy, legislation to revive crop insurance, and a much-debated rivers and harbors bill which carries with it the explosive subject of a St. Lawrence seaway project.

All have been passed by the House but Senate changes can force the bills into session-end conference committees.

Also awaiting Senate action is the last of the 78th Congress' appropriation bills. With it is a companion measure—a House attempt to raise the pay of legislative clerks. Both cleared the House late last week.

The bulk of the "must" legislation for this session got through last week with Senate approval of a one-year extension of the administration's war powers act. Without the renewal act—congressional basis for rationing, priorities and other wartime emergency orders—would have expired with the end of the year.

Some House members fear their attempt to win a hand in treaty making by upsetting the Senate traditional two-thirds vote [illegible] on ratifications might find itself trapped in the adjournment drive.

Little Hope on Treaty Change

A proposed constitutional amendment to make future treaties subject to ratification by a majority vote of the Senate and House has been approved by the House Judiciary committee but it hasn't yet had rules committee clearance necessary to send it to the floor.

To become operative the amendment must be passed by both the House and Senate before this session ends and then be agreed to by 36 of the 42 state legislatures which meet early in 1945. Sponsors admit privately that the proposal has no practical chance of Senate approval this session.

CHANGES LIKELY FOR STATE DEPT. DURING THE WEEK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP) State department reorganization plans to stre[illegible]e and [illegible]d administration are about completed and scheduled for announcement this week.

Under the new scheme, responsibility for policy decisions is reported more broadly distributed, with the idea that work can be done faster that way.

Official disclosure of the new setup may be delayed until the Senate has acted on nominations of Undersecretary Joseph C. Grew and five new assistant secretaries.

An extensive personnel shakeup is expected after the new men take office, although there is no indication of any important policy reversals.

Composed of comparatively young men, the new State department high command headed by Secretary Stettinius will have direct lines of authority down through the department, relieving the undersecretary and secretary of many decisions on details.

One of the main features of the new plan is reported to be integration of economic affairs, formerly divided among several offices. Will Clayton, whose nomination as assistant secretary is awaiting Senate confirmation, is understood to be slated to handle communications, aviation, shipping and labor as well as regular economic matters. The separation of normal and wartime economic affairs probably will be abolished in the general tightening of lines to prepare for handling the peace.

At least two of the geographical divisions will come under two new assistant secretaries, instead of being the charge of the already burdened undersecretary. These are Latin American affairs, under Nelson Rockefeller, and European affairs, under James C. Dunn. Undersecretary Grew is expected to continue direction of Far Eastern affairs.

Departmental administration, which is to be centered under Brig. General Julius Holmes, and public information, under Archibald MacLeish, are scheduled for general revamping, uniting functions carried on by scattered divisions in various parts of the department.

Secretary Stettinius is expected to turn most of his attention and time to world security organization as soon as he has the doneover department functioning smoothly.

NOMINEES FACE CARTELS QUIZ

Senator O'Mahoney Wants To Know Views On Subject

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) wants to know if President Roosevelt's opposition to international cartel practices would be affected by the State Department reorganization.

In a letter to Chairman Connally (D., Texas) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, O'Mahoney said he hoped that six nominees to the State Department staff will be asked to give their views on that question when they appear before the committee this week.

The Wyoming Senator, who moved successfully in the Senate to send the nominations back to the committee, said he will be out of town when the hearings begin Tuesday.

Acheson As Liaison Man

He called attention to the fact that Dean Acheson, assistant secretary who heads the interdepartmental committee on economic foreign policy, will become liaison man with Congress under the new régime. W. L. Clayton, retiring Surplus War Property administrator and a Texas cotton dealer, was nominated to head the economic division.

"To what extent, if at all, this reorganization means a change of policy from that charted by (former) Secretary Hull is a question of utmost concern to all the people of the United States, and I trust that all of the nominees will be asked to give their views to the Foreign Relations Committee and through the committee to the Senate and to the people," O'Mahoney wrote.

Hull's Stand On Cartels

He said Hull's stand against "excessive and unreasonable restrictions" on international commerce had been approved by the President with the assertion that "cartel practices which restrict the free flow of goods in foreign commerce will have to be curbed."

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Secretary of State, has been called as the first witness on the nominations. Besides Clayton, appointees include Joseph C. Grew, named as Under Secretary, and Archibald MacLeish, Nelson Rockefeller, James C. Dunn and Brig. Gen. Julius C. Holmes, appointed as assistant secretaries.

BYRNES ASSUMES TIGHTER CONTROL OVER HOME FRONT

War Mobilizer to Concentrate on Production and Manpower Policies.

PARLEY SET TODAY

Drafting of 26-37 Group Expected to Keep War Workers in Jobs.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10 — (AP) James F. Byrnes' "produce or fight" edict signals his assumption of full policy control over the home front effort.

Associates in the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion said today that the director will relegate his dispute-settling function to second place and take active direction of the production, manpower and economic phases of the war as well as reconversion.

Byrnes shortly will make two more appointments to his new staff, it was learned, one of them a planning chief who will head a unit intended to chart home war policy right through to the demobilization of industrial controls and ration programs.

A rapid start on deliberations of the OWMR advisory board, appointed by President Roosevelt last week to give Byrnes the viewpoints of labor, management, agriculture and public spokesmen, is indicated in the calling of its first session at the White House tomorrow, under Chairman O. Max Gardner, former governor North Carolina.

OWMR's expansion is bound to cut in on the policy powers of the older war agencies—War Production board, War Manpower commission and Office of Price Administration among others. But while exercising "the full charter of authority granted OWMR" by Congress, Byrnes is represented as intending to leave the agencies' operating functions alone.

Draft Increase Ordered

Byrnes' instructions to Selective Service yesterday—to increase the drafting of men aged 26 through 37 "who are not now doing their part to contribute to the war effort"—is viewed as principally a [illegible]oper war workers to keep [illegible]rs at lathes and benches. OWM[illegible], in other words, is using the selective service act to put the "teeth" in manpower rules that officials have been asking and Congress is unlikely to grant at this time.

Byrnes explained his decree as designed to replace service men who have been released to bolster lagging munitions programs, but such releases have totaled only a few thousand men.

The more obvious intent is to check the outflow of workers from war industry. The more successful the measure is, the fewer men above the ages now being called will it put into the armed forces.

However, regulations expected to follow the Byrnes directive may require men holding occupational deferments to get government consent before changing jobs.

Moves Into Manpower Field

Byrnes' move into the manpower field—one day after WMC's executive director, Charles M. Hay, told Congress that WMC had no new program except "propaganda" to curb labor turnover—was foreshadowed Wednesday by Byrnes' appointment of the first actual staff he had ever used. He chose four top aides, each to help him in a particular phase of getting production "from the assembly line to the front line."

Byrnes has asked each to give full time to OWMR. This also departs from his earlier practice of using advisors on a "when needed" basis. In evident preparation for a considerable expansion of OWMR, new offices are being taken in the Lafayette building downtown.

Byrnes already nas chosen his new planning unit director, OWMR sources said, but is withholding the name pending his transfer from another government agency. Maj. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, formerly procurement chief of the Army service forces, was named deputy director for war programs and general administration, William Haber for manpower, J. B. Hutson for agriculture and Fred Searls, Jr., as Clay's assistant in stimulating munitions output.

CIO SUPPORTS WARD STRIKE

State Council Backs Walkout Of 1,500 In Detroit Stores

Detroit, Dec. 10 (AP)—Some 1,500 striking empolyés of four Montgomery Ward stores in this area have received the support of the Michigan CIO Council, Gus Scholle, regional CIO director for Michigan, announced tonight.

A spokesman for the United Automobile Workers (CIO) said the UAW also would support the strike.

Scholle said the decision approving the strike, which threatens to spread to other cities, including Chicago, had the support of the council's officers.

Firm Says Stores Will Be Open

The strikers, members of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employés (CIO), walked out yesterday in what union leaders described as a protest against failure of the company to recognize War Labor Board directives covering union maintenance-of-membership, dues check-off, back-pay demands and arbitration of grievances.

R. W. Rosevear, Montgomery Ward district manager, said the four stores, including two in Detroit and branches in suburban Dearborn and Royal Oak, employing some 2,200 persons, would be open for business tomorrow morning.

He asserted that Saturday's "holiday business was up to normal."

At a meeting this afternoon, Roy Scoggins, state director of the union, told 500 members that "if the NWLB does not step in to enforce its directives, no employer in a nonessential industry will feel obligated any longer to obey such directives."

The unionists said picket lines would be continued tomorrow.

The Government, after a strike in the Chicago mail-order plants of the company, took over the operation of those plants from April 26 to May 9, when it returned the properties to the firm. The company, however, refused to grant maintenance of membership, and Sewell Avery, chairman of the board, said yesterday that the firm would not agree to "a closed shop."

"The company," he said, "is trying to preserve the right of an employé to join, or not join, or to resign from a union. This is a permanent policy."

A.F.L. SEEKS UNION WITH MINE GROUP

DEC 11 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP) The dove of peace liberated by the American Federation of Labor at its New Orleans convention may turn out to be a homing pigeon for John L. Lewis.

The often gruff-spoken leader of the United Mine Workers seemed pleased and tolerant of his one-time companions in the AFL last week after the federation had so obviously extended a welcoming hand.

In his own words, however, Lewis was "unusually non-committal."

President William Green of the AFL thus far has taken no steps to bring the UMC back into the federation. But Green was here only briefly during the past week, and while he gave no indication when he would contact the Miners' boss, he is authorized to do so when he feels like it.

Green made it clear "there will be no crawling" on the part of the Federation to induce Lewis to come back.

Last act of the New Orleans session was the authorization, by the executive council which consists of 15 of the most influential AFL leaders, of a new set of negotiations with Lewis.

The AFL made it clear it also wanted the Congress of Industrial Organizations to come back to the Federation fold, but particular stress was laid on the resumption of negotiations with Lewis and his 600,000 United Mine workers.

Not the least consideration in this move, of course, is the desire to boost membership. With Lewis' union the AFL would have close to 7 1-2 million workers, compared to the CIO's 5,300,000. The CIO claims another million members in the armed forces whose affiliation has been kept open.

Former negotiations with the miners bogged down in May, 1943, over the chemical workers organized by the UMW District 50. There was jurisdictional conflict with the AFL's chemical union.

There are these obvious factors pointing to a possible resumption of negotiations:

1. Lewis waited until the AFL's convention was over—Dec. 2—to reply to the British trade union council's invitation to an international conference in London in February. He turned it down, just as the AFL had done. The timing would indicate he wanted to make certain the AFL was of the same mind as he. The CIO and Soviet trade unions have accepted the same invitation.

2. The presidential election is over. Lewis is a bitter critic of the President. Mr. Roosevelt has many friends and supporters in the AFL.

WAR PRODUCTION BEHIND IN OCTOBER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10—(AP) None of the major categories of combat munitions met its October schedule, the War Production board reported today.

The report placed the value of the month's munitions output at $5,240,000,000, substantially the same as in September. On an overall basis, production fell two per cent behind reduced schedules set at the beginning of the month.

As a group, the "critical programs" gained six per cent over the September output. Increases ranged from small to sizeable. Major increases included: Communications wire, 10 per cent; trucks over 10 tons, and cotton duck for tents, 13 per cent; general purpose and fragmentation bombs, 11 per cent; tanks, 20 per cent.

"In spite of the October gains," the Board said, "the critical programs must still improve much more than they did if the armed forces are to get all the critical supplies called for in their stated requirements.

"For example, a rise of 55 per cent over the October rate is required in November and December for Army heavy artillery to meet the 1944 stated requirements; even this goal is below computed strategic requirements."

Other war equipment behind schedule included heavy bombers, heavy ammunition and artillery, heavy trucks, assault transports and assault cargo ships, cotton duck, and spare parts for the fleet.

Strike In Steel Plant In California Ended

Pittsburg, Cal., Dec. 10 (AP)—A six-man walkout which spread until 3,500 men quit work was ended today, and Columbia Steel's Pittsburg plant resumed operations after a 32-hour shutdown.

The United Steel Workers of America (CIO) ordered the men back to work last midnight after agreeing to submit a new riggers' work schedule to company officials for approval Tuesday.

Six riggers declined to accept Sunday work and walked out Friday morning. By 8 P.M., the stoppage was plantwide. The 12th Naval District said "critical" navy castings were held up.

World War II Veterans Organize National Group

E. H. Keel, Washington, Heads Mutual Assistance Body

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 10 (AP).—A new national veterans' group, the American Veterans of World War II—AmVets for short—was born here tonight.

Formal organization came at the end of two days of conferences attended by thirty-five representatives of miscellaneous groups of service men and women from all sections of the United States. Elmo W. Keel, of Washington, was elected commander. AmVets headquarters will be in Washington.

Other officers elected were: Albert C. Geremia, of Providence; La Marr Bailey, Amarillo, Tex., and George C. Burke, St. Petersburg, Fla., vice-commanders; Carl G. Freudenberg, Cincinnati, financial officer; T. Paul Moody, Los Angeles, judge advocate; Claude C. Morgan, Los Angeles, public relations; Thomas H. Chunn, Columbia, Tenn., national adjutant; Brigadier General H. C. Holdridge, Washington, national executive secretary.

Purposes of AmVets, as listed in the preamble of the organization's constitution, are "to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States of America; to safeguard the principles of freedom, liberty and justice for all; to promote the cause of eternal peace and good will among nations; to maintain inviolate the freedom of our country; to preserve the fundamentals of democracy and Americanism; to maintain law and order; to perpetuate the friendships and associations of the great war of liberation and to dedicate ourselves to the cause of mutual assistance."

N.Y. Meat Dealers To Take 'Holiday' In War On OPA Rules

Government moves to end "red market" in meats.....Page 20

Poultry experts predict Eastern Shore chickens will be diverted to armed forces until late in March or April.....Page 20

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—An estimated 3,500 New York city meat dealers, shouting down all protests, voted at a turbulent mass meeting today to take a "holiday" beginning Christmas Day and continuing "until Office of Price Administration regulations are adjusted."

Albert T. Wendel, president of the New York State Association of Retail Meat Dealers, estimated 10,000 retail stores, or 80 per cent of those in greater New York, would be closed. Chain stores and a few small retailers would not be affected, he said.

Informed of the butchers' action, a spokesman for the regional OPA office said "every possible effort" would be made to avert a city-wide closing of stores. He said Daniel P. Woolley, regional OPA administrator would confer with the dealers and "attempt to bring about a satisfactory adjustment before December 25."

The action climaxed a growing situation which resulted yesterday in Mayor F. H. LaGuardia and a ranking official of the butchers' union joining in a demand that the Government take immediate steps to solve New York's meat problem, which they termed "serious."

The butchers declared in a resolution they were being "subjected to an unworkable and unfair regulation" and that the "entire ceiling structure was promulgated on the basis of live steers being 13 to 14 cents per pound and at the present time 18 cents."

Wendel told the meeting no dealer in the city could sell at a profit "at present ceiling prices and no man can live up to the 8,000 OPA regulations."

DILLINGEN, OUTWARDLY AN INDUSTRIAL CITY OF FROM 15,000 TO 20,000 POPULATION, ACTUALLY IS A FORTRESS CITY BULWARKED BY SCOREDOON SCORES OF PILLBOXES THAT REALLY ARE SMALL FORTS.

AFTER FIVE DAYS OF THE TOUGHEST KIND OF FIGHTING, THE 90TH HOLDS ONLY ABOUT A FIFTH OF THE CITY.

THIS TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DIVISION, LED BY BRIG.GEN.JAMES A.VAN FLEET, IS NO UNTRIED OUTFIT AND ONLY LAST MONTH WON HIGHEST PRAISE FROM LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON JR., FOR CROSSING THE MOSELLE RIVER IN THE THIONVILLE AREA AT THE OPENING OF THE CURRENT DRIVE.

BUT FROM TOP TO BOTTOM, THE MEN DOING THIS JOB AGREE IT IS MUCH TOUGHER THAN THE MOSELLE FORCING, WHICH WAS DESCRIBED BY PATTON AS THE FINEST SINGLE JOB DONE BY THE THIRD ARMY UNIT.

DEC 11 1944

ALSO, FROM TOP TO BOTTOM, THERE SEEMS NO DOUBT THAT THE 90TH CAN HANG ON AND GOUGE ITS WAY FIRMLY INTO THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSE BELT AND EVENTUALLY THROUGH IT. BUT THESE MEN ARE NOT KIDDING THEMSELVES ON THE CALIBER OF THE JOB BEFORE THEM.

LT.LEO J.CROSS, AN ARTILLERY OBSERVER WITH THE THIRD BATTALION OF THE 358TH REGIMENT, GAVE THIS DESCRIPTION OF THE SAAR RIVER CROSSING AND THE SUBSEQUENT FIGHTING:

"WE CROSSED IN ASSAULT BOATS SHORTLY AFTER 4 A.M. AND GOT ACROSS IN A VERY FEW MINUTES. WE PILED OFF INTO KNEE-DEEP MUD AMONG TRENCHES AND FOXHOLES WHICH WERE FULL OF WATER AND UNOCCUPIED.

"JUST AFTER WE GOT ASHORE AN AIRPLANE CAME OVER AND DROPPED A FLARE. EVERY MAN FLOPPED IN THE MUD AND WE THOUGHT SURELY WE WOULD BE DISCOVERED AND BE FIRED UPON, BUT THE FLARE DIED OUT QUICKLY AND WE PUSHED ON ACROSS THE LONG, MUDDY SLOPE TOWARD TOWN, PASSING SEVERAL PILLBOXES BUT DRAWING NO FIRE. THOSE KRAUTS MUST BE SOUND SLEEPERS."

"WE REACHED A FRINGE OF BUILDINGS THIS SIDE OF THE RAILROAD TRACK WITHOUT BEING DISCOVERED AND IT WASN'T UNTIL OUR INFANTRYMEN WENT BACK AND STARTED BLOWING UP BY-PASSED PILLBOXES THAT THE GERMANS WOKE UP.

DEC 11 1944

"BUT THEN THINGS REALLY BEGAN TO HAPPEN," SAID LT.THOMAS J.MANN, 1111 EAST EIGHTH ST., KANSAS CITY, MO., WHO WENT ALONG AS AN OBSERVER WITH THE FIRST BATTALION.

"WE BEGAN DRAWING FIRE FROM ALL ANGLES AND LEARNED QUICKLY THAT IN ADDITION TO REGULAR PILLBOXES WHICH WEREN'T TOO HARD TO SPOT, THERE WERE DOZENS MORE CONCEALED INSIDE WHAT LOOKED LIKE GARAGES AND HOUSES.

"WE DREW SOME FIRE FROM WHAT LOOKED LIKE A GARAGE SO WE BLASTED IT WITH DEMOLITION CHARGES AND WENT ON, ONLY TO HAVE MORE FIRE AT OUR BACKS. SO WE TURNED ABOUT AND FOUND A TWO-STORY DEEP PILLBOX IN THE WRECKAGE.

DEC 11 1944

"IN ADDITION WE FOUND THE GERMANS HAD INFILTRATED INTO SOME OF THE BOXES THAT WE HAD CLEARED OUT BUT HADN'T BEEN ABLE TO DESTROY FULLY OR TO LEAVE MANNED."

THE VALUE OF SURPRISE WAS ILLUSTRATED BY THE EXPERIENCE OF THE SECOND BATTALION, WHICH CROSSED JUST AFTER DAYLIGHT IN A RESERVE POSITION IN AN OPERATION WHICH OBSERVER SGT. LEO BULLER, SPRINGFIELD, S.D., DESCRIBED THUSLY:

"WE GOT ONE COMPANY ACROSS ON A FOOTBRIDGE WHICH THE ENGINEERS HAD PUT IN DURING DARKNESS AND THEN THIS WAS SHOT OUT. WE WERE PINNED DOWN IN THE MUD RIGHT AT THE RIVER'S EDGE FOR FIVE HOURS BY MACHINE-GUN FIRE FROM PILLBOXES BETWEEN US AND TOWN.

"FINALLY, BY HAVING MORTARS LAY DOWN SMOKE, WE WERE ABLE TO BREAK THROUGH TO THE SHELTER OF BUILDINGS."

DEC 11 1944

LACKING ANTI-TANK GUNS OR ARMOR, AND ABLE TO MAKE ONLY LIMITED USE OF THE ARTILLERY ON THE WEST BANK FOR DIRECT FIRE NEEDED TO SMASH PILLBOXES, THE DOUGHBOYS HAD TO BLOW THEM ONE BY ONE WITH POLE CHARGES.

THE CHARGES WERE PLAC[illegible] MEN WHO CRAWLED UP ON THE "BLIND SIDE" OF THE BOXES UNDER COVER OF RIFLE AND MACHINEGUN FIRE.

HERE ARE SOME OF THE IMPRESSIONS OF BILLIGEN AND ITS ELABORATE DEFENSES OBTAINED BY THESE MEN AND BY OTHERS WHO HAVE BEEN ACROSS THE RIVER AND BACK, INCLUDING PVT. HERMAN J. HORN, 306 WEST 97TH ST., NEW YORK CITY; PVT. ALFRED DEVONS, BALLASTOWN, PA., AND SGT. JULIAN A. MAZZOLA, 2255 CALDER ST., BEAUMONT, TEX.:

THE PILLBOXES ARE THE BEST THE 99TH DIVISION HAS ENCOUNTERED. THEY ARE EQUIPPED WITH LIGHTS AND RUNNING WATER INDEPENDENT OF THE CITY SYSTEM, WHICH WAS TURNED OFF AFTER THE ATTACK BEGAN. THEY ARE WELL STOCKED WITH FOOD AND MUNITIONS.

THEY ARE MANNED BY THREE TO 40 MEN, DEPENDING ON THE SIZE OF THE FORTIFICATIONS. A TYPICAL CREW INCLUDES ONE OR TWO WELL-TRAINED INFANTRYMEN OR GUNNERS, BACKED BY A MIXED COLLECTION OF AIR FORCE PERSONNEL, QUARTERMASTERS, AND THE LIKE.

DEC 11 1944

THE TOWN ITSELF, WHICH INCLUDES A TANK FACTORY BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN IN PRODUCTION UP TO A WEEK AGO, IS AN UP-TO-DATE CITY WITH MODERN HOUSES.

IN ONE OF THE FEW PENETRATIONS BEYOND THE RAILROAD TRACK RUNNING ALONG THE SOUTHWESTERN SIDE OF TOWN, COMPANY F OF THE SECOND BATTALION USED A TUNNEL TO GET AT A PILLBOX JUST ON THE OTHER SIDE, CAPTURING IT AND SENDING PRISONERS BACK THROUGH THE TUNNEL.

BUT TANKS COUNTERATTACKED, FIRING POINT BLANK AT THE CONCRETE WALLS, AND RECAPTURED THE STRONGPOINT, TAKING SOME AMERICANS WITH IT.

COMPANY G IMMEDIATELY FOLLOWED F THROUGH, SWUNG NORTH IN A FLANKING MOVE, STRUCK A COLUMN MOVING BACK WITH THE AMERICAN PRISONERS, AND FREED ABOUT HALF OF THEM.

PILLBOXES ARE EVEN CONCEALED IN SUMMER HOUSES, IN GARDENS OR IN SOME OF THE LARGE HOMES.

AN ARMORED OBSERVATION POST, STICKING UP ONLY A COUPLE OF FEET

ABOVE GROUND BUT RUNNING TWO STORIES DEEP AND EQUIPPED WITH PONES AND ARTILLERY FIRING CHARGES, WAS FOUND BETWEEN THE AMERICAN-HELD PART OF TOWN AND THE RIVER THREE DAYS AFTER THE FIRST BY-PASSED IT. APPARENTLY IT HAD BEEN IN USE ALL THAT TIME.

WITH 30 TO 40 OF THESE FORTS KNOCKED OUT--AND EXCEPT IN THE FIRST FEW HOURS NO CREWS SURRENDERED UNTIL BLOWN OUT--THE JOB OF CRACKING THIS FIRST GREAT KEYPOINT OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE IN THIS AREA WAS ONLY BEGUN.

B47

BUT IN THE PAST 24 HOURS THE FIRST TANKS AND SELF-PROPELLED TANK DESTROYER GUNS HAVE BEEN PUT OVER THE SAAR, WHICH IS SWOLLEN TO A WIDTH OF 300 FEET, AND THE JOB SHOULD GO FASTER.

MEANWHILE, ARTILLERY CONTINUES TO DO A GREAT JOB OF PROTECTING THE LODGEMENT AGAINST THE GERMAN TANKS AND INFANTRY BY FIRING CONCENTRATIONS ON CALL WITHIN 50 YARDS OF OUR POSITIONS TO KEEP THE ENEMY FROM CLOSING.

FOR EXAMPLE, GUNS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF BRIG. GEN. ERNEST A.DIXBY, CHARLESTOWN, N.H., DIVISION ARTILLERY COMMANDER, WHANGED 1,200 ROUNDS OF EVERYTHING FROM 75'S TO TEN-INCHERS INTO BILLINGEN IN THREE HOURS AND A HALF DURING A CRITICAL PERIOD WHEN ARMOR ATTACKED DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY.

ROME, DEC. 10-(AP)-THE SECOND ANNUAL MEDITERRANEAN THEATER INTERALLIED BOXING CHAMPIONSHIPS OPEN TOMORROW FOR A WEEK-LONG RUN, WITH AMATEUR AND PROFESSIONAL TITLE TEAMS FROM SEVEN ZONES OF THIS AREA SCHEDULED TO COMPETE.

DEC 11 1944

UNITED STATES, FRENCH, AND BRITISH SOLDIERS AND SAILORS ARE ENTERED IN THE TOURNEY. AMONG THEM ARE A NUMBER OF BATTLERS WHO WON CHAMPIONSHIPS IN THE FIRST BEAKBUSTING PARTY HELD LAST WINTER AT ALGIERS.

ONE OF THE MOST NOTABLE PERFORMERS IS MIDDLEWEIGHT MARCEL CERDAN, A FRENCH SAILOR, WHO WAS THE HIT OF THE ALGIERS TAFFYPULL.

ALSO IN THE LIST IS THE CHAMPIONSHIP FIFTH ARMY TEAM OF THE FIRST AFFAIR, MANY OF WHOSE MEMBERS HAVE BEEN PLUCKED OUT OF FRONTLINE ASSIGNMENTS FOR A WEEK'S TEMPORARY DUTY TO TAKE PART IN THE TOURNAMENT.

ONE OF THE FLASHIEST NEWCOMERS IS EZZARD CHARLES, LONGARMED CINCINNATI MIDDLEWEIGHT--NOW GROWN TO LIGHTWEIGHT SIZE--WHO WAS ONE OF THE TOP 20 FIGHTERS AMONG THE 160-POUNDERS BEFORE HE ENTERED THE ARMY. HE IS SERVING WITH A QUARTERMASTER OUTFIT HERE.

IN ADDITION TO CERDAN, ANOTHER DEFENDING CHAMPION IS LARRY CISNEROS, CALIFORNIA WELTERWEIGHT.

A BRITISH OFFICER, MAJ.LUDOVIC GARDINER, WHO ARRIVED BY AIR FROM SALONIKA DESCRIBED THE SITUATION THERE AS "TENSELY QUIET."

"THE ELAS HOLD COMLETE CONTROL THERE SO THERE ARE NO OUTWARD MANIFESTATIONS OF TROUBLE," HE SAID, ADDING THAT HE HAD BEEN TOLD "3,000 CIVILIANS HAD BEEN QUIETLY 'BUMPED OFF' BY THE ELAS, THE EAM AND THE POLICE SINCE THE GERMANS LEFT."

A GENERAL STRIKE IN SYMPATHY WITH THE ATHENS ELAS WAS CALLED OFF AFTER ONE DAY WHEN THE BRITISH TOOK CHARGE OF THE POWER STATION AND AFFORDED MILITARY PROTECTION FOR THE WATER CARTS, THE OFFICER SAID.

A BRITISH COMMUNIQUE SAID ELAS FORCES WERE REPORTED DIGGING FORTIFICATIONS AT SALONIKA AND PATRAS.

A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE INTERNATIONAL RED CROSS WHO ARRIVED IN ATHENS LAST NIGHT SAID THE FOOD SITUATION IN THE PROVINCES, PARTICULARLY IN THE MOUNTAINOUS REGIONS WHERE SNOW ALREADY HAS FALLEN, WAS DESPERATE. HE SAID THE POPULATION OF THE AREA WAS IN DANGER OF STARVING AS THE GENERAL STRIKE AT PIRAEUS, PORT OF ATHENS, HALTED THE FLOW OF RELIEF SUPPLIES. SUPPLIES, HOWEVER, WERE BEING UNLOADED AT SALONIKA.

TROOPS OF THE REGULAR GREEK ARMY MOUNTAIN BRIGADE, VETERANS OF

FIGHTING IN ITALY, ATTACKED STRONG ELAS POSITIONS IN THE FOOTHILLS OF MOUNT HYMETTUS, NORTHEAST OF THE CITY, YESTERDAY. ELAS FROM THEIR WOODED POSITIONS HAVE BEEN SNIPING AND HURLING MORTAR SHELLS ON THE TROOP BARRACKS AT GOUDI, TWO MILES NORTHEAST OF ATHENS.

AIDED BY TANKS, RAF SPITFIRES AND ARTILLERY THE TROOPS ASSAULTED THE ELAS POSITIONS AND INFLICTED HEAVY CASUALTIES. THE MOUNTAIN BRIGADE, IN THE ALL-DAY BATTLE, CAPTURED A 75 MILLIMETER GUN AND SEVERAL MORTARS. THEY ALSO CLEANED OUT A HOSPITAL BUILDING NEARBY WHICH WAS HELD BY ELAS SNIPERS.

DURING THE LAST 24 HOURS THE ELAS HAVE SHOWED SIGNS OF BECOMING BETTER COORDINATED IN THEIR BATTLE PLANS.

CONFUSION CONTINUED TO EXIST HOWEVER, AS TO THE ATTITUDE OF GENERAL SERAFIS, TITULAR HEAD OF THE ELAS MILITIA, WHO IS KNOWN TO BE PERSONALLY FRIENDLY TO THE BRITISH. ONE REPORT SAID HE HAD NOTIFIED GEN.SCOBIE THAT HE STILL CONSIDERED HIMSELF UNDER THE BRITISH GENERAL'S COMMAND. ANOTHER SAID HE AND HIS STAFF HAD GONE INTO NORTHERN GREECE, INDICATING HE DID NOT PLAN TO GIVE ANY SUPPORT TO THE REBELS IN ATHENS.

PAPANDREOU, IN A STATEMENT TODAY, DENIED HIS GOVERNMENT WAS PRO-FASCIST OR THAT THE ELAS HAD RISEN IN DEFENSE OF THE GREEK STATE.

"I REPUDIATE THESE CHARGES WITH ALL THE FORCE OF MY SOUL," HE SAID.

HE SAID THE STATEMENT WAS MADE TO DISPEL AN "ERRONEOUS IMPRESSION" ON THE PART OF FOREIGN PUBLIC OPINION.

HE DECLARED ANY ARMED GREEK NATIONALISTS ATTEMPTING TO JOIN BRITISH AND REGULAR GREEK RANKS HAD BEEN ARRESTED AND PLACED IN CONCENTRATION CAMPS.

PAPANDREOU SAID NUMEROUS CONCESSIONS HAD BEEN MADE TO LEFT-WINGERS IN AN ATTEMPT TO GAIN NATIONAL UNITY.

"I APPEAL TO DEMOCRATS AND LIBERALS OF THE WHOLE WORLD," HE DECLARED, "AND DEMAND THEIR MORAL SUPPORT BECAUSE MY GOVERNMENT DEFENDS FREEDOM AGAINST THE TYRANNY OF AN ARMED MINORITY WHICH IS FASCIST.

"IF THE EXTREME LEFTISTS HAD BELIEVED THE MAJORITY WAS ON THEIR SIDE THEY WOULD NOT HAVE RISEN BUT WOULD HAVE AGREED TO DISARMAMENT AND REMAINED IN OFFICE UNTIL A FREE ELECTION COULD BE HELD. THEIR DESPERATE ATTEMPT TO REVOLT IS FRANK ADMISSION THAT THE LEFT-WING IS NOT IN THE MAJORITY."

ATHENS, DEC. 10-(AP)-DISREGARDING BULLETS FROM MACHINE-GUNS AND SNIPERS, EDGAR M.WAHLBERG OF 1257 BANNOCK ST., DENVER, BECAME AN AMERICAN HERO OF THE ATHENS FIGHTING.

DRIVING A BATTERED, BULLET-RIDDLED TRUCK ADORNED WITH THE STARS AND STRIPES AND A HUGE RED CROSS, WAHLBERG, CHIEF WELFARE OFFICER OF THE ATHENS DISTRICT OF THE UNITED NATIONS RELIEF AND REHABILITATION ADMINISTRATION, AND HIS LOYAL ASSISTANT, MRS. AMALIA LYKOUREZOU, GREEK RED CROSS VOLUNTEER, RUSHED FROM HOSPITAL TO HOSPITAL IN THE HOTLY-CONTESTED BATTLE ZONE.

ON FRIDAY, WAHLBERG DROVE 15 MILES OUT OF THE CITY TO KIFISSIA, TAKING URGENTLY-NEEDED FOOD TO 300 REFUGEE CHILDREN FROM BURNED VILLAGES QUARTERED IN A SANITARIUM THERE. HIS WAS THE LAST DELIVERY TO GET THROUGH, FOR LATER KIFISSIA WAS CUT OFF FROM ATHENS BY THE ELAS.

"WE ASKED FOR ELAS PERMISSION TO MAKE THE TRIP SO AS TO BE ON THE SAFE SIDE, BUT IT DID NOT COME THROUGH," WAHLBERG SAID.

"WE GOT THROUGH OKAY, AND THEN ON THE WAY BACK DECIDED TO LOOK IN ON THE GREEK RED CROSS HOSPITAL THREE MILES OUTSIDE THE CITY ON THE MAIN KIFISSIA ROAD. THIS WAS IN THE EVENING.

"AT 3:30 A GREEK MOUNTAIN BRIGADE FROM THE GOUDI BARRACKS TOOK THE HOSPITAL AND DROVE THE ELAS OUT BECAUSE THEY HAD USED IT AS A SNIPERS' NEST.

"THE CONDITION OF THE PATIENTS WAS APPALLING. FOR 48 HOURS THEY HAD BEEN WITHOUT WATER AND FOOD. MOST OF THEM HAD BEEN EVACUATED TO THE BASEMENT WHERE THEY WERE LYING ON LITTERS MOANING AND BEGGING FOR WATER. IT WAS LIKE A CORNER OF A BATTLEFIELD. BULLETS WHIPPED THROUGH THE OPERATING THEATER WHERE SURGEONS WERE TRYING TO CARRY ON THEIR WORK. EVERY WINDOW IN THE PLACE WAS SMASHED."

WAHLBERG DECLARED "THE WHOLE PLACE WAS UNDER CONSTANT MACHINEGUN AND SHELL FIRE."

HE AND MRS.LYKOUREZOU CALLED ON THE COMMANDER OF THE GREEK GENDARMERIE, WHO COLLABORATED WITH THE MOUNTAIN BRIGADE IN TAKING THE HOSPITAL FROM THE ELAS, AND PREVAILED ON HIM TO RELEASE MEMBERS OF THE NURSING STAFF WHO HAD BEEN HELD FOR QUESTIONING.

MRS.LYKOUREZOU SAID THAT "UNDOUBTEDLY AMONG THE STAFF THERE WERE SOME WHO HAD SNEAKED THE ELAS MEN IN. A NUMBER OF 'PATIENTS' WHEN EXAMINED TURNED OUT TO BE FAKES. THEY WERE BANDAGED AND LAY IN BED PRETENDING TO BE ILL WHEN THE GOVERNMENT FORCES ARRIVED, HOPING TO ESCAPE THAT WAY. BULGARIANS AND RUSSIANS WERE FOUND AMONG THEM."

WAHLBERG RETURNED TO THE GREEK RED CROSS HOSPITAL SATURDAY WITH TWO TRUCKS OF FOOD. THE WATER SUPPLY, WHICH HAD BEEN TURNED ON AGAIN, HAD BEEN DISABLED BY A BULLET IN THE MAIN PIPES, AND A SHORTAGE THREATENED ONCE MORE.

WAHLBERG RETURNED TO THE HOSPITAL TODAY, TAKING A SURGEON AND AN ASSISTANT, BOTH BADLY NEEDED THERE.

BY DEAN SCHEDLER

WITH THE 77TH DIVISION ON LEYTE,MONDAY,DEC.11-(AP)-THIS DIVISION'S LIGHTNING FOUR-DAY DRIVE TO CAPTURE ORMOC, WHOSE FALL WAS ANNOUNCED BY GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR TODAY, WAS A VICTORY OBTAINED BY STRIKING THE JAPANESE WITH COMPLETE SURPRISE, AND PUSHING NORTHWARD DESPITE AN ENEMY FLANKING THREAT.

D-DAY MORNING MAJ.GEN.ANDREW BRUCE PLANNED TO SECURE AN EXTREMELY NARROW BEACHHEAD ABOUT 1,500 YARDS LONG AND 1,000 DEEP. FROM THIS PERIMETER HE WOULD WHEEL HIS DIVISION NORTH AND BEGIN THE ATTACK ALONG THE COASTAL ROAD TOWARD ORMOC.

BUT AS SOON AS AMERICAN TROOPS WERE OFF THE LANDING CRAFT AND JAPANESE OPPOSITION WAS FOUND EXTREMELY LIGHT AND SPOTTY, HE REVISED HIS PLAN AND STRUCK FOR HIS OBJECTIVE THREE MILES TO THE NORTH.

"THE STATUE OF LIBERTY" DIVISION, WITH THE AVERAGE AGE OF ITS TROOPERS OVER 28 YEARS, HIGH FOR AN INFANTRY SOLDIER, MAINTAINED THE PACE WITHOUT A LETUP. MEN FOUGHT AND LIVED WITH WHAT THEY CARRIED ON THEIR BACKS.

DURING THE FIRST DAY THEY ADVANCED TO THE OUTSKIRTS OF THE SUGAR MILL TOWN OF IPIL, MEETING ONLY LIGHT POCKETS OF RESISTANCE.

ADVANCING IN COLUMNS ALONG BOTH SIDES OF THE ROAD THESE TROOPS WITH LIGHT WEAPONS AND AUTOMATIC FIRE FLUSHED A FEW ENEMY SNIPERS FROM THE THICK GRASS AND HEDGEROWS. ENEMY SNIPERS AT TIMES WERE VERY ACCURATE.

DIGGING IN THE FIRST NIGHT AT IPIL AFTER FIGHTING THROUGH WAIST-DEEP RICE PADDIES, THE 77TH WAS SHOWN TO BE A WELL-TRAINED COMBAT GROUP.

ORDERED TO HOLD THEIR FIRE UNTIL POSITIVE CONTACT WAS MADE, OUR FORWARD PATROLS DISCHARGED ONLY BRIEF AND SPORADIC FIRE AND THERE WAS NOT "TRIGGER HAPPY" SHOOTING.

DURING THE FIRST NIGHT ENGINEERS CONSTRUCTED A MINED ROADBLOCK JUST FORWARD FROM OUR OUTER DEFENSE PERIMETER. AS EXPECTED, ABOUT MID-NIGHT AN ENEMY GROUP BELIEVED TO BE A MACHINEGUN COMPANY STARTED TO PROBE TOWARD IPIL.

LT.ELMER E.FOX, (8823 WEST RICE ST.) CHICAGO,ILL., AND HIS FIRST SERGEANT, ANTHONY FOX (CORRECT), FREDERICKTOWN,PA., SET THE TRAP AND WERE REWARDED IN THE MORNING BY FINDING PARTS OF SIX JAPANESE BLASTED BY THE EXPLOSION. THERE WAS NO FURTHER INFILTRATION.

FROM IPIL TO CAMP DOWNES, COL.WILLIAM HAMILTON, DILLON,S.C., LEADING THE FORWARD REGIMENT, CALLED FOR ARTILLERY FIRE AGAINST ENEMY POSITIONS AND WORKED FAST TOWARD HIGH GROUND OF THE CAMP LOCATION.

THIS ADVANCE MET BOLSTERED ENEMY RESISTANCE AND SEVERAL WELL-PREPARED DUGOUTS AND PILLBOXES HAD TO BE LEVELLED. AMPHIBIOUS TRACTORS BRINGING AMMUNITION AND EVACUATING THE WOUNDED FROM THE FRONT WERE PRESSED INTO CLOSE ARTILLERY SUPPORT AGAINST SOME OF THESE SPOTS.

DURING THIS PUSH JAPANESE COUNTERFIRE WAS LIMITED TO SMALL ARMS

AND AUTOMATIC WEAPONS. THE ONLY FIRE THE ENEMY SENT BACK WAS SOME ANTIAIRCRAFT GUN AIR BURSTS.

TORRENTIAL RAINS PROVIDED THE MOST DIFFICULT OBSTACLE FOR TWO DAYS. THE INFANTRY WORKED IN BOGGED RICE PADDIES IN A BLINDING RAIN, THUS AT TIMES EXPOSING THEMSELVES TO ENEMY SNIPERS. IN ONE RICE FIELD A SNIPER SHOT FIVE MEN BEFORE HE WAS LOCATED AND KILLED JUST A FEW YARDS AHEAD OF THE LINE.

SELF-PROPELLED 75 MILLIMETER GUNS GAVE CLOSE SUPPORT TO THE FAST MOVING DOUGHBOYS. THESE TANK-TYPE VEHICLES, COMMANDED BY SGT.DAVID CORE, TAYLORSTOWN,PA., SPEARHEADED THE DRIVE TOWARD CAMP DOWNES, WIPING OUT JAPANESE MACHINEGUN EMPLACEMENTS IN A THICK BAMBOO GROVE.

WORKING IN SUCH A TIGHT POSITION, THE 77TH DIVISION WAS VULNERABLE TO ENEMY AIR ATTACKS BUT ONLY A FEW DUSK AND DAWN RAIDERS MOLESTED OUR REAR AREAS, INFLICTING NO APPRECIABLE DAMAGE.

THE HIGH GROUND AT CAMP DOWNES WAS IDEAL FOR ARTILLERY COMMANDING ORMOC POSITIONS. SEVERAL JAPANESE BARRACKS STANDING INTACT WERE PRESSED INTO USE FOR MEDICAL EVACUATION. JAPANESE ANTIAIRCRAFT GUN POSITIONS WERE LEFT WITH GUNS IN MOUNTS AND AMPLE AMMUNITION STORES.

ALTHOUGH THE OBJECTIVE IS GAINED AND MOST OF THE WEST COAST OF LEYTE IS IN OUR HANDS, JAPANESE POCKETS TO THE NORTH AND EAST MAY STILL BE SIZABLE, AND SOME BITTER FIGHTING MAY BE NECESSARY TO SMASH THE ENEMY NESTS AND PREVENT ESCAPE OF THE NIPPONESE BY SEA.

WITH THE U.S. 77TH DIVISION, LEYTE, PHILIPPINES, DEC.7 -(DELAYED)-GREEN-CLAD DOUGHBOYS OF THE 77TH (STATUE OF LIBERTY) DIVISION FANNED OUT HARD AND FAST FROM THEIR SMALL BEACHHEAD PERIMETER TODAY, DRIVING ALONG THE VITAL JAPANESE SUPPLY ROAD TOWARD THE PORT OF ORMOC.

THE 77TH MADE THE BEACHHEAD TODAY, LANDING UNDER THE PROTECTION OF PLANES AND NAVAL SURFACE CRAFT.

AS THIS IS WRITTEN ADVANCE INFANTRY AND TANK ELEMENTS OF THE DIVISION, VETERAN OF THE GUAM CAMPAIGN, ARE DIGGING IN JUST OUTSIDE THE VILLAGE OF IPIL, THREE MILES SOUTH OF ORMOC.

THE AMERICANS ARE BEING KEPT OUT OF THE TOWN BY EARTH-SHAKING EXPLOSIONS SET OFF BY HEAVY YANK ARTILLERY BULLSEYE-HITS ON A HUGE JAPANESE AMMUNITION AND GASOLINE DUMP ON THE SOUTHERN OUTSKIRTS OF THE TOWN.

DEBRIS FROM THE EXPLODING DUMP SHOWERS DOWN ON THE WAITING AMERICANS.

THE TROOPS, UNDER COL. STEVEN SMITH HAMILTON, OF DILLON, S.C., HAVE ADVANCED IN COLUMN ALONG THE ROAD, ALMOST UNCHECKED EXCEPT FOR SMALL POCKETS OF JAPANESE RESISTANCE. AUTOMATIC RIFLE FIRE AND FLAME THROWERS CLEANED OUT THE POCKETS.

THE QUICK LANDING CAUGHT THE JAPANESE BY SURPRISE. EVIDENCE OF THIS WAS SEEN IN ABANDONED SUPPLY DUMPS ALONG THE ROAD AND NIPA SHACKS HASTILY DESERTED BY THEIR FORMER SOLDIER OCCUPANTS. THEY ALSO LEFT A FLOATPLANE, UNDAMAGED.

FROM SOME OF THE SMALL SHACKS NEAR THE SUPPLY DUMPS, THE ENEMY RUSHED INTO THE HILLS, LEAVING WARM FOOD ON THE TABLES. SEVERAL TRUCKS WERE FOUND IN GOOD CONDITION.

THE JAPANESE ALSO LEFT QUANTITIES OF MEDICAL SUPPLIES AS WELL AS FOOD AND AMMUNITION, AND JUDGING FROM THE PILES OF POSTCARDS AND WRITING PAPER, A COMPLETE SPECIAL SERVICE UNIT WAS ESTABLISHED HERE.

AS THE ADVANCE SWEPT NORTH THE TERRAIN TO THE EAST OF THE ROAD GRADUALLY UNFOLDED INTO MORE OPEN AND PASSABLE GROUND, WITH A FEW SMALL HILLS. FROM THE BEACHHEAD TO THIS POINT THERE HAD BEEN THICK JUNGLE ALONG THE EASTERN SIDE OF THE ROAD AND MANY DEEP RICE PADDIES, THROUGH WHICH THE YANKS WADED UP TO THEIR WAISTS IN MUD AND WATER.

THE DOUGHBOYS ARE MOPPING UP ENEMY POCKETS AS THEY ROLL NORTHWARD TOWARD A JUNCTURE WITH THE 77TH DIVISION ON ITS BEACHHEAD THREE MILES SOUTH OF ORMOC. THE DIVISIONS ARE ABOUT FOUR MILES APART.

WHICH HAD THE PRIME MISSION HERE OF ANNIHILATING THE U.S. 7TH, CONQUEROR OF THE NIPPONESE AT ATTU AND KWAJEILIN, IS BEING SQUEEZED INTO AN EVER-NARROWING CORRIDOR BETWEEN THE TWO AMERICAN FORCES.

ABANDONED ENEMY AMMUNITION DUMPS FOUND BY THE AMERICANS AND THE LIGHT RESISTANCE ENCOUNTERED INDICATE THAT THE JAPANESE ARE RETREATING NORTH WHERE THEY MAY BE FORCED INTO A SUICIDE STAND.

VCOL. CURTIS O'SULLIVAN OF NAPA, CALIF., A FRONTLINE OFFICER, SAID THE NIPPONESE, UP TO TWO DAYS AGO, HAD BEEN FIGHTING A SKULFUL DELAYING ACTION BY MAKING THE MOST OF THE RUGGED TERRAIN.

AFTER THE SEVENTH DIVISION SCALED HILL 606 OVERLOOKING THE VALLEY BEYOND, THE JAPANESE MADE ONLY HALF-HEARTED STANDS.

IN A GREAT SURGE, AMERICAN INFANTRYMEN, SUPPORTED BY LIGHT TANKS, SWEPT ACROSS CALINGATNGAN AND SIBUGAY RIVERS, SWOLLEN BY RAIN, AND ON PAST THE SMOLDERING RUINS OF ALBUERA VILLAGE, WHICH IS ABOUT SEVEN MILES SOUTH OF ORMOC.

MOST OF THE JAPANESE OF THE 26TH DIVISION HAVE BEEN TOUGH FELLOWS, O'SULLIVAN SAID. SOME OF THOSE WHOSE BODIES LITTER THE BATTLEFIELD WERE WELL OVER SIX FEET TALL.

THE PROGRESS OF THE SEVENTH UNTIL TWO DAYS AGO WAS SLOWED BY RUGGED RIDGES COVERED WITH BAMBOO THICKETS, WHERE THE JAPANESE DEPLOYED FOR THEIR REAR GUARD ACTION. THE AMERICANS POUNDED THEM HEAVILY WITH ARTILLERY.

THE SEVENTH NOW HOLDS COMMANDING POSITIONS IN THE SOUTHERN SECTOR. FROM ITS VANTAGE POINT ATOP HILL 606 WE CAN SEE WHAT IS LEFT OF ORMOC, WHICH HAS BEEN THE JAPANESE SUPPLY BASE IN THIS AREA.

THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT AMERICAN ARTILLERY AND AIRCRAFT HAVE DEALT ORMOC DEVASTATING BLOWS WHICH HAVE WRECKED MOST OF ITS BUILDINGS.

First Army Captures Four Towns in Big Drive on Cologne.

SARREGUEMINES FALLS

Hodges' Forces Threaten Last Outposts on Approaches to Duren.

PARIS, Dec. 11.—(AP) The Germans were driven from their French buffer cities of Haguenau and Sarreguemines today and their last defenses west of the Roer river before Cologne were caving in as three U. S. armies redoubled blows at the Reich from west and south.

Indications mounted that the enemy was withdrawing at numerous sectors along the Western front, before the First army at the approaches to Cologne's plain, and before the Third and Seventh from Sarreguemines to the Rhine.

The First army drive on the Roer river positions added up to three miles in two days as four more towns in a 15-mile assault arc were captured, four or five more were entered and others were by-passed.

Drive Toward Duren

At last reports the First was closing hard upon Mariaweiler, only a mile and a half from Duren, key to the Roer river line, and upon Hoven, within 500 yards of the west bank of the Roer to the north.

While the U. S. Seventh army captured Haguenau—greatest base left to the enemy in France—one column speared into the Maginot line town of Woerth, eight miles north and seven from Germany. Farther west beyond Niederbronn the Americans hacked at enemy positions less than four miles from the border.

The U. S. Third army broke the stubborn German resistance in Sarreguemines, standing at the southern door to the industrial Saar basin, and lanced three miles northeast to the border. Big guns hammered two Saar cities five to seven miles inside the basin.

Despite patchy weather, 300 fighter-bombers ripped into German positions just ahead of the American assault lines in the Roer valley after supply lines in the enemy's rear had been hammered by 1,600 U. S. heavy bombers, greatest air fleet ever sent aloft in a single operation.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army was threatening the last two towns on the approaches to Duren, and a front dispatch said the Germans appeared to be fighting mainly a screening action while moving the bulk of their strength across the Roer to new defense positions.

Enemy Forces Retreat

Another front dispatch recording the fall of Haguenau to Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army troops said there were indications the Germans were retreating to the Maginot and Siegfried lines all along the Seventh army front.

From Lt. Gen. Patton's Third

30. 24 — 21147

army front, a dispatch quoted American officers as seeing signs of German weakening in the Siegfried line outpost of Fraulautern, as fiercely defended a town as any yet struck by the Americans in the western Saarland.

Hodges' troops overran Schlich, Echtz, and Dhorm in the center of their assault arc about two and a half miles from Duren, and Schafberg, five miles southwest of Duren.

They were digging the Germans from Pier, Merken, Merode, and Gey, house by house as their lines moved up 17 miles inside Germany for the deepest penetration of the Reich and 21 miles from Cologne on the Rhine.

Only at one point did the Germans strike back with anything like their customary strength, and that was at Strass, southwest of Duren, where the counterblow was contained.

The failure of the Germans to mount effective counter-attacks in this battle swirling 21 miles west of Cologne indicated that they were pulling back to fortified positions on the eastern bank of the Roer, leaving only screening forces behind.

Seventh Takes Haguenau

In northern Alsace one of the day's biggest prizes fell to the U. S. Seventh army north of Strasbourg, where it captured the enemy's big supply and communications center of Haguenau on the invasion route to the industrial palatinate of Germany, whose border is 15 miles north.

The U. S. Third army, meeting its first stern test in the Siegfried Line of the Saar basin, warded off at least three determined counter-blows at Dillingen and extended its lines slightly there and around Saarlautern, three miles southeast.

On its southern flank, the Third in a mile and a half advance from its Saar bridgehead at Sarreguemines captured the town of Folpersviller, but a half mile from the Saar border for its nearest approach to the industrial region from the south.

The U. S. Seventh and the French First armies battled floods as well as Germans in their attempts to erase the last German pockets west of the Rhine.

Storming the villages of Kientzheim and Siegelsheim they edged to within three and a half miles of Colmar, which the Germans are defending to protect withdrawals across the Rhine.

Hampered by floods, the Canadian First army in eastern Holland limited activity to a raid on enemy outposts three miles northeast of Nijmegen, taking 20 prisoners.

The First army picked up today where it left off yesterday and in gains of more than a mile occupied Echtz, two and a half miles northwest of Duren, Dhorm, two and a half miles west, and Schafberg, five miles southwest.

Forces due west of the rubble heap of Duren were fighting for a tree-grown slag heap near Konzendorf, two miles from the edge of the city.

Doughboys were fighting in the streets of Merken, almost on the Roer three and a half miles northwest of Duren, and some of them were around the city a quarter of a mile to the east. Here they were 21 airline miles from the western edge of Cologne.

Strongest German resistance came at the northern end of the front, where the Germans were locked in street fighting in Pier and at the approaches to Schophoven, six miles northwest of Duren. The enemy threw tanks and self-propelled guns into the battle.

The front was broadened by three miles when the Americans attacked and captured high ground just north of Bergstein, almost on the Roer seven miles south of Duren.

U.S. 1st Army Now 17 Miles Into Reich

Paris, Dec. 11 (AP)—First Army veterans drove within two and a half miles of the Roer River citadel of Duren today and advanced one and a half miles along the Aachen-Cologne superhighway to Merken, seventeen miles inside Germany and the deepest point of conquest.

Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's shock troops fought toward the Roer on a ten-mile front. More than six inches of fresh snow covered the ground they battled over.

Dhorn, three miles west of Duren, and Echtz, two and a half miles northwest, were captured. Nearby Geich, Obergeich and Strass were taken yesterday.

Within Sight Of Duren

Late in the day the 1st Army had fought a quarter of a mile east of Echtz within plain view of the snow-covered ruins of Duren. It also seized Schlich, two and a half miles west of Duren, although fighting continued west of the village.

All along the 1st Army front the Germans were giving ground and apparently making only rear-guard fights while moving the bulk of their forces beyond the Roer. Three prepared German lines lie within 2,500 yards of the east bank of that river.

Total advances since the drive started yesterday were three miles or more at places. Dive bombers supported the foot troops with screaming attacks on hidden German 88-millimeter guns.

Fighting In Five Villages

Street fighting raged in at least five villages, the farthest of which was five miles from Duren. These were Pier, Merken, Gey, Merode and Schafberg. The Germans employed dug-in tanks and self-propelled guns at Gey.

On the Saarland front to the south, Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's 3d Army fought amid Siegfried Line defenses at Dillingen and Saarlautern, encountering ever stiffening resistance. The Nazis trained tanks and guns on the Americans from vantage points inside buildings.

Eleven German attacks have been made in this area in the past two days. Three came at Dillingen before dawn today. In one of these 85 Germans made a charge shouting "Heil Hitler!" Every Nazi was killed.

More Street-Fighting

On Patton's right, the United States 7th Army fought inside Haguenau and three near-by towns, including Reichshoffen.

The 95th Division reported cleaning out 25 pillboxes, 30 fortified buildings and several dugin tanks yesterday inside Saarlautern, which the Americans half won eight days ago. Patton's men also fought in the streets of Roden and Fraulautern, which are beyond Saarlautern, and in Sarreguemines.

At Merken, the 1st Army was within 22 miles of Cologne and astride the main highway which the Germans call Autobahn. The road crosses the Roer three miles north of Duren and then splits into lesser roads in the flat rolling approaches to Cologne.

On Patton's right, the 7th Army was at grips with the Germans on the east side of Haguenau, into which the 79th Infantry Division forced its way yesterday. Heavy fighting raged at several places in the Haguenau area, including the streets of Reichshoffen, a mile south of Niederbronn.

Below Gey, the Germans in the first light today attacked Americans holding Strass. Front-line reports said the Yanks were holding.

The 35th and 26th Infantry Divisions of the 3d Army extended their lines in the center of the Western front east of Saareguemines, squeezing the Germans out of some of the last bits of France in that sector.

No further progress was reported either toward Saarbrucken, still three miles or so ahead of American troops, or inside the near-by French city of Forbach.

Two Towns Stormed

Floods impeded other 7th Army units and French 1st Army troops in the cleanup of what remains of the Alsatian pocket around Colmar. The storming of Kientzheim and Sigelsheim put the Americans within three and a half miles of Colmar to the northwest. The French were four miles west.

[The Germans said 16 infantry and tank divisions, possibly 225,000 men, were exerting pressure toward Duren. Only ten divisions have been identified in Hodges's First Army.

Berlin Admits Setbacks

[Berlin said the center of heaviest fighting was still along the Saar at Dillingen and Saarlautern, where "energetic German counterthrusts forced the Americans to abandon several pillboxes. The Nazis acknowledged that the 3d Army had captured a dozen groups of pillboxes in Dillingen and that "pillbox busters are now harassing these with flamethrowers."]

Battlefront dispatches said the Germans had moved up more artillery in the Saarlautern and Dillingen sectors and fired 6,000 rounds into the two towns on each of three recent days.

Folpersviller Taken

Striking east and northeast from Sarreguemines, the 35th Division captured Folpersviller, two miles away. The 26th Division captured an underground factory near Wittring, five miles southeast of Sarreguemines.

French 1st Army troops in southern Alsace captured the defensive center of Thann, ten miles northwest of Mulhouse, and pressed eastward against German units withdrawing across the Rhine.

7TH ADVANCES PAST HAGUENAU

City Falls As Patch's Troops Gain On 25-Mile Front

With U.S. 7th Army in Alsace, Dec. 11 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's 7th Army lashed out on a 25-mile front in northern Alsace tadty, capturing Haguenau and sweeping on five miles to the north and east in a thrust toward the Siegfried Line near the Rhine.

After taking Haguenau, the Americans struck quickly around the vast Haguenau Forest north of the city to Soufflenheim, 10 miles to the east, while other troops pushed through the woods and entered Walbourg, 5 miles north of Haguenau.

On the left flank and to the north, the advance reached Petit Rederching, 5 miles west of Bitche, against heavy tank fire. The Yanks ran into strong road blocks and sizable forces of enemy troops in well-intrenched positions in this neighborhood.

Two Miles From Border

Some of the Americans reached a point only 2 miles from the Reich border in an unidentifiable sector.

At Petit Rederching, they are a little less than 4 miles south of the border. North and northwest of Haguenau they are about seven miles from the border, having seized Reichshoffen and entered Froeschwiller, both southeast of Neiderbronn.

The twin drive on both sides of the Vosges Mountains against declining enemy resistence brought closer the battle for the Siegfried Line.

The Americans had driven to the southwestern suburbs of Haguenau yesterday, and the Germans apparently pulled out during the night, abandoning the last sizable town on which they could hinge a defense of the 7th Army's steady push to the frontier.

German Retreat Indicated

As the 79th Infantry Division occupied the old French garrison city of 16,000 population, there were indications the Germans were retreating to the Maginot and Siegfried lines all along the 7th's front.

The Germans left the badly damaged city loaded with mines. Even a church steeple and a children's swing in the park were booby-trapped.

The absence of any artillery or mortar fire from the thick Haguenau Forest just north of the city may support the belief that the Germans have no intention of manning the Maginot Line forts very strongly.

Sizable quantities of guns and other material were abandoned by the Germans in their flight from Haguenau over the Moder River, but nine bridges in and around the city were blown up.

Train Caught By Fire

Apparently they had planned to evacuate troops in a train which was caught by our fire. One car alone contained 28 German dead.

Twenty-five Germans walked into the post of Major Herbert Sponheln, San Diego, Cal., and surrendered.

The American entry liberated 200 women political prisoners who were scheduled to be killed by the Germans for such acts as offering food to Allied prisoners.

Meanwhile, far south on the Alsatian Plain, fighting was making slow progress around both Colmar and Mulhouse. It was revealed that the United States 36th Infantry Division now is under the French 1st Army.

The French finally cleared the west bank of the Rhine from Kembs 8 miles south to the Swiss border.

Advances between the Thur and Doller rivers overran Leimbach, 10 miles northwest of Mulhouse. The flooded Ill River, a mile over its banks around Selestat, slowed the French drive south toward Colmar.

Miracles Become Commonplace In Battlefront Field Hospitals

Major Reiter, of Southport, 'Goes to Work on Jim' in German Schoolhouse.

By DON WHITEHEAD

AN AMERICAN FIELD HOSPITAL IN GERMANY, Nov. 29—(Delayed)—(AP) The kid with the thin waxen face looked up from his cot and said, "say, Doc, how about a cuppa hot coffee?"

It's amazing that this young sergeant still was alive and could speak after shrapnel had torn through his flesh as he was fighting in the dark, forbidding Hurtgen forest.

But Miracles became almost commonplace in this American field hospital. Doctors and nurses are fighting a 24-hour battle with death—salvaging life for the wounded men who fall under the shells and bullets of the enemy only four miles away.

The slim sergeant—we'll call him Jim—had no right to expect to live. But there he was, asking for hot coffee—and the doctor still said he had one chance in ten of pulling through.

One chance in ten wasn't much but at least there was hope as that slim kid lay in a room of the old schoolhouse which had been converted into a hospital. Others were there, too—the "non-transportable" wounded—soldiers so badly hurt they had to have immediate surgery if they were to live. No time could be lost carrying them back to the rear areas.

All the wounded had chest or abdominal wounds, fractured pelvic bones or other serious injuries. But, on the average, they had 85 chances to live against 15 that death would overtake them on German soil.

Jim was the sickest of all. He was with his platoon fighting through the woods when a German shell exploded and sent hot fragments into his body. He was hit in the stomach and a slug perforated his small bowel. Another fractured right thigh and inflicted other injuries. His right hand was smashed and a piece of stell ripped off the flesh from one arm.

Jim was hit in the morning and that, in a way, was lucky. If he'd been wounded at dusk he would have lain in the forest all night before the litter bearers found him.

Medics picked Jim up—and laboriously carried him in. They didn't think there was any chance for him because they couldn't detect his pulse. When he was brought here from a forward aid station, Maj. Benjamin Reiter, of Southport, Conn., formerly on the staff of Bridgeport hospital, went to work on him.

"The odds were against us, but we have to take those chances," Reiter said. "That's the decision we must take very often."

First, he repaired the damage to

Jim's bowel and then he repaired other injuries. Reiter didn't touch the fractured pelvis. He'll do that later if Jim pulls through.

"It's in cases like these where field hospitals fit into the picture," explained Col. Harry P. Harper of Rochester, Minn., a physician with the Mayo clinic until he entered the Army. "Our job is to get up as near the front as possible to do surgery on the most seriously wounded soldiers.

'Now Entering Reich By Courtesy Of 95th'

With U.S. 3d Army, Dec. 11 (AP).—Since Berlin juggled the Franco-German border in 1940 to embrace Alsace-Lorraine, there are no markers along the frontier where the 3d Army has been crossing.

So, the Army put up little signs saying: "You are now entering enemy territory. Remain alert."

But along the road which the 95th Division fought on the way to Saarlautern there is a much larger sign. It says:

"You are now entering Germany through the courtesy of the 95th Division."

4 Germans Convicted Of Straying, Are Fined

With U.S. 3d Army, Dec. 11 (AP)—In the first announced summary court-martial action against German civilians in the 3d Army area, four persons were convicted today of leaving their communities without permission and were fined $30.

The hearing was held in the 5th Division's sector, with two men and six women accused of illegal wandering. Four were acquitted.

GERMANS WARNED ABOUT MILITARISM

The German people were told today in a proclamation issued in the name of Gen. Eisenhower to beware of joining or encouraging others to join underground military organizations.

The broadcast proclamation, eighth in a series explaining Allied Military Government plans to the Germans, was reported by the Office of War Information.

It told the German people that militarism must be stamped out in Germany and that the population would be called upon to surrender articles of military significance including weapons, ammunition, explosives and radio transmitters.

Veteran of 3 Invasions Receives Medal of Honor

Kansas Farmer, Ex-Sergeant, Now First Lieutenant

PARIS, Dec. 11 (AP).—A veteran of three invasion landings, First Lieutenant Walter D. Ehlers, twenty-three-year-old farmer from Manhattan, Kan., received today the nation's highest award, the Congressional Medal of Honor, for gallantry in action on the Normandy beachhead.

Ehlers, who until two days ago was a staff sergeant, received the award from another Kansan, Lieutenant General John C. H. Lee, commanding general of the communications zone. Lee is from Junction City, which is in the next county from Manhattan and is the home of Ehlers's grandfather, Claus Ehlers.

Tomorrow Ehlers, who has been with the 1st Division of the 1st Army in Germany, will start home on a thirty-day furlough. He participated in the landings at Casablanca, in Sicily and on the Normandy beachhead D-Day. He has been overseas two years. He entered the Army in October, 1940.

Leading an assault squad June 9 near Goville, Ehlers found his men held up by heavy mortar and machine-gun fire. Alone, with a rifle and bayonet he killed eighteen Germans, silencing two machine-gun nests and two mortar crews. A sniper shot him in the back, but Ehlers turned around and killed the sniper. Then he carried a wounded rifleman back to a first aid station through a shower of steel. There he insisted on returning into the field to retrieve his own rifle, which he had been forced to leave when he carried the injured comrade.

Mrs. Luce Back in Paris, Lauds U.S. Army Chiefs

Says Front Commanders Stress Urgent Need for Wacs

PARIS, Dec. 11 (AP).—Representative Clare Boothe Luce, Republican, of Connecticut, said today on her return here from a tour of the western front that the American people can feel "very lucky" in their military leaders. She and sixteen male members of the House Military Affairs Committee leave tomorrow for the Mediterranean theater.

Mrs. Luce said she felt some of the troops were not getting enough credit.

"I don't think the nurses get the break they deserve," she declared. "Some have been lieutenants for years. They should get higher promotions, and more often.

"If the people back home only knew what tough lives the Wacs are leading and how badly they are needed and how every commander asked me, 'Could you get us more Wacs?' then perhaps more women would join up."

The most difficult supply problems would have been whipped, she ventured, "if we had run the home front as well as the battle front." She said she had always favored legislation to freeze or draft men into essential war industries, plus female conscription if necessary.

One correspondent inquired if she thought such a quick tour could give much insight into a complex situation. Mrs. Luce replied that the knowledge could be only superficial unless one had the background and experience. "But I've been in this war since 1938 and have the background," she added.

French Resistance Asks More Alliances

Paris, Dec. 11 (AP)—France's semi-governmental national Council of Resistance today suggested France should form alliances with other members of the United Nations similar to the Russian pact negotiated by Gen. Charles de Gaulle in Moscow.

News of the mutual assistance treaty with the Soviet was greeted with "profound satisfaction" at a special plenary session of the council, central body of liberation groups.

Navigator Holds Eyes Open With His Fingers

A U.S. Bomber Station, England Dec. 11 (AP)—Navigator Carl L. Hoag, Jr., held his eyes open with his fingers four hours and guided his Fortress home after splinters fom flak had severed the muscles activating his eyelids.

The air forces announced this today when the Distinguished Service Cross was awarded the lieutenant from San Mateo, Cal. America's second highest award was presented by Lieut. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of United States Strategic Air Force in Europe.

Flying his second mission, the 21-year-old navigator was wounded shortly after "bombs away." A flak burst crashed through the flooring of his compartment. Fragments smashed his table and sent jagged steel and wood splinters into his face and eyes.

The pilot, Lieut. George K. Cracroft, of Helena, Ark., gave Hoag airspeeds and instrument readings, while other crew members provided map information. By dead reckoning, the navigator found a plan of flight through the dense undercast and Copilot Lieutenant Martin Karant made an emergency landing in England.

Hoag, former Stanford University student, has recovered full vision in one eye, and wounds have healed in the other. He expects to resume active duty.

'No Victory Till Fall'

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Don Whitehead, Associated Press war correspondent just returned from the Western front, said last night he thought that Germany would not be defeated before next fall.

Speaking on the radio program, "We the People," Whitehead added:

"And I also think that the German people won't crack—because they aren't organized to overthrow the Government. They work and fight together because they have to. Yet among those Germans inside our lines there is no community spirit binding them together."

FIRST WORLD WAR IS TOPPED BY YEAR

Germany Shows Few Signs Of Collapse Like In 1918

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—History's bloodiest and costliest conflict passed a new milestone today to become a year longer than the first World War, and Germany showed few signs of such an internal collapse as brought about its defeat in 1918.

This war is 5 years 14 weeks and 2 days old today.

World War I ended in 4 years 14 weeks and 2 days—six hours after the armistice terms were signed in Marshal Foch's railroad carriage at 5 A.M. on November 11, 1918, in Compiegne Forest.

Reich Better Off Than In '18

Tendency to discount the possibility of a home-front revolt was strengthened today by British Ministry of Economic Warfare reports generally showing that the average German family is better fed and better clothed now than it was in 1918.

For example, a ministry spokesman said the German ration per adult now amounts to about 7½ ounces of sugar a week, 9 ounces of meat, 9½ of fats, about 78 of bread and about 5½ to 7½ pounds of potatoes.

Food Comparison With 1918

In February, 1918—although there was no national ration system—the average German was getting about 5 ounces of sugar, 7½ ounces of meat, less than 3 of fats, 31 of bread and about the same quantity of potatoes as now.

Other ministry estimates:

Clothes—A great deal worse off in 1918 than now.

Manpower—About the same.

Munitions—Few vital shortages now, but the German position in 1918 was better.

ENEMY DEFENDERS OF ORMOC CRUSHED IN SWIFT ASSAULT

Thousands of Japanese Troops Killed as Amer-icans Close Vise.

FIERCE FIGHTING AHEAD

Three U. S. Columns Press Remaining Forces Into Narrowing Pocket.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Tuesday, Dec. 12.—(AP) Annihilation of the entire defending garrison at Ormoc, Yank-captured port on Leyte island, and destruction of thousands of Japanese trapped in a pocket to the south were announced by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today.

MacArthur reported that the veteran 77th Division which landed last week four miles below Ormoc had been joined by the Seventh Division, closing the southern jaw of a nutcracker vise, and "enemy forces which were trapped between the two have been destroyed."

Quantities of Supplies Seized

Great quantities of equipment and supplies were seized.

Fierce fighting preceded final destruction of the Ormoc garrison. Fall of Ormoc, Japan's last big port of reinforcement for her troops to the north in the Ormoc corridor, was a sharp blow to the enemy. Its capture Sunday was announced yesterday.

"The fighting in Ormoc itself before its fall was of the most desperate character," MacArthur reported.

The General reported yesterday that "many thousands" of Japanese were in the narrowing pocket between the 77th and Seventh Divisions coming together just below Ormoc.

A third Yank division, the 32nd, was pressing against the Japanese to the north despite almost impassable terrain.

Air activity continued on a destructive scale. Airdromes in the central Philippines were bombed anew and enemy shipping was blasted over a wide area. Petroleum installations on Borneo took direct bomb hits, flooding the Tarakan and Balikpapan fields with flaming oil. One freighter was sunk offshore.

The surprise landing of the 77th south of Ormoc last week split the enemy forces. Capture of Ormoc Sunday (Philippine time) ended the possibility of reinforcement or supply and nipped any hope the two forces may have had of retiring into that battered port for a junction and final stand.

Maj. Gen. Andrew Bruce's 77th division seized Ormoc in a lightning move to the north from its easily won beachhead, capitalizing on the lack of enemy resistance. In four days it battled through to its objective, living and fighting on what it carried on its back.

Enemy Forces Trapped

The enemy forces below Ormoc "are unable to extricate themselves," said Monday's communique announcing capture of Ormoc, "although many thousands strong." It added they are "being destroyed with little opportunity for effective retaliation."

Units of the 77th Division are to the north of this enemy force, the 7th infantry division is battering it from the south and other elements of the 24th corps are driving in over the mountains from the east. The latter already have contacted the 7th near Albuera, on the coast. A junction of the 7th and 77th was expected hourly.

Meanwhile in the corridor north of Ormoc that 32nd infantry division bore down on Japanese isolated in that area. They have established a stout roadblock on the Ormoc highway which has resisted every enemy counterattack.

Destruction of the southern enemy force will enable the 7th and 77th divisions to drive northward, squeezing the enemy in the corridor and taking his defenses from the rear.

by Americans Who Met Slight Resistance.

DEC 12 1944

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Leyte Island's strategic seaport of Ormoc was in American hands today—captured just four days after surprise landings to the south—and three columns of veteran American troops put a nutcracker on thousands of Japs trapped in a narrow pocket by the action.

Ormoc was seized in midafternoon Sunday by the American Seventy-seventh Division, which launched the knockout attack in early morning from the town's outskirts after a quick drive from beachheads established Thursday under naval and air cover.

The American Seventh Division was less than a mile from Ormoc after making contact at Albuera on the west coast with a column which came west over the hills from Burauen in Leyte Valley. In the ever-narrowing corridor between these forces were thousands of Japs facing a deadly squeeze play.

Japs Are Trapped.

"Trapped and compressed into a narrow pocket by these three Allied columns, the enemy's forces in the southern segment of the Yamashita line, although many thousands strong, are unable to extricate themselves," Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said. "They are being destroyed with little opportunity for effec-

Associated Press correspondent Dean Schedler, with the Seventy-seventh Division, wrote that Major-Gen. Andrew Bruce's veteran outfit found opposition surprisingly light upon securing a beachhead and, revising plans, immediately pushed toward Ormoc along the coastal road, meeting only light pockets of resistance at first. Later strong dugouts and pillboxes had to be destroyed.

Capture of Ormoc represents a heavy blow to the Japs. It was vital to the enemy as a reinforcement port for his troops in the Ormoc corridor running through mountain country from Ormoc to Carigara Bay on the north. This corridor, on the northwest shoulder of the island, is Japan's last effective grasp on Leyte, which Tokyo considers the key to the Philippines campaign. The Japs still have a small port facing the Visayan Sea. This is Palompon, eighteen miles northwest of Ormoc.

Campaign Not Over Yet.

Ormoc's seizure, wrote Associated Press Correspondent Murlin Spencer, "does not mean the Leyte campaign is concluded. There is still much heavy fighting to be done before Jap forces both south and north of Ormoc are wiped out."

Al Dopking of the Associated Press said the Japs appeared to be retreating from the Seventh Division but were expected to make a desperate, final stand. There was every indication the Japs would make a fight for every inch of Leyte.

American fighter planes were active in combat over the fighting zone and bombers scored effective hits on central Philippines shipping and airdromes.

A total of 268 tons of explosives blasted runways and other airdrome installations on Cebu, Negros, Panay and Masbate islands in the central Philippines. Two freighters were sunk and three damaged.

Japs Claim 5 Ships.

Two large transports, a cruiser or large destroyer and two landing barges were rammed and sunk by Jap airplanes in Surigao Strait southeast of Leyte Island in the Philippines, Japanese Imperial Headquarters claimed in a communique today.

200 Jap Parachutists Fought Off By 34 Yanks

DAVIS

Leyte, Dec. 10 [AP—Delayed]—Landing of Japanese parachutists near an eastern Leyte airfield at San Pablo in the dusk of December 6, and the valiant resistance of 34 outnumbered Americans was described today by a 5th Air Force troop carrier surgeon.

Major George Murphy, of Paterson, N.J., told how the small band of flyers and ground crewmen stood fast through the night and fought off Japanese parachutists shortly after dawn.

Of the 34 men, only 12 returned to the American lines. Four pilots, a communications officer and 17 enlisted men are missing.

Sees 24 Enemy Planes

Murphy said he counted 24 enemy transport planes gliding in low over Leyte's central mountain range.

"It was about 8 P.M. and there had been a brilliant red sunset," he said. "The sky was still slightly gray in the west when I saw them. It was too dark to see the 'chutists fall, but there was a terrific ack-ack display and I did see two transports crash in flames."

The Japanese took to the woods.

Corporal Thomas Berzedett, of Kentucky, one of the twelve who got back to the American lines, said:

"We only had small arms, but we did our best to shoot 'em as they floated down."

Wait For Attack

Murphy said the enemy skytroopers were crafty. Instead of launching an immediate attack against the Americans, they hid in the undergrowth and dense woods near the field.

About 2 A.M. of the seventh, Medical Sergeant Ray Jokelan, a Minnesotan, thought he heard firing in the distance. Jokelan was given permission to gather up medical supplies and records and load them in a truck and drive to Dulag, some ten miles east.

The other soldiers slept on the ground with guns at their sides. The Japanese remained in hiding until 6.20 when the men were in the mess hall eating breakfast. A small group of Japanese was spotted and fired upon as they advanced from a near-by rice paddy.

The troops withdrew quickly to their foxholes. And soon nearly a hundred Japanese charged the mess hall.

"About a dozen Filipinos still were in the mess hall. They didn't have a chance. They were slaughtered," Corporal Berzedett said.

"We had carbines, .45's, and one tommy gun. The Japs had light mortars and grenades, as well as machine guns. It was one hell of a situation.

Sergeant Shoots Eight

"I saw the boy with the tommy gun—he's a master sergeant from Texas named Betson—shoot eight Japs."

Berzedett lay low for several hours, then determined to escape. He tunneled his way under a log and crawled on his belly to high grass. Then he made a final dash to a fringe of trees.

As Berzedett ran he heard a moan and returned to find one of his officers seriously wounded by mortar fragments. He picked up the officer and staggered on blindly.

Machine Guns Stop

Machine guns began firing from a new direction as Berzedett struggled along with the wounded officer. In desperation, he stopped and waved his arms. The machine-gun fire stopped.

"Those machine guns were ours and we were safe," he said.

Betson and his tommy gun also escaped. He and Berzedett had previous combat instruction with the infantry before being transferred to the Air Corps.

Most of the Japanese parachutists, estimated at two hundred, were mopped up during the day.

U.S. Planes Pound Jap Bases For Saipan Raids

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 11 (AP)—Navy, army and marine planes teamed up for a series of neutralization raids from December 8 through December 10, aimed primarily at bases from which the Japanese have been trying to strike the B-29 base at Saipan from which attacks on Japan are mounted.

Iwo Jima in the Volcanos, said today's navy announcement of the aerial thrusts, was attacked by 7th Army Air Force Liberators on Friday and Saturday. Their attack was directed at the airstrip and installations.

Also Strike In Bonins

Navy planes struck at targets on Haha Jiba, in the Bonins north of Iwo and within 650 miles of Tokyo.

Corsairs and Avengers of the 2d Marine Aircraft Wing strafed Babelthuap, in the Palaus of the western Carolines, and Pagan airstrip in the Marianas. Pagan is north of Saipan.

Navy and marine aircraft continued their neutralization raids in the Central Pacific Marshal Islands.

BRITISH FLEET IN THE PACIFIC

Great New Armada to Serve Under Admiral Nimitz.

Melbourne, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Admiral Sir Bruce A. Fraser, commander in chief of the newly created British Pacific Fleet, has arrived here, it was announced today.

In an interview Sir Bruce declared that the new fleet would be based in Australia and would include battleships and aircraft carriers. It will operate under command of Admiral Chester Nimitz, but until he had conferred with the American commander he could not say how it would be used, Sir Bruce added.

Bad News for Japan.

London, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—A great new British Pacific Naval Command in addition to the present Far Eastern Fleet has been created to join the American fleets in the all-out offensive to bring Japan to her knees, the Admiralty disclosed last night.

An official announcement, reflecting Prime Minister Churchill's promise that Britain would send the greatest possible forces to the Orient to help defeat Japan, said that the fleet will be commanded by Admiral Sir Bruce A. Fraser, who since August has been Commander in Chief of the Far Eastern Fleet. Simultaneously it was disclosed that the Far Eastern Fleet will be centered in the Indian Ocean as the East Indies Station, a command which lapsed when the Japanese overran the Malayan Peninsula and captured Singapore. This fleet will be commanded by Vice-Admiral Sir Arthur J. Power, who had been second in command to Admiral Fraser.

DAY

Huge Battleship on Hand.

H. M. S. Howe, 35,000-ton battleship, will be Admiral Fraser's flagship, the commanded of the new British Pacific Fleet announced in Melbourne today, according to the British radio.

In a broadcast recorded by CBS in New York, London described the Howe as one of the Royal Navy's great men o' war, a vessel of the King George V class.

Admiral Fraser, London added, "summed up his strategy in these words: 'It is to find and sink the Japanese fleet. We have the requisite strength to do it.'"

Warns Of Strafing Attacks

B-29s Keep Tokyo Sleepless

HAUGLAND

New York and Jersey Flyers Join in Show—One Showers City With Beer Bottles.

DEC 12 1944

Twenty-first United States Bomber Command, Saipan, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Combining weather reconnaissance work with nocturnal harassing tactics, America's Superfortresses gave Tokyo's seven million people a restless time over the week end. It began early on Saturday when a plane commanded by Lieut. Thomas Garvin of North Bergen, N. J., not only started fires there, but also dropped two cases of empty beer bottles on the Japanese capital.

Early yesterday a Superfortress commanded by Lieut. William Sutton of Atlanta, Ga., started five fires in Tokyo's industrial area, one visible 100 miles away. Last night and today two other B-29s, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Robert Haynes of Hermosa Beach, Cal., and Capt. Elmer Hahn of Idaho Falls, Idaho, bombed the city. Both of these went in about 5,000 feet lower than the normal B-29 altitude, Col. Haynes said, in order to test Tokyo's defenses. "They still couldn't hit us, so I guess they are pretty poor," he added.

Nevertheless Col. Haynes got a small flak hole in one wing tip. He said that searchlights caught his bomber for four minutes and that the anti-aircraft fire came reasonably close for three minutes.

"B-29's may invade Japan from a low altitude and carry out machine-gun strafings on the ground," warned the broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

"It is difficult to discover the enemy," the radio complained. ". . . Furthermore, it is difficult for anti-aircraft shells to reach the enemy planes. . . . In order to intercept the enemy more or less 20 minutes are required (by fighter plane) to reach the stratosphere after taking off from the ground."

The broadcast said, however, that Americans are suffering heavy losses in their Tokyo attacks, adding that the United States objective is to carry out "group bombings such as those over the European battlefields."

"Do not shrink because of aimlessly fearing the destructive power of bombs," the broadcast concluded, "or become overnervous, because if we do we will get caught in th evil designs of the enemy."

Tokyo Warns On Nervousness About Superfortress Attacks

DEC 12 1944

San Francisco, Dec. 11 (AP)—Tokyo radio in a domestic broadcast appealing against "overnervousness," told the Japanese people tonight to expect new and more vigorous attacks by American Superfortresses.

The air attacks have become "vigorous operations," the radio said, in dismissing the original Tokyo raid by Lieut. Gen. (then

Series Of Raids On Tokyo Is Reported

San Francisco, Dec. 11 (AP)—A series of Superfortress raids on Tokyo over the week end were reported by the Japanese radio, which said that fires started by incendiary bombs "were immediately put out."

The newest attacks, said the broadcast, recorded here, were made by small formations of B-29's Sunday night and Monday morning (Japanese time). The claims, made in a French-language overseas broadcast, were not confirmed by any Allied source.

"The air-raid defenses of the city drove off the raiders before they could do any real damage," the announcer asserted.

"Fires Put Out"

Earlier the radio had said that two Marianas-based Superfortresses had penetrated to metropolitan Tokyo at 8.30 P. M. Sunday (Japanese time), adding that heavy anti-aircraft fire drove the American super-bombers off.

"The enemy dropped many incendiary bombs and caused fires, but due to the active work of our air defense units, these fires were immediately put out," the broadcast said.

Other Raids Reported

Tokyo also reported that B-29s had raided western Japan at 7.30 P.M. Saturday, had appeared over Kyushu, southernmost of the Japanese home islands, at 10.30 A.M. today and had raided two points in Korea from 11 A.M. until noon.

Not long ago the radio was boasting that there is nothing to fear from the Superfortress raids, but a night reconnaissance pilot reported finding the Japanese capital and other important cities strictly blacked out now.

Find Even Suburbs Dark

During the earlier raids Tokyo was brilliantly lighted. However, the reconnaissance pilot, Lieut. John Thomas Garvin, of Chicago, said at Saipan that on a recent mission he found even the suburbs dark and that Yokohama and other cities were completely blacked out.

The only lights seen were at Chofu airdrome, said Garvin, and these were on three enemy planes which [illegible] going in for a landing.

LEADER OF DEC. 7 ATTACK IS KILLED

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tokyo finally got around to admitting Monday that the Japanese admiral who directed the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor is dead.

Domei news agency, in announcing that Vice Admiral Chuichi Nagumo, killed on Saipan last July 7, had been "commander-in-chief of the task force that led the attack on Pearl Harbor," confirmed Adm. Chester W. Nimitz' statement of July 13.

Domei previously had announced Nagumo's death in a final suicide attack on Saipan, but did not identify him at the time as leader of the Pearl Harbor assault which plunged the United States into World War II. Admiral Nimitz, however, had announced that Nagumo and a rear admiral identified only as Yano were killed on Saipan July 7, and said Nagumo was leader of the Pearl Harbor raid.

Nagumo and six other admirals and a general were given posthumous decorations, said Domei in a Tokyo radio broadcast picked up by the Federal Communications commission.

This raised to 73 the number of Japanese admirals and to 18 the number of Nippon generals reported dead since last May. Domei disclosed that Nagumo had been posthumously promoted to a full admiralcy.

The other admirals receiving posthumous decorations, Domei said, were Vice Admirals Hunju Izaki and Teruo Akiyama, and Rear Admirals Hidehisa Iwagami, Takeji Miyasaki, Shinki Nakaoka and Senkichi Amano. The general was Maj. Gen. Tsuneo Iwabuchi, who "performed brilliantly and daringly during the attack on Hong Kong as well as the campaigns in southern Sumatra and Guadalcanal."

Hawaii Assault Leader Killed, Japs Admit

San Francisco, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Japanese agency Domei belatedly confirmed today Admiral Chester W. Nimitz's announcement of five months ago that a Nippon admiral killed on Saipan Island was the officer who led the sneak attack on Pearl Harbor.

Domei said the officer, Vice Admiral Chuichi Nagumo, had been "commander in chief of the task force that led the attack on Pearl Harbor."

Led Suicide Attack

The Domei story, broadcast by Tokyo, was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

The agency announced Nagumo's death last July in a final suicide attack at Saipan, but did not identify him at that time as the Pearl Harbor attack leader.

Last July 13 Admiral Nimitz said Nagumo and a rear admiral named Yano were killed on Saipan July 7. He identified Nagumo as commander of the Pearl Harbor assault.

Honored Posthumously

Domei said Nagumo and six other Nippon admirals and a general were given posthumous decorations. This boosted to 73 the number of Japanese admirals, and to 18 the total of generals reported dead since last May.

The broadcast said: "The Navy Ministry today officially announced that Vice Admiral Chiuchi Nagumo, supreme commander of the Japanese naval forces who was killed in action on Saipan Island in July of this year, has been posthumously raised in rank to full admiral."

Casualties Listed

Last week Yokosuka Naval Station reported the deaths of thirteen other admirals.

The admirals, besides Nigumo, who died, Domei said, were Vice Admirals Hunju Izaki and Teruo Akiyama and Rear Admirals Hidehisa Iwagami, Takeji Miyasaki, Shinki Nakaoka and Senkichi Amano. It was not disclosed how they died. The dead general was Maj. Gen. Tsuneo Iwabuchi, who "performed brilliantly and daringly during the attack on Hong Kong, as well as the campaigns in southern Sumatra and Guadalcanal."

Credited With Sinkings

Special mention was made of Vice Admiral Izaki. Domei said he commanded a destroyer squadron "credited with sinking two enemy cruisers and setting another cruiser ablaze in a night battle off Kolombangara," an island in the Solomons group.

Meanwhile, the Japanese high command claimed in a communiqué today that two large transports, a cruiser or large destroyer and two landing barges were rammed and sunk by Japanese airplanes in Surigao Strait southeast of Leyte Island in the Philippines.

Destruction of a second cruiser or large destroyer was also reported in the communiqué, recorded here and without Allied confirmation.

Six Planes Credited

Six planes of the Tanshin air unit of the Special Attack Corps, the Nipponese asserted, did all the damage.

Said the communiqué:

"Instantaneously sunk: two big transports, one cruiser or a big destroyer and two landing barges.

"Damaged and set afire: one big transport, one cruiser or big destroyer. The cruiser or big destroyer that had been damaged and set afire was sunk later by our escorting fighter planes."

Filipino Puppet Heads Decorated By Japanese

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—High Japanese imperial decorations have been awarded by Emperor Hirohito to seven Philippine puppet officials, the Nippon agency Domei said today.

Radio Tokyo quoted the agency as saying the decorations were "for meritorious services in fostering amity between Japan and the Philippines."

BATTLES RAGING AROUND BUDAPEST

Reds Claim 2 Towns—Paris Hears Van Is In City

LONDON, Tuesday, Dec. 12.—(AP) The Russians captured two more villages near northeastern Budapest yesterday, gaining three miles in raging battles that Moscow said left the approaches to the city littered with hundreds of dead.

The Germans hurled fresh Nazi armored forces into the defense of the bombed and flaming Hungarian capital.

Reds Extend Front

Far to the north of Budapest the Red army extended its front along the central Slovak border to almost 30 miles in thrusts up to seven miles. Soviet spearheads pointed toward Bratislava and Vienna on the west and also menaced the rear communications of Germans fighting in Eastern Slovakia.

In the drive on Budapest Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army captured Veresegyhaz, and Szada, both 8 1-2 miles from the Capital's northeastern suburbs.

The Paris and Algiers radio reported Malinovsky's vanguards had penetrated the capital, but this was not confirmed by either the Russians or the Germans.

Yesterday's communique reported the capture of only 14 populated places in Hungary, six north and northeast of Budapest and eight north and northwest of Miskolc, 85 miles northeast of Budapest.

The fierceness of the fighting was measured by the Soviet communique's report that 22 enemy tanks were destroyed yesterday and 35 Sunday. The total bag since Friday was 166 tanks knocked out and 75 planes destroyed.

Szada is only two miles from Ogodollo, an important rail junction. Veresegyhaz is less than two miles above Szada on the Vac-Godollo railway.

The front along the central Slovak border was extended with the capture of Hont, three miles west of the rail junction of Dregelypalank, taken Sunday. The Russians also seized Varsany, 8 1-2 miles southeast of Balassagyarmat, previously the easternmost point seized in this sector.

The advance put the Russians within 85 miles of Bratislava, the Slovak capital, and 116 miles from Vienna.

Fierce Battle Rages

German reports declared fierce battling was in progress in that area. They have not admitted the fall of Balassy-Gyarmat, claiming a battle for the city is still in progress.

German reports declared the main pressure against Budapest was being maintained between Lake Balaton and the west bank of the Danube river. There was no mention in yesterday's Soviet communique of the fighting in this sector, where Malinovsky's forces have joined with those of Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's Third Ukraine army in an attempt to encircle the city from the southwest.

breaches in the Nazi lines, the German radio admitted.

The Nazis said one Russian column had thrust up the west bank of the Danube toward Budapest, while another pointed toward the key rail fortress of Szekesfehervar, 32 miles southwest of Budapest and northeast of the lake.

The Germans said the Russians reached Lake Velencze, but were driven back. Previously the Russians had reported the capture of Gardony and Dinnyes on the lake.

Report City In Flames

Advices from Moscow said part of Budapest already was in flames, and that the Germans had thrown in fresh tanks and SS (Elite Guard) units into the battle for the city with orders not to budge an inch.

"Beautiful Budapest is going the way of Warsaw," one report from Moscow said. "Black smoke, pierced by red tongues of flame, is hanging low and thick over the city. The never-ending roar of battle is bringing sleepless nights to the civilians trapped in their city."

The front along the central Slovak border was extended with the capture of Hont, 3 miles west of the rail junction of Dregelypalank, taken Sunday. The Russians also seized Varsany, 8½ miles southeast of Balassa-Gyarmat, previously the easternmost point seized in this sector.

The advance put the Russians within 85 miles of Bratislava, the Slovak capital, and 116 miles from Vienna.

German reports declared fierce battling was in progress in that area. They have not admitted the fall of Balassy-Gyarmat, claiming a battle for the city is still in progress.

Gain In Miskolc Area

The sector north and northwest of Miskolc, rail junction 85 miles northeast of Budapest that fell to the Russians December 3, claimed attention with the Russians reporting the capture of eight places north and northwest.

Towns captured included Radoystan, 7 miles northwest of Miskolc and 16 miles from the Slovak border, and Hangacs, 12 miles northeast of Miskolc and 17 miles from the Slovak border.

Northeast of Kassa, German stronghold in eastern Slovakia, six Russian regiments renewed their offensive and made several

Frontal Assault On Budapest Seen Near

London, Dec. 11—Paris and Algiers broadcasts said tonight Red Army vanguards had entered the flaming Hungarian capital of Budapest.

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—Russian troops drove on Budapest from positions seven miles north and five miles south of the city today as Moscow advices said great panic swept the Nazis inside the beleaguered Hungarian capital.

Formations of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine Army also were poised three miles east of the Danube-straddling city with an all-out frontal assault from that direction expected at any hour.

Nazis May Give Up City

As yet there were no official Russian reports of heavy shelling of Pest, the section of the city on the east side of the Danube, and it appeared the Russian high command felt the Germans might consider their situation hopeless and not make a battleground of the city itself.

Other Russian columns far to the north reached the central Slovakian frontier on a front of at least eleven miles. The Soviet communiqué said more than 40 places fell yesterday to the 2d Ukraine Army drive north and northeast of the capital.

Tito Reports Gains

[Reuter reported in London that Marshal Joseph Tito's Yugoslav forces were within five miles of Vinkivci, important junction on the Simplon-Orient express line, 90 miles northwest of Belgrade.

["Half of Vukovar on the west bank of the Danube, 85 miles northwest of Belgrade, where a new river crossing has been reported, has been occupied by our forces," Tito's communiqué said.

["Gracac on the main German escape railway from Dalmatia is completely encircled by our units," it added.]

Six Miles Past Vac

Red forces immediately north of Budapest had smashed six miles down the Danube from captured Vac, on the great bend where the river turns west toward Vienna, and taken Alsogod.

The Germans disclosed that Russian armored forces driving up the west bank of the Danube from Ercsi were less than five miles from the city's outskirts. The Germans said Erd was captured.

Hungary's puppet Government already has fled Budapest to the Austrian frontier town of Sopron.

Moscow reported that 5,600 prisoners had been taken between December 3 and 7. The Russians reported the Germans had thrown large air forces into the fighting north of Budapest, and said eighteen German planes were shot down yesterday and 24 on Saturday.

Offensive In Poland Expected

A Berlin broadcast early today said a tremendous Soviet offensive was in the making in the Vistula bridgehead at Baranov, Poland, and that a large-scale drive aimed at Cracow could be expected.

The Soviet communiqué said Russian troops had repelled six German attempts to capture a Russian stronghold west of Jelgava, in Latvia, where huge German forces are being pressed against the Baltic.

Pact Binds Russia and France

De Gaulle Diplomatic Triumph Seen as Blow at Any Future Aggression.

Moscow, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—France's relations with Soviet Russia were cemented today with a new treaty of alliance and mutual assistance negotiated by Gen. Charles de Gaulle as the crowning achievement of his sixteen-day visit to Moscow.

The pact, paralleling a twenty-year alliance between Britain and Russia, was announced last night several hours after the French leader had boarded a special train en route to Baku, where a plane was waiting to carry him back to Paris.

While the text of the treaty was not immediately released, an official announcement said both Governments had affirmed their intention to fight on together until complete victory over Germany is achieved. They also expressed their determination to take jointly all measures necessary to safeguard Europe against future aggression.

De Gaulle Hails Pact.

Gen. de Gaulle issued a short statement saying:

"I am sure the days we have spent here will leave a mark in the history of this war, and I believe, too, they will leave a mark in the peace for the good of all men. Long live Soviet Russia."

The treaty was signed in the Kremlin at 4:40 A. M. yesterday, following an all-night session which began with a formal banquet at which the French and Russians were joined by British and United States diplomatic and military representatives.

Throughout the negotiations the western Allies were kept informed of developments, and there were definite indications that the pact was concluded within the framework of the ties binding the United Nations.

Gen. De Gaulle was accompanied on his return trip by Soviet Ambassador Bogomolov and Major-Gen. Kutuzov, representing the Red Army.

London Times Lauds Pact.

The London Times says "that the new Franco-Russian treaty concluded in Moscow will have as warm a welcome in Britain as in France and Russia," said a British broadcast recorded early today by CBS.

"The Times says: 'It extends and powerfully reinforces the momentous treaty into which Great Britain and Russia entered more than two years ago. It was always the British hope that treaty would be the model and incentive for others.'"

Russians Oust Mission Again

Istanbul, Dec. 10 [AP—Delayed]

The Russians have expelled a fourman United States Office of Strategic Services team from Bulgaria for the second time since Bulgaria's surrender.

Allowed to return after an earlier expulsion, the four were told they must leave on the same grounds as before—that they were not officially accredited by the Russians.

[On October 2, Cordell Hull, then Secretary of State, said an Allied military mission had been ejected from Bulgaria by a Russian commander, but that he believed the difficulty was straightened out and that the mission would re-enter the country as a result of arrangements by Washington and London with Moscow.

[The mission went to Bulgaria to handle Anglo-American interests. Some authorities in Washington said that the Russian military commander had not been properly advised.]

[At Washington yesterday, officials said they had not been informed of the second expulsion of the O. S. S. men, but added that the United States has several other representatives at Sofia, the Bulgarian capital. Maynard Barnes is there as a representative of the State Department, and Major General John A. Crane heads the American section of the Allied Control Commission for Bulgaria, the officials said.]

RECORD RAID HITS GERMANY

3,200 American Planes Strike From Britain And Italy

London, Dec. 11 (AP).—The greatest bomber fleet ever assembled—more than 1,600 American Fortresses and Liberators—pounded the German rail network in the Frankfurt area with 6,000 tons of explosives today as part of a massive air assault by more than 3,200 United States warplanes.

The huge fleet of 8th Air Force heavies, forming a sky train 300 miles long, was escarted by more than 800 fighters. From the operation twelve bombers and two fighters were missing tonight—light losses for a raid of such magnitude.

A force of 16,800 United States flyers—more men than are in a combat division of infantry—took part in the operation.

Luftwaffe Absent

The German air force kept clear of the United States armada, and anti-aircraft fire was meager. But heavy, billowy clouds caused the bombers to drop their explosives by instruments and obscured the damage done at Frankfurt, Hanau, ten miles east, and Giessen, 30 miles north.

In a simultaneous attack from the south, more than 500 United States bombers and 350 fighters struck into Austria from bases in Italy.

The 15th Air Force hammered the Moosbierbaum refinery, 22 miles northwest of Vienna, freight yards and the south ordnance depot in Vienna, and rail targets at Graz, Austria. The raiders met intense flak and a smoke screen at the refinery, believed to produce aviation gasoline.

British Attack Ruhr

A few hours earlier, probably 500 RAF Lancasters and Mosquitos from Britain, herded by Spitfires and Mustangs, had attacked the industrial Ruhr. The British force raided a freight yard and benzol plant at Osterfeld and other benzol plants at Heiderich and Bruckhausen.

At dusk another big fleet of British heavyweights with escort of Spitfires and Mustangs was seen crossing the Channel en route home from what probably was the third big raid on Germany in seven hours.

The aerial offensive apparently was continuing after dark. Berlin radio reported bombers over the Hanover and Brunswick area.

Most of the fighter escort of the 1,600 bombers, finding the air free of the Luftwaffe, dropped to telephone-pole level to strafe trucks and trains heading from Frankfurt to the Saarbrucken battle zone 120 miles southwest.

Eight Locomotives Destroyed

One fighter group ranging as far as Kassel, 125 miles northeast of Frankfurt, destroyed eight locomotives.

In the Duren area before Cologne, Thunderbolts attacked a train of 25 flat cars loaded with 50 Tiger tanks being rushed to reinforce the front under attack by the 1st and 9th armies.

All three rail targets attacked by the 8th Air Force are on main lines between the principal industrial centers of northwest and central Germany and the defenses facing the 1st and 3d armies.

The greatest single bomber raid previously was on July 25 when 1,500 American heavies lent tactical support on the Normandy front.

9,000 Sorties In Week

Despite days of cold, thick weather in the last week, approximately 9,000 sorties have been made by British-based planes against every main rail line serving the Western Front—Giessen, Kassel, Bebra, Mainz, Soest, Munster, Osnabruck, Stuttgart, Duisburg, Coblenz, Bingen and Hamm.

"Allied officials have many indications of the great strain under which all German transport now operates," said an 8th Air Force staff officer. "Facilities have been curtailed to such an extent that each successive attack becomes a serious blow."

Four V-2 rocket installations in Holland were hit today by RAF Spitfire "pin-pointers."

1600 AMERICAN BOMBERS BLAST WEST GERMANY

All-time Record Air Fleet Rains 6000 Tons on Rail Centers.

17,000 U. S. FLYERS ON RAID

800 Fighters Escort Armada—R. A. F. and Yanks From Italy Join in Three-way Attack.

London, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Sixteen hundred American bombers and 800 fighters—the greatest fleet of four-engined craft ever mounted in aerial warfare—raided western Germany's railroad centers with 6,000 tons of explosive today.

The Flying Fortresses and Liberators of the British-based Eighth United States Air Force took part in a co-ordinated operation in which heavy bombers from all three air forces in the European theater also participated, slashing the Reich with their bombs.

British Lancasters and Mosquitoes jolted three German cities in the Ruhr before noon. Railway yards and a fuel plant at Osterfeld and refineries at Meiderick and Bruckhausen were the targets.

At the same time roughly 1,000 big bombers and fighters of the Italian-based Fifteenth United States Air Force struck prime targets in Austria. Thus during the day some 3,500 United States planes hammered the Germans.

17,000 Americans Aloft.

The size of the British-based force meant that almost 17,000 American pilots, navigators, bombardiers and gunners were in the skies over Germany. An Eighth Air Force spokesman said that every main railroad leading from industrial centers in central and southwestern Germany to the German defenses in the west had been ripped apart by British and American bombs in the past week.

Today the Eighth bombed the main-line railroad centers of Frankfurt, nearby Hanau and Giessen. One fighter group left the bombers and dived down to explode eight locomotives near Kassel.

All the targets were obscured in cloud and bombing was by instrument.

The Fifteenth Air Force Liberators and Fortresses from Italy bombed the Moosbierbaum refinery, twenty-two miles northwest of Vienna, ordnance and freight yards in Vienna, and railroad yards at Graz in Austria.

Temperatures of fifty-degrees below zero have plagued the big bombers since Saturday. The extreme cold, however, may have been responsible for the absence of German fighter opposition.

Stuttgart, Coblenz and Bingen were hit by almost 2,000 Britain-based bombers and fighters Saturday and yesterday. Seven bombers and one fighter were lost.

Thunderbolts of the Tactical Air Command tangled with German fighters along the Ninth United States Army front and destroyed four of the enemy planes without loss for the Americans. A Thunderbolt squadron led by Col. James McGee of Birmingham, Ala., destroyed and damaged two more on a Nazi air field near Dusseldorf.

Italian based planes made more than 1,000 sorties yesterday against targets in the Brenner Pass and the Po valley. Sixteen German locomotives were destroyed.

Finn Army On Peace Basis

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Finnish Army is now established on a peacetime footing, the Moscow radio said today.

Under its armistice agreement, Finland was to demobilize under supervision of the Allied Control Commission by December 5. This demobilization has now been completed, Moscow reported.

Axis Foreign Ministers Mark Pact Anniversary

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Foreign Ministers of Germany, Japan and Fascist Italy exchanged "fight to the end" messages today on the third anniversary of the tripartite military pact, the German radio reported.

Germany's Joachim von Ribbentrop, admitting that all three parties were hard-pressed, declared: "The war has entered its decisive phase."

Japan's Mamoru Shigemitsu said "We Japanese are prepared to make the heaviest sacrifices. . . ."

Benito Mussolini, in a speech read by a German announcer, said he counted upon German aid "to defend Italy's skies now dominated by Allied forces."

Wants Resistance Head Premier

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—Prime Minister Pieter Gerbrandy of the Netherlands said upon his return from liberated areas of his homeland today that he would like to be succeeded by a leader of the resistance movement.

V-Bombs Killed 716 Civilians In Month

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—German V-bombs killed 716 civilians in the United Kingdom during November—more than four times as many as in the previous month and more than double the combined total for October and September—the Ministry of Home Security disclosed tonight.

Of those killed 269 were men, 345 women and 102 children under 16 years.

It was during November that British officials first announced the Germans were firing long-range rockets against these islands.

But the November fatalities were down sharply from August's 1,103 during the height of the flying-bomb Blitz. During November 1,511 sustained injuries requiring hospitalization, and in August there were 921 such cases.

October's deaths totaled 172 and September's 170.

716 V-Bomb Victims In Nov.

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—German V-bombs killed 716 persons and seriously injured 1,511 in the United Kingdom during November, the Ministry of Home Security announced tonight.

Of those killed 269 were men, 345 women and 102 children under 16 years, the ministry announced. Among the seriously injured were 197 children and 799 women.

Damage and casualties were inflicted on southern England again last night, the ministry said.

there is talk in Germany of "V-4," but no hint as to its nature.

Meanwhile it is a matter of official knowledge that the Germans have developed a submarine equipped with radical new devices for underwater breathing, and it is possible that some of the craft may even now be at sea. Known as the Schnorkel Spirall submarine, the new vessel has been dubbed the "snorts" by the British.

London newspapers have told their readers that swift hit-run raids by jet-propelled planes are possible, and that England can expect V-bomb attacks until the Nazis die in their last spasm of resistance.

"The new rockets are impossible to stop at their source as they are manufactured in vast underground factories," the London Daily Mirror said in a dispatch from Brussels. "Their sites are smaller than buzz bomb sites, and infinitely more mobile. V-2's have been fired from a city square, roadways, and small clearings in the woods. Next day the men who fire them move on."

V-3 Bases in Norway Reported.

Reports from neutral countries place Germany's Fighter plane production at 1,500 craft a month despite the Allied aerial onslaught, and there is some talk of a Luftwaffe comeback based on jet plane activities. These are factors operating against the Nazis.

Feverish building activities have been reported in a Norwegian hide-away—one neutral informant said the sites were for V-3 launchings.

V-3 and New Type U-boat Revive Nazis' Hope

London, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Reports reaching London from many sources indicate that Germany is gathering her forces—including two new V-weapons and a new type of submarine—for a 1945 counter-offensive which she hopes may turn the tide of the war.

Two enemy V-weapons—the flying bomb and the rocket bomb—already are in use against southern England and continental points. Nazi production chief Albert Speer was quoted as saying recently that "V-3" would be ready for use against New York before the new year and, now craft are already being used for reconnaissance behind the Allied lines, have attacked bomber formations, and may possibly be the German dive-bomber of 1945.

A report from the front inside Germany says that the enemy has found a way to "dim out" his artillery, reducing the flash of a 105mm. gun to that of pistol. If substantiated, this would give the foe an important means of hiding his artillery concentrations.

The Germans still have a lot of fight left in them, said the London Daily Herald, but declared that the enemy man-power shortage and Allied aerial superiority

Labor Party Votes To Stay

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—The British Labor party voted today to stay in Prime Minister Churchill's coalition government until victory in Europe but served notice it would fight the next general election independently.

Labor is Britain's strongest minority faction and its decision assures continuance of the coalition. After victory, the party was told, it should set out to build a Socialist British Commonwealth.

Laski Comment

Opening the party's annual conference amid tension created by a division over Britain's policy in Greece, Prof. Harold Laski, writer on economics, asserted:

"We are not beating Germany, we are not going on to the defeat of Japan, either to restore 'traditional' Britain, or to open the way to that monopoly-capitalism which requires, not democracy, but Fascism as its inherent institutional principle."

"Few of us can doubt that it is the duty of the Labor party to support Mr. Churchill until victory in Europe is both overwhelming and complete," said Professor Laski. "But we must then seek from the people of Britain decisive and independent electoral authority to enter in the fullest way we can upon the great task of building the Socialist commonwealth."

Warning that an "unplanned world" would lead to another war within a generation, Laski said "only a planned world can hope to be a free world for the common man."

"We need to recognize, in the fullest possible way," he added, "that if we can plan for victory in war we can, not less certainly, plan for the life of reason and plenty in peace."

Hambro Leaving Raw Materials Board

Rumors Of Franco's Resignation Denied

Madrid, Dec. 11 (AP)—Officials today categorically denied rumors that Generalissimo Franco had resigned.

Franco returned to El Prado Palace today from Cordoba province, where he spent the last week on a hunting trip with friends.

[Rumors that Franco and his Government had resigned were printed in the Paris paper Liberation last week.]

FIGHT SHIFTS FOR FAENZA

Kesselring Throws Rommel Veterans Into Battle

Rome, Dec. 11 (AP)—A see-saw battle raged today on a 4-mile front southwest of Faenza, with the Germans throwing in rested veterans to save the highway center from the British 8th Army.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring tossed the 90th Panzer Grenadier Division—once the mainstay of Rommel's Africa Corps—into a fullblown counterattack aimed at driving the British off a vital ridge extending from San Prospero, a mile southwest of Faenza, to Pideura, 5 miles west of Faenza.

Tanks Support Nazi Attack

Nazi tanks supported the infantry, while self-propelled guns pounded the British lines. Under this pressure the British were forced to yield 400 yards at one point, but they remained astride an important road bend near Celle, 2 miles west of Faenza.

The Allied high command announced tonight that enemy assaults at other points had been beaten off decisively and heavy casualties inflicted. Allied planes mixed in the fighting, strafing and bombing enemy troops and tanks.

Would Deny Roads To Allies

Kesselring appeared willing to stake the cream of his combat troops in a gamble to hold off the 8th Army until the winter snows in the Apennines would aggravate Allied supply problems. His all-out defense of Faenza and Bologna was designed primarily to deny the Allies use of highways and railroads into the Po Valley from the south.

The 8th Army gained a valuable supply road into the valley with the capture of Forli. Seizure of Faenza would provide another good highway from the south, plus a railroad from Florence over which heavy equipment could be transported.

In a stiff clash near Murazzo, 14 miles south and slightly west of Bologna, American troops killed 45 Germans.

GERMANS COUNTER FIERCELY IN ITALY

Rome, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Large-scale German counter-attacks against the Allied bridgehead west of the Lamone River on the approaches to Faenza have been defeated decisively, Allied headquarters announced today.

The fiercest of these counter-thrusts was directed at gaining a foothold on the ridge running southwest from San Prospero to Pideura, west of Faenza. Both San Prospero and Pideura had been captured by Eighth Army troops in bloody battles.

The Germans fought desperately to prevent the inevitable encirclement of Faenza, stronghold on the Bologna - Rimini highway. They threw the crack Ninetieth Panzer Grenadiers into the assault, backed up by tanks and self-propelled guns.

There was a fierce struggle south of Celle, which is less than two miles west of Faenza and a mile below the highway. The British forces gave some ground but held at a vital road junction just below the town.

There was bitter fighting on both sides of recently won Caste Raniero, four miles southwest of Faenza.

Meanwhile, Italian patriots operating in the Adriatic coastal areas cleared German troops from Port Corsini, a vital center for barge traffic bringing supplies for the Nazis.

Alexander To Assume New Post Tomorrow

Rome, Dec. 11 (AP)—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander will assume his new post as Allied commander in chief in the Mediterranean tomorrow, an official announcement said.

He succeeds General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, who has been transferred to Washington as head of the British military mission in the United States.

SFORZA CHARGES BRITISH ASKED SUPPORT OF KING

ROME, Dec. 11 — (AP) Count Carlo Sforza, former minister without portfolio who was omitted from the new cabinet of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi after the British raised objections to him, declared today that Prime Minister Churchill had exerted "strong pressure" on him to accept King Vittorio Emanuele.

In a 500-word statement answering Churchill's charge that Sforza intrigued against the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio and could not be trusted, Sforza asserted that the Prime Minister's influence in behalf of the Italian king was manifested during a two-hour conference in London on Oct. 11, 1943.

Would Not Support King

He added he had "left no doubts" with Churchill as to his (Sforza's) attitude toward the Italian monarch.

(While there was no official reply in London to Sforza's charge, one British spokesman said Churchill repeatedly had stressed Britain was determined to maintain law and order in all countries where British troops were stationed. Churchill in most instances suggested the best way was under the legal government already established until the people have a chance to decide for themselves, the spokesman said, adding: "Sforza's interpretation of what this meant is his own affair.")

While Bonomi was seeking to reform his cabinet, British foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said Britain did not view Sforza as a happy choice for foreign minister.

Sforza said the whole incident was related to "my beliefs and deeds on matters of domestic Italian politics." It had nothing to do with his "lines of foreign policy," he said.

Not Author of U. S. Letter

Sforza also announced he was "not the author" of a letter to the U. S. State department prior to his return to Italy from America in which his support of the Badoglio government was promised.

"I merely set my signature to it," Sforza said.

He since has claimed he was obliged to oppose Badoglio because Badoglio failed to bolster the Italian war effort and encouraged a new form of Fascism.

Denying any "intrigue whatsoever," Sforza declared it was the Committee of National Liberation in Rome which demanded the elimination of Badoglio.

"Upon returning to Italy," Sforza said, "everything confirmed to my mind the fact that the elimination of Vittorio Emanuele was instrumental for promoting the anti-German war."

"I subsequently suggested to Badoglio," Sforza added, "that the king abdicate, that the child prince of Naples be proclaimed king and that Badoglio himself be regent. . . . but the King refused."

"I consequently had to stand out in opposition as regards the king's position," Sforza concluded.

Sforza Answers Churchill

Rome, Dec. 11 (AP)—Count Carlo

30. 24 — 2/11 53

Sforza declared today that Prime Minister Churchill of Britain had brought "strong pressure" on him to accept King Vittorio Emanuele as the reigning sovereign of Italy.

The former Italian Minister without portfolio—left out of the newly reorganized Cabinet of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi after British voiced objections to him—said Churchill's influence on behalf of the King was brought to bear during a two-hour conference in London October 11, 1943.

Authorship Denied

In a 500-word statement replying to Churchill's charge that Sforza had intrigued against the government of Badoglio and could not be trusted, Sforza said he had "left no doubts" as to his attitude toward the monarchy.

Sforza also declared he was "not the author" of a letter to the United States State Department prior to his return from exile in America promising support to the government of Premier Marshal Badoglio.

"I merely set my signature to it," he said.

Sforza since has contended he was obliged to oppose Badoglio because Badoglio failed to build up the Italian war effort and encouraged a new form of Fascism.

Sforza said the whole incident was connected with "my beliefs and deed on matters of domestic Italian politics" and had nothing to do with his "'lines of foreign policy."

Four Parties Get Posts

In Premier Bonomi's new Italian government the communist Palmiro Togliatti and the Christian Democrat Giulio Dirodino will serve as vice-premiers.

The composition of the new cabinet was announced officially last night. Portfolios were distributed evenly among the Liberals, Christian Democrats, Labor Democrats and Communists—the four parties which decided to support Premier Bonomi. The Socialists and Actionists, the other two parties of the committee of National Liberation decided to stay out.

The new foreign minister is Alcide De Gasperi, a Christian Democrat. The Ministry of Interior was retained by Premier Bonomi.

Premier Bonomi has notified Allied authorities that his Government would keep the armistice terms and not raise the monarchy question until after the war. His first Government which resigned two weeks ago, also made these pledges.

British Silent on Charge

LONDON, Dec. 11 (AP).—Britain maintained official silence today on Count Sforza's assertion that Prime Minister Churchill brought pressure on him to accept King Victor Emmanuel.

Churchill has repeatedly emphasized that Britain was determined to keep law and order in all countries where British troops were stationed, a spokesman said, and the Prime Minister has suggested in most instances the best way was under a legal government already established until the people had a chance to decide for themselves. "Sforza's interpretation of what this meant is his own affair," the spokesman said.

American Officer Killed in Crash

Rome, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Major George Knauer, deputy communications officer of the Allied Control Commission, was killed in the crash of an Army transport plane in October in the Mediterranean between Rome and Sardinia, it was announced today. The bodies of other occupants of the plane were recovered. Major Knauer's body was never found.

Pope's Legate To Tokyo Sees Allied Prisoners

Vatican City, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano today reported that Msgr. Paolo Marella, Apostolic Delegate to Tokyo, visited a camp at Nagoja where several thousand American, Canadian and British war prisoners are interned, and found it in "a salubrious zone which helps to better the prisoners' physical condition." The visit was made November 28.

He was received with honors by Japanese civil and military authorities, the newspaper said, and listened to a report on the condition of the prisoners and the care given them. He also talked with representatives of the prisoners. Details of their condition were not given.

Athens Center Is Shelled By ELAS Troops

Athens, Dec. 11 (AP)—ELAS forces sent mortar shells crashing into the heart of Athens today, setting fires near Constitution Square as RAF Beaufighters returned to the battle, strafing an ELAS concentration reportedly massing for an attack in a suburb a mile from the center of the city.

The ELAS, fighting arm of the left-wing EAM party, was reported to be attempting to stage an all-out attack on central Athens today, having been delayed by heavy rains last night.

Cable Building Cut Off

Dispatches filed abroad by correspondents in the capital were delayed because heavy machine-gun fire had cut off the cable and wireless building.

The mortar bombs which fell in the heart of the city this morning were fired from outlying districts, where the ELAS forces are massed.

The other actions were reported outside the city in addition to the dispersal of one ELAS force by British planes. The first was a dawn attack by Greek regulars, which broke up another ELAS formation and the second ambushing of a British patrol heading southward from Volos.

Scobie Reports Progress

A communiqué issued this afternoon by Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece said:

"Considerable progress has been made in Piraeus (the port of Athens) but the situation generally remains unchanged."

Both the ELAS and the British were reinforced in Athens, ELAS members infiltrating into the city during the night and the British troops pouring in during the day.

The ELAS forces took several buildings and apartment houses without opposition last night. Today they employed a new tactic of dynamiting and setting afire buildings and houses in the city. Numerous casualties were reported when several buildings were blown up in the fashionable quarters of the city.

An impartial source, meanwhile, reported the ELAS leaders were ready to withdraw from Athens and from all the department of Attica in return for guarantees that they would not be prosecuted.

He described the leftist leaders as "realizing now that they will eventually lose" in the armed conflict and "relenting in their demands on the Papandreou Government and in their decision to fight to the end."

Rumors circulated that the ELAS, however, was preparing an offensive against the rightist EDES territory of Epirus on the west coast of Greece.

It appeared that ELAS forces could not bring many more troops into the Athens area without weakening their dispositions elsewhere in the country.

Tanks Aid Mountain

Greek mountain brigades, supported by British Sherman tanks, effected the break-up of the large ELAS concentration in the foothills of Mount Hymettus where the ELAS troops had made the mistake of deploying on open terrain of semi-wasteland, ideal for tank operations.

A New Zealand colonel with the Greek regulars said at least 300 of the ELAS forces had been killed in this neighborhood in the last two days. Two hundred were taken prisoner today when the co-ordinated attack was launched at dawn.

A number of the prisoners were taken in the Greek Red Cross Hospital. Their commander, Major Georgiades, said he was a member of the Communist party and that he and his fellow-officer believed the whole battle would end if a new national government were formed.

Unit Includes Germans

He said his battalion included eighteen Italians and that in other formations there were several dozen Germans who had deserted from the Nazi Army. He said Russians with the ELAS left fifteen days ago when they were ordered to do so by the Soviet mission in Athens.

Meanwhile, measures were taken by British and American relief organizations to distribute food and medical supplies to relieve shortages created by the fighting and the general strike which has prevailed for more than a week.

Calls Four Draft Classes

Premier George Papandreou called up four draft classes, from 1935 to 1938, in the five districts of Athens under Government control.

A British officer pointed out that Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie's forces had not yet gone "all out" against the ELAS, though they employed big Wellington bombers for the first time in smashing at ELAS positions yesterday.

Large numbers of dead still awaited burial, and the strife-torn city was in imminent danger of epidemics. A food shortage was threatened as all unloading of relief ships at Piraeus, port of Athens, remained at a standstill.

Efforts to mediate the crisis appeared to have met little success so far. The British said they had received no peace proposal from the ELAS.

Men Mobilized For Showdown In Greece

DEC 12 1944

Athens, Dec. 11 (AP)—With 10,000 to 15,000 ELAS now believed deployed in the battle for Athens, the Greek Government today ordered all reserve officers and men of four classes in the Athens district to report for military duty not later than tomorrow.

The ELAS are now believed to have a total of 25,000 men, including reserves, in the Athens area. Reinforcements for the ELAS have arrived from the Corinth and Thebes areas west and north of the capital, it was reported.

British troops, who have been battling the ELAS, also were reported being reinforced, apparently for a show-down fight.

Classes Called Up

A Government decree issued by the Minister of War called up Greeks of the classes of 1935, 1936, 1937 and 1938.

Acute food shortages and the imminent danger of epidemics threatened this strife-torn capital as British heavy bombers for the first time in the week-long civil struggle attacked ELAS concentrations around the city.

[After sixteen hours of relative lull—the longest since the fighting began nine days ago—British troops at dawn today began a large-scale sweep against ELAS forces in the eastern suburbs of Athens, Reuter said.]

RAF Wellingtons and cannon-firing Spitfires joined the fighting—already reported to have cost the Leftists 1,500 killed and 2,500 wounded—after an ELAS attack supported by mortars and artillery had been repelled yesterday by British troops using tank and field guns.

Headquarters Hit

Several shells fired from ELAS positions fell near British headquarters on the eastern outskirts of the city. Sniper bullets struck the Grande Bretagne Hotel, temporary seat of the Greek Government on Constitution Square. One 75-mm. shell struck British headquarters. The British replied with artillery and mortars.

Heavy rain curtailed action during the night, but fires started by shellfire still were smoking today on the northern slopes of the Acropolis.

All unloading of relief ships at Piraeus, port of Athens, was at a standstill and UNRRA attempts to organize soup kitchens to relieve the stricken civilian population so far had failed. Large numbers of dead were still awaiting burial.

ELAS Dig In

The ELAS, armed militia of the Left-Wing EAM political party, were well dug-in in the Athens saddium area, in the park around the Zappion Building and east of Hadrian's Arch and the Temple of Zeus. Other ELAS forces were massed west of Piraeus and north and east of Athens.

GREEK AMERICANS

Allied Bloc Is Splintering, Madrid Germans Say

DEC 12 1944

Madrid, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Germans in cafes and night clubs here are looking and acting far happier today than a fortnight ago. The reasons are the British-ELAS clashes in Greece, words spoken in London and Washington, and the silence of Moscow.

Any neutral in this capital need only ask German friends and will be told that the Germans believe the great world alliance against them is splintering.

Nothing in the past year has delighted the Germans more than dispatches from Washington, London and Athens which they interpret as an indication that the Anglo-American powers are determined to block further Soviet expansion in Europe and the silence from Moscow which they say means the Russians are not pleased.

"Only One Master"

Germans here say "we will never have three masters in Germany, but only one." They mean that when German resistance ends the nation must be surrendered to one of its enemies, but not to a Russia, Britain and United States for a divided occupation. Germany, they say, must remain united even in defeat.

The Germans' only hope for a separate surrender is in a break among the United Nations. With or without a formal peace they argue, they could cease fighting on one front while holding the other. This would be done only if the Germans saw a chance to gain thereby.

Pleased By Dispatch

That's why they are delighted here to see dispatches in the Spanish press grouped under such headlines as "American Press Fears Disunion in Allied Camp," "Churchill Opposed to Communist Dictatorship."

The Germans are delighted with anything drawing Allied attention away from the war with Germany. They enjoy reading any news from Washington indicating the Americans are eager to leave Europe and concentrate on Japan. They are pleased with any signs of British distrust of Russian or vice versa, and last week they thought they saw both.

URGE U.S. TO ACT

Delegation Visits State Department And British Embassy

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A Greek-American delegation today asked the State Department to mediate in the battle between British forces and Greek resistance groups.

The delegation also protested to the British Embassy, calling upon London to "cease its bloody attempt to shackle the Greek people once more with dictatorship."

Stelos Pistolakis, former member of the Greek Parliament, was spokesman for the group. Now president of the Greek-American Committee for National Unity, he said he was expelled from his country in 1939. He said he is a member of the Liberal party there.

Presents Memorandum

In a memorandum presented to the State Department, the delegation expressed its full support of the statement by Edward R. Stettinius, Secretary of State, last week backing the principle of non-intervention in internal politics in liberated countries.

The group asked the State Department "to implement America's active interest in Greek independence until the present crisis which is fraught with danger for the common cause of the United Nations is resolved in the interests of Greek democracy and Allied unity."

"Great Britain's frenzied attack upon the National Liberation Front of Greece helps no one but the Fascists," the memorandum said.

"It corrodes the fabric of the United Nations; it prolongs the war; it jeopardizes the peace."

To Lord Halifax, British Ambasador, the group protested Prime Minister Chuchill's description of the Greek ELAS.

"Gangsterism and attempts at dictatorship do not stem from the EAM (political group heading the ELAS armed forces)—they stem from armed foreign intervention which backs a small group of native Fascists, reactionaries and quislings collaborators."

The delegation said London vetoed an attempt by Themistocles Sophoulis, aged Liberal party leader, to form a coalition government.

In turn, the protest said Sophoulis turned down a British request that he support Prime Minister Papandreou "declaring if he did it would mean supporting a dictatorship."

Says People Despise King

Pistolakis declared that his group was protesting against "the slaughter in the streets of Athens by order of the British Government."

He said the British Government was bolstering King George. He called the King Fascist and said he is hated and despised by the people.

Pistolakis said the group was quite satisfied with its reception by the State Department which, he added, assured that Stettinius's public statement on a hands-off policy in Greek politics stands. The party did not see Stettinius.

One factor in the Greek picture is Prince Paul, named regent by King George. The King acceded earlier this year to demands that he keep out of Greece until a plebiscite is held on whether he should return.

However, he went to London from the seat of the Greek Government in exile in Cairo and named Paul to act as regent.

Paul remains in Cairo. Informed persons say his entrance into Greece would surely cause even more bitter and widespread hostilities.

Since American entrance in the war, predominant British interest in the Eastern Mediterranean has been recognized. Supreme military authority has always been held by the British.

Committee Formed This Year

Pistolakis said the Greek-American Committee for National Unity was formed early this year as a result of Allied urging that the Greeks unite.

The delegation which visited the State Department and the British Embassy included representatives of the Athenian Society of New York, the Piraikos Society of New York, the Cretan Association, the Omonoia of New York, the Greek Athletic Club, the Greek-American Labor Committee, the Greek-American Committee for National Unity, the committee of the Federation of Greek Societies of New York, the Food Workers Union, AFL Local 6 and 89, the Greek Fur Workers Union, CIO Local 70, and the Greek Seamen's Union.

COLLECTIVE SECURITY URGED TO STOP WARS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11 — (AP) Greek and Italian political disturbances probably could be straightened out now if some sort of machinery for agreement among nations existed, Senator-Elect J. William Fulbright (D.-Ark.) said today.

"The human race isn't going to stand for a world war every 20 years," he told the Bond club of New York in advocating collective security among nations as the best policy for Americans to follow.

Fulbright rejected isolationism and imperialism as policies which might be followed. Concerning the latter, he said we could follow that course in view of our great strength but "by our literature and culture we are not cut out to be such supermen."

"I see no insuperable obstacle in collective security," Fulbright added. "In a sense it is imposing by agreement. I think it is possible to achieve through will and determination but I don't think it can be accomplished next week or even next year."

NEW GAINS IN BURMA

New Delhi, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Lieut.-Gen. Daniel I. Sultan's drive to squeeze the Japanese out of north Burma carried past Naba and Indaw today with patrols fanning out less than 200 miles from Mandalay.

The British 36th Division took Naba, key junction on the Myitkyina-Mandalay railroad, and Indaw, four miles west, in an unopposed operation yesterday. The occupation of Indaw represented a 100-mile advance for the British forces since they took off from Mogaung on August 1.

Allied planes hammered Japanese retreat routes, with R. A. F. Liberators joining in long-range raids on the Burma-Thailand railway and targets at the southern tip of Burma.

JAPANESE DRIVEN FROM KWEICHOW

CHUNGKING, Dec. 11—(AP) The Chinese High command announced tonight that all Japanese forces had been driven out of Kweichow province, easing China's perilous military situation at least temporarily.

The communique said the reinforced Chinese counter-offensive had forced two Japanese columns which penetrated deep into Kweichow back into Kwangsi province, had recaptured Liuchai, just over the border, and had advanced 17 miles beyond.

The twin Japanese drives which were aimed at Kweiyang, Kweichow capital and strategic Burma road city, had at one time penetrated to a point 70 miles inside the province. Capture of Kweiyang would have put the Japanese in a position to strike either toward Chungking, 200 miles to the northwest, or at Kunming, 300 miles southwest.

The Chinese themselves have avoided the term "victory" in their reports on the Kweichow successes but nevertheless are greatly relieved, believing China now may be able to withstand any full-scale invasion of Kweichow. Some predict the Japanese chance to take Kweiyang or Kunming, has been lost.

Capture of the two towns would seriously endanger the soon to be opened Burma-Ledo road planned to feed supplies from India to the Chinese army.

Remnants Mopped Up

The communiqué gave no details of the final push which ousted the enemy from Kweichow, merely announcing that enemy remnants around Lipo, 90 miles southeast of Kweiyang, had been mopped up and Kweichow was now freed.

Reports reaching Chungking indicated the Japanese had planned to take Kweiyang in a bold sweep before the Chinese could organize proper defenses.

However, it appears the Japanese ventured too far with too little and encountered stiffer opposition from reinforced Chinese troops as they penetrated deeper into the province. Chinese units began attacking their flanks and the invaders were faced with being chopped up and annihiliated.

Cold Hampers Japs

The Japanese were clad only in summer uniforms and bitterly cold weather added to their difficulties.

The Japanese retreat has given the Chinese valuable time in which to organize against any new, strong offensive.

There was every indication that Chinese commanders were fully alive to the danger of a renewed assault on Kweichow and that preparations to check any fresh venture by the Japanese were being made.

[Meanwhile, the Tokyo radio reported that Japanese troops, which invaded southern China from French Indo-China had effected a junction with Japanese forces in Kwangsi province and established an overland route from Manchuria to Malaya.]

Kweichow Cleared Of Foe

Chungking, Dec. 11 (AP) — Japanese forces have been expelled completely from Kweichow province and driven back over the Kwangsi border, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

Earlier, the Chinese said one of two Japanese forces invading Kweichow had been swept back across the border by Chiang Kai-shek's forces which recaptured Liuchai, just over the border in Kwangsi.

Force Mopped Up

This action had left only the enemy column along the Yuyun-Ishan trail to be dealt with.

The high command gave no details of the withdrawal of this column along the trail east of the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad which at one time reached a point less than 70 miles from Kweiyang, Burma road capital of the province. The communique only announced that enemy remnants around Lipo, 90 miles southeast of Kweiyang, had been mopped up and Kweichow was now freed.

Driving On Antan

The Chinese continued advancing toward Antan, on the Kwangsi-Kweichow railway about seventeen miles beyond Liuchai. Less than two weeks ago the Japanese were driving into Kweichow toward the Burma Road stronghold of Kweiyang. The Chinese announced yesterday that Hsiasu, a railroad town twelve miles from the Kwangsi border, had been retaken.

14th Air Force Has Big Month

CHUNGKING, Dec. 11 (AP)—American 14th Air Force planes killed or wounded more than 1,700 Japanese troops in November, and sank more than 30,000 tons of enemy shipping, besides six naval vessels and 274 small craft, an American air operational summary said today.

JAP WARSHIP SUNK

Forward United States Air Base in China, Dec. 8 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Brig.-Gen. Clinton D. Vincent's eastern wing of the Fourteenth United States Air Force struck from a mystery base today in a vengeful commemoration of Pearl Harbor.

At Hongkong P-51 fighters sank an Akikaze class destroyer (1215 tons, built between 1917-1920) and a 500-foot transport and probably sank two large freighters and damaged three others.

At Nanking the fighters destroyed at least twenty-five enemy planes in the air and on the ground at Minkukung and Taichaiocahu airdromes and hit two large railway ferries used to haul trains across the Yangtze.

Lend-lease to Go On Until Jap War Ends

Canberra, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Acting Prime Minister Francis E. Forde announced today that provision has been made with the United States for continuance of a substantial measure of lend-lease during the period between the end of war in Europe and the defeat of Japan.

Donald Nelson Visits New Zealand Premier

Wellington, N.Z., Dec. 11 (AP)—Donald Nelson, President Roosevelt's personal emissary, called on New Zealand's Prime Minister Peter Fraser during a brief visit to this country today. He conferred also with Walter Nash, Minister of Finance. Nelson expects to leave for the United States shortly.

Montevideo, Dec. 11 (AP)—Leaders of four prominent Argentine parties organized today a Montevideo junta of the "Patria Libre" underground movement aimed "to fight against the Farrel-Peron dictatorship through all means"

Brooklyn Gunner Is Wounded

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 (AP)—Gunner Michael Dembia, whose father lives in Brooklyn, has been slightly wounded while serving with the Royal Canadian Artillery, an Army casualty list disclosed tonight.

STAMFORD MAN CITED

OTTAWA, Dec. 11 — (AP) Flying Officer J. A. Galbraith, 10 Hawthorne street, Stamford, Conn., and Flying Officer T. S. Hall, Gerritsen Beach, Long Island, N. Y., serving with the R.C.A.F. overseas, have been awarded the Distinguished Flying cross, air force headquarters announced tonight.

Ex-Bulgarian Regents Indicted

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—The former Bulgarian regents, Prince Cyril and Lieut. Gen. Nikola Mikhov, have been indicted for "criminal acts" of collaboration with the Germans along with the third regent, former Premier Bogdan Filov, and other members of Bulgaria's for wartime cabinets, the Sofia radio reported today.

Self-Seeking Laid To Allies

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) — The Army and Navy Journal says that Russia and Britain have shown "greater preoccupation" in their individual interests in Europe than in "the prompt defeat of Germany."

"The result has been," the unofficial Journal continued in its current issue, "that the expectation in Washington that the war in Europe would be over by the Pearl Harbor anniversary this week has not been realized, and in the liberated countries there have been Communistic and British interference and clashing which necessarily affect military operations.

Stettinius's Aims

The Journal said that to promote better political relations with our Allies through their precise understanding of our attitude, and to prevent the development of embarrassing military conditions behind our front were the purposes of the new Secretary of State Setettinious in publicly proclaiming this week that liberated countries would be expected to form their own governments on democratic lines inside without outside interference.

"From the time Japan invaded Manchuria and set up the puppet state of Manchukuo, consistently our Government has inveighed against aggression, and it was to put an end to this practice that the American people adopted lend-lease to assist the nations having like purpose and moved to arm even before Pearl Harbor.

Lasting Peace Seen As Object

"Some months ago Prime Minister Churchill said that time would show whether the United Nations could weather good fortune as in their stress they had endured bad, in other words whether with victory in prospect they could submerge their special interests while carrying out the original and common design to defeat our enemies and create a peace that would be lasting.

"Unhappily the fear expressed in the Prime Minister's statement has developed some basis now that the liberation of European states has occurred. Since D-day in France, greater preoccupation has been shown by Russia in her Baltic and Balkan campaigns, intended to insure her security, and by Great Britain in Italy, Greece and Albania, to protect her lifeline through the Mediterranean to India, than in the achievement of the prime objective of our armies—the prompt defeat of Germany and concentration of all possible power to that end."

SENATORS DEFER PALESTINE ACTION

Resolution Asking Unrestricted Entry for Jews Is Shelved by Foreign Relations Group

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP)—Heeding advice of the State Department, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today shelved by a 12 to 8 vote a resolution advocating unrestricted entry of Jews into Palestine.

Similar resolutions had been under committee consideration both in the House and Senate last year, but action was deferred then.

Recent publication of the War Refugee Board's report quoting two eyewitness accounts of how large numbers of Jews had been murdered in Nazi prison camps resulted in renewed agitation among Jewish groups in this country that the United States seek to have Great Britain permit greater migration.

After the committee voted to-

30. 24 — 21155

day to defer action, the State Department issued a statement in which it said:

"The department has the utmost sympathy for the persecuted Jewish people of Europe and has been assisting them through active support of the work of the War Refugee Board in every possible way.

"The department considers, however, that the passage of the resolution at the present time would be unwise from the standpoint of the general international situation and has so informed the Committee on Foreign Relations."

A similar resolution had been before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The War Refugee Board, composed of the Secretaries of State, War and Treasury, was set up to help get people in danger of Nazi persecution out of the danger zone, but necessarily most of its work has been surrounded by a zone of silence.

The resolution rejected by the Senate committee today was coauthored by Senators Wagner, Democrat, of New York, and Taft, Republican, of Ohio. It would have urged the United States to try to obtain free entry for Jews into Palestine with the ultimate objective of creating a Jewish commonwealth there. Entry is now limited under a British agreement with the Arabs.

Britain has not yet issued any statement on the future of Palestine, but has promised, officials said, to confer with all interested parties, including the Jews, before settling on a policy.

Three Zionist leaders called this morning on the State Department to discuss the Palestine question. They were Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Israel Goldstein and Abba B. Hillel Silver.

CHILE AND RUSSIA SET UP RELATIONS

Washington, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—The Chilean embassy announced today the establishment of diplomatic and consular relations between Chile and the Soviet Union. The negotiations were completed by the Chilean Ambassador, Marcial Mora, and the Soviet Ambassador, Andrei Gromyko.

Under Soviet-Chilean relations, the chief of each country's mission to the other will hold the rank of ambassador.

Relations with Russia had already been established by several other Latin American countries including Mexico, Cuba and Colombia.

U-boat War to Increase.

Washington, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill place no stock whatever in reports that Germany has abandoned U-boat construction.

Branding the reports as probably German-inspired and untrue, the two leaders said in their monthly joint statement covering submarine and anti-submarine activity during November:

"On the contrary, improved types of U-boats may at any time be thrown into the battle and retention of our present command of the sea will undoubtedly call for unremitting vigilance and hard fighting."

Germany already has introduced new devices, such as an extensible air intake and exhaust, which enables U-boats to remain submerged for long periods and thus to "penetrate into areas denied to them for the past three years."

Shipping losses in November were described as "very small," and the number of U-boats sunk in proportion "has again been satisfactory."

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 1,237 casualties in the armed forces. Included in the list are the following with their next of kin:

GILLETTE WARNS VICTORY MAY BE LOST POLITICALLY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP) Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) warned today that unless America takes a strong hand, the war will end in a "hollow victory," defeated hopes and a vast spread by totalitarianism.

"As matters now stand," he told the Senate," our hopes for peace and our optimism for the development of relations among the big three toward a general collaboration in the future, give signs of disintegrating before our eyes for want for a firm adherence to moral principles in international relationships."

Term Expires This Month

Gillette's Senate term expires within the month. He told attentive colleagues he did not want it to close without his expressing a deep concern over the trend of international affairs.

Should the trend continue, he said, the assured military victory will be lost politically.

He spoke of news from Europe which he called "tremendously discouraging" to American zeal for creating lasting world peace. Some of our Allies, he said, are openly "extending and consolidating their own assumed spheres of influence" while Americans are dying to destroy Hitlerism.

He decried what he termed a lack of information of the American people on our relations with the Allies. He said Russia had imposed a "news blackout" in eastern Europe, that he had information that for ten months the Office of War Information had been forbidden to mention the Atlantic Charter in any broadcast, and that the Federal Communications commission's foreign broadcast survey of eastern and southern European news are being discontinued.

OWI Director Elmer Davis, on learning of Gillette's statement concerning the Atlantic Charter, said:

Davis Denies Charge

"No directive of OWI has banned either mention or discussion of the Atlantic Charter. As a matter of fact on August 14, the third anniversary of the signing, several of our overseas broadcasts were devoted entirely to that subject."

Other OWI officials said a check of programs since August 14 revealed "a number of references to the Charter."

Great efforts seem to be expended, Gillette declared, in denying the people desperately needed access to the whole truth of the international situation.

"We now confront a situation," he declared, "where the American people themselves are no longer sure of the goal for which they are fighting."

If they are kept in ignorance, he said, they will become "a disunited people."

ASKS MORE OUTPUT TO SAVE U. S. BLOOD

Washington, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Senator Hill (D.-Ala.) called today for "solid action" to increase the flow of munitions and prevent the needless spilling of American blood in this "most critical hour of the war."

"For the first time in this war," he said in a Senate speech, "we are approaching a situation in which American troops may die because our production failed to keep pace with their needs. On us rests the responsibility for seeing that that does not happen."

Mr. Hill, Senate Democratic whip and member of the Military Committee lauded a labor-management agreement to put the tire industry on a seven-day work week and assurances extended by national labor and business organizations of co-operation in meeting munitions shortages.

"But assurances of support kill no Germans and kill no Japs," he said, "unless they are backed by solid action."

BILL AUTHORIZING NEW 5-STAR LEADERS PASSED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP) The Senate passed today and sent to the White House a bill authorizing President Roosevelt to appoint four five-star generals and a like number of five-star admirals.

The five star army officers will have the title of generals of the Army, one grade below that of general of the armies, now held only by Gen. John Pershing.

The new Navy rank will be that of fleet admiral.

The appointees, to hold their new titles until six months after the war, will draw $8,000 a year and subsistence and rental allowances, plus $5,000 a year personal money allowances.

(The new rank for American general will be equivalent to that of the British Field Marshal.

Panama's Foreign Chief in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP).—Foreign Minister Samuel Lewis of Panama arrived here today on an official visit to the United States as a guest of the State Department. He was met at Union Station by representatives of the State Department, the Pan American Union and the Panamanian Embassy and escorted to Blair House, American home for prominent visitors. Mario de Diego, chief of protocol of Panama, is accompanying Foreign Minister Lewis.

3 To Be Brigadier Generals

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Three marine colonels were nominated today by President Roosevelt to be brigadier generals. They are Cols. John T. Walker, La Jolla, Cal.; Merwin H. Silverthorn, Washington, and Maurice C. Gregory, Philadelphia.

Veterans' Job Bill Signed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 (AP).—President Roosevelt has signed legislation extending from forty to ninety days after discharge the time in which a war veteran may apply for re-employment in his pre-war job. The legislation allows a hospitalized veteran to make application for re-employment within ninety days after his release from the hospital, provided he was not hospitalized more than one year.

FORRESTAL SEES LONG PACIFIC WAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11—(AP) Navy Secretary James V. Forrestal, emphasizing that a long, tough fight is ahead in the Pacific, called on individual bond-buyers today to meet their five billion-dollar quota in the Sixth War loan.

In a statement he said the U. S. S. Destroyer Frank Knox, paid for by New Hampshire bond-buyers and commissioned in Boston today, is "symbolic of what the sale of war bonds means to your Navy."

"Before our combined operations on sea, in the air, and on land can bring the war lords of Japan to their knees, much additional money and material will be needed," Forrestal said.

As the last week of the four-week drive got under way, the Treasury announced individual sales of $3,345,000,000.

Total sales—already beyond the 14-billion-dollar goal — were announced as $14,930,000,000.

The E-bond figures inching daily into a better position compared with the schedule mapped out in advance but still lagging behind expectations, is $1,319,000,000. The E-bond quota is $2,500,000,000.

Compton Urges Conn. Soldiers Be Returned from So. Pacific

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP) Representative Compton (R-Conn) today pleaded for return to the United States of surviving members of New England National Guard units who have been "marooned in the south Pacific" nearly three years without relief.

In a House speech, Compton called upon President Roosevelt and Secretary of War Stimson to "direct that proper action be taken by our military authorities" to return the few hundred men.

Compton criticized General MacArthur for failure to return "men who for 34 months have been at the front without relief, who have fought the enemy, jungle, muck heat, fever, loneliness, fear, and hunger—yes, hunger for civilization."

The Connecticut representative declared that at his request Secretary Stimson more than a month ago authorized the south Pacific commander to take whatever action he "deemed appropriate to the circumstances."

"Apparently nothing has happened—we have heard nothing—nothing will happen unless we insist that justice to a few men is just as important as justice to the many, if army discipline is to be maintained," Compton told the House.

"I refuse to believe that the continued successful prosecution of the war depends on a handful of men who have already given as much of themselves in the cause of freedom as any other living men."

He complained specifically of the recent action of the War department in returning to this country from the European front for the Sixth War Bond drive a considerable number of servicemen with only a few months overseas service.

"Why bring men from Europe when the south Pacific is the hallowed ground where heroes actually died because of the shortage of guns and ammunition in the early days of the war," he asked. "Why not bring home these few men who have struggled with and endured continued limitations for three years, and in spite of it have done their share of keeping the enemies from our shores."

NEGRO SEABEE TROUBLE AIRED

Officer Says 15 Were Fired After Racial Issues Arose

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A naval appeals board today reviewed the cases of fifteen Negro Seabees who were discharged from the service.

Heading a legal staff representing the appellants was Arthur Garfield Hays, of New York, who complained that having received other than "honorable discharges" the men were not entitled to all the rights and benefits provided veterans under the GI Bill of Rights.

With five of the fifteen former Seabees present at the board hearing, naval officials noted from case records that the men had gone to Trinidad, West Indies, in the summer of 1943. They were discharged, the officers said, shortly after some of them participated in an "off the record" meeting September 26, 1943, attended by their commanding officer, at which racial questions were discussed.

Some of the men at the meeting protested that they were limited in promotion to certain enlisted grades because of their race and complained of other discriminations.

Records Listed

Lieut. Com. Norman F. Godbe, serving as attorney for the Navy, said the records of the men as a group showed attendance at "seditious meetings," "refusal to obey orders," attempted "sitdown strikes" and "threatened sabotage," but added that the allegations did not all apply to each man individually.

Hays asserted that the discharged men as a group were well educated and of higher than average intelligence.

Isaac Glenn McNatt, former Fayetteville (N.C.) teacher, who now is a law student at St. John's University, Brooklyn, edited the battalion's newspaper. He said the off-the-record meeting was called by the Trinidad commanding officer. He said the men's complaints were made after an invitation to discuss any grievances. He himself made no complaints, he said.

DEBATE ON WATERWAY SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 — (AP) An agreement was reached in the Senate today to vote tomorrow on the proposed St. Lawrence hydro-electric power and seaway development estimated to cost between $200,000,000 and $400,000,000.

Senator Aiken (R.-Vt.), who had discussed the project for several days, introduced it as an amendment to the $500,000,000 post-war Rivers and Harbors bill with a promise from Senator Overton (D. La.) that there will be no motion to table it.

New Manpower Order Sent To Draft Boards

DEC 12 1944

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Selective service today notified State draft directors that it will take "immediate action" to put into effect the Byrnes manpower directive.

In telegrams to state officers, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said that draft regulations are being amended to provide that when occupationally deferred registrants leave essential jobs they will be "reclassified into a class immediately available for service. . . ."

Only One Exception

The only exception, he said, will be in cases where local boards rule that a change of jobs by men 26 through 37 "is in the best interest of the war effort."

"To accomplish the purpose that registrants 18 through 37 carry their full share of the nation's war effort in order to remain occupationally deferred, local boards will apply present occupational deferment instructions in the light of the immdeiate urgencies for men in the armed forces and the civilian war effort," Hershey said.

Details Due Later

The new regulations outlining detailed procedure will be sent to local boards later this week, selective service said.

Meanwhile, officials expressed confidence that the tighter draft regulations will "go a long way" toward bolstering the war-labor force.

The most important result of James F. Byrnes's directive to selective service, they said, will be to cut down appreciably the huge labor turnover that has been a number one problem in fighting-lagging war production.

The director of war mobilization and reconversion, in instructions to General Hershey, ordered an "increase" in the number of men 26 through 37 called to the armed services.

Replacements Needed

Byrnes said this was necessary to replace men released from the services to fill jobs where their skills are needed. He also directed that consideration be given to drafting occupationally deferred registrants in that age bracket who leave essential industries.

WMC officials pointed out that few men of these ages have been called for several months.

As a result, older registrants have been drifting from munitions benches to peacetime jobs, WMC said.

May Halt Practice

The revised regulations will put a stop to this, manpower officials asserted, and at the same time will send registrants who have left essential jobs hurrying back.

These measures, however, will have no effect on male workers over 37 or on women. And war production has been dependent to an important degree on both these groups.

A large percentage of the 300,000 additional workers needed for critical war programs must come from these classifications. Unless Congress puts "teeth" in the WMC regulations, they must be found and held on a purely voluntary basis.

Meeting Scheduled

The WMC discussion of the situation came with the first scheduled meting at the White House of the new advisory board appointed by President Roosevelt last week to help Byrnes with his tasks.

Chairman of the board, former North Carolina Governor Max Gardner, said the board planned to talk with Byrnes, Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson, Robert Hinckley, chairman of the Board of Contract Settlement, and Maj. Gen. Frank T. Hines, head of the retaining and re-employment operations under Byrnes.

Capt. De Florez Gets Collier Aviation Trophy

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Capt. Luis de Florez, director of special devices for the Navy's Bureau of Aeronautics, has been awarded the Robert J. Collier Trophy for 1943.

The award is presented by the National Aeronautic Association "for the greatest achievement in aviation in America, the value of which has been demonstrated by actual use during the preceding year."

De Florez was chosen for his part in providing devices which have contributed greatly to the "faster, safer and more inexpensive training of military aviators," an NAA spokesman said. He is 55 and a native of New York city.

Tolley Designated For Food Commission

Washington, Dec. 11 (A. P.).—Howard H. Tolley, chief of the Agriculture Department's Bureau of Agricultural Economics, has been designated as American representative of the United Nations Interim Food Commission.

The appointment by President Roosevelt was announced today by the State Department. Mr. Tolley replaces Paul H. Appleby, who recently resigned.

President Roosevelt also approved the naming of Leroy D. Stinebower of the State Department as American alternate on the commission.

STEEL FIRMS RAP WLB WAGE BOOSTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP) Seventy-three basic steel companies asked the War Labor board tonight to back up on its recent wage decision.

The firms called the ruling "grossly unfair" and asserted it provided wage increasee in violation of the stabilization policy.

They petitioned the Board to reconsider its order made in disposing of demands of the CIO-steelworkers two weeks ago.

The Board exceeded its authority in granting adjustments—such as on shift differentials, vacation pay and rate "inequities," the companies contended. Neither had it the right to make them retroactive, they said.

The adjustments, the petition argued, amounted to wage increases.

John A. Stephens, chairman of the Steel Case Research committee, explained that the provisions are not now effective and will become effective only upon determination by the OPA that they will not require changes in price ceilings; or upon approval by Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson.

"It is unfortunate," Stephens said, "that steel workers believe that the order for wage increases is now effective. Such is not the case.

"The steel companies are very much aware that there is a war and that it has entered vital phases. In view of the war situation, the companies are accepting those parts on the Board's directive which are not dependent on the action of Mr. Vinson."

Among these are provisions for maintenance of union membership and checkoff of union dues, which the companies had asked the Board to discontinue.

President Roosevelt Is Rebuked By House

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The House today rebuked President Roosevelt and voted, 178 to 107, to abolish the huge Jackson Hole National Monument in Wyoming, which he created last year by executive order.

Representative Mott (R., Ore.) told the House the vote corrects "one of the greatest usurpations of legislative authority by the Executive." The resolution to outlaw the project now goes to the Senate.

President Roosevelt set aside 221,610 Wyoming acres by executive order on March 15, 1943, and designated it the Jackson Hole National Monument. The order specified that the huge tract be administered by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes.

Congress Juggles Salary Issue

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) — Congress juggled a legislative "hot potato" today, reluctant to drop it and afraid to grab it.

It deals with the politically dangerous and highly personal matter of an increase in pay for the legislators.

Imminent creation of a Senate-House committee to study the need for overhauling Congressional machinery has thrown the issue to the fore. In fact, a move was made last week to add a pay-raise amendment to an appropriation bill in the House, but it was ruled out of order on a technicality.

Quick Action Probable

The matter is likely to come before the joint legislative study committee early in the new Congress. And it may be acted on quickly, too, on the theory that, even though a pay raise voted by the 79th Congress can't become effective until the 80th comes in in 1947, it might be just as well to give the voters plenty of time to forget before the 1946 Congressional elections.

"Almost all of us are agreed that the present pay of $10,000 a year for a member of Congress is insufficient and doesn't attract the highest-caliber men," commented one veteran House member privately.

"But it's a dangerous and ticklish subject and, like pensions for Congressmen, it will get us into trouble with the people, regardless of its merits.

"People Bound To Take It Up"

"It's just one of those things the people are bound to take up and jump all over us for."

One of the leading advocates for a Congressional pay increase, Representative Celler (D., N.Y.) pointed out that the lawmakers haven't had a raise since 1923, when their pay check was hoisted $2,500, although living costs have skyrocketed in the last few years and the job of being a Congressman has become a year-around occupation instead of the part-time proposition it used to be.

HURLEY FIRM IS DEFENDED

Banker Says Lieutenant Failed To Note Good Jobs

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A navy officer's complaints of "disastrous" experience with the Narragansett Machine Company was challenged today by a banker who participated in army financing for Robert A. Hurley's old company.

Carl B. Pittman, vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, told the Senate Military Committee that a letter written by Lieut. Stanley Cutter failed to give the Pawtucket (R.I) company credit for its good performances.

The committee is considering the nomination of Hurley, former Democratic Governor of Connecticut, for chairman of the Surplus War Property Disposal Board, and that of Lieut. Col. Edward H. Heller, war finance officer, as another of the three-member board. It plans further testimony tomorrow.

Called "Top Notch"

Most of today was devoted to testimony by a long line of friends of Colonel Heller, wealthy San Francisco business man, who called him a "top notch" business man of unusual integrity.

Hurley resigned as vice president of the Narragansett company when his nomination was sent to the Senate.

Pittman's bank, as fiscal agent for the War Department, helped arrange a $2,000,000 loan for the Narragansett company through the Industrial Trust Company, of Providence, and later took over a second $2,000,000 loan which replaced the first.

He said Heller's performance in connection with the loan was as an army finance officer. He said Heller war largely concerned with verifying the Government's need for the Narragansett company for vital war work. The Boston Ordnance District, he testified, had approved the company, and asked that financing be arranged to enable it to carry out contracts for tank gun mounts, lockers, radar equipment and other work.

"Long, Disastrous History"

"The company has performed well on most of its contracts," he said.

Pittman testified that Lieutenant Cutter wrote a navy superior concerning the cancellation of Narragansett contracts for navy lockers and assertedly poor performance on bomb racks and referred to the "long, disastrous history" of dealings with the company.

The banker said that the company had complained of the Navy's failure to get it top priority on needed materials, and added that the company fell down only on items it was asked to produce for which it was not qualified.

"Despite . . . Being . . . Democrat"

If the concern is allowed to do necessary work for which it can perform efficiently, he said, there will be no loss to the Government on the loans.

Two Republicans were among those giving Heller commendation.

Victor H. Rossetti, president of the Farmers and Merchants National Bank, Los Angeles, said he had telegraphed Senator Taft (R., Ohio) urging confirmation. Fred A. Wickett, former vice president of the New York Life Insurance Company, said the President could not have found a better nominee than Heller, "despite his being a Democrat."

POLL TAX OPPONENTS CONTEST HOUSE SEATS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11 — (AP) The Southern Electoral Reform League announced today it would contest the election of representatives from the poll tax states of Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Texas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Tennessee and Virginia.

Formal notices of contest, the league said, have been sent the 79 House members from those states.

The action is based on the grounds that the 14th amendment to the Constitution forbids abridgement of the right to vote in any way except for crime or rebellion.

The league, through Arthur Dunn, of New York city, and Moses A. Plunkett, of Roanoke County, Va., contends the same amendment reduces the members of Congress of any state in proportion to the number of voters denied the right to vote, and that hence the 79 members are not legally seated.

SLATTERY RESIGNS FROM REA TO TAKE FIGHT TO PUBLIC

DEC 12 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(AP) Harry Slattery, who hitherto had resisted administration efforts to ease him out as rural electrification administrator, resigned today "to carry this fight to the public."

No reasons were assigned in the White House announcement that Slattery had submitted the resignation early last week and President Roosevelt had accepted it Dec. 8.

Hits Wickard Appointment

But Slattery issued a statement saying that Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's appointment of a deputy administrator with "coordinate" authority "bypassed and displaced me as actual administrator." He named William J. Neal as the deputy with "coordinate" authority.

Calling Wickard's action "illegal and contrary to the REA act,"

30. 24— 21157

Slattery asserted:

"They also jeopardize the repayment of government loans and are dangerous to the welfare and permanent success of REA. I have protested, but to no avail. I decline further to be held even nominally responsible for these illegal acts.

"The President's order forbids federal officials to engage in public controversies. Therefore I have resigned in order to carry this fight to the public."

The row came fully into the open for the first time last Spring in the Senate Committee investigation of efforts to replace Slattery. The administration then said his resignation had been requested by Wickard and by Jonathan Daniels, a presidential assistant.

Wickard told the committee an Agriculture department investigator had reported to him that Slattery's word "couldn't be relied upon." He said dissension within the agency led him to believe it needed a chief of "greater administrative ability."

Daniels Testified

Daniels declined at first to testify, but did so after the committee threatened to subpoena White House files. He said he requested Slattery's resignation after the President requested him to make an investigation of REA.

Slattery testified he believed efforts to oust him stemmed from his refusal to do political campaigning.

Senator Shipstead (R-Minn.), member of a Senate Agriculture subcommittee which investigated REA last spring, said today he did not blame Slattery for quitting Secretary Wickard, the Senator declared, had stripped Slattery of his powers and had continually "by passed" him.

Shipstead said his committee would make "every effort" to have the REA restored as an independent agency.

The committee, formerly under the leadership of the late Senator Smith (D-S.C.), already has recommended such a step, declaring that the REA has been demoralized by "dissatisfaction, controversy and intrigue" in its status as Agriculture department agency.

Slattery was in the Interior department during part of the Wilson administration, and later took part in Senate inquiries on the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills oil reserves. He came back to the Interior department in 1933. In 1939 he moved up from Undersecretary of Interior to head the REA.

The White House said nothing about a successor.

FISH SWAN SONG DIGS AT DEWEY

New York Republican Blames Governor For His Defeat

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Representative Fish (R., N.Y.) declared today in the House "it took most of the New Deal Administration, half of Moscow, $400,000 and Governor (Thomas E.) Dewey to defeat me."

In a farewell speech, Fish, unseated by Augustus W. Bennet, placed the major blame on the Republican Presidential candidate, saying:

"I am confident that I would have been able to overcome all efforts to purge me if it had not been for Governor Dewey's intolerant and false statement denouncing me as un-American.

"I am convinced," he asserted, "that his stupid and colossal blunder, for selfish political purposes, was the direct cause of my defeat, as well as his own, and may have kept the Republicans from electing a majority in the House of Representatives."

He said Dewey had characterized as un-American his remarks that a "majority of the Jewish people would vote for President Roosevelt and the New Deal." Declaring he "bitterly resented" this characterization, he asked:

"Since when it is un-American to tell the truth or mention the word Jew, any more than the words Christian, Irish, Italian, Pole, or Negro?"

Guild Pacts With UP Are Upheld By WLB

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The War Labor Board today upheld the July 26 order of the Newspaper Commission, granting union security to the American Newspaper Guild in its contracts with United Press Associations.

The United Press had appealed from the order of the Daily Newspaper Printing and Publishing Commission in Chicago, which had granted the standard-maintenance-of-membership provision in conformity with the Harrisburg Patriot case.

The maintenance clause provides that those workers who are in good standing in the union fifteen days after the order must continue in that status for the duration of the union's contract with the company. The fifteen-day period is allowed for those employés who desire to leave the union to do so.

Contentions Listed

The UP contended that the order violated the rights of free expression guaranteed under the Constitution and that it violated the National Labor Relations Act. The company further contended that the Patriot decision does not apply to wire services.

Further, the UP said, the imposition of any enforced union membership is an infringement on management, which must have the right to select its employés if subscribers were to receive impartial and objective service.

The company also argued that the union had failed to justify any need for maintenance of membership.

Oaks Proposals Backed

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Support of the Dumbarton Oaks conference preliminary draft as a "proposal for the establishment of a general international organization" was pledged today by the trustees of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace at their semi-annual meeting.

Plan To Rebuild Churches

New York, Dec. 9 (AP)—The National Council of the Episcopal Church has approved a plan to raise between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 to rebuild church property destroyed in countries which were occupied by the enemy in the war.

RADIO FACES STRIKE THREAT

Platter Turner Jurisdictional Issue Bobs Up Again

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Mark Woods, president of the Blue Network Company, said today that James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, had threatened to "order a series of wildcat strikes" against the Blue if the firm did not abide by a previous agreement with the AFM.

Petrillo was not immediately available for comment.

Woods said in a statement that the Blue had negotiated a new contract with Petrillo last January in which it agreed "to employ platter turners who are members of the American Federation of Musicians."

"This agreement was part of a general contract," Woods said, "in which we accepted the AFM jurisdiction over platter turners, in order that a musicians' strike could be averted."

General and Wife Motor From New York to Visit His Aunt

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Dec. 11 (AP).—General and Mrs. Joseph W. Stilwell arrived in Saratoga Springs today to visit his aunt, Mrs. George A. Farnham. General Stillwell, who was recently recalled from his Far Eastern command, motored from New York. He will remain overnight for "rest and relaxation," his aide, Major Carl Arnold, said. General Stilwell did not stop at Washington Major Arnold said, but when he leaves tomorrow by plane he will proceed "toward" the capital.

On his trip east from his home at Carmel, Calif., General Stilwell stopped at Abilene, Tex., and Fort Benning, Ga., and visited his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joseph W. Stilwell jr., at Columbus, Ga. On his way here he visited his brother John at Yonkers. He hopes to return to Carmel by Christmas.

State Associated Press Backs Free News Flow

Indorses Kent Cooper's Work for Universal Liberty

ALBANY, Dec. 11 (AP).—The New York State Associated Press Association gave "unqualified indorsement" today to the principle of free flow of news throughout the world "as an essential to enduring peace."

The association, composed of seventy-four newspapers, adopted a resolution recording "hearty approval" of a projected world tour of a committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors and of the efforts of Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, in the interests of a universally free press.

Alan J. Gould, assistant general manager of the A. P., told the association that while there had been "no completely satisfactory solution" of war news censorship problems, considerable progress had been made. He credited the Navy with liberalizing censorship regulations in the Pacific where, he said, conditions were the "toughest" of any war theater. He called the war coverage "the best reportorial job the world has ever seen."

Governor Thomas E. Dewey spoke "off the record" at the evening session.

Fritz S. Updike, managing editor of "The Rome Daily Sentinel," was elected president of the association. Clifford H. Nuhn, editorial director of "The Poughkeepsie New Yorker," was chosen vice-president, and W. Norris Paxton, chief of The Associated Press Albany bureau, was re-elected secretary.

DENIES SMOKES DELAY SHIPS

WSA Says Seamen Don't Hold Out For Cigarettes

Nazis And Snuff

Madrid, Dec. 11 (AP)—The German newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung has advised its readers who smoke to change to snuff, "not only because tobacco is short but because snuff clears the head."

Boston, Dec. 11 (AP)—The public relations office of the War Shipping Administration today said it had received no official reports of any ships being delayed in sailing because of "inadequate" supplies of cigarettes.

The WSA said that "absolutely no overseas ships had been held up and that it didn't know of a single coastwise vessel being delayed" because merchant seamen refused to sail until smokes were supplied.

The WSA commented on a recent statement attributed to Harrington Pike, port representative for the recruitment division of the WSA, that men couldn't be expected to "go to sea without cigarettes." Pike said at that time that numbers of merchant seamen had refused to sail until assured smokes while on the seas.

Pike declined to enlarge upon his statement today and referred inquiries to the public relations office.

An executive of the Boston branch of the National Maritime Union said that the organization never heard of any ships being delayed because cigarettes were unavailable, and, he added, "I doubt very much that there is any foundation for the report."

The War Shipping Administration public relations office said that cigarettes were "taken out of bond" for overseas vessels.

SERVICEMEN SEEK TO START AIRLINE

BOSTON, Dec. 11 — (AP) Two members of the Army Air force testified today that 49 servicemen were members of Norseman Air Transport associates, which proposes to operate an airline in New England after the war.

Private William C. Cook, of Winthrop, presently training as a flight engineer in B-29 bombers, told a Civil Aeronautics board examiner that he formerly was a machine tool salesman, and that he was familiar with the difficulties of traveling in New England without private transportation or airlines.

Cook said that Norseman proposes to employ qualified veterans wherever possible, and he added that "each employe will also be a stockholder. . . and will be interested in the success of the venture."

"There will be a common interest which will cause the employer-stockholders to work as a team, just as we have been required to do in the service," Cook said.

The other soldier witness, was S/Sgt. John D. George, of Dallas, Texas, a former employe of an aviation company.

George said that the men of the Army air forces had learned to work toward a common purpose.

"Those who could not do so," he added, "were transferred from the air forces. Because of this ability to work together, I believe a commercial airline operated by former air force and air transport personnel would be likely to succeed."

In announcing formation of the Norseman associates recently, Lieut. Robert G. Averill, of Longmeadow, said that it was a servicemen's post-war plan for their own employment in a business they had learned in the army.

Many of the 49 members are attached to the Air Transport command and are stationed all over the world.

The Norsemen concern proposes to operate short haul lines on 14 routes connecting 77 points over 2,841 miles. Several New York state and Pennsylvania cities also are on their proposed routes.

Destroyer Knox Commissioned

BOSTON, Dec. 11 (AP).—The U. S. S. Frank Knox, one of the Navy's new-type 2,200-ton destroyers, was placed in commission today at the Boston Navy Yard. The first of the world's largest destroyers to be commissioned at the yard, the vessel, named for the late Secretary of the Navy, was launched in September at the Bath Iron Works Corporation, Bath, Me. Mrs. Frank Knox, who sponsored the ship, presented a portrait of her husband to the destroyer.

Inductions To Rise

Cleveland, Dec. 11 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director, said today his "guess" was that there would be a ten to twenty per cent increase in inductions in the next few months, "from what I see in the papers about the way the war is going."

Asserting that draft boards are being asked to put more emphasis on the kind of work a registrant does, rather than his age, General Hershey told a press conference: "The Army is getting to the point of taking what it can get, and men under 26 are not so plentiful any more."

OPPONENT OF TAFT DROPS RECOUNT PLEA

CLEVELAND, Dec. 11.—(AP) Recounting of the votes cast in Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) for the office of U. S. Senator was halted today at the request of Democratic County Chairman Ray T. Miller, when retabulation of 300 of the county's 1,183 precincts gave Democrat William G. Pickrel of Dayton a net gain of only about half a vote for precinct over U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati Republican.

Miller said in a statement "the net gain of Mr. Pickrel at the end of the recount of 300 precincts is about half a vote per precinct. The recount has found no evidence of fraud or gross error."

Ben Schwartz, Pickrel campaign representative in northern Ohio, said he would recommend to the unsuccessful candidate that petitions for recounts in Summit and Lucas counties be withdrawn, in view of the Cuyahoga results.

Taft defeated Pickrel in the Nov. 7 election by a statewide majority of 17,999. Pickrel carried Cuyahoga county by 96,094 but that was 16,721 votes behind President Roosevelt and 96,102 votes behind Frank J. Lausche, the successful Democratic candidate for governor.

No Need For Labor Draft, McNutt Insists

Miami, Fla., Dec. 11 (AP)—Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission reiterated today his belief that the United States will be able to meet the tremendous worker demands of war plants without resorting to a labor draft.

He was interviewed at the Army Air Forces regional hospital where he has been staying for the past week in an attempt to rid himself of a troublesome sinus ailment before undertaking some unusually heavy duties which he said he cannot now discuss.

"I don't believe a labor draft will be necessary," McNutt said, "even though the manpower demands of the army are becoming steadily heavier."

UNIONS PICKET WARD STORES

Affected Detroit Plants Remain Open, However

Detroit, Dec. 11 (AP)—Pickets marched in a snowstorm today before each of four Montgomery Ward & Co. stores in the Detroit area as members of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employés (CIO) pressed their strike to force the company to accept a War Labor Board directive.

The strikers received the support today of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), whose vice president, Walter Reuther, said half a million UAW-CIO members in the area would lend their aid. Reuther said the Ward company had "defied the Federal Government and set itself up above the WLB."

Open Despite Pickets

The four stores were open despite the picket lines, and a company spokesman said about 80 per cent of their regular personnel was on the job. This was disputed by union officials who claimed approximately 1,500 of some 2,200 employés of the stores had joined the strike.

They said department heads and extra help were keeping the Dearborn store open.

Other stores affected were two in Detroit and one in Royal Oak.

Seek To Enforce Demand

The strikes sought to enforce a demand that the company accept a 1942 WLB directive on union maintenance of membership, dues checkoff, seniority, back pay and arbitration of grievances.

Roy Scoggins, Detroit regional director of the employes' union, said pay increases of $2 to $5 a week ordered by the WLB were to have been retroactive to December 8, 1942, and that the amount involved is approximately $500,000.

The company has carried its opposition to the War Labor Board to the United States Supreme Court, which denied a petition for a review of a suit in which it sought to enjoin the WLB from "exceeding its statutory jurisdiction" in orders issued in labor disputes.

Union Stewards To Meet

In a statement issued tonight in Chicago, Henry B. Anderson, president of Local 20 of the union, said:

"The executive board of Local 20 met and we are calling an emergency steward council meeting on Thursday evening, at which time we will decide what action we shall take.

"The Montgomery Ward workers in Chicago fully support and sympathize with the Detroit workers."

PLANES SPEED VETERANS HOME FOR HOLIDAYS

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 11—(AP) Jammed to capacity, Naval Air Transport service planes are landing nearly 100 home-bound combat men a day in an increasing tempo to get them to their homes in time for Christmas.

Capt. James E. Dyer, NATS commander for the West coast, said wounded or able Navy men granted mainland leave have priority second only to munitions cargo.

Twelfth Naval district also announced scores of men bound for their Christmas fireside are being speeded here by surface ship.

VETERANS OF PACIFIC ARRIVE IN SAN DIEGO

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 11—(AP) One thousand Marines and sailors, 1,600 other veterans of the Pacific warfare, a group of missionaries and Red Cross workers and some Chinese and Australians arrived here today by transport.

The wounded formed one of the largest groups of casualties brought to the West coast in one ship. Most of them were wounded in actions preparatory to the Philippine invasion. Others were returning from India, China, Palau, New Guinea, Australia, the Solomons and the Marianas. A few had fought the Japanese in the Philippines before the islands fell, and others had been at Leyte.

This Christmas will be the first holiday home in three years for Donald O. Couey, 30, radioman from Seattle, Wash., who fought at Corregidor. During the voyage home he exchanged experiences in the Philippines with men returning from Leyte, including Chief Petty Officer Lel[illegible] H. Redfern, 24, Pavo, Ga.

INFANTRY-MEN OF THE 90TH DIVISION WERE STRUGGLING THROUGH A MAZE OF GERMAN STRONG POINTS THERE, BUT THE FIRST AMERICAN TANKS AND SELF-PROPELLED TANK DESTROYER GUNS WERE PUT ACROSS THE SAAR RIVER IN THE LAST DAY OR TWO AND WERE EXPECTED TO EASE THE DOUGHBOYS' TASK.

IN SAARLAUTERN THE AMERICANS CAPTURED THE RAILROAD STATION AND CLEARED THE GERMANS FROM A HOTEL STRONGPOINT.

ON THE LOWER PART OF THE THIRD ARMY FRONT THE GERMANS HURLED ASSAULTS AT THE 35TH DIVISION'S SAAR RIVER BRIDGEHEADS NEAR SARREINSMING AND WITTRING, TWO AND FIVE MILES SOUTHEAST OF VIRTUALLY LIBERATED SARREGUEMINES. JUST NORTH OF SARREGUEMINES AMERICAN PATROLS WERE STABBING INTO NEUNKIRCH, LESS

LIBERATED SARREGUEMINES. JUST NORTH OF SARREGUEMINES AMERICAN PATROLS WERE STABBING INTO NEUNKIRCH, LESS THAN A HALF-MILE FROM THE SAAR BASIN BORDER.

IN A ONE-MILE ADVANCE THE 26TH DIVISION OVERRAN GROS REDERCHING, SEVEN MILES SOUTHEAST OF SARREGUEMINES AND DROVE TO WITHIN THREE MILES OF THE BASIN.

FRAULAUTERN, IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE, NOV 11-(AP)-THIS KEYSTONE TOWN OF THE FORWARD SIEGFRIED LINE DEFENSES WAS BEING TOWN TO PIECES HOUSE BY HOUSE TODAY AS THE 95TH DIVISION CLAWED DEEPER INTO THE WESTWALL.

WITH PILLBOXES INSIDE AND OUTSIDE OF DWELLINGS AND MACHINEGUNS EMPLACED AT ALMOST EVERY CORNER, THE DOUGHBOYS HAVE HAD TO GO THROUGH SOME BLOCKS BY KNOCKING HOLES THROUGH THE WALLS OF HOUSES AND CRAWLING FROM ONE BUILDING TO ANOTHER TO AVOID EXPOSURE IN THE STREETS.

IN RIDING AND WALKING THROUGH SEVERAL BLOCKS OF ITS SOUTHWEST SECTION TODAY I SAW SCARCELY A SINGLE WHOLE PANE OF GLASS AND SCARCELY A HOUSE THAT WASN'T RIPPED IN ONE OR MORE PLACES BY ARTILLERY.

GERMAN ARTILLERY FIRE HERE AND IN THE DILLINGEN AREA TWO MILES NORTH HAS BEEN THE HEAVIEST THE THIRD ARMY EVER ENCOUNTERED, AND IT IS ADDING HOURLY TO THE DESTRUCTION OF THIS ONCE-THRIVING INDUSTRIAL TOWN OF 10,000.

MAJ.GEN. HARRY L.TWADDLE'S VICTORY DIVISION HAS BEEN WORKING ON THE THREE SAARLAUTERN SATELLITES OF FRAULAUTERN, RODEN AND ENSDORD FOR A WEEK, AND COUNTING ITS GAINS BY THE YARDS THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSE BELT.

ONLY YESTERDAY AND TODAY DID THE 377TH REGIMENT UNDER COL. FRED A. GAILLARD OF GREENVILLE, TEX., BEGIN TO SEE SOME FAINT SIGNS THAT THE GERMANS IN THE IMMEDIATE AREA ARE BEGINNING TO CRACK UNDER INCESSANT PRESSURE FROM AMERICAN MEN AND GUNS.

DEC 12 1944

YESTERDAY'S FIGHTING GAINED A COUPLE OF BLOCKS, AND ABOUT THREE MORE HAD BEEN TAKEN WHEN I VISITED THE BATTALION COMMAND POST OF LT. COL. JOSEPH F. BECKER, SELMA, ALA., THIS AFTERNOON.

"I REALLY THINK THE GOING IS GETTING A LITTLE EASIER," SAID THE STOCKY LITTLE BATTALION BOSS, WHO USED TO WORK FOR THE BIRMINGHAM, ALA., NEWS. "WE HAVEN'T HAD A SINGLE COUNTERATTACK SO FAR TODAY. ARTILLERY HAS BEEN A LITTLE EASIER, AND MAYBE WE CAN GET GOING A LITTLE FASTER SOON, AND WE CERTAINLY ARE MOVING BETTER THAN WE'VE BEEN IN DAYS."

GUIDED BY CAPT. WILLIAM M. PATTERSON, SEARCY, ARK., WHO STROLLED ALONG ALMOST CASUALLY IN A STREET WHERE ALMOST EVERYONE MOVED IN DASHES FROM DOOR TO DOOR, WE WENT ON TO ANOTHER BATTALION COMMAND POST UNDER MAJ. ALBION C. MULCOCK, SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH, AND FOUND HE WAS MOVING UP.

SGT. DAN SPIES, FORMER REPORTER FROM 2429 GODDALE ST., ST.LOUIS, MO., ACTING AS OPERATIONS OFFICER FOR BECKER, SAID:

"AFTER THE PAST FEW DAYS OF SLOW GOING IT SEEMS LIKE A BIG JUMP WHERE WE ARE ABLE TO MOVE A FEW HUNDRED YARDS."

AT AN AID STATION A FEW BLOCKS FROM THE FIRING LINE, CAPT. DOUGLAS AITKEN, CARBONDALE, PA., WAS TREATING A WOUNDED GERMAN JUST BROUGHT IN BY PFC WILLIAM SEKOLA, 2588 ASHTON ST., CLEVELAND, OHIO, WHO HAD HELPED TO CAPTURE HIM A FEW MINUTES BEFORE IN A PILLBOX WELL BEHIND OUR FORWARD ELEMENTS.

DEC 12 1944

ASKED ABOUT A LACK OF ANY AMERICAN PATIENTS IN HIS LAMP-LIT BASEMENT, THE YOUNG DOCTOR, WHO INTERNED AT JEFFERSON HOSPITAL, PHILADELPHIA, HAD THIS ENCOURAGING REPORT:

"OUR CASUALTIES THROUGHOUT THIS OPERATION HAVE BEEN AMAZINGLY LIGHT CONSIDERING THE TERRIFIC ARTILLERY AND THE STUBBORN OPPOSITION. I SUPPOSE THIS IS BECAUSE AFTER METZ AND THE DRIVE EASTWARD FROM THERE OUR TROOPS ARE BATTLEWISE AND KNOW HOW TO TAKE CARE OF THEMSELVES.

"THEIR ARTILLERY HAS BEEN ON A FRIGHTFUL SCALE, BUT FOR SOME REASON IT HAS HIT A SURPRISINGLY SMALL NUMBER OF MEN. THE MEN'S GENERAL HEALTH AS REGARDS COLDS AND SUCH ALSO IS GOOD AND THIS CITY FIGHTING MAY BE TOUGH, BUT IT KEEPS DOWN TRENCH FOOT."

:-05. PETER J. BAKER, CATHOLIC CHAPLAIN OF THE 377TH WHOSE FAMILY

LIVES AT 13 RUTLAND ROAD, BROOKLYN, AND WHOSE CHURCH WAS SAINT KEVINS IN FLUSHING, LONG ISLAND, ALSO WAS IN THE AID STATION AND AGREED THAT CASUALTIES HAD BEEN LIGHTER THAN EXPECTED.

FRAULAUTERN, GERMANY, DEC. 11-(AP)-A 20-YEAR-OLD LIEUTENANT FROM LONG ISLAND KNOCKED OUT THREE SIEGFRIED LINE PILLBOXES TODAY WITH HIS TONGUE--AND AN AMAZING AMOUNT OF COOLNESS AND COURAGE.

LT. PETER SKALA, UNARMED, WALKED UP TO THE THREE POINTS WITH HIS HANDS AT HIS SIDE, KNOWING THAT IF THE GERMANS INSIDE WANTED TO THEY COULD CUT HIM TO PIECES IN A SECOND.

RELUCTANT TO TALK MUCH OF HIS FEAT AT THE 377TH REGIMENT'S COMMAND POST LATE THIS AFTERNOON, THIS SON OF A CZECH-AMERICAN FATHER AND A GERMAN-AMERICAN MOTHER, WHOSE HOME IS AT 3919 49TH ST., SUNNYSIDE, LONG ISLAND, N.Y., FINALLY SAID:

"I JUST WALKED UP TO THE FIRST BOX AND CALLED TO THEM, EXPLAINING THAT WE DID NOT WANT TO SHED BLOOD UNNECESSARILY AND TELLING THEM THAT THEY WOULD NOT BE KILLED IF THEY WOULD COME OUT.

"I WAS STANDING A FEW FEET AWAY FROM THE PILLBOX AND THEY SAID THEY COULDN'T HEAR CLEARLY, SO I MOVED UP CLOSE TO THE DOORWAY AND REPEATED IT. IN JUST A FEW SECONDS, ONE OF THEM ASKED IF I WOULD PROMISE NOT TO KILL THEM. I ANSWERED I WASN'T EVEN ARMED AND NO ONE WOULD HARM THEM. SOON THE DOOR OPENED AND THEY CAME OUT.

DEC 12 1944

"THERE WERE SEVEN IN THE NEXT ONE AND FIVE IN THE NEXT. THAT'S ALL THERE WAS TO IT."

PRESSED AS TO WHY HE DID NOT AT LEAST CARRY A WHITE FLAG ON SUCH A DANGEROUS MISSION, HE SAID SIMPLY, "I JUST DIDN'T THINK THEY WOULD SHOOT AND THEY DIDN'T. I KNEW FROM LISTENING TO THE PRISONERS TALK THAT MANY OF THEM WERE FED UP WITH FIGHTING. SOME HAD BEEN IN THE WAR FIVE YEARS AND WOUNDED THREE OR FOUR TIMES. THEY DON'T WANT TO BE KILLED."

SKALA, WHO IS BOYISH-LOOKING AND MEDIUM-SIZED, WAS A STUDENT AT QUEENS COLLEGE, FLUSHING, N.Y., BEFORE HE ENTERED THE ARMY.

TWENTY-FIRST ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, DEC. 11-(AP)-THE GERMANS WHO STARTED THIS FREAK "BATTLE OF THE FLOOD WATERS" AT THE NORTHERN TIP OF THE ALLIED SALIENT IN HOLLAND ARE GETTING WETTER AND COLDER BY THE HOUR.

THE GERMANS BREACHED THE DIKES OF THE LOWER RHINE, RELEASING THE WATERS AGAINST THE CANADIANS.

THEN THE RAF STEPPED IN WITH THOUSAND-POUND BOMBS THAT BREACHED A DAM NORTHEAST OF NIJMEGEN AND SENT WATERS SWEEPING INTO ENEMY POSITIONS. AN ARMY SPOKESMAN SAID THE FLOOD NOW COVERS AN AREA 18 MILES LONG BY A MILE AND A HALF WIDE.

BY WILLIAM F. BONI

WITH THE U. S. FIRST ARMY IN GERMANY, DEC. 11-(AP)-LT. GEN. COURTNEY H. HODGES' FIRST ARMY DOUGHBOYS AND TANKS PUSHED FORWARD AS MUCH AS 2,000 YARDS TODAY TOWARD THE ROER RIVER ALL ALONG THE FRONT.

THE GERMANS APPEARED TO BE FIGHTING CHIEFLY A SCREENING ACTION WHILE MOVING THE BULK OF THEIR STRENGTH TO THE RIVER'S EAST BANK, WHERE THEY ARE KNOWN TO HAVE THREE PREPARED LINES WITHIN 2,500 YARDS OF THE RIVER.

LACK OF ENEMY COUNTERATTACKS IN ANYTHING LIKE CUSTOMARY STRENGTH WAS SUBJECT TO NO OTHER INTERPRETATION.

THERE WERE FRESH GAINS AGAINST VARYING RESISTANCE FROM SCHOPHOVEN IN THE NORTH TO BERGSTEIN IN THE SOUTH, WHERE WE GAINED HIGH GROUND ABOVE THE TOWN OVERLOOKING THE ROER.

BETWEEN SCHOPHOVEN AND BERGSTEIN, FIRST ARMY SPEARHEADS WERE FIGHTING HOUSE-TO-HOUSE IN PIER. THEY CLUNG TO A HARD-WON TOEHOLD IN THE WESTERN EDGE OF MERKEN, WERE A QUARTER OF A MILE EAST OF ECHTZ, HAD CLEARED SCHLICH ALTHOUGH THERE STILL WAS FIGHTING WEST OF IT, WERE IN MERODE, AND STILL WERE ENGAGED IN DRIVING THE ENEMY HOUSE-TO-HOUSE AND CELLAR-TO-CELLAR IN GEY.

AT THE CLOSEST POINT OF ADVANCE TO THE KEY CITY OF DUREN, INFANTRY WAS FIGHTING ONTO A BIG TREE-GROWN SLAG HEAP ABOUT 90 FEET HIGH NEAR KONZENDORF, TWO AND A HALF MILES FROM THE CENTER OF DUREN.

FROM THE TOP FLOOR OF A BUILDING BEING USED AS AN INFANTRY COMMAND POST I HAD A CLEAR VIEW OF DUREN THIS AFTERNOON AS FIGHTER-BOMBERS CIRCLED OVERHEAD BEFORE DIVING ON 88'S WHICH HAVE BEEN HAMMERING AT THE TROOPS TRYING TO FIGHT TO THE TOP OF THE SLAG HEAP.

ARMOR AND INFANTRY WHICH HAS ADVANCED MORE THAN THREE MILES SINCE PUSHING OFF FROM JUST OUTSIDE LANGERWEHE YESTERDAY MORNING ARE BEING SUPPORTED BY AN ARTILLERY BARRAGE OF ALL CALIBERS.

TROOPS ALREADY HAVE PUSHED BEYOND ECHTZ TO WITHIN 1,000 YARDS OF HOVEN, WHICH IS ALMOST ON THE BANKS OF THE ROER.

LT. CARL RUFF, 455 EAST 51ST STREET, NEW YORK CITY, SAID TROOPS IN THIS SECTOR HAVE TAKEN 86 PRISONERS IN THE PAST 24 HOURS.

AMONG THEM WERE 24 YOUNGSTERS--PARACHUTE TROOPS IN NAME ONLY--A FEW ONLY 14 YEARS OLD, WHO WERE DUG FROM THE CELLARS OF GEICH AND OBERGEICH AND OTHER VILLAGES.

THE ATTACK ON MERKEN, WHICH KICKED OFF THIS MORNING, IS TYPICAL OF THE TYPE OF FIGHTING THAT HAS BEEN GOING ON FOR ALMOST A MONTH FOR THESE FORTIFIED VILLAGES, TURNED BY THE GERMANS INTO FORMIDABLE REDOUBTS.

THEY HAVE STRENGTHENED THE CELLARS AND LINKED THEM INTO A SERIES OF UNDERGROUND BASTIONS.

A MESSAGE AT 6:34 A.M. FROM THE UNITS ASSAULTING MERKEN SAID: "C COMPANY HAS A LINE OF HOUSES ALONG THE NORTHWEST EDGE OF TOWN, B COMPANY HAS 11 HOUSES IN THE SAME SECTOR." THE FORMER IS COMMANDED BY LT. JERRY HOOKER, 1599 MOSS STREET, EUGENE, ORE., AND THE LATTER IS UNDER CAPT. ROY GARINO, 5 SCHOOL STREET, PASSAIC, N.J.

BY 8:30 A.M. THEY HAD SHIPPED 85 PRISONERS BACK FROM THE LINES AND HAD CAPTURED ONE MORE HOUSE.

BETWEEN MERKEN AND PIER, COMPANY A UNDER LT. DONALD DUNCAN, 1201 NORTH 23RD ST., BOISE, IDAHO, GUARDING THE FLANK SENT OUT A PARTY OF 18 MEN TO LAY WIRE AND MINES.

AT 9 A.M. THEY WERE SURROUNDED AND CAPTURED BY THE GERMANS IN AN ACTION VISIBLE FROM COMPANY COMMAND POSTS. DUNCAN PROMPTLY CALLED FOR ARTILLERY TO PUT IN HIGH TIME FIRE--AIR BUSRSTS HIGH ENOUGH TO PIN DOWN THE GERMANS BUT ENABLE HIS OWN MEN TO ADVANCE.

A PLATOON UNDER 2ND LT. EDWARD P.ARBOGAST, NORTON, W.VA., SET OUT AND SUCCEEDED NOT ONLY IN RESCUING THE ENTIRE PARTY BUT ALSO SEIZED ITS FORMER CAPTORS.

THE GERMANS IN PIER CARRIER ON STIFF RESISTANCE THROUGHOUT THE DAY AGAINST OUR INFANTRY WITH SOME TANK SUPPORT.

IN THE WESTERN PART OF TOWN OUR COMPANIES WERE FIGHTING UNDER CAPTS. BERNARD C.BARKER, NEW RAYMER, COLO., AND CHARLES GLOTZBACK, PAXICO, KAS., AND LT. JACK J.HARMON, AMARILLO, TEX.

YESTERDAY'S PRISONER TOTAL OF 198 BROUGHT THE FIRST ARMY'S BAG UP TO 210,712 SINCE D-DAY.

A U.S. THIRD ARMY REPLACEMENT CENTER, FRANCE, DEC 11-(AP)-THE BIGGEST CHRISTMAS PRESENT SHORT OF GOING HOME FOR GOOD WAS DROPPED TODAY INTO THE FOXHOLES OF PICKED THIRD ARMY COMBAT VETERANS WHO WERE GIVEN 30-DAY HOME LEAVES.

A NUMBER OF G.I.'S AND A FEW OFFICERS, MOST OF WHOM WEAR THE PURPLE HEART AND HAVE WON MULTIPLE CITATIONS, CHOSEN FOR THE UNEXPECTED REWARD, TROOPED INTO THIS REPLACEMENT CENTER TONIGHT STRAIGHT FROM THE FRONT LINES FOR HAIRCUTS, HOT SHOWERS, A DOUBLE ISSUE OF RATIONS AND A CHANGE OF CLOTHES PREPARATORY TO STARTING HOMEWARD.

TO SAY THEY WERE THE HAPPIEST MEN THIS SIDE OF THE OCEAN WOULD BE A GROSS UNDERSTATEMENT.

THEY WERE GREETED HERE BY CAPT.WILLARD KIBBY OF EAST CLEVELAND, OHIO, REPLACEMENT BATTALION EXECUTIVE OFFICER, WHO ASSURED THEM THEIR LEAVES REALLY WERE TRUE. THEN THEY SAT DOWN TO AN ELEGANT DINNER WHILE A BAND PLAYED SWEET MUSIC.

THESE MEN ARE GOING HOME UNDER WHAT THE ARMY CALLS THE "THREE R" PROGRAM--ROTATION, RECOVERY AND REHABILITATION--AND ARE THE FIRST OTHER THAN LITTER CASES TO GO. ACTUALLY, THEY ARE GOING AS A REWARD, SINCE ALL HAVE RECOVERED COMPLETELY FROM THEIR BATTLE WOUNDS.

THOSE RECEIVING 30-DAY LEAVES IN NEW YORK INCLUDED: PFC.LEWIS C. WITH THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, DEC 11-(AP)-LT.GEN. GEORGE S. PATTON'S BIG GUNS OPENED UP TODAY ON THE SIEGFRIED LINE CITIES OF ZWEIBRUCKEN AND ST.INGBERT, FIVE AND SEVEN MILES DEEP INSIDE THE SAAR BASIN.

ST.INGBERT, 11 MILES FROM THE FRONT, WAS GETTING A TASTE OF THINGS TO COME, PRESUMABLY FROM AMERICAN EIGHT AND TEN-INCH GUNS WHICH ARE HURLING 50 TO 100 PROJECTILES INTO THE CITY.

ZWEIBRUCKEN, EAST OF ST.INGBERT, IS 13 MILES FROM THE FRONT, BUT IT CAUGHT ABOUT 30 ROUNDS IN THE FIRST FEW HOURS.

WHILE THIS LONG-RANGE SHELLING WAS IN PROGRESS, THE 35TH INFANTRY DIVISION ADVANCED A MILE AND REACHED THE SAAR BORDER ON THE BLIES RIVER, THREE MILES NORTHEAST OF SARREGUEMINES, WHILE OTHER ELEMENTS BROKE THE LAST ORGANIZED RESISTANCE INSIDE THE CITY.

THE 35TH ALSO DREW UP NEAR BLIESBRUCK, FOUR MILES EAST OF SARREGUEMINES, AND UNITS OF THE 26TH INFANTRY ADVANCED ALONG THIS FRONT SO THAT ELEMENTS OF THE THIRD ARMY ARE NOW TWO MILES OR LESS FROM GERMANY EASTWARD FROM SARREGUEMINES.

WHILE THE AMERICANS STILL WERE CLEARING OUT SARREGUEMINES, ONE LARGE GROUP OF CIVILIANS CAME OUT OF A MINE SHAFT WHERE THEY HAD BEEN SHELTERED FOR DAYS AND MOVED BACK INTO TOWN. AT WOLFERDING, MILE NORTHWEST, 6,000 TO 8,000 CIVILIANS REMAINED IN A CAVE AND QUARRY WAITING TO RETURN TO THEIR HOMES, MOSTLY IN SARREGUEMINES.

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, DEC. 11-(AP)-WHEN SGT. CLOYCE KING WAS PINNED DOWN BY GERMAN SNIPERS IN THE ALSATIAN UNDERBRUSH HE JUST PICKED UP A TELEPHONE AND CALLED FOR HELP.

IT SO HAPPENED THAT KING, WHOSE WIFE LIVES IN MANCHESTER, CONN., AND WHOSE PARENTS RESIDE AT CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA, WAS CARRYING A TELEPHONE WITH HIM.

HE WAS OUT IN FRONT OF HIS 45TH DIVISION MORTAR SQUAD ESTABLISHING AN OBSERVATION POST TO DIRECT FIRE ON ENEMY ENTRENCHMENTS. HE WAS LAYING WIRE WHEN BULLETS STARTED WHIZZING OVER HIS HEAD.

KING DROPPED INTO THE UNDERBRUSH, THEN SUDDENLY REMEMBERED HIS TELEPHONE.

"MY FINGERS WERE ALL THUMBS AS I CONNECTED THE TELEPHONE TO THE LINE," HE SAID. "SOMEONE BACK THERE GOT BUSY AND DID SOME REAL SHOOTING."

MORTAR SHELLS DROPPED ON THE GERMAN POSITION, SILENCING THEIR GUNS.

(THE FOLLOWING ARTICLE WAS WRITTEN ESPECIALLY FOR THE ASSOCIATED PRESS BY REPRESENTATIVE THOMAS OF NEW JERSEY, CHAIRMAN OF THE REPUBLICAN GROUP OF THE 17 MEMBERS OF THE U.S. HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES MILITARY AFFAIRS COMMITTEE TOURING THE WESTERN FRONT.)

BY J.PARNELL THOMAS

PARIS, DEC 11-(AP)-AS A MEMBER OF THE MILITARY AFFAIRS COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES NOW ON AN OFFICIAL VISIT TO EUROPE, I CAN FRANKLY STATE THAT I HAVE GAINED AN INTIMATE KNOWLEDGE OF BOTH MILITARY AND CIVIL CONDITIONS OVER HERE.

DEC 12 1944

THIS VISIT OF OUR COMMITTEE SHOULD BE OF INESTIMABLE VALUE BOTH TO CONGRESS AND THE PEOPLE BACK HOME.

WHILE MANY OF OUR COMMITTEE SERVED HERE IN THE LAST WAR, NEVERTHELESS WE NOW SEE AN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT PICTURE. NOT ONLY IS THE WAR ITSELF A VERY DIFFERENT KIND OF WAR, BUT CIVIL CONDITIONS AND LIVING CONDITIONS OVER HERE ARE VERY DIFFERENT FROM WHAT THEY WERE BACK IN 1918. SO OUR VISIT TO EUROPE TODAY IS A REVELATION.

I ONLY WISH THAT MANY MORE OF OUR CIVILIANS COULD COME OVER HERE AND SEE IT NOW AS I HAVE OVER THE PAST TWO AND ONE-HALF WEEKS. I KNOW THAT I AM GOING HOME WITH THE IDEA THAT TIS WAR IS NO EASY JOB AND THAT IT MAY NOT BE OVER AS SOON AS WE WOULD LIKE IT TO BE OR AS SOON AS WE AT HOME WERE LED TO BELIEVE IT MIGHT BE. THIS WAR HERE IS A TOUGH SLUGGING MATCH.

THE ENEMY IS STILL STRONG. HIS MORALE IS STILL HIGH AND HE MAY HAVE A LOT OF FIGHT IN HIM BEFORE HE GIVES UP. IT MEANS ONLY ONE THING AND THAT IS THAT WE MUST KEEP OUR CHINS UP, THAT EACH AND EVERY ONE OF US MUST DO EVERYTHING POSSIBLE TO BACK UP THESE GREAT FIGHTING FORCES OF OURS TO THE VERY LAST ATOM OF STRENGTH. BELIEVE ME, OUR BOYS HERE DESERVE EVERY CONSIDERATION. THEY NOT ONLY HAVE TO CONTEND WITH ENEMY FIRE, BUT WITH THE ELEMENTS AS WELL.

THE WEATHER CONDITIONS FOR MONTHS HAVE BEEN HORRIBLE. MEN IN EVERY SECTOR ARE VERITABLY ENVELOPED IN MUD AND WATER. TRENCHFOOT IS TAKING ALMOST AS HIGH A TOLL AS IS THE ENEMY. FURTHER, THIS WEATHER IS SLOWING UP OUR ATTACK AND IS DOING AS MUCH TO PROLONG THE WAR AS ARE ENEMY DEFENSES.

BUT WITH IT ALL, THE AMERICAN SOLDIER IS RESOLVED TO GET IT OVER AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. HE WANTS TO BEAT THE ENEMY. HE WANTS TO GET HOME--AND I DON'T BLAME HIM ONE BIT.

LIKEWISE, HE STILL NEEDS PLENTY OF AID FROM HOME. HE NEEDS MORE HEAVY AMMUNITION, MORE RUBBER TIRES THAN HE IS NOW RECEIVING, MORE HOSPITAL SHIPS, MORE WHOLE BLOOD, MORE CHAPLAIN'S SUPPLIES AND MORE CIGARETTES. HE WANTS TO HEAR MORE NEWS FROM HOME. HE SHOULD HAVE MORE HOMETOWN PAPERS. AND LAST BUT NOT LEAST, HE NEEDS A BETTER BREAK IN INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE. ALL OF THESE THINGS G.I.JOE REQUIRES. AND IT IS UP TO US TO SEE THAT HE GETS THEM.

THIS IS THE LEAST WE AT HOME CAN DO. AND, FURTHER, BY GIVING G.I. JOE THESE THINGS IN A HURRY, IT WILL JUST THAT MUCH SOONER BRING JOE BACK HOME.

A U.S.EIGHTH AIR FORCE BOMBER BASE, ENGLAND, DEC 11-(AP)-A B-17 FLYING FORTRESS, PILOTED BY 22-YEAR-OLD LT.GENE H.GOODRICK OF ETTERVILLE, MO., WAS TWO MINUTES FROM THE TARGET ON A RECENT RAID ON A BIG GERMAN OIL REFINERY WHEN AN ANTI-AIRCRAFT SHELL CAUGHT IT RIGHT IN THE BELLY.

THE EXPLOSION BOUNCED THE CREWMEN OUT OF THEIR SEATS; WRECKED THE OXYGEN SYSTEM, AND SET THE BIG BOMBER ON FIRE INSIDE AND OUT.

THE CO-PILOT, BOMBARDIER, NAVIGATOR AND ENGINEER JUMPED.

GOODRICK KEPT THE FORTRESS IN FORMATION AND LUTCHED THE EMERGENCY BOMB RELEASE SWITCH.

"I LOOKED BACK AND SAW SMOKE AND FLAMES LICKING OUT FROM BENEATH MY COMPARTMENT AND COMING UP THE SIDES," HE SAID TODAY IN RECOUNTING HIS EXPERIENCE.

GOODRICK RELEASED HIS BOMBS AND DIVED STEEPLY DOWN AND AWAY FROM THE FORMATION.

"IN CASE SHE BLEW UP," HE SAID," I DIDN'T WANT TO WRECK ANY OF THE OTHER FORTS."

THE DIVE BLEW OUT THE FIRES.

GUNNER-SERGEANT LEE PIERCE, 1328 BELLEVIEW, PLAINFIELD, N.J., CRAWLED UP IN THE COCKPIT AND RESTORED GOODRICK'S OXYGEN SUPPLY. HE HAD BEEN WITHOUT IT FOR FOUR MINUTES.

IT WAS DARK WHEN THE SHIP GOT BACK TO BASE. THE HYDRAULIC AND ELECTRICAL SYSTEMS WERE HAYWIRE. THE LANDING WHEELS KEPT GOING UP AND DOWN. THERE WERE NO LIGHTS. THE AIR BRAKES WERE GONE.

TAILGUNNER WILLARD CLAIRDAY OF ALBANY, IND., CRANKED THE WHEELS DOWN, PIERCE WORKED A HAND PUMP TO HELP REDUCE LANDING SPEED AND GOODRICK SET THE BOMBER DOWN ON THE RUNWAY AT 125 MILES AN HOUR.

THE BRAKELESS BOMBER ROLLED DOWN THE RUNWAY, BUMPED OVER THE GROUND AND OFF INTO A FIELD BUT NO ONE WAS HURT.

THE OTHER TWO GUNNERS WHO STUCK IT OUT WERE SGT. HAROLD ADAMS, SPRING GROVE, ILL., AND SGT FRANK STEPHENS, 1635 DAVNER AVE., CINCINNATI, OHIO.

ROME, DEC. 11-(AP)-MORE THAN 3,000 ASSORTED AMERICAN, FRENCH AND BRITISH GI'S, WACS, NURSES AND BRASS HATS SAW THE FIRST TWO ELIMINATION SESSIONS TODAY OF THE SECOND ANNUAL MEDITERRANEAN INTERALLIED BOXING CHAMPIONSHIPS. THE AMERICAN DOUGHBOYS WON SIX STARTS TO LEAD THE BRITISH TOMMIES BY ONE AND THE FRENCH POILUS BY FOUR.

SHARING THE SPOTLIGHT TONIGHT WAS A THREE-ROUND EXHIBITION BOUT BETWEEN HEAVYWEIGHTS BILLY CONN, PITTSBURGH, AND LEO MATRICINI, BALTIMORE. MOST FANTASTIC TOUCH OF THE EVENING CAME AFTER OFFICIALS GAVE FRENCH PRIVATE CHERRIF MAAMAR THE DECISION OVER CLEVELAND "SPIDER" BROWN, CINCINNATI, IN THE LIGHTHEAVYWEIGHT PRO DIVISION.

CAPTAIN JACK SULLIVAN, WORCESTER, MASS., MANAGER OF THE FIFTH ARMY TEAM, APPEALED THE DECISION ON GROUNDS MAAMAR WAS NOT PENALIZED FOR VIOLATION OF OLYMPIC BOXING RULES INCLUDING REPEATED "LEADING WITH HEAD." MAJOR A.N. ELLIOTT, BRITISH ARMY RANKING MEMBER OF APPEAL BOARD, TOLD SULLIVAN "WE REALIZE IT WAS A BAD DECISION, BUT CAN'T DO ANYTHING ABOUT IT BECAUSE IT WAS UNANIMOUS."

THREE DOUGHBOY WINNERS ON TONIGHT'S CARD WERE PVT. JUNIUS WOODS, BUFFALO, N.Y., WHO OUTPOINTED OLIVER WILLIAMS, BRITISH MIDDLEWEIGHT IN AN AMATEUR THREE-ROUNDER; RICHARD BUCKWORTH, POPLAR BLUFF, MO. WHO OUTPOINTED CORP. GEORGE CULBERTSON, BROOKLYN AMATEUR HEAVYWEIGHT. CORP. RICHARD HAMMONDS, CHICAGO, SURVIVED PRO LIGHTHEAVYWEIGHT CLASS BY DEFAULT. SAPPER WILLIAM DAUBNEY, BRITISH AMATEUR FEATHERWEIGHT, GAINED DECISION OVER CORP. JEAN SENFT, PALISADES PARK, N.J.

A FRONTLINE DOUGHBOY CHALKED UP THE MOST COMPLETE KAYO IN THE EARLIER BOUTS.

THE DOUGHBOY IS CPL. LEROY JEFFREY OF KANSAS CITY, WHO WAS GIVEN A SEVEN-DAY LEAVE FROM THE 92ND DIVISION TO COMPETE IN THE WEEK-LONG TOURNEY AS A MEMBER OF THE FIFTH ARMY TEAM. HE FOOLED AROUND WITH PVT. GEORGE VROOMAN OF ALBANY, N.Y., FOR ABOUT TWO MINUTES IN THEIR AMATEUR LIGHT-HEAVYWEIGHT BOUT, THEN THREW A SHORT LEFT.

PRIVATE GEORGE WAS ASLEEP FOR THE FULL 10 SECONDS.

JEFFREY AND PVT. FLOYD GIBSON, CINCINNATI MIDDLEWEIGHT, WERE THE ONLY UNITED STATES WINNERS OUT OF THE SEVEN AMERICANS WHO COMPETED ON THE OPENING CARD. GIBSON, LIKE JEFFERY, HAD TO WHIP ANOTHER AMERICAN.

COMPETING IN THE PRO DIVISION OF THE 160-POUND CLASS, GIBSON TOOK A LOPSIDED DECISION FROM SGT. AUTREY BARBES OF CHICAGO. GIBSON

NOW IS AN MP ON THE TYRRHENIAN ZONE SQUAD.

NONE OF THE BRITISHERS HAD TO FIGHT MEMBERS OF THEIR OWN TEAM, AS A RESULT, FOUR OF THE FIVE BRITISH FIGHTERS WON, THREE OF THEM FROM AMERICANS.

PVT.NORMAN TENNANT, STUMPY SCOT AMATEUR FLYWEIGHT, OUTPOINTED PVT. W.C.BENTO OF PROVIDENCE, R.I.; PVT. ERNEST SKCOCK, EIGHTH ARMY AMATEUR BANTAM, FLATTENED SGT.LOUIS BUFFONE OF BROOKLYN IN TWO ROUNDS AND GUNNER FREDERICK MASON OUTPOINTED PVT. VICTOR VIDARO OF MT.CARMEL, PA.

DEC 12 1944

A TURBANED FRENCH ARMY BAND PLAYED THE NATIONAL ANTHEMS OF ALL THE PARTICIPATING COUNTRIES. THE TOURNEY IS BEING HELD IN A STADIUM WITH A SLIDING ROOF, A GADGET WHICH IS ATTRACTING AS MUCH ATTENTION AS THE FIGHTERS.

RAIN CURTAILED THE FIGHTING LAST NIGHT, BUT TODAY DEADLY CLOSE-QUARTER BATTLE WAS RENEWED. FIRES STARTED BY SHELLFIRE WERE SMOKING ON THE NORTHERN SLOPES OF THE ACROPOLIS.

THE ELAS, ARMED MILITIA OF THE LEFTIST EAM POLITICAL PARTY, WERE REPORTED ALREADY TO HAVE LOST 1,500 KILLED AND 2,500 WOUNDED SINCE SERIOUS FIGHTING BEGAN LESS THAN A WEEK AGO.

THE ELAS WERE STRONGLY DUG-IN THE ATHENS STADIUM AREA, IN THE PARK AROUND THE ZAPPION BUILDING AND EAST OF HADRIAN'S ARCH AND THE TEMPLE OF ZEUS. OTHERS WERE MASSED WEST OF PIRAEUS AND NORTH AND EAST OF ATHENS. IT WAS DOUBTED THAT THE ELAS COULD SUMMON MANY MORE REINFORCEMENTS.

ELEVEN P-51'S, LED BY LT. COL. EDWARD O.MCCOMAS, 502 EAST 12TH ST., WINFIELD, KANS., A SQUADRON CHIEF, TOOK OFF EARLY IN THE DAY AND FLITTED OVER HONG KONG SKIP-BOMBING SHIPS AT ANCHOR. DURING THE ATTACK THEY SPOTTED THE DESTROYER OFF HONG KONG AND PUT IT ON THE AGENDA FOR THE AFTERNOON.

RETURNING TO BASE MCCOMAS AND HIS WINGMAN REFUELED, RELOADED AND WENT BACK FOR THE DESTROYER. MCCOMAS WENT IN FIRST AND SCORED TWO DIRECT SKIP-BOMB HITS AT THE WATERLINE. HIS WINGMAN FOLLOWED WITH ONE HIT. THE DESTROYER EXPLODED.

THE FIGHTERS THEN MADE A REPEAT STRAFING RUN OVER KAITAK AIRDROME.

MEANWHILE, OTHER P-51'S WERE OFF TO NAIL THE IMPORTANT RAIL FERRY AT NANKING. THE FIRST DIRECT HIT KNOCKED OUT AN ELEVATOR USED FOR LOADING AN ENORMOUS TRAIN-CARRYING BARGE, A DIVE-BOMBING P-51 SCORED A NEAR MISS ON A FERRY ON THE NANKING SIDE, WHILE ANOTHER MADE A DIRECT HIT ON ANOTHER FERRY ON THE PUKOW SIDE.

THE FIGHTERS, AFTER SHOOTING DOWN TWO OF FOUR JAPANESE FIGHTERS, REASSEMBLED AND MADE FOR THE TWO AIRFIELDS. AFTER THEY HAD COMPLETED THEIR STRAFING RUNS THE PILOTS COUNTED 25 BURNING PLANES ON THE GROUND.

THE DAY-LONG ATTACKS COST THE 14TH AIR FORCE ONE PLANE AT NANKING.

LEYTE ISLAND, PHILIPPINES, DEC.2-(DELAYED)-(AP)-MAJ. BILL DUNHAM, P-47 THUNDERBOLT PILOT FROM NEZ PERCE, IDAHO, IS CREDITED WITH ORIGINATING THE TECHNIQUE OF MAST-HIGH BOMBING BY FIGHTER PLANES.

THE TECHNIQUE HAS ENABLED PILOTS OF SINGLE ENGINE SHIPS, WITH 500-POUND BOMBS UNDER THEIR WINGS, TO BAG HALF OF THE 100,000 TONS OF JAPANESE SHIPPING DESTROYED IN ORMOC BAY.

PREVIOUSLY USED BY B-17 FORTRESSES, B-24 LIBERATORS AND B-25 MITCHELLS, IT CALLS FOR EXPERT TIMING BY THUNDERBOLT PILOTS AS THEY RELEASE THEIR BOMBS.

WITH THE SEVENTY-SEVENTH DIVISION ON LEYTE, DEC 11 (AP)- EVERY SOLDIER IN THE DIVISION FONDLY CALLS THEM P-77S, AND WHEN ONE FLIES OVER THEY SAY "EVERYTHING'S OK--THERE GOES OUR FIGHTER COVER."

THEY ARE LITTLE CUB PLANES USED FOR ARTILLERY OBSERVATION AND SPOTTING. THEY WERE OVER THE BEACHHEAD DURING THE LANDINGS, AND HAVE BEEN FLYING OVER JAPANESE POSITIONS EVER SINCE.

BUT WHILE THEIR WORK IN OBSERVATION HAS BEEN OF PRICELESS VALUE IN MAKING ARTILLERY SHELLS COUNT, THE PILOTS HAVE NOT BEEN TOO HAPPY. TRAFFIC AND TIDES ALONG THE NARROW BEACH HAVE MADE LANDING AND TAKING OFF SOMETHING NEW EACH TIME.

LT.JAMES MC NULTY, 35 EAST 140TH ST., BRONX, NEW YORK, STARTED TWICE, WALKED BACK FROM HIS TAKEOFF BOTH TIMES. HIS LITTLE CUB HIT A SPOT OF SAND AND EASED OVER ON ITS NOSE. HIS OBSERVER, LT.ALBERT P.STEFFENSON. NORWICH. CONN., STILL HOPED

TO GET INTO THE AIR ON THE THIRD TRY.

LT.FREDERICK REYNOLDS, MANCHESTER, N.H., DID A LITTLE BETTER. HIS SCORE WAS ONE NOSEDVER AND ONE WINGOVER. THREE OF THE PLANES--SINGLE ENGINED FIGHTERS--WENT DOWN IN FLAMES, AND TRACERS LACED THE OTHERS. JUST BEFORE DAWN A LONE BETTY SKIMMED OVER THE WATER, THE AMTRACS LASHED OUT, AND IT WENT INTO THE BAY.

DESPITE A FRANTIC JAPANESE ATTEMPT TO HALT THE YANK DRIVE WITH AN ARTILLERY BARRAGE, MAJ. GEN. A.V. ARNOLD'S MEN CONTINUED THEIR ADVANCE AND TONIGHT WERE WITHIN TWO MILES OF THE 77TH DIVISION NOW IN ORMOC.

THE FRUSTRATED JAPANESE ABANDONED AMMUNITION DUMPS AND SUPPLIES AS THEY RETREATED, AND SOME OF THEM CAUGHT BEHIND AMERICAN LINES JUMPED INTO THE CAMOTES SEA TRYING TO SWIM NORTHWARD TO REJOIN THEIR FORCES. THEY WERE KILLED OR DROWNED.

THE SEVENTH DIVISION CAPTURED FIVE ENEMY ARTILLERY PIECES. TWO OF THEM WERE BRITISH GUNS MADE IN THE UNITED STATES AND PROBABLY SEIZEI AT SINGAPORE.

TROOPS LED BY MAJ. DELBERT L.BJORK, 577 RIVINGTON AVE., ASTORIA, ORE., A FORMER CHICAGO BEARS PRO FOOTBALL STAR, SPEARHEADED THE ATTACK.

THE SEVENTH'S ADVANCE BEGAN YESTERDAY WHEN JAPANESE RESISTANCE BEGAN CRUMBLING BEFORE THE CONSTANT HAMMERING OF AMERICAN ARTILLERY ANI LIGHT TANKS, FOLLOWED BY INFANTRY BLOWS.

THE SEVENTH DIVISION FIGHT ON LEYTE IS ONE FOR WHICH THE DOUGHBOY CAN CLAIM MOST OF THE CREDIT. HE HAS GONE FORWARD OVER NEARLY 90 MILES OF SWAMPLAND AND MOUNTAIN TERRAIN, FREQUENTLY UNDER AIR ATTACK.

THIS TIME HE HAS MET SOME OF THE JAPANESE IMPERIAL ARMY'S BEST--NOT GARRISON TROOPS WHICH HE ENCOUNTERED IN THE CENTRAL PACIFIC ATOLL --AND HE HAS LEFT NO DOUBT ABOUT HIS SUPERIORITY AS A FIGHTING MAN.

HE IS FIGHTING UNDER THE STRAIN OF A TERRIFIC SUPPLY PROBLEM. HE IS LIVING IN FOXHOLES FILLED WITH WATER, AND HE IS SLOSHING ALONG IN WET SOCKS AND SHOES. DESPITE ALL THE HARDSHIPS. HE CAN STILL LAUGH.

BROADCAST

NEW YORK, DEC 11--SEVERAL TRAINLOADS OF V-2 BOMBS WERE HIT TODAY BY BELGIAN-BASED ALLIED PLANES IN A CONCENTRATED ATTACK ON THE DUTCH RAILYARDS AT LEYDEN, THE BRITISH RADIO SAID TONIGHT IN A BROADCAST HEARD BY NBC.

(WX) NEW YORK, DEC.11-(AP)-UNDERSECRETARY OF WAR PATTERSON SAID TONIGHT THAT THE PEACETIME MILITARY ESTABLISHMENT MUST REST ON THREE ELEMENTS:

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING.

INDUSTRIAL RESOURCES CAPABLE OF SWIFT MOBILIZATION.

SCIENTIFIC AND ENGINEERING DEVELOPMENT SERVING MILITARY NEEDS.

HE OUTLINED HIS VIEWS IN AN ADDRESS PREPARED FOR A MEETING IN CONNECTION WITH THE 150TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ECOLE POLYTECHNIQUE.

"NO ORGANIZATION FOR WORLD PEACE WILL BE EFFECTIVE UNLESS THERE IS MILITARY POWER BEHIND IT," PATTERSON SAID. "THE ORGANIZATION MUST BE SUPPORTED BY THE MILITARY POWER OF THE MEMBER NATIONS, MILITARY POWER OF A STRENGTH THAT WILL OVERAWE THE GERMANY AND JAPAN OF THE FUTURE, OR ANY OTHER NATION THAT MIGHT BE TEMPTED TO RESORT TO AN AGGRESSIVE WAR. THE PEACE-LOVING NATIONS CAN NOT AGAIN LET THEIR ARMIES BECOME IMPOTENT."

HE ASSERTED THAT "WE KNOW THAT THE GERMANS ARE ALREADY PLANNING A THIRD WORLD WAR."

CAPT.LAURENCE A. ABERCROMBIE, U.S.N. REPRESENTING SECRETARY OF THE NAVY JAMES V. FORRESTAL, SAID THE JAPANESE ATTACK AT PEARL HARBOR "WAS NOT SO SEVERE A SET-BACK AS IT FIRST SEEMED."

"ACTUALLY," HE SAID, "WITH THEIR SLOW SPEED AND WHOLLY INADEQUATE ANTI-AIRCRAFT ARMAMENT, THE NINE BATTLESHIPS WE HAD IN THE PACIFIC ON DEC. 7, 1941, WOULD HARDLY HAVE BEEN ABLE TO STEM THE JAPANESE ADVANCE, AND THE SUPPORT OF OUR FEW CARRIERS AND THEIR OBSOLETE AIRCRAFT WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN EFFECTIVE AGAINST THE STRONG JAPANESE AIR FORCE IN THE CONQUERED AREAS."

"WE ARE DETERMINED NOW," HE ADDED, "TO AVOID THE POSSIBILITY OF EVER AGAIN BEING CAUGHT WITH OUT-MODED WEAPONS AGAINST A DETERMINED AND WELL-ARMED ENEMY."

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON,DEC 11-(AP)-LT.CMDR.EDWARD J. HUXTABLE OF THE NAVY'S COMPOSITE SQUADRON TEN ATTACKED FOUR JAPANESE BATTLESHIPS, SEVEN CRUISERS AND NINE DESTROYERS WITH ONLY HIS AVENGER'S MACHINE GUNS AND CAME OUT ALIVE.

THERE WAS NO TIME TO LOAD A TORPEDO OR BOMBS AS SHELLS FROM THE JAPANESE TASK FORCE STRADDLED HIS SMALL ESCORT CARRIER OFF SAMAR ON OCTOBER 24. SO HUXTABLE AND HIS FELLOW AVENGER AND WILDCAT FIGHTER PILOTS TOOK OFF ON SIMULATED TORPEDO-BOMBING RUNS OVER THE ENEMY FLEET IN EFFORT TO SCARE THEM OFF.

HUXTABLE AND HIS COMPANIONS REPEATEDLY STRAFED THE LINE OF JAP CRAFT AND PRETENDED THEY WERE GOING TO LAUNCH TORPEDOES OR DROP BOMBS. MIRACULOUSLY, HUXTABLE, WHO MAINTAINS RESIDENCES AT 837 TENTH ST.,DOUGLAS,ARIZ., AND NORTH SHORE POINT, NORFOLK, VA., HIS CREWMEN AND PLANE CAME OUT UNSCATHED.

THE LIEUT.COMMANDER AND HIS AIRMEN ARE NOW IN THE UNITED STATES ON LEAVE.

ENSIGN ROBERT L.CROCKER OF 916 S.WILLIAMS ST., DENVER, HAD ROCKETS ABOARD HIS AVENGER, BUT NO BOMBS OR TORPEDO. HE FIRED TWO ROCKETS INTO A DESTROYER, STRAFED THE CAPITAL SHIPS, AND MADE DUMMY TORPEDO AND BOMB RUNS.

FOUR OTHER AVENGERS TOOK OFF WITH HUXTABLE AND CROCKER. THEY WERE PILOTED BY LT.HENRY B.BASSETT, MONTICELLO,FLA.; LT.JAMES R.JACKSON, FULTON,MO.; ENSIGN EDWIN A.OSTERKORN, 1820 SUMMERDALE AVE.,CHICAGO, AND ENSIGN WILLIAM C.SHREYER, STRASBURG,OHIO STREYER DROPPED THREE BOMBS ON THE STERN OF A HEAVY CRUISER. JACKSON GOT A HIT ON ANOTHER.

AFTER DROPPING THEIR BOMBS THE PILOTS FOLLOWED THE EXAMPLES OF HUXTABLE AND CROCKER IN "DRY" TORPEDO AND BOMBING RUNS.

TWO OF THE AVENGERS WERE BADLY SHOT UP, BUT ALL SIX PILOTS AND THEIR CREWS SURVIVED, LANDING ON OTHER CARRIERS AFTER THEIRS WAS SUNK OR ON THE AIRFIELD AT LEYTE.

BEFORE THE CARRIER'S DECK BECAME INOPERATIVE THREE OVER AGENGERS GOT OFF. THEY WERE PILOTED BY ENSIGN PAUL A.BENNETT, MILNOR, N.D.; LT. (JG) ROVERT E.WEATHERHOLD, AUGUSTA,KANS., AND ENSIGN WILLIAM GALLAGHER, 29 SLADE ST.,BELMONT,MASS., NOW LISTED AS MISSING.

GALLAGHER'S PLANE HAD ONLY 35 GALLONS OF GAS WHEN IT TOOK OFF. THE ENSIGN CHOSE TO USE THEM FIGHTING RATHER THAN FUELING FROM ANOTHER CARRIER. HE PICKED OUT A CRUISER BUT APPARENTLY WAS SHOT DOWN IN HIS BOMBING RUN. CROCKER SAW GALLAGHER'S PLANE SMOKING BEFORE MAKING A FORCED LANDING IN THE MIDDLE OF THE JAP FLEET.

BENNETT GOT ONE DIRECT-HIT ON A CRUISER IN A SOLO RUN. HE THEN WAS JOINED BY LT. (JG) CHARLES J.DUGAN, BEND,ORE., FIGHTER PILOT, IN MACHINE GUNNING ANOTHER CRUISER. BOTH SURVIVED.

WEATHERHOLD JOINED WITH ANOTHER AVENGER PILOT IN ATTACKING A BATTLESHIP.

THE FIGHTERS' CARRIER WAS TOO BADLY DAMAGED TO RECEIVE THEM AT THE END OF THE PATROL AND THE FIGHTERS LANDED ON TACLOBAN TO FIGHT OFF JAP AIR ATTACKS FOR SEVERAL DAYS.

TEN MORE WILDCATS WERE LAUNCHED JUST AS THE ENEMY FLEET FIRED ITS FIRST SALVO AT COMPOSITE TEN'S CARRIER. LT.EUGENE W.WEITZ, 3025 CADIZ ST.,NEW ORLEANS, AND WALKERTON,IND., LED THAT FLIGHT.

THE OTHER PILOTS WERE ENSIGN BARHAM F.BILLARD, 104 JONES AVE., GREENVILLE,S.C.; ENSIGN BUGAN; LT.CHARLES R.ELLWOOD, CRETE,ILL., AND 25 HOUSTON ST.,MOBILE,ALA.; LT. (JG) CHARLES F.HUNTING, SAN BERNARDINO,CALIF.; ENSIGN JOSEPH F.LISCHER, DAVENPORT,IOWA; ENSIGN JOSEPH B.MC GRAW, BEWETT,N.Y.; LT. DEC 12 1944

EACH OF THE PILOTS MADE 10 TO 12 STRAFFING RUNS THROUGH HEAVY ANTIAIRCRAFT FIRE, AND EVEN AFTER AMMUNITION WAS EXHAUSTED MADE DUMMY DIVERSIONARY RUNS.

COMPOSITE TEN SHOT DOWN 19 PLANES IN FIVE MONTHS. SOME OF THE ENEMY PLANES WERE SHARED BY THREE OR FOUR FIGHTERS. AS NEARLY AS COULD BE ASCERTAINED THE SCORE WAS: ENSIGN MC GRAW, 4 7/8; ENSIGN BUGAN, 2; LT.HUNTING, 2; LT.ROBY, 2; LT.SEITZ, 2; LT.HARDERS, 1; LT.STEWART, 1; ENSIGN TURNER, 1, AND LT.WICKERSHAM, 1.

"WHAT LIES BETWEEN US AND BERLIN, I DON'T KNOW," THE ARMY AIR FORCES COMMANDING GENERAL TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE. "I NEVER DID KNOW.

"I HATE TO HEAR STORIES THAT GERMAN DEFENSES ARE SUPPOSED TO BE CRUMBLING. I'D LIKE TO KNOW WHERE THEY'RE CRUMBLING. WE HAVE HAD A LONG, TOUGH FIGHT AGAINST THE GERMANS. THEY'RE DARNED TOUGH BABIES.

"GIVEN TIME AND THE NECESSARY AIRPLANES, THE JAP AIR FORCE CAN BE KNOCKED DOWN JUST AS THE GERMAN AIR FORCE HAS BEEN KNOCKED DOWN. THE INDUSTRIAL AREA OF JAPAN IS LARGELY CONFINED TO ONE ISLAND AND IT WILL TAKE LESS TONS OF BOMBS.

"WHETHER THE JAPS CAN TAKE IT THE WAY THE GERMANS HAVE, I DON'T KNOW. THEY WONT BE ABLE TO REBUILD THEIR FACTORIES OR REPAIR THE DAMAGE. THEIR ABILITY TO WAGE WAR IS GOING TO DE-CLINE, I BELIEVE, IN DIRECT PROPORTION TO THE BOMBING. THE JAPS DON'T HAVE THE EAGER PILOTS THEY HAD SOME TIME BACK AND DON'T SEEM TO HAVE THE SKILL."

30 Towns Fall To Yankees

First Army Fights To Within Half Mile Of Key City Of Duren.

ROER SALIENT IS WIPED OUT

Cologne Only 20 Miles Away Across An Almost Level Plain From Duren.

By Austin Bealmear

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Dec. 12 (AP)—Fighting through the old Maginot Line defenses, the U. S. Seventh Army stormed more than eight miles northward from liberated Haguenau today while the First American Army drove within half a mile of Duren and virtually eliminated the Germans' Roer river salient blocking the route to Cologne.

At the same time the Third Army crossed the Blies river northeast of Sarreguemines, forcing a new wedge across the German border, and the French First Army rolled up new gains in the Vosges foothills at the southern end of the long western front.

Strong Support From Air

The steady advances of the ground forces were strongly supported by Allied planes, which hammered Nazi targets in and behind the battle zone relentlessly throughout the day.

More than 2,300 heavy bombers of both the American and British commands flew from bases in Britain in co-ordinated assaults on the Ruhr. Additionally, nearly 1,000 medium and fighter bombers of the Allies' three continental-based tactical air forces flailed the enemy's advanced positions from one end of the Western Front to the other.

More than 30 towns and villages —at least seven of them inside Germany—fell during the day as Gen. Eisenhower's armies pounded at the last barriers guarding the Reich's three main industrial areas. At some vital points enemy resistance appeared to be slackening, although this might be explained as German withdrawals to previously prepared positions.

Patch Forging Ahead

Battlefront dispatches said Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army was forging ahead at the rate of a mile an hour. These American troops surged through Langensoultzbach and struck farther northward toward Mattstall, 11 miles north of Haguenau. They also thrust within eight miles of the important frontier highway junction of Wissembourg by capturing Merkwiller.

Yanks of both the Seventh and Third Armies spread out to the west and continued to close up to the German border in a great wheeling movement pivoting on Sarreguemines. At one point Patch's troops had reached within 2 1-2 miles of the border.

Defenses Virtually Collapse

In the north German defenses west of the Roer River had virtually collapsed as Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army pushed up to the river on a 1,000-yard front east of Hurtgen Forest.

A staff officer at First Army headquarters declared the war in the west had reached a stage comparable to the breakthrough period last July in Normandy.

He said German prisoners reported a number of their units had been broken up and reformed into local battle groups which in many cases were composed of as much as 50 per cent supply personnel. The officer said many German infantry units were believed to be short of weapons.

As the enemy cracked under the relentless pressure of Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges' men and armor, the Yanks crashed through the rubbled towns of Hoven, Schophoven, Pier, Merken, Merode, Gey and Derichweiler, all within a six-mile arc from northwest to southwest of Duren.

Almost Cleared of Enemy

Mariaweiler, only a half-mile northwest of Duren, was almost cleared of the enemy tonight after fierce fighting through its debris-filled streets. It was expected that by dawn American troops would be installed on the Roer opposite Duren, a shattered city of 39,000 whose civilian population has long since been evacuated.

The First Army's spectacular surge after three days of renewed assault appeared to have been made mainly against German screening forces which had been left behind to stem the advance while the bulk of Nazi troops were withdrawn across the Roer into elaborate defenses at and behind Duren.

Cologne is 20 miles across an almost level plain from Duren.

The first troops of Hodges' army to reach the Roer drove almost due east from the town of Hurtgen and established a firm grip on the river bank along the shore of the Ober Maubach Reservoir. The Roer in that sector south of Duren is susceptible to flooding by the opening of several dams.

The U. S. Ninth army, immediately adjoining Hodges' forces on the left, reached the Roer several weeks ago and since has been held up by floods and by the necessity for resting and regrouping before continuing its offensive.

A low overcast and scattered rain hampered air operations over most of the front. Melting snow turned the ground into a quagmire under the First army's infantry and armor, but medium and fighter bombers hammered enemy positions on both sides of the Roer ahead of the attacking troops.

Patch Drives Eight Miles

To the south in Alsace Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army drove eight miles northeast beyond the captured enemy supply base of Haguenau in less than eight hours, broke through the old Maginot line and reached Seltz, four and a half miles from the German frontier and only 15 miles from the major German city of Karlsruhe.

In their plunge through the Maginot line the Yanks met almost no opposition, the Nazis finally having made their long-predicted withdrawal into the Siegfried line defenses. American plans pounded the retreating enemy all the way to the border.

Langensoultzbach, 10 miles north of Haguenau, was entered against moderate resistance. Just north of Haguenau forest the Americans seized Gunstett and cleared nearby Walbourg. At one point Patch's advance units were but two and a half miles from the Reich frontier.

Among the French towns liberated by the 79th Division in its plunge toward Germany were Runtzenheim, Roeschwoog, Leutenheim, Kauftenheim, Beinheim and Kesseldorf.

Clear Rederching

On the western flank the Yanks cleared Rederching, five miles west of Bitche and less than four from the border, after a stiff fight in which the Germans used tanks. Sierstahl, about two miles southeast of Rederching, also was occupied.

(The German radio declared that the Seventh Army had opened a big offensive between Haguenau and Sarreguemines with 15 infantry and several tank divisions and that a "violent tank battle" was raging in the area of Woerth, seven miles from the German Palatinate border.

(Capt. Ludwig Sertorious, a leading Nazi military commentator, declared that the "center of gravity has definitely shifted from the Saar front to the southern front facing the Palatinate.")

On the southern Alsatian plain the French First Army seized several more towns west of Mulhouse and cleared German pockets on the west bank of the Rhine south of Kembs.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army made gains in bitter fighting against Siegfried Line defenses while its artillery, now moved up close behind the infantry, poured heavy fire into the Saar Basin.

Fighting at Saarlautern was confined mainly to the suburban towns of Roden and Fraulautern on the east. A field dispatch indicated the Nazis were abandoning the western part of Fraulautern under steady pressure.

At Dillingen, two miles north of Saarlautern, the 90th Infantry division repusled several determined enemy counterattacks and knocked out seven German tanks. The 26th Division captured Bliesbruck, four and a half miles east of Sarreguemines.

Heavy Losses For Foe

Since the offensive began Nov. 8 the Third Division has destroyed at least 106 enemy medium and light tanks, 39 heavy tanks, 412 artillery pieces and 315 miscellaneous vehicles.

German reports that the battle for the Saar had cost the Third Army between 20,000 and 30,000 men since Dec. 1 drew no comment from Allied headquarters.

It was admitted here, however, that losses had been heavy in the winter offensive. A spokesman said that casualty figures for the first three weeks of the attack would be made public shortly.

Activity on the Ninth Army front between Julich and Linnich along the Roer still was confined to patrols. The Nazis stepped up their flying bomb attacks in that sector after a lull of several days while they apparently were shifting launching platforms.

With the capture of the bloody little village of Merode, 3 1-2 miles southwest of Duren, and the advance to the Roer east of Hurtgen the First Army's doughboys left almost the last of the notorious Hurtgen Forest behind them.

Measured from Duren, the other towns overrun today were, respectively, Hoven, 1 1-2 miles northwest; Pier, five miles northwest; Merken, 3 1-2 northwest; Gey, four miles southwest; Derichweiler, less than two miles west, and Schophoven, six miles northwest.

At points the mud-splattered Yanks were held up temporarily by anti-tank and self-propelled guns concentrated in the ruined villages and by suicide squads of infantry, but in the main the advance was steady and relentless.

A front dispatch said the Germans were throwing even service troops into the front line, as well as air force ground personnel. It added, however, that the Nazis were known to have been holding considerable forces in reserve east of the Ruhr for the final desperate defense of Cologne and the Rhineland.

Seven German Villages Fall to First Army —Americans Half a Mile From Duren —Patch Cracks Maginot Defenses

DEC 13 1944

Paris, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—German defenses west of the Roer River virtually collapsed today as American First Army troops swept through seven fortified villages, fought to within half a mile of the key city of Duren and pushed up to the Roer on a 1,000-yard front east of the Hurtgen Forest.

As the enemy cracked under the relentless pressure of Lieut.-Gen. Courtney Hodges's men and armor, the Yanks crashed through the rubbled towns of Hoven, Schophoven, Pier, Merken, Merode, Gey and Derichweiler, all within a six-mile arc from northwest to southwest of Duren.

Mariaweiler, only half a mile northwest of Duren, was almost cleared of the enemy tonight after fierce fighting through its debris-piled streets. It was expected that by dawn the Americans would be installed on the Roer opposite Duren, a shattered city of 39,000 whose civilian population has long since been evacuated.

The First Army's spectacular surge after three days of renewed assault appeared to have been made mainly against German screening forces which had been left behind to stem the advance while the bulk of Nazi troops were withdrawn across the Roer into elaborate defenses at and behind Duren.

Meanwhile the American Seventh Army at the center of the western front broke clear through the Maginot Line and advanced more than six miles in eight hours, reaching Seltz, fifteen miles southwest of the Rhine city of Karlsruhe. Seltz is four miles from the Palatinate border and a mile and a half west of the Rhine. A dozen French towns along the Rhine were captured.

In attacks yesterday, the Army took 740 prisoners, [illegible] supply center of Haguenau. The troops encountered little resistance. The few prisoners bagged indicated the Germans finally were making the long predicted retreat to the Siegfried Line redoubts.

In their plunge through the Maginot Line, the Americans were able to travel as fast as fleet trucks could carry them. The Germans simply did not have the personnel to man the old French fortifications, dispatches from the Seventh Army front said. Many civilians were found living in the Maginot forts, secure from the war streaming past them.

[The Germans asserted that the Seventh had opened a major offensive against the Siegfried Line on a forty-mile front between Haguenau and captured Sarreguemines, using fifteen infantry and several divisions—perhaps 250,000 men. The enemy said "at no place was the Palatinate frontier reached" although great tank battles were reported around Woerth.]

Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army fought slowly deeper into the Siegfried Line in the industrial Saarland at Dillingen and beyond Saarlautern which virtually was cleared after nine days of violent combat. Gen. Patton's heavy artillery moved up just behind the infantry to shell the Saarland cities of Zweibrucken and St. Ingbert.

Nearly the whole front had rain and low clouds, preventing much aerial support. Medium bombers operating by instrument struck at Gemund and Harperscheid, sixteen and twenty-three miles south of Duren, and at Manheim, fifteen miles southwest of Duren. Thunderbolts attacked the fortified villages of Steckenborn and Rollesbroich, which form part of the German front south of Duren.

German reports that the battle have been heavy, not only in the Saarland but in the drive to the Roer and to other places. A spokesman at headquarters promised casualty figures for November shortly.

[The Germans said Gen. Patton's Fifth, Ninetieth and Ninety-fifth Divisions "have been badly reduced" and that the initiative "is more and more passing into German hands" in the Saarlautern sector. Several pillboxes were reported recaptured at Dillingen, although Berlin said these were "changing hands many times."]

Merode Taken In Night

The German Army's fight in strong and thick defenses before its vital arsenals was reported in field dispatches to be weakening west of the Roer, inside the Siegfried Line at Dillingen and Saarlautern and in northern Alsace under the battering of three American armies.

Merode, a forest village three and a half miles southeast of Duren, was cleared during the night. The Germans still held out behind heavy walls and in cellars at Merken, Pier and Gey, all within four miles of Duren, the southern bastion of the Roer River line. Two thirds of Merken, almost on the river three and a half miles northwest of Duren, was cleared.

At Roer Below Merode

[An NBC broadcast from the front sai dtoday that the 1st Army had entered Mariaweiler, a mile northwest of Duren.]

Lieut. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's 1st Army moved slowly and reached the Roer five miles southeast of Merode after advancing down a hill in the area of Bergstein, captured last week. Snow in that sector had melted, creating a bog that made going harder.

The United States 3rd Army finally captured Sarreguemines, pulled up to the border of the Saarland, and started shelling the important German cities of Zweibrucken and St. Ingbert, five and seven miles inside Germany.

The 3rd cleared out five fortified blocks in Fraulautern, a mile north of Saarlautern, and a similar area in Ensdorf, the same distance east. Both are in the Siegfried Line. It appeared that the Germans were quitting the western end of Fraulautern.

Saarlautern Devastated

The Germans maintained pressure around Dillingen, three miles north of Saarlautern, but attempted no more attacks in Saarlautern itself, a city as devastated as Aachen.

The United States 7th Army captured the Alsace base city of Haguenau, skirted the dense forest to the north and got within 22 miles of the German city of Karlsruhe. Supply dumps were seized at Haugenau. The Americans were within four miles of the German Palatinate above the city.

Farther south below Strasbourg, the 7th and the French 1st Army were within 3½ miles of Colmar; there they were checked more by floods than by Germans. The French cleared eight miles of the Rhine bank from the Swiss frontier to Kembs and faced the formidable German fortresses across the river.

Nazi Roer Line Described

The Germans appeared to have abandoned hope of holding out much longer west of the Roer and to be fighting a screening action while they hauled the rest of their artillery and tanks to the east bank. There the Germans with forced labor have thrown up three lines of narrow trenches and strongpoints stretching from Duren to Julich between the Roer and the Erft River, which flows within eight miles of Cologne.

The Roer front curved around for fifteen miles or more and reached within 21 miles of Cologne.

Before Duren, the Americans were eighteen miles inside Germany in the deepest invasion yet. Duren is just over 300 miles southwest of Berlin and, like the capital, a ruin from Allied bombs. Duren was within plain sight of the Americans.

9th's Guns Open Up

The 9th Army late last month reached the Roer along an eight-mile front between the central and northern river citadels of Julich and Linnich. Considerable German movement was observed east of the river and 9th Army guns opened up on the foe, supreme headquarters announced.

The 3d Army's battle to deepen its wedges in the Siegfried Line remained bitter and slow. The Germans used dug-in tanks and fired from innumerable pillboxes and holes in rubble.

Nazis Make Six Attacks

Northeast of Sarreguemines, t[illegible] 35th Division advanced a mile to the German border on the Blies River. The 28th Division captured Bliesbruck. The 95th Division took six more pillboxes in Fraulautern, where the Germans wearied under week-long pressure. Other troops of the 95th found going slow and difficult north of Saarlautern, where they were mopping up a newly captured brickyard.

The Germans made six small attacks against the 90th Division in and around Dillingen yesterday and began again at 4.30 A. M. today. The division destroyed seven tanks yesterday, giving the Texas and Oklahoma outfit a record of 404 tanks destroyed since it went into action on D-day. The Germans were estimated to be firing 3,000 rounds of shells daily into Dillingen.

Walbourg Entered

The 3rd Army captured 441 Germans yesterday, raising its total to 33,130 since November 8, when the present drive started. In the same period, Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's men have destroyed 14[illegible] tanks, 412 artillery pieces and 31[illegible] vehicles, exclusive of what planes have knocked out.

The 7th Army's capture of Haguenau precipitated an apparent collapse of German defenses in that Karlsruhe corner. North of the Haguenau Forest, Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's troops entered Walbourg and Durrenbach. Other units shot eastward, clearing Schirrhein and Schirhoffen and reached the outskirts of Soufflenheim, 22 miles from Karlsruhe.

At one unidentified point farther west in North Alsace, Patch's shock troops were within 2½ miles of the German frontier.

Army sector.

"The Americans are trying by means of two big spearheads at Rohrbach and Reichshoffen to envelop the extension of the wooded regions of the northern Vosges foothills and the Haguenau forest," Berlin said. "A violent tank battle is raging, notably in the area of Woerth."

Woerth is nine miles northwest of Haguenau and seven from the German Palatinate border.

The Germans asserted that from 20,000 ot 30,000 Americans had been lost in the battle of the Saar and that Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., had failed to achieve a breakthrough.

German retreats on both sides of Duren to the Roer River were announced, and a broadcast added:

"The Americans still are facing their heaviest task at the river itself. At no point has the Roer been crossed. Eisenhower's losses in the last 24 hours are 66 tanks and armored vehicles, 300 prisoners and five fully laden trucks."

Allied Amity Note: Britons Now Get Tea

7th Army Opens Big New Offensive, Berlin Says

DEC 13 1944

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—German broadcasts said today that the American 7th Army, using fifteen infantry and several tank divisions, had opened a new major offensive against the Siegfried Line between Sarreguemines and Haguenau, both captured yesterday.

This suggested 250,000 men or more were employed on a 40-mile sector where the Americans were closing hard toward the German frontier. This was more than double the strength identified on the 7th

War Prisoners Are Recaptured

WERNER

Sarreguemines, Dec. 12 (AP)—The first sizable group of actual prisoners of war recaptured from the Germans in the course of the liberation of France was in American hands today.

Nearly 1,000 Russian, Polish, Yugoslav and Italian soldiers were left behind in a prison camp hospital when troops of the United pital when troops of the United States 35th Infantry Division threw the Germans out of the battered borderland city. The group included Poles captured in the first battle of Warsaw in 1939.

They welcomed the Americans with cheers and salutes when a company commanded by Capt. Joseph Giacobello, of Mount Union, Pa., took over the place.

The first thing they asked for when a platoon headed by Sergt. Michael J. Pagliaro, of Chicago, burst open the gates to the barbed-wire inclosure was American coffee. It was delivered.

This afternoon the liberated prisoners were carrying out their dead—a number were killed by shelling and German sniping which was still intermittent.

Impersonated Women To Escape Germans

U.S. 3d Army Headquarters, Dec. 12 (AP)—Military police of the 6th Armored Division encountered a new type of patriot today—a 20-year-old youth who became a female impersonator in order to facilitate hiding out from the Germans.

He was a ringleader in a group of 73 young men who hid in the woods near a now liberated village in order to escape being drafted into the German Army.

He let his hair grow long and lived in a cave. Whenever he emerged to arrange for new food supplies for his fellow hideouts, he impersonated a woman.

He told the military police his group carried on considerable sabotage while awaiting liberation.

Nazi Official Assassinated

Strasbourg, Dec. 12 (AP)—Robert Wagner, Nazi party Gauleiter, German Government representative of Alsace and Baden and district Volkssturm (people's army) leader, was assassinated by Frenchmen in his apartment here last week, say reports widely circulated. The accounts say his throat was cut.

Ex-Neighbor of Dodgers Good Fielder in Battle

Nazi Shell Pierces His Tank and Lands in His Hands

WITH UNITED STATES 4TH AMORED DIVISION, Dec. 12 (AP).—Any one living on Flatbush Avenue, not far from the home of the Brooklyn Dodgers, ought to be an authority on fielding—and Corporal John J. Nelson is.

In a recent battle between this division and a German armored outfit, a German shell had just slammed against the turret of this red-haired driver's medium tank, Bottle Baby.

"I looked back and saw smoke behind me," he said. "I was just thinking of getting out when, blam! and I'll be damned if I didn't have a German armor-piercing shell right in my hands.

"I came right through from in front of me, and must have had just enough force to get through the armored plate and drop in my lap.

"I looked at it—it was so hot it burned through my gloves. But I didn't look long. In two seconds I got out of that drivers' compartment and did some fast crawling until I got into a building where I could take time to find out I wasn't hurt."

17 U. S. PRISONERS FREED IN EXCHANGE

Nozay, French Atlantic Front, Nov. 30 (Delayed) (A. P.).—French Marines have secured the release of seventeen American prisoners of war who were shot down in a troop carrier plane last October 28 off the Port of La Rochelle, which still is in German hands. The exchange was made November 23, but the Americans did not reach Nozay until last night. Fourteen were infantry replacements en route to Italy.

The big C-47, flying blind, ran into concentrated anti-aircraft fire while trying to find a landing ground in a fog.

"Tracers began to cut the ship to pieces," said Corporal Eugene Westhovern, crew chief, of Compton, Cal. "The tail was shot away and almost simultaneously the left motor was torn loose and fell into the sea."

The pilot, who was killed a few moments later, managed to bring the ship down at sea, about a mile off shore. German craft immediately pulled up to them and hauled the struggling men from the water.

"But before they would touch us they asked if we were English or American," said Private Ray Tanner of Binghamton, N. Y. "We all yelled, American. Later I asked the guard why they asked if we were Americans, and the guard replied: 'If you'd been English, they'd have machine-gunned you in the water.'"

Private Tanner said the Germans held a machine pistol to each man's head as they asked whether he was American or British.

Europe Troop Burden Held Okay With U.S.

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The United States appears to be satisfied with the sharing of Allied fighting strength on the Western front.

On that front, where the world's greatest battle of attrition has developed, the United States apparently has committed more men and material than the other Allies in the theater.

Asked about this recently, Secretary of War Stimson replied that he is "convinced that all the Allies are contributing to the full measure of their resources."

Chiefs Of Staff Decide

The allocation of forces is a matter decided upon by the combined chiefs of staff of the United States and Great Britain. The War Secretary declined to discuss percentages of allocation, but available information today gives an indication.

On the Western front there are four American armies, one British, one Canadian and one French.

The situation in Italy, however, is reversed. There, Prime Minister Churchill reports, three quarters of the forces are British or British controlled. In Southeast Asia the number of American combatant troops is definitely in the minority. The heavy weight in the Pacific war is American.

One reason for the heavy preponderance of American forces over British forces in western Europe primarily is one of populations, military men say. The population of the United States is about 131,000,000, that of the United Kingdom about 46,000,000. The United Kingdom has provided about 4,500,000 or more than half of all the British Commonwealth's armed forces. United States armed forces now total about 11,000,000.

The recently published British White Paper reported that more than one third of all British men between 14 and 64 are in the armed forces. The proportion for the the same age group is less than one fourth.

A second reason is to be found in the fact that the Western front provides the closest and largest area to which United States forces can be sent.

More Casualties Expected

Because the United States has the greatest number of men deployed along the Western front, it is quite possible that this country will have the greatest number of losses in that grinding battle.

In five years of war, Britain's battle casualties total 563,000. In three years of global fighting, United States battle casualties are about 534,000. American casualties thus are overtaking the British casualties at an accelerating pace.

Nazi Defense Breaking? Where? Arnold Queries

Beverly Hills, Cal., Dec. 12 (AP)—Gen. Henry H. Arnold says he hates to hear stories that German defenses are crumbling.

"I'd like to know where they're crumbling," the Army Air Forces commanding general said at a press conference yesterday.

"We've attacked German factories, marshaling yards, canals, ballbearing plants, synthetic rubber and both natural and synthetic gasoline plants," he added.

"Darned Tough Babies"

"We've kept their force down to such small numbers that for months at a time some of our formations saw no planes at all. Meanwhile, thousands of our planes were in action.

"In spite of all this, the Germans still keep on fighting and they're darned tough babies. I don't think the war in Germany will end until we actually get to Berlin."

Predicts Long Jap War

Arnold assailed at national overoptimism and warned of a long fight against Japan. However, he said, "given time and the necessary planes, the Jap air force can be knocked down just as the German air force has been knocked down."

Japan's industrial area, he said, is concentrated mainly on one island, making it easier to bomb.

Flyers Drop In on Patton and Get Bronze Star

A United States Eighth Air Force Bomber Base, England, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Flying Fortress crews on a mission to Germany usually drop their bombs on the target and come right home. Lieut. Horace L. Spencer of Austin, Tex., and his men were different.

They stopped in for breakfast with Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., picked up a Bronze Star apiece, and then came back—in the general's private plane.

German ack-ack had ruined two of the bomber's engines on the way to the target. The big fort circled out of formation a few miles behind the battle lines in German territory. The bombardier, Lieut. Harry J. McCrossen of Dallas, Tex., spotted a large German Army warehouse, called for a bomb run and scored a bull's eye. This lightened the load a little but the fort kept losing altitude. The navigator, Lieut. S. J. Abelman of Clearwater, Fla., decided to get back across the battle front and crash-land in friendly territory.

Sputtering along a few hundred feet off the ground, the bomber swooped over German front lines and drew a hail of pistol, rifle and machine gun fire.

The other two engines died and there was a scramble to bail out. Every one escaped but the 'chutes drifted down squarely between the American and German lines.

Sometimes running, sometimes crawling, the crew worked toward the American lines until they bumped into a Third Army patrol sent out to rescue them.

——morning the men had ——st with Gen. Patton, who decorated each with the Bronze Star for blowing up the Nazi storehouse and sticking it out until they reached the safety of American lines.

They were flown to their base in England a few hours later in the General's plane.

Other members of the crew were Lieut. Paul K. Ruth, co-pilot, of Santa Monica, Cal.; Gunner Sergts. Tom E. Jenkins, Cherry Valley, Ark.; John Houk, Riverside, Cal.; Jack Spratt, Cincinnati, Ohio; John Hensley, Springdale, Ark., and Leslie Spillman, Brownsville, Ky.

Nine Frenchmen Sentenced To Die

Paris, Dec. 12 (AP)—The famous Paris guillotine may be uncrated for the execution of Charles Bony, Henri Lafont and seven other French members of the Gestapo who were sentenced to death today for working for the Germans during the Nazi occupation.

Previously idle because of transportation difficulties while executions were carried out by firing squads, the guillotine may be used on the nine defendants who were accused of a series of murders, kidnapings, tortures, extortions and robberies in the guise of political activity. Some of them were accused of working for the Nazis in German uniforms.

One Accused Died In Prison

Twelve men were accused. The two youngest defendants, both aged 20, were given life imprisonment at hard labor. The twelfth, Edmond de le Haye, died today in Fresnes prison of an acute attack of diabetes just a few hours before the climax of the trials.

The newly established second collaboration court sentenced Amar Kheder, an Algerian, to hard labor for life for collusion with the Germans. Long an anti-French agitator, Kheder was interned in 1940 but released by the Nazis. He was accused of circulating pro-Nazi propaganda among North Africans in France.

9 FRENCHMEN TO DIE

Paris, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Nine members of the French Gestapo were sentenced to death today for collusion with the Germans, and two 20-year-old defendants were sentenced to life imprisonment at hard labor.

The nine condemned men included the ringleaders, Henri Lafonte and Charles Bony. A twelfth defendant, Edmond Delahaye, secretary to LaFonte, died in Fresnes Prison this morning a few hours before the verdict was announced. He had suffered an acute attack of diabetes in court yesterday.

The twelve prisoners were among a group of Frenchmen who worked for the Germans, some in German uniform, and throughout the occupation carried out a series of murders, kidnapings, tortures, extortions, and robberies under the guise of police activity.

Nazis Hint New Weapon Is Firing on Belgian Cities

Suggest Shorter and Thicker Projectiles May Be 'V-3'

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP).—The German radio hinted tonight that a new secret V-weapon—perhaps "V-3"—was being fired at Belgian cities.

The broadcast quoted "weel informed circles in Berlin" as stating that "the projectiles fired at Antwerp and Liege are noticably different from the flying bombs fired at London. They are said to be shorter and thicker and are thought to be a completely different weapon."

Berlin has hinted several times that "V-3" was ready for use, and New York was mentioned as a possible target. The broadcast may be manufactured propaganda, or a search for information.

Anti-aircraft guns on England's east coast threw out a barrage so terrific tonight that windows miles away vibrated. Several flying bombs were seen to explode.

Pastor Led Paratroops In Hymns In Normandy

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—A knapsack full of hymnbooks slung over his shoulder, the Rev. J. Fraser McLuskey parachuted into France deep behind the enemy lines soon after D-day, it was revealed here today.

The 6-foot-2-inch British pastor went among groups of special air service troops who also were operating behind the enemy lines and conducted services with men singing loudly in safe areas, and in whispers elsewhere. The favorite was "Stand Up for Jesus."

Except to say that the parachuting padre was specially trained for his mission, the Royal Air Force released no other details.

Nazi Party Property To Be Blocked: 'Ike'

New York, Dec. 12 (AP)—General Eisenhower said today in a proclamation broadcast to Germany that "the Allied Military Government proposes to block all property of the Nazi party, its leading officials and supporters," so that questions of ownership might be determined in an orderly manner.

This was the ninth in a series of proclamations directed to the Germans, explaining Allied plans for occupied Germany.

Promising that the property of the United Nations and their nationals would be protected, the statement said, present holders of blocked properties, "are required to hold and preserve them, subject to the instructions of the Military Government."

It added that attempts to conceal such blocked property or hinder the Military Government in preserving it for determination of its future use would result in severe penalties.

Von Rundstedt 69 Years Old Today

London, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—The Berlin radio sent greetings today to Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt, supreme commander of the German armies in the west, on the occasion of his 69th birthday and referred to him as "Gen. Eisenhower's great opponent."

Reich Rail System Is Held Devastated

Stockholm, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Allied air offensive against railways in western Germany has caused such widespread devastation and confusion that authorities have been obliged to requisition workers to keep supplies moving, an informant said today.

The battle of transport, however, now has turned against Germany to such an extent that Production Chief Albert Speer has admitted that it is vital to clear the skies of Allied aircraft.

"None of the makeshift methods by which the German Reichsbahn has been functioning so far is sufficient to meet the new crisis," the informant said. "The Allies are striking too often at too many vital railway points for the Germans to keep up with the damage.

Canal Loss Damaging

"The draining of the Dortmund, Ems and Mittelland canals through bombing attacks threw new burdens on the railways and the great battles on the Western front have demanded an increased flow of war goods.

"The desperate situation has resulted in an order to use streetcars in Berlin and other big cities for shunting freight between local stations."

7 Ships Smashed At Leyte

Four Transports And Three Destroyers Caught on Way To Island.

50 JAP PLANES SHOT DOWN, TOO

Other Vessels Badly Damaged—U. S. Loses Eight Planes—Ormoc Position Being Consolidated.

By C. Yates McDaniel

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Wednesday, Dec. 13 (AP)—Three Japanese destroyers and four transports of an 11-ship convoy attempting to run reinforcements to beleaguered Nipponese troops on Leyte island, were sunk by American planes and PT boats Monday and Tuesday, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today.

One other enemy destroyer and two freighter-transports were so severely damaged in the 36-hour running fight they may have sunk. They were left dead in the water and burning, the communique said. Fifty Japanese planes were destroyed in the battle. The Americans lost eight.

Only One Escaped Unscathed

Only one Nipponese vessel, a destroyer, escaped unscathed from the fury of the Army Lightning fighters, Marine Corsairs and the speedy hard-hitting Navq PT boats. The battle occurred off the northwest coast of Leyte.

The convoy will be sadly missed by the Japanese ground troops who are being pushed into the northwest corner of Leyte island by American troops.

Some 30 Japanese planes attacked an American convoy returning from a supply run to Ormoc at dawn Sunday, but were met by Marine fighter planes which downed 11 of the enemy. The American supply ships suffered some damage, the communique said.

Late reports from western and northern Leyte showed little change in the ground war situation.

Americans Mopping Up

The Seventh and 77th U. S. divisions were mopping up and consolidating their positions around Ormoc, the west coast port town captured by the Yanks Sunday.

The 32nd division at the northern approaches to Ormoc valley was maintaining a steady, heavy pressure against tough artillery-backed Japanese opposition.

The Japanese convoy was first attacked at dawn Monday, as it was moving toward Leyte through the Visayan Sea.

By nightfall American bombs had sunk three of the six transports and two of the five escorting destroyers, after fighting off relays of enemy fighter planes which hovered over the ships throughout the day. The destroyed vessels were of 10,000, 5,000 and 4,000 tons.

American Sea Attack Resumed

The remaining enemy vessels were off the enemy's secondary reinforcement port of Palompon, northwest of fallen Ormoc, and were, in that harbor yesterday morning when the American attack was resumed.

The Navy PT boats caught and sank a 5,000-ton enemy cargo-transport out of the convoy Monday night.

Although troops were seen aboard the enemy vessels, the Americans believed that supplies and equipment bulked large in the cargoes. The Japanese had all night to unload the vessels which had survived the initial phase of the attack, but fliers over the scene yesterday saw little evidence either of men or materiel on the beach.

This was the ninth Japanese convoy to be intercepted and smashed by American planes and naval surface craft during the battle for Leyte. In these actions the enemy has lost a total of 39 transports and 28 escort vessels, mostly destroyers.

The communique also told of harassing American Liberator raids on Manila shipping Monday, and another blast by Liberator bombers at Borneo oil fuel and port areas Sunday.

Driven from their former supply base at Ormoc and deprived of the aid intended from the smashed convoy, the Japanese troops on Leyte face the concentrated pressure of American divisions seeking to eliminate the last enemy organized resistance on the island.

In front of the enemy force at its rear and on its eastern flank Yank spearheads were driving in for the kill. To the west was mountainous terrain, stretching for several miles to the coast.

Thus hemmed in, the Nipponese fought desperately, their supply port of Ormoc in American hands, its garrison wiped out, and a force of several thousands of Japanese annihilated south of Ormoc.

The remaining enemy force—except for isolated units scattered in the mountainous central backbone of Leyte—was jammed into the Ormoc corridor, the valley leading northward. In Ormoc and pressing northward to take the northern segment of the Yamashita defense line from the rear were the American 7th and 77th Infantry Divisions.

The 77th landed south of Ormoc less than a week ago, quickly seized Ormoc, destroyed its entire garrison in fighting of "the most desperate character" and effected a junction with the 7th, which had been advancing up Leyte's western coast.

Many Thousands Annihilated

Annihilated as it was trapped between the two divisions was a body of Japanese referred to by headquarters as "many thousands strong."

The 32nd Infantry Division surged southward in the corridor while units of the First (dismounted) Cavalry and other elements of the 24th Army Corps closed in on the enemy's eastern flank.

There was no estimate of the size of the Japanese force battling for its life in the corridor. Before Ormoc was sealed off, however, 35,000 enemy reinforcements had been sneaked into Leyte through that gateway. These were not enough to replace casualties, estimated by headquarters on Nov. 20 to have passed 45,000.

How long the Japanese can hold out in the corridor probably will be determined by the weather. Continuing tropical rains have made ground conditions almost impassable. Under normal conditions these storms should be lifting.

There was a possibility that the enemy could receive help through the port of Palompon, on the western coast of the island shoulder. However, Leyte-based American planes have been bombing and strafing the port for several weeks, blasting installations and sinking or damaging enemy shipping. A winding, mountain road connects the port with the Ormoc corridor.

Fresh Air Assaults

MacArthur's Wednesday communique told of fresh air assaults on airdromes and shipping in the central Philippines and as far away as Rabaul, with airdrome runways effectively cratered and two small freighters sunk.

For the second straight day heavy bombers struck petroleum installations at Tarakan and Borneo. Seventy-two tons of bombs were dropped on tank farms, and great fires and explosions resulted. Storage tanks at Miri also were hit, as well as Borneo waterfront facilities at Brunei Bay.

The heaviest bomb load, 129 tons, was planted on Mandurriao airdrome on Panay Island in the central Philippines.

Crack Jap Unit Wiped Out

MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 12 (AP) — Japan's bloody but vain defense of Ormoc took on the proportions of an annihilation today as headquarters reported thousands of crack imperial troops wiped out in a deadly trap just south of the Leyte Island port city.

Doughboys of the 77th and 7th Infantry Divisions effected a junction just south of Ormoc on Monday and eradicated the 26th Nipponese Division, hopelessly trapped by Yank landings on the coast below Ormoc on Thursday.

Garrison Destroyed

Other units of the 77th meanwhile destroyed the entire garrison at Ormoc, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

Annihilation of the Japanese in the Ormoc sector eliminated the southern segment of the Yamashita Line. While MacArthur did not specify the number of enemy troops wiped out, he said that "many thousands" were in the narrowing pocket.

Great stores of equipment and supplies were captured.

Reinforcement Base

Ormoc, which the 77th Division entered Sunday, was an important base of reinforcement for Japanese fighting in the Ormoc corridor to the north, where bloody engagements have continued for weeks.

With Ormoc taken, the Americans turned more power to the task of clearing the enemy from the mountainous northwest shoulder of Leyte Island.

Terrain still was virtually impassable, but MacArthur reported his 32d Division was "slowly surging forward" against enemy positions in the rugged corridor, which runs from Ormoc to Carigara Bay.

Found Well-Entrenched

[NBC Correspondent George Thomas Folster said the 77th and 7th divisions found the Japanese well entrenched at Ormoc. He broadcast:

["The enemy had automatic weapons at street intersections, snipers on rooftops and sharpshooters hidden under houses. Taking Ormoc was not the easy matter that taking Tacloban on the east coast was."]

Associated Press Correspondent Alva N. Dopking, who was with the 7th Division, wrote that the Japanese abandoned ammunition dumps and supplies as they retreated.

Some Of Best Troops

Dopking said the Japanese in the trap between the 7th Division and the 77th were "some of the Japanese imperial army's best—not garrison troops encountered in Central Pacific atolls."

"Meanwhile, American bombers scored effective sweeps of the Central Philippines and beyond, cratering airdrome runways and blasting harassed shipping.

The most spectacular single strike was the 79-ton bombing of petroleum installations at Tarakan and Balikpapan on Borneo, where direct hits burst pipelines and storage tanks, flooding the area with flaming oil. A freighter was sunk offshore.

Patrol planes made a night harassing raid on Japanese shipping in Manila harbor.

M'Arthur Presents C.M.H. To Bong

An American Airbase on Leyte, Dec. 12 (AP)—America's ace fighter pilot, Major Richard I. Bong, of Poplar, Wis., was presented the Congressional Medal of Honor today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Standing alongside an airstrip in a downpour of rain, MacArthur pinned the nation's highest award on the 24-year-old flyer.

Credited With 38 Planes

The fighter ace now has 38 planes destroyed to his credit.

In making the presentation, MacArthur said: "Of all military attributes, that one which arouses the greatest admiration is courage. It is the basis of all successful military ventures. Our forces possess it to a high degree and various awards are provided to show the public's appreciation.

"The Congress of the United States has reserved to itself the honor of decorating those among all who stand out as the bravest of the brave.

"Noble Category"

"It's this high and noble category, Bong, that you now enter as I pin upon your tunic the Medal of Honor. Wear it as a symbol of the invincible courage you have displayed so often in mortal combat.

"My dear boy, may a merciful God continue to protect you is the constant prayer of your old commander in chief."

Seventh Has No Illusions That Leyte Fight Is Over

DEC 13 1944

By Alva N. Dopking

With the 7th Division at Leyte, Dec. 11 (AP—Delayed)—In a relentless ground push, closely coordinated with artillery fire, the 7th Division gave the Japanese no rest today as its elements forged a link with the 77th Division south of Ormoc.

However, these seasoned fighters are not lulling themselves into the belief that the battle of Leyte is over. Most of them still think that the Japanese has one good scrap left in him here.

Japs Leaving Artillery

During the past three days, Maj. Gen. A. V. Arnold's hard-fighting doughboys have advanced nearly six miles to the north and now they are so close behind the enemy that he is abandoning artillery pieces as he retreats.

A unit led by Lieut. Col. Francis T. Pachler, of Tampa, Fla., overran a Japanese artillery position in the foothills, capturing nine of his heavy guns. The Japanese left so hurriedly they did not have time to take their horses

Waist-Deep Streams

Today's fighting was tough. The 7th Division pushed on in a driving rainstorm, fording streams sometimes waist-deep and so swift that infantrymen were almost swept downstream toward the Camotes Sea.

Twice in the past two days, the Japanese have attempted to make a stand, but each time their defense has crumbled under infantry and artillery pounding.

The enemy dead are piled high in Gungab, a coastal village seven miles south of Ormoc, where artillery batteries of Brig. Gen. Leroy J. (Jake) Stewart caught Japanese in a surprise night barrage. Five hundred enemy dead were counted in this little village of nipa and frame huts, which was practically leveled.

A patrol of the 7th Division made contact with the 77th Division late last night after a three-mile hike through country which only a few hours before was held by the enemy. Strong elements secured the link.

Japs Seek To Escape Trap

More ammunition and supply dumps were found today, indicating that the prime objectives of the remnants of the 26th Division of the Imperial Japanese Army is to escape being trapped between the two American forces and to rejoin other enemy forces, probably for a last stand in the peninsula in the western part of the island, north of Ormoc Bay.

The fighting continues to be pocket by pocket and from ridge to ridge inland within the shadows of mountains covered with rain and forests. These veteran 7th Division men fought in Attu and Kwajalein.

A CHICAGO BEAR LED ATTACK

With the Seventh Division on Leyte, Philippines, Dec. 10 (Delayed) (A. P.).—Troops led by Major Delbert L. Bjork, of Astoria, Ore., a former Chicago Bears football player spearheaded the attack of the Seventh Division in tightening the noose on the Japs near Ormoc.

Counterattack Reported

San Francisco, Dec. 12 (AP)—Japanese troops in the Ormoc sector "are carrying on a fierce counterattack against enemy forces which since the morning of December 9 advanced northwestward from Ipil along the coast of Ormoc Bay," the Japanese Domei news agency asserted today. The dispatch was without Allied confirmation.

Planes Again Hit Iwo Jima

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 12, (AP)—Liberator bombers of Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon's newly organized strategic air force struck Iwo Jima island in the Volcanos Saturday and Sunday, maintaining the heavy aerial pressure on that enemy base 725 miles north of Saipan.

The Liberators, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported today, ran into moderately intense anti-aircraft fire Sunday and eight were damaged. Al lreturned, however, to Saipan, which is the Marianas base that mounts superfortress raids on Japan.

Two enemy interceptors were seen in the air but they did not press an attack.

Saturday's raid was made by a single Army bomber.

Navy search planes struck at harbor installations at Chichi Jima, in the Bonins onrth of Iwo, on Saturday. Other aerial action included an attack by Marine fighters and bombers the same day on the airstrip and other installations on Babelthuap island inthe Palaus, Western Carolines.

Tokyo Says Bombs Hit Palace Grounds

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 13—A Tokyo home broadcast recorded in Melbourne, Australia, said today that bombs had fallen recently in the Imperial Palace grounds, damaging a manor house.

Only a few days ago photographs taken from United States Superfortresses and published in the United States disclosed that the B-29's had flown squarely over the palace, but there was no indication that it was a target for bombing.

The precincts of the palace of Emperor Hirohito, never open to sightseers, consist of an inner enclosure and outer gardens, the inner enclosure being jealously guarded against intrusion by unauthorized persons.

Japs Report Tokyo Raids

(By the Associated Press)

Another incendiary bomb attack on Tokyo Tuesday night (Japanese time) by American Super fortresses was reported by the Nippon radio as other Axis sources said evacuation of non-essential workers from the city was proceeding.

The Tokyo broadcast, picked up by the Federal Communications Commisison and lacking American confirmation, said "one or two" B-29s from the Marianas islands (Saipan) roared over the city at 7:00 p. m. (5 a. m., Tuesday, EWT) unloaded incendiaries "in two or three places" and then "fled toward the southeastern sea."

Prior to the actual bombing the Japanese said other B-29s were over Japan three times between midnight Monday and 5 a. m. Tuesday (Japanese time). Tokyo claimed all these planes "fled southward apparently without dropping any bombs." These flights it added, were over the Tokaido district and Shizuoka prefecture. The latter region was hit by earthquake and tidal wave last week.

The Tokyo evacuation report, broadcast by the German radio, said 20,000 persons—old, infirm, children and expectant mothers, were due to leave the city Tuesday. Evacuation of non-essential residents from Tokyo began last Summer.

B-29's Drop Incendiaries On Tokyo, Japs Say

San Francisco, Dec. 12 (AP)—Tokyo Radio reported American Superfortresses dropped incendiary bombs "in two or three places" tonight (Japanese time.)

Recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, the broadcast said it was the fourth incursion over Tokyo by the Superforts today.

Between midnight and 5 A.M., Superfortresses from the Mariana Islands made three incursions into Japan, Radio Tokyo's earlier announcement said.

The earlier broadcast said that "all the planes fled southward, apparently without dropping any bombs."

After Radio Tokyo reported to the Japanese people that "a small number of B-29's" had "raided the Japanese mainland in several waves," it added:

"About midnight, one or two planes appeared off the mainland and another plane came over the Tokaido district.

Single Planes Reported

"In addition, shortly after 3 A.M. a single plane appeared over the Shizuoka Prefecture area and shortly after 5 A.M. another single plane came over the Tokaido area."

The Shizuoka area was badly shaken up by last week's earthquake and a resultant tidal wave which covered houses with water. Hence the flight may have been for photographic purposes to get information on the damage.

No mention was made of any Japanese fighter interception.

108½-Hour-Week

A dispatch from Domei, Japanese news agency, told how, in an effort to increase war-goods production, Japanese workers at a Tokyo war plant have pledged to work 108½ hours weekly—from 7.30 A.M. to 11P.M., seven days a week.

The dispatch, recorded here, added that the workers had set themselves to increase production by 80 per cent.

Wooden Boring Machines

Hampered by a shortage of iron, Japanese industrial engineers "have hit upon the idea of producing wooden boring machines" and their experiments have been rewarded with "amazing success."

Domei, reporting a description of the machine, said "the greater part of the body and pulleys of this wooden boring machine is made of hard wood. Iron is employed only for the shaft and the chucks."

Colonists For Manchuria

Air-raid costumes are being worn as wedding outfits by couples being married en masse at Tokyo before being sent to occupied Manchuria to take up farming as "colonists," another Japanese radio report recorded here declared.

The broadcast said that twelve couples were united at the third mass wedding, held December 6.

There will be no decree limiting the use of electricity on the main island of Honshu during December, the Japanese radio announced in another broadcast. Heavier-than-normal rainfall was the reason electricity was not limited, the broadcast said.

TOKYO STARTS CIVIL EXODUS

Berlin Report Says War Workers Must Remain

R. WHEELER

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Japanese have started a mass evacuation of nonessential civilians from bombed and blacked-out Tokyo, the Berlin radio reported today.

There was no confirmation directly from Tokyo, but a broadcast from the Japanese capital declared American Superfortresses dropped incendiary bombs tonight (Japanese Time) in the fourth appearance of the sky giants over Tokyo in one day.

A German Transocean dispatch from Japan said 20,000 persons had been ordered to leave the capital today.

Aged And Infirm First

The dispatch added that measures were "progressing according to plan" for evacuation of Tokyo, which is being bombed by Saipan-based Superfortresses.

First to go were the aged and infirm, children and expectant mothers, Berlin said. There was no indication whether Emperor Hirohito and his household would flee to safer quarters, or whether changes were contemplated in plans for a meeting of the Japanese Diet in Tokyo December 24.

"No workers in war industry, transport and press may leave Tokyo, however, as special permits are required by the police," Transocean said. "Neither can workers in the essential industries (gas, water and electricity, doctors, chemists and nurses). The civil defense forces must also stay."

"Battle Of Japan"

The Japanese capital, bombed first by Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle's raiders April 18, 1942, had been under almost incessant attack from Saipan since November 25, when the Superfortresses opened "the battle of Japan." The Saipan base was cleared of the Japanese only last July.

Since November 25 scarcely a day has passed without United States or Tokyo reports of Superfortresses attacking the Tokyo area by day or night.

The first raids found the city brightly lighted, but Japanese quickly ordered their capital blacked out, and the Tokyo radio said intensified measures were being studied to enable the Diet to continue functioning without interruption "under all circumstances."

Fund For Workers

A later Tokyo domestic broadcast said the Japanese Munitions and Welfare Ministries have established a "guaranteed allowance" for war workers whose families suffer casualties during air-raids. War workers with such protection, Tokyo said, could "forge ahead for production without anxiety about their homes."

The allowances will cover "air defense, money for condolence for the dead, a sympathy sum for the wounded."

20,000 Set To Leave Jap Capital Today, Berlin Says

DEC 13 1944

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Berlin radio said that evacuation of nonessential workers from Tokyo was proceeding, with a contingent of 20,000 planning to leave the city of 7,000,000 today.

Plans to evacuate several districts had been announced previously by Tokyo.

"Measures for the evacuation of Tokyo are progressing according to plan," the Berlin radio asserted. "Twenty thousand persons will leave the capital on Tuesday, especially the old and infirm, as well as children and expectant mothers."

"No workers in war industry, transport and press may leave Tokyo, however, as special permits are required by the police. Neither can workers in the essential industries (gas, water and electricity, doctors, chemists and nurses). The civil defense forces must also stay."

The broadcast, quoting a Transocean dispatch, said that American bombers had appeared over Tokyo again today, apparently from the Marianas bases, but had dropped no bombs. A second group of bombers was reported over the capital tonight, dropping incendiary bombs.

Sea And Air Role In Pacific Seen For Britain

DEC 13 1944

Melbourne, Dec. 12 (AP)—Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser, commander of the new British Pacific Fleet, indicated here today that Britain's contribution in the war against the Japanese in the Pacific would best be confined to sea and air support.

The British admiral, who commanded the British fleet units that sank the German battleship Scharnhorst, made his comment in reply to a question in an interview whether British soldiers were coming to the Pacific.

View In England Quoted

He said the view in England was that the best contribution Britain could make would be a navy supported by air, that supply arrangement would become too complicated if troops were sent, too.

He expressed the belief that a concentration of fleets in the Pacific would have considerable effect on shortening the war because Japan is dependent on sea power and aircraft.

One effect of this marshaling of sea power in the Pacific probably would be that the Japanese Navy would not seek to engage the Allied warships but would retire and retire, the admiral said.

"But if she does retire," Sir Bruce continued, "he (Japan) will still be dependent on transport and his supply problems will become more acute. He has got to supply his army in Burma."

To Work Under Nimitz

Sir Bruce said all his future arrangements depended upon his seeing Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, American Pacific Fleet commander, under whose jurisdiction he would operate.

"I've got to see what he wants to do," the admiral said. "He may say he'd like to have me detach forces to support General MacArthur or he may say detach the whole fleet for that purpose. Administration and command of the British Pacific Fleet will come under me."

He asserted that one of the main reasons the British fleet was in Australian waters was to make contact between the British and Australians. Another was that the Japanese fleet has retired from the Indian Ocean and, therefore, the British fleet must move closer to the enemy.

Battleships And Carriers

Admiral Fraser said his fleet would include heavy battleships, aircraft carriers and necessary equipment for supporting landings.

[Giving further details about his fleet, Admiral Fraser disclosed that it would include four "N" and two "Q" destroyers manned by Australians, men from his old home fleet and his former Eastern command, and mine sweepers made in Australia and manned by Australians, Reuter reported.]

The new British fleet was put into operation later than originally planned, Fraser declared, because of congestion arising from manpower difficulties in England and the need for concentrating on repair and maintenance of landing craft used in the invasion of France.

Commenting earlier on the arrival of the Royal Navy ships in the Pacific zone, a ranking admiral representing Admiral Fraser said Australia will be the British Pacific Fleet's base as Pearl Harbor is America's.

Demands On Australia

He said that heavy demands would be made on Australia for the British Pacific Fleet's support.

That support, he said, will be dock and depot facilities and food. Approximately $41,000,000 will be spent by June on services and supplies for the fleet, he said.

As well, important capital works costing another $41,000,000 will be available, including the Sydney graving dock which when completed soon will be the biggest and most modern in the Southern Hemisphere.

Howe Is Flagship

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—One of this nation's most powerful warships—the 35,000-ton battleship Howe—has been assigned as flagship of Britain's new Pacific fleet now being assembled in Australian waters for action against Japan.

The Howe, commissioned in 1942, carries a main battery of ten 14-inch guns and is heavily armored. Lessons learned in aerial warfare early in the war were incorporated in her construction.

Mars Makes New Record

Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Navy's gigantic flying boat Mars flew more than 23,600 miles in November, breaking all its previous records, the Pacific wing of the Naval Air Transport said today.

Seven round trips between San Francisco and the Hawaiian Islands were made during the month, and more than 300,000 pounds of cargo were carried.

New Zealand Offers British Orphans Refuge

Wellington, New Zealand, Dec 12 (AP)—New Zealand would consider sympathetically any plan for the migration of British war orphans here, Prime Minister Peter Fraser told the House of Representatives today.

He said New Zealand has opened discussions of the matter with the British Government.

Jap Premier Prays For Leyte Victory

By The Associated Press

The Japanese agency Domei said in a Tokyo radio broadcast today that Premier Kuniaki Koiso visited Nippon's famous Ise shrine and offered special prayer for victory in the battle of Leyte.

Domei quoted the premier as saying the Leyte battle "will decide the fate of the Greater East Asia war." He added, "We will certainly win the war. . . . I, Koiso, will march ahead toward the successful consummation of the war and reaffirm my faith in our ultimate victory."

The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the premier visited the shrine to pray on the anniversary of Emperor Hirohito's 1942 trip to Ise, at Ujiyamada, almost 200 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Nimitz Moving To Guam?

New York, Dec. 12—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, United States Pacific Fleet commander, "will soon move his headquarters from Pearl Harbor to Guam, which will be the headquarters for the future offensive against Japan," the Australian radio reported today in a dispatch from Guam, CBS recorded the broadcast.

Tokyo Claims Prisoners Hit

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today some bombs dropped in an American Superfortress raid on the Mukden area of Manchuria on December 7 fell on a prisoner-of-war camp, killing sixteen American and British prisoners and fatally wounding eighteen more. Twenty-three others were reported hurt.

The broadcast was without Allied confirmation.

JAP RADIO TALKS OF 108-HOUR WEEK

In an effort to increase war goods production Japanese workers at a Tokyo war plant have pledged to work 108½ hours weekly—from 7:30 A. M. to 11 P. M., seven days a week— Japanese News Agency Domei said today. The dispatch, intercepted by the Federal Communications Committee, added that the workers had set themselves to increase production by 80 per cent.

Hampered by a shortage of iron, Japanese industrial engineers "have hit upon the idea of producing wooden boring machines" and their experiments have been rewarded with "amazing success," Demei reported. A description of the machine said that "the greater part of the body and pulleys of this wooden boring machine is made of hard wood. Iron is employed only for the shaft and the chucks."

There will be no decree limiting the use of electricity on the main island of Honshu during December, the Japanese radio also announced today. The Federal Communications Commission also recorded their broadcast which said that heavier-than-normal rainfall was the reason for no limit on electricity.

Japan Radio Predicts Poor U.S. Christmas

San Francisco, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Japanese-controlled Singapore radio said Tuesday that "rich" America will have a very poor Christmas because of liquor, cigarette and sugar shortages.

The broadcast, reported by OWI, pictures Americans as experiencing cigaretteless days and added "girls who used to smoke a lot are now obliged to resort to chewing gum."

Nazi Line Northeast Of Budapest Opened

Russians Capture Rail Fortress of Godollo—Vanguards Reported in Eastern Suburbs Of Capital—Sajoszentpeter, Road Junction, Taken.

DEC 13 1944

By W. W. Hercher

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Red Army ripped open a wide gap in the enemy's defense lines northeast of Budapest yesterday with the capture of the rail fortress of Godollo, while bayonet-fighting Russian vanguards were reported fighting the Germans in the eastern suburbs of the bombed, shell-torn capital.

Bulletin Supplement

The supplement to the Soviet war bulletin said the swiftly-retreating Germans abandoned 400 dead on the approaches to Godollo, 10 1-2 miles from the capital and the last major enemy bastion controlling the entrances from that direction.

The communique did not confirm the entrance into the Budapest suburbs, reported in earlier Moscow dispatches. A German military commentator admitted a "great breach in our lines," but claimed it had been sealed off later.

Besides the announced advance in that direction, however, it also listed the capture of Sajoszentpeter, important road junction 10 miles north of Miskolc, 85 miles northeast of Budapest, and named 10 other towns captured in that area.

These included Berente, only 11 miles from the border of central Slovakia; and indicated a drive northwest up the Sajo river, outflanking the big bastion of Kassa, leaving it behind on the northeast.

Hegymeg Falls

This drive also toppled Hegymeg, 16 miles north of Miskolc and 31 miles southwest of Kassa. The northern offensive, coupled with the push to the Slovak border north of Budapest, gave rise to reports that the entire liberation of Czechoslovakia was high on the Russian agenda.

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia declared, "complete liberation of the Czechoslovak republic is near," and Lt. Col. Alfred von Olberg, military analyst for the German news agency Transocean, commented that the Russians had not given up their aim to capture Slovakia "very soon."

There has been no mention in the Moscow communiques recently of action on Gen. Ivan Petrov's Fourth Ukraine Army front.

The Russians captured Locz, 36 miles northeast of Budapest, as they lengthened their front along the Slovak frontier in that sector to more than 27 miles. Locz was captured in a four-mile advance from Varsany that also took in Rimocz.

Nazis Captured

The communique said that Sunday and Monday Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army captured 1,850 German and Hungarian officers and men, bringing the total for the seven days from Dec. 5-11 to 7,450 in the fighting in the Budapest area and to the north.

The Russians said they destroyed or disabled 43 German tanks Monday, and brought down 32 enemy planes, indicating the ferocity of the clashes between Soviet and Nazi armored tanks and planes in the battle for Budapest.

The violence of the attack and the gloomy tone of German broadcasts indicated that the Hungarian apital's hours were numbered. There was no direct evidence as yet that the Germans were abandoning the city, which is under assault from three sides.

A war reporter for the German Transocean agency declared that Soviet guns had been pumping shells into the capital for the last 36 hours.

"They fall on hotel terraces, houses and squares and into the Danube," he said. "Flames color the gray December sky blood red."

Paris Radio

The Paris radio reported violent fighting in the Kispest suburban district just southeast of Budapest.

German broadcasts said Soviet planes were dropping bombs on the center of the city. Previous Russian and American air attacks had been aimed at the industrial outskirts.

A broadcast Moscow report by a correspondent for the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star declared that a breach through which the Russians were pouring into the industrial area northeast of Budapest "is like a gate cut in a compact wall of defenses."

Now that the Russians had rammed through the defenses, "all these empty fortifications stretch out dejectedly in the rear," the correspondent added. He said enemy losses were heavy as the Germans were forced to use tactical reserves.

Moscow said the Germans had built a rigid anti-tank ring around the city on the east bank of the Danube, anchored in Ujpest on the north and stretching to the town of Csepel at the tip of the Danube island of Csepel on the south.

Hungarians Fight

Archduke Robert, brother of the pretender to the Austro-Hungarian throne, said in London that according to reports reaching him from Budapest, patriot forces were battling the Germans in various sections of the capital.

Unconfirmed Stockholm advices quoting arrivals from Budapest said patriots held sections of the working class districts of the city.

While the battle raged for the Hungarian capital, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army also spread a trap for German and Hungarian formations still in the hills to the northeast.

His troops advanced north of the captured rail junction of Miskolc northeast of Budapest, and north of Budapest to the central Slovak frontier. These operations threatened Germans fightir / in eastern Slovakia and pointed toward the Slovak capital of Bratislava and Vienna itself.

BULLETIN.

London, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Russian storm troops have seized Godollo, last big railway junction and fortified town northeast of Budapest, ten and one-half miles from the Hungarian capital, Moscow announced tonight.

Russian Tank Forces Battle Into Suburbs of Budapest

GILMORE

Another Red Column Smashes Toward Vienna and Bratislava in Drive North of Flaming Hungarian Capital.

Moscow, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Russian tanks battled into the northern suburbs of Budapest today, while another powerful Soviet column drove westward past the great bend of the Danube above the city toward Bratislava and Vienna, Russian dispatches said.

The main body of motorized Russian infantry driving down the Danube upon Budapest was declared within full view of the capital, and tank units ranged on ahead.

Hastily-reinforced German garrisons suffered high casualties in embittered, short-range fighting, and there were increasing bayonet clashes in the outer anti-tank zone, it was announced.

The Soviet communique announced total gains of three miles and capture of the towns of Veresegyhaz and Szada, both eight and one-half miles northeast of the capital, by Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army.

Other Red Army troops edged in toward the capital from the east, south and southwest.

[The Paris and Algiers radios said the Russians had penetrated Budapest, but this report appeared without any foundation.]

DAY

Slovak Front Extended.

Marshal Malinovsky's northern army swept around the great bend north of Szob. In gains of up to seven miles, the Russian front along the central Slovak border was extended to almost thirty miles. These advances put the Red Army troops within eighty-five miles of Bratislava, the Slovak capital, and 116 miles from Vienna.

On this front the Russians captured Hont, three miles west of the rail junction of Dregelypalank, taken Sunday, and also seized Varsany, eight and one-half miles southeast of Balassagyarmat, previously captured.

Front reports indicated that while the Budapest fighting was in the final stage there still would be much resistance. The Germans are said to have thrown up virtually the same kind of anti-tank ring about Pest, the part of the city east of the Danube, as they did around Sevastapol. On the north it hinges on the big suburban town of Uj Pest and on the south on the town of Csepel on the island of the same name.

LUCE

Polish Group Plans Regime To Carry Out Land Reform

Moscow, Dec. 12 (AP)—Boleslaw Berut, peasant-born president of the Polish National Council, predicted today that the new year would be ushered in by the formation of a provisional government of Poland dedicated to satisfying the land hunger of 8,000,000 landless peasants.

[The Soviet Government has sponsored the development of Berut's council with its seat at Lublin, Poland, and recent Moscow dispatches have indicated that a move to make it the provisional government of Poland was under way. Such a development probably would end all chance of an agreement between Lublin and the Polish Government in Exile in London.]

Major Task Of Council

Berut said the construction of the provisional government would be the major task before the 120 deputies at the next session of the National Council.

Weighing his words carefully, the 52-year-old leader of the Lublin régime answered every question put to him in an interview in a modest room in a downtown Moscow hotel. Small, round-faced, with thin, blondish hair brushed back in a straight pompadour from his high forehead, Berut spoke forcefully of Poland's future.

"We are gathering forces for a new liberation offensive in Poland in which the Red Army will be aided by Polish troops, and especially by the Polish 1st Army, which already has had valuable battle experience," he said.

[He referred to the Polish force under Maj. Gen. Zygmunt Berling, which was raised, trained and outfitted in Russia and has fought beside the Red Army.]

Hope To Free West Poland

"We hope that western Poland will be freed from the Germans in the next few months," he said.

Asked whether he saw any possibility of the Poles of the London exiled Government resuming relations with Russia, broken since 1943, Berut replied:

"They hate the Soviet Union because they represent the Polish landowners and nobility under Raczkiewicz (Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, president of the London régime), who bases his authority on the 1935 constotution which set up a dictatorship.

This nobility once possessed large estates in Soviet territory of the Ukraine, White Russia and Lithuania. (Prewar Poland included areas which Soviet Russia has now incorporated into those three Soviet Republics.) They wish to get back these lands and therefore will intrigue constantly for a future war against the Soviet Union."

Depends On Mikolajczyk

I asked Berut whether Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, who resigned recently as Premier of the London Polish régime, would be welcomed back to Poland under the prospective provisional government.

"Everything depends on Mr. Mikolajczyk himself," he replied. "We have met and talked together twice in Moscow. He assured me often he agreed with the policy and work of the Polish Committee of National Liberation, [illegible] group), but still felt himself incapable of breaking with the 1935 constitution because of certain obligations it imposed on him.

"He also said that agrarian reform, which is a most important matter, should be put into effect not now but after the war.

Did Not Accept Offer

"He was offered the post of Premier in our Government but he did not avail himself of this offer. On the contrary, friends of Mikolajczyk and sympathizers of the exiled Government have waged a violent struggle in Poland against the Committee of National Liberation."

Although much of Warsaw now is destroyed by the Germans, Berut declared it would again become the capital of Poland as soon as the section on the west bank of the Vistula is liberated.

Berut said redistribution of the land was the paramount task of Polish leadership along with intensifying the war against the enemy still occupying Polish territory.

Peasants 70 Per Cent

"The Polish peasants—70 per cent of the population—have been promised land reform since 1920, but only the Committee of National Liberation actually made a start toward this objective," he declared. "That is why our committee won the confidence of the masses, the peasants as well as the workers and the intelligentsia. Lack of land was the historical cause of Poland's poverty and her meager industrial development.

"There were 8,000,000 peasants who were landless or had only insignificant holdings. Peasant fathers had no land for their sons. The sons had to emigrate or beg for work in the cities. Poverty was severe. Poland was a backward country.

"Land reform now is being made the basis of future prosperity and progress."

Allied Planes Hit Industrial, Rail Targets

CHAMBERLAIN

U. S. Bombers Raid Frankfurt With 3,000 Tons.

DEC 13 1944

LONDON, Wednesday, Dec. 13. (AP)—The Allied air assault on Germany continued round-the-clock yesterday and last night, with the RAF joining American bombers from both Britain and Italy in a series of powerful blows at communications and industrial targets.

More than 3,000 tons of explosives were dumped by the U. S. Eighth Air Force alone on battleline rail facilities in the Frankfurt area during the day in a massive operation from which nine bombers and nine fighters were reported missing Most of the fighters were believed to have landed in friendly territory, however, and the day's loss was described as the smallest of the war for an attack in such strength—more than 2,100 bombers and fighters.

Last night a strong force of RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes blasted the great armament center of Essen and squadrons of Mosquitoes bombed Osnabruck, another steel center of the Ruhr.

Improved Weather

Improved weather permitted practically all the Allied air forces to go into action today, approximately 3,300 planes striking from bases in Britain, about 1,000 medium and fighter bombers operating from bases on the continent and an unknown number striking from Italian bases.

The RAF night armada comprised about 600 bombers and it also dropped an estimated total of 3,000 tons of explosives.

An RAF spokesman, stressing the importance of the attack on Essen, last hit by the RAF on Nov. 28, said the city still was a vital German supply base and communications center. He said the bombs were aimed particularly at the section of Essen south of the Krupp armament works which have been totally destroyed in previous attacks.

Italy-based bombers and fighters of the U. S. 15th Air Force flew through bad weather and attacked the huge synthetic oil refinery at Blechhammer in Southern Silesia.

During the afternoon a powerful force of RAF Lancasters, escorted by Mustangs, attacked the Ruhr industrial and railway city of Witten.

Flak Meager

Flak was meager, and except over Witten the Luftwaffe did not challenge the big bombers or their escorts. Mustangs guarding the RAF heavies there reported destruction of six enemy interceptors and damaging of others without loss to themselves.

An Air Ministry official said, "Witten, with a population of 70,000, is the only industrial city of any size in the Ruhr which has not been previously bombed by the RAF. It is now particularly important for military traffic to the front as it is a junction of two routes which the enemy will be using to bypass the main devastated areas."

The Allied fighters sighted some jet-propelled planes but they made no attempt to intercept the raiders.

Part of the huge U. S. Eighth Air Force formation of more than 1,250 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and their escort of 900 fighters continued to Merseburg, 125 miles northeast, after attacking the rail facilities feeding the Saar basin battle line at Frankfurt and Hanau, Darmstadt and Aschaffenburg, situated in a semicircle around Frankfurt. The great Leuna synthetic oil refinery is situated at Merseburg.

The bombing at Merseburg was by instrument but rail targets were bombed visually.

Second Day

It was the second successive day that the massed weight of Allied aerial strength in Europe has been hurled at Germany. Monday the Eighth Air Force sent out 1,600 bombers and more than 800 fighters in attacks on Frankfurt and Hanau. At the same time more than 500 bombers and 350 fighters from Italy bombed targets in Austria and the R. A. F. hit objectives in the Reich.

During the night Mosquitos bombed Hanover, Hamburg and targets in Western Germany.

The huge raids are part of the Allied strategy to break the back of the German war machine by wrecking its transport and fuel facilities.

"Our job now is to keep hitting them and destroying repairs as fast as the Germans make them," an air force staff officer said.

As the terrific bomb-loads smashed into their targets an air force spokesman said every synthetic oil plant in the Ruhr had been crippled and every main rail route to German defenses in the west had been severed in the past month's heavy bomber offensive.

In addition to the raids by the heavy bombers and their escorting fighters, the Allied tactical air forces in Western Europe and Italy attacked front line objectives in immediate support of the Allied armies.

ALLIES CONTINUE AIR OFFENSIVE

London, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Almost 1,300 American heavy bombers from Britain battered three German railheads and the Leuna synthetic oil plant at Merseburg today, while flying fortresses from Italy raided Blechhammer, site of a huge German synthetic fuel plant.

The Eighth Air Force heavyweights, escorted by strong fighter formations, hit railyards at Hanau, Aschaffensburg and Darmstadt.

The Fifteenth Air Force Fortresses from Italy bombed their oil target at Blechhammer in southern Silesia by instruments. It is the largest source of enemy synthetic oil production within range of the Fifteenth Air Force, and last was hit December 2.

The attack followed up a record assault by 4,000 bombers and fighters yesterday.

It was the ninteenth attack of the war on Merseburg's leading oil plant, the Leuna refinery Eighteen of them have been made in daylight by American heavy bombers. Today's attack was by instrument due to heavy clouds. All the rail targets were in the open and were hit visually.

All the bombers and most of the Mustang-Thunderbolt-Lightning fighter escort were from the Eighth Air Force.

All three heavy bombardment air forces participated in yesterday's assault with 10,000 tons of bombs—climaxing a campaign which has crippled synthetic oil production in the Ruhr and severed main rail routes to German defenses in the west.

"Our job now is to keep hitting them and destroying repairs as fast as the Germans can make them," a staff officer said.

15th At Work

Simultaneously, heavy bombers swept into Austria, Berlin said, indicating activity by the Italy-based United States 15th Air Force.

The two American battle fleets were still emptying their bomb bays when a third formation was reported entering western Germany, probably RAF Bomber Command Lancasters or Mosquitos.

Record Attack Yesterday

The Britain-based 8th sent 1,600 bombers aloft yesterday and, with an escort of 800 fighters, they smashed rail yards at Frankfurt, Hanau and Giessen. It was the largest single bomber fleet ever put in the air—twice the size of Germany's peak aerial effort in September, 1940, when 800 planes attacked London.

A force of 500 American heavy bombers from Italy hit an oil refinery and rail yards in Vienna and 500 British bombers attacked three fuel plants and a rail center in the Ruhr.

Mosquitos Return To Reich

Mosquito bombers returned to western Germany last night with blockbusters. Continent-based fighters and bombers got in 800 sorties against tactical targets before dark yesterday.

Allied air spokesmen announced that every synthetic-oil plant in the Ruhr had been crippled and every main-line rail route to German defenses in the west severed in the past month's heavy bomber offensive.

Airmen Concentrate On German Routes

LONDON, Dec. 12, (AP)—The U. S. Eighth Air Force is now concentrating its attacks on principal southern routes now used by the Germans to bolster their western front positions, an air force staff officer said today.

Repeated heavy bombing attacks on Ruhr rail centers have forced the Germans to push nearly all their western front traffic from the industrial areas of central and northern Germany over the southern routes, he explained.

Traffic shunted around to the north of Hanau and Frankfurt must pass through Giessen, already hit twice this month by the Eighth. Traffic shunted to the south of Hanau must pass through Aschaffenburg and Darmstadt, today's targets. Both have relatively large railyards, and Darmstadt has the most extensive locomotive and railroad car repair facilities in that part of Germany.

"Attacks on these objectives, coupled with the successful attack on the rail hub of Stuttgart three days ago," added the staff officer, "immediately affect the supply and reinforcement of German forces facing the First and Third American armies."

U.S. Planes' Vapor Forms Rainbow

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—The huge American air fleet that blasted Germany yesterday left an odd straight-line rainbow in the sky as it returned to British bases.

Watchers near the Strait of Dover saw the phenomenon formed by vapor trails caught in the sun's rays.

V-Bombs Downed

LONDON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Coastal anti-aircraft batteries and night fighter planes teamed up to night to bring down several flying bombs over the east coast.

New Robot Barrage Hits England

London, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—The Germans launched another barrage of flying bombs against southern England during the night and the Government announced today that damage and casualties were caused.

Diplomats Discuss Germany's Control

DEC 13 1944

American Proposals for Abolition of War Industries and Regulation of Future Economy Before European Advisory Commission.

By John A. Parris, Jr.

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP)—American proposals for "complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries and strict control of the country's future economy were reliably reported tonight to be under discussion by the European Advisory Commission as a part of a tough Allied plan to suppress Germany's aggressive powers forever.

American Proposals

U. S. Ambassador John G. Winant was understood to have presented to the commission two or more memoranda containing the American proposals for controlling future German industry, foreign and domestic trade.

Great Britain also was said to have presented her plans in the same field, but neither Russia nor France has submitted corresponding proposals. Moscow however, was understood to have given much study to the subject.

It was believed that France was waiting until Gen. De Gaulle had finished digesting his talks with Marshal Stalin before submitting plans so that they could harmonize with those of the Soviet Union.

Submission of the American proposals, which Winant was believed to have discussed with President Roosevelt and the State Department during his recent visit to Washington, marked the first time that any of the big powers formally had put forward any plans for future German economy.

Inter-Allied Committee

The Inter-Allied committee, composed of all the smaller United Nations, however, submitted proposals early this year for controlling and liquidating German economy.

In connection with the American proposals, U. S. Secretary of State Edward Stettinius, appearing before a Senate caucus in Washington today, asserted that one of America's major objectives was to take effective steps to prevent Germany and Japan from again acquiring power to wage war.

Meanwhile, there was a growing belief in diplomatic quarters that Russia's proposals when presented to the European advisory commission would suggest that several million Germans be sent to the Soviet to help in the reconstruction of the country.

Understandably, the informant said, American proposals called for:

1. "Complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries.
2. Wiping out the German aviation industry.
3. Control of German industries so that they could not dominate European economy.

General Feeling

There was a general feeling that the American proposals did not go nearly so far as the reported plan of Secretary Henry Morgenthau virtually to wipe out German industry and make Germany largely dependent upon its agriculture, a plan which coincided with that suggested by the Inter-Allied committee.

The Americans were believed to have suggested that it should be made impossible for German chemical industries to manufacture poison gas or similar weapons.

The proposals specified, however, that civilian requirements of medicines and drugs should be allowed. They added that the whole question of Allied control of the chemical industry, as in all other branches of industry, should be settled jointly by the United States, Great Britain, Russia and France.

American Plan

The American plan was said to grant a much greater latitude in Germany's future textile industries, since production would be for civilians.

Less is known about potential Allied control of Germany's foreign trade, but the American proposals were understood to favor "drastic supervision" of German imports, with a view to preventing Germany buying abroad raw materials adaptabile to strategic uses.

In this connection, it was recalled that the European advisory commission for several months has had under consideration plans for controlling German finance, both at home and abroad.

It was emphasized that all plans for dealing with postwar German economy must be extremely tentative until the physical condition of German factories is known at the end of the war.

Ending Nazi War Industry Called Goal Of U.S.

PARRIS

London, Dec. 12 (AP) — United States proposals for control of Germany were said by a reliable informant today to call for "complete and ruthless" abolition of German war industries and the wiping out of the Reich's aviation enterprises.

Other German industries would be controlled so completely that the Reich could never again dominate European economy.

Ambassador John G. Winant was reported reliably to have presented the European Advisory Council two or more memoranda containing the American proposals as part of the Allies' plan to prevent Germany from ever again waging war. Winant was believed to have discussed the data with President Roosevelt and the State Department during his recent visit to Washington.

Chemical Industry Control

The Americans were believed to have suggested that it should be made impossible for Germany's chemical industries to manufacture poison gas or similar weapons.

The proposals specified, however, that civilian requirements of medicines and drugs should be allowed, the informant said.

It was reported additionally provided that the whole question of Allied control of industry should be settled jointly by the United States, Britain, Russia and France.

Latitude For Textiles

The American plan was said to grant latitude in Germany's future textile industries, since production would be for civilian consumers.

The feeling here was that the American proposal did not go nearly so far as the plan of Secretary Morgenthau, which would have virtually wiped out German industry and made the country dependent largely upon agriculture.

Britain was understood to have presented her plans covering German industry, foreign and domestic trade.

No Russ, French Views Yet

Neither Russia nor France has submitted views. France was believed waiting until General de Gaulle finished digesting his talks with Premier Marshal Stalin, so as to harmonize French proposals with those of the Soviet Union.

The European Advisory Council was understood already to have started discussions on the American and British plans.

British Labor Party Declines Stand on German Dismemberment.

LONDON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Britain's powerful Labor Party hedged today on taking any stand on possible dismemberment of Germany after the war, but demanded that the German and Japanese people as a whole share the responsibility for the crimes of their war leaders.

A motion to place the party on record against cutting up Germany was sidetracked after Hugh Dalton, member of the Churchill coalition government, reminded the delegates that Marshal Stalin had "made it very clear that Russia was looking forward to certain readjustments in the east."

The tenseness turned to laughter when Dalton, who is president of the British Board of Trade, said, "All I ask this conference to do is not at this stage to line up against the views of Stalin on this point."

Russia Suggests

Russia has suggested that Poland be given part of East Prussia and access to the Baltic under a compromise agreement whereby the Soviet boundary would carry to the Curzon line.

Stalin has also indicated he would support French hopes for neutralizing the industrial German Ruhr and Saar under international control.

Earlier today, Britain's Laborite Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee personally moved adoption of the resolution serving notice to peoples that they would not escape "all responsibility for the crimes committed in their name". He demanded that they pay as much reparations as possible.

With the disarmament of Germany and Japan, Attlee said the keeping of the peace would be entrusted to a world security organiaztion built on close cooperation among the British Commonwealth, Russia and the United States but "embracing small as well as great nations."

Showdown Fight

Behind the scenes a showdown fight was shaping up on British policy in Greece and other liberated lands—a policy already challenged by several of the party's largest trade unions and due to be threshed out on the convention floor tomorrow.

A sharply worded resolution describing the British policy as "disastrous' was offered today by the Amalgamated Engineering Union, while the party's executive committee debated behind closed doors the draft of the motion it put forward.

The executive committee annbounced the resolution it would sponsor tomorrow calls upon the British government "to take all necessary steps to facilitate an armistice without delay."

It urges "resumption of conversations between all sections of the people who have resisted the Fascist and Nazi invaders with a view to the establishment of a provisional government" which will hold a free general election as soon as practicable.

While the Laborites already have committed themselves to stay in Churchill's coalition government until victory in Europe was achieved, some delegates are demanding that the party wash its hands of the Churchill-proclaimed "intervention to keep peace" policy.

DEC 13 1944

'People Share War Guilt'

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Britain's Labor party declared today that the German and Japanese peoples must share responsibility for their leaders' crimes. The annual party conference voted this resolution despite some delegates' warning against any threat of vengeance that would stiffen Nazi resistance.

Lord Strabolgi, while supporting the convention's stand that "neither the German nor Japanese people as a whole can be acquitted of all responsibility," urged a more moderate Government policy "for the sake of quick victory."

"If you keep harping on unconditional surrender, you play right into the hands of Himmler and Goebbels and the rest of the Nazi leaders," he said. "You must give the German people some hope for the future."

Clement R. Attlee, Deputy Prime Minister and leader of the Labor party, led the fight for the resolution and contended it was "just and right" that the Germans and Japanese "should make what reparations and restitution possible."

Leaders blocked a motion to put the party on record against dismemberment of Germany.

Warns Against Stand

Hugh Dalton, president of the board of trade in the Churchill Government, cautioned against taking any such stand.

"Stalin has made it clear that he looks forward to certain adjustments in the east," Dalton said. "Are we quite sure that that is wrong?"

Murmurings were heard among some delegates and Dalton went on:

"Some are and some are not. All I ask this conference to do is not at this stage to line up against the views of Stalin at this point."

This was greeted with general laughter.

Asserting "we cannot and do not acquit the German and Japanese people of all responsibility," Mr. Attlee told the Labor party's annual conference:

"We believe that both these nations must be disarmed and deprived of power to start new wars, but if this is to be done effectively there must be an organization with power to enforce it."

Tito And Subasic Agree On Election

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Agreement on the formation of a united provisional Yugoslav government and for elections to a constituent assemby was announced tonight by the Yugoslav radio.

A communique said the agreement between Marshal Tito, commander of the National Army of Liberation, and Dr. Ivan Subasic, the Yugoslav Premier, was reached following talks in Belgrade.

The new Government will consist of representatives of all peoples and of all the federal units of Yugoslavia, the communique said.

The task of the new Government, the communique said, would be to organize the civic authorities throughout the country as soon as possible, to take steps for an economic revival and to prepare and conduct elections to a constitutional assembly.

No announcement was made of the composition of the provisional régime to be set up in the transitional period prior to the elections. There also was no reference to King Peter, whose return to the throne hinges on postwar elections.

TRI-POWER TALK PLANS UNDER WAY

London, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Without elaborating, a foreign office commentator said today that arrangements were being made for a new Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference. There are no plans for a meeting of the three countries' foreign ministers, he said.

German-Held British Islands to Be Supplied

LONDON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Germans have granted safe conduct to relief ships carrying supplies to the British channel islands, Home Secretary Herbert Morrison said today.

Between 60,000 and 70,000 persons on the German-occupied islands are short of food and medical supplies.

The islands were bypassed when the Allies invaded the continent.

German, Jap Leaders Vow To Fight To End

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Messages in which the Foreign ministers of Germany and Japan vowed "to fight to the end" were exchanged yesterday on the third anniversary of the tripartite military pact.

The German radio, over which the messages were read, quoted Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop as admitting the Axis was hard-pressed, but declaring: "The Allies may throw fresh forces into the fray, but one day we are bound finally to break this onrush."

Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemetsu said "our enemies are attacking with all their might—we all vow to fight to the end."

Benito Mussolini was quoted by the Berlin radio as saying he counted upon German aid "to defend Italy's skies now dominated by the Allies."

British Businessmen Make Trips To France

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Harcourt Johnstone, Government secretary for overseas trade, said today 519 British business men had formally applied for authority to go to France and 23 already had made the trip under visas issued by the French consulate. Of the remainder, Johnstone said his department had approved permits for 225 fa

Leaders Named Within Poland

LONDON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz, president of the Polish republic, appointed tonight an acting deputy premier and three cabinet ministers inside Poland as the exiled, trouble-torn government here sought from the homeland's underground army a new guide on policy to strengthen its shaky standing.

A communique issued by the Polish government said the deputy premier and three cabinet ministers, whose names were not disclosed because of security, already were peforming their duties, and that all were well-known members of the underground movement.

The statement said the acting deputy premier was known in the Polish underground under the pseudonym of "Sobolewski," and the three ministers as "Opolski," "Walkowicz" and "Traugutt."

Sobolewski also was deputy premier and government delegate in Poland in the Mikolajczyk regime.

The ministers represent three main parties which form the council of national unity in Poland—Peasant, National and Socialist.

The deputy premier, a member of the Christian Democratic Labor party, became a non-party member when he assumed his duties, it was stated."

Some British Coastal Towns Relax Blackout

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—For the first time since the start of the war, blackout restrictions were relaxed last night at Dover, Folkestone, Hythe, New Romney, Lydd and other coastal towns and adjoining rural areas.

The modification was similar to the half-light, or "moon-glow," now general in London.

Convalescent Veterans Help Speed Troop Mail

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Convalescent veterans of the fighting in France and Germany are helping speed Christmas mail to American soldiers in the European theater.

More than 3,000,000 packages were handled in a recent 30-day period and 1,100 freight-carloads of mail were dispatched to troops in England and on the Continent.

Evacuees Plan Return But Homes Are Lacking

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Permission by the Ministry of Home Security for evacuees from England's "shell-fire corner" around Dover to return home brought no plans for happy homecomings today.

"There is no place for the 18,000 evacuees to come to," said a Dover official, "The 20,000 who are here now occupy damaged houses which are repaired almost daily as new damage comes to light. Ninety-eight per cent. of Dover's homes were struck by shells, bombs or splinters."

Franco Gives Audience To Lord Templeton

Madrid, Dec. 12 (AP)—Lord Templeton, retiring British Ambassador to Spain, was received by Gen. Francisco Franco at the Elpardo Palace at noon today.

Lord Templeton, the former Sir Samuel Hoare, is to return to London by plane tomorrow. The matters he discussed with Franco were not announced. His successor has not been named.

American Ambassador Carlton J. H. Hayes is expected to have an audience with Franco soon.

Gangway! Janis Is Coming Home From the War

London, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Look out Broadway—Janis Thompson is coming home and she's going to be f-e-m-i-n-i-n-e. She spelled it out herself, and she's got a new Paris creation and a lot of fine French perfume to help along her ambition.

"I've been in battle-dress so long I can't remember how a woman's dress looks, or feels," she sighed. "But look out, Broadway. . . ."

If you don't know who Janis Thompson is, you might ask about a million G. I.'s in Alaska, the Aleutians, the Caribbean, Newfoundland, England, Belgium, Holland and France. They'll tell you she's a dancer with a U. S. O. unit who has been hitting the battlefront circuit since Pearl Harbor. Her present tour started in November, 1943, and brought her through Iceland to England and on to the continent.

"Ive lived about half of the last six months in or near foxholes," she says. "I've had shells pass overhead while I danced. Once a building we had just left after a show was blown up by a bomb.

"I've been overseas so long that when the boys ask me what's it like back home, I have to get them to tell me.

"Once I waited for a colonel I was to meet only to learn he had been killed by a sniper two days before. There are things like that, and wounded men and men with hands blown off by booby traps or legs by mines. It makes you hate the Germans.

"And now I'm going home. I'm going to give Broadway a good look, and a good look at me. I'll try to get down to Miami Beach. Then I want to go to the Pacific. I'm a U. S. O. dancer for the duration. I want to get back among the troops."

Miss Thompson was named Janis for Elsie Janis, popular entertainer of the last war. Her home is with her mother, Mrs. Joseph H. Thompson, at 30 Daniel Low Terrace, St. George, Staten Island.

River Flood Stalls Drive On Faenza

Only Patrol Action Is Reported in Vicinity Of Lamone Bridgehead.

ROME, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Eighth army offensive aimed at the north Italian road-hub town of Faenza was brought to a standstill today as floods from the Apennines turned the Lamone river into a raging torrent. Capture of Faenza would unlock the entire German defense system behind the river.

Recent heavy rains have raised the Lamone to a depth of from seven to eight feet and created a current of from eight to 10 miles an hour.

Only patrol action was reported in the vicinity of the Lamone bridgehead south and west of Faenza following heavy fighting that preceded the floods. Last night's operations weer limited to patrol activity north of Ravenna and along the Lamone above Highway Nine and south to Faenza.

Patrols Active

Patrols also were active in the hills southwest of Faenza, where the Allied bridgehead is now more than five miles deep.

It was officially announced that four enemy planes probably were shot down over the Fifth army front Sunday night and early Monday when the Luftwaffe reappeared on the Italian front.

The German planes inflicted damage and some casualties as they dropped incendiary and anti-personnel bombs and strafed Allied lines of communication.

Units of the Fifth army patroled the hill regions south and southeast of Bologna yesterday and engaged the Wehrmacht in a series of heavy battles. To the west German artillery fire was unusually heavy all day along the Tyrhennian coast.

One enemy attack was repulsed with losses four miles northwest of San Clemente, southeast of Bologna.

Nazi Air Force Back In Italy: Yanks Raked

Rome, Dec. 12 (AP)—The German air force has returned to the Italian battle areas, swooping down over the 5th Army front, bombing and strafing troops and communications, Allied headquarters announced today.

As the Nazi airmen made these attacks yesterday the Lamone River rose to a depth of seven or eight feet, after a week of heavy rain, slowing down 8th Army operations in eastern Italy to patrols north of Ravenna and above Faenza.

React To Thrust

The Germans reacted strongly to 5th Army patrol thrusts south and southeast of Bologna and made several small-scale counterattacks during the day.

German artillery was strongly active along the west coast and central fronts. In one fifteen-minute period their guns poured more than 700 rounds into one region of the 5th Army sector. At about the same time six or eight enemy aircraft zoomed over Highway 65 leading into Bologna, strafing the Lolano area.

Vienna Area Bombed

Medium forces of escorted United States 15th Air Force heavy bombers attacked an oil refinery, an ordnance depot and railway yards in the Vienna area yesterday and other heavy bombers attacked railway yards at Graz.

In all the Mediterranean Allied Air Force flew approximately 1,900 sorties, from which 25 planes failed to return. Two enemy aircraft were destroyed. The operations included attacks against tactical targets on the 8th Army front and road and rail traffic in Yugoslavia.

Eight Italian Spies Exectued By Allies

Rome, Dec. 12 (AP)—Eight Italian spies ranging in age from 20 to 27 have been executed after conviction by Allied military courts, it was announced today in a statement describing spy schools set up by Germans in occupied Italy.

The Germans use promises of large rewards, threats of blackmail and clever propaganda to hire spies, the announcement said, but disguise the danger of the work.

"The Germans are well aware from the numbers of their agents who do not return that Allied countermeasures are effective and take a heavy toll," it said.

Baltimore Soldier Advances In Interallied Ring Tourney

DEC 13 1944

By SID FEDER

Rome, Dec. 12 (AP)—Three of four defending titleholders showed their stuff tonight in the second annual inter-Allied boxing tournament and there appeared little reason to believe they couldn't go right on being bosses.

After Marcel Cerdan, flailing French sailor, put his professional middleweight opponent to sleep in 70 seconds on the afternoon card, Private Larry Cisneros, Los Angeles, frontline infantryman and a ringer for Tony Canzoneri, became the big hit of the night session by outpointing Private Dixie Fleming, Las Vegas (Nev.) Negro, to reach the pro welterweight semi-finals. Cisneros' performance was the standout of the night show.

The third defending champ, Gunner Rene Pons, of the French Army, had an easy time taking a decision over British Corporal James Connolly in the pro featherweight class.

Pons reached the finals along with Corporal Henry Jones, rugged Detroit Negro, in the pro heavyweight division, and Corporal Melvyn Pullen, Dayton, Ohio, in the amateur bantamweight class. Jones outpointed Sergeant Major George Markwick, a big Britisher. Pullen knocked out Private Alphonse Johnson, Washington, in the second round.

Private Leon Atkins, Baltimore, outpointed A. M. Jakes, British Army, to reach the amateur middleweight semi-finals, while Private Richard Ward, Philadelphia, advanced to the amateur lightweight semi-finals by default.

Gen. Scobie Informs Elas Leader of Peace Terms

DEC 13 19

By Stephen Barber

ATHENS, Dec. 12 (AP)—While heavy fighting raged in sections of Athens, Maj. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, informed an emissary of the EAM-Elas forces today that they must cease hostilities and surrender their arms before any settlement could be reached in the civil strife.

Representative of EAM

These conditions were handed to Miltiades Porphyrogenis, representative of the EAM (National Liberation Party), a Communist and former minister of labor in the cabinet of Premier George Papandreou, who was brought to the British headquarters in a British Army vehicle.

The Leftists' peace feeler which resulted in the meeting between Scobie and Porphyrogenis came shortly after the British commander had conferred with Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander and British Minister of State Harold MacMillan, who arrived in Athens yesterday.

Alexander, Allied commander in the Mediterranean, left the city this morning.

Scobie, it was announced officially, said that as soon as the conditions were fulfilled he would inform Alexander, who would take the steps necessary to end the turmoil in Greece and restore democratic liberties, "the first step to which must be the disbandment of all private parties."

No Subsequent Report

Porphyrogenis returned to his headquarters with the British requirements for restoration of peace and there has been no subsequent report of further negotiation.

There has been no let-up in the hostilities which continued with increased ferocity during the morning. The Elas (fighting arm of the EAM) sent the heaviest shellfire yet into the center of the city.

Elas snipers returned to some sections from which they previously had been driven by the British and Greek regulars. The latter were slowed by mines as well as the snipers. Several large fires started by Elas' dynamiting and incendiaries burned unchecked.

Shortly after his meeting with the EAM delegate, Scobie drove through the sniping, standing upright in the front seat of a scout car, to inspect the British forward positions. He wore his red-banded general's cap and his medals.

A communique from his headquarters said "the general situation has improved little."

GREEK LEFTISTS GET PEACE TERMS

London, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander arrived in Athens today and will take the necessary steps to end the fratricidal strife there as soon as the ELAS—armed forces of the EAM, or National Liberation Front—have evacuated the Athens-Piræus area and laid down their arms, the British Foreign Office announced tonight.

These terms were submitted by Major-Gen. R. M. Scobie, commanding the British troops in Greece, to an EAM representative, Milciades Porphyronyennis, former Communist member of Premier George Papandreou's Government:

1. ELAS troops must remain under Gen. Scobie's orders.

2. All ELAS supporters in the Athens-Piræus area must hand in their arms and evacuate the area.

3. Once this is done, Field Marshal Alexander will "initiate the necessary steps to put an end to the present turmoil in Greece and restore to all Greeks, whatever their opinions, the peaceful enjoyment of their democratic liberties, the first step of which must be the disbandment of all private armies."

Earlier today a British communique admitted heavy fighting in progress in Piraeus.

Heavy fighting in Piraeus was acknowledged in a British communique today even as Prime Minister Churchill's two envoys—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander and Cabinet Minister Harold MacMillan—arrived in Athens in an attempt to end the Greek dispute.

Major-Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, commanding the British forces in Greece, announced: "There has been no slackening of rebel resistance and, although some progress has been made in Piræus and several sectors of the city, the general situation has improved little. British reinforcements have landed and some progress has been made during the last twelve hours against heavy resistance. Elsewhere in Greece the position is generally uneasy."

British Losses Small In ELAS Clashes: Eden

London, Dec. 12 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told Commons today he understood that British casualties in the present fighting against the ELAS in Athens were "happily, very small." He had no detailed figures.

In fighting to free Greece and Crete since the beginning of the war British imperial forces suffered 40,000 casualties and lost nearly 500 aircraft, he said.

Most of the casualties were incurred in 1941, when the British launched an unsuccessful expedition into Greece.

The Royal Navy, Eden said, had suffered heavily—losing five cruisers, thirteen destroyers, three submarines, one sloop and 47 minor vessels. Three battleships were among vessels badly damaged.

"It must be remembered that in those days we were all alone against a victorious Germany and Italy and in dire peril," Eden explained.

Rebels Shell Athens.

Athens, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Continuing their all-out efforts to break into the center of the city, the Left Wing ELAS forces today sent shells crashing into Athens. The ELAS, the armed militia of the Leftist EAM political party, began the attempt to drive into the heart of Athens last night, and at dawn today British planes shot up ELAS reinforcements moving on the capital from Anoliosia, five miles to the northwest.

Later on today several shells fell near the center of Athens, some near British Headquarters, and flames swept through numerous buildings. Fires in the market place threatened to get beyond control. Water supplies were cut off in large sections of the city.

British troops installed in the Post Office and ELAS forces occupying the Town Hall fought a three-hour battle during the night. A tank intervened, firing on the Town Hall's upper stories and starting a fire. But this morning the ELAS reoccupied the rest of the Town Hall and the adjacent streets.

Yesterday ELAS mortar shells damaged a barracks used by enlisted men of the American Air Transport Command, but there were no casualties.

[In a second broadcast from Athens today NBC reported that "two more Americans have been injured." The British radio said in a broadcast picked up at New York by CBS that a British patrol in Thessaly fell into an ambush south of Volo and suffered losses.]

An impartial source described leaders of both the leftist political party, the EAM, and its militia arm, the ELAS, as "realizing now that they will eventually lose" the bloody conflict with British and regular Greek troops.

Alexander In Greece

Declaring the Le wing leaders were now "relenting in their demands" that the Government of Premier George Papandreou make way for another in which they would have control, this source said the ELAS troops would withdraw from Athens and all the Department of Attica in return for guarantees that none would be prosecuted.

[In London, the Daily Mail said Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, new supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, had been sent to Greece with personal instructions from Prime Minister Churchill "to end the fighting as quickly as possible, provided this can be done with the full assurance of future peace and co-operation among the political parties."

[The Mail said Alexander was accompanied by Harold MacMillan, British resident Minister to Allied Mediterranean headquarters.]

Regency Urged

The possibility of a peace, or at least a truce, also was strengthened by publisher Dimitri Lambrakis, who has been working overtime as a negotiator. It reported EAM leaders as mu ore conciliatory than they wer eek ago.

Lambrakis ed that establishment of a would help Greece emerge from the tragic impasse she is in." He declared that "it is imperative" that King George II "accept the setting up of a regency as suggested by political leaders."

The fighting is costing both sides heavy in casualties. No official figures have been issued on the British side, but they are mounting. It is estimated that the ELAS have lost 4,500 killed, wounded and captured. This is believed to be nearly ten per cent of the whole ELAS strength.

A British soldier was killed near British headquarters in central Athens by ELAS shellfire yesterday. ELAS mortar shells damaged a barracks used by enlisted men of the American Air Transport Command, but there were no casualties.

Eyewitness Accuses Greeks.

The British are holding back to a great extent for fear of causing unnecessary damage, but the same cannot be said for the Greeks. The hatred that exists between the Partisans of the Greek Left and Right is causing lies, accusations and expressions of bitterness to fly about more thickly even than the bullets.

Stephen Barber, a seasoned observer and war correspondent of the Associated Press, writes: "Hospitals and churches have been turned into military objectives. The Red Cross has been fired on by the ELAS, and, in fairness, I must say that I have seen the Red Cross abused by the Greek civil police also. The British Tommies, who cannot be accused of political bias, have told me that hospital nurses have been discovered with grenades secreted in their blouses, supposed patients have been found covered with fake bandages, and food baskets have been stuffed with ammunition.

"Some authoritative persons think there is more than one German agent at work here. One captured ELAS officer told me that the Russians with the ELAS left fifteen days ago, when they were ordered to do so by the Soviet mission in Athens."

'Lies Fly Thick In Greece'

By Stephen Barber

Athens, Dec. 11 [AP—Delayed]. The hatred that exists between the Partisans of the Greek Left and Right is causing lies, accusations and expressions of bitterness to fly about even more thickly than bullets in the battle for Athens.

The British are holding back to a great extent for fear of doing unnecessary damage, but the same cannot be said for the Greeks.

Hospitals and churches have been turned into military objectives. The Red Cross has been fired on by the ELAS and, in fairness, I must say that I have seen the Red Cross abused by the Greek civil police.

Nurses With Grenades

British tommies, who cannot be accused of political bias, have told me that hospital nurses have been discovered with grenades secreted in their blouses, "patients" have been found covered with fake bandages, and food baskets have been stuffed with ammunition.

As I write this dispatch mortar bombs are exploding with depressingly increasing accuracy around the pressroom near the British headquarters and temporary Government seat—the Grande Bretagne Hotel.

"Nobody can throw mortars like that but Jerry," opines our public relations dispatch rider, Teddy Evans. Some authoritative quarters think there is more than one German agent at work here.

Russians Leave ELAS

One ELAS officer who was taken prisoner, a Major Georgiades, told me his battalion included eighteen Italians and that in other formations there were several dozen Germans who had deserted from the Nazi army. He said that Russians with the ELAS left fifteen days ago when they were ordered to do so by the Soviet mission in Athens.

Crucial Athens Battle Seen

New York, Dec. 12—Guthrie Janssen, of NBC, broadcasting from Athens today, said a decisive battle appeared to be in the making and "I don't know how long I can go on sending you these broadcasts—communications may be cut at anytime."

"The rest of Greece is under ELAS control," the reporter said, "except for the lower half of the Piraeus Peninsula, where the British made some advances yesterday.

"ELAS is co-ordinating and will doubtless try to force a decisive battle within the next few days, before more British reinforcements can arrive."

British Near Jap Burma Stronghold

Southeast Asia Headquarters, Ceylon, Dec. 12 (AP)—British 14th Army troops driving south along the Kalewa-Yeu road in western Burma have advanced toward Shwegyin with East African units battering their way within 500 yards of that Japanese stronghold.

A communiqué from Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters also announced that a series of heavy air assaults had forced the enemy from hill positions 5 miles east of Kalewa.

Allied Troops Near Shwegyin In Burma

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Dec. 12 (AP)—East African troops battering the Japanese southward along the Kalewa-Yeu road in the western Burma jungles have driven to within 500 yards of the enemy stronghold of Shwegyin, Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten's headquarters announced today.

His communique said repeated heavy air attacks had forced the Japanese to withdraw from hill positions five miles east of Kalewa.

Chinese Push Dozen Miles Into Kwangsi

CHUNGKING, Dec. 12, (AP)—Chinese troops, advancing a dozen miles into Kwangsi province down the Kweichow-Kwangsi railway, captured the railway town of Nantan and the nearby town of Mangling today, the Chinese high command announced.

The Japanese, now ousted from Kweichow after an ambitious invasion of that province, are retreating toward Hochih, 25 miles farther down the railway, the Chinese said, after having suffered heavy losses.

An American communique said close air support was being given to the advancing Chinese, with the enemy being bombed out of strong points and then strafed in the open.

While the Chinese took heart from their continuing successes on that southern front, they were pulling in troops from the north to meet an anticipated massive renewal of the Japanese effort.

These fresh troops, whose exact origins were not disclosed, possibly were drawn from the area where they have been keeping watch on the Chinese communist forces.

Their passage through Chungking created great enthusiasm and they were showered with gifts of food and clothing.

Meanwhile the northward flight of refugees in Kweichow province continued. Deaths from hunger and exposure were reported increasing.

Chinese Troops Go Southward

Chungking, Dec. 12 (AP)—Chinese troops from the north streamed southward today through Chungking as other Chinese drove down the Kweichow-Kwangsi railway in pursuit of Japanese retreating from Kweichow province, the high command said.

The high command appeared intent upon full preparation for any new Japanese assault upon the province. The sight of the troop movement southward spread relief throughout this wartime capital. The populace showered the marching soldiers with gifts.

Rail Town Taken

On the fighting front the Chinese took the rail town of Liuchai, just inside the Kwangsi border and pushed onward toward Nantan, 120 miles northwest of fallen Liuchow, former site of a United States air base. At last reports from the field the Chinese were only a few miles from Nantan.

There was no indication whether the troops from the north were drawn from the ranks of those who have been held down by the communists, but it seemed likely.

Soldiers Given Food

Organizations presented the soldiers soap, toothbrushes and cotton-padded vests. Peasants offered pickled vegetables, and some luckier troops even received live pigs.

At the same time long trains of refugees continued a miserable flight northward from Kweichow in all manner of vehicles.

United States 14th Air Force flyers gave close support to the Chinese infantry on the Kwangsi front.

Chinese General, Staff Escape From Japanese

CHUNGKING, Dec. 12 (AP)—Gen. Fang Hsien-Chueh, commander of China's 10th Army, who was taken prisoner when Hengyang fell after a 47 days siege last August, has arrived here safely with several of his staff officers after a dramatic escape from the Japanese, it was announced today.

Fang called on Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek yesterday to report on the battle of Hengyang and describe his escape, details of which have not yet been made public.

New Armed Insurrection Reported In Salvador

San Jose, Costa Rica, Dec. 12 (AP). Dispatches received today from Guatemala indicated that an armed uprising has broken out in the Salvadorean province of Ahuachapan near the Guatemalan border.

Rebel forces rising against the Government of President Osmin Aguirre Salinas were reported engaged in "violent encounters" with the Salvadorean national guards.

Representatives of the Salvadorean Government in exile at Guatemala were quoted as saying an "invasion" of Salvador by Salvadorean revolutionists appeared "imminent." They were quoted as saying that Dr. Thomas Miguel Molina, head of the Government in exile, plans to establish a government on Salvadorean territory.

Greater Power Urged For World Assembly

Mexico City, Dec. 12 (AP)—Mexican Foreign Minister Ezequiel Padilla suggested yesterday that the Dumbarton Oaks plan for a world security organization be revised to give greater authority to the assembly, to which all member states, large and small, would belong.

The limited authority granted the assembly by the Dumbarton Oaks plan "is equivalent to complete control" by the council of great powers in all essential matters, he declared.

Montreal Elects C. Houde Mayor For Fifth Time

MONTREAL, Dec. 12 (AP)—Montreal, Canada's largest city, has voted itself three years of government likely to provide frequent clashes with both the Quebec provincial government and the Dominion administration in Ottawa.

In Camillien Houde, a political firebrand chiefly of local significance, the city on Monday elected for the fifth time a mayor who is a lone wolf in politics with great popular appeal to the average French-speaking citizen of this predominantly French-speaking metropolis.

Although Houde was interned for four years—he was released only four months ago—after urging as mayor that Montreal citizens refuse to comply with national manpower registration regulations, his reelection by a comfortable majority has little bearing on the English-French racial rift which flared into the recent Dominion-shaking conscription crisis.

Houde is a local phenomenon whose significance cuts across strictly English-French issues. He is a long-time personal foe of Maurice Duplessis, present Quebec premier who was elected on a platform of opposition to the Liberal party government in Ottawa. On the other hand he is a bitter opponent himself of the Ottawa regime under Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Expected Fireworks Fail to Develop—Stettinius Outlines Goals of State Dept.—Each Of Six Appointees Testifies.

By Douglas B. Cornell

DEC 13 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The much-advertised fireworks failed to go off today as Secretary of State Stettinius led six chosen aides before inquiring senators and declared his aim is a "liberal foreign policy."

Fierce Questioning

Fierce questioning had been forecast ever since the Senate sent the nominations of four of the men back to committee for study. Senators had complained that some of the nominees were too close to "Wall Street" and, conversely, there were murmurs that Archibald MacLeish was perhaps a bit too leftish and unequipped for the job of assistant secretary.

But today, as the foreign relations committee heard statements form Stettinius and the nominees, questions were few and far between. And when the questioning led into areas that Chairman Connally (D-Tex) considered improper, he flagged the questioners down.

For example, Senator Murray (D-Mont) demanded to know whether British Prime Minister Churchill was forcing the United States to "play second fiddle" to Britain in Greece. Connally remarked that it was of "very doubtful propriety" for Senators to seek a State Department official's interpretation of Churchill's "back stairs views" on such a subject.

Connally later predicted prompt Senate confirmation of the six—Joseph C. Grew, named to be under secretary; and Will L. Clayton, Nelson Rockefeller, James C. Dunn, Brig. Julius C. Holmes and MacLeish, prospective assistant secretaries.

Chandler Unhappy

Senator Chandler (D-Ky), who is not a member of the committee, wasn't exactly happy about not being invited to question the witnesses today.

"This was not the way to get any information about these fellows," he said. "I had a lot of questions ready to ask them but I didn't get a chance. However, I expect to take some time in the Senate to discuss this matter."

Stettinius, who became secretary of state a fortnight ago, gave his first detailed enunciation of the policies which will guide him. They were devoid of gaudy innovations.

"We need a state department," he said, "which can carry out in the interests of the United States a liberal and forward-looking foreign policy with level-headed and businesslike effectiveness."

He thus epitomized the revamped state department's goals.

"(1) The fullest possible support in the conduct of our foreign relations for our armed forces, so that the war may be won at the earliest possible moment.

Effective Steps

"(2) Effective steps to prevent Germany and Japan, after victory by the United Nations, from again acquiring the power to wage aggressive war.

"(3) Establishment at the earliest possible moment of a United Nations organiaztion capable of building and maintaining the peace—by force if necessary—for generations to come."

"(4) Agreement on measures to promote a great expansion of our foreign trade and of productiveness and trade throughout the world, so that we can maintain full employment in our own country and—together with the other United Nations—enter an era of constantly expanding production and consumption and of rising standards of living.

"(5) Encouragement of all those conditions of international life favorable to the development by men and women everywhere of the institutions of a free and democratic way of life, in accordance with their own customs and desires."

Stettinius asked for Senate endorsement of his program through confirmation of the six aides.

Caucus Room

The hearing was held in the austere, marble-walled Senate caucus room, where the legislators sat at glistening mahogany tables.

Spectators had waited nn long lines for the doors to open, then filled all the 500 esats. Diplomats and dowagers turned up and mingled with Senators' wives and plain people.

There was a fleeting flash of drama when aged Senator Johnson (R-Calif), who helped block American entry into the League of Nations, asked Dunn in a low, quavering voice what had become of the Atlantic charter and the four freedoms.

America, Dunn said, still adheres to the principles of the charter, as well as all her principles and policies. The four freedoms, he added, were not part of the charter.

Stettinius, still a relative newcomer to the State department, exhibited a measure of diplomatic skill in ducking out of the way of some barbed questions without offending the questioner.

He would be "delighted," he said, to discuss exhaustively at a closed committee session "what he considers the foreign policy of the United States should be." That was in answer to Senator Shipstead (R-Minn).

Britain's Lead

Senator Guffey (D-Pa) wanted to know whether it was departmental policy to follow Britain's lead in European affairs and the Far East.

Stettinius replied that he believed policies of the President and former secretary Cordell Hull had worked very well up to the present.

From none of the nominees did the committee obtain anything but cautious generalities on the troubled Italian and Greek situations.

Sharp interrogation had been expected for MacLeish and Clayton. Clayton may get some tomorrow morning, when he is due to be questioned but MacLeish was quizzed today only by Senator Clark (D-Mo).

The librarian of Congress, who will take over public and cultural relations for the State department, if the Senate approves him, declared himself "strongly against communism."

"I have always fought it in this country," he said. "I am against it in any society in which I live."

Clayton may have headed off some trouble for himself by asserting in his formal statement today that "nothing could be farther from the truth" than that he believed in cartels.

Denounce Cartels

Slated to head up economic activities in the department, the former cotton merchant said there was a tendency in some places to denounce cartels when they involve things we buy and favor them, under a different name, on what we sell. He added:

Senators Examine F.D.R.'s Nominees

"A cartel smells the same to me by whatever name it may be called or for whatever commercial purpose it may be organized."

He said he subscribed without reservation to Hull's views on international economic matters—views which embrace a reciprocal trade agreements program.

Grew, a green tie providing a bloc of color between gray suit and gray mustache, asserted that the main objective when American troops get to Tokyo will be to "render it impossible for Japan again to threaten world peace." For a decade before Pearl Harbor he was ambassador to Tokyo.

"We shall have to take specific measures to demilitarize Japan, both physically and intellectually," he said. "This will obviously include, among other things, the destruction of the Japanese military machine and the destruction of their tools of war and the paraphernalia for making those tools of war in the future."

Decision On Hirohito

A decision on what to do with Emperor Hirohito also must wait until American fighting men march into the Nipponese capital, he asserted. Furthermore, he said, he had never held the belief nor stated that the emperor should either be retained or eliminated after the war.

The nominations of Grew and the others encountered a protest from the Congress of Industrial Organizations that they "do not provide a balanced team for the conduct of our foreign affairs in the crucial years immediately ahead."

President Philip Murray sent the foreign relations committee a statement asking for a careful scrutiny of each appointee.

Hirohito's Fate To Wait Until War Concluded

Grew Tells Senators Best To Wait for Nipponese Reaction.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—Uncle Sam will wait and see what develops before deciding the post-war fate of the Japanese emperor.

This American policy toward the focus of the Japanese military spirit—emperor worship—today appeared to crystallize in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

Joseph C. Grew, last American ambassador to Japan and the choice of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius for the job of under-secretary of state, told senators considering his appointment that the United States had better put off until American troops get to Tokyo a decision on what to do with Emperor Hirohito.

It was assumed that he spoke with the approval—if not the complete agreement—of both the President and Stettinius, and that therefore his aspect of American policy toward post-war Japan is pretty well decided for the time being.

Statement Ready

Grew had his statement all ready to read when Senator Guffey (D-Pa) asked about the emperor.

He testified that no one can tell now whether, after Tokyo is taken, it would be wise to keep the emperor on because there's no way of knowing now what Japanese reaction to defeat is going to be.

The main job, Grew added, will be to see that Japan never again can menace the peace.

The preponderant Chinese view on what to do with the Japanese emperor, as reported in Chungking dispatches, is that he must be eliminated in order to provide no foundation on which future Japanese militarism can build again.

Those who disagree cite what happened in Germany after the last war when the Kaiser was deposed but German militarism rose again.

Stettinius's Statement to Senators

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP).—Following is the text of the statement read by Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today:

May I, first of all, express my deep appreciation for the generous confidence which this committee and the Senate placed in me when confirming my nomination by the President as Secretary of State. I assume the duties of this office with a full realization of the grave responsibilities that have now passed to me in this challenging period of our history. I am strengthened for the task by the example of my predecessor, Cordell Hull—who is one of the truly great statesmen of our times and whose principles and objectives will continue to be guiding posts for our foreign policy in the days ahead. It was one of the most inspiring experiences of my life to serve under Cordell Hull during the last year and I hope and believe that his health will soon permit me to have the continuing benefit of his wisdom and counsel in the days ahead.

The task before our country is a very great one. Together with the other United Nations we must carry through to complete and final victory the great war in which we are now engaged. Together with the other United Nations we must, at the same time, continue building the foundations of a secure and lasting peace in which there will be wider freedom and opportunity for our own people and for all peoples. This is a task which can be accomplished only in full co-operation with the Congress and with the participation, understanding and support of the whole American people.

In the months and years ahead the United States will have far greater responsibilities in world affairs than ever before in our history. We have great moral and material power, which we must exercise in the long-range mutual interests of our own people and of the peoples of other nations.

Major Objectives Listed

Our major objectives may be stated very briefly, as follows:

(1) The fullest possible support in the conduct of our foreign relations for our armed forces, so that the war may be won at the earliest possible moment.

(2) Effective steps to prevent Germany and Japan, after victory by the United Nations, from again acquiring the power to wage aggressive war.

(3) Establishment at the earliest possible moment of a United Nations organization capable of building and maintaining the peace—by force if necessary—for generations to come.

(4) Agreement on measures to promote a great expansion of our foreign trade and of productiveness and trade throughout the world, so that we can maintain full employment in our own country and—together with the other United Nations—enter an era of constantly expanding production and consumption and of rising standards of living.

(5) Encouragement of all those conditions of international life favorable to the development by men and women everywhere of the institutions of a free and democratic way of life, in accordance with their own customs and desires.

These are the major objectives toward which the Department of State is working, under the President's direction and in close co-operation with the Congress. We shall not achieve them over night. Their achievement will require months and years of constant and effective work by all of us.

With the wise guidance of Cordell Hull we have made a beginning on these tasks. But we have much more to do and we have no time to lose.

Among our first requirements is to build up the strength of the Department of State so that it will be able to meet the much heavier responsibilities which it must from now on assume. We need a State Department which can carry out in the interests of the United States a liberal and forward-looking foreign policy with level-headed and businesslike effectiveness. That is the kind of a Department of State we all desire.

During the last year the first steps have been taken to strengthen the department. We have improved our organization and have brought in new men to work with the existing staff. Now that the Congress has approved creation of two additional posts of Assistant Secretary of State, we are ready to take further steps in this direction.

Our plan calls for six Assistant Secretaries of State in addition to the Secretary and the Under Secretary. The operations of the department will be regrouped under these assistants and this new organizational framework will then make possible further strengthening of the department down the line on a continuing basis. However, we cannot carry through this program until the men who will work on it with me are established in office.

At your invitation, the team which the President and I have chosen to assist me in directing the Department of State is with me here today. The nominations of six of them are now before you for confirmation. I welcome this opportunity to present them to you and to discuss with you their qualifications for the positions to which they have been nominated. Each of them is, in my opinion, wholly qualified by character, experience and abilities for the responsibilities he has been asked to assume. Each of them, I believe, wholeheartedly supports the principles and objectives of the foreign policy of the United States as they have been expressed by the President, by Mr. Hull, and by the Congress.

Our choice for Under Secretary of State is the Honorable Joseph C. Grew. He has devoted forty years to serving our country with great distinction and honor in the conduct of our foreign relations in all parts of the world. He has served three years as Under Secretary of State and nine years as Ambassador to Japan. He knows at first hand both Fascism and aggression and hates them both. As Under Secretary he would be a strong right arm in the tasks of building now for a more democratic world after victory and of making peace secure.

Under our reorganization plan, Dean Acheson, who has served the Department with distinction as Assistant Secretary of State for the last four years, will continue in that capacity, but with a new assignment. I want to tell you about it, even though his name is not before you for confirmation. He will be in charge of Congressional relations and international conferences. He will seek to keep the Congress currently informed of all developments in our foreign relations and generally to maintain the strongest and closest possible working relationship between the Department, the Foreign Relations Committee and other committees of Congress. I regard this as of the utmost importance and I know that you will agree with me that Mr. Acheson is ideally suited to the task. His responsibility in connection with international conferences is a new departure and is made necessary both by the greatly increased importance to us of our participation in international conferences and by the imperative need of keeping in close touch at all stages in the work of these conferences with the members of Congress.

The geographical divisions of the department will be regrouped, under the reorganization plan, under two Assistant Secretaries of State—one for all countries except the Americas, and the other for American republics affairs. For the first position the President has nominated James C. Dunn and for the second Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Mr. Dunn was one of Mr. Hull's most valued lieutenants in the State Department throughout his twelve years as Secretary of State. He served as his special assistant, as adviser on political relations and as director of the Office of European Affairs. He was Mr. Hull's political adviser at Moscow, when the Moscow four-nation declaration was agreed upon. In the work of preparing for and carrying through to success the Dumbarton Oaks conference Mr. Dunn was of great value to me. I have the highest confidence in his ability to fill the post of Assistant Secretary with distinction and with benefit to our country.

Mr. Rockefeller has served as Co-ordinator of Inter-American Affairs since 1940. Before that he was president of Rockefeller Center in New York. As co-ordinator Mr. Rockefeller has done much in the last four years to develop better understanding and closer relations among the American republics in support of the Good Neighbor policy and of the war effort. He knows intimately both the governments and peoples of our neighbor republics. As Assistant Secretary of State he would be, I believe, unusually well qualified by a combination of experience, energy and judgment to contribute much to further strengthening of inter-American relationships in the days ahead.

For the post of Assistant Secretary of State in charge of foreign economic affairs the President has nominated William L. Clayton. Before entering the government in 1940 Mr. Clayton had been engaged for more than twenty-five years in the cotton business in many parts of the world. He has thus had a long business experience in foreign trade. Since 1940 he has served the government with distinction as Deputy Federal Loan Administrator, then as Assistant Secretary of Commerce and finally as Surplus War Property Administrator. He was a member of the United States delegation at the Food and Agricultural Conference at Hot Springs. He has worked closely with the department on many matters involving foreign economic affairs. I believe he would bring to the department great executive ability, practical experience and wholehearted support for the liberal economic objectives of our foreign policy.

The post of Assistant Secretary of State in charge of public and cultural relations is a new one in the department. It covers current activities and future problems of great importance to our foreign relations. To this position the President has nominated Archibald MacLeish, Librarian of Congress since 1939. I believe that the new problems involved in making a secure peace require that much fuller information about United States foreign policy should be made available through the established press, radio and other media both to the people of this country and the people of other countries. I also believe that further advances in the co-operative exchange of scientific, technical and professional knowledge among all peoples and the promotion of freedom of information throughout the world are of equal importance for the same reason. Mr. MacLeish has been a soldier, lawyer, editor, writer and—as Librarian of Congress—a proven executive whose experience and abilities ideally qualify him in my opinion to take up these responsibilities under my direction.

For the other Assistant Secretaryship, the President has names Brigadier General Julius C. Holmes. He would be in charge of administration and management for the Department of State and the Foreign Service. General Holmes was in the Foreign Service and the State Department from 1925 to 1937, when he entered private business. In this war he has served with General Eisenhower in the Mediterranean theater and on the European continent. He is now deputy chief of staff for civil affairs in the European theater. General Eisenhower and the War Department have reluctantly consented to release him for this highly important task.

30-24 — 21191

Would Expand Service

I look forward to an invigorated and enlarged foreign service and Department of State in which there will be new and greater opportunities for able men from all walks of life to serve their country, including returning members of the armed forces, whose experience we shall need in the field of foreign relations after the war. General Holmes has been chosen in order to carry forward under my direction the strengthening of the department and the foreign service toward these objectives.

With your approval, I have been given the responsibility of running the Department of State under the President's direction. These are the men whom the President and I have chosen to assist me in that job. They have been chosen only for the abilities which we believe they can contribute to the work of the State Department and to the conduct of a progressive and vigorous foreign policy which will express as nearly as possible the will of the whole American people.

They are here today to speak for themselves and to answer any questions that you may care to put to them.

We have a tremendous job ahead. I am naturally anxious to put into effect as rapidly as possible the program for reorganization and strengthening the Department of State. The war will not wait, nor should we delay in carrying forward the planning essential for the peace. We must move effectively and rapidly now to meet our responsibilities to the men in our armed forces and to their families.

But I also believe that it is only by understanding each other and working together that we can achieve that unity based on democratic processes of give and take which is one of the fundamental strengths of our country. This hearing is a part of our democratic processes at work. In that spirit these men welcome the opportunity to appear here, as I do.

Bill Doyle Applauds Again And Sure Enough, Out He Goes

DEC 13 1944

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The State Department on parade drew a capacity house before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today and Bill Doyle got thrown out on his ear again.

Bill does it all the time but he doesn't usually have such select company.

He always is applauding when he is supposed to keep quiet and the gendarmes take over.

Bill was part of the big crowd on hand to hear Edward R. Stettinius, Secretary of State, and his new staff testify about their qualifications to hold their jobs.

Attendance High

It was the best attendance the said old Senate caucus room could boast since the day the midget was placed on J. P. Morgan's astonished knee.

The crowd arrived early, stood in a queue for an hour to get in. The police finally had to take over and start inquiring why you wanted in.

Mr. Bill Doyle, of Washington, D.C., dressed nattily as usual, got his place early, standing right behind Senator Hiram Johnson. He just likes to go to Senate committee hearings.

He was good a long time. Chairman Connally (D., Texas) had to remonstrate only in a general way with the crowd about showing any favoritism.

Then He "Breaks Down"

Bill stood it through Stettinius and Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes, who boarded a plane for Europe right after he finished. Something about Joseph Clark Grew, the newly appointed Under Secretary, rang the bell. As he completed his statement, Bill rocked the place with applause.

"There's Bill again," chuckled Senator Clark (D., Mo.), "He does it all the time."

The police invited Bill to leave at this point, using one of their special arm-grabbing inducements.

Areas' Requests

Freed Nations Seek Help In Restoring Shattered Economies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The liberated countries were notified today that Allied war needs must take priority over their appeals for materials to restore their shattered economies.

Urgent pleas for "everything from horseshoe nails for Sicily and fish hooks for the Greeks to water-pumping machinery for The Netherlands" have been received, the combined production and resources board and the combined raw materials board reported.

"This indicates that even as the United States, Britain and Canada are reaching the peak of their military and war production effort, they are being called upon to give help to again start industry within the liberated areas," the joint statement of the English-American-Canadian boards said.

Allocations Made

"Although allocations are being made and shopping licenses issued, the amount that can be delivered to liberated areas is severely limited by other demands on United Nations' shipping and by limitations of port facilities and inland transportation in Europe. Military needs must inevitably come first."

The appeals to the relief and rehabilitation section of the twin boards include requests for 700 steam locomotives for military transportation in France, 60,000 railway freight cars for liberated Europe, coal-mining machinery for Spitzbergen, highway repair machinery for Italy, and diesel and steampower generating equipment for several areas, the statement said.

Raw cotton, to be converted in French mills to tent duck for Allied armies, has also been sought, along with such odds and ends for foreign use as sewing needles, postoffice forms for the Balkans, ration book covers, pesticides, water-supply purifiers and dental equipment.

War Needs Put Over Liberated

Rivers and Harbors, Flood Control Bills Pass Senate

DEC 13 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Senate completed work on two big water-use programs today but rejected the controversial St. Lawrence seaway project.

Approves Report

Concurring in earlier House action, the Senate approved a conference report on a $1,000,000,000 flood control authorization and sent it to the White House.

A $500,000,000 rivers and harbors bill was passed and returned to the House for agreement on changes.

Among the biggest authorizations of their kind on record, the bills call for postwar construction of flood control, navigation, reclamation, hydro-electric power and other works throughout the country.

Carrying no appropriations, they are projected as part of the country job-creating program when peace comes.

The flood control bill embraces a giant program for development of the Missouri River Valley by the Army engineers and the reclamation bureau as recommended by President Roosevelt. A proposal to set up an administrative authority like the Tennessee Valley Authority was left for the next Congress to consider.

Missouri Program

The Missouri program calls for an initial authorization of $400,000,000, half for the Army engineers and the remainder for the reclamation bureau.

The rivers and harbors bill limped through the Senate battered by nearly two weeks of bitter debate, mostly about the St. Lawrence Seaway, estimated to cost from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000. It was rejected by a vote of 56 to 25.

A last-minute boost for the seaway from President Roosevelt failed to turn back the opposition. It came in the form of a telegram to Senator Aiken (R-Vt) who read it to the Senate just before the vote.

The message, answering an inquiry from the Vermont senator, said:

"Of course I want action as soon as possible on the St. Lawrence seaway. It is logical and inevitable. The quicker the better."

By Voice Vote

With the St. Lawrence amendment beaten, the Senate passed by voice vote the bill authorizing navigation, reclamation, hydroelectric power and other works. The measure already has passed the House but because of differences it goes now to a joint Senate-House conference committee which will work out its final form.

Today's vote disposed of the St. Lawrence seaway issue for this session, but it is expected to come up again in the new Congress convening in January.

Aiken presented the seaway amendment last week when the bill was about ready for a vote. With other ardent advocates, he discussed the proposal hour upon hour, declaring that opponents employed delaying tactics in the interest of big utility companies which did not want a waterway from the Great Lakes to the sea.

Opponents based their argument primarily on opposition to authorizing the project as an executive agreement with Canada rather than as a treaty, which would require approval by a two-thirds Senate vote.

International Arrangements

Senator Overton (D.-La.), floor manager of the rivers bill, declared that the amendment would sanction a theory that international arrangements were to be "determined solely by the method of their submission by the executive department."

If this theory is correct, he added, "then grave and important international arrangements that lie almost immediately ahead of us will be handled either as executive agreements or as treaties according to the whim or political maneuvering of the President."

Broad technical provisions similar to those in a postwar flood control bill passed a week ago were placed in the rivers and harbors bill.

These give state governments the right to review federal projects, give irrigation preference over navigation works in arid states, and authorize disposition of surplus electricity at government dams by the Interior Department.

Two big projects were eliminated, the $66,000,000 Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway and the $33,500,000 Beaver-Mahoning canal, in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Larger Authorization

Among larger authorizations in the bill are the $25,000,000 Santee-Congaree river deveopment, N. C. and S. C.; the $58,000,000 Snake river, Ore., Wash., and Idaho, program, the $60,000,000 Alabama-Coosa navigation program, Ala. and Ga., and the $25,000,000 Illinois waterway and Indiana harbor canal, Ill.

Senate action on the flood control conference report came after Senator Aiken (R-Vt)) warned that he would fight any attempt to build one large reservoir at the Williamsville site in Connecticut instead of eight smaller reservoirs in the West river basin.

He contended that the bill left the way open for the Army engineers to change the plans but agreed finally to passage of the conference report when colleagues assured him that changes would be subject to review by state officials.

Major projects in the flood control bill are $30,000,000 for the Connecticut river basin, $36,140 for the Roanoke river basin, $350,300,000 necticut river basin,, $36,140,000 for 000,000 in the lower Mississippi river, $11,080,000 for the Blakely Moutnain Dam, Ark.; $35,000,000 for general flood control in the Arkansas basin; $15,000,000 for Red Dock dam on the Des Moines river, $70,000,000 for the Ohio river basin; $24,822,000 for the Kentucky river basin, and $50,000,000 for the Sacramento river basin.

Rep. Vinson Proposes Pay Raise for F. D. R.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—An increase in the President's salary from $75,000 to $100,000 yearly was urged today by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga).

He also proposed in a bill that $20,000 yearly be paid to the vice president, House speaker and cabinet members and $15,000 yearly to congressmen.

Vinson told the House taxes and living costs had increased so much the raises were necessary. He said the President actually gets only about $27,000 a year now.

The House voted last week to provide $3.000 more yearly to each member for clerical hire, but shunted aside another plan to boost congressional salaries.

LAYS RED BAITING TO CHURCHILL

DEC 13 1944

Washington, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—Senator Kilgore (D.-W. Va.) voiced the hope today that a way will be found "to insure that American-made munitions will never be used against the liberated peoples of Europe."

Referring to the troubled situation in Greece, the Senator said in a statement that Prime Minister Churchill has attempted to create the impression that the resistance forces in Greece are communists.

"The fact is," Mr. Kilgore added, "that the EAM in Greece is a coalition group. Here in America we have had some recent experience with this type of red-baiting. An attempt was made in the recent election to smear the President and the Democratic party. The people of America were not fooled. . . .

"This war is not being won, the peace will not be won, if we permit reactionary regimes which do not have the support of their own people to be imposed in liberated areas."

CITATION FOR SUBMARINE

Presidential Award Goes to the Rasher for Sinking Jap Ships

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Navy announced today the award of a Presidential unit citation to the submarine Rasher for the sinking or damaging of "thousands of tons" of shipping in Japanese controlled waters.

The commanding officers of the Rasher in the citation were:

Lieut. Comdr. Benjamin E. Adams Jr., aged 30, whose wife lives at 415 Dock St., Wilmington, N. C.; Capt. Edward S. Hutchinson of Philadelphia, whose wife now lives at 174 South Church St., Paris, Tex.; Comdr. Willard R. Laughon of Princeton, W. Va., whose wife lives at 30 Martin Farms, Seaford, Del., and Comdr. Henry G. Munson of Manila, whose wife lives at 238 Ridgeland Ave., Waukegan, Ill.

Caribbean Offers Postwar Preview

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Foreign Policy Association asserted today that Great Britain and the United States have shown in the Caribbean area that "it is possible to adjust common problems on a regional basis."

The Caribbean, said a survey prepared for the association by Olive Holmes, its Latin-American expert, is one area of the world which "offers a preview of the structure of the postwar order, as well as an example of practical international planning."

Great Britain and this country, the survey said, have "demonstrated, by concrete measures, that when several powers have a direct concern in a backward area through territorial, economic or strategic commitments, it is possible to adjust common problems on a regional basis. . . ."

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 1,540 United States Army casualties. Included in the list are the following with their next of kin:

18 Captured Italian Envoys To Be Returned

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Eighteen Italian diplomatic and consular officials and their servants captured in North Africa are to be sent back to Italy.

This was learned at the State Department today. They have been interned at New Market, Va.

Held For Two Years

The Italians were caught in November, 1942, when the Allies landed in Morocco and Algeria and brought to this country with the idea that they could be exchanged for Americans held in Italy.

The State Department explained informally that the fall of the Italian Government overruled exchange possibilities, so the diplomats are now being returned.

Approves Appointments

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—The Senate today confirmed the appointments of three navy officers as temporary vice admirals. They are Samuel M. Robinson, Willis A. Lee, Jr., and Theodore S. Wilkinson. It also approved the retirement of Wilson Brown with the rank of vice admiral.

War Minors' Babies Citizens

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP).—The House passed a bill today to safeguard the American citizenship of children born to service men of minor age as the result of marriage overseas. The bill provides that children born of an American father, who is over eighteen years old shall be United States citizens. The present legal minimum is twenty-one years. Representative Samuel Dickstein, Democrat, of New York, told the House more than 1,400 servicemen under twenty-one, have married Australian girls.

Manship Completes Censorship Duties

DEC 13 1944

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Charles P. Manship, associate director of censorship, who has functioned in London for the last six months, has returned to the United States, his assignment abroad completed.

Manship, editor and publisher of the Baton Rouge (La.) State-Times and Morning Advocate, took charge of the London office June 1. Just before invasion of the Continent, and acted as liaison between British censorship and Supreme Allied Heaquarters. After a series of conferences here, Manship will return to active management of his Baton Rouge newspapers.

Senators Hear Navy Story On Narragansett

Connecticut Witnesses Recommend Hurley For Surplus Disposal Board.

DEC 13 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—An account of the Navy's experiences with the Narragansett Machine Company, including cancellation of a contract for failure to make deliveries, was related to the Senate military affairs committee today.

The testimony concerning the Pawtucket, R. I., firm was given by Navy officials during the committee's hearing on nominations of former Gov. Robert A. Hurley of Connecticut and Lt. Col. Edward H. Heller to the new Surplus War Property Board.

Hurley, before being named to the board, was a vice president of Narragansett. Heller, as war finance officer, passed upon War department loans to the firm.

The Navy's contract with the company for 1,572 lockers was terminated, Lt. J. M. Orr told the committee, because the company failed to make deliveries as scheduled on Feb. 1, 1944.

Navy Investigation

An investigation by Navy officials a month later, he said, disclosed that the company had completed only one locker—which was rejected as not up to Navy specifications. Nine others had been partly completed.

Everan Woodland, civilian engineer in the Navy's Bureau of Ships, testified the locker doors fitted poorly and the lockers were badly warped and poorly welded.

Both witnesses said, in response to questioning by Senator Austin (R.-Vt.), that the company had been given ample priorities to obtain materials for the lockers. Woodland said that when he and Orr visite dthe plant March 3, the company had material for about 600 lockers.

The company earlier had had some difficulties with priorities for another order for lockers, but the Navy made allowances for delays resulting from thelack of priorities, Lt. Robert Brown told the committee.

Falls Behind

Brown, who is attached to the office of general counsel for the Navy, said that the first locker contract—placed prior to the time Hurley joined the firm in January, 1943—was completed and accepted by the Navy. He said, however, that the company fell behind in deliveries and that onedelivery was 102 days behind schedule.

William L. Mooney, retired insurance executive of Hartford, Conn., appeared in behalf of Hurley's nomination. He said he had known him several years and felt that hewas the best possible man for thejob.

Several other witnesses added their endorsement of Hurley and Heller, and Price Administrator Chester Bowles sent the committee a letter describing Hurley as "a man of high patriotism and complete honesty."

Heller Praised

Attorney General Robert Kenney of California told the committee that Heller's selection as a board member was the "best that could be made from the West." Heller is a former California business man.

Another witness for Hurley, Headmaster A. N. Sheriff of Cheshire Academy, Cheshire, Conn., described him as "extremely loyal, vigorous, forceful and entirely honorable."

Austin sought to find out from Sheriff whether Hurley or Connecticut state employes aided the academy in rebuilding a hall destroyed by fire in 1941. The new hall was named for Hurley, an academy alumnus.

Sheriff said Hurley had devoted three or four hours to advising school officials about the building and the Connecticut public works commissioner also had given advice on construction of the hall. Sheriff said nothing was paid for the consultations and advice.

Another Witness

Another witness, F. C. Hesselmeyer of Stamford, Conn., attorney for the academy, declared that the academy received no help from the state on the construction job except for advice.

Harold Conroy, Hartford, Conn., machine operator and secretary of the New England district council of the CIO United Electrical Workers, said the New England CIO favored Hurley for the surplus property job.

Noah MacDowell, New London, Conn., war plant operator, praised Hurley's work in averting labor strikes in the state during the war. Leon Riscassi, Hartford, Conn., lawyer and majority leader of the Connecticut State Senate, said that Hurley had put through more "sound legislation" during his tenure as governor than the state ever had before.

PREDICTS 700 M. P. H.

Washington, Dec. 12 (A. P.).—The speed of sound soon may be attained by Navy fighter planes, Rear Admiral D. C. Ramsey, chief of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics, reported today. This would mean that Navy fighter planes would exceed 700 miles an hour, far in excess of the top speed of any known enemy planes.

The highest speed of fighter planes now is approximately 400 miles an hour although a few months ago one plane approached the speed of sound in a power dive.

"It is anticipated," said Admiral Ramsey in a report to the House Naval Committee, "that in the near future the top speeds of fighter aircraft in service will approach the sonic range, and be accompanied by further marked increases in rates of climb and service ceilings."

Scientific research has shown that the sonic range—varying according to density of the atmosphere—is, in temperate zones, 763 miles an hour at sea level. The speed of sound decreases as altitude increases.

ARMY TO FREE TEXTILE MEN

Shortage Of Heavy Duck Cited As Reason

DEC 1319

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—The Army will release skilled textile workers from its forces in this country because of the critical shortage of heavy duck for tents, Senator Maybank (D., S.C.) said tonight.

The South Carolina Senator also said the Office of Price Administration has agreed to leave to the Army the question of ceiling prices on duck it buys. This might mean a boost in price to stimulate production.

Meets With Senators

Lieut. Gen. Brehon. B. Somervell, chief of the Army Service Forces, met with senators from the large Southern cotton-cloth producing States—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee—late today to discuss the "extreme shortage of cotton duck."

Malbank reported that Somervell asked the Senators to wire the Governors of those States for full cooperation in recruiting workers so that the mills can run three full shifts.

Manpower Priority

Somervell asked the Senators to confer with War Manpower officials and said duck-producing areas are to have high manpower priority, Maybank said.

Production of cotton duck for tents has gone from "bad to worse for a year," Maybank said.

He added that thousands of workers will be needed to speed up the production and that he hopes "the people will join in to help get these things needed for our boys in the armed services." He said he believed the number "to be released temporarily from the Army" would be comparatively small.

Draft Official

Urges Broader War Work Plan

Col. Keesling Believes Byrnes' Order Doesn't Go Far Enough.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12. (AP)—A broad extension of the administration's war work edict, including the application of community pressure upon 4-F's, was advocated today by a high ranking selective service official.

Col. Francis Keesling, selective service legislative officer, told the Senate War Investigating Committee's manpower inquiry he favored:

1. Broadening the prohibition against men 18 to 37 quitting war plants without draft board approval to cover men 38 to 45.

2. The authorization of pressures "upon certain of the 4-F's, if necessary, to engage in war work."

Praises Byrnes

Praising War Mobilizer James F. Byrnes for what he called the latter's "courageous" action in utilizing the selective service organization to reduce turnover by requiring consent for leaving jobs, Keesling testified to belief it did not go far enough.

He said that the whole program, which he felt would provide the 300,000 men now needed to fill manpower shortages, could be accomplished with "very simple additional legislation."

The selective service already has put into operation Byrnes' order requiring men 18 to 37 deferred for occupational reasons to get draft board permission before leaving their jobs or face induction into the armed forces.

Turnover Prohibition

Keesling would extend the turnover prohibition to groups not eligible to armed force induction by utilizing the local draft boards in an effort to "induce or compel" sufficient numbers to fill vacancies in war industry.

If war needs and selective service records show vacancies can be filed in that way, he said, "the local boards can activate community pressure and proper educational publicity," and couple their appeals with a request from selective service for men to engage in work "within a certain period of time in any of the plants listed as having shortages."

It is for the few persons who would not cooperate that Keesling said he advocated "very limited legislation establishing a penalty for failure to comply with the program.

NEWSPAPER AID PRAISED

Treasury Cites Support of Sixth War Loan Drive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—Newspaper support of the Sixth War Loan has been "truly magnificent," Ted R. Gamble, National War Finance Director, declared here today.

"In the busiest season of the year," he said, "in spite of paper shortage and other operating handicaps, newspapers have continued to give freely of their valuable space in support of this vital program.

"This intensified effort has been greatly needed to help attain our Sixth War Loan goal. There is a close parallel in the amount of newspaper support and war bond sales throughout the country, and the Treasury sincerely appreciates the cooperation of the nation's press."

The Treasury official also complimented merchants who, he said, had provided "excellent cooperation" with war bond advertising.

"In the closing days of the drive," he added, "the support which newspapers and retailers have maintained so superbly thus far will be of inestimable value in helping us reach our war bond sales quota for individuals."

Frank E. Tripp, chairman of the Allied Newspaper Council, made the following statement

"Daily and Sunday newspapers carried 1,871,075 lines of front-page news and editorial support of the Sixth War Loan drive from Nov. 13 through Nov. 21. This represents an increase of 13.3 per cent over the outstanding newspaper record for the corresponding period of the fifth drive.

"Weekly newspapers are giving excellent cooperation, and their news and editorial support will also show a substantial increase over the fifth drive. Many daily and weekly newspapers devoted their entire front page on the opening day of the drive to war bond news."

Strong Labor Department Urged by Miss Perkins

She Would Give It W.L.B. and N.L.R.B. Work After War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP).—Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, called today for a powerful post-war Labor Department, to include work now done by the War Labor Board and the National Relations Board.

"Fixing of wages and prices should be abandoned as soon as possible and the various activities of the government in prevention of industrial disputes or their settlement should be permanently attached to the Department of Labor," said Miss Perkins in a speech prepared for the national conference on labor legislation.

Secretary Perkins herself has been reported as being ready to quit if the President can find a successor suitable to the American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organization. Her resignation is understood to have been before Mr. Roosevelt for a long time.

"Adult education, in so far as it affects working people, should be lodged in the Labor Department and a strong working conditions service should be developed there," Miss Perkins said.

"Various functions relating to labor matters now scattered through many agencies of the government, should be consolidated in the United States Department of Labor after the war," she continued, "including those of the employment service and the apprenticeship and occupational training service of the War Man-Power Commission and the labor planning-for-production program of the War Production Board."

Missouri May Have To Wait

Washington, Dec. 12 (AP)—Missouri may have to wait awhile before it has a street in the nation's capital named for it.

The National Park and Planning Board said today that District of Columbia officials had reported unfavorably to Congress on legislation to change the name of Nichols avenue in Anacostia to Missouri avenue.

In view of the District commissioner's opinion, the board said it had informed congressional committees that while it had no objection itself to the change, it believed that some other street should be considered.

Nichols avenue is one of the main avenues in Southeast Washington.

Nationwide Ward Strike Threatens

DEC 13 1944

WLB Summons Company, Union Officials To Hearing on Walkouts at Four Detroit Stores —Union Committee to Consider National Situation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 (AP)—A threat of strikes at Montgomery Ward stores throughout the nation was raised tonight as the War Labor Board summoned company and union officials to a hearing on strikes at four Detroit stores.

Emergency Session

Samuel Wolchok, president of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes of America (CIO), announced that the Montgomery Ward organizing committee had been called into emergency session in Washington Thursday at 10 a. m. (EWT).

Wolchok said the purpose was "to determine policy regarding the current strike situation in Detroit as it affects Montgomery Ward workers throughout the country."

A union source said that the policy conceivably could be a request for supporting strikes.

The WLB summons to company and union officials was the latest development in a long series of actions involving Montgomery Ward.

The board, it was asserted, will seek to determine why its orders have been ignored. The company has refused to accept board orders directing maintenance of membership, arbitration, checkoff of union dues, seniority and back wages. The hearing will be held Thursday at 2:30 p. m.

Fails to Comply

The board, in scheduling the "show cause" hearing in the Detroit strike of 1,000 workers, also said it had directed the huge mail order house, headed by Sewell Avery of Chicago, to explain Friday at 10:30 a. m., why it failed to comply with orders in six other cities.

The other cases involve Montgomery Ward stores or plants in Portland, Ore., San Rafael, Calif., St. Paul, Minn., Chicago, Denver, and Jamaica, N. Y.

The action followed the board's usual pattern of procedure in non-compliance cases, leading to seizure by the armed forces if the order is not thereupon carried through.

The WLB proceeded in this way last May before the Army moved into Ward's big Chicago plant, forcibly removing Avery from his office.

The issue in that strike was the company's refusal to put into effect maintenance of membership for the same mail order union. The company contended then that the Union lacked a majority in its plant and forced a National Labor Relations Board election which the union subsequently won.

Board's Telegram

The board's telegram to the principals in the Detroit strike called for a hearing here to show cause "why the directive orders of the National War Labor Board dated August 20, 1943, and May 22, 1944, should not be complied with and why the terms and conditions of employment set forth in said directive orders should not govern the relations between the parties until further order of the board or such date as the parties may mutually agree upon, and why the work stoppage presently in existence should not be terminated and full and continuous production resumed."

The Detroit strike began Saturday and won the backing of the CIO Auto Workers, whose secretary-treasurer, George Adde, earlier today appealed to the White House for government seizure of the Montgomery Ward properties.

Linked with the Detroit case are those involving 260 employes at the Denver plant and 250 workers at Jamaica, N. Y. The issues at those two branches are the same as at Detroit except for minimum weekly rates which the board set to correct alleged substandards.

Hearing Friday

Telegrams to the Montgomery Ward officials and the unions involved at the six other cities, in addition to Detroit, called for a hearing here Friday morning at 10:30 to explain why orders dating back several months have not been complied with.

The telegrams were similar to the one sent in the Detroit case except that they did not refer to work stoppages.

The number of employes and issues and date of the board order in the other cases:

Portland—450 employes, represented by AFL Teamsters, maintenances of membership and wage rates; regional board directive affirmed by National Board October 30, 1943.

San Rafael—52 employes, AFL Retail Clerks, San Francisco regional board on May 1, 1944 directed maintenance of membership, wage rates, overtime, vacations, no-strike, no-lockout clause and minor issues.

St. Paul

St. Paul—1,091 employes, CIO International Longshoremen's Union, March 14, 1944, Chicago regional board directed seniority promotions, 7.5 cent hourly increase and minimum rate of 50 cents per hour.

The National Board also directed maintenance of membership April 11, 1944 and on November 21 the union reported no compliance.

Chicago—175 employes in printing department and display factory, June 16, 1944, directive order five-cent hourly increase for employes with company since October 2, 1942 and three cents for those hired after that date, maintenance of membership, seniority and grievance machinery.

In a telegram to President Roosevelt, Addes, acting president of the UAW-CIO in the absence of R. J. Thomas, described Montgomery Ward's refusal to accept WLB directives as "this contemptuous Fascist challenge to our country."

Meanwhile, the four Detroit stores remained open today. A union spokesman, asserting 1,500 of 2,200 employes joined the walkout, said only "bobby soxers, working part time, remained at work." A company spokesman claimed a majority of regular personnel was on the job.

Halifax to Present Stone to Princeton

Princeton, Dec. 12.—The Earl of Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, and Admiral Sir James Somerville, R. N., senior British officers in this country, will present to Princeton University on Saturday a piece of stone from the bombed House of Commons.

The stone, gift of his Majesty's Government in the United Kingdom, is being presented as a token of appreciation of the contribution the university has made to British-American understanding through its week-end courses for British commonwealth service men and women.

Museum Displays First U. S. Flag To Fly in Japan

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 12, (AP)—The first American flag to fly over Japan is on display here.

It was 91 years ago that Commodore Matthew C. Perry planted the 13-starred relic at Gori-Hamma, near Tokyo, when he landed with 200 U. S. Marines and sailors on a formal visit to Japan.

Records show that the historic banner was shipped to a fair here in 1864, sponsored by President Lincoln to raise hospital funds for the Union Army. It disappeared after the fair and was discovered recently in a storage chest by Edgar R. McCorkle of nearby Chestnut Hill.

McCorkle was a friend of the late W. W. Long, noted collector of historica litems. Miss Frances Long, 77, daughter of the collector, said she "believed it possible" that one of the many sea captains who visited her father may have given him the flag.

The flag was found wrapped in a yellowed but untorn July 10 1865, copy of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Although a bit tattered, the prized relic may again fly over Japan. The Board of Trustees of the Atwater Kent Museum, now displaying the flag, is considering a suggestion that it be sent to Gen. Douglas MacArthur to be carried by U. S. forces when the invasion of Japan proper begins.

Capt. F. E. Huhlein Dies Of Pneumonia In Italy

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 12 (AP)—Capt. Fred E. Huhlein, administrative officer of the Psychological Warfare Bureau in Italy since early summer and a native of Louisville, died of pneumonia in an Italian hospital November 11, relatives here were notified today.

Huhlein, 49, was former assistant manager of the Social Security Board in New York and was in the consular service in South American and European capitals from 1924 until he became associated with the Social Security Board.

Army, Navy Said Selling Plane Space

Civilian Passengers Carried at Commercial Rates, Newspaper Says.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 12 (AP)—The Miami Herald said tonight that both the Army and Navy quietly have started selling seats on their world-girdling air routes at about the usual commercial rate of 13 cents a mile.

Civilian passengers can get bucket seats on oceanic transports tagged with their names, the Herald reported, if the trips are deemed to be "in the best interest of the country and they can't reasonably be carried by a regular airline."

So far passengers mostly have been business men on important war missions, the Herald continued, but rumors persist that the Air Transport Command of the Army Air Forces is preparing a schedule of fares for its entire network, and that the fare-paying passenger business may be expanded about Feb. 1.

The Herald quoted ATC officials in Washington as saying the plan for carrying fare-paying civilians was set up after the way was cleared by a presidential order.

Under the President's directive, the Herald said, the State department was added to the War and Navy departments as being authorized to grant priorities to civilian passengers to be carried by ATC and the naval air transport command on a cash basis.

St. Louis Honors Negro Flyer

St. Louis, Dec. 12 (AP)—This is Capt. Wendell O. Pruitt Day.

A military parade will honor the young Negro pilot who enlisted in the Army Air Forces in April, 1942, after watching a demonstration for Lieut. Com. Edward H. (Butch) O'Hare, Naval air ace now missing in the Pacific.

The 24-year-old aviator was sent to Italy with an all-Negro fighter squadron nine and a half months ago. He flew 70 missions in his P-51 Mustang without injury, shot down three enemy planes, accounted for eight more on the ground, helped sink a German destroyer and won the Distinguishe Service Cross and the Air Medal with four Oak Leaf Clusters. He returned home last month on 21-day leave.

Praised By Mayor

In setting aside this day for Captain Pruitt, Mayor A. P. Kaufman said, "You have done your best. You are typical of the fine young Negro men from St. Louis and all parts of the country who have gone to war."

The son of Mrs. Melanie C. Pruitt, of St. Louis, the young flyer attended Lincoln University at Jefferson City. After the war he plans to marry Miss Alice Charleton, of Detroit.

World Council Urged

Chicago, Dec. 12 (AP)—President Edward A. O'Neal of the American Farm Bureau Federation advocated today a world organization to maintain peace "by force, if necessary."

Depicting the United States as a nation catapulted by fate into a commanding position of world leadership, O'Neal said, "I am firmly convinced that we in this country must undertake a completely new appraisal of international relations." He continued:

"Of course we must have some sort of a world organization dedicated to mainting peace. It has been demonstrated that it is simply impossible for our nation to remain aloof from world conflicts, therefore it would seem to be the part of wisdom to assume active leadership in world programs to prevent them.

Band Together, He Says

"Plain common sense indicates that the only course that offers any hope whatever for permanent peace is for peace-loving people everywhere to band together in a pact that proclaims to the world that they are prepared to maintain peace, by force if necessary."

However, he continued at the opening of the Federation's twenty-sixth meeting:

"No force will be necessary if our world security organization will insist that all nations come in with clean hands, renouncing forever all national selfishness, all unwarranted territorial ambitions, spheres of influence and puppet governments—all of which have been in the past potent causes of war.

Free Trade Urged

"No force will be needed if the victorious nations will adopt policies which will permit all nations to rebuild their shattered economic structures, and if defeated nations are encouraged to mend their ways so that they may eventually take their places as honored and respected members of the fraternity of free nations."

O'Neal said encouragement of international trade "is all-important," that "currencies will have to be stabilized as between nations" and that "the only possible way" to maintain postwar employment in the United States and service the national debt "will be through creating an economy of abundance."

Tariffs Assailed

"If the latter is true for one nation, it applies with equal force to the entire world. Restriction, scarcity, monopolies, unemployment and eventually war, are the certain fruits of excessive tariffs."

O'Neal pictured agriculture as enjoying "the biggest income in history," business generally in the black and labor better off than at the start of the war and said that "now that approximately fair balance has been attained among the groups, the big job will be to maintain it."

"Agriculture," he said, "is in a position to challenge all other groups to go with us on a program of abundant production, because we have always produced abundantly."

Baptist Group Plans Big Postwar Budget

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. (AP)—A $10,000,000 budget for foreign missions and veteran rehabilitation, and a $3,600,000 unified budget for home work will be presented to the annual Northern Baptist convention, the convention's general council decided today. The figures are tentative and subject to approval by the full convention which will meet in Grand Rapids, Mich., May 21-27.

The $10,000,000, spokesmen said, is intended primarily for postwar work in Europe and Asia, but it will also be used for the rehabilitation of veterans, and for chaplains. Edwin A. Bell, of New York City, will direct the European work.

The council also authorized appointment of four new delegates to the World Council of Churches.

German Prisoners Put On Bread And Water

Fort Sheridan, Ill., Dec. 12 (AP)—All German prisoners of war at Fort Sheridan were placed on a fourteen-day bread-and-water diet today for a mass refusal to perform assigned tasks, Col. George H. Cushman, post commander, disclosed.

Major E. R. Schuelke, commander of the POW camp, reported that a prisoner leader was taken off his job yesterday for refusing to do his work and that last night a prisoner spokesman notified the camp commander that the entire group would not go back to work until the leader was restored to his job.

Langlie Names Magnuson To Fill Senate Vacancy

Lets Washington Senator-Elect Take Post a Month Early

OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 12 (AP).—Republican Governor Arthur B. Langlie appointed Representative Warren G. Magnuson, Democrat, today to serve the unexpired term of Senator Homer T. Bone, Democrat, of Washington, who resigned Nov. 13 to take a Federal judgeship.

Magnuson was elected Nov. 7 to succeed Bone and would have taken office as Senator next January in any event.

Langlie said the appointment was "based entirely upon possibility" that his state would benefit through putting Magnuson ahead of other new Senators in seniority for committee appointments. He said "an appointment of a worthy Republican would be an empty honor" at this time.

LONDON, DEC. 12-(AP)-WITH FIELD MARSHAL SIR HAROLD ALEXANDER AND MINISTER OF STATE HAROLD MACMILLAN BOTH IN ATHENS, THE GREEK EAM-ELAS FIGHTERS THREW OUT A PEACE FEELER TODAY BUT WERE TOLD THAT SURRENDER OF ARMS AND A HALT IN HOSTILITIES WERE PREREQUISITES TO A SETTLEMENT OF THE CIVIL STRIFE.

WHILE FIGHTING RAGED ON GRIMLY IN ATHENS AND PIRAEUS, AND BRITISH REINFORCEMENTS ARRIVED, THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE ANNOUNCED THAT THE BRITISH TERMS HAD BEEN HANDED TO MILTIADES PORPHYROGENIS, REPRESENTATIVE OF THE EAM (NATIONAL LIBERATION PARTY), BY MAJ.GEN. RONALD SCOBIE, BRITISH COMMANDER IN GREECE.

PORPHYROGENIS, COMMUNIST FORMER MINISTER OF LABOR IN THE CABINET OF PREMIER GEORGE PAPANDREOU, WHICH THE BRITISH ARE SUPPORTING, WAS TOLD THAT THE ELAS--FIGHTING ARM OF THE EAM--MUST OBEY BRITISH ORDERS AND THAT THE FORCES IN ATTICA PROVINCE, WHICH INCLUDES ATHENS, MUST LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS AND CEASE RESISTANCE.

"AS SOON AS THESE REQUIREMENTS HAVE BEEN FULFILLED," SAID AN ANNOUNCEMENT WHICH THE FOREIGN OFFICE MADE PUBLIC HERE, "GEN.SCOBIE UNDERTOOK TO INFORM FIELD MARSHAL ALEXANDER, SUPREME ALLIED COMMANDER (IN THE MEDITERRANEAN) WHO WOULD INITIATE THE NECESSARY STEPS TO PUT AN END TO THE PRESENT TURMOIL IN GREECE AND RESTORE TO ALL GREEKS, WHATEVER THEIR OPINIONS, PEACEFUL ENJOYMENT OF THEIR DEMOCRATIC LIBERTIES, THE FIRST STEP TO WHICH MUST BE THE DISBANDMENT OF ALL PRIVATE ARMIES."

DEC 13 1944

THE EAM EMISSARY, APPARENTLY NOT AUTHORIZED TO MAKE TERMS, RETURNED TO HIS ORGANIZATION'S HEADQUARTERS TO REPORT. THERE WAS NO INDICATION THAT HE OR ANY OTHER MEMBERS OF THE RESISTANCE GROUP HAD YET SEEN ALEXANDER OR MACMILLAN, BOTH OF WHOM WERE REPORTED IN ATHENS TRYING TO END THE CONFLICT.

EVEN AS THE EAM DELEGATE WAS TAKEN TO SCOBIE'S HEADQUARTERS IN A BRITISH ARMY VEHICLE, SHOOTING CONTINUED OUTSIDE, THE ATHENS RADIO SAID, AND A BRITISH COMMUNIQUE ANNOUNCED:

"THERE HAS BEEN NO SLACKENING OF REBEL RESISTANCE, AND ALTHOUGH SOME PROGRESS HAS BEEN MADE IN PIRAEUS AND SEVERAL SECTORS OF THE CITY, THE GENERAL SITUATION HAS IMPROVED LITTLE."

THE ELAS RESUMED SHELLING ATHENS WITH THEIR 75-MILLIMETER GUNS, CAUSING A NUMBER OF MILITARY AND CIVILIAN CASUALTIES, AND SNIPERS INFILTRATED HEAVILY INTO SECTIONS OF ATHENS WHICH BRITISH TROOPS PREVIOUSLY HAD CLEARED.

ATHENS DISPATCHES SAID SEVERAL FIRES BURNED IN THE CITY, FIREMEN BEING UNABLE TO COPE WITH THEM.

WITH THE AID OF REINFORCEMENTS LANDED DURING MONDAY NIGHT, THE BRITISH MADE SOME GAINS IN OTHER SECTORS AGAINST STRONG RESISTANCE, BUT THEIR PROGRESS WAS IMPEDED BY MINES ALONG ALL MAIN ROADS AS WELL AS BY SNIPERS ON ALL HIGHWAYS RADIATING FROM ATHENS.

ALEXANDER AND MACMILLAN WERE REPORTED TO HAVE GONE TO ATHENS ON PERSONAL ORDERS FROM PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL TO SEEK TO SETTLE THE GREEK AFFAIR AND ALLEVIATE CONCERN WITHIN BRITAIN OVER THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT POLICY OF ARMED INTERVENTION.

THE CONFERENCE OF THE LABOR PARTY NOW BEING HELD IN LONDON WILL TAKE UP TOMORROW A RESOLUTION SPONSORED BY THE PARTY'S EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE WHICH CALLS FOR REFRAINING FROM SPECIFIC CRITICISM OF THE GOVERNMENT'S POLICY IN GREECE BUT URGING THE CABINET TO "TAKE ALL STEPS NECESSARY TO FACILITATE AN ARMISTICE."

A MORE SHARPLY WORDED RESOLUTION, TERMING THE GOVERNMENT POLICY "DISASTROUS," WAS OFFERED TODAY BY THE AMALGAMATED ENGINEERING UNION, AND THERE WERE INDICATIONS THAT OTHER GROUPS IN THE PARTY, NOT CONTENT WITH THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE'S RESOLUTION, MIGHT PRECIPITATE A SHOW-DOWN FIGHT ON THE QUESTION TOMORROW.

LONDON, DEC. 12-(AP)-QUEEN ELIZABETH TODAY ADDED A NEW TITLE TO THOSE SHE ALREADY HOLDS. SHE WAS MADE A BENCHER OF THE INN.

IN A 10-MINUTE TRADITIONAL CEREMONY, THE QUEEN ENROLLED AS A STUDENT IN THE MIDDLE TEMPLE (LAW COURTS), WAS CALLED TO THE BAR, AND WAS CALLED TO THE BENCH. IT TAKES AN EXCEPTIONAL LAW STUDENT YEARS TO FOLLOW THE SAME PROCEDURE.

THE QUEEN BECAME THE FIRST WOMAN BENCHER OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE. QUEEN MARY IS A BENCHER OF LINCOLN'S INN, KING GEORGE OF THE INNER TEMPLE, THE DUKE OF WINDSOR OF THE MIDDLE TEMPLE, AND THE DUKE OF GLOUCESTER OF GRAY'S INN.

THE TRADITIONAL DINNER WHICH FOLLOWS THE QUEEN'S CALL TO THE BENCH WAS OMITTED BECAUSE OF BOMB DAMAGE TO THE LAW COURTS.

LONDON, DEC. 12-(AP)-SOME OF THE BEST BOMBING RESULTS OF THE WAR WERE RECORDED TODAY BY AMERICAN CREWMEN OF FLYING FORTRESSES AND LIBERATORS IN RUNS OVER THREE IMPORTANT GERMAN RAIL TARGETS IN THE FRANKFURT AREA.

DEC 13 1944

"CONDITIONS FOR BOMBING WERE PERFECT AND WE TOOK FULL ADVANTAGE OF THEM," SAID LT.FREDERICK THESFELD, IRVINGTON,N.D., A LEAD BOMBARDIER IN A FORMATION WHICH ATTACKED DARMSTADT.

"OUR EGGS WENT RIGHT TO THE BUTTON AND NO NAZI SUPPLIES WILL ROLL THROUGH DARMSTADT TO THE FRONT RIGHT AWAY," ADDED CAPT.MARVIN D.VICK, RIPON, WIS.

A PILOT OF A THUNDERBOLT GUARDING THE BOMBERS ALSO WAS ENTHUSIASTIC ABOUT THE RESULT.

"IT WAS SOME OF THE BEST TARGET HITTING I'VE EVER SEEN," DECLARED LT.CHARLES F.BURMAN, 3618 EDMONDSON AVE., BALTIMORE, MD. "FLAMES AND DENSE CLOUDS OF SMOKE POURED UP. A PALL OF SMOKE SHOT ABOUT 9,000 FEET HIGH."

MAJ.EUGENE E.RYAN OF DARIEN, CONN., WHO LED A MUSTANG GROUP IN THE HANAU AREA, REPORTED "SCARCELY A SINGLE BOMB MISSED ITS MARK."

"THE WEATHER WAS PERFECT--JUST WHAT WE'VE BEEN WAITING FOR," RELATED LT.ROBERT F.SCHADALE, 989 STERLING PLACE, BROOKLYN,N.Y., LIBERATOR BOMBARDIER, "AFTER WE DROPPED OUR LOAD, WE SAW SMOKE SPIRALING UP TO 8,000 FEET."

DEC 13 1944

VISIBILITY AT ASCHAFFENSBURG CLOSE BY WAS DESCRIBED AS EXCELLENT.

"WEATHER BROKE JUST RIGHT AND WE PUT OUR EGGS IN THE RIGHT PLACE, STARTING FIRES AND RAISING CLOUDS OF SMOKE," SAID ST.COY C. WELLS, 200 N.CLEVELAND ST., SAPULPA OKLA. A RADIO OPERATOR.

HAGUENAU IS THE LAST IMPORTANT FRENCH COMMUNICATIONS CENTER IN THE RHINE VALLEY INVASION ROUTE LEADING TO THE AREA OF LUDWIGSHAFEN AND MANNHEIM, WHERE THE GERMANS HAVE BUILT PROBABLY THE WORLD'S LARGEST CONCENTRATION OF CHEMICAL PLANTS.

DEC 13 1944

ON THE SEVENTH ARMY'S LEFT FLANK LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S AMERICAN THIRD ARMY BROKE STUBBORN GERMAN RESITANCE IN SARREGUEMINES AND LANCED THREE MILES NORTHEAST TO THE BORDER OF THE SAAR BASIN.

OTHER THIRD ARMY UNITS FOUGHT IN THE WESTERN PORTION OF THE BASIN, AND AMERICAN OFFICERS SAW SOME SIGNS THAT THE GERMANS WERE WEAKENING IN THE SIEGFRIED LINE OUTPOST TOWN OF FRAULAUTERN, IMMEDIATELY ABOVE SAARLAUTERN.

AROUND DILLINGEN, A MILE FARTHER NORTH, 85 GERMANS MADE A SUICIDE CHARGE, YELLING "HEIL HITLER." THEY MOWED DOWN TO A MAN.

IN ITS DRIVE TOWARD COLOGNE, THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY WAS REPORTED CLOSING IN UPON MARIAWEILER, ONLY A MILE AND A HALF FROM BATTERED DUREN, KEY TO THE ROER RIVER LINE, AND UPON HOVEN, WITHIN 500 YARDS OF THE WEST BANK OF THE ROER TO THE NORTH.

LT.GEN.COURTNEY H.HODGES' TROOPS HAVE OVERRUN SCHLICH, ECHTZ AND DHORM, IN THE CENTER OF THEIR 15-MILE ASSAULT ARC ABOUT TWO AND ONE-HALF MILES FROM DUREN, AND SCHAFBERG, FIVE MILES SOUTHWEST OF DUREN.

THE FIRST ARMY WAS FIGHTING TO OPEN A PATH TO THE RHINELAND AND THE RUHR, HOUSING THE REICH'S GREATEST INDUSTRIAL CONCENTRATION. SCORING GAINS OF UP TO THREE MILES DURING THE PAST TWO DAYS, HODGES' UNITS NOW WERE 17 MILES INSIDE GERMANY FOR THE DEEPEST ALLIED PENETRATION OF THE REICH.

THE AMERICANS WERE DIGGING THE GERMANS FROM PIER, MERKEN, MERODE AND GEY IN HOUSE TO HOUSE FIGHTING. MERKEN IS ALMOST ON THE ROER AND IS THREE AND A HALF MILES NORTHWEST OF DUREN. SOME OF THE AMERICANS WERE AROUND THE TOWN A QUARTER OF A MILE TO THE EAST AND WERE 21 AIRLINE MILES FROM THE WESTERN EDGE OF COLOGNE.

WHILE THE SEVENTH ARMY WAS TAKING HAGUENAU--THE GREATEST BASE LEFT TO THE GEMANS IN FRANCE--ONE COLUMN SPEARED INTO THE MAGINOT LINE TOWN OF WOERTH, EIGHT MILES TO THE NORTHWEST AND SEVEN MILES FROM GERMANY. THE ABSENCE OF ANY ARTILLERY OR MORTAR FIRE FROM THE FOREST JUST NORTH OF HAGUENAU MAY SHOW THAT THE GERMANS HAVE NO INTENTION OF MANNING THE MAGINOT LINE FORTS VERY STRONGLY IN THAT SECTOR, A FRONT DISPATCH SAID.

ONCE IT REACHES THE REICH BORDER, HOWEVER, THE SEVENTH ARMY STILL FACES THE SIEGFRIED LINE, AND THE EXPERIENCE OF OTHER ALLIED ARMIES INDICATES THAT THE GERMANS WILL DEFEND THAT SYSTEM BITTERLY. A MILE AND A HALF NORTHEAST OF ROHRBACH THE AMERICANS REACHED THE VILLAGE OF PETIT-REDERCHING AND WERE A LITTLE LESS THAN FOUR MILES SOUTH OF GERMANY.

STORMING TO THE SAAR BASIN BORDER FROM THE SOUTH THE THIRD ARMY CAPTURED FOLPERSVILLER AND REACHED THE BOUNDARY ON THE BLIES RIVER, THREE MILES NORTHEAST OF SARREGUEMINES. ZWEIBRUCKEN AND ST. INGBERT, FIVE AND SEVEN MILES INSIDE GERMANY, WERE POUNDED BY THE THIRD ARMY'S BIG GUNS.

IN THEIR ATTEMPTS TO ERASE THE LAST ENEMY POCKETS WEST OF THE RHINE AMERICAN SEVENTH AND FRENCH FIRST ARMY TROOPS BATTLED FLOODS AS WELL AS THE GERMANS. STORMING THE VILLAGES OF KIENTZHEIM AND SIGELSHEIM THEY EDGED TO WITHIN THREE AND ONE-HALF MILES OF COLMAR, WHICH THE GERMANS ARE DEFENDING TO PROTECT WITHDRAWALS ACROSS THE RHINE.

"HE TOLD ME THINGS ABOUT PENNSYLVANIA I NEVER HEARD OF AND SPOKE BETTER ENGLISH THAN I DO," STUFFLEBEAM SAID.

CPL.ROBERT EQUI OF PASADENA, CALIF., WHO WAS RADIO OPERATOR ON THE PLANE, SAID THAT WITHIN FIVE MINUTES AFTER THE TAKEOFF THE TRANSPORT WAS FLYING BLIND. RADIO INSTRUCTIONS CAME THROUGH WELL FOR A WHILE, BUT THEN FAILED. THE PLANE WAS FORCED TO DESCEND IN A FOG AND THAT WAS WHEN IT RAN INTO ENEMY FIRE.

"WE MUST HAVE HIT THE WATER AT EXACTLY 25 MINUTES OF ELEVEN BECAUSE THAT'S WHERE MY WATCH STOPPED," EQUI SAID.

A U. S. PHOTO RECONNAISSANCE BASE IN FRANCE, DEC. 11-(DELAYED)-(AP)-USING POWERFUL FLASH BOMBS 8,000 TIMES AS BRIGHT AS THE FLASH BULBS OF NEWS PHOTOGRAPHERS, DARING NINTH AIR FORCE FLIERS HAVE BEEN PHOTOGRAPHING TACTICAL TARGETS BY NIGHT EVER SINCE D-DAY, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY.IN FLYING FROM DUSK TO DAWN IN TWIN-ENGINED MEDIUM BOMBERS, "NIGHT FOCUS CATS" TAKE OVER WHERE THE DAYTIME AERIAL PHOTOGRAPHERS LEAVE OFF, THUS PUTTING THE ARMY'S AERIAL PHOTO RECONNAISSANCE ON A ROUND-THE-CLOCK BASIS AND LEAVING THE GERMANS NO TIME AT ALL IN WHICH TO MOVE TROOPS, ARTILLERY OR SUPPLIES IN SECRET.

THE NEW TECHNIQUE WAS PUT TO DRAMATIC USE AT THE VERY OUTSET OFN THE INVASION WHEN LT. EDWARD LENTSCHER OF 4253 SOUTH HOWELL AVENUE, MILWAUKEE, TOOK OFF FROM A BASE IN BRITAIN AT 11 P.M. ON JUNE 5, FLEW OVER THE FRENCH COAST AND RETURNED WITH VITAL PHOTOGRAPHS SHOWING THE GERMANS WERE UNAWARE THAT THE INVASION ARMADA ALREADY WAS UNDER WAY.

U.S. NINTH AIR FORCE ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, DEC. 12-(AP)-DAREDEVIL THUNDERBOLT PILOTS TOLD TODAY HOW THEY WRECKED ONE-FOURTH OF THE TANK STRENGTH OF A GERMAN ARMORED DIVISION--THE BIGGEST BAG OF TANKS SINCE THE ST.LO BREAKTHROUGH--IN A MATTER OF MINUTES.

THE THUNDERBOLTS CAUGHT 52 TANKS AND ARMORED VEHICLES NEAR EUSKIRCHEN, 22 MILES SOUTH OF COLOGNE, AS THEY WERE BEING ROLLED UP TO THE FRONT YESTERDAY ON TWO TRAINS IN A DESPERATE NAZI ATTEMPT TO STOP THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY'S ADVANCE TOWARD THE ROER RIVER. THE FACT THAT THE GERMANS WERE USING FLATCARS TO HAUL TANKS SO CLOSE TO THE FRONT WAS CITED AS ANOTHER INDICATION OF THE ENEMY'S GASOLINE SHORTAGE.

DESTRUCTION OF THESE JUICY TARGETS WITH BOMBS, ROCKETS AND MACHINE-GUN FIRE WAS THE WORK OF TWO SQUADRONS IN P-47 GROUPS COMMANDED BY LT.COL.CLURE SMITH OF SKELLYTOWN, PA., AND LT.COL. FRANK PEREGO OF CANANDAIGUA, N.Y.

ONE SQUADRON, MAKING THE BEST OF BAD WEATHER, WENT "HUNTING" AND SPOTTED THE FIRST TRAIN THROUGH A HOLE IN THE CLOUDS. BRAVING A BARRAGE OF FLAK, THESE PILOTS FIRST BOMBED THE TRACK IN FRONT OF THE TRAIN TO MAKE SURE THEIR PREY WOULDN'T ESCAPE.

THE SECOND TRAIN WAS SIGHTED BY A THIRD SQUADRON WHICH BROKEN-HEARTEDLY REPORTED THAT IT WAS OUT OF BOMBS AND AMMUNITION. A SQUADRON WITH A FULL LOAD OF HIGH-VELOCITY ROCKETS WAS DIRECTED TO THE SCENE IMMEDIATELY BY GROUND CONTROL RADIO.

IN THE RUN ON THE FIRST TRAIN, LT.DONALD DEWYKE OF BONNER SPRINGS, KANS., SAID, "I JUST GOT THE TRAIN IN MY SIGHTS, PULLED THE THROTTLE A LITTLE WAY UNTIL I JUST COULDN'T STAND IT ANY LONGER AND DROPPED MY BOMBS. I PULLED AROUND AND SAW THE EXPLOSION."

LT.LOWELL EMMACK, 318 OBISPO AVENUE, LONG BEACH, CALIF., SAID HIS PROPELLOR GOVERNOR WAS OUT AND HE HAD TO CONTROL IT MANUALLY ON THE BOMB RUN. THE PROP "RAN AWAY" AFTER HIS DIVE, BUT HE RETURNED SAFELY.

DEC 131944

LT.JAMES CAMPISI, 441 IRVING AVENUE, SAN JOSE, CALIF., SAID, "I SAW A BUNCH OF FLAME AND SMOKE GOING UP WHEN I LOOKED BACK. FLIGHT OFFICER JOHNSON TOLD ME MY BOMBS HIT JUST BEHIND THE ENGINE."

FLIGHT OFFICER DAVID JOHNSON, JR., LIVES AT 1810 FIFTH AVENUE, POMONA, CALIF.

"I CAME DOWN THE LINE OF 25 FLATCARS AND SPRAYED THE WHOLE TRAIN WITH STEADY BURSTS," RELATED MAJ.RICHARD LEARY OF ANNAPOLIS, MD., OF THE ATTACK ON THE SECOND TRAIN.

"I SAW THAT THERE WERE COVERS AND CAMOUFLAGE OVER THE TANKS AND TRUCKS, SO I CALLED THE BOYS WITH ROCKETS. ONE CAR BURST INTO FLAMES AS I STRAFED."

LT.WILLIAM OLDEN, 1439 VAN KIRK, PHILADELPHIA, PA., SAID, "I SAW THREE DIRECT HITS FROM MY SALVOES OF ROCKETS EXPLODING AMONG THE COVERED TANKS. THEY ROCKED THE TRAIN AND BLEW THE COVERING AND CAMOUFLAGE AWAY IN FLAMES."

DEC 13 1944

OTHER PILOTS PARTICIPATING IN THE KILL WERE LTS.ROBERT GOFF, OGDEN AVENUE, ASHLAND, N.J.; ROSS GIBSON, 2014 BELMONT BOULEVARD, NASHVILLE, TENN.; EDWIN MCDONALD, 2548 KENT AVENUE, SACRAMENTO, CALIF.; JOHN PICTON, 640 DLAINSE STREET, PEORIA, ILL.; CHARLES BENNETT, 1248 JACKUON STREET, JANESVILLE, WIS.

WITH THE U.S.THIRD ARMY, DEC 12-(AP)-RIVER-HOPPING DOUGHBOYS OF THE 134TH INFANTRY REGIMENT OF THE 35TH DIVISION STORMED INTO GERMANY NORTHEAST OF SARREGUEMINES TODAY AFTER FORCING THEIR THIRD MAJOR WATER BARRIER IN EIGHT DAYS.

NOT A SINGLE MAN HAS BEEN LOST IN THEIR RIVER-CROSSING OPERATIONS.

TAKING TO ASSAULT BOATS BEFORE DAWN, TROOPS UNDER CAPT.WILLIAM M. DENNY OF CLAYTON, MO., AND CAPT.HENRY A.GRIFFIN OF ASHEVILLE, N.C., NEGOTIATED THE 60-FOOT-WIDE BLIES RIVER AND WERE MOVING INTO THE GERMAN TOWN OF HABKIRCHEN, THREE MILES FROM SARREGUEMINES, BEFORE THE ENEMY KNEW WHAT WAS GOING ON.

THE HAZARDOUS CROSSING OF THE SWIFT, FLOOD-CHOCKED BLIES, WHICH FORMS THE BORDER BETWEEN GERMANY AND LORRAINE HERE, WAS MADE AT A POINT SELECTED BY LT.COL.DAN CRAIG OF NORTH PLATTE, NEB., WHO HAD NEVER SEEN THE RIVER IN DAYLIGHT. HE CARRIED OUT RECONNAISSANCE LAST NIGHT AND TOLD THE DOUGHBOYS, "HERE'S THE SPOT."

"THAT'S WHAT I CALL LEADERSHIP OF THE FIRST WATER," SAID COL. BUTLER B.MILTONBERGER, COMMANDER OF THE 134TH, WHO ALSO COMES FROM NORTH PLATTE.

THE 134TH'S QUICK SERIES OF RIVER CROSSINGS STARTED WHEN IT JUMPED THE FLOODED MADERBACH IN THE PUTTELANGE AREA AND THEN WENT ON TO NEGOTIATE THE SAAR, THE ENTIRE REGIMENT SPANNING THE LATTER IN AN HOUR AND ONE-HALF.

AN ENGINEER UNIT UNDER COL.CHARLES KELLER, JR., NEW ORLEANS, LA., GAVE THE 134TH A LIFT IN TODAY'S OPERATION ALONG THE BLIES.

"WHEN THE GERMAND DID FIND OUT WHAT WAS UP, THEY PLASTERED THAT RIVER GOOD AND PROPER WITH MACHINEGUNS AND MORTARS," SAID LT. JOHN S.PARKER OF LOS ANGELES, CALIF.

THEY KEPT IT UP THROUGHOUT THE DAY, SHOOTING BLIND WITH HEAVY STUFF WHICH SGT.ALEX LUDIWITZ, 588 TINTON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY, FIGURED WAS COMING IN AT THE RATE OF 300 ROUNDS AN HOUR.

DURING THE DAY, OTHER ELEMENTS OF THE 35TH DIVISION WERE FORCED TO WITHDRAW FROM BLIESBRUCK, A MILE AND A HALF SOUTHEAST OF HABKIRCHEN, AND LATER THE 19TH TACTICAL AIRFORCE BOMBED THE TOWN.

THE 90TH DIVISION REPULSED SEVERAL COUNTERATTACKS IN THE DILLINGEN AREA IN HARD FIGHTING.

THE 26TH DIVISION FOUGHT HALF A MILE CLOSER TO THE GERMAN BORDER TO THE NORTHEAST, APPROACHING OBERGAILBACH, SIX MILES EAST OF SARREGUEMINES. THESE TROOPS HAD ABOUT A A MILE MORE TO GO TO REACH THE FRONTIER.

CLEAR WEATHER GAVE THE AIR FORCES A RARE OPPORTUNITY AND, UP TO EARLY EVENING, 212 SORTIES HAD BEEN FLOWN, MAINLY IN CLOSE SUPPORT OF TROOPS AND AGAINST COMMUNICATIONS IN THE ZWEIBRUCKEN, SAARBRUCKEN, SAARLAUTERN AND DILLINGEN AREAS.

IN ONE OF THE LIVELIEST AIR CLASHES IN WEEKS, AMERICAN FIGHTER-BOMBERS CLAIMED 11 FW-190'S AND ME-109'S IN A SCRAP NEAR KAISER-LAUTERN. FOUR AMERICAN PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN.

DEC 13 1944

BY JOHN J.SPARKMAN

PARIS DEC 12-(AP)-BEFORE COMING ON THIS TRIP MEMBERS OF OUR COMMITTEE HAD BEEN PRIVILEGED TO SEE IN THE UNITED STATES RAW MATERIALS BEING CONVERTED INTO WAR MUNITIONS AND RAW RECRUITS INTO WELL TRAINED SOLDIERS. WE HAD SEEN BOTH SOLDIERS AND MUNITIONS TRANSPORTED TO PORTS, LOADED ON SHIPS AND SENT TO VARIOUS THEATERS OF WAR.

NOW WE HAVE SEEN THESE UNLOADED OVER HERE AND WORKED FORWARD TO THE VERY FIGHTING FRONTS. WHAT WE HAVE SEEN HAS CONFIRMED THE PRIDE WE ALREADY HAD IN A JOB WELL DONE.

IN THE TWO WEEKS WE HAVE SPENT IN FRANCE WE HAVE SEEN GREAT SHIPS STANDING IN HARBORS BEING UNLOADED BY AMPHIBIOUS DUCKS WHEN DOCK FACILITIES ARE NOT AVAILABLE, OR LYING AT PIERS DISGORGING THEIR LOADS 24 HOURS A DAY. WE HAVE SEEN A CONSTANT STREAM OF HEAVY TRUCKS ROLLING AWAY FROM THEIR SIDES DAY AND NIGHT TO SUPPLY THE BATTLE AREAS. SHIPS LIGHTENED TO MORE SHALLOW DRAFT GO UP RIVERS TO BE UNLOADED AS FAR INLAND AS POSSIBLE.

THIS JOB OF SUPPLY IS NOT GLAMOROUS, BUT ITS IMPORTANCE CANNOT BE OVEREMPHASIZED. WITH ONLY THE BEACHHEADS AT FIRST TO SUPPLY THE FAST MOVING FIGHTING FORCE, IT SOON ASSUMED TREMENDOUS PROPORTIONS.

THE SUPPLY LINE BECAME DARINGLY LONG--500 MILES OR MORE--BUT THE INGENUITY, INITIATIVE AND ENERGY OF THE AMERICAN ARMY KEPT THE MUNITIONS OF WAR PILED UP WHERE THEY WERE NEEDED.

DEC 13 1944

IT HAS BEEN A MAGNIFICENT PERFORMANCE--ALL THE WAY FROM THE FACTORY TO THE BATTLE LINES--AND ONE OF WHICH WE CAN ALL BE PROUD.

I HAVE DEALT PRINCIPALLY WITH THE SUPPLY OF MATERIALS AND MUNITIONS. OUR MEN CANNOT FIGHT UNLESS THEY ARE FURNISHED THE THINGS WITH WHICH TO FIGHT. I DO NOT WISH TO MINIMIZE THE FINE DRIVING JOB DONE BY THE MEN AT THE FRONT. THEIR VICTORIES ARE WELL KNOWN.

WE HAVE TALKED WITH MANY OF THESE FELLOWS AT THE FRONT, BACK IN REST AREAS AND IN HOSPITALS. WE SAW FLIERS IN ENGLAND PREPARING FOR RAIDS OVER GERMANY, WE SAW THEM TAKE OFF IN GIANT BOMBERS AND FAST FIGHTERS. WE WATCHED THEIR COMRADES BACK AT THE BASE FOLLOW CAREFULLY THE COURSE OF THEIR FLIGHT. THEN WE SAW THE RETURNING CREWS INTERROGATED AS TO THE SUCCESS OF THE RAIDS.

THE ATTITUDE OF ALL IS THE SAME. THEY ALL ARE OUT TO DO A JOB AND THEY WANT IT DONE WELL. THEIR ONE THOUGHT IS TO GET IT OVER WITH, BUT NOT TO QUIT UNTIL THEY KNOW IT IS DONE THOROUGHLY.

MORALE IS UNIFORMLY GOOD. ALWAYS WHEN ASKING US TO DELIVER A MESSAGE TO HOME FOLKS SOLDIERS TOLD US TO ASSURE THEIR FAMILIES THEY WERE DOING ALL RIGHT. REGARDLESS OF MUD, RAIN, COLD OR OTHER HARDSHIPS OUR G.I.'S INVARIABLY SHOWED MORE CONCERN ABOUT THE FOLKS AND CONDITIONS BACK HOME.

DEC 13 1944

THEY WANT TO GET BACK HOME. IT'S PATHETIC TO HEAR THESE WAR-HARDENED MEN WHO LEFT HOME AS BOYS TWO AND ONE-HALF YEARS AGO TELL HOW BADLY THEY WANT TO GET THIS JOB OVER WITH AND GET HOME.

THERE IS ONLY ONE DARK SPOT OF IMPORTANCE, AS I HAVE SEEN THE PICTURE. THAT IS SHORTAGES.

THERE ARE SHORTAGES OF WHOLE BLOOD FOR THE TREATMENT OF WOUNDED SOLDIERS IN NEED OF TRANSFUSIONS. EVEN SOLDIERS HERE ARE DONATING BLOOD TRYING TO MAKE UP THE SHORTAGE THAT SHOULD BE SUPPLIED BACK IN THE UNITED STATES.

THERE IS A SHORTAGE OF AUTO TIRES AND TIRE RECAPPING AND PATCHING MATERIALS. THIS IS A MOTORIZED WAR. SUCH A SHORTAGE, IF LONG CONTINUED, MAY WELL SLOW DOWN OUR PROGRESS.

DEC 13 1944

THE WORST SHORTAGE OF ALL IS OF HEAVY CALIBER AMMUNITION. FOR A LONG TIME HEAVY AMMUNITION HAS BEEN RATIONED TO OUR ARTILLERYMEN IN FAR TOO LIMITED AMOUNTS. HEAVY SHELLS HURLED AT ENEMY POSITIONS SAVE AMERICAN LIVES.

FROM GEN.EISENHOWER, GEN.BRADLEY, GEN.PATTON AND FROM SOLDIERS IN THE FRONT LINE WE HAVE HEARD APPEALS FOR MORE HEAVY AMMUNITION. WITHOUT IT THE WAR MUST BE PROLONGED AND THE COST IN BATTLE CASUALTIES MUST BE GREATER.

PARIS, DEC. 12 -(AP)- A MODEST LINEN SHOP PROPRIETOR AND HIS WIFE WHO DID AN ESTIMATED $15,000,000 BUSINESS IN THREE YEARS BY COOPERATING WITH THE GERMANS TODAY FACE CHARGES OF COLLUSION AND ARE LIABLE TO [redacted] A MAXIMUM FINE OF $20,000,000.

HENRI MARQUER AND HIS GERMAN-BORN WIFE, WHO DID THEIR MULTI-MILLION DOLLAR BUSINESS WITH THE NAZIS AT 33 PERCENT PROFIT ARE IN PRISON AWAITING DISPOSITION OF A CASE WHICH THE SEINE CONFISCATION COMMITTEE BEGAN EXAMINING LAST AUGUST. ALTHOUGH ONLY APPOINTED OFFICIALLY OCT. 16, THE COMMITTEE HAD SEIZED THE MARQUER APARTMENT [redacted]ROOMS AND DISCOVERED EXTENSIVE FILES AND PHOTOGRAPHS WHICH NOW ARE BEING USED AS EVIDENCE.

BY MANUFACTURING UNIFORMS, OVERCOATS, BLANKETS AND LINENS FOR THE LUFTWAFFE, MARQUER WAS ABLE TO BECOME A LEADING CLOTHIER WITH A SWANK QUAI D'ORSAY APARTMENT, A STABLE OF 30 HORSES, MOTOR CARS AND A CHATEAUX. HE ALSO SHIPPED $800,000 IN GOLD ABROAD.

HIS MODERNISTIC PENTHOUSE APARTMENT OVERLOOKING THE SEINE BOASTED A ROTUND BAR, [redacted] A LENGTHY CLASSIC DINING ROOM, AND BEDROOMS

WITH QUBLTS OF THE MOST EXPENSIVE FURS. MARQUER'S WIFE ACQUIRED MANY DIAMOND RINGS, BROOCHES, PENDANTS, BRACELETS AND SIX DIAMOND-STUDDED WRIST WATCHES. HE HIMSELF COULD CHOOSE FROM AMONG 13 WATCHES AND A HALF DOZEN BEJEWELLED CIGARETTE CASES. MARQUER HAD TAKEN THE PRECAUTION TO HAVE PHOTOGRAPHS MADE OF EVERY PURCHASE FOR INSURANCE PURPOSES.

DEC 131944

FINANCE MINISTER RENE PLEVEN AND MEMBERS OF THE SEINE COMMITT HAVE HELD MARQUER UP BEFORE THE PARIS PRESS AS AN EXAMPLE OF THE MANY OCCUPATION-ERA PROFITEERS WHO MUST ACCOUNT FOR THEIR FORTUNES.

THE COMMITTEE, INVESTIGATING WHAT IT CALLS "PROFITEERS OF DISTRESS", SAID APPROXIMATELY 2,000 CASES NOW UNDER EXAMINATION INVOLVE A TOTAL OF $100,000,000 IN ALLEGED ILLICIT GAINS --- MADE EITHER THROUGH DEALINGS WITH THE NAZIS OR IN THE [redacted] BLACKMARKET. DEC 131944 PLEVEN SAID SIMILAR COMMITTEES IN EIGHTY FRENCH DEPARTMENTS HAVE INSTITUTED PROCEEDINGS [redacted] AGAINST MORE THAN 3,000 PERSONS.

AN AMERICAN AIRBASE, LEYTE ISLAND, (DELAYED)-(AP)-A GLEAMING SILVER JAPANESE FIGHTER PLANE AND AN AMERICAN KITTYHAWK TWISTED AND TURNED THROUGH AMAZING AERIAL ACROBATICS. TIME AFTER TIME THEY WERE SQUARELY ON EACH OTHER'S TAIL.

NOT A SHOT WAS FIRED AND THE TWO PLANES LANDED PEACEABLY SIDE BY SIDE. FOR THIS JAPANESE PLANE WAS FLOWN BY AN AMERICAN, MAJ. ROBERT V.MCHALE, HARRISONBURG, LA., AND WAS THE PROPERTY OF THE BATTLING "BLACK SHEEP" UNIT, NOW ROAMING PHILIPPINE SKIES FROM LEYTE BASES.

THE UNIT WAS THE FIRST IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC TO RECONSTRUCT AND ACTUALLY TO FLY AN ENEMY PLANE IN A COMBAT AREA.

THIS IS THE STORY AS TOLD BY CAPT.D.A.PAPPAS, INDIANAPOLIS, IND., AND SECOND LT.R.J.HEYLIGER, JERSEY CITY, N.J.:

AT THEIR DUTCH NEW GUINEA BASE SOME TIME AGO THEY FOUND A WRECKED JAPANESE PLANE--A NEW TYPE RADIAL ENGINE FIGHTER. THE YANK PILOTS DECIDED TO REBUILD IT TO SEE WHAT IT COULD DO.

UNDER THE DIRECTION OF SECOND LT.EDWARD T.BAZAN, ENGINEERING OFFICER (4418 BROOKLYN AVE.) CLEVELAND, O., STAFF SGT. HOWARD B.GOYER, (RFD 2) NEW HAVEN, IND., BEGAN WORK ON THE BODY.

DEC 13 1944

SGT.HARVEY J.WATSON (980 CAPITOL WOOD DR.) ATLANTA, GA., REPAIRED THE ENGINE. PARTS WERE SALVAGED FROM OTHER WRECKED JAPANESE PLANES. BAZAN AND T/SGT.BRUNO TOPIK (12901 BUFFALO ST.) DETROIT, MICH., WORKED HARDEST, PROBABLY, TRYING TO FIGURE OUT WHAT THE JAPANESE DIAL MARKINGS MEANT.

EVEN THE SEAT HAD TO BE REDESIGNED--AMERICAN PILOTS ARE LARGER THAN THE NIPPONESE. AND T/SGT.ARTHUR H.NELSON, LOGAN, IA., BUILT A CANOPY OVER THE COCKPIT WHILE M/SGT.CHARLES A.MICKEY (104 BELEW ST.) WINSTON SALEM, NG.C., INSTALLED SYNCHRONIZED 12.7 MILLIMETER GUNS. AFTER 16 DAYS OF LABOR THE ENGINE WAS STARTED AND HOURS OF CHECKING AND INSPECTING BEGAN.

MAJ.GEN.ENNIS WHITEHEAD TERMED THE REBUILT PLANE "A VALUABLE PIECE OF EQUIPMENT," AND PLACED A 24-HOUR GUARD AROUND IT.

THE TAKEOFF WITH MAJOR MCHALE AT THE CONTROLS WAS EFFORTLESS. HIS MOCK COMBAT WAS AGAINST A KITTYHAWK FLOWN BY MAJ.ROBERT A. MCDARIS (711 TENNESSEE ST.) TALAHASSEE, FLA. THE TWO PILOTS ARE VETERAN FIGHTERS WITH A TOTAL OF 1,000 HOURS OF COMBAT.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, Paris, Dec. 13.—(AP) A long awaited assault by the U. S. First army against the left wing of German defenders of Duren smashed two miles eastward on both sides of the Roer river in the Monschau area today while farther north troops of the same army drove the Germans from a five-mile stretch on the west bank of the Roer just south of Duren itself.

The new offensive has two prongs, both pushing eastward from points east and southeast of Rotgen, first German town captured by American troops. This drive along the Roer is south of the Hurtgen forest.

The five-mile stretch on the west bank of the Roer was not clearly defined by dispatches from the front, although Hodges' troops were reported to have come within less than 3,000 yards of Gurzenich southwest of Duren and cleared the village of Gey, farther south.

Today's action extended the First army's front to 25 miles.

On the south end of the western front, meanwhile, the spectacular drive of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army toward the German palatinate was checked by blown bridges across the wide Seltzbach river east of Haguenau and by jarring enemy counterattacks south of the border city of Wissembourg.

Between the First and the Seventh armies, Lt. Gen George S. Patton's Third army measured its gains in scores of yards as it fought through a maze of pillboxes and fortified houses of the Siegfried line on the outskirts of Saarlautern. Although the Third's artillery continued to blast Saarbrucken, there were no reports of gains against the Saar capital.

For weeks Hodges has had troops stationed south of Monschau on the east side of the Roer, which flows from Belgium past Monschau and northward past Duren, Julich and Linnich before bending west again to join the Maas in Holland.

While other armored and infantry units slugged their way steadily toward Duren on both sides of the Aachen-Cologne highway, these doughboys today jumped off in a surprise attack that might turn the whole left flank of the German defenders of the Cologne plain.

The First army's new attack was launched from the vicinity of Lammersdorf, east of Rotgen, the first town captured by American troops in Germany, and about 13 miles southwest of Duren.

By mid-afternoon Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First army troops had cleared the villages of Rollesboich, Bickerath and Simmerath, the latter a sizable road junction two miles southeast of Lammersdorf.

Another Yank spearhead thrust eastward from Monschau, five miles south of Lammersdorf, and advanced two miles before encountering strong resistance from a series of enemy pillboxes. This was the only point where the Americans were reported checked. The Nazis appeared to have been surprised by the attack, which began at 6 a.m.

Virtually the only Germans still fighting on the west bank of the Roer in the entire First army sector were entrenched in the tiny village of Schophoven, six miles northwest of Duren.

Supported by tanks, they were putting up a desperate fight. For two days and nights they had been under direct attack, but had yielded only about a third of the ruined village. The bridge across the Roer at Schophoven still was intact.

One American company was cut off last night in Mariaweiler, a mile northwest of Duren, but was rescued.

The entire sector before Duren became extremely quiet late today, front dispatchers said. A dark haze hung over the area, eliminating air support for Hodges' troops.

Third army forces advanced a half-mile into Germany from their new invasion point east of Sarreguemines and made another crossing of the Blies river in that sector. They were reported meeting a new type of German "dungeon" defense as they hit the outposts of the Siegfried line.

Bloody house-to-house fighting was in progress in the German border hamlet of Habkirchen, northeast of Saareguemines. The Germans were battling from cellars interlinked by passages which ran the length of the community.

The buildings over the underground fortifications were described as innocent-looking cottages, but attacking doughboys found they were treacherous, tough fortifications to subdue.

"Hand grenades won't do in this kind of fighting," an American officer said. "A group of our boys, thinking they had the Germans cornered in one cellar, called to them to come out. Before our boys knew it the Germans had slipped through passages, come out topside three houses away and begun chunking potato mashers."

Fort Jeanne d'Arc, the last remaining German pocket in the Metz area, finally capitulated after the front had moved 30 miles beyond that fortress city.

Reach Niederroedern

Tank-supported 7th Army troops pushing eastward from Haguenau reached Niederroedern, 2½ miles west and slightly north of Seltz, but blown bridges there and at Seltz slowed the advance after yesterday's 8-mile sprint almost to the Rhine.

Enemy resistance continued very strong on the Alsace Plain south of Strasbourg, where the French 1st Army made only slight progress. The Germans made a heavy counterattack at Selestat, north of Colmar.

Only patrol action was reported from the 9th American and 2d British Army fronts at the extreme northern end of the front. American tactical planes heavily bombed the German-held town of Julich facing the 9th Army.

FIRST ARMY LAUNCH CLEARS 5 MILES O

KENNEDY

Fresh Drive Aimed at Bonn Gains 2 Miles—Third Edges Deeper Into Saar Towns—Seventh Slowed by Mud and Ruins.

Paris, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—American First Army troops cleared the Germans from five miles of the west bank of the Roer River today. In a new drive southwest of besieged Duren they advanced up to two miles and captured three villages.

The American Seventh Army was slowed by blown bridges, boggy roads and difficult terrain, but the troops advanced to within three miles of the Palatinate and seven of the French fortress gateway town of Wissenbourg.

Opposite Seltz, fifteen miles southwest of Karlsruhe, the Germans blew up a Rhine railroad bridge to Restatt and exploded two others across the wide and deep Seltzback River near the border.

The Third Army had slow and painful progress in its Siegfried Line wedges in the Saarland at Dillingen and Saarlautern.

The new First Army drive was south of the Hurtgen Forest and appeared aimed toward the Rhine city of Bonn, fifteen miles upriver from Cologne. A new German Fifth Panzer Army was disclosed to be arrayed against the First.

Villages Are Seized.

The villages seized in the drive widening the First Army front to twenty miles or more were Rollesbroich and nearby Bickerath and Simmerath, the latter a road junction about two miles southeast of Lammersdorf. Generally, the Germans appeared to have been taken by surprise.

At Rollesbroich, the Americans were thirteen miles southwest of Duren and thirty-five west of Bonn. They were two and a half miles from the upper Roer and seven from the Hasepfeld Dam, in the sweeping eastward bend of the stream. Another advance of nearly two miles was made southeast of Monschau to a road junction where German pillbox fire checked the advance.

Around Duren itself the First Army cleared the suburban village of Mariaweiller and chased infiltrated enemy troops from Hoven. Virtually the only Nazis left on the west side of the Roer north of Duren were troops putting up a bitter stand in the tiny village of Schophoven. By late afternoon the First Army had a third of the place.

The Third Army advanced another half mile into the rich German Saarland east of Sarreguemines and encountered a new type of underground defenses. The flooded Blies River was crossed again in the Bliesbruck area, where the advance was made.

In Habkirchen and other border villages, the Americans found Germans battling from cellars and dungeons linked by passages running the length of whole communities. The toughest kind of fighting was required to flush the Germans.

Riflemen Advance.

In less than three hours, Lieut.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's muddy riflemen had advanced more than a mile and entered the village of Rollesbroich, thirteen miles southwest of Duren and thirty-five west of Bonn.

The advance was between the Hurtgen and Monschau forests and was four and a half miles east of Rotgen, first German town conquered by American armies. A little farther north, other units of the First Army, now opposed by the new German Fifth Panzer Army, were within twenty-eight miles of Bonn (population 101,000). Bonn lies fifteen miles southeast of Cologne.

Three Armies Gain.

The First Army was drawn up to the swift and high Roer on both sides of Duren. In the center of the Western Front the American Seventh Army trained its artillery on large sections of the German defenses inside the Bavarian Palatinate, while the Third Army fought slowly deeper into the Siegfried Line inside the industrial Saarland.

St. Jeanne d'Arc, last holdout fortress in the Metz area thirty miles behind the front, surrendered during the day.

Between them, the First and Third armies captured 1,521 Germans yesterday, swelling the total of four American armies and one French Army in the current campaign to 78,860. Since D day nearly 765,000 have been caged.

The new drive by the southern wing of the First Army doubled its offensive front to twenty miles. At Rollesbroich, the Americans were two and one-half miles from the Roer. The river winds through western Germany for 125 miles before joining the Meuse at Roermond, opposite which the British Second Army has held a front for several weeks.

At Seltz, fifteen miles southwest of Karlsruhe, and at nearby Nieder-Roedern, which also was reached, the Germans blew bridges over the deep and wide Seltzbach River. The enemy shelled Seltz, a village of 1,600, from the north and east. Overnight the Germans destroyed the railroad bridge across the Rhine south of Seltz to Rastatt in Germany.

A small German force counterattacked from the French border fortress of Wissembourg in the area where Lieut.-Gen. Alexander Patch's forces are nearest the Palatinato. The Americans killed twenty-five.

Another division drove into Soultz, seven miles south of Wissembourg, where the first important battle of the Franco-Prussian War of 1870 was fought. The Germans made virtually no use of the Maginot Line forts through which the Americans drove.

Third Joins in Street Battles.

The Third Army reported new gains in house fighting in the three suburbs of Saarlautern—Roden, Fraulautern and Endorf. Close range fighting continued also in Saarlautern itself.

In the Siegfried Line penetration area at Dillengen, the Ninetieth Division beat back repeated counterattacks, usually made with 200 or so infantrymen supported by a tank or two.

The general picture of the Roer front, bending within 21 miles of Cologne and the Rhine, was this:

The United States 9th Army had cleaned up all pockets west of the river in its sector and was poised on the river bank for eight miles between Julich and Linnich. Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson's troops have not yet made an effort to cross. Tactical air forces heavily bombed Julich.

First Army Blocked

The 1st Army at its northern end was blocked by a German concentration of self-propelled guns and armor at Schophoven, a mile west of the Roer. At Pommernich, a little to the south, fighting was heavy.

At Hoven, the 1st Army was within a quarter mile of the Roer, but at the Duren suburb of Mairaweiler fighting continued. The Germans in these fortified towns clung to a defensive arc to hold the Americans back from Duren as long as possible. In the Derichweiler and Gey area, troops were about two miles from the river.

The New Nazi Army

The new 5th Panzer Army that the Nazis have pitted against the United States 1st Army on the Cologne Plain is commanded by Gen. Hasso Eckardt von Manteuffel, 47, a veteran of the siege of Bizerte in North Africa. His army includes armored units, regular infantry and Volksgrenadier troops.

The 3rd Army crossed the German border at a new place, spanning the flooded Blies River and capturing Habkirchen, three miles northeast of Sarreguemines.

Near Obergailbach

Americans have also advanced within a mile of Obergailbach, 6½ miles east of Sarreguemines, supreme headquartesr announced.

It may now be disclosed that the Germans have pitted their new Fifth Panzer Army against the First Army on the Cologne plain. The commander is Gen. Hasso Eckardt von Manteuffel, 47, veteran of the siege of Bizerte, in North Africa. His army includes armored units, regular infantry and Volksgrenadier troops.

The last infested cellars west of the Roer were being cleared by the First Army. A few Germans during the night filtered back into Derichweiler, Gey and Mariaweiler, virtually suburbs of Duren, and these were being blasted from the cold mud, one by one.

Patch Worries Nazis.

Virtually all the Germans except sacrificial units had been driven behind the Roer, which normally is only about 120 feet wide at Duren. Most of that ruined industrial city lies east of the river.

Troops at Mariaweiler were virtually in the outskirts of Duren and were eighteen miles inside Germany and twenty-one short of Cologne. One American company was cut off in Mariaweiler during the night but reestablished contact before dawn.

Below Duren the Hurtgen Forest had been left behind after a lengthy blood bath which started in mid-October.

German broadcasts continued to reflect concern about Lieut.-Gen. Alexander M. Patton's drive toward the Palatinate, the western twelfth of Bavaria, west of the Rhine. The Seventh Army closed within eight miles of the French border town of Wissembourgh (population, 8,000), natural gateway to the province.

The Maginot Line, partly inhabited by French civilians, was passed, but the whole Siegfried Line was ahead. In this area, German frontier breaks sharply westward from the Rhine.

The drive combined with that of the Third Army on Genn. Patch's left to squeeze the Siegfried Line from west and south. In this section, however, the line is thickest, being fortified up to thirty-mile depths to the Rhine.

Some thirty or more towns were swept up yesterday, eight or more of them inside Germany. Behind the German lines Allied air power hit again and again in operations suggesting an attempt to isolate the Germans in the whole central and northern sections of the western front.

A few miles north of Dillingen, the 3d Army knocked out a particularly troublesome little fort, equipped with a revolving turret that could be raised or lowered to shell troops on any side.

The 90th Division at Dillingen destroyed four more tanks in a series of small counterattacks late yesterday. Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., continued to build up his armored firepower inside the Siegfried Line wedge at Dillingen.

Swift advances by the Seventh Army in the Karlsruhe corner brought the German frontier within sight at many points and placed great sections of the Siegfried Line works within short artillery range. Vanguards were within fifteen miles of Karlsruhe.

Six miles inside the industrial Saarland the Third Army shouldered its way through another 700 yards of Fraulautern, winning half that town a mile north of Saarlautern. Repeated counterattacks were broken three miles north at Dillingen and additional Nazi pillboxes were captured.

The Third Army moved across the German frontier anew, spanning the flooded Blies River and capturing Habkirchen, three miles northeast of Saareguemines.

Instruction On Surrender

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—The United States Army today broadcast instructions to German troops on how to go about surrendering to Allied forces.

Pointing out that 700,000 German soldiers, including 39 generals, have surrendered to the Allies since the landings in Normandy June 6, the broadcast said all prisoners of war were under full protection of the Geneva Convention, would receive good treatment and the same food as the Allies.

"It is better to be a prisoner of war than to die uselessly and senselessly," Germans were told.

UNDERGROUND PLANT CAPTURED BY YANKS

WITH THE U. S. 3RD ARMY, Dec. 13.—(AP) A large underground factory captured near Sarreguemines is believed by 26th Division engineers to have been in limited use manufacturing liquid oxygen for jet-propelled planes and robombs.

The plant, located outside Wittring southeast of Sarreguemines, is spread over an area roughly one by two miles in an old limestone quarry. It's tunnels, corridors and rooms had sufficient floor space to house a full infantry division with all its equipment.

Work records showed the factory had been active up to Dec. 4, but before leaving the Germans removed the ertical parts of all machinery and blasted shut all seven entrances.

An exploring party headed by Lt. Col. Richard H. Free of Arlington, Va., found offices, living quarters, kitchens, restaurants and first aid stations as well as manufacturing units. The whole layout was well supplied with electrical wiring and plumbing.

Residents of the area said some frost-covered railroad cars thought to have been loaded with liquid oxygen had been seen leaving the cave via the rail spur.

FORT JEANNE D'ARC CAPTURED BY YANKS

By WADE WERNER

FORT JEANNE D'ARC, France, Dec. 13.—(AP) This German stronghold, last of the Metz network of forts holding out after Lt. Gen. George W. Patton's Third army took the city three weeks ago, fell to American troops today.

The capture of Jeanne d'Arc followed the taking of Fort Driant, toughest in the Metz griddle, and nearly 30 satellite forts. Metz now is really liberated.

Until today the guns of Jeanne d'Arc still menaced some approaches to the city. The great underground steel and concrete fort went out of action this morning after weeks of long air and artillery bombardment.

American troops began taking over shortly before noon. By midafternoon, 502 prisoners, officers and enlisted men, had been counted. Later, at least 50 more were rounded up and sent to cages in the rear. This number included 17 wounded men.

Many truckloads of prisoners passed me as I rode in a jeep toward one of the entrances to the fort near the summit of a hill. They said their food supplies were exhausted before resistance ceased. Most of them, however, looked fairly well nourished, neat and well equipped.

U. S. AND GERMANS SWAP PRISONERS

Near St. Nazaire, Nov. 29 (Delayed) (A. P.).—A group of American prisoners of war whose exchange was arranged by a Red Cross representative were swapped today for a group of German prisoners on a rank-for-rank basis. Andrew Geron Hodges, senior field director of the Red Cross with the United States Ninety-fourth Infantry Division, arranged for the transfer after parleying for hours with four high ranking German officers at Nazi headquarters in St. Nazaire.

The Birmingham, Ala., man and the Germans sealed the agreement over glasses of brandy. The Americans exchanged included:

Lieut. James Silva, Lexington, Mass.; Sergt. James Ianone of 1920 73d street, Brooklyn; Sergt. Harold S. Thompson, Mobile, Ala.; Corporal Donald Nelson of Galesburg, Ill.; Corporal Albert I. Masters, Marietta, Ohio; Pfc. Emmit Harris, Hartford, Ky.; Private Howard Arrington, Woodbridge, Va.; Pfc. Michael Malik, Bridgeport, Conn.; Pfc. Marco Ventresea, Portland, Me.

Pfc. William C. Gogarty, 530 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn; Pfc. John Speer, 6667 79th street, Middle wn, L. I.; Pvt. Michael Danchise, 6815 Durham avenue, North Bergen, N. J.; Pvt. Ernest Fuller, Covington, Tenn.; Pvt. William J. Coyne, Philadelphia;

Cpl. Roland S. Bauer, Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio.

Cpl. Rodger E. Bush, Ogden Utah; T/Sgt. Louis Milke, Ol ham Road, RFD. 4, Paterson, N. J.; Pfc. Donald T. McAllister, Riverside Drive, Little Falls, N. J.; Pfc. Gene Owen, Temple, Tex.

Underground War Of Five Years Seen

By J. W. Gallagher

Aldsdorf, Germany, Dec. 13 (AP)—Information from inside Germany indicates that Adolf Hitler's close followers have prepared for five years of underground warfare against the Allies after the German Army collapses.

This is the picture of the master plan for the struggle of Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chieftain, as pieced together from information now available from various sources:

Himmler started laying the plans for underground warfare in the last two months of 1943 and these plans now are being carried out inside Germany.

Threefold Plans

The plans are threefold, embracing (1) open warfare directed from Hitler's mountain headquarters; (2) sabotage and guerrilla activity conducted by Partisan bands organized by districts, and (3) propaganda warfare to be carried on by some 200,000 Nazi followers in Europe and elsewhere.

Already picked S.S. (Elite) troops have been established in underground strongholds and hospitals in the Austrian Bavarian and Italian Alpine area and it is the plan of Nazi leaders to flee to that region when the Germany military collapse comes. Only true and tried party members will be allowed to enter the strongholds.

The Nazi party already has concentrated food and munitions in the Alpine area sufficient to carry on for a long period.

Partisan Activities Planned

S.S. men and party members unable to reach the Alpine strongholds would be assigned to directing Partisan activities from such places as the Black Forest or out-of-the-way villages. Himmler academies now are training both men and women in sabotage tactics which would be employed by Partisan bands.

In order to hinder Allied police in running down party members during the occupation, Himmler has in the past few months instituted a widespread program to establish double identities for his henchmen. Identity cards of soldiers killed at the nt, or of civilians killed in a aids, have been given to S.S. men and Nazi women.

The idea is to create as much confusion as possible in Germany and give the Allies a tremendous task in unscrambling official records.

Propaganda Campaign Lines

The propaganda campaign will be carried on along the same lines which the old Nazi party followed when it was illegal in Germany. Nazi followers have been instructed to join all political movements and use them as loud-speakers for Nazi ideas. Funds have been cached around Germany to support this campaign.

Every effort will be made to play the Allies one against another. A head propaganda office will be established from which orders will go out to Nazi followers in other European countries and in South America. The main object will be to create a state of chaos and distrust within Europe which will keep the Allies occupied.

One of the main propaganda themes will be to build a legend around the name of Hitler and to convince the German people that some day he will come back.

BUILD GERMAN DEFENSES

Captured Americans Forced to Work, Our Prisoners Report

WITH THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY, in Germany, Dec. 13 (AP)—American prisoners of war are being made to work on the construction of German defenses between the Roer and Rhine Rivers with Polish and Russian captives, German prisoners have reported.

The captured Germans said that the Americans received slightly better treatment than the others —"they are not beaten and they are not shot on the slightest provocation"—but often they had to work eighteen hours a day. They get the same rations as the others. These consist of 300 grams [illegible] and a bowl of soup and [illegible]

NEW NAZI DEVICES DRIFT OVER REICH

Paris, Dec. 13 (AP)—As the Allied armies made new gains on the Western Front today, the Germans were disclosed to have thrown a new "device" into the war—mysterious silvery balls which float in the air.

Pilots report seeing these objects, both individually and in clusters, during forays over the Reich.

The purpose of the floaters was not immediately evident. It is possible that they represent a new anti-aircraft defense instrument or weapon. This dispatch was heavily censored at Supreme Headquarters.

French Girl's Recovery Laid To Army Penicillin

Paris, Dec. 13 (AP)—Pencillin was credited today with saving the life of an 18-year-old French girl shot through the temple by a stray bullet in the liberation of Paris last August.

A French surgeon removed the bullet, but infection set in and the girl, Nicolle Duchaillut, failed rapidly.

Two United States Air Force officers, Lieut. Col. Alexander Hunter, of Springfield, Mass., and Major Robert Osborn, of McAllen, Texas, overheard the story in a French Red Cross club and arranged for a 24-hour supply of penicillin.

Six weeks later the girl was able to eat normally and was continuing to improve.

'Stars and Stripes' Starts 4-Page Post-War Section

Aviation, Radio, Education and Housing Are Featured

PARIS, Dec. 13 (AP).—The Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes" has started a weekly four-page supplement entitled "Tomorrow" and devoted to post-war topics.

The first issue, appearing yesterday, led off with an article on post-war civil aviation. The section also featured departments on radio, housing, farming, education and an article on women war workers at home.

A full page was devoted to letters from soldiers. One suggested an outright $10,000 discharge bonus for each soldier to solve all education and employment problems. Another expressed the view that a guaranty of "your old job back" smothered initiative, and declared that any one who could not find himself a job was not worth worrying about.

RUSSIANS DRIVE NEARER BUDAPEST

Kisalag, Seven Miles from Capital, Captured by Soviet Troops.

LONDON, Thursday, Dec. 14. — (AP) Red army armored columns, smashing through strong Nazi defenses northeast of Budapest yesterday, captured Kisalag, seven miles from the Hungarian capital, Moscow announced.

In addition they seized the railway town of Isaszec, 10 miles directly east of Budapest, as the Russians increased their pressure from that direction and hammered the northeast and southeast entrances to the city with artillery and aerial blows.

Isaszeg was captured in a five-mile push south from Godollo, which fell Tuesday.

The supplement to the Moscow communique said today Kisalag fell after tank-supported infantry had smashed a German counterattack and moved forward "step by step" against fierce opposition.

Moscow emphasized that the drive on Budapest from the northeast was encountering the hardest resistance.

"Stubborn fighting continues as the Germans unceasingly reinforce and strengthen their troops defending the capital's approaches," the supplement declared.

Blast Pillboxes

In taking Isaszeg the Russians had to blast the desperately resisting Germans out of blockhouses and pillboxes. There the Russians said they wiped out two battalions of German infantry, destroyed eight tanks, nine big guns and 28 mortars.

The broadcast Moscow communique also announced the capture of seven other towns farther northeast of Budapest, including Szurdok-Puspoki, 12 miles north of the Russian-occupied rail junction of Hatvan and on the rail line leading north from Hatvan to Losonc in Slovakia.

The Soviet advance in that sector engulfed more strongpoints in the steady push toward the Slovak frontier above Budapest, threatening to cut off the Germans fighting in eastern Slovakia and to extend the front toward the Slovak capital of Bratislava and Vienna on the west.

In addition the Moscow communique listed the capture of 12 towns and villages north and northwest of Miskolc, 85 miles northeast of Budapest, in a push continuing an outflanking operation on the eastern Slovak stronghold of Kassa (Kosice).

Towns captured included Abod, 19 miles north of Miskolc and 12 miles from the Slovak border.

The communique mentioned only action by Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine army, which has been capturing more than 1,100 prisoners a day since Dec. 5. The bag Tuesday was 1,700, it was announced, raising the total since Dec. 5, to 9,150.

The communique said 29 enemy tanks were knocked out and 11 planes shot down in Tuesday's fighting.

The push towards Kassa was developing between the Bodva and Hernad rivers above Miskolc. At Abod the Russians were only three miles from the large town of Szendro, and 17 miles south of Szepsi (Moldava), a three-way road junction on the Bodva, 13 miles southwest of Kassa.

Another Soviet column striking along the Sajo river killed 300 German soldiers and knocked out six enemy tanks, Moscow said. These troops advanced seven miles from Sajoszentpeter and captured Barcika, 12 miles from the Slovak border.

Other activity along the Eastern front, including East Prussia, was limited to reconnaissance patrols, the communique supplement added. Ships of the northern Soviet fleet were credited with sinking two submarines.

The Russian army newspaper Red Star declared that the Germans already were moving their military depots and war plants into the Reich from frontier districts of Austria menaced by the current Soviet offensive.

The Moscow advices said heavy artillery duels were being waged in the area of suburban Ujpest, upstream from Budapest, and on Csepel island and the west bank of the Danube south of the capital. The enemy airfield on Budaors, on the Nazi escape rail line leading from Budapest toward Austria, was reported neutralized by Soviet guns.

More Artillery Fixed Before Budapest

Moscow, Dec. 13 (AP)—Russian assault forces pointed toward Budapest today from newly captured Godollo, ten and a half miles to the northeast, while artillery drew up in close formation at the northern and southern outskirts of the Hungarian capital.

Despite the close approach of the Red army siege semi-circle, no front dispatches mentioned anything about the fall of the Hungarian capital being "imminent."

Garrison Digs In

The city's inhabitants have fled westward by the thousands and the German garrison was said to have dug in, apparently determined to hold out until full destruction of the metropolis.

From the Russian positions many fires could be seen inside the city.

The fall of Godollo ripped a wide gap in the enemy's defense lines northeast of Budapest. An important rail junction, it was the last major enemy bastion controlling the approaches from that direction. A Soviet communique said the Germans lost 400 killed in its fall yesterday.

The Moscow communiqué also announced capture of Sajoszentpeter, ten miles north of Miskolc, and ten other towns in the Central Slovakia border area.

New Operations Predicted

These advances appeared likely to be linked eventually with the new operations to the west, north of the Danube bend, the objective being to pinch off from behind some 60 miles of mountainous German defenses in Northern Hungary.

Izvestia declared that "complete liberation of the Czechoslovak republic is near."

The army newspaper Red Star reported German authorities had begun a hurried evacuation of military depots and war plants from border districts of Austria.

WEATHER KEEPS BIG BOMBERS ON GROUND

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP) The mists and clouds of Europe's winter stifled the Allied air offensive against Germany today, holding the heavy bombers away from enemy targets which in the two previous days had been rocked by 20,000 tons of explosives from some 8,000 planes.

Bad weather closed in after a strong force of RAF Lancasters and Halifaxes, plus night fighters and Mosquitos, completed the second day of around-the-clock assault on enemy transportation and oil refineries with a shattering blow at Essen and a smaller strike at Osnabruck late last night.

Even the close support of the west front ground operations by medium and fighter bombers was cut to a minimum by weather.

Heavy bombing of the Citadel in Julich, ahead of the Ninth army's front northeast of Aachen, was carried out by planes of the 29th Tactical Air Command, and a Polish squadron of the RAF cut a railway line between Utrecht and Seiden farther north.

ESSEN SET ON FIRE BY R. A. F. BOMBERS

London, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—R. A. F. fire bombers put the torch last night to Essen, home of the Krupp armament works. The Essen raid increased operations against the Reich in a twenty-four-hour period to four major attacks on eight German cities by 4,000 British and American planes loaded with 10,000 tons of bombs.

Losses were thirteen British bombers, eleven American bombers and nine American fighters in the four attacks. It was the second straight day of 10,000-ton bombing for Germany by Fortresses, Liberators, Lancasters and Mosquitoes from United States Air Forces based in Britain and Italy, and the R. A. F.

Some night fighters opposed the Essen attack, but five were shot down. Six German aircraft were knocked out of the air by British Mustang pilots during a daylight attack on Witten by R. A. F. Lancasters.

All losses by the United States Eighth and Fifteenth Air Forces were due to Nazi ground gunners who filled the sky with ack-ack, particularly around Merseburg, where a synthetic oil plant was hit.

Tactical air units based in France and Belgium supplemented the heavy bombardment campaign. Thunderbolt pilots tangled frequently with German fighters on the United States Third Army front. Eleven Nazi craft were destroyed in the air. Seven United States Ninth Air Force planes were listed as missing.

Bad weather interrupted the offensive from British bases today.

Lieut. Frederick Thesfeld, Irvington, N. J., a lead bombardier in a formation which attacked Darmstadt yesterday, reported on his return that "conditions for bombing were perfect and we took full advantage of them."

ROBOTS HIT ENGLAND

London, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—German flying bomb attacks on southern England continued unabated during the night, causing a number of casualties.

LONDON HELD BIG ENOUGH

City Planners Advocate Setting Of 9 Satellite Cities

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—Britain's largest metropolitan area—London—is big enough, and further expansion should be prohibited while its factories and 10,000,000 inhabitants are reshuffled for a more reasonable and decent standard of living, it was recommended tonight.

Prof. Patrick Abercrombie, commissioned to draw up a postwar plan for the 2,500 square miles of densely populated London and its environs, gave the British Ministry of Town and Country Planning 130,000 words of recommendations which, if accepted, would require 10 to 20 years to execute.

Decentralization was the keynote of the ambitious plan which Abercrombie and his staff spent 2½ years perfecting.

Nine New Cities Planned

He recommended that one million persons be lifted from the heart of London and re-established in areas within a 30-to-50-mile radius of the old city.

Nine new satellite cities with a population of about 60,000 each would be set up on the outskirts of the city, he said.

Industries must go, too, the professor insisted, and many industries automatically will co-operate when decentralization is made attractive to them.

The planning expert suggested that evacuation due to air attacks

Nazi Answers LaGuardia On New York V-Attacks

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—A German spokesman commented with "biting irony" today, the Berlin radio said, on Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia's statement that New Yorkers would not deal with the Germans for 100 years if New York were bombarded with V-3 weapons.

[In a broadcast Sunday, LaGuardia said: "To the Nazis: Don't think you'll get away with it. If an attempt is made to bomb a defenseless city, the people of New York will have no business relations with Naziland for 100 years to come."]

"Apparently the Americans have gained permission to bomb Turin, Milan, Ravenna, Cologne, Munich or Vienna at discretion, while it is a deadly sin to do harm to New York," the spokesman said. "This American statement is grotesque."

The spokesman, described as "amused," added:

"This shows that LaGuardia reckons with the fact that the National Socialists will rule Germany for the next 100 years at least."

LaGuardia's Comment

In New York, LaGuardia said, in commenting on the German spokesman's remarks, "I think that the Nazis understood what I said; hence their anxiety."

"just about comes within limits of the plan."

If returning families are re-established in the new areas instead of patched-up bomb - damaged homes, this hurdle will be surmounted with little difficulty, he said.

West-end London, with is swanky apartment houses, still would be crowded with 200 persons to the acre, but nowhere else in England would the population be so dense.

Jamming To Be Reduced

Areas which now are jammed, some of them 500 to the acre, will be reduced to between 180 and 136 persons to the acre, graduating to 30 to the acre in the outlying regions.

Three hundred thousand new homes would be needed under Abercrombie's plan. Under the pre-war rate of 72,000 new houses a year, this phase might be completed in four or five years, he said.

Other construction, such as the network of ten express highways, patterned after those in the United States, radiating from London, might take as long as twenty years.

G. I.s Speed London Job

Ahead of Schedule in Building Houses for Bombed-Out Britons

LONDON, Dec. 13 (AP).—American soldiers building temporary houses for bombed-out Londoners are already ahead of schedule.

Starting Saturday and working through the week end, the G. I. engineers used a ten-day quota of cement in four days—and were required to slow down until supplies caught up with them.

Six hundred women demonstrators marched to the House of Commons today carrying placards demanding that the government build 4,000,000 temporary and permanent houses in the next five years.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY BACKING GREECE DECISION

KING

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP) Labor ministers in Prime Minister Churchill's coalition government threw their whole support solidly behind British policy in Greece today after their spokesman asserted Russia and President Roosevelt had agreed that "we (Britain) undertake the main problem of Greece."

Bulky Ernest Bevin, minister of labor and head of Britain's biggest union, took the stump at a stormy labor party convention to defend the tory prime minister and shouted:

"The steps which have been taken in Greece are not the decisions of Winston Churchill. They are the decisions of the cabinet. x x

"I took part with my labor colleagues in the whole of these decisions. x x x Looking back I cannot bring it to my conscience that any one of the decisions was wrong."

Bevin said, "I shall reconsider my position in the cabinet as to first steps that shall be taken when we enter other people's territory in order to get stability and feed the people who are in such bad condition."

He did not elaborate, but accused the left-wing Elas of breaking a promise made by all Greek parties to cooperate until plebiscite could be held to decide whether the country wanted a monarchy or republic.

By an overwhelming card vote based on union membership, the 1,000 delegates adopted 2,455,000 to 137,000 a resolution urging the government to seek an immediate armistice in Greece but avoiding any criticism of government policy so far.

Earlier, members of the labor partys executive committee cautioned against any motions that would mean a "chastisement of Churchill" and warned that it would probably force labor ministers to leave the national government.

Delegates of two important unions — The National Union of Railway Men and the Miner's Federation—supported the party-sponsored resolution, declaring publicly they did so chiefly in the interests of unity and in support of Laborite Bevin.

'Big 3' Okayed Influence Spheres, Says Bevin

London, Dec. 13 (AP) — Ernest Bevin, Minister of Labor, indicated today that Britain and Russia—with President Roosevelt's okay—were establishing separate spheres of influence in liberated Europe.

Replying to contentions that Britain was acting in Greece at cross-purposes with her allies, Bevin told the annual Labor party conference:

"Long before this we had an agreement with Russia whereby Russia undertook the main problem of Greece.

Denunciation Avoided

"This agreement was taken to Quebec, submitted to President Roosevelt and agreed to and initialed by him."

The party conference called on the Government to take steps to bring about an immediate armistice in Greece. It avoided any direct denunciation of Prime Minister Churchill's policy there.

The Russians have maintained silence on the developments in Greece.

Prime Minister Churchill said last week his Quebec conference with President Roosevelt had received a proposal from the combined chiefs of staff that the British occupy the Athens area and so pave the way for "the installment of the Greek Government, which we and the great bulk of the United Nations had formally recognized."

Speculation Cited

Ever since the Moscow conference between Churchill and Stalin there has been speculation that Britain and Russia had reached some agreement over the Balkans and southern Europe. This coincided with unofficial reports that Britain was advocating formation of a security-economic bloc which would include France, Belgium and the Netherlands.

The resolution, put forward by the party's executive committee, carried by a card vote of 2,445 000 to 137,000. These votes were cast by about 1,000 delegates, each of whom represents a union of known membership.

Demands Win Applause

Demands that the party break away from the Government policy won applause, but were beaten in the balloting after Bevin bluntly told the delegates that the Laborite ministers in the Churchill coalition Government accepted full responsibility with the Prime Minister for British policy in Greece.

"The stability of Greese is vital to the stability and ultimate settlement of the Balkans as a whole," Bevin said.

Cites Broken Agreement

Bevin said he appeared as a representative of the War Cabinet, and declared:

"Whether you agree that the Cabinet's judgment was right or wrong, at least it was arrived at on the basis of facts and with the sole objective of trying to the best we could to get Greece and other countries back on their feet."

He said the crisis developed because the Left-wing ELAS broke an agreement reached with all parties in Greece to co-operate in keeping order unfil a free election could be held to decide whether the Greek people wanted a monarchy or republic.

Criticize Moderation.

Spokesmen for both the National Union of Railwaymen and the Miners Federation announced support of the resolution, but criticized its moderation.

"We will have to support it out of unity, but we regret the bankruptcy of our present leadership," said Lawrence Plover, representing the miners.

John Benstead, spokesman for the railwaymen, said Labor promised in 1940 to stand behind Bevin, and added "we shall do so to the bitter end."

"But we cannot be hamstrung all the time," he said.

An army captain in uniform—Raymond Blackburn—asserted British policy in Greece "has stuck in the gizzard of even big businessman Stettinius and has made Moscow vomit."

Spokesmen for both the national union of railwaymen and the miners federation announced support of the resolution, but criticized its moderation. Before the ballot was taken, James Griffith, the floor leader for the resolution, warned that a "vote of no confidence in the government would be an indication to our labor colleagues in the cabinet to leave the government forthwith."

New Meeting of 'Big Three' Is Expected at Early Date

PARIS

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(AP) Signs of an imminent meeting between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, and possibly Marshal Stalin, multiplied here tonight.

At stake was the settlement of such immediate problems as the coordination of apparently diverging Allied policies in Europe and the necessity for speeding plans for the treatment of Germany after the war.

Among the signposts pointing to an early meeting was the sharp decline in Anglo-American relations, now possibly at their lowest ebb since the outbreak of the war.

Another sign was the fact that Roosevelt will be inaugurated Jan. 20. In view of this, and the need for improving Anglo-American relations, the speculation in informed quarters favored a before-the-end-of-the-year meeting rather than one delayed until spring.

Although diplomatic quarters speculated on the whereabouts of both Roosevelt and Churchill, censorship prohibited any mention of their movements.

Security also prevented naming of dates and places for such a conference. Among the possibilities were Great Britain, the Middle East, Canada, the United States—or, as one man remarked, in Roosevelt's famous Shangri-La.

The British press, meanwhile, argued that the meeting should be held in Great Britain. Weeks ago it launched a campaign to bring the Big Three together here. It contended that the 70-year-old Churchill had done far more than his share of traveling, and that the others should come to him.

Diplomatic observers agreed that here were many tangles in the political sphere which could well be discussed, and soon, by the Big Three.

Problems facing the Big Three for immediate consideration included:

1. Germany—From all indications, the Allies are far behind on their plans for dealing with post-war Germany. Coordination of policy for de-Nazifying Germany apeared to be one of the main points on the Big Three agenda.

2. One of the main subjects for solution was the principle issue of the Dumbarton Oaks conference: Unanimity betwen the Big Three in case of aggression by any of the great powers themselves.

3. Parallel policy in the liberated countries, in order to prevent crises similar to those in Greece and Italy.

4. Far East—An attempt probably by the United States and Great Britain to clarify further Russia's position after the collapse of Germany.

5. Poland—It has been generally agreed there should be a settlement on whether recognition would be given to the Lublin Poles as the provisional government of Poland, or further steps taken to bring together the Lublin Poles and the exiled government in London.

SEVERAL VEXING PROBLEMS

Anglo-American Relations Said to Be at Lowest Ebb Since This War Began.

London, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—The belief grew here today that a meeting of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill—and possibly Premier Josef Stalin—was imminent. A sharp decline in Anglo-American relations—possibly at their lowest ebb since the war began—was given as one argument against further delay.

Security would prevent any pin-pointing of dates and places for such a conference. The British press weeks ago launched a campaign to bring the big three together in Britain.

Eden Voices Hopes.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden expressed the hope that since Mr. Churchill had been visiting others, "others will visit us soon." A drawback to a conference in Britain, however, is the German V-weapons.

Some diplomats doubt that those responsible for protecting President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin would permit them to jeopardize their personal safety more than absolutely necessary. The London Daily Mail's New York columnist, Don Iddon, said today that there was a good reason why President Roosevelt kept well out of the clash on policy in Italy and Greece.

"Watch the news during the next few days for clews," Mr. Iddon suggested. "The President wasn't just idling and leaving it all to his new Secretary of State, Edward Stettinius, when the danger signals flashed."

Problems for Big Three.

Problems facing the big three include:

1. Germany—co-ordination of a policy for de-Nazifying Germany.

2. An attempt to settle the main issue of the Dumbarton Oaks conference — unanimity among the big three in case of aggression by any great power.

3. Parallel policy in the liberated countries.

4. Japan—The United States and Britain might seek to clarify Russia's position after Germany's collapse.

5. Poland — Whether recognition should be given to the Lublin committee as the provisional government of Poland, or further steps taken to bring together the Lublin Poles and the exiled Polish Government at London.

'Ike' Presents Medal To British Air Marshal

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—General Eisenhower visited London yesterday to present the Legion of Merit Degree of Chief Commander to Sir Sholto Douglas, air chief marshal, it was announced today.

The ceremony, in a United States Army headquarters in London, was attended by a small number of Allied officers.

Sir Sholto, "charged with the responsibility of integrating all British and United States air force units in the Middle East," was cited for "exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services."

The award is comparable to the American Distinguished Service Medal.

Hagg Out of Guardhouse

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 13 (AP).—Gunder Hagg, Swedish miler who didn't show enough speed in reporting for military duty, was a free man today after spending five days in a guardhouse. Hagg and Haakon Lidman, hurdler, expect to leave shortly after Jan. 1 for a series of races on indoor tracks in the United States.

8TH DENTS NAZI FAENZA LINES

DEC 14 1944

3-Mile Wedge Driven In German Defenses

Rome, Dec. 13 (AP)—Canadian units of the British 8th Army quickly took advantage of newly won Lamone River bridgeheads northeast of the northern Italian highway town of Faenza today to drive a wedge nearly three miles deep into German defenses.

Establishing their bridgeheads across the rain-swollen stream about nine miles from Faenza the Canadians straightened their lines along a continuous front of 6,000 yards.

Following a heavy artillery barrage and 24 hours of fierce fighting, they caught the enemy by surprise and stormed across the 50-foot river at two points simultaneously on Sunday night, it was disclosed.

Railway Straddled

On the northern flank the attack moved along the Ravenna-Bologna railway northwest of Russi. This route, first cut northeast of Russi several days ago, was reported straddled by Allied troops for some distance.

Allied headquarters announced the Canadians had shoved the Wehrmacht back 2 miles in the direction of Lugo, and that more than 300 prisoners were taken and a number of armored vehicles destroyed when the Germans were pushed back beyond the Fosso Vecchio o Cantrigo, a small stream which parallels the Lamone.

Allied positions below the new bridgehead line to Faenza remained unchanged, as the flooded Lamone provided an effective barrier.

Faenza Fall Imminent

It was believed unlikely the enemy would be able to hold Faenza for long. The bridgeheads were established only a few days after British and Polish troops had wrecked the Nazi's Lamone Line southwest of the town, a development which enabled the Canadians to bring pressure on both flanks of the Faenza defenses.

With the Canadians only 2½ miles from Lugo—on the only main road north of Faenza—German troops faced the prospect of becoming entirely dependent on one escape route should Lugo fall. That route is the Via Emilia leading to Bologna.

The Germans have launched several small but sharp counter-attacks against the 5th Army south of Bologna, but there is evidence they were intended primarily for screening Nazi defense preparations and preventing the Americans from consolidating for new thrusts northward.

In one assault the Germans gained temporary possession of Castel Nuova on the 5th Army's right flank.

Below the Bologna-Rimini highway southwest of Faenza a few German patrols stalked the hills, but the enemy apparently is still licking his wounds from the severe casualties inflicted by the Allies during the heavy Wehrmacht counter-attacks several days ago, when he failed to crack the Allied ring now closing around Faenza.

Allies Carve Two More Lamone Bridgeheads

Rio de Janeiro, Dec. 13 (AP)—A third contingent of Brazilian troops arrived in Italy December 7, the War Ministry announced today.

Rome, Dec. 13 (AP)—Canadian troops have spanned the Lamone river and established two bridgeheads northeast of the highway town of Faenza, shoving the Germans back two miles in the direction of Lugo, Allied headquarters announced today.

The bridgeheads, thrust across the stream some nine miles from Faenza, were joined in a continuous front of 6,000 yards after 24 hours of stiff fighting.

Drive Along Railway

The northern flank of the attack pushed along the Ravenna-Bologna railway northwest of Russi and the Allied troops were reported astride this route for some distance. This railway first was cut northeast of Russi several days ago.

The Germans were thrown back beyond the Fosso Vecchio O Cantrigo, a small stream paralleling the Lamone. More than 300 prisoners were taken and a number of armored vehicles were knocked out.

Below the new bridgehead line to Faenza the Allied positions were unchanged.

New Threat To Enemy

The new crossing constituted a grave threat to German troops battling to hold Faenza, for 8th Army forces previously had succeeded in winning a bridgehead across the Lamone below the city and have been holding it against repeated counterattacks.

On the 5th Army front the enemy made several attacks south of Bologna but all were turned back. In one of these assaults, the Germans gained temporary possession of Castel Nuova on the right flank of the 5th Army area.

In the air, Italian-based heavy bombers attacked targets in Germany yesterday and Balkan Air Force units bombed and strafed vehicles in Yugoslavia.

British Foil Landing Near Rhodes

ROME, Dec. 13 (AP)—Three enemy landing craft have been destroyed in an attempt to land forces on the small island of Symi, fifteen miles north of Rhodes in the eastern Mediterranean, Allied headquarters announced today. The British destroyer Liddesdale intercepted the craft and escaped without damage from the fire of enemy coastal batteries on Rhodes, a communiqué said.

Americans, Paced by Charles, Win Nine Bouts in Inter-Allied Boxing

ROME, Dec. 13 (AP).—Paced by Private Ezzard Charles, of Cincinnati, who was considerably better than a green hand in civilian life, doughboy boxers dominated the third day of the Mediterranean inter-Allied championships by winning nine bouts, five in international competition, today and tonight.

The 5th Army team, defending champion, captured three decisions. Following Charles's victory for the 5th Army squad over Corporal Stanley Goicz, of Yonkers, N. Y., in the afternoon, the evening's card saw Manuel Flores, pudgy Los Angeles infantryman who has been wounded twice, outpoint Peter Jackson, of the British Army, and reach the amateur welter semi-finals, and Private Victor Amato, of Brooklyn, and Weirton, W. Va., outclass Corporal James B. Moore, Lexington, Ky., Negro, gaining the amateur middleweight round of four.

Private Milton Glass, of Akron, Ohio, out-speeded Sapper Joseph Hall, of the British forces, reaching the professional lightweight final.

Sergeant Adolph Labrecque, of Holyoke, Mass., whipped Corporal Willie Jackson, of Harrisburg, Pa., in the amateur lightweight semi-finals, and Private Adolph Barlow, Philadelphia Negro, outpointed Corporal Richard Hammond, of Chicago, in a pro light heavyweight match.

The Doughboys won four or five afternoon bouts, two Britons meeting in the only scrap not won by a nephew of Uncle Sam.

Charles reached the title round of the professional light heavyweight division. Sergeant Ralph Burnley, smooth Philadelphian, did the same in the pro middleweight competition and Technical Sergeant Fourth Grade Arthur Attleson, of Verndale, Minn., pounded his way into the amateur featherweight final, upsetting Signalman Isaac Thomas, of Nova Scotia. Burnley whipped William McVeight, once Welsh champion under the name of Taffy Williams.

Private Willie Thomas, Tampa, Fla., Negro, reached the amateur lightweight semi-finals by outpointing Joseph Garcia, of the French Army.

Eden Silent On ELAS Report

London, Dec. 13 (AP)—Foreign Secretary Eden declined to confirm or deny today reports that Germans and Bulgarians have been serving with ELAS forces battling British troops in Greece.

Questioned in Commons, Eden said he had no statement to make at present. He said he was "answering with reserve because I do not wish to make things more difficult than they are."

No Respect For Poker

New York, Dec. 13—NBC Reporter Guthrie Janssen said in a broadcast from Athens today that Lieut. Arthur Schneider, of Philadelphia, was holding four-of-a-kind when an ELAS shell disrupted a poker game in the Greek capital recently. None of the players was injured. Janssen said Schneider was able to convince his companions that he had really held four sixes just before the explosion.

Leftists Also To Demand Freedom From Prosecution As A Party

EAM broadcasts its version of Greek dispute to world. Page 5

Athens, Dec. 13 (AP)—As calm descended tonight on Athens for the first time in a strife-torn week, it was reported in Leftist quarters that an emissary of the ELAS (fighting branch of the Left Wing EAM party) would call on Maj. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie tomorrow to announce acceptance of British terms to end the civil war.

This report was contrary to the announcement made earlier today by ELAS town criers who roamed the streets with megaphones, saying the terms offered by Scobie, British commander in Greece, had been refused and "we shall fight on if it means smashing Athens."

New Cabinet A Condition

According to the information from the Leftists, the ELAS will ask in return for their acceptance of the British conditions that they not be prosecuted as a party and that Scobie accept a new national government headed by someone other than Premier George Papandreou.

The offer will be made to Scobie by Alexander Svolos, former Finance Minister in Papandreou's Cabinet, it was said.

ELAS forces attacked British positions in the heart of the capital today, but were held off or beaten back with heavy losses.

The Leftist fighters who attacked and penetrated the British barracks compound were cornered and surrendered. Twenty-nine of the ELAS, including four officers, were taken prisoner. Six were killed and six wounded in this engagement.

Dynamite For Tanks

The heart of the capital was shaken by heavy explosions as the ELAS, the militia of the Left Wing EAM National Liberation Front, sent dynamite-laden streetcars careening against British tanks in Omonia Square.

ELAS troops attacked the center of Athens during the night even while their leaders were debating British orders to cease firing, and today attacked British positions in the heart of Athens, even penetrating within the walls of the British barracks compound, but were held or beaten back with heavy loss.

ELAS Scales Walls

The barracks attack came before dawn, northeast of the city center of Kifissia road. ELAS men scaled the walls of the barracks compound and set fire to stored gasoline. By sunrise they had been driven into a corner, but the fight continued.

The British brought in reinforcements during the night, crossing ELAS-held territory to do so.

The ELAS also renewed attacks on the Greek Rimini mountain brigade barracks at Goudi, 3 miles northeast of the center of Athens.

British troops cleared the Kallipolis Peninsula, on which the main part of the Piraeus, port of Athens, is built. This brought within the British perimeter the British-Greek government naval headquarters which had been isolated.

Another 100 ELAS snipers, mostly in civilian clothes, were captured in continuing British cleanup drives in Athens.

GREEK LEFTISTS REJECT ARMISTICE TERMS OF BRITISH

Center of Athens Rocked as Dynamite-laden Cars Are Loosed.

Athens, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—EAM-ELAS rejection of British terms for settlement of the Greek crisis was announced today by EAM town criers. They traversed the streets shouting: "We shall fight on, if it means smashing down all Athens."

The heart of the capital was shaken by heavy explosions as the ELAS, the militia of the left-wing EAM National Liberation Front, sent dynamite-laden street cars careening against British tanks in Omonia Square.

ELAS troops attacked the center of Athens during the night even while their leaders were debating British orders to cease firing.

The strongest assault was aimed at a British barracks northeast of the heart of the capital of the Kifissia Road.

[A British communique broadcast from Athens said further British reinforcements had gone into action, that some progress had been made against the ELAS in Piræus, port of Athens, and that R. A. F. planes silenced one ELAS 75-millimeter gun firing on central Athens.]

Naval Base Relieved.

Major-Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, presented his terms yesterday to Miltiades Porphyrogenis, representative of the EAM (National Liberation Front) and former Minister of Labor in Premier George Papandreou's Cabinet, who was brought to British headquarters in a British Army vehicle.

Strong, infiltrating ELAS forces scaled walls in darkness and penetrated the British barracks compound containing gasoline, ammunition, field artillery and armor. By sunrise they had been driven into a corner after suffering heavy loss of life, but this battle continued.

[The Ankara radio said today that ELAS forces are reported to have seized the Athens radio station. CBS recorded the Ankara broadcast.]

The highest point within Athens—monastery-topped Mount Likavettos—was reinforced in expectancy of an ELAS attack. Greek Rimini mountain brigade barracks at Goudi, three miles northeast of the city's center, were attacked again yesterday by reinforced ELAS troops.

British troops cleared Kallipolis Peninsula, on which the main part of Piræus town is built, and the long-isolated Anglo-Greek naval headquarters was brought within British control.

One hundred more ELAS men were picked up in cleared areas and most were snipers in civilian clothes, the authorities said.

General Awaits Reply.

Gen. Scobie's terms were presented yesterday to Miltiades Porphyrogenis, representative of the EAM (National Liberation Front) and former Minister of Labor in Papandreou's Cabinet, who was brought to British headquarters in a British Army vehicle.

The terms laid down by Gen. Scobie provided that the ELAS forces in Attica province—which includes Athens—must lay down their arms at once and that elsewhere in Greece the ELAS must undertake to obey British orders. They were announced after Gen. Scobie had conferred with Field Marshal Sir Harold Alex[illegible]er, Allied Mediterranean comm[illegible]er, who had hastened here to [illegible] a speedy end to the hostilities.

Sporadic fighting in Athens continued throughout yesterday, and a British communique last night said ELAS snipers had filtered back into some sections of the city from which they previously had been cleared. Several large fires started by ELAS dynamiting and incendiaries burned unchecked.

R. A. F. fighter planes strafed groups of ELAS fighters trying to enter the capital.

Shortly after his conference with the Eam delegate Gen. Scobie drove through sections of the city where Elas snipers were active, standing upright in the front seat of a scout car, to inspect forward British positions.

Allied Troops Take 2 Burma Towns

New Delhi, India, Dec. 13 (AP)—British and Chinese infantry, supported by artillery directed by an American officer, have engulfed Katha and Indaw, important Upper Burma towns about 155 miles north of Mandalay, in what the United States command today called a "truly amazing example of Allied co-operation."

The action was disclosed with the award of the Distinguished Service Order to Lieut. Col. Trevor Dupuy, of Washington, D.C., chief artillery officer for the British 36th Division. Dupuy directed Chinese artillery, the only big gun support the British 36th has had for some time.

Naba Also Taken

The Chinese 50th Division, its movements up to now cloaked for security reasons, protected the 36th's flanks and rear, enabling British and Indian troops to plunge down the Myitkyina-Mandalay rail corridor on a narrow front. Naba, ten miles above Katha, also was engulfed.

Indaw is ten miles west of the Irrawaddy river town of Katha, which itself is 52 miles west of Bhamo.

The award to Dupuy was made by Lieut. Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, Allied commander in chief. The American officer's leadership won high praise from Lieut. Gen. Daniel I. Sultan, United States Burma commander.

CHINESE GAIN IN KWANGSI

Advance 10 Miles Overnight Toward Hochih

DEC 14 1944

Chungking, Dec. 13 (AP)—As Chinese troops scored still further gains in Kwangsi province, Cabinet Spokesman P. H. Chang announced today that the high command was considering how to meet possible new emergencies and plans for making the best use of every opportunity to take the military initiative.

In an overnight advance of about ten miles, Chinese forces drove more than 20 miles into Kwangsi in pursuit of Japanese units retreating from Kweichow province. They were reported to be about fifteen miles from Hochih, which is some 95 miles northward of Liuchow, former site of an important United States air base.

No Comfort To Foe

The recent favorable turn of events in the Kwangsi-Kweichow region plus Allied successes in Burma, the intensified United States bombing of Japan and the forthcoming concentration of British naval strength in the Pacific could yield no comfort to the enemy, Chang said.

The daring but abortive Japanese penetration into Kweichow has made the Chinese people more war-minded than ever, Thousands are reported to be joining the army and civilian-aid services, and it is felt that the goal of 100,000 educated youths for the army set by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will be exceeded by the end of December.

"All this," Chang declared, "indicates that the Chinese people are as determined as ever to fight the war to final victory."

U.S. Planes Active

United States Air Force fighter-bombers attacked rail and ground installations in Central and North Central China yesterday, but unfavorable weather prevented operations on the South China fronts.

A Chinese field dispatch from Hunan province said the Chinese had repulsed a strong Japanese attack on their positions north of the Japanese stronghold of Paoching, which is about sixty-five miles west of Hengyang.

The Chinese also destroyed two trucks loaded with more than 70 Jaanese on the road between Hengyang and Leiyang, 35 miles to the south, killing all but three of the enemy, the dispatch said.

Burma Foe Falls Back On Wanting

Chungking, Dec. 13 (AP)—The retreat of Japanese units toward the border town of Wanting, where the Burma road cuts into China, was reported tonight by the Chinese high command.

An enemy withdrawal began after an artillery duel in the Manpang region northeast of Wanting three days ago. Chinese forces have captured a high position about 12 miles north of Wanting, west of the Lungshwan River, the high command said.

Wanting is 50 miles east of Bhamo and 200 miles northeast of Mandalay. Previously there have been indications of a Japanese withdrawal in the northern Burma area as far south as Mandalay.

In the Chindwin sector British East African patrols have entered Shegwyin under enemy fire from positions east of the village. Japanese units also hold strong points on a ridge about 1,000 yards to the north covering the town's approaches.

Katha, a large Irrawaddy River town 155 miles north of Mandalay, and the near-by town of Naba were entered by Allied troops without serious opposition, the high command announced.

Katha is 52 miles west of Bhamo, where an airstrip already is in use, and Naba is 10 miles northwest of Katha.

Some advances have been made in the northern area at Bhamo by Chinese 38th Division units.

CHINESE ADVANCE 10 MILES IN NIGHT

Chungking, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—Chinese troops have driven more than twenty miles into Kwangsi province in pursuit of Jap forces retreating westward from Kweichow province and are about fifteen miles from Hochih, the Chinese High Command announced today.

This represented an overnight advance of about ten miles on the part of the Chinese, who are moving down the Kwelchow-Kwangsi railway. Hochih is about ninety-five miles from Liuchow, former site of an important American air base.

Japs Kill Chinese Captives

Chungking, Dec. 13 (AP)—Gen. Fang Hsien-chueh, commander of the Chinese 10th Army, accused the Japanese today of ruthlessly slaughtering several thousand Chinese prisoners after the fall of Hengyang and personally voiced his shame over failing to hold the city or take his own life following his defeat. MOOSA

The general, over whose capture the Japanese made much ado, declared that when the city fell the invaders ignored his appeals to abide by international law and murdered Chinese prisoners.

Imprisoned In Church

Fang said the Japanese imprisoned him in the Catholic church at Hengyang. They repeatedly attempted to persuade him to accept a high position in the Chinese puppet army but he refused.

When enemy guards became less attentive, one of his men escaped and succeeded in contacting officers of the 10th Army who had eluded capture. With the aid of a guerrilla chieftain they planned Fang's escape.

On the night of November 19 Fang disguised himself, climbed over the high church wall, walked to the west of the city and met a guerrilla detachment, which escorted him into Chikiang, in western Hunan, after a march of twenty days and nights.

From there he was flown to Chungking, Fang said.

Japs Slaughtered Captives, Chinese Say

Chungking, Dec. 13 (AP)—Gen. Fang Hsien-chueh, commander of China's 10th Army, declared today the Japanese slaughtered several thousand Chinese prisoners of war after taking Hengyang.

Fang, now in Chungking after his escape from the fallen Hunan province city which he defended for 47 days, said the Japanese ignored his appeals to abide by international law and cease the massacre.

EVACUATE CIVILIANS

No Big Bombers Lost Over Target—Planes Return to Saipan.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tokyo radio, which previously had told the Japanese people the B-29 raids were intended primarily to shatter home morale and were causing little military damage due to stiff air defenses, adopted a graver theme Wednesday night.

A domestic broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the attacks were "becoming serious" and "the defense system of the capital must be strengthened."

The broadcast said "evacuation of young and old will be greatly facilitated" with all districts of Tokyo notified Monday of plans for getting non-essential civilians out of the crowded city.

Previously, a broadcast from Berlin quoting Tokyo sources, had placed the figure leaving in the first contingent at 20,000 persons. Japanese authorities were quoted in enemy broadcasts early last summer as reporting evacuation of non-essential residents was under way and new fire breaks had been built.

Tokyo radio today conceded that a Wednesday B-29 raid on Nagoya, first reported by the war department in Washington, had caused "some damage on the ground" in that sector of crowded war industries.

Big Hatsudoki Aircraft Plant Main Target; Damage Extensive

Twenty-first Bomber Command, Saipan, Dec. 13 (AP)—Superfortresses today bombed Nagoya, Japan's third largest city, centering their attack upon the largest aircraft factory. Numerous explosions and fires were observed.

Returning crews tonight said they concentrated on the Hatsudoki aircraft plant, the largest operated by the vast Mitsubishi company, at the northeast edge of Nagoya.

Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell, Jr., said at a press conference shortly before midnight that "the mission has been a success."

"Many bomb strikes have been obtained in the Mitsubishi aircraft works," he said. "Damage was quite extensive. I am not prepared to assess that damage until I have had a chance to study photographs, but I think it's a good mission."

None Lost Over Target

He added that early indications were that none of the B-29s was lost over the target.

Hansell said leading units found fighter interception, but this dwindled as other Superfortresses came over Nagoya later. There was considerable anti-aircraft fire. Both interception and flak were ineffective.

Col. Wiley D. Ganey, of Andalusia, Ala., leading one element, said his bombardier had an excellent visual shot at the target. He added: "I don't believe anything until I see photographs, but it looked as if this was one of the best."

(A Tokyo radio broadcast Wednesday night, recorded in the United States by the Federal Communications Commission, said:

1. The B-29 raids are "becoming serious."

(2. All districts of Tokyo have been notified of plans for the intensified evacuation of civilians.

(3. Many "essential installations" of vital war plants already have moved to underground sites and a "further large-scale" removal will be carried out quickly).

A rainstorm struck Saipan just as some B-29's started returning in darkness, causing great concern. Hansell and his staff members stood on an open platform of an inclosed aircraft signal tower for twenty minutes during the height of the storm while the B-29's roared helplessly in the sky and not one landed.

DEC 14 1944

Bombs Away At 2.30 P. M.

The first word spoken during that period was when Hansell pointed at a couple of faintly showing stars. He said: "It looks like it may break."

Hansell said later he was pleased at the manner in which several planes landed during the storm despite zero visibility.

The Hatsudoki plant participates in the production of most Japanese twin-engined bombers and navy fighters. The factory is 2½ miles east of Nagoya Castle and 8 miles north and inland from the dock area.

First bombs were away about 2.30 P.M.

The Superfortress pilots took Nagoya by surprise after feinting toward Tokyo, 165 miles to the northeast.

Tokyo Admits Damage From Raids

DEC 14 1944

Command, Saipan, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—Nagoya, one of Japan's most inflammable targets, was bombed at midafternoon today by a force of B-29s equaling or exceeding the largest group yet to hit Japan.

Upsetting enemy defenses, the Superforts made a feint toward Tokyo and then cut northwest to Nagoya, withdrawing over Nagoya Bay after making their bombing runs.

Where bombing runs on Tokyo were made with the wind at great speed over the target, today's Superforts went into action in the face of a westerly wind, slowing their speed and probably increasing the accuracy of their bombing. The planes also flew 3,000 to 4,000 feet lower than they did in the Tokyo raids, flying under the cirrus cloud layer to avoid leaving vapor trails.

As Gen. Jimmy Doolittle's daring raids did more than two years ago, the B-29s employed the great Nagoya castle on the city's highest ground about seven miles north of the docks area as a landmark. Downtown Nagoya's commercial district has few buildings higher than two or three stories except the eight and nine story Government offices, banks and stores.

Architecture Is Flimsy.

In 1938 the city had 315,402 wood and plaster buildings and only 662 of concrete or brick. It has large clusters of factories on the water front and on the northwest and northeast suburbs. The central commercial district, just south-southeast of the castle's eastern side is confined mostly to residential districts.

Today's flight involved a round-trip of about 3,000 miles, 300 to 400 less miles than required to reach Tokyo.

Nagoya's 1940 population was 1,328,084 and is exceeded in size only by Tokyo, 165 air miles to the northeast and Osaka, about ninety miles to the southwest.

Nagoya boasts the largest concentration of aircraft and aircraft parts plants in Japan. At the southern end of Nobi Plain, one of Japan's principal agricultural regions, Nagoya is also one of the four primary industrial centers of Japan.

Nagoya's War Industries.

Smaller in volume and less diversified than Tokyo or Osaka, Nagoya has an industrial system which is more modern and highly specialized for precision type of war production. Specializing in aircraft and engines' parts equipment the Mitsubishi, Aichi and other factories within the city comprise Japan's principal concentration of primary aircraft production facilities. Nagoya also has the largest single concentration of electrical and alloy steel plants in Japan and much shipping to supply its industries.

The city is served by four trunk railways which handled more through freight cars in 1936 to 1937 than any other Japanese rail terminal. In peacetime it was Japan's fourth busiest seaport.

Nagoya's wealth of industrial targets includes aircraft factories, arsenals, electric plants, electrochemical plants, machinery, machinery tool factories, explosives and iron works.

Highly Inflammable City.

The city also fits perhaps better than any other big city this description—it is inflammable. It has densely crowded residential districts and mushrooming, congested industrial sections whose narrow streets are crowded with small wooden shacks even in the city's heart. This provides a great fire hazard. Unlike Tokyo and other major cities, no earthquake or fire disaster in the last fifty years has cleaned up Nagoya.

Several B29s made night reconnaissance flights over the Nagoya area the past few days. A plane commanded by Lieut.-Col. Frank L. Davis of Cornwall, N. Y., found it blacked out, with no searchlights, ack-ack or interception. Another plane commanded by Major Clarence C. Fowler, San Antonio, Tex., also found the city blacked out, but visible in clear weather. Nagoya has finer weather and less cloudy days than other Japanese cities.

San Francisco, Dec. 13 (AP)—Admitting that "there was some damage on the ground," Radio Tokyo said today that "about 80" Superfortresses had struck the Japanese home islands of Honshu and Shikoku and Japanese-occupied Korea.

The Japanese imperial headquarters communique, recorded here, said:

"This afternoon, December 13, about 80 B-29's from the Mariana Islands in small formations raided the Tokyo vicinity and the Shikoku area, and with the main force raided Aichi and Shizuoka prefectures. As for war results achieved in intercepting these planes, investigations are under way at present.

"Though there was some damage on the ground in Aichi and Shizuoka prefectures, no damage was suffered in the other areas."

Nagoya Target

The Japanese news agency defined the target more closely, saying that the bombs were dropped over the Nagoya and Hamamatsu areas, but added that the bombs had been dropped "at random."

Nagoya is in Aichi and Hamamatsu is in Shizuoka, on the east coast of Honshu, southwest of Tokyo.

The raids on these cities, said Domei, occurred at about 1.30 P.M., Japanese time.

Domei also admitted that damage had been inflicted, but claimed it was "slight."

Domei added that Japanese fighter planes had intercepted the B-29's making the raid and that they were "believed to have caused heavy losses to the enemy."

Korea Center Raided

In reporting the raid, Domei said that "one or two enemy planes" had appeared over the Tokyo-Yokohama district, over the Iiroshima district, which is near the southern tip of Honshu, over "western Japan" and over the Keijo (Seoul) district of Japanese-dominated Korea. Keijo is in western Korea and is the capital.

In a home-consumption report, radio Tokyo said that "three enemy planes" had "raided" western Korea for two hours, from 11.30 A.M. to 1.30 A.M., Japanese time. The announcement added that because of the "powerful" Japanese air defense, the attacking planes "fled over the seas to the south without accomplishing anything"

In a later broadcast Tokyo reported two separate B-29 reconnaissance flights over the Darien district of the Kwantung peninsula, near Port Arthur.

Meanwhile, Tokyo radio also fanned the fires of propaganda in a rather obvious attempt to whip up the homeland's fighting spirit.

Without any Allied confirmation it said:

The Emperor's Palace grounds have been bombed by B-29's.

The Emperor has visited a famed shrine to pray for victory.

An island in the Philippines—tiny and of questionable military value—has been "completely occupied."

Leyte Disaster

These broadcasts were made at a time when military disaster threatens the forces of Japan's hero of Singapore, Lieut. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, on West Leyte.

The most popular figure the Japanese could use in a time of stress is the slightly built Emperor, Hirohito. Knowing that, directors of the Superfortress raids have supplied B-29 pilots with maps of Tokyo and instructed them to scrupulously avoid dropping bombs on the palace.

"Crush The Enemies"

The broadcast account of the Emperor's visit to the famed Shrine of Ise at Ujiyamada significantly coupled with it an exhortation to the Japanese people to "relieve the great thoughts of his Imperial Majesty by crushing the enemies, America and Britain."

Another broadcast, directed to North America, said Japanese troops had occupied Ponson Island in the Camotes Sea below American-won Ormoc and "frustrated the enemy plan to use that island as a base for his torpedo boats."

The broadcast, recorded by the Australian Department of Information, said: "The enemy has raided us from time to time and bombs have even exploded at the seat of the Imperial Palace, causing damage to a manor."

SLIGHT OPPOSITION IS FACED

Tokyo Radio Admits Some Damage Was Done on the Ground by Giant Planes.

Washington, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—Heavy explosions and large fires were reported by B-29 flyers who raided Nagoya today.

Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding General of the Twentieth Air Force, said that preliminary reports from the strike on the industrial Japanese home island of Honshu revealed that the bombing was accomplished visually.

Air Force officers declined to say how many Superfortresses took part in the raid, but it was indicated, on the basis of authorized statements, that upward of 100 B29's participated. Crews reported the flak as moderate and fighter opposition as slight, Gen. Arnold said. He added that losses of the Twenty-first Bomber Command, "if any, will be determined and announced after final crew reports are carefully tabulated."

Damage on Ground Admitted.

The Tokyo radio said "that about eighty" Superfortresses had struck the Japanese home island of Honshu and Shikoku and Japanese-occupied Korea. "Some damage on the ground" was admitted.

Domei, Japanese news agency, claimed that Japanese fighter planes intercepted the B29s and that they were "believed to have caused heavy losses to the enemy."

Gen. Arnold said that the raid was aimed at Nagoya, home of the Mitsubishi aircraft plant and one of Japan's four principal industrial manufacturing centers. His announcement said simply that a sizable force of Superfortresses participated.

Over 100 Foots In Raid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — (AP) Perhaps the mightiest armada of Superfortresses yet flung against Japan kindled huge fires and set off heavy bomb blasts today in the manufacturing area of Nagoya.

More than 100 B-29's, it was indicated, composed the force which struck at the home of the Mitsubishi aircraft plant and one of Japan's four principal manufacturing centers.

A communique from 20th Airforce Headquarters here said the Saipan-based raiders reported they were able to observe the results of their visual bombing and that heavy explosions and large fires were seen in the target area.

Tokyo radio, tardily confirming the first war department announcement of the raid, acknowledged some damage and said Japanese interceptors were "believed to have caused heavy losses to the enemy."

Moderate antiaircraft fire and slight fighter opposition were reported by the crews of the far-ranging superfortresses.

Nagoya, third largest city in Japan, is the country's largest aircraft manufacturing center. In addition it has arsenals, electric plants, explosives and iron works. Unlike Tokyo and other major cities whose buildings have been modernized after earthquakes or fires, Nagoya has a half century's accumulation of inflammable structures.

A Saipan dispatch by Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent, said the superfort pilots took Nagoya by surprise after feinting toward Tokyo, 165 miles to the northeast.

Raids From Aleutians Seen

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Army Air Forces today projected the possibility of Superfortress blows against the Japanese homeland from bases in the Aleutian Islands.

At a news conference an AAF spokesman said "wherever land masses are within range of B-29 targets and all other factors are favorable, we will put them there. That goes for B-24s when we get close enough."

Aleutian Bases Big Enough

Col. J. K. Fogle, intelligence officer of the 11th Air Force operating in Alaska and the North Pacific, said existing Aleutian bases west of Umnak were capable of "taking the largest aircraft we have." Umnak is roughly 2,000 miles from Japan. The longest reported flight of B-29's thus far was a 3,600-mile round trip.

DEC 14 1944

The best operating seasons in the Aleutians, Fogle said, are from April through June and from October through December, with not more than 60 to 90 days a year providing ideal operating conditions.

Arnold Says Foe Is Reeling

FORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 13 (AP).—The B-29 raids on Japanese industry have that enemy "reeling in the ring," and labor and management alike must put aside post-war plans and give the armed forces materials to prevent a comeback, General H. H. Arnold said today.

said he hopes to "reduce the Japanese industrial arm to the same impotency we have the German," but added, in an interview with "The Star-Telegram," that it will be a "long, tough fight that will require ever-increasing production."

Tokyo Adopts Graver Theme

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Tokyo radio, which previously had told the Japanese people the B-29 raids were intended primarily to shatter home morale and were causing little military damage due to stiff air defenses, adopted a graver theme Wednesday night.

A domestic broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, said the attacks were "becoming serious" and "the defense system of the capital must be strengthened."

The broadcast said "evacuation of young and old will be greatly facilitated" with all districts of Tokyo notified Monday of plans for getting nonessential civilians out of the crowded city.

Previously, a broadcast from Berlin, quoting Tokyo sources, had placed the figure leaving in the first contingent at 20,000 persons. Japanese authorities were quoted in enemy broadcasts early last summer as reporting evacuation of nonessential residents was under way.

Report Japanese on Leyte 'Disorganized, Scattering'

DEC 14 1944

SCHEDLER

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Thursday, Dec. 14—(AP) Troops of the U. S. Seventh Division in Ormoc, on the Leyte island west coast, are cleaning out pockets of Japanese resistance to the east of American positions, while the 77th Division maintains pressure to the north, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today.

The 77th Division, which captured Ormoc Sunday and later was joined by the Seventh coming up from the south, has been regrouping its units and sending patrols north to probe enemy strength to the rear of the Yamashita defense line.

Deprived of Ormoc, port through which the Japanese received most of their supplies, the Nipponese are being pressed into the mountains to the northwest also under attack by the 32nd U. S. Division coming down from the Carigara Bay coast and the First Cavalry Division driving in from the northeast.

MacArthur said the Japanese caught by the juncture of the Seventh and 77th Divisions were suffering "extraordinarily heavy" losses in their desperate effort to escape over mountain trails.

(Thomas Folster, NBC correspondent on Leyte, reported Japanese ground forces there are "completely disorganized" and are "scattering in all directions, having lost contact with their leaders."

Beginning of End

("This is the beginning of the end for the emperor's forces here in the Ormoc valley," Folster said.)

Three small Japanese transports loaded with troops were sunk in Ormoc harbor Tuesday night by American shore guns. The Nipponese apparently were unaware that the Yanks held the town when the craft slipped into the harbor.

Sixteen Japanese fighter-bombers attempted to attack American positions around Ormoc Monday night and early Tuesday morning. Marine Corsair fighters shot down five attackers.

Navy Liberator bombers, continuing their search and patrol over Manila and the nearby Cavite area, on Luzon island, attacked enemy shipping there Monday night and Tuesday. The communique gave no details.

Allied aircraft were active in sweeps which sank a 3,000-ton freighter-transport near Mindoro island, Philippines, and pounded enemy oil facilities on Borneo.

Waterfront installations and docks at Sandakan, Borneo, were hit by patrol planes which also sank or damaged five enemy coastal vessels.

Fighters struck at Tarakan, on the Borneo northeast coast, strafing Japanese refinery buildings, six oil tanks and reservoirs and starting fires visible 80 miles.

Heavy bombers hit the enemy's airdromes at Kendari and Tiworo on Celebes island with 50 tons of explosives. Other bombers struck at Japanese supply dumps and bypassed installations from the Lesser Sundas to New Guinea, Rabaul on New Britain and New Ireland.

More Japs Drowned Off Leyte

U. S. Planes Blast Another Enemy Convoy—Death Toll Now Well Over 30,000.

DEC 14 1944

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—More thousands of Japanese troops were drowned off western Leyte on Monday and Tuesday in Philippine inland seas which have claimed far in excess of 30,000 Nipponese soldiers, spilled to their death from bomb-blasted reinforcement convoys.

The latest losses occurred as American planes, attacking for thirty-six hours, accounted for five transports and four destroyers of an eleven-ship convoy, despite the terrific battle put up by covering Nipponese fighter aircraft. Night-prowling patrol-torpedo boats plasted a sixth transport, leaving only a destroyer of the convoy to get away unscathed.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, whose previous communicated accounts of the devastation wrought on eight other convoys estimated that at least 30,000 enemy soldiers perished, said today concerning the ninth convoy: "Enemy troop losses by drowning are believed to have been heavy."

The six transports and five destroyers were spotted on Monday, at dawn off northwestern Leyte. During the day, Army and Marine Corps planes, boring through swarms of Nipponese fighters over the convoy, sank three destroyers, a transport of 10,000 tons, a second of 5,000 tons, and a third of 4,000 tons.

Eight U. S. Planes Lost.

That night two patrol-torpedo boats, commanded by Lieut. John M. McElfresh of Olean, N. Y., and Lieut. Melvin W. Haines of Evanston, Ill., sent down a 5,000-ton transport of the convoy at anchor at Palompon. Palumpon, connected by a poor, winding trail to the Ormoc corridor, is the supply port of last resort for the Japanese since the loss of Ormoc, sixteen miles to the southeast.

On Tuesday, at Palompon, Yank planes so severely blasted a fourth destroyer and two freighter-transports that all probably sank. The enemy air force not only made a stiff fight over the convoy, but also scored some damaging blows against an American supply convoy on Sunday night as it was retiring from Ormoc after unloading.

"Fifty enemy planes were destroyed in combat, with five additional probable," today's communique said. "We lost eight fighters."

Rains Plague Americans.

Japan has lost well over 1,000 planes in the fight for Leyte. The reinforcement convoy losses to date total thirty-nine transports and twenty-eight escorting warships.

Still plagued by rains, Yank ground forces on Western Lyete maintained pressure on Lieut.-Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's defenders below Limon in the northern sector of the Ormoc corridor. At the southern end, the captors of Ormoc organized the base for further operations.

Even if the Japanese succeeded in getting troops and equipment over to the Ormoc corridor from Palompon, they will face the same peril of the troops already there—entrapment between the Thirty-second Infantry Division, southbound from Limon, and the Seventy-seventh and Seventh in position to strike northward from Ormoc.

Japs Broadcast Claims.

Unconfirmed Japanese claims of sinking two destroyers, two medium-sized transports and three torpedo boats in Philippine waters were broadcast by the Nipponese radio today. A Domei broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission here, that one destroyer and the two medium transports were part of a convoy of twelve transports and five destroyers attacked by the "special attack corps" off Baybay, on the west coast of Leyte Island, on Tuesday.

DEC 14 1944

In another broadcast the Tokyo radio said that an enemy destroyer was sunk by Japanese planes in the Surigao Straits off Leyte and the torpedo boats were trapped and sunk in the Camotes.

Nimitz Talk Linked To Aleutian Action

By The Associated Press.

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 13—American Army and Navy commanders of the Central Pacific and Aleutian war areas have just concluded secret conferences with Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander of the Pacific Ocean areas, dealing with future operations against Japan.

Disclosure today of the meetings and names of the participants directed attention toward the Aleutian and Alaska theatres.

From the Northern War Front came Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, Commander of the Alaskan Department, and Vice Admiral Frank J. Fletcher, commander in the Aleutians. Lieut. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner Jr., former commander of the Alaskan Department, also attended.

Others at the conferences included Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, Commander of the United States Fifth Fleet; Vice Admiral C. H. McMorris, Chief of Staff to Admiral Nimitz, and Rear Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, Deputy Chief of Staff in Charge of Operations.

STRATEGISTS MAP ACTION IN PACIFIC

MCMURTRY

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the oceanic areas of the Pacific, has just conferred with military and naval commanders of the central Pacific and Aleutian theaters in regard to strategy affecting important forthcoming operations, it was disclosed today. Though the conferences appear on the surface to deal with the Aleutians, they are believed to have the more direct objective of Japan itself, though possibly not in the near future.

Those attending the conference included Admiral Raymond A. Spruance, co-hero with Vice-Admiral Marc A. Mitscher in the first battle of the Philippine Sea, and commander of the Fifth Fleet; Lieut.-Gen. Delos C. Emmons, commander of the Alaskan department and former commander of the Hawaiian department until June 1, 1943; Lieut.-Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, former commander of the Alaskan department, and Vice-Admiral Frank J. Fletcher, commander of the North Pacific. Joining the conferences were Vice-Admiral C. H. McMorris, chief of staff to Admiral Nimitz, and Rear Admiral Forrest P. Sherman, deputy chief of staff in charge of operations and one of the most brilliant strategists in the Pacific.

Admiral Sherman formerly was a carrier commander in some of the most important battles of the Pacific, but he is not to be confused with Rear Admiral Frederick C. Sherman, commander of one of the task groups currently in the western Pacific.

Battle the Foe

DEC 1 1944

Again

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 13—(AP) The destroyer U.S.S. Albert W. Grant should be at the bottom of the Pacific, but she still floats and again is ready for action.

One of the miracles of the battle of Surigao Strait, the details were told by Ens. Tom Ham, Atlanta, Ga., Grant's gunnery officer, in an interview released today by Pacific Fleet headquarters.

The Grant, charging through the night between the United States and Japanese fleets, was riddled by shells. Her surviving crewmen became too busy saving themselves and their ship to enjoy the spectacle of the sinking or damaging of all the Nipponese vessels.

"On the night of Oct. 24 we were barreling down the straits," said Ens. Ham.

"The Jap fleet loomed as dark blobs out ahead of us. Behind us our own battle line had opened fire. It was the Grant's job to get as close as possible and make a torpedo run.

"Arching above us as we dashed in for the close work was a rainbow of whistling hell—as the big guns of the battlewagons exchanged salvo after salvo.

"Closer and closer we moved—right into the teeth of the big enemy task force. The torpedo officer, Lt. (j.g.) E. J. Pfeifer of Montpelier, Vt., advised the captain, Commander T. A. Nisewaner of Boise, Idaho that he was ready. The skipper gave the order 'torpedoes away!'

"Five lean, silvery 'fish' leaped out of their tubes and splashed into the water to port, and started churning on their way.

"Then there was a series of low, quick 'whoosh' sounds, like split-second thunder, each cut off by a dull splash. Geysers of water leaped up from both sides of the Grant, spewing over the bridge.

"There followed a sickening, crunching sound. Then a blast. The ships seemed to pause and shudder. Fires broke out. Then more explosions — intermingled with the screams of injured men.

Destroyer Braved Jap Fire, Typhoon, Is Now Ready to

"The safety valves in the boiler room tripped. Live steam turned the engine room into a volcano. Ammunition in the ready racks blew up. Fires had started both forward and amidships—and there was no water in the smashed fire mains.

"Our power cables had been shot away. Our steering control knocked out, rudder thrown hard to the left, we were driving in a crazy circle straight back towards the Japanese battle line at point blank range.

"The lights had gone out. There was no power with which to fire the guns. The lifeboats were smithereened. Our decks were littered with dead and wounded.

"Then the Engines Quit"

"Then the engines quit.

"We were right in the middle of the line of fire. Shrapnel was spraying the deck. Shells were landing everywhere. We were down by the bow, and listing heavily to port.

"It may have been five minutes; it may have been a year. But suddenly the firing ceased. There was an eerie silence, broken only by low groans.

"Then reports began pouring up to the bridge over the remaining ship's phones.

"'Repair party No. 2 all wiped out . . . fire in 40 millimeter gun four . . . several men trapped in one of the fire rooms . . . compartment flooded with live steam . . . ten men dead on the port side amidships . . . man with both legs shot away back aft . . . man with an arm gone on the superstructure deck.'

"'Where's the doctor, bridge?' came anxious phone queries. ('In God's name, where's the doctor, bridge?'"

Doctor was Dead

"But the doctor—Lieutenant (j.g.) Charles Akin Mathieu, USNR, of Portland, Ore.,—was dead.

So was one of the corpsmen. Only man left in the medical department was W. H. Swaim, Jr., pharmacist mate second class, from Thomasville, N. C.

"Swaim set up emergency battle dressing stations and directed all first aid work—a boy of twenty handling a job big enough for a score of doctors.

"Gunners' mates plunged down into the dark, flooding bowels of the ship and groped for heavy shells that hadn't exploded yet — and lugged them up slippery ladders to heave them over the side.

"Engineers dived into the flooded bilges and closed the seacocks.

"Ensign F. D. Case, Assistant Engineering officer, Franklinville, N. C., was ripped open by shrapnel and bleeding profusely, and yet he organized a crew to move the wounded to the wardroom. He carried two men forward and was helping a third when he collapsed.

"R. H. Parker, Machinist's Mate First Class, of Rocky Mount, N. C., saved the lives of at least six men.

"He ran forward through a hail of shrapnel, shut off steam valves, and dived into the flooding, steam-filled fire room and brought up the scalded firemen.

"When dawn came, the Grant was still dead in the water. But the men, who had miraculously kept her afloat, worked on.

"They rigged emergency power lines. They patched the remaining guns so that the Grant could fight back. They got her engines working again, and got her underway for an American anchorage.

"Two days later, a typhoon kicked her, crippled, all over Leyte gulf. But the crew held her together, and brought her in. It's men like that saved the Grant, and it's men like that that'll take her out to fight again."

Argentine Jurists Weigh Press Role

Buenos Aires, Dec. 13 (AP)—A committee of three jurists appointed to draft a law regulating activities of Argentine political parties announced today it would "survey with the greatest interest all views concerning the Argentine press" and its place in the nation's politics.

The press is "an essential source of information," the committee said.

Appointed last Saturday in another step by Argentina's military government toward restoration of constitutional government, the committee said it would welcome suggestions of all persons and organizations to devise a statute satisfying general public opinion.

Action May Forecast Shakeup In Corps

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Two major shifts in European diplomatic assignments augured tonight a possible extension into the foreign service of a shakeup now under way in the State Department.

They gave impetus to conjectures whether Edward R. Stettinius, Secretary of State, might want to work with new men in such key spots as London and Moscow.

One of the day's moves on the international checkerboard pointed to a broad revision of the pattern of diplomacy in the Balkans. It was a surprise transfer for Laurence A. Steinhardt, Ambassador to Turkey, President Roosevelt nominated him to be Ambassador to the Czech Government operating from London.

Armour Sent To Madrid

The second job shift had been forecast. Carlton Hayes resigned as Ambassador to Spain, presumably to resume a history professorship at Columbia University.

Norman Armour, acting director of the State Department's American Republics Office, was appointed to the Madrid post. Armour was Ambassador to Argentina until American relations with that South American neighbor fell apart some months ago.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee quickly turned in a favorable report on Armour's nomination.

Johnson To Costa Rica

Named to fill the vacancy left in the Embassy in Costa Rica by the death of Fay Desportes was Hallett Johnson, a foreign service officer.

No disposition was evident, either at the State Department or White House, to discount the possibility of additional diplomatic changes. There was apparent, rather, a feeling that the new Secretary of State was entitled to deal with the representatives he wants in foreign capitals.

Hopkins May Go To London

Liberation of additional countries will, of course, call for re-examination of the diplomatic links maintained with exiled governments in wartime. Some of them may need strengthening.

Talk of new ambassadors to Russia and Britain has been in the gossip stage for some time. Neither W. Averell Harriman, who has been in Moscow fourteen months, nor John G. Winant, who has served in London since 1941, is a career man.

There has been speculation that Winant might replace Labor Secretary Perkins in the Cabinet. Should he leave London, the man to move in might be Harry L. Hopkins, intimate of President Roosevelt. Hopkins has had little experience in diplomacy, but he is a close friend of Prime Minister Churchill.

Apparently not figuring in any plans for reshuffling are Jefferson Caffery and Alexander C. Kirk, only recently made Ambassadors to France and Italy.

Turkish Problems Dissolve

Figuring in the Steinhardt move was the fact that once-touchy problems in Turkey have been largely dissolved. They involved such matters as Turkish trade and diplomatic ties with the Nazis, and use of the Dardanelles.

Steinhardt, regarded generally as one of the most capable of front-rank diplomats, will be accredited to a government whose importance in the Balkans will tend to increase instead of wane.

Russia has exhibited an interest in the future of the Czechs. There have been reports she might like to make Prague the seat of a world peace organization.

Armour Chosen Ambassador To Spain

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP) — The White House announced today the resignation of Carlton Hayes as Ambassador to Spain and the nomination of Norman Armour to replace him.

Armour now is acting director of the State Department's Office of American Republic Affairs. At the time of the appointment of Secretary of State Stettinius and the reshuffling of the top level of department positions, President Roosevelt announced he would give Armour an important new position.

Armour formerly was Ambassador to Argentina. He was recalled several months ago when United States-Argentina relations became strained.

Steinhardt To Exiled Czechs

The President, in another diplomatic shift, nominated Laurence A. Steinhardt, now Ambassador to Turkey, to be Ambassador to the Czech Government in exile in London. The Turkish assignment was left open.

Hallett Johnson was nominated Ambassador to Costa Rica, succeeding Fay Desportes, who died several weeks ago.

Reported Returning To Columbia

Chairman Connally (D., Texas) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said it was his understanding that Hayes is leaving the diplomatic service and returning to his former connection with Columbia University.

Hayes went to Spain as Ambassador two years ago. He and the British Ambassador, Sir Samuel Hoare, were the chief negotiators of the Allied-Spanish deal by which Spain cut shipments of wolfram to Germany to a mere trickle.

Criticized Recently

Recently he has been the target of criticism from some groups here who contended he was inclined to deal too leniently with the Franco Government.

Before entering the diplomatic service he was Seth Low professor of history at Columbia.

Turkish Relations Seen Smooth

Steinhardt's appointment indicates that the most difficult period of Allied-Turkish relations has been hurdled. He is considered one of the country's ablest diplomats and formerly was Ambassador to Russia.

Czechoslovakia is a post of prime importance, because Prague is in the center of the restless Balkans and, as the seat of probably the most stable Balkan government, has been mentioned as a possible site for the future world security organization.

Action on State Department Aides Delayed by Senators

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — (AP) Senators turned from cotton and poetry to a search for a mysteriously "missing" diplomatic document tonight as they delayed final committee action on six state department appointments.

The Foreign Relations Committee, meeting behind closed doors, decided to hold an executive session tomorrow morning to delve into a question raised at public hearings today by Senator Guffey (D-Pa).

Guffey told his colleagues that he had been to the state department trying to find a report he was informed had been made by Claude Bowers, then ambassador to Madrid, during the Spanish Civil war. The Pennsylvania senator said he was told this report was favorable to the anti-Franco forces.

But Guffey added that as far as he could learn, the Bowers report had never reached President Roosevelt or the Secretary of State.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said that James C. Dunn, who has been a State Department official for years, would be available for questioning about the matter tomorrow. Dunn was one of five nominated for assistant Secretary of State.

Connally said Guffey also expressed a desire to ask a question or two of Nelson Rockefeller, also nominated for an assistant's post, and Rockefeller would be on hand.

The committee temporarily ended its public hearings earlier after it had spent the morning learning about the plight of the American cotton farmer from Will L. Clayton. In the afternoon it listened, often amused, while Senator Clark (D-Mo) questioned Archibald MacLeish about poetry MacLeish had written.

Clayton and MacLeish also were nominated for assistant secretaries, as was Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes. Holmes testified Tuesday and took a plane for Europe but Senator Pepper (D-Fla) was said to have raised some question about the general's qualifications in today's closed session. Connally doubted that Holmes could be called back.

There have been no expressions of opposition to Joseph C. Grew, chosen for undersecretary of State.

Connally conceded that today's developments precluded Senate action on the nominations tomorrow, but expressed hope it would come Friday. He predicted confirmation for the six, after "some debate."

MacLeish Admits Not Everyone Can Understand His Poetry

DEC 14 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP) Archibald MacLeish acknowledges readily that not everyone can understand his poetry.

The clarity of his verse was made an issue today in a Senate Foreign Relations committee hearing on his qualifications to be an assistant secretary of state.

"I may not be smart," said Senator Clark D-Mo.), after reading one of the poems of the present librarian of Congress, "but for the life of me I can't figure out any meaning to that."

MacLeish replied:

"Others have had the same difficulty."

Without explaining the meaning, he recalled that a similar observation was made to Robert Browning some time after the English poet had written a verse. Browning replied that at the time it was written only he and God knew the meaning, and now only God knew.

The two verses of MacLeish's works which Clark read were taken from a collection entitled "Tower of Ivory" printed by the Yale University press in 1917.

Bearing the head "immortality," they follow:

Verse 1

"Nay, I have lived before, and other where
"Have lolled against the breast of God's unseen,
"And watched infinities of things careen
"With shouted laughter down the startled air,
"And caught the truth by his entangled hair,
"And plucked at beauty's burnished wing to preen
"A broken feather from its golden sheen,
"And smiled with love, slow walking, white in vair."

Verse 2

"How else—when you come running to surprise
"My heart with sudden arms about my throat,
"And laugh with such a wishful little note—
"How else am I, love's acolyte, so wise
"To know that dreams and passion turned devote,
"And joy grown sad, are love with wide girl's eyes?"

Critics of England, Russia Warned of 'Careless Talk'

DEC 14 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — (AP) Congress rang with loud and angry debate over criticism of Britain and Russia today, with administration supporters accusing the critics of "careless talk" which might prolong the war.

On the House side, a razor-edged exchange was touched off by a Pennsylvania congressman's attack on Prime Minister Churchill and British draft policies.

Churchill, declared Rep. Gavin (R.-Pa.), "seems content to let us throw thousands of our boys into action to carry on the fight, hundreds of whom are liquidated every day."

Up leaped Rep. Luther A. Johnson, Texas Democrat, shouting "the gentleman has rendered a disservice to his country and to the Allies."

Statements like Gevin's "should be suppressed," Johnson declared, adding that "they are calculated to promote disunity, prolong the war and encourage Hitler."

In the ensuing general debate, Democrats accused Republicans of nagging at the war effort and Republicans said Democrats spurn "constructive criticism" for political reasons.

During the height of the House argument, Senator Brooks (R.-Ill.) took the floor in the Senate to criticize both Britain and Russia for current political clashes in Europe.

America is sending her sons to push the Germans back, Brooks said, while both Britain and Russian are "engaging in a race for the future balance of power on the European continent."

Brooks declared Russia intends to extend her philosophy throughout the Balkans and Britain wants to set up puppet governments in Italy, Greece, Belgium and France. He demanded immediate clarification of the United States' foreign policy.

At one point, Gavin told the House that "British colonies are now just getting around to enacting legislation to draft men for overseas service."

Majority Leader McCormack (D.-Mass.) told the Republicans his side welcomed "constructive criticism" but said both parties should use prudence in criticizing the Allies.

"The gentleman from Pennsylvania did nothing worse than to tell the truth," came back Rep. Fish (R.-N. Y.), a frequent critic of the administration.

"This is not a New Deal war," Fish declared. "To the Republicans I want to emphasize that you have a function—constructive criticism without fear or favor."

Fish turned to his own party to deplore what he termed a lack of vigorous minority leadership.

"What is left of the Republican party if it cannot criticize constructively?" he asked. "If you don't do it who will?"

Gavin, called upon the State department to "tell the British empire that we are not satisfied with their policy on the conscription of men in the the British colonies.

"If we can draft our boys by the thousands for overseas service," he asked, "why can't the British colonies do likewise? The prime minister and the foreign secretary can get tough with Uncle Sam when they feel the British empire is not getting the breaks."

Attempting to choke off the angry debate Rep. Bulwinkle, north Carolina Democrat, declared Gavin had his facts wrong and said the Pennsylvanian would never have made the speech had he known the truth about British conscription policies.

"The careless words used on the floor of this House cost lives just as much as careless words anywhere else," he declared.

Congress Hears Criticism Of U.S.-Allies

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Senator Brooks (R., Ill.) protested today that while American soldiers are fighting desperately "both Russia and England are engaging in a race for future balance of power in Europe.

"Already," he told his colleagues, "it is clear that Russia intends to expand her empire and plot her philosophy throughout the Baltic and Balkan states, while Britain moves daily to expand her influence and establish puppet governments in Italy, Greece, Belgium and France."

The House, meanwhile, heard a brief but spirited debate on Allied unity, touched off by a sharply worded attack by Representative Gavin (R., Pa.) on British conscription policy.

"We Are Not Satisfied"

Gavin suggested that the State Department "tell the British Empire that we are not satisfied with their policy on conscription of men in the British colonies."

"If we can draft our boys by the thousands for overseas service, why can't the British colonies do likewise?" Gavin asked. He added that Prime Minister Churchill "seems content to let us throw thousands of our boys into action to carry on the fight, hundreds of whom are being liquidated every day."

Representative Luther A. Johnson (D., Texas), member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, leaped to his feet with the assertion that Gavin had "rendered a disservice to his country and to the Allies."

"Promote Disunity"

"We ought to suppress statements like this," Johnson said, adding that they tend "to promote disunity, prolong the war and encourage Hitler."

Republican Representatives Fish (New York) and Hoffman (Michigan) defended Gavin's right to speak his mind. Fish admonished Johnson for criticizing a member who "dares to tell the truth."

Representative Bulwinkle (D., N.C.), pleading for unity among the Allies, cautioned his colleagues that "careless words used on the floor of this House cost lives just as much as careless words anywhere else."

"Duty To Speak Out"

Fish, who had returned to his seat, took the floor a few minutes later to declare "it is the duty of all of us—Republicans and Democrats alike—to speak out and tell the truth regarding our Allies."

Criticizing what he termed a majority tendency to whisper "hush hush—you musn't say that," everytime somebody makes a speech about the war, the New Yorker added:

"This is not a New Deal war. All of us, Republicans and Democrats, have sons fighting shoulder to shoulder."

Saying that "what we need on the Republican side is a more vigorous leadership," Fish prompted Democratic Leader McCormack (Mass.) to accuse Fish of having chastized his own party.

Three-Mile Limit

"Constructive criticism is one thing; personal attack is another," McCormack asserted, adding that party lines should disappear when "the three-mile limit is reached."

In his Senate speech, Brooks said American soldiers are fighting the powerful Nazi armies, "led on under the promise that the peoples in liberated countries would be privileged to set up their own governments under the basic principles of the Atlantic Charter."

The small European nations, torn by the German and Allied invasions, are now racked by civil war "prompted by conflicting forces of Russia and Britain in their struggle for supremacy," Brooks asserted.

Explanation Asked

Saying that "these small nations are steadily losing hope of ultimate justice at the hands of the United Nations," he declared "time is ripe for an explanation of America's position, program and policy."

Calling for another meeting of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, Brooks said the American people should be told the answers to two questions:

"What are the political clauses contained in the Teheran agreement?"

"What are the terms contained in the political clauses embodied in the armistice with Italy?"

The answers, he said, "may explain the scramble and struggle for political supremacy by each of our two major allies."

Lear Explains Air Personnel Shift

DEC 14 1944

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear said today a radical change in the mission of the Army ground forces is resulting in their getting 65,000 individual soldiers from air and service forces.

And still more may be shifted.

Moreover, as part of this progressive changeover, units are being taken from no longer necessary assignments and given new fighting duties in the ground forces, General Lear said.

Mission Changed

The general presented this information to show the steady but tremendous change in the role of the ground forces since the United States moved from the defensive to the offensive.

"Forty thousand men from surpluses of the Army Air Forces and 25,000 men from the surpluses of the Army Service Forces have already been or are in the process of being transferred as individuals to the Army ground forces, just as an indication of the ground forces changed mission," he said.

More May Be Shifted

"This is not a sudden manpower shift to balance the scales, by any means. It can be taken instead, as an index that under the changed mission of the ground forces, the usefulness of these soldiers had ceased in their previous services and now exists to a great degree in the ground forces.

"It is estimated that as the need and unavoidable casualties increase as a result of increasing ground force action, an additional number of men may be shifted from the surpluses of the air forces to the ground forces as time goes on."

Conversion Explained

The changing picture of the war has terminated the usefulness of some units and they therefore have been reconstituted for new missions, he said. Lear explained it this way:

"There has been considerable conversion and redesignation—again, not as an emergency measure, but to conform to the changed mission. For instance, almost 100 coast artillery battalions have either been directly converted into field artillery battalions or their personnel used to fill up existing field artillery battalions.

"Ascendancy over the German and Japanese air forces has lessened the need for anti-aircraft units as such. Some have been inactivated and converted and some are employed in their secondary role as field artillery or tank destroyer units.

Now Mortar Units

"Almost an even dozen tank-destroyer battalions, per se, because of developing and changing armor and anti-armor doctrines, have been converted to armored, field artillery and mortar battalions."

"No intelligent person ever attempts to say that the Navy does more than the air force or the air force does more than the ground force," Lear says. "The action of all three is an integrated and co-ordinated whole with one joint mission—total defeat of the enemy.

"But it is a military fact that the final action of all wars is infantry action—that is, ground force action—and that until that action has been prosecuted to its fullest, until our ground forces actually occupy the enemy's ultimate terrain, the decission is never final."

NAVY INCREASES ROCKET PROGRAM BY NEARLY 300 P.C.

DEC 14 1944

By HAMILTON M. FARON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP) Production of rockets to blast the way onto enemy beaches will be stepped up "nearly 300 per cent within the next few months," the Navy reported today.

Rear Admiral George F. Hussey Jr., chief of the bureau of ordnance, cited three reasons :

1. "The stepped-up tempo of the Pacific war, where every offensive must of necessity be an amphibious operation calling for thousands of rockets."

2. "The success of the Navy's latest airplane rocket."

3. "The fact that the Navy is now producing Navy-type rockets for all the armed forces."

The Navy disclosed that landing craft of all sizes now lay down rocket barrages to clear the approaches and beaches of anti-personel defenses and enemy forces.

The 4.5 inch or beach rocket, which the amphibious craft use carries the punch of a 105-MM shell.

Large landing craft, specifically landing craft tanks, the Navy continued, carry hundreds of rockets which are fired in salvos. "The total number of salvos from an LCT," the Navy said, "is equal to approximately 2 1-2 times the firepower of a battleship of the New Jersey class."

Three types of rockets are carried. The principal one is high explosive another has incendiary compounds to determine the accuracy of range a smoke rocket is used in screening troops.

"All are fired by electricity from batteries charged by generators fed by the ships' engines," it was stated.

"Fired so that each salvo overlaps previous ones, they eliminate virtually all secondary fortifications including mines, wire, machinegun nests, shallow pillboxes and will temporarily stun men in larger fortifications. They are similar to heavy mortar fire."

The Navy gave no indication of the extent of the rocket production program.

It reported great strides had been made in rocket warfare in three years and improved rockets and launchers have been developed by the California Institute of Technology.

Much credit for development of the landing craft rocket program was given by the Navy to Lt. L. W. Carr, Dallas, Tex., who led a group of young officers and men sent last winter to train first crews for such craft.

Reich's Fall In '44 Held Unlikely

DEC 14 1944

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—Senator Bailey (D., N.C.) says Government officials have given up hope that the war in Europe will end this year.

"I regret to say," he told the Senate yesterday, "that whereas many of us entertained high hopes of an end of the war in Europe before the year was out, no one entertains such a hope now in any high degree.

"We had thought at one time that our boys would soon be coming home, but our hearts stand still now at the thought of the blood that must be shed and the tears that must flow before we see them again."

The Senator has a son, Lieut. Pou Bailey, with the Army in Germany.

POSTHUMOUS HONORS FOR FOUR CHAPLAINS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — (AP) Distinguished Service Crosses have been awarded posthumously to four Army chaplains who died at sea, the War department announced today.

Lt. Gen. Brehon Somervell will present the awards to the next of kin at ceremonies Tuesday, Dec. 19, at the Fort Myer, Va., chapel.

The decorations will be given Mrs. Elizabeth J. Poling, Philadelphia, widow of Chaplain Clark V. Poling; Mrs. Theresa F. Goode, Washington, D. C., widow of Chaplain Alexander D. Goode; Mrs. George Fox, Cambridge, Vt., widow of Chaplain George L. Fox; and Mrs. Leonard Schwoebel, Newark, N. J., sister of Chaplain John P. Washington.

The chaplains to be honored gave up their life jackets to others aboard a sinking transport. Their loss was announced by the department Dec. 3.

Representatives of major church organizations have been invited to attend the presentation ceremonies

Army's Tire Needs Are Reported Huge

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—New tire-making plants will be constructed in an effort to meet the Army's huge demands.

Announcing this at a news conference today, Hiland G. Batcheller, acting chairman of the War Production Board, called tires the "most critical" of all the war programs at the present time.

Batcheller said November generally was a "wonderful" month for all the critical programs, with production sharply stepped up over October, but that schedules had not been met in all cases.

He expressed particular gratification over increased production of B-29 Superfortresses and high-priority "combat loaders," the assault transport and cargo ships urgently asked by the Navy for future operations in the Pacific.

Will Boost Production

The new tire plants, plus emergency steps already under way, will bring production of military-type tires up to an estimated 6,700,000 quarterly by the end of next year.

Production of military-type tires now is running at about 4,100,000 quarterly, and new facilities already under way are designed to increase this to 5,700,000 quarterly, not counting the new facilities just decided upon.

Batcheller said it had not been decided where the new plants would be located, but that the labor situation would be a determining factor in placing them. He estimated the cost of the new plants at $40,000,000 to $50,000,000.

Rubber To Be Available

If suitable buildings can be found, they will be diverted from less urgent war programs to the making of tires. Otherwise, entirely new plants will be built.

Batcheller said supplies of natural and synthetic rubber would be available to meet the increased tire production, but that it would be necessary to increase output of carbon black, an essential ingredient, and possibly rayon cord.

Batcheller, without announcing actual figures, called the production of Superfortresses a "miracle."

The output of these long-range heavyweight bombers, which now are carrying the war to Japan with increasing frequency, jumped 30 per cent over October, and ran three per cent ahead of schedule.

Critical Programs

Batcheller gave these figures on November production of critical programs compared with October and the schedule for November:

Heavy artillery ammunition (over 105-mm.) up 23 per cent, above schedule six per cent.

Heavy field artillery, up five per cent, on schedule.

All tanks, up twelve per cent, below schedule four per cent.

Large truck and bus tires, up one per cent, above schedule five per cent.

Cotton duck, up seventeen per cent, behind schedule one per cent.

On an over-all basis, production in the critical catagories increased eleven per cent, but was four per cent behind schedule.

CHANGE IN TREATY POLICY IS URGED

DEC 14 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP) The Senate two-thirds vote rule on treaty ratifications threatens a shift of power from Congress to the President, the House Judiciary committee said today.

The committee approved legislation to offer a constitutional amendment authorizing the ratification of treaties by simple majorities of both Senate and House.

"The two-thirds rule x x x has forced chief executives x x x to enter into executive agreements x x x regarding important foreign affairs," the committee report declared. "This is an unhealthy tendency. It has far reaching and disastrous possibilities.

"The maintenance of the two-thirds rule instead of working to maintain a great power in the Senate is actually taking that power away from the Senate.

"Congress should act as a check upon the treaty making powers of the President, but by maintaining a rule which prevents negotiations which the people desire, the Congress is on the road to eliminating itself from this important function of government."

"The record of the Senate in handling treaties of peace is long, and it is disturbingly bad.

"From the moment the United States became a world power as a result of the Spanish American war, the Senate has frustrated every significant move to make it possible for the country to participate in settling international disputes."

NAVY CASUALTIES

Washington, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—The Navy Department announced today the names of 226 casualties in the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, which makes a total of 78,178 casualties reported by the Navy since Pearl Harbor. Of this total 29,993 are reported dead, 34,330 wounded, 9,469 missing and 4,486 prisoners of war. Included in the list today are the following with their next of kin:

Admiral Spencer Gets Merit Award

Washington, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—A Legion of Merit Medal was presented today by Vice-Admiral Russell R. Waesche, commandant of the Coast Guard, to Rear Admiral Lyndon Spencer.

Admiral Spencer of Hamilton, N. Y., now assistant chief operations officer of the Coast Guard, was decorated for meritorious service as commanding officer of the U. S. S. Bayfield in the invasion of France.

Girls in Services Praised in Report

Washington, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—Said a House Naval Committee report today on Waves, Spars and women Marines:

"Although they were reluctantly accepted at first, they have gained the utmost respect of the men in the services because of their good spirit, hard work and efficiency."

MISS BOARDMAN PRAISED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — (AP) President Roosevelt today wrote Miss Mabel Boardman, recently retired as an American Red Cross leader, that "the nation owes you its gratitude for almost 45 years of service."

Vice President Wallace read the President's praise at a luncheon in Miss Boardman's honor attended by Mrs. Roosevelt and leading government, military and Red Cross officials.

President Roosevelt also joined Basil O'Connor, who today was reappointed chairman of the American Red Cross, in issuing a citation to accompany a gold medal especially struck for presentation to Miss Boardman. The citation lauded her as "inspirer of the organization and administration of the Red Cross."

Contract Renegotiation Saves Navy 7½ Billion

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—Renegotiation of war contracts is figured to have cut $7,500,000,000 from the cost of the Navy.

The House Naval Affairs Committee reported today that renegotiation of contracts by the Navy had resulted in $3,740,211,501 in cash refunds from contractors and the elimination of $3,887,596,607 in excess profits. Contracts totaling $56,000,000,000 were renegotiated.

The voluminous report, summing up the Navy's activities for two years, showed how the fleet reached its peak.

When 1944's commitments are filled more than 40,000 new vessels will have been added to the fleet with a total tonnage of nearly 3,500,000.

Pensions for Congress Win Support in Congress

DEC 1944

Mrs. Norton Introduces Bill Amid General Approval

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP).—A new pensions-for-Congressmen drive sprang up today on Capitol Hill. It had the open backing of Mary T. Norton, Democrat, of New Jersey, chairman of the House Labor Committee, and the tacit backing of many other influential members.

Mrs. Norton emphasized in an interview that she is not proposing gifts for members of Congress when the leave public service, but simply to extend the current Federal employees' retirement system to elective and executive officers.

The New Jersey legislator pointed out that Congress has built up a contributory retirement fund for most Federal workers, the amount of retirement pay being based on the amount of money contributed and the entire system being worked out on an actuarial basis.

Other members of Congress promptly leaped enthusiastically if anonymously into the fight.

Mrs. Norton's bill went into the hopper along with a measure by Earl Vinson, Democrat, of Georgia, chairman of the House Naval Committee, to raise the annual pay of Congressmen from $10,000 to $15,000 and to raise the salary of the President, the Vice-President, the Speaker and other executive officers.

NEW CUT SEEN IN NEWSPRINT

WPB Indicates Slash In Second Quarter Of 1945

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP) — The War Production Board indicated today that a further cut in newsprint allocations may be necessary "by the second quarter of 1945, if not before."

The agency said it had advised members of the Newspaper Industry Advisory Committee that this prospect has developed despite the fact that Canada has agreed to maintain deliveries of 200,000 tons of newsprint a month during the first half of next year.

"The shortage in the first half of 1945 will be caused by increased military demands for paper and requirements of the liberated areas of Europe," the WPB said.

Ammunition Needs Up

Increased requirements of the Army for ammunition will also affect the pulp and paper supply of American publishers, it was stated.

It was pointed out that, if weather conditions permit, Canada may be able to increase deliveries by about 10,000 tons a month after July 1, but the WPB said the requirements of liberated areas would be added "to the load which must be carried by the present United States supply" of pulp and paper.

"WPB officials expect, therefore," the announcement said, "that by the second quarter of 1945, if not before, the situation may become so critical as to indicate a further cut in the amount of newsprint available for United States newspaper publishers."

Checkup Abroad Promised

The advisory committee recommended that the WPB request information from the Foreign Economic Administration about proposed uses for the newsprint sought by liberated countries. It also urged that these allotments be made "only after careful screening" of demands by WPB officials.

The WPB gave assurances that this would be done.

Publishers also were asked to increase, if possible, their aid in the wastepaper collection drive.

At the request of the advisory committee, the WPB agreed to appoint a task group of publishers to study the need for additional newsprint in congested areas swollen by war industries.

Quarterly Reports Urged

Another recommendation of the committee was that all newspaper publishers be required to file with the WPB quarterly reports of newsprint consumption and inventories. This procedure, the committee said, would assist the WPB in bringing supply and demand for newsprint into balance.

The committee unanimously approved WPB proposals for "slight relaxations" in the paper quotas for the small newspapers, designed, a spokesman for the agency said, to give such newspapers "a little more paper."

Detailed formulas for computing these quotas will be announced shortly, he said.

The committee recommended, too, additional allotments for condensed editions of newspapers to be distributed to service men.

ROOSEVELT LEAD OVER 3,500,000

DEC 14 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—(AP) President Roosevelt's plurality in his fourth-term victory over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has reached 3,585,081, with returns of the Nov. 7 election nearly complete.

Five weeks after the election, officials of several states have not completed the canvassing and certifying of votes. They are expected to finish in a week or so. Not until then will it be known exactly how many votes were cast in the country-wide election. It is expected to be upwards of 48,500,00.

A total of 47,911,597 presidential votes is shown in the nearly-complete compilation.

Of this total, 22,000,024, or 45.9 per cent, were cast for Governor Dewey. Minor party candidates received 326,360.

Official returns have not yet been certified by the states of Michigan, New Mexico and Wisconsin. Nevada and Tennessee have not finished their official count.

Cigaret Smokers Are Told The Worst Is Yet to Come

DEC 14 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP) Senators probing into the cigaret scarcity discovered today that the worst is yet to come.

The armed forces overseas, they were told, are getting about 30 per cent of the supply now and will need a lot more next year, and there isn't much that can be done to boost production.

The senators, members of the War Investigating committee, uncovered practically no suspicion of industry skullduggery in a three-hour interrogation of witnesses. The testimony indicated that the scarcity on retail shelves is due to an actual lack of fags.

Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) and Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), non-smokers themselves, threw themselves into the inquiry with vigor, while reporters rolled their own on the sidelines.

Ferguson brought out that shortly after the landings in Europe, as high as 30 per cent of some cigaret shipments in that area had gone astray, due to pilfering and other nefarious practices.

But Col. Fred C. Foy, director of purchases for the army service forces, said that stringent action by General Ike Eisenhower had held the losses to not more than 10 per cent in any subsequent instance.

The General, to put a stop to profitable sales through civilian channels abroad—packs have gone for as high as $2 and $3 in Paris—has made sales by army personnel to civilians a courtmartial offense.

Limited facilities for unloading at overseas ports, the colonel said, have delayed movement of cigarets to troops at the front lines, since food, gasoline and heavy artillery ammunition take precedence. On October 31, he pointed out, 3,600,000,000 cigarets were awaiting discharge in foreign waters.

Chairman Mead pursued one idea that wholesalers were channeling excessive civilian supplies to their vending machines in the hope of greater profit, but made little headway with his witnesses.

Said Joseph Kolodny, Secretary of the National Association of Tobacco Distributors, at one point:

"There is no need for looking in dark closets or under the bed. There is no mystery about it."

Consumers Are Hoarding

He pointed out, and Paul M. Hahn, Vice President of the American Tobacco company, agreed with him, that 30 per cent of the available supply is going overseas, that civilian consumption has increased 15 per cent annually since 1940, and that consumers definitely are hoarding.

Nobody deplores the shortage more than the distributors, Kolodny asserted, since "all the gripes received by the retailer are in turn visited upon us."

Kolodny thought the OPA ought to revise wholesalers' price ceilings. Some retailers, he said, because of normal pre-war discount practices, are prevented by the OPA from paying the prevailing wholesale price. He added that that revision might be made soon and would lead to a more equitable distribution.

Hahn said his company's 1944 production was 107 per cent of 1943, 196 per cent of 1940 and 287 per cent of 1935. November production fell off two per cent below the peak of November, 1943, he said, because of a manpower shortage.

H. A. Kent, Vice President of P. Lorillard Co., and O. H. Chaulkley, president of Philip Morris company, said that in addition to other complications, the shortage of cigaret leaf tobacco would be acute in another year.

Kolodny thought it would be helpful in getting manpower for tobacco manufacturers and distributors if those industries were classified as essential. He said tobacco growing is classed as an essential activity and he is unable to see where it is consistent to make its processing non-essential.

Hurley Appointment Wins Senate Committee Favor

Vote on Ex-Governor to Surplus War Board Is Expected Today.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 — (AP) The Senate Military Affairs committee today approved President Roosevelt's first two nominees for the task of disposing of an estimated $100,000,000,000 worth of surplus war property.

The committee vote on Robert A. Hurley, former governor of Connecticut, and Lt. Col. Edward Heller, wealthy California business m was along party lines. Senator G lette (D.-Ia.) is slated for app ment as the third member of the Disposal board after expiration of his Senate term.

The nominations probably will be called up tomorrow in the Senate, with administration forces confident of obtaining speedy confirmation.

DEC 14 1944

Democratic committee members with the exception of Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.), lined up solidly for the nominees. Johnson voted against Hurley.

The committee's favorable recommendation came at the end of a week-long hearing at which most attention centered on the connections of Hurley and Heller with the Narragansett Machine company, Pawtucket, R. I. war plant which got into difficulties on Navy contracts.

Hurley was vice president of the firm before he was named to the board and Heller, as war finance officer, took part in negotiation of War department guaranteed loans to the company.

Navy officials testified the Navy had had "disastrous" experiences with Narragansett and canceled a contract for lockers because the company failed to deliver a single acceptable locker.

Hurley, testifying at the final session, acknowledged that the company could not complete the contract but attributed the firm's failure to difficulty in obtaining materials and to strict Navy specifications.

Banker Testifies

The final witness, T. Dawson Brown, vice president of the Industrial Trust company, of Providence, told the committee that his bank had neither approved nor disapproved of Hurley's appointment as vice president of Narragansett.

Col. John C. Mechem, chief of the Army's Special Financial Services division, previously had testified that the band had "acceded" to Hurley's appointment.

Brown said the bank had no "occasion or opportunity" to pass upon the appointment because the bank by that time had been relieved by the Boston Ordnance district of liability on a loan to Narragansett.

WLB Refuses Wage Ruling Revision

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—The War Labor Board today denied the petition of 73 steel companies for reconsideration of the board's decision in the "basic steel" wage case.

Moving swiftly after the CIO steel workers notified the board they did not desire to use the two-week period allowed for filing their answer to the petition, the board cleared the way for enforcement of its decision.

Certain wage adjustments, relating principally to odd-hour shifts which the steel companies contended were in violation of the national wage policy, were granted to the 485,000 employes of 86 steel companies involved in the case.

Chairman William H. Davis said WLB "decided that the petition contained no grounds warranting reconsideration of the case, since the points raised by the petitioners had been fully discussed in the hearings on the case and in the board's discussion before it reached its decision November 25."

Petition Filed Monday

The petition was filed by 73 companies on Monday. They said they were ready to place in operation the points in the WLB decision which did not involve wages, such as provisions for maintenance of union membership and check-off of union dues.

Yesterday Philip Murray, CIO president, urged the board to dispose of the petition forthwith, contending that further delays would "add to the unrest" in the industry.

Before the board's decision on the wage issues can become effective, Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilizer, must rule on their effect on steel prices. In this connection, the OPA is preparing data to submit to Vinson.

3-To-10-Cent Increase

The basic wage adjustments granted by WLB, based on rotated night work, have been estimated to involve an average increase for the steel workers of 3 to 10 cents an hour.

The companies argued that the Little Steel formula, on which the national wage stabilization policy is based, would be violated by the adjustments, but Chairman Davis said at the time the decision was handed down that the formula would not even be "bent" by the changes.

The steel workers within the past two years have received the fifteen per cent wage increase allowable under the Little Steel formula to offset the increase in cost of living between January, 1941, and May, 1942.

17-Cent Raise Requested

The CIO union subsequently asked for a general increase of 17 cents an hour as part of their general demands, but the WLB shelved the 17-cent request, deciding it would make no recommendation to the White House on scrapping of the Little Steel formula.

Roosevelt To Give Usual Christmas Eve Address

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt will make his usual Christmas Eve radio address at 5.15 P.M. (EWT) over all major networks.

The White House did not say from where he will speak. Last year, reporting on the Cairo and Teheran war conferences with Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin, he spoke from his home at Hyde Park, N.Y.

NEW OPPONENT FOR PETRILLO

Radio Workers Tell Networks Not To Be "Dominated"

Washington, Dec. 13 (AP)—A radio workers' union declared tonight that "it is time for the networks to decide whether they should be dominated" by James C. Petrillo.

The assertion in a statement by the National Association of Broadcast Engineers and Technicians followed a report that Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, had threatened "a series of wildcat strikes" against the Blue Network.

Blue's president, Mark Woods, said Monday the musicians' chief had made the strike threat in demanding that the network abide by an agreement of last January for employment of AFM members as platter turners.

NLRB Rules For NABET

Since that agreement, the National Labor Relations Board ruled that the NABET should have jurisdiction over the platter-turners, except in Chicago where they have been members of the Petrillo union for years.

Woods said Petrillo had refused to accept the decision and warned "that if we do not keep our agreement with the AFM he will order a series of wildcat strikes by withdrawing musicians from our programs at sopradic intervals."

Petrillo was not immediately available for comment.

"Radio Made The Name Bands"

The NABET statement said it would abide by the NLRB decision and was ready to continue negotiations for new contracts with the Blue and the NBC.

"Petrillo's refusal to comply with the decision is an affront to the NLRB," the statement declared.

If the musicians stage wildcat strikes, the companies should bring it to the attention of the War Labor Board, the NABET continued.

"Radio, with the help of the technicians, made the name bands," the union asserted. "By the same token, radio can break them."

Pat O'Brien And Troupe Back From Burma Front

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Pat O'Brien, screen star, and a troupe of USO entertainers arrived today on an army transport plane from a tour of army installations in the China-Burma-India theater.

O'Brien said his group played 86 shows, compared to a previous record of 54. One show was within 30 miles of the Japanese, he said.

Returning with O'Brien were Harry Brown, of Van Nuys, Cal.; Beatty Yeaton, of Glendale, Cal., and James and Ruth Dodd, of Hollywood. Jinx Falkenberg, the movie actress, who was a member of the troupe, stopped off in Cairo to visit her fiance, Col. "Tex" McCrary.

16 U.S.-Jap GI's Invited Into Legion

New York, Dec. 13 (AP)—Sixteen American soldiers of Japanese ancestry have been invited to become members of Capt. Belvidere Brooks Post, No. 450, American Legion, after the war.

Post officials took the action because they said they felt a "black eye" was given the Legion by the Hood River (Ore.) post which caused the names of the sixteen men to be erased from its war memorial last week.

BROUGHT FROM BURMA

Fort Devens, Mass., Dec. 13 (A. P.).—Staff Sergt. John Kennedy of East Hartford, Conn., was evacuated to Lovell General Hospital justeight days after he was injured 150 miles behind the enemy lines in Burma, it was announced today.

The veteran of fifty-seven missions into Jap-held Burma with Cochrane's long range penetration air-borne glider and transport troops was flown out by way of Assam, Calcutta.

Sergt. Kennedy, a radio operator and communications chief of a C-47 transport, suffered a compound fracture of the left leg when the plane's pilot mistook a nearby rice paddy for the one used as a landing strip and crashed the big transport. Only three men survived.

MONTGOMERY WARD FACES NEW STRIKE

DEC 14 1944

DETROIT, Dec. 13 — (AP) The C.I.O. marshalled all its Detroit unions tonight to support the strike of its United Retail, Wholesale & Department Store employes against four stores of Montgomery Ward & Co. in this area.

Presidents of some 240 C.I.O locals in the Detroit area were summoned to a meeting here on the eve of a "show cause" hearing before the national War Labor board at Washington tomorrow which officials of the company and the employes union were directed to attend.

Tonight's meeting to organize "moral and financial support behind the strike" was called by August Scholle, national C.I.O. representative in Michigan.

Merritt Martin, president of Local 332 of the department store employes, made an assertion, denied by company spokesmen, that 25 clerks from Chicago and Toledo had been brought to work in the Ward store in suburban Dearborn. Ward spokesmen said that "this is the first time we have ever heard of anything like that."

The strike, which began Saturday, stems from the protest of the union members over Montgomery Ward's failure to accept a War Labor board directive covering maintenance of membership, dues check-off, union seniority, back pay and arbitration of grievances.

In a speech in the House of Representatives today Rep. Hoffman (R.-Mich.) accused the board of "persecuting" the company in "payment for the votes cast for the fourth term." Hoffman said the administration "has already x x x demonstrated to the C.I.O. and Sidney Hillman and to informed public that it is the political and economic ally of the C.I.O. and of those who want to substitute federal for private control."

Grew Concedes Possible Faults In Security Plan

Says Instrument Must Not Be Rejected Just Because It Is Not Perfect at First

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (AP).—Joseph C. Grew said today this country must not reject the Dumbarton Oaks plan for permanent peace machinery just because it does not seem perfect.

Mr. Grew, up for Senate confirmation as Under Secretary of State, said in a speech prepared for broadcast before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and the Chicago Association of Commerce here that the scheme can not please everybody.

"But," he declared, "if the blueprint that emerges from the eventual United Nations conference offers a workable machine holding out a reasonable hope for the prevention of future wars . . . we can not afford, as in 1920, once again to retire into our shell and refuse to co-operate just because what we might consider to be a perfect instrument has not been produced."

Indicating that future compromises are anticipated in the security plan, which many smaller nations have criticized for the lesser role accorded them, Mr. Grew said people must be "prepared to accept the nearest approach to that maximum that will permit general and eventually, we hope, universal acceptance."

He upheld the preponderance of power given Britain, Russia, the United States and China, however.

"It should be borne in mind," he said, "that these four countries, because of their size and strength, can make or break any system of general security."

Mr. Grew pointed out that while these nations, plus eventually France, would have special responsibilities on peace questions, the vote of at least one of the six rotating members from other countries on the proposed security council would be necessary to carry a decision.

The former Ambassador to Tokyo listed three steps which he said must follow Dumbarton Oaks "for effective establishment of the structure."

First, a charter must be negotiated, then agreements on armed forces which member nations would make available to the security council, and thirdly, agreements looking toward arms reduction.

So far, discussions of the peace agency have emphasized the minimum quotas of military might each nation must contribute to peace enforcement.

Mr. Grew made clear that, eventually, the aim is to reduce "the heavy burden of armaments."

COLONEL DENIES CHARGES

Canella Weeps as He Says He Lost a Son in France

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13 (AP)—Col. Joseph James Canella, former quartermaster at Santa Ana Army air base, burst into tears today while testifying at his trial on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Questioned by his attorney, Otto Jacobs, concerning members of his family, Colonel Canella disclosed that his youngest son, Lt. Keith Canella, West Point graduate and fighter pilot, was killed last June in the Normandy invasion. Then he covered his face with his hands and wept. Another son is an infantry captain.

Colonel Canella and two Santa Ana dairymen, Harry E. McCormac and Ray M. Wykoff, are accused of irregularities in connection with contracts and employment of civilian personnel.

Army Tug Sunk On Way to Alaska

Seattle, Dec. 13 (A. P.).—The sinking of the 120-foot United States Army tug LT-239 after a collision with the Alaska Steamship Company vessel Victoria in the inland passage of Alaska, ninety miles south of Prince Rupert, B. C., on December 6 was disclosed here today.

Tech. Sergt. Joe Lapinski of Ravensdale, Wash., commander of the tug, said that the collision drove a ten-foot hole half way through the tug, which sank in four minutes. The entire crew of fifteen was saved.

THIRD NIGHT LEAD LABOR (260)

DEC 14 1944

BY JAMES F. KING

LONDON, DEC 13-(AP)-LABOR MINISTERS IN PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S COALITION GOVERNMENT WERE BOUND TODAY TO PRESS THE BRITISH WAR CABINET FOR A GREEK POLICY CALLING FOR AN IMMEDIATE ARMISTICE WITH THE LEFT-WING ELAS AND ESTABLISHMENT OF A REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT IN ATHENS.

EVEN THOUGH THE LABOR PARTY CONFERENCE ADOPTED A RESOLUTION AVOIDING CRITICISM OF GOVERNMENT POLICY TO DATE IN THE GREEK CRISIS, A STATEMENT BY A SPOKESMAN FOR THE PARTY'S EXECUTIVE COUNCIL MADE IT MANDATORY ON THE LABOR MINISTERS TO INSIST UPON A "REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT" IN GREECE.

EARLIER THE LABOR MINISTERS HAD ACCEPTED FULL RESPONSIBILITY WITH CHURCHILL FOR BRITISH POLICY IN GREECE, AFTER THEIR SPOKESMEN HAD ASSERTED RUSSIA AND PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HAD AGREED THAT BRITAIN UNDERTAKE THE "MAIN PROBLEM OF GREECE." THEY RODE OUT A STORM OF PROTEST FROM FACTIONS OF THE PARTY THAT THREATENED TO FORCE THE MINISTERS' WITHDRAWAL FROM THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT.

THE SPOKESMAN, JAMES GRIFFITHS, ADDRESSED THE CONFERENCE BEFORE IT VOTED ON THE ACCEPTANCE RESOLUTION, DECLARING "WE WANT AN ARMISTICE WITH ELAS, NOT UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER.

"THIS MEANS AN AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE PARTIES CONCERNED-- NOT AN ULTIMATUM. LABOR WILL INSIST UPON A REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT, AND NO GOVERNMENT WHICH EXCLUDES EAM (OF WHICH ELAS IS THE ARMED BRANCH) CAN BE REPRESENTATIVE."

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE PROVIDES THAT LABOR MINISTERS ARE BOUND BY THE POINTS ENUMERATED BY GRIFFITHS AS EXECUTIVE SPOKESMAN.

GRIFFITHS, WHO IS ALSO A MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT, SUGGESTED THAT THE GREEK GOVERNMENT WOULD HAVE TO BE FORMED UNDER A PRIME MINISTER

WHO WOULD BE ACCEPTABLE TO ALL PARTIES IN GREECE. HE ALSO ASSURED THE CONFERENCE THAT LABOR WOULD INSIST UPON THE DISARMING OF THE SECURITY POLICE AND THE TWO GREEK FORMATIONS NOW UNDER BRITISH COMMAND WHICH ARE BEING USED AGAINST ELAS.

FIRST ARMY UNITS DROVE TO THE ROER BELOW DUREN IN THE AREA ALMOST DUE EAST OF THE TOWN OF HURTGEN. THESE TROOPS ESTABLISHED A FIRM GRIP ON THE RIVER BANK ALONG THE SHORE OF THE OBER MAUBACH RESERVOIR. IN THAT SECTOR THE ROER IS SUSCEPTIBLE TO FLOODING BY THE OPENING OF SEVERAL DAMS.

THE U.S. NINTH ARMY, IMMEDIATELY ADJOINING HODGES' FORCES ON THE NORTH, REACHED THE ROER SEVERAL WEEKS AGO AND SINCE HAS BEEN HELD UP BY FLOODS AND BY THE NECESSITY FOR RESTING AND REGROUPING BEFORE CONTINUING ITS OFFENSIVE.

A STAFF OFFICER AT FIRST ARMY HEADQUARTERS DECLARED THAT THE FIGHTING IN THE WEST HAD REACHED A STAGE COMPARABLE TO THE BREAKTHROUGH PERIOD LAST JULY IN NORMANDY. HE SAID GERMAN PRISONERS REPORTED A NUMBER OF THEIR UNITS HAD BEEN BROKEN UP AND REFORMED INTO LOCAL BATTLE GROUPS WHICH IN MANY CASES WERE COMPOSED OF AS MUCH AS 50 PER CENT SUPPLY PERSONNEL.

FRAULAUTERN, GERMANY, DEC 13-(AP)-THE STRENGTH AND GREAT NUMBER OF THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSES ARE BEING SLOWLY NULLIFIED BY THE WEAKNESS AND SMALL NUMBER OF GERMANS ASSIGNED TO HOLD THEM.

THAT, OVERSIMPLIFIED BUT BASICALLY ACCURATE, IS THE STORY SO FAR IN THE THIRD ARMY'S EFFORT TO BREAK THE SIEGFRIED LINE AND IT WAS ILLUSTRATED IN CAPSULE FORM FOR ME HERE TODAY.

GOING THROUGH A CAPTURED PILLBOX, I FOUND A SMALL BUT FORMIDABLE FORT WITH STEEL AND REINFORCED CONCRETE WALLS THREE TO SEVEN FEET THICK. I SAW WHERE THREE HEAVY ACALIBER AMERICAN SHELLS HAD SMASHED FLUSH AGAINST THE FACE OF THIS FORT AND NEVER FAZED IT. I SAW HOW A HEAVY MACHINEGUN COVERED THE WIDE AVENUE OF APPROACH AND INTERLOCKED WITH FIRELINES FROM TWO OTHER PILLBOXES.

THEN I WENT TO A HOUSE A FEW YARDS AWAY WHERE GERMAN PRISONERS WERE AWAITING EVACUATION AND SAW A HAPLESS BAND OF ABOUT 40 OF THE VOLKSSTURM IN NONDESCRIPT UNIFORMS, SOME OF THEM AS OLD AS 59 AND ALL OF THEM ILL-TRAINED, BEWILDERED, SCRAWNY AND FRIGHTENED. PRACTICALLY ALL SAID THEY HAD BEEN MUSTERED IN FROM THEIR HOMES IN SAARBRUCKEN THREE WEEKS AGO AND BROUGHT IMMEDIATELY TO THE SAARLAUTERN AREA TO HELP MAN THE SIEGFRIED POSITIONS.

ONE OFFICER WHO HAD BEEN LEADING MEN THROUGH THE TOWN HOUSE BY HOUSE AND PILLBOX BY PILLBOX SUMMED IT UP BY SAYING:

"OF COURSE WE ARE MOVING SLOWLY BECAUSE IT'S A DAMNED TOUGH JOB AND WE'RE NOT GOING TO KILL OUR MEN NEEDLESSLY. BUT IF THE GERMANS HAD FIRST-CLASS TROOPS ENOUGH TO MAN THESE POSITIONS AS THEY SHOULD BE MANNED, AND THOSE TROOPS WOULD FIGHT TO THE DEATH AS HITLER ORDERED THEM, I DON'T SEE HOW WE COULD BE EXPECTED TO GET THROUGH."

HE IS JUST THE OPPOSITE OF HIS NICKNAME; HOW HE GOT IT NOBODY COULD EXPLAIN. MAYBE IT WAS GIVEN HIM IN THE SAME WAY THAT SOLDIERS CALL TALL MEN "SHORTY."

ALL DAY LONG MOUSEY HAD BEEN BARRELLING THROUGH HEAVY GERMAN MORTAR FIRE, ARTILLERY AND MACHINEGUN FIRE ALONG THE BLIES RIVER A MILE DOWN THE ROAD WITH HIS LOADS OF WOUNDED.

"HE'S BEEN DRIVING LIKE A WILD MAN SINCE HE STARTED AT ST.LO," SAID CAPT.J.R.MATTHEW OF KNOX, IND., AID STATION COMMANDER WHO PLAYED GUARD ON THE INDIANA UNIVERSITY FOOTBALL TEAM AND WAS ITS CAPTAIN IN 1929.

"HE AND HIS JEEP HAVE BEEN SHOT UP BY EVERYTHING THE GERMANS HAVE GOT," MATTHEW CONTINUED. "IF WE DIDN'T HAVE HIM AROUND HERE THE PLACE WOULD FALL APART."

MOUSEY'S JEEP HAD MORE HOLES IN IT THAN A CHEESE GRATER. A NEAR-HIT FROM A BIG SHELL HAD SENT 88 FRAGMENTS THROUGH IT. ONE BULLET HAD BORED A HOLE THROUGH THE BACK OF THE DRIVER'S SEAT.

"I JUST GOT THAT ONE ON THE TRIP BEFORE I BROUGHT THIS LAST MAN IN," THILL EXPLAINED. "I HAPPENED TO BE LEANING OVER AT THE TIME."

CAPT.HUBBLE'S WIFE LIVES AT GREEN CASTLE, IND.

SGT.MARTIN HABER, YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO, COMMENTED: DEC 14 1944

"DON'T GET THE IDEA WE ARE COMPLAINING ABOUT LACK OF ACTION, BECAUSE WE HAVE HAD PLENTY SOUTH OF HERE. THE OTHER DAY I WAS GOING ACROSS A FIELD AND FIVE MEN WERE KILLED RIGHT IN FRONT OF ME."

PROWLING AROUND THE GLOOMY DEPTHS OF THE FORTRESS, SGT.OLIVER H. KROSSA OF FORT SILL, OKLA., AND PVT.JOHN SPAN, JR., OF PULASKI, PA., DISCOVERED PARTS OF THE FORT, BUILT IN 1931, APPARENTLY HAD BEEN WRECKED BY THE FRENCH IN 1940. AIR CONDUITS WERE DESTROYED AND THE ELEVATOR WAS SMASHED. STANDING ATOP THE FORT, WHICH WAS MOSTLY UNDERGROUND, ONE COULD SEE A STRING OF SIMILARLY UNUSED FORTS, ALL WITHIN SIGHT OF THE RHINE. NOT A SHELL HAD BEEN FIRED IN ANGER FROM MOST OF THEM.

"WE'RE GLAD TO BE OUT OF THAT WOODS NORTH OF HAGUENAU," HUBBLE SAID. "THERE'S NOTHING THE DOUGHBOY HATES MORE THAN FIGHTING IN WOODS, WHERE SHELLS EXPLODE WHEN THEY HIT TREES AND SPRAY A WIDE AREA. WE PREFER STREET FIGHTING AND THERE ARE LOTS OF TOWNS AHEAD."

LT.COL.MARTIN OTTO OF LE SUEUR, MINN., SAID GERMANS CAPTURED BELOW WISSEMBOURG SAID THEY WERE PART OF A LARGER FORCE WHICH HAD BEEN ORDERED TO TRY TO STOP "OUR BREAKTHROUGH." HE ADDED:

"THE DIFFICULT TERRAIN AND THE MUDDY AND ALMOST IMPASSABLE ROADS, HOWEVER, ARE OUR BIGGEST OBSTACLE, NOT THE ENEMY."

BY GEORGE TUCKER (240)

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS NEAR LORIENT, FRANCE, DEC 8-(DELAYED)--(AP)-AMERICAN ARTILLERY DEMONSTRATED TODAY HOW PERFECT INTEGRATION OF FIREPOWER CAN CREATE A "CYLINDER OF SECURITY" THROUGH WHICH INFANTRY CAN GET RIGHT UP TO ENEMY POSITIONS WITHOUT BEING HARMED.

DOUGHBOY'S CLEANING OUT GERMAN POCKETS SOUTH OF THE ETEL RIVER IN FRANCE'S COASTAL REGION ADVANCED AT DAWN WITH BAZOOKAS AND FLAMETHROWERS ACROSS HALF A MILE OF OPEN GROUND AND OVERWHELMED 28 NAZI BUNKERS AND PILLBOXES WITHOUT LOSING A MAN.

WHEN THE ATTACK BEGAN HEAVY ARTILLERY AND DIRECT FIRE WEAPONS LAID DOWN A SOLID CURTAIN OF FIRE AROUND THE ENEMY'S POSITIONS ALONG A 1,500-YARD FRONT.

AS THE DIRECT FIRE WEAPONS DROVE ENEMY GUNNERS AWAY FROM THE EMBRASURES IN THE BUNKERS AND PILLBOXES, YANKS SPRANG FROM POSITIONS TAKEN BEFORE DAYLIGHT AND RUSHED TOWARD THEIR OBJECTIVES. WHEN THE WAVE REACHED A POINT WHERE IT WAS IN DANGER OF COMING UNDER THE AMERICANS' OWN FIRE, THE DIRECT FIRE WEAPONS LIFTED. DEC 14 1944

THEN THE BAZOOKAMEN, TWO OF WHOM FLANKED EACH FLAMETHROWER, FIRED ROCKET AFTER ROCKET INTO THE EMBRASURES, IMMOBILIZING THE ENEMY GUNS.

FINALLY THE FLAMETHROWERS CUT LOOSE AND ACROSS THE ENTIRE FRONT OF THE ATTACK THE SCENE WAS ONE OF INCINERATION AND UTTER DEVASTATION. THE GERMANS CAME OUT OF COVER WITH THEIR HANDS RAISED AND CRYING SURRENDER.

SO SHARP AND DECISIVE WAS THE FIGHTING, [illegible] SO COMPLETE THE SURPRISE, THAT WITHIN AN HOUR AND A HALF AF[illegible] THE OPENING GUN THERE WAS NOT A SINGLE LIVE GERMAN SOUTH OF THE [illegible]VER EXCEPT THE PRISONERS.

ONE FLAMETHROWER WAS PFC LUKE CUCCIA, 3121 CAMBRONNE ST., NEW ORLEANS, LA., WHO SAID:

"WE HAD 700 YARDS OF OPEN GROUND TO CROSS BEFORE REACHING THE PILLBOX ASSIGNED TO OUR SECTION. WHEN THE TIME CAME TO ADVANCE WE JUMPED UP AND STARTED FORWARD AT A HALF CROUCH IN A LANE ABOUT NINE FEET WIDE. THIS LANE HAD BEEN CLEARED DURING THE NIGHT BY SAPPERS, WHO HAD TAKEN UP 13 MINES. THE LANES WERE LAID OUT LIKE A BOWLING ALLEY AND MARKED WITH WHITE TAPE.

"SUDDENLY SOMETHING EXPLODED AND WE HIT THE DIRT. I FELL SIDEWISE SO THAT THE TANK OF CHEMICAL LIQUID ON MY BACK WOULDN'T TAKE ALL THE FALL. YOU COULD SEE EVERYTHING WAS TURNING UT JUST LIKE THE COLONEL SAID IT WOULD."

IN A NEARBY LANE AND ALSO ADVANCING IN A HALF CROUCH WAS STAFF SGT. EDWARD M. IKNAT OF GARY, IND., WHO SAID:

30. 24— 21227

"YOU COULD ALMOST FEEL THE MACHINEGUN BULLETS ABOVE OUR HEADS. THEN WE GOT CLOSE TO A BUNKER COVERED WITH A CAMOUFLAGE NET. I GAVE IT A QUICK SHOT WITH THE FLAMETHROWER AND IT DISAPPEARED. ONE OF THE BOYS TOSSED A STICK OF DYNAMITE BEHIND THE HEAVY WALL IN FRONT OF THE POSITION, THEN I PUT FLAME INTO AN EMBRASURE AND TWO GERMANS JUMPED OUT WITH THEIR HANDS RAISED READY TO GO."

THE GERMANS WERE POURING OUT OF POSITIONS ALL ALONG THE LINE, SURRENDERING AND PLEADING NOT TO BE SHOT.

MAJ. GEN. HARRY J. MALONY, WHO PLANNED THE ATTACK, WATCHED IT UNFOLD FROM A FORWARD OBSERVATION POST.

LATER HE SAID "IT WAS A TRUE INTEGRATION OF THE FIRE EFFECTIVENESS OF OUR WEAPONS."

PARIS, DEC 13-(AP)-THE ARMY NEWSPAPER STARS AND STRIPES TALKED BACK EDITORIALLY TODAY TO THE ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL'S CRITICISM OF BRITISH WAR POLICY WITH A RECITAL OF BRITAIN'S WAR RECORD, SUMMING UP:

"WE'LL SAY THE RECORD SO FAR IS ON THE SIDE OF WINNIE CHURCHILL AND THE BRITISH.

"WE ARE FIGHTING THIS WAR BESIDE THEM. WE WOULD LIKE TO FIGHT THE PEACE BSIDE THEM, TOO."

THE SERVICE PAPER REFERRED TO A RECENT ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL EDITORIAL WHICH ACCUSED BRITAIN OF SHOWING "GREATER PREOCCUPATION" WITH PRESERVING EMPIRE LIFELINES THAN WITH THE DEFEAT OF GERMANY.

RECALLING PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S THANKSGIVING DAY SPEECH, STARS AND STRIPES SAID THE PUBLIC SHOULD REVIEW THE FACTS.

UNDER A PHOTO OF CHURCHILL, THE PAPER RECALLED HIS ACCESSION TO THE PRIME MINISTRY.

"FOR ALMOST TWO YEARS THEREAFTER, BRITAIN FOUGHT THE GERMANS ALMOST ALONE. ONE OUT OF EVERY THREE HOUSES IN ENGLAND, SCOTLAND AND WALES HAS FELT THE BLAST OF GERMAN BOMBS. ONE OUT OF EVERY THREE BRITISHERS BETWEEN THE AGES OF 14 AND 64--4,500,000 OF THEM--ARE IN THE ARMED SERVICES. X X X

"THE RATION OF BRITISHERS IN THE SERVICES IS HIGHER THAN OURS. BATTLE CASUALTIES WERE RECENTLY REPORTED AT 563,000--12 PER CENT OF HER STRENGTH AS AGAINST 5 PER CENT OF OURS. IN ADDITION, BRITAIN SUFFERED 57,298 CIVILIAN DEAD AND 78,918 WOUNDED."

THE EDITORIAL ADDED THAT BRITAIN HAD LOST TWO-THIRDS OF THE SHIPPING SHE HAD AT THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR AND RECOUNTED BRITISH ACHIEVEMENTS IN TURNING OUT PLANES, TANKS AND GUNS "ON REDUCED RATIONS IN BLACKED OUT CITIES, IN HOMES AND FACTORIES NEVER FAR FROM THE SICK SMELL OF DEATH."

THESE FACTS, SAID STARS AND STRIPES, "DON'T QUITE GEE UP WITH THE ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL'S SLANT ON BRITAIN'S WAR ROLE."

MOSCOW, DEC 13-(AP)-ESTABLISHMENT OF A PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT OF POLAND AT THE NEXT SESSION OF THE POLISH NATIONAL COUNCIL EARLY IN THE NEW YEAR IS FORECAST BY BOLESLAW BERUT, THE COUNCIL PRESIDENT.

WEIGHING HIS WORDS CAREFULLY BUT ANSWERING EVERY QUESTION, THE 52-YEAR-OLD PEASANT-BORN POLISH LEADER MADE THE ANNOUNCEMENT DURING AN HOUR-LONG INTERVIEW YESTERDAY. HIS COUNCIL, WHICH HAS HEADQUARTERS AT LUBLIN, POLAND, IS IN OPPOSITION TO THE LONDON EXILE GOVERNMENT.

(VARIOUS REPORT HAVE INDICATED THAT RUSSIA, WHICH HAS SPONSORED DEVELOPMENT OF THE COUNCIL AND THE PARALLEL COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION, WILL RECOGNIZE THE PROPOSED LUBLIN REGIME. THE WESTERN ALLIES HAVE DEALT WITH THE LONDON GROUP AS THE LEGITIMATE POLISH GOVERNMENT. ALL EFFORTS TO EFFECT A UNION OF THE TWO HAVE BEEN UNSUCCESSFUL.)

"I BELIEVE FRANCE WILL RECOGNIZE THE NEW POLAND BECAUSE OF THE TRADITIONAL FRIENDSHIP BETWEEN OUR TWO COUNTRIES," BERUT DECLARED.

(SIMILAR UNOFFICIAL EXPRESSIONS NOW ARE BEING HEARD IN PARIS IN CONNECTION WITH THE NEW 20-YEAR PACT SIGNED BY FRANCE AND RUSSIA DURING GEN.DE GAULLE'S VISIT TO MOSCOW LAST WEEK).

THE BERUT COUNCIL IS THE WARTIME EQUIVALENT OF A PARLIAMENT. UNDER THE 1921 POLISH CONSTITUTION IT SHOULD HAVE 444 MEMBERS. THERE ARE ONLY 120 NOW, BUT THE NUMBER WILL GROW AS MORE OF POLAND IS LIBERATED.

THE COUNCIL WAS ORGANIZED CLANDESTINELY BY UNDERGROUND GROUPS IN GERMAN-OCCUPIED ZONES. SINCE A GENERAL ELECTION OF DEPUTIES THUS WAS IMPOSSIBLE THEY WERE DELEGATED BY VARIOUS POLITICAL, LABOR UNION, TRADE AND AGRICULTURAL GROUPS, BERUT SAID.

"AS SOON AS POLAND IS FULLY LIBERATED PARLIAMENT WILL BE CHOSEN BY A GENERAL ELECTION AS THE CONSTITUTION REQUIRES," THE COUNCIL PRESIDE SAID.

HIS REFERENCE TO THE CONSTITUTION WAS THE ONE ADOPTED IN 1921. BERUT AND OTHER SPOKESMEN OF THE LUBLIN GROUP HAVE FREQUENTLY EMPHASI THAT THE LONDON GOVERNMENT DRAWS ITS AUTHORITY FROM THE 1935 CONSTITUTION. IN BERUT'S WORDS THIS CONSTITUTION "ST UP A DICTATORSH

TOLD THAT NUMEROUS POLES HAD BEEN HEARD TO SPEAK OF HIM AS THE LOGICAL FIRST PRESIDENT OF A NEW POLISH REPUBLIC, BERUT REPLIED:

"I AM QUITE A NEW MAN IN NATIONAL POLITICAL LIFE AND MUST DEMONSTRATE THAT I DESERVE THE PEOPLE'S CONFIDENCE. MY WORK AS PRESIDENT OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL HAS BEEN OF TOO SHORT DURATION FOR ALL THE PEOPLE TO KNOW ME WELL AS YET.

"A PRESIDENT OF POLAND WILL BE ELECTED BY GENERAL BALLOT AFTER THE WAR--IN AN ELECTION LIKE YOURS IN THE UNITED STATES WHEN YOU ELECTED PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT.

"ACCORDING TO THE 1921 CONSTITUTION THE PRESIDENT OF PARLIAMENT ASSUMES THE DUTIES OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE REPUBLIC IN THE LATTER'S ABSENCE. THIS HAS HAPPENED NOW WITH THE NATIONAL COUNCIL, OF WHICH I AM PRESIDENT, SERVING AS THE WARTIME PARLIAMENT. BUT IT WILL BE THE PEOPLE OF POLAND WHO WILL CHOOSE THEIR FUTURE LEADERS."

BERUT SAID IT WAS HOPED THAT THE FOREIGN POLICY OF THE NEW POLAND WOULD BE BUILT ON A KEYSTONE OF FRIENDSHIP WITH ITS NEIGHBORS, AN OBJECTIVE WHICH HE DECLARED WAS "CONTRARY" TO THE POLICY PURSUED BEFORE THE WAR BY JOZEF BECK, POLISH FOREIGN MINISTER FROM 1932 TO 1939.

HE ADDED THAT THE FUTURE POLAND "OF COURSE WILL HAVE ITS FRONTIER ON THE ODER."

(THE ODER RIVER CUTS A LARGE SLICE OFF EASTERN GERMANY ADJOINING POLAND. THIS RANGES FROM AROUND 40 MILES IN SILESIA IN THE SOUTH TO AS MUCH AS 100 ON THE BALTIC IN THE NORTH. THIS AREA WOULD COMPENSATE POLAND FOR TERRITORY LOST ON THE EAST BY MOVING HER FRONTIER TO THE CURZON LINE, AS RUSSIA DEMANDS.)

BERUT SAID THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT WHICH THE COUNCIL PROPOSES TO FORM WOULD BE DEDICATED TO SATISFYING THE LAND HUNGER OF 8,000,000 LANDLESS PEASANTS.

"THE POLISH PEASANTS--70 PER CENT OF THE POPULATION--HAVE BEEN PROMISED LAND REFORM SINCE 1920 BUT ONLY THE COMMITTEE OF NATIONAL LIBERATION ACTUALLY MADE A START TOWARD THIS OBJECTIVE," BERUT SAID. "THAT IS WHY OUR COMMITTEE WON THE CONFIDENCE OF THE MASSES, THE PEASANTS AS WELL AS THE WORKERS AND THE INTELLIGENTSIA. LACK OF LAND WAS THE HISTORICAL CAUSE OF POLAND'S POVERTY AND HER MEAGER INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT."

IN ANTICIPATION OF FURTHER ATTACKS, THE BRITISH REINFORCED THE HIGHEST POINT WITHIN THE CITY--MOUNT LIKAVETTOS, WHICH IS CROWNED BY A MONASTERY.

ELAS ARTILLERY CONTINUED TO SHELL ATHENS BUT THE RANDOM FIRE SLACKENED.

BRITISH AUTHORITIES SAID THEY DID NOT REGARD THE WATER SITUATION AS SERIOUS, ALTHOUGH THE ATHENS CENTRAL PUMPING STATION WAS IN ELAS-HELD TERRITORY AND SOME MAINS MAY HAVE BEEN DAMAGED.

IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT PLANES KNOCKED OUT AN ELAS GUN AND HIT AN AMMUNITION DUMP YESTERDAY. PLANES ALSO DISTRIBUTED COPIES OF PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S DEC. 5 SPEECH ON THE GREEK SITUATION.

MAJ.GEN.RONALD M.SCOBIE, BRITISH COMMANDER IN GREECE, SAID TENSION CONTINUED IN THE SALONIKA AND PATRAS AREAS AND THERE WAS CONSIDERABLE MOVEMENT OF GUERRILLA FORMATIONS THROUGHOUT GREECE.

SVOLOS TSIRIMOKOS, FORMER MEMBER OF PREMIER GEORGE PAPANDREOU'S CABINET, URGED ELAS LEADERS TO ACCEPT GEN.SCOBIE'S DEMAND OF YESTERDAY THAT THEY LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS AS A PREREQUISITE TO A PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT.

DURING THE DAY THE ELAS LOADED STREET CARS WITH EXPLOSIVES AND SENT THEM CAREENING AGAINST BRITISH TANKS IN OMONIA SQUARE, SHAKING THE CITY WITH EXPLOSIONS.

DEC 14 194[illegible]

CRIERS PARADED THE CITY STREETS WITH MEGAPHONES, ANNOUNCING THE ELAS REFUSAL OF BRITISH DEMANDS THAT THEY LAY DOWN THEIR ARMS AND SHOUTING, "WE SHALL FIGHT ON IF IT MEANS SMASHING ALL ATHENS."

(JITTERY TOKYO REPORTED BY RADIO, RECORDED BY FCC, THAT "ABOUT 80" SUPERFORTS WERE OVER TARGETS IN THE TOKYO-YOKOHAMA REGION, OTHER POINTS SOUTHWEST OF THE CAPITAL INCLUDING NAGOYA, AND SHIKOKU ISLAND, SOUTH OF THE INLAND SEA. IT PLACED OTHER B-29S OVER KOREA AND DARIEN DISTRICT OF THE KWANTUNG PENINSULA NEAR PORT ARTHUR.)

THE SUPERFORT PILOTS TOOK NAGOYA BY SURPRISE. ROARING IN ON THE JAPANESE HOMELAND THEY FEINTED TOWARD TOKYO THEN SUDDENLY VEERED TO NAGOYA, 165 MILES SOUTHWEST. THEY WENT OVER THE MASSED INDUSTRIAL TARGETS SLOWED BY HEADWINDS. THEY FLEW 3,000 TO 4,000 FEET LOWER THAN USUAL. BOTH THESE FACTORS SHOULD HAVE ADDED GREATLY TO THE EFFECTIVENESS OF THEIR BOMBING ATTACKS.

NAGOYA PRESENTS ONE OF NIPPON'S GREATEST FIRE HAZARDS. MORE THAN 300,000 OF ITS BUILDINGS ARE OF HIGHLY INFLAMMABLE MATERIALS.

ITS GREAT FACTORY DISTRICTS ON THE WATERFRONT AND IN THE NORTH-WEST AND NORTHEAST SUBURBS INCLUDE THE LARGEST CONCENTRATION OF AIR-CRAFT AND PLANE PARTS PLANTS IN JAPAN.

(SAIPAN REPORTS MADE NO MENTION OF BOMBING RESULTS. TOKYO CLAIMED THERE WAS SOME DAMAGE AND SAID JAPANESE INTERCEPTORS WERE "BELIEVED TO HAVE CAUSED HEAVY LOSSES TO THE ENEMY.")

RECENT NIGHT B-29 RECONNAISSANCE FLIGHTS OVER NAGOYA DREW NO ACK-ACK FIRE NOR INTERCEPTION FROM THE BLACKEDOUT CITY.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS,PHILIPPINES,THURSDAY, DEC.14 (AP)-JAPAN'S DESPERATE EFFORTS TO BOLSTER HER SLIPPING HOLD ON LEYTE ISLAND HAVE SHIFTED TO PALOMPON AND THE FIRST BIG CONVOY HEADE FOR THAT NORTHWESTERN LEYTE PORT HAS BEEN DESTROYED WITH A HEAVY TOLL IN LIVES, SHIPS AND PLANES.

WITH THE LOSS LAST SUNDAY OF ORMOC, MAJOR ENEMY SUPPLY BASE, THE JAPANESE WERE FORCED TO DIVERT REINFORCCG CONVOYS TO PALOMPON, A SECONDARY PORT AT BEST. A TREACHEROUS MOUNTAIN ROAD CONNECTS IT WITH THE ORMOC CORRIDOR, WHERE THE REMAINDER OF THE ISLAND GARRISON IS CAUGHT BETWEEN CONVERGING AMERICAN GROUND FORCES.

AN ATTEMPT TO RUN SIX HEAVILY LOADED TRANSPORTS, GUARDED BY FIVE DESTROYERS AND STRONG AIR COVER, INTO PALOMPON WAS NIPPED WHEN THE SHIPS WERE INTERCEPTED MONDAY BY AMERICAN AIRCRAFT BASED ON LEYTE.

IN A RUNNING BATTLE THAT LASTED 36 HOURS, THREE OF THE TRANSPORTS AND THREE ESCORTING DESTROYERS WERE SUNK AND TWO TRANSPORTS AND ONE DESTROYER PROBA

LY SUNK. A SIXTH TRANSPORT WAS SENT TO THE BOTTOM BY LIGHT NAVAL UNITS. ONLY ONE ENEMY DESTROYER ESCAPED FROM THE 11-SHIP CONVOY. FIFTY ENEMY PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN AND PROBABLY FIVE MORE.

HEADQUARTERS REPORTED WEDNESDAY THAT ENEMY TROOP LOSSES BY DROWNING WERE "BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN HEAVY."

THERE WERE AMERICAN LOSSES, TOO. THESE WERE REPORTED AS "SOME DAMAGE AND CASUALTIES" IN ATTACKS ON YANK SHIPPING AND EIGHT

FIGHTER PLANES.

BEFORE ORMOC WAS SEIZED IN A SURPRISE AMPHIBIOUS OPERATION FROM THE SEA THAT PUT THE 77TH INFANTRY DIVISION ON THE BEACHES JUST BELOW THE PORT, THE JAPANESE LOST UPWARDS OF 30,000 TROOPS IN THE DESTRUCTION OF EIGHT CONVOYS IN OR WEST OF ORMOC BAY. THEY MANAGED TO SNEAK IN SOME 35,000 REINFORCEMENTS.

PALOMPON, LIKE ORMOC BEFORE ITS FALL, IS BEING HARASSED DAY AND NIGHT BY LEYTE BASED WARPLANES. BOTH HEAVY BOMBERS AND FIGHTERS HAVE STRUCK AT THE PORT, KNOCKING OUT DEFENSE INSTALLATIONS AND SINKING OR DAMAGING SHIPS IN THE HARBOR.

APPEARANCE OF PT BOATS NEAR PALOMPON FOLLOWS THE PATTERN OF THE STRATEGY CLIMAXED BY THE SEIZURE OF ORMOC. AMERICAN DESTROYERS FOLLOWED THE SPEEDY PTS INTO ORMOC BAY AND THEN LATER THE AMPHIBIOUS FORCE STRUCK.

YANK GROUND FORCES ON LEYTE, HELD IN CHECK BY CONTINUING RAINS, CONSOLIDATED THEIR NEW ORMOC BASE AND SENT PATROLS NORTHWARD IN THE ORMOC CORRIDOR, IN THE ENEMY'S REAR.

ORMOC, LEYTE, DEC.12-(DELAYED)-(AP)-SMOLDERING RUINS OF ORMOC LIE BEHIND THE HARD-HITTING 77TH U.S. INFANTRY DIVISION TONIGHT AS IT FANS OUT NORTHWARD AND EASTWARD OF THIS KEY PORT TOWN ON LEYTE'S WEST COAST.

ELEMENTS OF TALL, TEXAS BORN MAJ. GEN. A.D. BRUCE'S STATUE OF LIBERTY DIVISION FOUGHT THROUGHOUT YESTERDAY--SOMETIMES HAND TO HAND AND FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE--TO TAKE IT.

THE ATTACK BEGAN AT 9:30 A.M. WITH AN EARTH-SHAKING ARTILLERY, MORTAR AND ROCKET BARRAGE. TWO GUNBOATS SHUTTLE BACK AND FORTH OFFSHORE SPRAYING THE TOWN WITH A CASCADE OF HOT LEAD. TWO LARGE FIRES WERE BURNING AS INFANTRYMEN ENTERED ORMOC'S OUTSKIRTS.

STANDING ON A STRETCH OF HIGH GROUND WHERE HE COULD SEE ORMOC, BRUCE PERSONALLY DIRECTED THE ATTACK OF HIS DIVISION, COMPOSED MOSTLY OF MEN FROM NEW YORK STATE.

THESE VETERANS OF THE BATTLE OF GUAM ALREADY HAD HAD A TOUGH FIGHT THE DAY BEFORE WHEN THEY SMASHED JAPANESE DEFENSES AT CAMP DOWNES, OLD FILIPINO ARMY CAMP JUST SOUTH OF ORMOC.

BUT THEY PRESSED THEIR ATTACK ON ORMOC SO FURIOUSLY THAT CAPT. LOWELL CAPOOT OF BENSENVILLE, ILL., REPORTED HE SAW ONE WHICH THE NIPPONESE HAD DESERTED SO HURRIEDLY THAT THE TABLE WAS SET AND FOOD STILL ON THE STOVE. IN HIS HASTE, ONE ENEMY HAD LEFT HIS RIFLE.

THE JAPANESE TRIED TO BREAK UP THE ADVANCE WITH AIR POWER BEFORE AND AFTER THE AMERICANS HAD LAUNCHED THE ATTACK. ONE ENEMY PLANE, HIT BY A P47 A FEW MINUTES AFTER IT HAD STRAFED OUR TROOPS, COULD BE SEEN PLUMMETING INTO THE CAMOTES SEA IN A BURST OF FLAMES.

YANKS LED BY COLONELS S. "STEVE" HAMILTON OF DILLON, S.C., AND AUBREY D. SMITH OF SAN ANTONIO, TEX., ENCOUNTERED THEIR HEAVIEST FIGHTING ON THE TOWN'S WEST OUTSKIRTS WHERE THE JAPANESE HAD PULLED BACK OFF THE BEACH. THEY SNUFFED THE ENEMY OUT OF COCONUT TREE EMPLACEMENTS WITH FLAME THROWERS AND GRENADES.

OFFICERS SAID AMERICAN CASUALTIES AT ORMOC WERE LIGHTER THAN HAD BEEN EXPECTED, BUT THAT AT CAMP DOWNES THEY HAD BEEN SOMEWHAT HEAVIER. MEDICS ARE WORKING TONIGHT EVACUATING THE WOUNDED.

FIRES AT ORMOC BURNED FAR INTO LAST NIGHT AND THE SKY LIGHTED UP FOR MILES AROUND IN THE EARLY MORNING HOURS OF TODAY.

LARGE STORE OF AMMUNITION AND SUPPLIES WERE LEFT BEHIND BY THE JAPANESE AT ORMOC WHERE AMERICANS ARE CLEANING OUT THE SNIPERS TODAY WHILE THE MAIN FORCE OF THE 77TH DIVISION PUSHES NORTH AND EAST OF THE TOWN.

IT WAS SHORTLY AFTER MIDNIGHT, IN TERRIBLE WEATHER, WHEN THE 5,000-TON TRANSPORT WAS SPOTTED BY THE PT. THE LITTLE CRAFT CUT ITS ENGINES AND THE CREW TOOK BATTLE STATIONS EXPECTING A BATTLE, BUT THE APPROACH AND WITHDRAWAL WAS MADE WITHOUT A SINGLE ENEMY SHOT BEING FIRED.

"WE SAW THE HAZY OUTLINE OF A WELL-ARMED, CLEAN-LINED SHIP WHICH LOOKED LIKE A DESTROYER," SAID HAINES. "MCELFRESH AND I SWUNG WIDE AND IN BETWEEN THE COAST AND THE SHIP, GIVING US A PERFECT OUTLINE OF THE TARGET AGAINST THE HORIZON. I WAS IN THE LEA AND FIRED MY 'FISH,' WITH MCELFRESH FOLLOWING IN FAST FIRE ORDER."

ONE TORPEDO HIT THE STERN OF THE TRANSPORT AND THE OTHER STRUCK HER JUST BELOW THE BRIDGE. IN A FEW SECONDS THE SHIP WENT UNDER.

MCELFRESH SAID DEBRIS BLEW SEVERAL HUNDRED FEET IN THE AIR WHEN THE TORPEDOES STRUCK--"BIG GEYSERS OF WATER, OIL AND STEEL."

KANSAS CITY, MO., DEC.13-(AP)-CARTELIZATION OF INTERNATIONAL AIRLINES WOULD GREATLY WEAKEN THE ENTIRE WORLD SYSTEM OF AIR TRANSPORT, T.B.WILSON,WASHINGTON,D.C., CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD OF TRANSCONTINENTAL AND WESTERN AIR, INC., SAID TODAY IN AN ADDRESS BEFORE THE KANSAS CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

"COMPETITION IN AIR TRANSPORTATION AMONG NATIONS IS JUST AS IMPORTANT TO THE WORLD'S PEOPLE AND ITS INDUSTRY AS IT IS WITHIN ANY ONE COUNTRY," THE TWA EXECUTIVE SAID. "THIS TREND TOWARD CARTELIZATION HAS NO PLACE IN TRANSPORTATION AND LITTLE PLACE IN AMERICAN BUSINESS. IT IS NOT OUR WAY OF DOING BUSINESS. WE CAN BE GRATEFUL, HOWEVER, THAT OUR STATE DEPARTMENT HAS SHOWN NO SYMPATHY TOWARD THIS TYPE OF OPERATION."

THE SPEAKER ALSO DESCRIBED THE POLICY LAID DOWN BY GREAT BRITAIN AT THE RECENT INTERNATIONAL AIR CONFERENCE AT CHICAGO AS POTENTIALLY DETRIMENTAL TO THE CAUSE OF ALL WORLD AIR TRANSPORT.

"IF GREAT BRITAIN SHOULD STAND FAST AND REFUSE TO PERMIT U.S. CARRIERS TO DISCHARGE OR TAKE ON PASSENGERS IN HER TERRITORY, UNLESS IT IS DONE ON A QUOTA OR PLANE-FOR-PLANE BASIS, WE SHALL HAVE RUN UP AGAINST A BIG SNAG," WILSON ADDED. "SUCH A HARD AND FAST POLICY WOULD BE LIKE DECIDING THAT ONLY ONE BRITISH SHIP COULD B

U. S. First, Ninth Armies Reach Roer Along 15-Mile Front.

DRIVE ON COLOGNE

DEC 15 1944

Patton's Troops Force New Crossing into Saar at Sarreguemines.

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Paris, Friday, Dec. 15.—(AP) The U. S. Seventh army rolled seven miles across the Rhine plain through nearly a dozen eastern French towns almost to Germany's border today, turned its heavy artillery on the Siegfried line and reportedly was shelling the big enemy city of Karlsruhe across the Rhine.

The U. S. First and Ninth armies drove to the Roer along a solid 15-mile front at the edge of the Cologne plain and the retreating Germans blew up the last three bridges over the river around their key citadel of Duren, including one on the superhighway to Cologne.

The U. S. Third army forced a new crossing into the Saar basin east of Sarreguemines, captured strongly-fortified Habkirchen near where it made its first invasion of the region from the south, and pushed a mile beyond.

Planes Pound Duren

As the four American armies hammered at the gates of the Reich, Allied warplanes swarmed out in clearing weather, pounding Duren, the French frontier city of Wissembourg in the path of the Seventh army, and Siegfried fortifications east of the Saar river.

The U. S. Seventh army was bearing down on Germany all along its 35-mile front and in its spectacular dash up the Rhine plain hurtled streams along which the Germans offered only the flimsiest defense.

The Germans facing the U. S. First army around Duren likewise were falling back fast. The 83rd division seized the suburban village of Gurzenich, just to the west of Duren, and pressed on toward the demolished Duren bridge. The Roer at Duren is 150 feet wide and running back full.

The Seventh army's thrust almost to the German border was spearheaded by the 79th division commanded by Maj. Gen. I. T. Wyche. In less than three days these troops have driven 15 miles to the southwestern approaches of Lauterbourg and also reached within two miles of the border farther west at Riedseltz.

Yanks Capture Lembach

The 103rd division also pounded southward two miles from Mattstal and captured the Maginot fortress town of Lembach, likewise about two miles from the border.

A front dispatch said Lt. Gen. Alexander Patch's Seventh army made its lightning advance to the Palatinate border in the areas of Scheibenhard and Lauterbourg, north of Seltz, which fell Tuesday.

The German radio said shells were falling in Karlsruhe, capital of Baden province, across the Rhine 10 miles northeast of Lauterbourg, as Patch's eight and ten-inch guns duelled with enemy artillery apparently emplaced in the Siegfried Line.

The Germans, who had resisted strongly along the Seltz river northwest of Seltz and to the west at Niederroedern until daybreak, pulled out so swiftly that only sporadic small arms fire impeded the American rush during the day.

Other Seventh army divisions, in a neck-and-neck race to the Reich from northeastern Alsace, were little more than a half mile from the border. Farther west the old Maginot fortress town of Bitche was believed abandoned after the Seventh virtually encircled it with a lunge to within three miles of the Saar border.

In their thrust up the Rhine valley, the Americans overran nearly a dozen towns and were challenging the Germans at a sector where a break through the Siegfried Line would imperil not only Karlsruhe but such industrial cities as Ludwigshafen and Mannheim, 25 miles farther north.

Three German strong points were knocked out by the First and Ninth, and tonight American guns were pointed directly across the Roer toward Duren, east bank keystone of the defenses before Cologne.

All along its 35-mile front in northern Alsace, the Seventh army had drawn up its assault lines eight miles or less from the Saar and the Palatinate, but advanced elements were running into increasingly heavy fire, possibly from the Siegfried Line.

Drive Nazis Across River

The U. S. First and Ninth armies—the latter ending its recent lull—struck in concert, knocked off three strongpoints and drove the enemy across the flooded river, consolidating the American hold on the Roer valley northward from the Eschweiler-Duren leg of the highway to Cologne.

Some 14 miles southwest of Duren, parts of two First army divisions in a gain of nearly a mile overran most of Kesternich in a surprise push up both banks of the Roer before the Germans recovered and—taking full advantage of the hilly, river-cut terrain—fought back fiercely.

The First army's 83rd division captured Gurzenich, a suburban village across the Roer from Duren.

Just to the north, the Ninth infantry division of the First army pushed eastward from newly-captured Mariaweiler and reached the Roer across from Duren.

Slightly farther north the 104th division routed the Germans from Schophoven, which had been converted into a base for counter-blows. Clearing the area around it, the 104th advanced to the Roer east of Pier and Merken.

Only a mile north, the Ninth army resumed its attacks and pushed the Germans from Vichhofen, two miles south of a second Roer citadel at Julich.

The only German pockets remaining west of the Roer to contest the Americans along those sectors were at a castle north of Pier, and in a factory southeast of Mariaweiler.

Nazis Cleared from Kesternich

Some of the Hurtgen forest, the Germans were cleared from nearly all the houses in Kesternich, three-fourths of a mile beyond last reported positions in yesterday's American surprise attack.

The Germans were making a determined stand to keep the Americans off high ground northeast of Rollesbroich, while to the south in the area east of Monschau roadblocks, minefields and barbed wire slowed the initial pace of advance.

Involved in this new attack were elements of the First army whose identity must remain secret since they had been out of contact with the enemy for some time until the new attack.

While the First army there had the advantage of being on both sides of the Roer, the terrain is wooded and hilly, and tributaries of the Roer such as the Urft are difficult obstacles.

Between that sector and Duren, the Fifth armored division and elements of the 83rd Infantry after clearing Gey and Strass, extended their holdings in an arc about a half-mile east of Gey, which is four miles south of Duren.

Infantry were slowed to a slugging, foot by foot advance, however, around Bergstein and Vossenack, seven and nine miles south of Duren, a front dispatch said.

On the Third army front the 95th Division shoved 500 yards through Ensdorf and strengthened its wedge in the Siegfried Line, taking eight fortified houses and several pillboxes.

Seventh Gains in Offensive Aimed at Palatinate—Enemy Fights Hard.

BULLETIN.

With the U. S. Seventh Army on the German Border, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—Driving nearly seven miles in less than ten hours, the United States Seventh Army crashed virtually to Germany's frontier at two points today on a sector about ten miles from the big German Rhineland city of Karlsruhe.

Heavy artillery opened up on the Siegfried Line late today and the German radio said some shells landed in Karlsruhe.

DEC 15 1944

Paris, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—The American First and Ninth Armies have won a fifteen-mile stretch along the flooded Roer River from Linnich to a point 2,500 yards northwest of besieged Duren, it was announced today at Supreme Headquarters. KENNEDY

This placed the Americans within twenty and a half miles of Cologne, their nearest approach, at a point downstream from Duren, through which the river flows north toward the sea.

Twenty miles farther south, other units of the First Army moving along both sides of the river near its source overran a fourth hamlet, Kesternich, in an advance of a mile or more.

The First and Ninth together were swiftly wiping out the last stubborn German remnants west of the river in a campaign seeking to envelop the Cologne Plain with its twenty-one muddy miles to the Rhine.

Three Lines Face Yanks.

The German line on the Roer was the first major obstacle beyond the broken Siegfried Line in the Aachen area, and the river still must be crossed in its middle course. Beyond are three improvised defense lines in the twelve miles before the Erft River, last stream before the Rhine.

The Americans were pressing hard on the area directly across the river from Duren, the main town between the front and Cologne.

The Germans recovered from their first surprise and offered obstinate resistance in the newly activated sector between the Hurtgen and Monschau forests. East of Monschau, road blocks, mine fields and barbed wire slowed the advance.

The enemy made a resolute stand to keep First Army troops off high ground northeast of Rollesbroich. From there north to the Duren sector, infantry still had to slog forward foot by foot around Vossenack and Bergstein.

First Army operations beyond Monschau posed a potential flanking thrust to new German positions east of the Roer, where three new defense lines have been observed between that river and the Erft, flowing eight miles from Cologne and the Rhine.

This headwaters section was the only place where the Americans were across the Roer. The fighting was in the northern spurs of the Eifel Range, in such difficult terrain that a swing north behind the main Roer River lines would be a herculean achievement. Forests abound. Just ahead were three large dams across the Roer, the longest 900 feet at its base.

Ninth Army troops to the north sprang into action and seized the Inde River town of Vichofer, two miles south of Julich.

Gurzenich Reached

For once, the 1st Army had bright, sunny weather, which promised help from the air in budging the stubborn Germans from their trenches and bunkers. The 1st Army was on the enemy's side of the Roer headwaters in the area four miles southeast of Monschau and moving between the Hurtgen and Monschau forests.

Before besieged Duren, Maj. Gen. Robert C. Macon's 83d Division advanced to the western outskirts of Gurzenich, a suburb of the city and only a few hundred yards from the flooded river.

Nazis Moving Guns Back

The United States 3d Army battered its way through 500 more yards of pillboxes in Endorf, strengthening its wedge in the Siegfried Line at embattled Saarlautern. Indecisive fighting continued at the other Siegfried dent at Dillengen.

[The German communiqué said the 1st Army around Duren and Monschau lost fifteen tanks and was "temporarily halted by our fire." The Nazi broadcast added that "only after a new onslaught did they manage to penetrate some villages."]

The Germans, however, appeared to be withdrawing artillery to deeper positions behind Saarlautern and Dillingen, indicating they expected to be forced farther back into the defenses which extend 30 miles to the Rhine.

35th Holds Its Ground

Nine miles southeast of the shell-wrecked Saar capital of Saarbrucken the Germans knocked out a footbridge at Habkirchen, but failed to dislodge the 35th Division from its latest foothold in Germany.

The United States 7th Army plunged clear through another section of the old Maginot Line northwest of Bitche to Kappelenhof, three and a half miles from the southeast corner of the Saarland and twelve miles south of the shelled Palatinate city of Zweibrucken.

Twelve Miles To Karlsruhe

The 7th Army at points was two miles or so from the frontier and was still fighting around the blown-up bridge at Seltz, fourteen miles southwest of the Rhine city of Karlsruhe.

[A Reuter dispatch said the 7th was within twelve miles of Karlsruhe.]

Supreme headquarters said the fortified towns of Schophoven, Mariaweiler, Derichsweiler and Gey had again been cleared of Germans. They formed a stout defense arc for Duren on the Roer, and the 1st Army was virtually at that city's gates and close to the canal in the western outskirts. All changed hands several times.

New Nazi Positions Periled

The 1st Army operations beyond Monschau posed a potential flanking thrust to new German positions east of the Roer—three new Nazi defense lines have been observed between that river and the Erft, flowing eight miles from Cologne and the Rhine.

This headwaters section was the only one in which the Americans were across the Roer. Headquarters did not identify the two new divisions in action there. The fighting was in the northern spurs of the Eifel Mountains, in terrain so difficult that a swing north behind the main Roer River line would be a Herculean achievement. Forests abound. Just ahead were three large dams across the Roer, the longest 900 feet at its base.

Floods Laid To Nazis

The suspicion increased that the Germans were artificially flooding the Roer through the dam sluices, for the river rose three feet in three days on the 9th Army front between Julich and Linnich.

Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson's 9th Army struck after two weeks of comparative lull in the Cologne Plain campaign. Field dispatches described its taking of Vichhofen as a bulge-straightening action. Scattered artillery and mortar fire came from German positions. Beyond the river, German tanks were observed entering the Stuatforst, a heavily wooded area southeast of Julich.

Before the 1st and 9th Army fronts, medium, light and fighter bombers attacked fortified towns. Particularly hit were rail yards at Euskirchen and Zulpich, both ahead of the south wing of the 1st Army. Spearheads are sixteen miles from Euskirchen and ten from Zulpich.

21 Miles To Cologne

All along the front before Cologne, 21 miles from the nearest Americans, Germans west of the Roer were being mopped up. The bulk of the Germans are behind the river in hastily dug trenches, started when the Americans shattered the Siegfried Line in October in the Aachen area.

The 7th Army closing upon the Palatinate through fortification-studded northern Alsace, advanced up to three miles. Captured were Baerenthal and Reyerswiller, the latter only a mile and a half from Bitche, one of the strongest forts in the Maginot Line.

Closing On Wissembourg

Seventh Army units advancing up the Sauer Valley, north of Haguenau, are scarcely two miles from the Palatinate and closing hard upon the fortress town of Wissembourg in a valley leading to the Rhenish Plain.

[A London broadcast said the 7th Army had reached the Rhine beyond Seltz and was shelling Germany across the river.]

Field Marshal Montgomery's British and Canadian armies in Holland and the northwestern tip of Germany remained inactive in one of the most prolonged lulls of the entire campaign on the Western front.

The 1st Army's crawl through the mud around Duren proceeded with somewhat easier strides. Maj. Gen. Terry Allen's 104th Division took Shopthoven, six miles northwest of Duren. The 5th Armored Division was on the move northeast of Gey.

172 Nude Lunatics In A Dark Cellar

DEC 5 1944

With British Troops in Holland, Dec. 14 (AP)—British forces have uncovered the black hole of Waansum, a dark, filthy, unheated basement where monks and civilians have cared for 172 naked lunatics for two months.

A British civil affairs unit is attempting today to patch up the damaged asylum and has provided blankets and fuel for the unfortunates who went underground October 14 to escape the war.

German troops were said to have refused to move the asylum inmates and carried off their clothes and blankets so they would not escape.

The building was shelled, so the inmates, of whom 97 were bedridden, were moved to the basement.

Trapped With Foe, French Want Out

By George Tucker

With the AEF in France, Dec. 14 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Harry J. Malony, whose infantry and artillery have 50,000 Germans bottled in the French ports of Lorient and St. Nazaire, must deal quickly with the political problem of what to do with thousands of French civilians locked in with the Germans and clamoring to come out.

Under Geneva conventions, an occupying army is responsible for the welfare of the civilian population within an occupied area, but the desperate food shortage in Lorient and, to a lesser degree, in St. Nazaire has placed civilian health in peril. At the same time French civilians are being killed by artillery fire.

Rmoval Would Aid Nazis

Commitees representing every faction of French civil life are hammering at Malony's door, pleading for lenity.

Removal of the civilians would help the Germans, who therefore have taken advantage of the situation by making repeated overtures to the Americans, promising cessation of hostilities until the civilians are taken out.

Officer Asks Evacuation

The German command sent a lieutenant seeking to negotiate an evacuation. The officer, Lieutenant Schmitt, participated in a recent war-prisoner exchange, and I talked to him about the condition of the civilians in Lorient and St. Nazaire. Although he denied a food shortage, he argued that scores of helpless civilians were being killed daily by artillery fire.

Malony had two factors to consider. If he planned to liquidate the pockets, then evacuation would ease the supply strain on the Germans and give them a military advantage.

No Civilian Trains In Reich Now

DEC 5 1944

Twenty-first Army Group Headquarters, Dec. 14 (AP)—Allied aerial blows have so paralyzed German rail traffic that virtually no civilian passenger trains are now operating in the Reich, an RAF spokesman said today.

By the end of October, he said, German locomotives had been reduced to 42 per cent of the 1939 figure.

Dutch-GI Cupid Warned Off

By Kenneth L. Dixon

Maastricht, Holland, Dec. 14 (AP). Romances between liberated Dutch girls and liberating United States soldiers are diplomatically discouraged in Limburg province, without reflection upon either.

Homes, churches, schools, newspapers and the military government have joined in the quiet campaign.

The basic theme is that the girls should avoid attracting the soldiers because this might break up the married life or engagements of their liberators in America.

If the campaign also prevents heartbreak among the girls when the front moves on, that, too, will be well and good.

Haircuts Threatened

The only harsh note has come in posters, posted anonymously on some buildings in Maastricht, threatening haircuting and other reprisals for Dutch girls caught keeping company with Americans. Lieut. Leo P. Senecal, of Chicopee, Mass., in charge of civil affairs in the Maastricht area, said most of of the posters had been traced to some local youths. He knew of no "incidents."

In the churches, priests and ministers (this section is 90 per cent Catholic) have been pointing out that soldiers fighting on foreign soil are bound to be homesick and abjuring the girls not to take advantage of this understandable lack of resistance to feminine wiles. It is stressed that the Americans should be greeted warmly, but that the greeting should not be carried too far.

Newspaper Comment

The daily newspaper Veritas said editorially that it would be a national shame if Holland's debt of liberation was repaid by breaking up of American homes.

Maastricht parents obtained a sunset-to-sunrise curfew for Dutch girls under 18, camouflaged by application also to Dutch boys under 21, "in the interests of youth in wartime." This is effective some three hours before the Army's 9 P.M. curfew and is enforced only by local police, but few violations involving United States troops have been reported.

"In none of these cases have the soldiers caused any trouble when the police made the girls go home," a police report said.

Johnny Doughboy can be diplomatic, too.

ALLIES TO RESTORE LOOT NAZIS STOLE

The Allied military government in Germany will restore to the rightful owners all works of art and objects of scientific or historical value which have been looted by Germany from Allied countries, a broadcast proclamation issued in the name of Gen. Eisenhower said today, the Associated Press disclosed.

The proclamation was the eleventh in a series outlining to the German people the plans of Allied authorities for ruling their country. The broadcast was reported by the Office of War Information.

All Germans who "wish to make restitution for the wrongs" done by Germany were called upon to assist Allied authorities in locating stolen objects. The people were warned that "all sales and movements of such objects will be forbidden and the destruction or concealment of them will be severely punished."

The proclamation also pledged that the Allies would, so far as possible, refrain from damaging "any building, monument, document or other object of cultural, artistic, archaelogical or historical value which rightfully belongs to the Germans" and said that "steps will be taken to preserve in safe keeping all German records, documents and archieves of value."

Von Paulus Appeals For Ouster Of Hitler

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—Fifty captured German officers, headed by Field Marshal Friedrich von Paulus and Gen. Walther von Seidlitz, called on the German people in a broadcast from Moscow tonight to overthrow Hitler, Himmler and "their baleful system."

They declared the "war is lost," so far as Germany is concerned.

Von Paulus, who surrendered the German 6th Army at Stalingrad in February, 1943, read the appeal in a broadcast beamed to Germany and recorded by the FCC. Von Seidlitz is president of the Soviet-sponsored Union of German Officers.

Saying that the "result of this political and military leadership by Hitler for Germany is millions of dead, cripples and homeless," von Paulus called on the German nation and army to "rid yourself of this irresponsible and criminal leadership that is driving Germany into certain doom."

PATENOTRE'S SON SEIZED IN FRANCE

30. 24— 21 237

DEC 15 1944

Paris, Dec. 14 (AP.)—The Surete Nationale announced today the arrest of Raymond Patenotre, 44 years old, son of Jules Patenotre, former ambassador to the United States, on charges of collusion with the enemy during the German occupation. Justice Ministry police said that Patenotre was accused of giving financial aid to several provincial pro-German newspapers during the occupation.

The Surete also announced the arrest of Fernand Gentin, who was communications minister in the first Cabinet of Marshal Petain in Bordeaux and once was a Cabinet Minister under Premier Edouard Herriot. He, also, was charged with collusion.

Patenotre, born in Atlantic City, N. J., during his father's term as Ambassador, became a Deputy in the Seine-et-Oise district in the French Chamber of Deputies and an outstanding advocate of bimetallism. His enemies attributed his advocacy of a franc based on silver as well as gold to his ownership of extensive silver mines in Mexico.

Patenotre owned Le Petit Journal from 1932 to 1937.

NAZIS SEEK TO CREATE RADIO INTERFERENCE

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—(AP) It could be that those floating silver balls encountered by American airmen in raids over the Reich are another German attempt to create interference for radio communication and detection signals.

Dispatches from the front have been heavily censored, but the fact that the balls are described as silver in color would indicate that they are of a metallic nature, and thus would react on any type of electronic emission. That is, they would mess up the signals.

In previous attempts at creating interference, particularly anti-radar, the Germans were reported to have used lightweight, tinfoil-like strips of material which they loosed in the air. Apparently, these were not too satisfactory as gravity soon drew them to earth.

The silver balls, particularly if made of some light material, would have greater buoyancy and thus stay aloft longer and maintain a more extended interference period.

SS Actions In Reich Anger Some Germans

Stockholm, Dec. 14 (AP)—Germany's ugly ducklings—the youngsters of the SS (Elite Guard)—are making at least some Germans angry.

The SS organ, Das Schwarze Korps, today reproached SS troops who "handle things as if they were worthless in an attitude evidently developed when they burned farms and houses during retreats in foreign countries," a Berlin dispatch said.

A Stockholm correspondent writing from Berlin said, "Angry farmers and butchers apparently have complained and got Das Schwarze Korps to exhort the young men of the SS to go easy with houses and furniture when they are quartered in German villages."

The newspaper declared that for these troops a farm had no more value than a mortar, and money invested in a farmhouse amounted to little more than the cost of a heavy shell.

For the first time since the start of the war, children evacuated from bombed areas must spend Christman away from their parents by a Government order, which has destroyed the whole meaning of the day as a family festival in Germany. Instead the children will be comforted by an autographed gift picture of Adolf Hitler and a bankbook with a few reichsmarks.

In former years children were permitted to visit their parents or vice versa during the holidays. That is out of the question this year, the Government has explained, because of the strain placed upon transportation facilities by Allied air attacks and "the serious military situation."

Few Christmas Trees

Swedish correspondents also report that no Christmas trees will be available in the larger cities, because of the transportation shortage, although in rural areas Germans are going into the forests to fetch fir branches to hang in their homes.

Many people are living in homes partly wrecked by bombs and many others in barracks having only the most primitive comforts.

No Toys In Stores

There are no toys in the stores, say Swedish correspondents. Instead, parents are told how to make trinkets for children out of scraps of wood and paper. In fact, the German press declares, everything which belongs to Christmas in the way of decorations and playthings must be made at home.

Newspapers, however, are filled with exchange items, such as offers to swap a wheel chair for a girl's bicycle, a silk dress for a coaster wagon or a pair of rubbers for a doll.

Exchange bureaus also have been established throughout the Reich under Nazi auspices.

Exchange Bureaus Set Up

To bolster morale the authorities have granted extra Christmas rations—2 eggs per person, 250 grams (8.75 ounces) of meat, 25 grams (.88 ounces) of candy for children and a half bottle of schnapps and half bottle of wine for adults.

But even this represents a considerable reduction from the Christmas "bonus" last year.

6th Wartime Christmas Dreariest For Germany

DEC 15 1944

SHANKE

Stockholm, Dec. 14 (AP)—Germany's sixth successive wartime Christmas promises to be the dreariest of them all.

"The Christmas spirit can't be found in Germany," says the German-controlled Scandinavian Telegram Bureau in a dispatch from Berlin. "One doesn't see any Christmas trees as in former years, nor Christmas decorations in the stores. All Germans know that 1944 will be the gloomiest Christmas."

This statement is largely borne out by dispatches from Swedish correspondents, which indicate that military reverses, wartime shortages and distress caused by Allied air raids have combined to present a depressing picture.

RUSSIAN TROOPS CLOSE ON SZENDRO

HERCHER

Reds Cross Into Western Slovakia, Tighten Noose on Budapest.

LONDON, Friday, Dec. 15—(AP) Russian troops yesterday drove to within two miles of the rich iron and coal center of Szendro, 95 miles northeast of besieged Budapest, while Berlin indicated that other Soviet units had crossed into western Slovakia at a point 34 miles north of the Hungarian capital and 115 miles east of Vienna.

A German broadcast said Red army troops tried to take by storm Ipolysag, a half-mile inside western Slovakia, but were repulsed and lost 1,000 dead. The Russians struck from the south and west at Ipolysag, 87 miles east of Bratislava, Slovak capital, Berlin said.

Battle at Szecseny

Heavy fighting also was reported by Berlin at Szecseny, frontier village 25 miles east of Ipolysag and 17 miles south of the important Slovak fortress town of Losonc (Lucenec) as the Russians threatened to smash into Slovakia on a broad front at the rear of Nazi forces fighting in eastern Slovakia.

The push toward Szendro in Hungary's northeastern mountains was part of this Russian strategy aimed at enveloping the Germans in eastern Slovakia or forcing their retreat to the west. The Russians gained six miles in the Szendro sector and reached to within nine miles of the central Slovakian frontier at two points, Moscow said.

A total of 870 enemy troops were captured in this area northeast of Budapest during Wednesday's operations, the bulletin said.

Around Budapest Soviet gunners directed by the Second Ukraine army artillery commander, Col. Gen. Y. I. Fomin, hammered the narrowing German defense ring.

Although Moscow's communique did not mention the battle for Budapest, an enemy broadcast said "the next few days will decide whether concentrated German and Hungarian forces will be able to stop the Russians."

Berlin said two Soviet armies totalling 100 divisions, or more than 1,000,000 men, were attacking on a 250-mile front from the Slovakian frontier northeast of Budapest to the Yugoslav frontier southwest of the capital.

Guns Pound Budapest

Soviet siege guns were pounding to rubble the big Budapest suburbs of Ujpest and Rakospalota, adjoining the capital on the north, and Kispest on the eastern side, Moscow dispatches said.

Russian shells also arched into Budapest proper in a night and day cannonading which fed fires already set by previous bursts of shells and bombs. Some of the air battles over the capital rivaled those fought during the reconquest of Sevastopol in the Crimea, front reports said.

Although Russian infantrymen were fighting within seven miles of Budapest's city limits on the north, within five on the south and less than ten on the east, the Germans were well dug in behind broad belts of minefields, pillboxes, anti-tank ditches and other fortifications.

The Soviet communique announced progress in one sector of the front only, above Miskolc in the fight through the mountains toward the central Slovakian frontier.

RED SIEGE GUNS BATTER SUBURBS NEAR BUDAPEST

GILMORE

Russians Edging Forward Yard by Yard Through Strong Defenses.

Moscow, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—Russian siege guns laid down a heavy barrage on Budapest's closest suburbs today as Soviet armored columns fought forward yard by yard, seven miles north and ten miles east of the Hungarian capital.

Shells blasted Ujpest and Rakospalota, north of the city, and the big suburb of Kispet, east of Budapest, from positions gained with the capture of two strongholds on the heavily fortified approaches to Pest, sector of the capital on the east banks of the Danube.

As the Red Army pressed the attack closer to Budapest other Soviet forces struggled for a better foothold for the campaign westward toward Bratislava and Austria, Izvestia reported.

Two Strongpoints Taken.

"After Budapest, the fate of Vienna will be decided," the paper said. "The war is on Austria's threshold."

The midnight Soviet communique announced the capture of the strong points of Kisalag, seven miles northeast of Budapest, and Isaszeg, eight miles due east, in the stepped-up drive by Marshal Rodion Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army.

It was still not clear whether an all-out frontal assault on Budapest had begun, but at the rate the Russians were going it appeared that Pest itself might soon be under fire.

Front dispatches have indicated the Germans have an unusually strong ring of anti-tank defenses about the capital, built largely by forced labor working around the clock under Gestapo orders. Between main points the Nazis have studded the territory with machine-gun and smaller anti-tank weapons.

Reds Encounter Mine Fields.

Red Army sappers today were reputed grappling with the problem of mine fields laid ahead of the anti-tank belt by the German and Hungarian defenders.

Some of the sharpest air clashes since Sevastopol were reported taking place as the Luftwaffe sought to check the Red Army big guns with constant bombings.

The Soviet communique also announced the capture of seven towns in the fighting arc around the captured rail junction of Hatvan, one town (Szurdokpuspoki), twelve miles north of that city and on the rail line leading north to Losonc in Slovakia.

Also, the communique listed the capture of twelve towns along the Slovakia frontier, north of Miskolc, in the drive aimed at the east Slovak communications stronghold of Kassa (Kosice). With the capture of Abod in this sector the Russians were only seventeen miles south of Szepsi (Moldava), a three-way road junction on the Bodva River thirteen miles southwest of Kassa.

The communique emphasized that the drive on Budapest from the northeast was encountering the toughest resistance. Kisalag fell only after tank-supported infantry had smashed a German counter-attack and moved forward "step by step," the bulletin said.

In taking Isaszeg the Russians had to blast the desperately resisting Germans out of blockhouses and pillboxes. The Russians said they wiped out two battalions of German infantry there, destroyed eight tanks, nine big guns and twenty-eight mortars.

Moscow, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Germans are "acting like a plague of locusts" as they fall back in Czechoslovakia, stripping the country of all food and movable equipment and leaving its cities piles of ruins, the head of the Czechoslovak Government delegation for liberated territory charged today.

Churchill Unmoved by Attacks On Foreign Policy in Europe

KASISCH

LONDON, Dec. 14 — (AP) A mounting clamor for a clearcut enunciation of British-American-Russian policy in Europe developed today as Prime Minister Churchill told his critics in Parliament that he might carry to the people his defense of Britain's intervention in Greece.

Still under fire in sections of the British press as well as in legislative halls, the Prime Minister stood firm in his policy in both Greece and Italy, but his intimation of a "further account" on those affairs offered a clue to the extent of the still-prevalent protests.

In dealing with the Italian situation under persistent Labor party cross-questioning, he emphasized that Britain's policy was based on military necessity.

Churchill acknowledged that he had approved continuance of King Vittorio Emanuel's regime "until the military situation had got into a better condition," and added that the results were "not unsatisfactory as far as our armies are concerned."

The Foreign office incidentally announced that the British and American governments, "whose views are in agreement," had endorsed the newly-formed cabinet of Premier Ivanoe Bonomi in Italy.

Meanwhile, an implication by Ernest Bevin, British minister of labor, that some international agreement already had been reached on spheres of influence in the Balkans stirred controversy on both sides of the Atlantic.

Bevin told the National Labor party convention yesterday that Britain and Russia had gotten together, with the Soviet Union undertaking the main problem of Romania while Britain undertook that of Greece.

A responsible but unidentified source in Washington denied that President Roosevelt had approved any British-Russian agreement dividing political interests in the Balkans, leading the London Evening News to comment:

"This is yet another example, of which there have been many recently, of unnamed U.S. officials criticizing British policy in Europe.

'The U. S. government has been perfectly aware all along of the Churchill-Stalin Balkan agreements and has not opposed them."

The Manchester Guardian editorialized:

"If we are to be accused of being illiberal, imperialist, self-seeking, let us be accused in company with the Americans and the Russians. The first requisite is to settle what Allied policy is."

The Manchester Guardian added that "a new Roosevelt-Churchill declaration reaffirming—if they can still reaffirm—the Atlantic Charter is badly needed for the sake not only of the British and American peoples, whose faith has been shaken, but of the European peoples who are watching the Greek struggle with dismay."

An uproar was touched off in the House of Commons today when Laborite Seymour Cocks asked, "How long this government intends to go on with this policy of murdering our Greek comrades."

Churchill did not repty, but other members shouted "Shame" at Cocks. Churchill said British casualties in Greece since the landing totalled about 460, but did not make clear if this covered all the period of civil strife.

When Laborite Daniel Kirkwood said the British policy in Greece was bringing him a flood of telegrams from workers threatening a protest strike, Churchill replied:

"I gave a long account of this matter to the House the other day and I may take occasion to give some further account to the country."

Diplomatic quarters speculated that the address—either in the House of Commons or on the radio—would come before the Christmas recess, with the probability that it would deal with the whole map of Europe rather than the Greek problem alone.

The British press in the meantime made a variety of suggestions for solving the Greek crisis.

The influential Times asserted it could be settled only by formation of a Coalition government embracing the Left and Right.

The Daily Telegraph suggested that it could have been handled better by an improved version of the Allied military government, and the News Chronicle said "the only way out is to seek an immediate armistice."

Churchill Firm On Greek Policy

DEC 15 1944

J KING

London, Dec. 14 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill, under continuing attack over Britain's policy in Greece and Italy, served notice today he was standing firm and may hit back in another address to the nation.

He opened an inconclusive Commons debate with a terse report that British casualties in Greece "since our landing this year" were about 460.

Churchill did not make clear whether these included all casualties in the current fighting in Athens.

DEC 15 1944

Questioned About Sforza

Under Laborite cross-questioning about what he had told Count Carlo Sforza concerning King Vittorio Emanuele, Churchill said he had approved a continuance of the Italian King's "regime until the military situation had got into a better condition."

The results were not "unsatisfactory as far as our armies are concerned," the Prime Minister added.

Sforza, whom Churchill previously described as "not the type of man Britain wanted to deal with as Italian Foreign Minister, had said in Rome that the Prime Minister in 1943 brought "strong pressure" on him in behalf of Vittorio.

More Casualties Since November 30

Churchill said that casualties suffered by the Royal Navy, RAF and imperial military forces in Greece up to November 30 were under 300 and "about 160 additional military casualties, of whom 35 were killed, must be added since that date."

Thirty-two planes and eight minor vessels have been lost during this period, he said.

When Laborite Daniel Kirkwood said that he had been flooded with telegrams from workers threatening a work-stoppage protesting the Government's policy in Greece, Churchill said:

"I could quite believe that Mr. Kirkwood would receive many telegrams from many parts of the country over a matter which causes so much heart searching.

"Full Case Before House"

"I gave a long account of this matter to the House the other day, and I may take occasion to give some further account to the country.

But we have laid our case very fully before the House. It was also discussed very fully and freely at the parliamentary conference yesterday, and I have nothing at this moment to add to what has been said."

Laborite Seymour Cocks asked the Prime Minister "how long this Government intends to go on with this policy of murdering our Greek comrades?"

Other members cried "shame" and "withdraw," and Cocks shouted back at them.

Discussion On Sforza

Churchill made no reference to the uproar.

Later, a discussion developed of Sforza's assertions that Churchill had urged the retention of the Italian king.

Laborite Ivor Thomas repeated Sforza's statement and asked how this conformed "with the Prime Minister's oft-repeated assurance that His Majesty's Government had no desire to interfere in constitutional matters affecting Italy."

Churchill replied: "That is not so at all."

"I said nothing in my conversation with Count Sforza which I had not already made clear as being the policy of his Majesty's Government at that time."

Earlier Churchill said in reply to another Laborite question that he told Sforza he "welcomes the assurance given to the United States Government in his letter to Mr. Berle (Adolf Berle, Jr., then assistant secretary of state), which I read to the House on December 6, that matters of internal policy, including the monarchy, should be adjourned until Italy was free. As regards the future that would be for the Italian people to decide."

"Displayed Hostility"

Thomas asked whether Sforza had not made a distinction between the institutional question of monarchy and the personal question of the King "whom he had never promised any support."

Churchill responded:

"He certainly expressed animus against King Victor Emanuel, with whom he had a very lengthy and not at all unnatural disagreement, but the statement I made to him was within the line of the statement I made at the time publicly to Parliament. I do not speak two languages in these matters."

HAZARDOUS WEATHER HALTS AIR ACTIVITY

LONDON, Dec. 14. — (AP) The Second successive day of hazardous wintry flying weather on the continent today held aerial work against Nazi targets to a minimum.

British-based bombers and fighters, which ripped German rail and oil facilities with more than 15,000 tons of explosives in a 48-hour period earlier in the week were kept under wraps.

Continent-based Thunderbolts of the U. S. Ninth Airforce swirled through cloud banks and attacked a railyard at Homburg, north east of Saarbrucken.

Allied Planes Grounded

DEC 15 1944

London, Dec. 14 (AP)—Poor bombing weather today gave the Germans another day to patch up their battered rail network in the West.

Absence of warnings from Nazi radio stations apparently meant the RAF and American heavy bombers in Britain and Italy were still grounded.

BRITISH COMMONS TO DEBATE FUTURE OF EXILED POLES

SINGLETON

LONDON, Dec. 14 — (AP) Britain's House of Commons will turn tomorrow to the troubles of unhappy Poland in a debate which may bring a compromise-or-quit ultimatum for the Polish exiled government.

There was no immediate indication as to whether Prime Minister Churchill or Foreign Secretary Eden, or both, would present the government's stand.

Either or both, however, will speak in the light of mounting indications that Russia soon will recognize the rival, Soviet-sponsored national liberation committee as Poland's provisional government.

Diplomatic quarters, meanwhile, awaited exposition of the British position in anticipation that it might shed some light on the question of what agreements, if any, were reached between Churchill and Marshal Stalin at Moscow on separate spheres of influence—military and political—in Europe.

The possibility of some illumination tomorrow was enhanced by the fact that Russia had demonstrated clearly that it regards Poland in its sphere of influence: first, by denouncing the London Polish government as hostile, and second, by its powerful backing of the left-wing, Lublin liberation committee.

The Russian claim of a right to a say in Poland's affairs has been supported previously, in part, by Britain, with Churchill himself asserting that the Soviet Union was entitled to friendly neighbors.

Aside from any possible agreement at Moscow, these recent factors have developed which may have an effect on the British position:

1—Resignation of Premier Stanislaw Mikolajozyk, the man upon whom Britain counted to bridge the differences between Russia and Poland.

2—Withdrawal of the powerful Polish peasant party from the exiled government.

3—Gradual assumption by the Lublin liberation committee of many of the functions of a government.

4—Unofficial reports in Paris diplomatic quarters that General de Gaulle agreed at Moscow to go all with Stalin in recognition of the Liberation committee as the provisional government.

How far the British government will go may depend, to a large extent, on the control that the present government of Premier Tomasz Arciszewski has over Polish forces now fighting as part of the Allied armies.

The exiled government itself is pinning its hopes on a claim of support by the Polish people and the underground army. On the eve of the debate, it announced that the underground leaders were forwarding "suggestions" to be used as the basis for a new approach in settling the Polish-Soviet dispute.

CHURCHILL CALLED BRITISH 'FUEHRER

LONDON, Dec. 14—(AP) Asserting that Prime Minister Churchill is a "would-be British Fuehrer" who has "lost his head completely" in the Greek crisis, novelist H. G. Wells said today "it is high time he retired upon his laurels before we forget the debt we owe him" as a British fighting symbol.

In an article entitled "Churchill Must Go," published in the Weekly Tribune, Wells said the Prime Minister's intervention in Greece was a "discredit" to the nation and resulted from Churchill's "pro-royalism," his "snobbishness" and "limited range of ideas."

Wells conceded that Churchill had served Britain as a fighting symbol but contended he had "outlived that role."

"When the British people were blistered with humiliation by the currish policy of the old conservative gang in power the pugnacity of Winston brought him to the fore," Wells wrote. "The country meant fighting, and he delighted in fighting. For want of a better, he became our national will for conflict, a role he has now outlived."

Saying that "if we do not end Winston, Winston will end us," the British author declared that "since those early days world events have moved with a swiftness this earth has never known before. His (Churchill's) ideology, picked up in the garrison life of India, on the reefs of South Africa and in the maternal home and conversation of wealthy Conservative households, is a pitiful jumble of incoherent nonsense. He has served his purpose—a boy scout is better equipped.

"His last associations with the various European royalties who share his belief in the invincible snobbishness of mankind and are now sneaking back to claim the credit and express their condescending approval of the underground resistance movements that have sustained human freedom through its days of supreme danger, are his final farewell to human confidence.

"We want him to go—now—before he discredits us further," Wells continued, "for his own sake as well as ours, and if he takes all the royalties in the world with him—so much the better for human hope.

"The matter is urgent. It is a grave attack on our national morale. There can be no doubt of the feelings of the common people of England and of the rank and file about this ugly business in Greece and other countries under the heel of slapdash British Toryism. . . . In the midst of a still uncertain war, this ineffable Prime Minister of ours has precipitated us into the class war—and on the wrong side."

BEVIN SPEECH STIRS UP NEW CONTROVERSY

London Newspaper Assails Denial That Roosevelt Approved Pact.

TAKES FLING AT U. S. OFFICIALS

Resents Anonymity of Spokesmen for Washington Who Voice Criticism of Britain.

London, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—Controversies stirred on both sides of the Atlantic today over a statement made by Ernest Bevin, the Minister of Labor, implying that some international agreement had already been concluded on spheres of influence in the Balkans. Mr. Bevin told the National Labor party convention yesterday that Britain and Russia had got together, that Russia was undertaking the main problem of Romania and that Britain was undertaking the main problem of Greece. The plan for Greece, he said, was agreed to by President Roosevelt.

An unidentified spokesman in Washington denied that the President had approved any Anglo-Russian agreement dividing up political interests in the Balkans, and the London Evening News commented: "This is yet another example of unnamed United States officials criticizing British policy in Europe. The United States Government has been perfectly aware all along of the Churchill-Stalin Balkan agreements and has not opposed them."

Mr. Bevin spoke from notes rather than a prepared text. The Labor party's official stenographic text follows: "The previous speaker asks why we did not get agreement between Great Britain, Russia and the United States. We did. Russia undertook the main problem of Romania. We undertook the main problem of Greece in agreement between the two governments, and when the plan for dealing with Greece was worked out here by us it was taken to Quebec, submitted to the President of the United States and agreed and initialed."

The British press made an unusually large display of Mr. Bevin's speech, in which he also said that Great Britain's policy in Greece was not that of Winston Churchill alone but of the whole Cabinet.

The Manchester Guardian commented: "If we are to be accused of being illiberal, imperialist, self-seeking, let us be accused in company with the Americans and the Russians. The first requisite is to settle what Allied policy is."

AUSTRALIAN DESTROYER MAKES MERCY VOYAGE

LONDON, Dec. 14 — (AP) An Australian destroyer recently made a two-day mercy dash to a British submarine near Japanese-held territory, where an emergency operation was performed on an officer stricken with appendicitis.

The story was made public tonight at British Naval quarters in London.

The destroyer, with two doctors and a replacement for the officer, Lt. Robert Strouts, met the submarine by moonlight. In perilously choppy seas the sick man was lifted out of the coning tower by ropes and taken aboard the destroyer. Within an hour the operation was completed.

The submarine went her way and shortly sank two Japanese cargo ships. Strouts since has recovered, rejoined his submarine and resumed patrol of Japanese shipping lanes in the Bay of Bengal.

LADY ASTOR SEES BAD TIMES AHEAD

London, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—Lady Astor told the National Council of Women today that bad times are ahead and that "it is going to need the mother spirit throughout the world to get things right."

Replying to a toast, drunk to her health in water, the Virginia-born feminist and prohibitionist noted that the liquor industry had spent thousands of dollars in attempting to make her look ridiculous. She was the guest of honor at a luncheon commemorating her twenty-five years' service in Parliament.

"I am very sad at leaving the House of Commons," she said, "and I am not departing in good will either. I am departing because my husband wants me to.

"I think it is a bad time for women to get out of the House of Commons. And I think it is a bad time for any woman who knows how to fight shams and prick rubbles to get out of public life. We are going to have the same kind of shams after this war as we had after the last war. The Left will have its wild people, and the Right will have its dead-but-won't-lay-down people. And those two would ruin Paradise if they ever got there."

Czechs Act To Rid Country Of Traitors

London, Dec. 14 (AP)—In an attempt to prevent crises similar to those in Greece and Belgium, the Exiled Czechoslovak Government has prepared machinery for cleansing the country's economic life "quickly and radically" of enemy parasites, traitors and collaborationists during the phase of liberation.

This was disclosed today by Vaclav Majer, Czech Minister of Reconstruction, who explained that Dr. Eduard Benes, president of the Czechoslovakia republic, had signed a decree on "extraordinary measures" for the maintenance of economic life in liberated territory.

Majer explained that under the presidential decree all transfers of property and local measures relating to property, whether movable or immovable, public or private, were invalid if made after September 29, 1938, under pressure of the occupying powers or of national racial or political persecution.

NAZI PRISONERS GO UNGUARDED NOW

London, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—German prisoners of war are to be farmed out for work in rural England without guards.

"If prisoners of war are employed in small parties with a military guard the requirements in man power will render such labor uneconomical," the Ministry of Information said today. "They will not be allowed any freedom or privileges and will be confined to their wired camps when not at work."

Laborites Plan Plank On Public Ownership

London, Dec. 14 (AP)—The British Labor party, by a large majority, decided today to fight the next general election on a platform advocating public ownership of heavy industry and all forms of banking, transportation, fuel and power.

The convention overrode the wishes of its executive committee after one delegate complained "some of our leaders have been talking so long about the economics and transition to socialism that they think too much about the transition and not enough about socialism."

STALIN RECEIVES HARRIMAN

LONDON, Dec. 14 — (AP) The Moscow radio said tonight that Premier Stalin received U. S. Ambassador Averell Harriman at the Kremlin today. The broadcast said that Gadimir Dekenozov, vice commissar for foreign affairs, was present but gave no further details.

UNRRA Attacked In Lords

London, Dec. 14 (AP)—Sharply attacking UNRRA, Lord Reading told the House of Lords today there was a common belief that huge stores of food and fuel were available, but were "not reaching the people for whom they are intended—and the world is entitled to know where the stoppage is."

"There is a suspicion," he said, "that in the huge UNRRA organization there has been created a colossus on so vast a scale that it has been from the outset muscle-bound and paralyzed by its own weight."

Headed By Lehman

UNRRA (the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration) is headed by Herbert H. Lehman.

The Earl said there was a feeling that UNRRA had not been properly supported and that "the whole problem had been put in the hands of the military, whose natural consideration was one of military expediency."

Some stricken countries, he asserted, are afraid to apply to UNRRA for relief for fear it is being used as a cloak for commercial enterprise or as a political weapon.

To Tour West Indies

British Colonial Secretary Will Visit Washington on Return

LONDON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Colonel Oliver Stanley, Secretary of State for Colonies, will visit Bermuda, the Bahamas, British Honduras and Jamaica and return by way of Washington before Parliament reconvenes in January, the Colonial Office announced tonight. He plans to study local conditions and discuss problems with the Governors.

Appointment of Reginald Stuart Champion as Governor of Aden, British colony and protectorate in the Middle East, was announced. He succeeds Sir John Hathord Hall, recently appointed Governor of Uganda. Mr. Champion had been chief secretary to the government of Aden since 1942.

NAZI ATTACKS ARE REPULSED

Canadians In Italy Extend Lamone Bridgehead

Rome, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Germans flung all available reserves of armor and infantry into a furious attempt today to contain a Canadian bridgehead over the Lamone River and to save the near-by road center of Bagnacavallo, 10 miles northeast of Faenza in the Po Valley.

Counterattack after counterattack were made against the 4-mile-wide bridgehead, but all were thrown back and at nightfall the Canadians had enlarged their holding, Allied headquarters announced.

5th Suffers Repulse

The Nazis repulsed efforts by the American 5th Army to gain high ground near Monte Castello, southwest of Bologna, and in turn saw their own counterattacks against Monte Cerere, 11 miles southeast of Bologna, rolled back.

British troops smashed into the sizable town of Tossignano, 7½ miles southwest of Imola and on the main Florence-Imola road. The Nazis still clung to the northern section of the town, but were being mopped up methodically. The Tommies also were lodged in neighboring Borgo Tossignano.

Snow Hampers Supplies

Snow was falling steadily in the mountains south of Bologna, adding to the Americans' difficult supply problems. There was no confirmation of a broadcast by the Italian Fascist radio that Yank forces had opened a heavy atack southeast of Bologna.

In addition to extending their bridgehead across the Lamone, the Canadians cleared the enemy from Mezzano, 6 miles northwest of Ravenna, and approached the Naviglio Canal on a wide front north of Bagnacavallo. The Ravenna-Ferrara highway was cut northwest of Mezzano.

Fighting Heaviest In Weeks

Fighting in general was heavier and more widespread than at any time in recent weeks.

Bad weather restricted air activity. Such Allied fighters and fighter-bombers as could get off the ground attacked enemy communications in the Po Valley and flew in close support of 5th Army ground troops.

Nearing Waterway

Troops in that sector were approaching the Canale Naviglio on a wide front north of Bagnacavallo.

Southwest of Imola, on the Bologna-Rimini highway, 5th Army units entered Tossignano against strong German opposition.

Power Stations Hit

Meanwhile, Allied aircraft of the coastal air force attacked power stations and road transport in the frontier area of southern France and Italy.

Although greatly restricted by bad weather, fighters and fighter bombers concentrated against communications in the Po Valley, along the Brenner Pass and in support of the 5th Army coastal gun positions near Spezia also were targets. Four planes were missing from the day's operations.

8th Army Cuts Highway Near Mezzano

Rome, Dec. 14 (AP)—Canadian troops of the 8th Army have enlarged their bridgehead over the Lamone River north of Faenza after beating off powerful German counterattacks, Allied headquarters announced today.

Fanning out from the original 6,000-yard front which they established west of the stream Tuesday, Canadian tanks yesterday cut the Ravenna-Ferrara highway northwest of Mezzano. Other troops made still another crossing at Mezzano, five miles north of the original spot, and cleared that road center of the enemy.

Nearing Waterway

Troops in that sector were approaching the Canale Naviglio on a wide front north of Bagnacavallo.

Southwest of Imola, on the Bologna-Rimini highway, 5th Army units entered Tossignano against strong German opposition.

French Sailor's Ring Verdict Over Yank Booed Ten Minutes

By SID

Rome, Dec. 14 (AP)—Marcel Cerdan, classy French sailor slugger, reached the finals of the Mediterranean zone boxing championships tonight in defense of his professional middleweight crown, but Larry Cisneros, only American defending titleholder, was eliminated by a decision which the capacity crowd booed fully ten minutes.

Cisneros, Los Angeles larruper who has spent 32 months in the front lines as machine gunner with an armored infantry unit, fought Private Omar Koudri, prewar French welterweight champion, even for the first two rounds and then appeared to come home galloping in the last heat of their pro welterweight semi-final.

However, two judges—French and British—voted Koudri the winner by the narrow point margins of 60 to 56, and 59 to 58, while the American official had Cisneros the winner, 58 to 56.

Capt. Jack Sullivan, manager of the 5th Army team which Cisneros represents, made an official protest pointing out the American judge kept a point-by-point tally on his score card while the action was in progress and totaled them at the end of each round, while the other two merely jotted down totals at the end of each heat.

The appeals board told Sullivan to put his protest in writing.

After the booing finally subsided, Cerdan, who has been the glamor boy of this competition for two years, put on a blazing finish to outpoint Private Floyd Gibson, an M.P. from Milford, Ohio, in the toughest scrap the French tar has had in two tournaments.

Although the loss of Cisneros handicapped the defending championship 5th Army team, the title squad put two more men into the finals when Private Vic Gidaro, of Mount Carmel, Pa., flattened Private Richard Ward, of Philadelphia, in the third round of their amateur lightweight semi-final, and Sergt. Andrew Roy, heavy-shouldered Charlestown (W.Va.) Negro, outpointed Sergt. Johnny Ebarb, of Oakland, Cal., in a pro heavyweight semi-final.

Private Julius Woodse, Buffalo (N.Y.) Negro, reached the amateur middleweight finals by default, and British Corporal Johnny Boom won the decision over Private Ellis Lagrange, of New Iberia, La., in a pro featherweight semi-final.

Cpl. LeRoy Jeffrey of Kansas City and Corp. Melvin Pullen of Dayton, O., reached the finals in the short afternoon session, joining Pvt. Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati professional middleweight, Pvt. Milton Glass of Akron, O., Sgt. Adolph Labrecque of Holyoke, Mass., and Pvt. Adolph Barlow of Philadelphia.

The fourth doughboy to win this afternoon scored the second knockout of the day. T/5 Joseph DeMartino, big-shouldered Bridgeport, Conn., pro welterweight, clouted Albert Wright of Yorkshire, England, with a pair of right hand artillery shells in the second round and Wright took the full count of 10 on his back.

GREEK AND BRITISH FIGHTING RESUMED

Headquarters Area Shelled As Truce Is Ended

DEC 15 1944

By STEPHEN BARBER

Athens, Dec. 14 (AP)—Fighting broke out in Omonia Square, northern fringe of the British defensive position today, and ELAS-manned 75-millimeter guns pounded the area of British headquarters in the Grande Betagne Hotel, ending the "undeclared truce" which had brought quiet to this city until early afternoon.

Amid rumors of an impending settlement of the struggle with the Greek Leftists, shells burst in the center of the capital, and ELAS troops kept up intermittent small-arms crossfire in the side streets off University street, the main artery between the two principal Leftist objectives—Omonia Square and Constitution Square.

Continue Infiltrations

Partisan fighters continued the infiltrations, reportedly poking their way through sewers.

Firing was resumed when a group of bedraggled policemen and newly recruited militia appeared in Omonia Square. Their Captain told me the ELAS had overrun his station and killed a number of his men, who seemed demoralized.

As they started up University street, ELAS snipers got busy from side streets. I saw six policemen shot down at one corner.

Firing back wildly, the police ran across the street. A British tank rolled up and blasted at the snipers with a 75-millimeter gun. British ambulances picked up casualties in dense smoke.

Piraeus Battle Kept Up

Spirited battles continued in Piraeus throughout the temporary lull in the Athens fighting as ELAS forces besieged the naval radio station.

The renewal of hostilities belied unsubstantiated reports that the EAM (National Liberation Party) had reached a basis for agreement with Maj. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, commander of British troops in Greece.

The presence in Athens of Harold MacMillan, British Resident Minister in the Mediterranean, who arrived Tuesday with Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, and of Gen. Nicholas Plasteras, who led the Greek revolution in 1922, lent weight to the rumors of imminent settlement.

Might Form New Regime

Plasteras conferred for two hours with Premier George Papandreou, then the Premier and MacMillan talked for 90 minutes. This led to speculation that Plasteras might attempt to form a new government acceptable to all factions. Plasteras declined a statement for publication.

It was understood that the British terms remained unchanged. Earlier this week the British demanded that the E. L. A. S., armed forces of the E. A. M., evacuate the Attica region, which includes Athens, lay down their arms and disband all private armies.

British authorities expressed belief that the E. L. A. S. forces had planned to take the center of Athens in a two-pronged attack from the northwest and southwest, and, now that this had failed, they might have decided to seek peace.

During the "truce," which military observers called "the quietest twenty-four hours since the fighting began," artillery action ceased and only sporadic machine-gun bursts echoed through the streets. Military authorities, however, issued an order banning civilians from the streets except between noon and 2 p. m.

One report said the British had received strong reinforcements which were flown into Athens, but the renewed firing today indicated the spirit of the E. L. A. S. forces had not been broken.

Firing was resumed when a group of bedraggled policemen and newly recruited militia appeared in Omonia Square. Their captain said the E. L. A. S. had overrun his station and killed a number of his men, who seemed demoralized.

As they started up University Street, E. L. A. S. snipers got busy. Six policemen were shot down at one corner. Firing back wildly, the police ran across the street. A British tank rolled up and blasted at the snipers with a 75-mm. gun. British ambulances picked up casualties in dense smoke.

[A call to arms by the Athens radio, now in E. L. A. S. hands, urged all Greeks to defend the fatherland, the Paris radio said. The same Athens transmitter, in a broadcast heard by the Federal Communications Commission, said the E. L. A. S. had captured the Totoi and Eleusis airfields, near the capital, and reported "an uprising in favor of E. L. A. S. forces by 30,000 Greeks in Larisa against Scobie's intervention."]

Spirited battles continued in Piraeus, port of Athens, throughout the temporary lull in the fighting in the capital, as E. L. A. S. forces besieged the naval radio station.

ATHENS BATTLE RESUMED BY ELAS

Fighting Breaks Out After 24-Hour Lull, Shells Blast Capital.

ATHENS, Dec. 14—(AP) ELAS forces of the National Liberal front resumed their attack on British-held central Athens today after a 24-hour period of comparative quiet. They sent shells crashing into the inner perimeter around Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie's headquarters.

Snipers infiltrated to new positions on the housetops and sent a warm fire down sidestreets off University street, which forms the main axis between two of the chief ELAS objectives, Ominia Square on the west and Constitution Square on the east.

Drive had been Halted

Until afternoon the ELAS drive appeared to have been halted and British leaders had said the dangerous phase of the 12-day turmoil appeared over.

Heavy firing which shook the city earlier this week gave way to sporadic machine-gun bursts and the last 24 hours were the quietest of any like period since the fighting broke out between the Leftists on the one hand and Greek forces and British troops on the other.

Military authorities, however, banned civilians from the streets except between noon and 2 P.M.

Holding Extended

British and Greek Mountain Brigade forces held an area approximately three miles square in the center of Athens, and extended their holdings in Piraeus to about five square miles despite local ELAS attacks. Reinforcements made the British position more secure.

Rumors persisted that ELAS leaders would attempt to reach an agreement with Maj. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander, and would send a representative with counterproposals, but it was understood that the British terms remained unchanged. The British demands included evacuation of Attica by the ELAS, surrender of their arms and the disbandment of private armies.

Call To Arms Broadcast

British authorities expressed the belief that the ELAS had planned to take the center of the city with a two-pronged drive from the northwest and southwest, and now that this had failed the Leftist leaders might have decided to seek terms.

Gen. Nicolas Placteras, who returned from abroad at the invitation of Premier George Papandreou, conferred for two hours with Papandreou.

Indications that the ELAS still were militant came from the ELAS-held Athens radio, which broadcast: "Greeks, defend your fatherland in the towns and ports. To the barricades! Everyone is to take up arms."

These reports said the ELAS were ready to accept British terms on condition that they would not be prosecuted as a party and that Scobie would agree to the formation of a new national government headed by someone other than Papandreou. It said said the ELAS proposals would be carried to Scobie by Alexander Svolos, former Leftist Finance Minister in Papandreou's Cabinet.

DEC 15 1944

[The Paris radio reported today that the Athens transmitter, now in the hands of the ELAS, had broadcast a call to arms. "Greeks, defend your fatherland in the towns and ports," the call said. "To the barricades. Every one is to take up arms."]

Bitter Fighting Goes On.

British troops yesterday succeeded in clearing the Kallipolis Peninsula and most of Piræus, the port of Athens, where the Anglo-Greek naval headquarters had been isolated. Sharp fighting, however, centered around the British barracks northeast of the center of Athens, which ELAS forces stormed early in the day. Some of the attackers penetrated the walls of the compound before they were driven back with considerable losses.

Tension continued in the Salonika and Patras areas and considerable movement of guerrilla formations was reported through out the country.

Accuses Premier.

A spokesman for the Greek EAM, Losta Gavrilidis, in a speech over the "Free Greece" radio transmitter in Athens, today accused Premier George Papandreou of breaking an agreement made last May 20 in Lebanon which he said stipulated that "vile war criminals and collaborators with the occupier should be arrested and punished." The FCC recorded the broadcast, the Associated Press reports.

He said that although "the dissolution of all volunteer units and the creation of a national army were discussed in Lebanch," Papandreou "sought to dissolve" only "the popular army of the ELAS" and still "keep under arms" the Greek mountain brigade and other armed groups.

Greek-Bulgar Rift Told

New York, Dec. 14—The Rome radio, in a broadcast recorded here, said toda ythat a "serious diplomatic inciednt" had arisen between the Greek Government of Premier George Papandreou and the Bulgarian Government.

"The Greek Premier has sent a note to the Allied Armistice Commission in Sofia," the domestic broadcast said, "protesting against the Bulgarians' supplying arms to rebel forces in Macedonia."

DE GAULLE IN CAIRO

NEW YORK, Dec. 14 — (AP) Gen. Charles de Gaulle has arrived by plane in Cairo on his return trip from Moscow, the American Broadcasting station in Europe reported tonight in a broadcast heard by the Blue network.

Russia Linked To New Moves in War in Pacific

U. S. Observers in Touch With Reds in China; Co-operation Is Mapped

By Preston Grover

NEW DELHI, India (Delayed) (AP).—Information available in New Delhi, the sources of which cannot be disclosed, indicates that the fighting in the Pacific and Asia is going to take on strange and interesting turns before the war grows much older.

Despite sparks of dissension among America, Russia and Britain over Iran's oil, co-operation among the three nations on strictly military grounds is described as "much closer than the public may suppose." How extensive that co-operation will continue after Germany is defeated no one here is in a position to say publicly. But one thing is certain—American military observers continue to visit the Communists in North China, whose assistance would be valuable either to America alone or to America and Russia if jointly they set out to destroy the Japanese armies in Manchuria and North China.

It still is a highly speculative proposition whether the Japanese armies in North China and Manchuria will continue fighting after their homeland is occupied.

Thus the picture, from this vantage point takes on this appearance (fourteen words deleted by censor): Chinese Communist support will be encouraged, with the ultimate expectation that they will be useful in a campaign against Japanese armies on the Chinese mainland. Preparations will be made for the fullest cooperation between the Americans and the Russians in the event the latter come into the war, either before the Japanese home islands are taken or afterward when their armies in Manchuria are attacked.

Drive Takes Chinese Deep Into Burma

With Chinese Troops in North Burma, Dec. 13 [AP—Delayed]—Leading elements of the veteran 22d Chinese Division, marching south through Burma, today occupied the village of Tonkwa, 120 air miles northeast of Mandalay and 70 miles from Lashio, where the railway from Rangoon connects with the Burma Road.

The 22d's drive—which now has covered 210 miles—represents the deepest Allied penetration into Burma. The unit—which left Kamaing the middle of October—now is 50 miles in front of the most advanced British and Chinese forces approaching along the Mandalay railway.

Japs Made Stand

Fleeing in front of the Chinese for 50 miles without pausing, the Japanese finally made a stand at Shwegu on the Irrawaddy River. After a day-long battle the Japanese broke off the engagement and the chase was resumed for another 50 miles until the Chinese caught up with the enemy again at Tonkwa, which they stormed and captured.

The 22d, which is part of the Chinese 6th Army, is under the command of Gen. Lee Tao, who directed his men in the successful Hukawng Valley campaign under Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell.

Grueling Drive

Staff officers of Lieut. Gen. Daniel I. Sultan, Stilwell's successor in this theater, consider the 22d's drive one of the most grueling on record because of the roadless swamps, mountains and jungles which it traversed.

30. 24 — 21241

This force now is in position to do one of four things:

1. Cut the Burma Road between Lashio and Muse.
2. Cut off the Japanese retreating before the British and Chinese along the Mandalay railway corridor.
3. Storm the Japanese stronghold of Namkham.
4. Push on toward Mandalay.

CHINESE FORCES OCCUPY TONKWAY

CHUNGKING, Dec. 14. — (AP) Veteran Chinese troops under Gen. Lee Tao, spearheading the Allied drive toward Mandalay, have taken the town of Tonkway, 120 airline miles north of Mandalay, it was announced today.

After an advance which covered 210 miles of roadless jungle, the Chinese now are farther into Burma than any other Allied forces. Starting their offensive from the Mogaung valley town of Kamaing in October, they have chased the Japanese southward and today stand in position to strike the Burma road between Lashio and Mu-Se, which is 50 miles east of Bhamo.

Advance elements of the 22nd Division of the Chinese 6th Army routed the Japanese to the Irrawaddy river town of Shewgu, where the enemy finally made a stand. Following an all-day battle the Japanese ceased fighting and the chase was resumed for another 50 miles to Tonkwa, which the Chinese took by storm.

The 22nd Division now is in position to cut the Burma road between Lashio and Mu-Se; cut off the Japanese retreating along the Mandalay railway corridor; storm the enemy stronghold of Namkham 65 miles north of Laehio; or push southward toward Mandalay.

In the Arakan hills British 14th Army troops of an Indian regiment have occupied two positions 10 miles east-northeast of Mangdaw, a Southeast Asia Command headquarters communique said.

Americans Regain Chinese Air Base

MOOSA

Chungking, Dec. 14 (AP)—Chinese troops were reported nearing the Kwangsi province city of Hochih today amid indications that Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's 14th Air Force intends to move right along on the heels of the Chinese advance and re-establish bases which it was forced to evacuate during the Japanese drive westward.

Chennault's pilots today are pounding the key points of Japanese control in China as well as lending tactical support to Chinese ground forces, but it now is apparent that the former leader of the "Flying Tigers" had planned ahead for such emergencies as those created by the recent enemy land successes.

Tuhshan One Of Fields

While the Japanese threat to the Kweilin airfields was developing Chiang Kai-shek received for approval from Chennault a memorandum covering specifications for enlarging and improving certain grass-grown landing strips deeper in China. A few weeks later 120,000 conscript laborers and 60,000 contract laborers appeared for various jobs and ready for work.

The location of one of these fields can be disclosed because it is again in Allied hands. It is at Tuhshan, northern terminus of the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad.

Chinese troops advancing along this railway were reported by the Chinese high command today to have captured Cheho, 15 miles northwest of Hocnih. Cheho is about twenty miles inside the Kwangsi border and 95 miles northwest of the former United States air base at Liuchow.

Chinese field dispatches today also listed attacks upon intrenched Japanese forces near Lungsheng, 40 miles northwest of Kweilin, in which scores of enemy soldiers were reported killed in a night-long engagement. Lungsheng was one of the points captured and fortified by the Japanese as a safeguard for the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad.

Chinese Advance Nears Hochih, Report

DEC 15 1944
MOOSA

Chungking, Dec. 14 (AP)—Chinese troops were reported approaching the Kwangsi province city of Hochih today in close pursuit of the Japanese invaders they chased from Kweichow province.

The high command said Cheho, fifteen miles northwest of Hochih, fell last night to the Chinese advancing southeast along the Kweichow-Kwangsi railway. Cheho, about twenty miles inside the Kwangsi border, lies 135 miles southeast of once-menaced Kweiyang and 95 northwest of Liuchow, former site of an important United States airbase.

Base Still In Peril

While the continuing Chinese successes have removed any immediate Japanese threat to Kweiyang, a latent danger to the important base of Kunming still exists, Maj. Gen. Robert McClure said today.

McClure, chief of staff to Maj. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, United States commander in China, said the Americans were giving the Chinese as much assistance as possible.

He said Gen. Ho Ying-chin, the Chinese chief of staff, now is commanding field forces covering a large area. Brig. Gen. Frank Dorn, of San Francisco, is co-ordinating the activities of such American ground personnel as is available in China for liaison and training.

Delivery Increasing

McClure declared that if the Chinese had sufficient forces they could retake Liuchow, although this undoubtedly would involve large-scale fighting.

The chief of staff said that American delivery of supplies by air from India was increasing every month. The Americans are shifting some personnel to new points to increase efficiency, he said, but declared there was no truth in a report that they planned to remove their headquarters from Chungking.

ILLEGAL VALUE OF U. S. DOLLAR DROPS IN CHINA

CHUNGKING, Dec. 14. — (AP) The black market value of the American dollar which brought about 700 Chinese dollars here at the height of the military crisis has slumped sensationally during the past 48 hours. Today's quotations were 450 Chinese dollars to one U. S. dollar.

The sudden drop was partly attributed to the eviction of Japanese troops from Kweichow province and the growing confidence that the Chinese now are prepared to withstand any enemy attempt to take Kunming.

Prices continued their upward trend, however.

Jap L[illegible]

General MacAr[illegible] Headquarters, Friday, Dec. [illegible] Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today Japanese casualties of 82,554 men and American losses totaling 10,409 thus far in the Leyte and Samar campaigns initiating the liberation of the Philippines.

He also reported the Yanks advanced another mile north of Ormoc, capturing some major enemy supply dumps after overcoming "bitter resistance." This movement further closed the jaws of a vise on Japanese caught in the Ormoc corridor of northwestern Leyte between two United States divisions.

55 Days Of Campaign

MacArthur did not estimate the number of Japanese remaining on the two islands. The campaign against them thus far has run 55 days.

The headquarters communiqué broke down the Japanese casualty figures thus:

Abandoned dead on ground captured by Yanks, 33,801.

Prisoners captured by Yanks, 253.

SCHEDLER

Estimated dead not yet collected, and dead within the enemy's own lines, 18,500.

Drowned or killed in the total or partial destruction of ten convoys attempting to reinforce the Nipponese Leyte garrison, 30,000.

MacArthur said the American casualties consisted of 2,176 killed, 7,976 wounded and 257 missing.

Greatest In Pacific

The Japanese casualties reported are the greatest for any of the campaigns thus far in the Pacific islands. On Saipan, the next costliest for Japan, 26,277 Nipponese were reported killed and 2,068 taken prisoner. United States casualties there were 3,049 dead, 13,054 wounded and 368 missing.

The 1-mile advance north of Ormoc was made by the 77th Division, which landed behind the enemy lines December 7 and took Ormoc port from Japanese forces last Sunday.

Japanese planes attacked United States shipping in the Leyte area Wednesday and eight were brought down, four by fighters and four by ack-ack.

Liberators Bomb Airport

Liberators with fighter escort bombed the enemy's Bacolod airport on Negros Island with 88 tons of explosives and other United States heavy units hit the airdrome on Luzon Island. Patrol planes destroyed three 1,000-ton freighters in Verde Passage, off the southwest coast of Luzon, and others harassed Manila Bay shipping.

United States aircraft ranged widely over the southern Philippines, Borneo, Dutch Celebes, the Moluccas, Ceram, New Guinea and the Solomons, sinking small ships, tearing up airfields and smashing petroleum and other installations.

Many Japs Killed on Leyte

DEC 15 1944

Americans Put Pressure on Southern End of Ormoc Corridor Trap.

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—Great numbers of Japs were being killed in the mountains east of captured Ormoc as the Americans on Leyte put the pressure on the south end of a trap in the Ormoc corridor, Headquarters reported today.

Other enemy troops drowned Tuesday night in a strange attempt to send three small freighters, loaded with soldiers, into Ormoc. The Japanese evidently were unaware the west Leyte port was in American hands but soon found out. Shore fire promptly sent all three to the bottom.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said enemy losses on the ground were extraordinarily heavy as Seventh Division Yanks, who helped take the important port on Sunday, pursued scattered Nipponese fighting desperately to free themselves over the mountain trails.

Americans of the Seventy - seventh Division regrouped at Ormoc and sent patrols north to feel out enemy strength to the rear of the Yamashita Line, while Thirty - second Division forces, which have been battling the weather as well as stubborn Japs for weeks, maintained frontal presure from the north.

Japs Need Supply Lines.

Thousands of crack Imperial troops are in the corridor. Deprived of their principal reinforcement port of Ormoc, their supplies now must come via a treacherous road from Palompon, a secondary seaport at best.

[NBC Correspondent George Thomas Folster, broadcasting from Leyte, said Jap ground forces on the island were "completely disorganized; they are scattering in all directions, have lost contact with their leaders, and this is the beginning of the end for the Emperor's forces here in the Ormoc Valley.

"[Gen. Bruce already has started his troops northwards up the valley, at the same time that an American force is squeezing the Japs down from the north. The enemy is scattering into the mountains."]

For the third successive day American planes struck at oil installations on Borneo. Refinery buildings, six large oil tanks and two resorvoirs were set ablaze by fighters at Tarakan. Waterfront installations at Sandakan were effectively bombed by patrol planes, and five coastal vessels were sunk or damaged. Fighters strafed a troop-laden barge, inflicting considerable casualties.

A 3,000-ton freighter-transport was sunk east of Mindoro in the central Philippines by night air patrols.

Japs Report [illegible]

and dumps cut the Japanese even shorter of ammunition and food. A large quantity of bagged rice was found abandoned along river bottoms.

Farther up the mountain range, other elements of Lieut. Gen. Walter Kruger's 6th Army were engaged in a bitter battle with a band of Japanese who apparently had been left off from the main force of Nipponese retreating north of Ormoc before the 77th Division.

More Than 500 Killed

More than 500 of the enemy have been killed in this clash along the mountain trails in the foggy, damp weather, which the men call "Kiska climate."

The first banzai attack of the west coast fighting came tonight when a small group of shrieking Japanese charged American lines. They were all mowed down.

In High Spirits

Dog-tired from days of hard fighting under almost daily drenchings but still in high spirits, Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's doughboys appear confident that they have the Japanese defeated.

There is nothing dramatic about this fight on the west coast. It has now simmered down to a methodical job for the 7th.

Not Using Artillery

The enemy has no artillery left on his southern line or, if he has, he has not used it si[illegible] the cap-

Yanks Track Down Japs In Leyte Hills

DEC 15 1944

With the 7th Division, Leyte, Philippines, Dec. 12 [AP — Delayed]—Slogging along in a steady rain, doughboys of the 7th Division searched the foothills today in a great wheeling movement to envelop the Japanese still between their lines and Ormoc, on Leyte's west coast.

They encountered little resistance directly in front of them, but they ran into sharp fighting in the foothills, particularly around Sibugay creek and the Talisayan river. At some points they advanced as much as a mile and a half to two miles.

Pockets Wiped Out

The fighting is now mainly confined to wiping out pocket by pocket the Japanese, who are unable to make a determined stand as they did several days ago.

The capture of additional stores ture of a number of 75-mm. field-pieces in the last two days.

There are, however, no indications that this long-drawn-out battle of Leyte will end any differently than those of the Marshalls, Marianas and Palau, where the Japanese fought almost to the last man. Only a few prisoners are being taken.

7 Flyers Bag 11 Japs, Against 11-To-1 Odds

An American Airbase on Leyte, Dec. 14 (AP)—Seven marine fighter pliots, only one of whom had seen a Japanese plane in the air before, attacked a large force of Nipponese planes just before dawn Tuesday and shot down eleven without damage to themselves.

Members of the Bat Eye night fighting unit, the pilots were assigned to early morning cover for withdrawal of an American convoy from the Ormoc sector.

They sighted enemy fighters, dive bombers, torpedo bombers and medium bombers moving in on the convoy.

Capt. David Thomason, of Oak Park, Ill., downed two enemy fighters and damaged a third. He had led three Hellcats into the scrap.

"With the odds 11 to 1, I was scared green when we went in to attack," Thomason said.

YANKS BOMB AIRFIELDS AND HARBOR

Iwo Island In Volcano Group Target Of Land-Based Flyers

Pacific Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 14 (AP)—The destruction of 91 Japanese planes by carrier-based American aircraft in a raid on Luzon Island in the Philippines and three new land-based smashes at Iwo Jima were announced today by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

The attack on Luzon, on which Manila is situated, was directed at harbors and airfields but the communique gave no details other than the shooting down of 14 Nipponese interceptors and erasure of 77 on the ground. Possibly a later communiqué will include some Japanese shipping losses.

Supply Source For Leyte

Luzon is the big source of supply and reinforcement for the imperiled Nipponese on West Leyte.

The raid Wednesday was the first this month by the carrier air arm which seven times lashed Luzon with devastating effect in November.

Even the account of the air losses inflicted was incomplete.

Iwo Jima, in the Volcano Islands, was raided Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, marking the tenth such attack in thirteen days to knock out the airfields from which the enemy has sent planes to attack the B-29 base at Saipan, 725 miles to the south.

Encounter Heavy Flak

Despite the heavy anti-aircraft fire encountered, all raiding planes returned. Liberators, escorted by Lightnings, saw three or four "non-aggressive" Japanese planes aloft during the Tuesday strike.

Hitting at the supply route of the Japanese for the Volcano and Bonin islands, marine Mitchells attacked shipping near Haha Jima, 650 miles south of Tokyo, Sunday.

Marcus Also Raided

Other bombers of the Strategic Air Force worked over the airfield on tiny Marcus Island, 1,000 miles southeast of Tokyo, Monday. Marcus is in position to serve as a base to spot the Superfortresses on their runs to Japan.

Supply areas and barges at Babelthuap in the northern Palau Islands were strafed Tuesday by marine fighters. Fighter-bombers hit the enemy airfield on Yap, western Carolines, the same day. Wake was raided Tuesday by navy planes.

Power installations and fuel dumps on isolated Nauru Island, south of the Gilberts, were hammered by marine and navy planes Tuesday.

NIMITZ TO MOVE TO FORWARD AREA

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 14—(AP) Adm. Chester W. Nimitz soon will establish his Pacific fleet advanced headquarters in a forward area he said today in a press release.

An Australian radio report recently said the new site would be Guam.

The fleet announcement said the main headquarters, however, would remain at Pearl Harbor. There was no comment on the Australian radio designation of Guam for the new headquarters.

"Capture of the Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas, Ulithi and Palau has permitted moving the center of gravity of operations of the ground, sea and air forces, Pacific ocean areas, far westward," the announcement said.

Advance headquarters in the "forward area" will be established "to improve the effectiveness of control of these forces as their operations converge on Japan," the statement added.

U.S. Fleet Move Reported

San Francisco, Dec. 14 (AP)—The appearance of big American warships in inland waters of the Philippines was reported—it may be a Tokyo fishing expedition to ascertain dispositions of the fleet—by the enemy's radio today.

Without confirmation from Allied sources, Tokyo claimed two heavy cruisers were set afire by the Japanese Kamikaze suicide corps of planes which reputedly make a practice of crashing into their targets.

"In Mindanao Sea"

The broadcast, recorded here, said the cruisers were among a group of warships in the Mindanao Sea north of the island of Mindanao.

This would put the warships on the course to be taken between American-conquered East Leyte and the newly won holding at Ormoc port on West Leyte. American destroyers have penetrated those waters but there has been no mention of larger ships.

Victory Claimed

Meanwhile the Japanese news agency Domei claimed that Allied positions at Mega, on the extreme western tip of New Guinea, were "completely wiped out" on December 8 when Japanese based in the nearby Mar sector staged a "surprise attack."

After the battle, said the Domei dispatch, which was recorded here, the Allied dead numbered 150, one half of them Australian, while the Japanese "suffered ten killed in action."

The raid was not confirmed by Allied sources.

Five More Jap Admirals Die

Melbourne, Australia, Dec. 14 (AP)—Deaths of five more Japanese admirals was announced by the Japanese news agency Domei in a broadcast recorded today by the Australian Department of Information. The deaths raised the total of Nipponese admirals who have died since May to 79.

The new deaths, all rear admirals, were Katsuji Makano, Saburo Tshise, Saburo Kondoo, Saturo Kubota and Goro Miyakawa.

Admiral Fraser On Way To Confer With Nimitz

Melbourne, Friday, Dec. 15 (AP)—Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser, commander in chief of the British Pacific Fleet, left today to confer with Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander in chief of the United States Pacific Fleet, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

[The Australian radio reported in a broadcast recorded by the Blue Network that General Sir Thomas Blamey, deputy commander in the Southwest Pacific theater, had arrived in the Philippines for conferences with MacArthur.]

More Clothing For Australia

Canberra, Australia, Dec. 14 (AP). Army Minister Francis E. Forde, Acting Prime Minister, announced today the relaxation of eighteen major wartime austerity restrictions on the manufacture of clothing.

INDIA B-29'S STRIKE TWICE

Bangkok And Rangoon Targets In New Raids

DEC 15 1944

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Superfortresses from India struck today at Japanese outposts in Thailand and Burma in a followup to yesterday's major blow from Saipan against airplane production in the enemy homeland.

The force which Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay's 20th Bomber Command dispatched from India was described by the communique as substantial. No details were given in the communique on the raid at Bangkok and Rangoon, but both are major transportation centers supplying enemy forces in Southeast Asia.

Combat Training Mission

[A dispatch from a 20th Bomber Command base in India said rail yards in Rangoon and a bridge just north of Bangkok were bombed. It added that the planes were manned mainly by crews new to that theater and that a primary purpose was to give the newcomers a combat training mission.]

It was the third B-29 blow at Bangkok. That city was the target of the bombers June 5, and it was hit again November 27. Rangoon got a working-over November 3.

A communique from 20th Air Force headquarters here reported large fires burning after "many bomb hits" on military and industrial targets at Nagoya, Japan, yesterday. The list included direct hits on the Mitsubishi aircraft plant. Returning flyers brought back information that indicated heavy damage.

Two Missing In Three Raids

The announcement reported one of the B-29's missing and presumed lost from the big force which Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell, Jr., sent off from Saipan.

Late this afternoon the War Department amplified the communiqué with an announcement that one of the big bombers "is known to have been lost over the target at Rangoon," boosting losses in the triple strike to two.

Japanese broadcasts had claimed that two of the raiders were downed in Japan, and also reported five were shot out of the formations that attacked Bangkok and Rangoon.

Flying back into Saipan in one of the first Superfortresses over the Nagoya targets, Capt. Thomas Kuenning, of New Bremen, Ohio, brought photographs showing 24 hits on the rambling Hatsudoki aircraft plant. Other photographs showed at least 47 direct hits, with machine shops and assembly departments especially plastered.

Tokyo broadcast a report that one B-29 flew over Tokyo today (Japanese time), but there was no American confirmation. It has not been the custom in the past to make announcements on such lone missions, which presumably are for reconnaissance.

B-29S BATTER BOTH BANKOK AND RANGOON

One Superfortress Failed to Return From Raid on Nagoya.

47 DIRECT HITS COUNTED

Enemy Aircraft Center in Japan Said to Be Terribly Wrecked by Accurate Shots.

Washington, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—India-based Superfortresses of the Twentieth United States Bomber Command roared across the Bay of Bengal in substantial force today to batter military targets in Japanese-dominated Thailand (Siam).

This daylight mission sent bombs down on transportation centers in Bangkok, and also in Rangoon, Burma.

In announcing this attack, the War Department also announced that the Superfortresses attacking the Japanese industrial city of Nagoya yesterday scored many bomb hits on military and industrial targets, including the great Mitsubishi aircraft plant and that large fires were left burning.

One Superfortress is missing and presumed lost after yesterday's attack, which was carried out by the Twenty-first Bomber Command, based on Saipan. No official figures on the number of bombers engaged have been released, but authorized statements indicated that upward of 100 swarmed over Nagoya, on the enemy's home island of Honshu.

The gigantic B-29 bombers of Major-Gen. Curtis Lemay's Twentieth Command blasted Bangkok last on November 27. The railway junction and yards—heart of the enemy rail system radiating to Singapore, Burma and Indo-China — was struck with heavy loads of demolition bombs and all planes returned on that occasion.

[Tokyo announced that a single Superfortress was over the Japanese capital itself.]

Twenty-first Bomber Command, Saipan, Dec. 14 (AP)—Many direct hits ripped the Mitsubishi's big Hatsudoki aircraft factory at Nagoya and probably caused terrific damage, photographs taken by the B-29 raiders disclosed today.

[At the same time Washington announced a new raid by B-29's on Thailand and the Japanese radio reported a B-29 strike against Rangoon in Burma, adjoining Japanese controlled Thailand. A Japanese broadcast claimed that five Superforts were shot down in the Rangoon raid.]

Pictures showing 24 hits upon the rambling aircraft factory at Nagoya were brought back by the big plane of Capt. Thomas Kuenning, of New Bremen, Ohio. His plane was one of the first over the target.

Other pictures disclosed at least 47 direct hits, particularly in the plant's machine shops and assembly departments.

No Comment From Hansell

Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell, Jr., who was inclined to be cautious concerning the results of Wednesday's attack on Japan's third largest city until he had studied the photographs, as yet has made no further comment.

Photos Show B-29 Bomb Accuracy Over Nagoya

DEC 15 1944

30. 24— 21243

War correspondents inspected the photographs today. There were the geyserlike multiple bomb spouts, looking almost like orderly rows of Lombardy poplars, puncturing the factory area.

It was explained that most of the bomb damage was from the blasts rather than from the fires.

The pictures also showed that other planes had released their bombs too early and had set fires in the suburbs and that a number of bombs had dropped harmlessly in rice paddies.

Amazing Accuracy

However, the general impression of the pictures is that amazing accuracy was achieved in laying most of the bombs in a half-mile pattern upon the aircraft factory from an altitude of five or six miles (26,000 to 31,000 feet).

Returning flyers described scenes of fire and explosion even as the enemy radio told of war plants' being moved underground and of mass evacuations from Tokyo.

As the flyers brought back jubilant reports of the devastation wrought, Tokyo radio conceded the B-29 raids are "becoming serious."

Pillars Of Smoke

Before the first wave of the huge force of B-29's [Washington advices indicated 100 took part] left the target scene, pillars of smoke rose from the plant, largest of the vast Mitsubishi interests. It produces twin-engined bombers and navy fighters.

Visibility was excellent. The big bombers flew 3,000 to 4,000 feet lower than they did over Tokyo and a head wind slowed the approach. All these factors made for better bombing results.

Some B-29's were on their bombing runs for 20 minutes.

Photos Of Tokyo Raid

Hansell's caution was perhaps prompted by the fact that photographs of a Mitsubishi plant at Tokyo, made after recent raids there, showed some damage, but not enough to constitute a knockout blow.

Tokyo radio quoted Dr. Masatsugo Suzuki, head of Nippon's civil engineering association, as saying the raids already have prompted "large-scale removal work to the underground" of vital war plants. Enemy broadcasts also told of all districts of Tokyo evacuating their young and old.

More Flak Than At Tokyo

Capt. Leonard Cox, of Carnegie, Okla., whose Superfortress was among the first over Nagoya Wednesday, said: "We could see some (enemy) fighters taking off and much more flak than over Tokyo." Pilots said the enemy fighters were disinclined to risk the fire power of the Superforts and kept their distance.

The first formations said fully 50 per cent. of their bombs hit the targets.

[Tokyo radio placed the total of B-29's over Nagoya at "about 80" and conceded they caused some damage to the highly inflammable city which is crowded with war industries.]

Marylander's Feat

A bursting anti-aircraft shell sent broken glass showering over Lieut. Henry L. Miller, Riverdale, Md., as he looked into the bombsight on his Superfort. Unperturbed, the bombardier dropped his explosives squarely on the target.

Indicative of how the 3,000-mile round-trip raids from Saipan are growing, one Superfort, Dauntless Dotty, was on her tenth mission over Japan.

DEC 15 1944

Hits Scored at Nagoya.

Headquarters, Twenty first Bomber Command, Saipan, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—Some remarkably clear photographs, taken during the bombing runs upon Nagoya yesterday, disclosed that many direct hits were made upon Mitsubishi's giant Hatsudoki aircraft factory. It was believed here, in consequence, that the damage must have been terrific.

The B-29, commanded by Capt. Thomas Kuenning (whose wife lives in Ridgewood, N. J.), which was among the early formations over the target, obtained pictures showing twenty-four hits upon the great, rambling plant. Other early photos disclosed forty-seven hits on Hatsudoki—particularly its machine shops and assembly departments. The administration building was also hit.

War correspondents inspected the photographs today. There were three or four tall, wispy columns of smoke, but most impressive were the geyser-like multiple bomb spouts, looking almost like orderly rows of Lombardy poplars, puncturing the factory area. It was explained that most of the bomb damage was from the blasts rather than from the fires.

HAUSLAND

The pictures also showed that other planes had released their bombs too early and had set fires in the suburbs and that a number of bombs had dropped harmlessly in rice paddies. However, the general impression of the pictures is that amazing accuracy was achieved in laying most of the bombs in a half-mile pattern upon the aircraft factory, from a altitude of five or six miles (26,000 to 31,000 feet).

Capt. Leonard Cox of Carnegie, Okla., whose Superfortress was among the first over Nagoya yesterday, said: "We could see some (enemy) fighters taking off and much more flak than over Tokyo." Pilots said the enemy fighters were disinclined to risk the fire power of the Superfortresses and kept their distance.

A bursting anti-aircraft shell sent broken glass showering over Lieut. Earl Y. Miller, Riverdale, Md., as he looked into the bombsight on his Superfortress. Unperturbed, he dropped his explosives squarely on the target.

"We could see fighters taking off and much more flak than we met over Tokyo in previous raids," said First Lieut. Jack Ehrenberg of Passaic, N. J., a navigator. "We saw two big pillars of smoke when we left."

Visibility was excellent. The big bombers flew 3,000 to 4,000 feet lower than they did over Tokyo, and a headwind slowed the approach. All these factors made for better bombing results. Some of the Superfortresses were on their bombing runs for twenty minutes, returning flyers said.

Single B-29 Flies Over Tokyo, Japs Say

San Francisco, Dec. 14 (AP)—A single American Superfortress was reported over Tokyo about 3 A.M. today (Japanese time), the Tokyo radio announced.

The big plane "fled toward the high seas in a southerly direction without accomplishing anything," the broadcast, recorded here, said.

The Japanese news agency Domei broadcast a claim today that two American Superfortresses were "definitely shot down" and eight others "heavily crippled" in yesterday's big Yank raid on Nagoya, located on Honshu, main island of Japan.

[American reports said early indications were that none of the B-29's was lost over the target.]

The Japanese report said none of the Nipponese fighters which intercepted the American planes was lost.

41 Croats To Die As Spies

New York, Dec. 14 (AP)—A court-martial of the Yugoslav Army of National Liberation in Croatia has sentenced 41 members of the Croat Fascist Ustashi to death as spies, traitors and war criminals, the Free Yugoslav telegraph service said today.

MACARTHUR RECEIVES NETHERLANDS AWARD

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 14—(AP) Gen. Douglas MacArthur has been presented the Knights Grand Cross, with swords, of the Netherlands Order of Orange-Nassau, Aneta, official Netherlands News agency, reported today from Melbourne.

The presentation was made by Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, acting governor-general of the Netherlands East Indies, during a trip to Leyte, Philippines, and to liberated areas of the East Indies.

Van Mook also presented the cross, with swords, of a grand officer in the order to Lt. Gen. Walker Krueger, commander of the American 6th army, which cleared Dutch New Guinea of Japanese and is fighting on Leyte.

Japs Tell Of New Fighter

San Francisco, Dec. 14 (AP)—A new Japanese twin-engined navy fighter plane, the Gekko (Moonlight), has "now been revealed to the nation as a standing member" of Japan's "reception committee of death for enemy invaders of the sky against our homeland," Radio Tokyo said today.

The Domei dispatch claimed the new fighter plane "is already credited with an excellent showing in recent interception operations against enemy B-29 raiders over Tokyo and northern Kyushu."

TOKYO SAYS N. Y. FEARS NAZI BUZZ-BOMB ATTACK

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Great fear of the danger of German bombardment "by flying bombs" is causing New York city citizens to make "hasty preparations to evacuate" the city, the Tokyo radio said today.

The broadcast, in English and beamed to the United States, was reported by OWI.

"Even though there is a report that no German bombs have yet landed in New York," Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia has said he is "afraid of a possible panic" when the bombs do come over, Tokyo said.

Coast Guard Smashes Nazi Bid To Set Up Bases on Greenland

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP) Three Nazi weather-reporting expeditions to the northern Greenland area were smashed and an enemy vessel and 60 prisoners captured during a Summer-Fall Coast Guard campaign in those ice-packed waters.

The Navy, reporting this today, said two other Nazi ships were scuttled by their own crews, one when it was brought to bay by Coast Guard cutters and the other because it was hopelessly caught in ice floes.

The captured vessel was a new, 180-foot armed trawler named the Externsteine. An American prize crew has sailed it to Boston.

The Northland, one of four Coast Guard ships engaging in this Arctic naval war, lost its rudder due to ice damage but was safely towed 3,000 miles to an American base.

There were indications, the Navy said, that planes were attached to the German expeditions and may have parachuted supplies. A twin-motored Nazi bomber was sighted during the campaign.

Europe's weather originates in the Greenland area and the Germans have tried desperately since early in the war to maintain observers there. American forces, soon after the United States entered the war, seized a small enemy trawler near Greenland. A year ago another enemy ship was sunk and a shore station captured.

Relating the story of the 1944 campaign, the Navy disclosed that it had its beginnings last May. At that time, the Greenland sledge patrol, made up of Danes, discovered a German station of some nature on Cape Sussi, northern tip of Shannon island. A patrol captain was scouting the station when he was surprised by a German officer. The Dane killed the German and fled.

On the basis of the Dane's report, Commodode Earl G. Rose of Muncey, Pa., commander of the Greenland patrol, put a landing force of Army soldiers and Coast Guardsmen on the cutters Northland and Storis when they set out in July to supply stations of the Greenland sledge patrol.

This landing force made three attempts to move overland on Shannon Island for a surprise attack on the Nazi base. This plan failed because of bad weather although eventually a land force did arrive at Cape Sussi. Meantime, a shift of the wind had opened leads through the ice pack and the Northland moved around the island to the site of the enemy base. It was found deserted with evidence that the Nazis had hastily fled. A radio had been smashed but stocks of food, gasoline and ammunition were found.

About four miles off Cape Sussi, the Northland found the wreckage of a 155-foot armed Nazi trawler in the ice. The ship had been crushed by ice, holed by an explosion within the hull and gutted by fire. The Navy said the vessel was believed to be the Coberg.

The Northland and the Storis continued their patrols and on Sept. 1 the Northland, under command of Lieut. Cmdr. R. W. Butcher, Jamaica Plain, Mass., sighted a German trawler off Great Koldewey island.

The Northland gave chase, firing with her forward gun. The enemy ship was faster and the Northland never was able to pull within effective gun range but after 7 1-2 hours the enemy ship suddenly stopped, blocked by a long finger of ice. As the Northland approached, the crew of the enemy ship took to lifeboats and a moment later the Nazi vessel blew up. Eight Nazi officers and 20 enlisted men were taken prisoner.

Meantime, the Storis had encountered a German Focke-Wulfe twin-motored bomber. The plane circled the ship but kept out of gun range.

Then came the accident to the Northland and aid was asked. The new cutters Eastwind and Southwind were dispatched from Boston and the tender Evergreen was sent to tow the Northland.

Captain Charles W. Thomas, Long Beach, Calif., commander of the Eastwind, took command of the task force. Scouting planes found suspicious indications on little Koldewey island, 800 miles south of the North Pole.

On Oct. 4, the Eastwind landed two platoons of sailors who found and destroyed a Nazi radio-weather station and captured three officers and nine enlisted men.

The Eastwind's scout plane sighted the Externsteine on Oct. 15 some 15 miles off Cape Bergen. The Eastwind and the Southwind moved in and the next day cornered the Nazi trawler.

Its officers and crew of 20 surrendered when the Eastwind blinked a message that it would open fire if there was any attempt to scuttle the ship.

Navy Stops Nazi Attempt To Land On Greenland

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Four Coast Guard cutters, operating in ice-packed Arctic waters, have smashed a "determined Nazi effort" to establish fortified bases in Greenland.

The Navy, reporting this today, said one German armed trawler was sunk, another captured, a third was found abandoned, 60 prisoners were taken and a radio station was captured and destroyed.

In addition, a German bomber attack was beaten off in the series of actions, which lasted from July to late October.

Three Cutters Damaged

Three of the Coast Guard cutters were damaged by crushing ice-packs; one, the Northland, had to be towed 3,000 miles for repairs.

The climax of the battle through ice floes and along frozen shores came October 16 when the cutters Eastwind and Southwind captured the German armed trawler Externstein and its crew of 4 officers and 30 enlisted men.

Salvo after salvo of shells flashed across the ice packs before the Nazi craft was cornered in a pocket formed by ice floes and forced to surrender.

Eastwind Lands Force

Twelve days before that engagement, the Eastwind, skippered by Capt. Charles W. Thomas, Long Beach, Cal., task force commander, had landed two platoons of sailors on little Koldewey Island, 800 miles from the North Pole.

These landing parties, in a predawn attack, captured a Nazi radio and weather station with its three officers and nine enlisted men and large quantities of scientific and weather equipment.

Nazis Send Three Groups

Apparently, the Navy said, three separate expeditions had been sent to Greenland by the Germans. One was captured by the cutter Northland commanded by Lieut. Com. R. W. Butcher, Jamaica Plain, Mass., on September 1, after a 70-mile chase through the ice floes. The chase ended in the scuttling of a German armed trawler when the Nazi craft was blocked by ice. Two explosions ripped through the enemy trawler and she sank.

The crew of eight officers, headed by a full commander, and twenty enlisted men left the craft in lifeboats and were taken prisoner.

Bombing Attack Beaten Off

The cutter Storis beat off a Nazi bombing attack while the Northland was pursuing the enemy trawler. A twin-motored bomber sped in on the Storis, but just as it came within ack-ack range it veered off, apparently unwilling to do battle with the little Coast Guard craft.

The Northland, meanwhile, was in difficulties. She had smashed her rudder in maneuvering through the ice pack.

Towed To Base

Commodore Earl G. Rose, Muncey, Pa., commander of the Greenland patrol, advised of her damage, sent the Eastwind and Southwind to the scene to tow her back to base.

Both Coast Guard and Army planes, the Navy said, also participated in the series of actions, providing aircover for the cutters and aiding in reconnaisance.

Several Men Landed

Several land actions came during the series of engagements. Among them was the landing of a party of soldiers and Coast Guardsmen on Shannon Island under command of Lieut. Philip S. Pepe, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Ensign Benjamin D. Fleet, Jr., Philadelphia, and Lieut. (j.g.) Lee Wayne Felts, Richwood, N.J.

Halted by bad weather, they required reinforcements before reaching a fortified Nazi base. When they did arrive, the Nazis had fled. Instruments were smashed, but a large stock of gasoline, food and ammunition was found in ice caves.

Abandoned Trawler Found

The abandoned trawler was located by the Northland while moving through heavily packed ice. A 155-foot foot armed vessel, she had been crushed in the ice. An explosion had ripped out her hull and she had been afire. It was evident, the Navy said, that the Nazi crew had lived on the ice packs for some time after abandoning ship.

U. S., Britain Reach Accord On New Italian Government

DEC 15 1944

London Sends Minister to Washington to Confer on European Policies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP) In an apparent move to patch up differences in their European policies, the United States and Britain today simultaneously bestowed their blessing on the new Italian government.

At the same time, the London government designated British Minister of State Richard K. Law to hurry to Washington to talk over policies to be applied on the continent, and the problem of getting supplies to liberated peoples. Officials of both countries have expressed deep concern over the supply matter, feeling that political unrest in some degree has grown out of wants.

Emphasizes Close Consultation

The statements on the new government set up by Premier Ivanoe Bonomi emphasized the close consultation between ambassadors from Washington and from London during formation of the cabinet.

Apparently the intent was to underscore settlement of the question of advance consultation on European policies.

It was this question which left to an open airing of differences between London and Washington. Without consulting the United States, the British came out against the selection of Count Carlo Sforza as premier or foreign minister of Italy. Whereupon Secretary of State Stettinius announced the United States was opposed to outside interference in the formation of European governments.

The Washington statement today on the new government:

"The United States and British ambassadors in Rome have been in close contact during the recent developments in Italy. (U. S.) Ambassador Alexander C. Kirk has kept the department carefully informed. He reports that the new government of Italy is supported by a majority of the political parties comprising the Committee of National Liberation, and thus maintains a representative character. This government, in accord with the British government, is happy to see the new Italian government, under Signor Ivanoe Bonomi, take office."

The British statement, using the words "close consultation," covered precisely the same ground.

Four of the six parties in the Committee of National Liberation took portfolios in Bonomi's new cabinet. The Socialists and Actionists refused to join. Sforza was not included.

While accepting the idea that short supplies for the liberated peoples contributed to trouble, American officials generally hold that British political intervention as in Italy and Greece has served to augment the turmoil.

In this connection, one official dealing with supply problems said information received here indicates the Russians have succeeded better in Poland than have the British in Greece in making themselves popular.

Back Stettinius' Policy

Despite London assertions that the United States long has been aware of British-Soviet Balkan agreements, authorities here stand firmly behind Secretary of State Stettinius' advocacy of a hands-off policy on internal politics.

British Labor Minister Ernest Bevin's implication yesterday that President Roosevelt approved political arrangements dividing Balkan influence between England and Russia brought emphatic denials.

There is a possibility that Secretary of State Stettinius may speak out on the question soon.

The London Evening News, commenting on the apparent mix-up between London and Washington over the question whether the U. S. had okayed sphere of influence assignments in Europe, said that "the United States government has been perfectly aware all along of the Churchill-Stalin Balkan agreements and has not opposed them."

The Manchester Guardian editorialized: "If we are to be accused of being illiberal, imperialists, self-seeking, let us be accused in company with the Americans and the Russians. The first requisite is to settle what Allied policy is."

That, British diplomats here say, is the precise aim of Law's trip.

American officials assure that there never has been any change in Washington's policy against dividing Europe into exclusive spheres of political interest.

Oil Industry Didn't Slow Up 3d Army, Says Ickes

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Harold L. Ickes, petroleum administrator, today absolved the oil industry of blame for the gasoline shortage which reportedly halted for a time Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's 3d Army advance toward Germany.

Ickes said some persons apparently misinterpreted a Patton statement to mean that the oil industry was to blame.

"There never has been a shortage of gasoline for any combat area," Ickes said. "Dispatches clearly indicate that General Patton moved so fast that the Army's transport system could not bring up enough fuel to keep him moving.

"The fact that a considerable quantity of gasoline was flown from the beaches to the front shows that the problem was one of military transport rather than any lack of stocks."

U. S. Casualties 562,368, Army Total 483,957

Stimson Reports Increase of 9,059 in One Week; Navy Now Lists 78,411

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Army casualties for all war areas now total 483,957.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, announced this figure today, and said it represents casualties reported through Nov. 28. This was an increase of 9,059 for a one-week period between Nov. 22 and 28.

Casualties for all branches of the armed forces—Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Marines—now stand at 562,368. The latest Navy report announces 78,411 casualties, an increase of 1,291 from the previous week.

The Army totals, together with those of a week ago, follow: Killed, 92,135 and 91,625; wounded, 272,351 and 268,099; missing, 62,786 and 58,926; prisoners, 56,685 and 56,248.

The Navy casualties: Killed, 30,029 and 29,738; wounded, 34,503 and 33,469; missing, 9,493 and 9,427; prisoners, 4,486, unchanged.

Casualties among American Army ground forces in Italy increased 16,255 between Sept. 25 and Dec. 9. Mr. Stimson said that from the time of the landing at Salerno in September, 1943, through last Dec. 8 a total of 98,366 casualties had been reported. Of the total, 18,898 were killed, 67,194 wounded and 12,274 are missing. As of Sept. 25, the list had reported 15,889 killed, 56,178 wounded and 10,044 missing.

CHURCHILL AID IS COMING TO U. S. TO DISCUSS POLICY

Law Will Seek Settlement of Tangles in Italy and Greece.

Washington, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—Richard K. Law, British Minister of State, is coming to Washington to discuss tangles in Anglo-American policy. In making this known today the British embassy indicated that Mr. Law decided on the trip when Harold MacMillan, British political adviser in the Mediterranean, went to Athens instead of here to discuss the muddled Italian and Greek questions.

Mr. Macmillan still is expected to come here when he returns from his quick trouble-shooting trip to Greece.

Mr. Law was here early this fall to discusse political and economic matters.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Dec. 14 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 2,293 United States Army casualties in the European war area

In all these cases next of kin have previously been notified and have been kept informed directly by the War Department of any change in status.

Included in the list today are the following with their next of kin:

Rocket-Ship Role In Invasion Described

DEC 15 1944

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Rocket ships, one of the most secret of naval weapons, played a large part in the shattering of German defenses along the European beaches.

This was disclosed today in a Navy report of the use of rockets in the Atlantic and Pacific. It followed an announcement that the undisclosed production of rockets will be increased nearly 300 per cent immediately.

262 P. C. Increase

November output of rockets was 262 per cent above the June figure, a WPB spokesman said, describing this as "the example of examples" of ever-changing demands.

Large landing ships, designed originally to carry tanks to enemy beaches, were converted secretly last winter into rocket-firing craft, the Navy disclosed. Moving ahead of the first waves of landing craft, they worked with battleships, cruisers and destroyers in the bombardment which preceded landings.

"Dancing Floor Of Fire"

"Standing offshore and with great naval shells howling overhead," the Navy reported, "the rocket craft blazed away time after time, leaving sections of the defenses a dancing floor of fire. Their action was one of the most amazing sights of the invasion. First, many streaks of flame spurted from the flat, hollow shell of the craft, then seconds later the carpet of bursts crashed on a hillside or a section of beach. The roar from the explosion was many times more violent than that of heavy battleship gunfire."

Total salvos fired from a rocket ship have the punch of a broadside from a New Jersey class battleship.

100 Millions Monthly

The Office of War Information reported recently that the Navy soon will be spending $100,000,000 monthly on rocket ammunition.

Each rocket craft carries hundreds of missiles. Fired electrically, the rockets speed toward the beaches in overlapping salvos and "eliminate virtually all secondary fortifications, including mines, wire, machine-gun nests, shallow pillboxes and will temporarily stun men in larger fortifications," the Navy said.

Stimson Lauds Army Record of U. S. Japanese

He Cites Loyalty to Nation; Protests Rise at Oregon Legion Post's Snub of 16

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP).—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, said today it was "wholly incongruous" that service men of Japanese extraction who have demonstrated their loyalty to this country should be subject to "unworthy discrimination."

Responding to a question at his news conference, Mr. Stimson said he had no first-hand knowledge of

30. 24— 21245

"regrettable reports" of discrimination against Japanese-American soldiers on the west coast and therefore could not comment on special cases.

At present, however, he added, there are 13,000 Japanese-Americans who are serving or who have served in the armed forces.

The 100th infantry battalion, in combat on the Italian front, is made up entirely of Japanese-Americans. It has an outstanding record and has been cited for gallantry, Mr. Stimson said.

The 442d Combat Team, also Japanese - American, has since been organized, he said, and has fought courageously and well on the European front.

U.S. Opposed To 'Spheres'

DEC 15 1944

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Authoritative American officials declared flatly today that the United States maintains a firm stand opposed to the development of spheres of influence in Europe.

They denied unqualifiedly that President Roosevelt okayed any British-Russian agreement dividing up political interests in the Balkans.

Spokesmen for the Labor Ministers in the coalition British Government had said that Russia and Mr. Roosevelt had agreed that Britain undertake the "main problem of Greece."

Cautioned Several Times

This Government has cautioned both Britain and Russia several times against allowing military agreements on zones of operations to draw boundaries of political influence, the United States officials asserted.

The danger that military arrangements would turn into spheres of influence is well recognized, they said.

Prime Minister Churchill, according to these highly placed officials, has assured the United States that Britain does not seek special areas of political privilege.

While Russia has not given such flat promises, it was said, Premier Stalin has given no signs of disagreement with the American position.

Brooks Criticizes Allies

Despite all this, there has lately been outspoken discussion by members of Congress of what some of them call improper activity by both British and Russia. Senator Brooks (R., Ill.) said yesterday that these two are "in a race for the future balance of power on the European Continent."

Britain, Russia, China and the United States all committed themselves against exclusive spheres by the Moscow declaration, in the eyes of American diplomats.

Dumbarton Oaks A Factor

The Dumbarton Oaks document, they said, paved the way for implementation of the policy of the joint action. The world security plan does provide for regional organizations, but these come under the supervision of the International Council.

Britain's attempt at forming a western European bloc died unborn when France concluded a treaty with Russia. The terms of the Franco-Soviet pact are unknown here, but Moscow dispatches said it parallels the British-Soviet treaty, which specifically states that military alliance clauses are to be subordinated to an effective world peace agency when one is established.

The Drawback

"If acquisition of the lands is to be sought under the homestead law, application therefore must be accompanied by an affidavit declaring that the applicant has personally examined the land and is well acquainted with its characteristics.

"The applicant must be prepared to establish his permanent residence upon the land to the exclusion of a home elsewhere, within six months after his entry has been approved."

Army Hostesses Sent To Paris and Brussels

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP).—The War Department announced today that a contingent of thirteen United States Army hostesses, the first ever sent to an active war area, had arrived in Paris and Brussels.

The American women, with an equal number of British Army hostesses, will operate recreation clubs for enlisted troops at the internationally famous Grand Hotel in Paris and the Metropole Hotel in Brussels.

The contingent included Frances Schoenij, of East Orange, N. J.

Law For Getting Land On Moon Requires One Move There

DEC 15 1944

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—The land rush may be some time off, but the Interior Department is all set with advice on how to file claims on the moon.

From Glen Ellyn, Illinois, and specifically from R. L. Farnsworth, president of the United States Rocket Society, Inc., came this query:

"Many of our members write in and ask us how they go about filing the claim to land on the moon. As strange as this may seem to you, it may be a reality within a generation; consequently, we would appreciate either telling us how this is done or advising us to whom to direct our inquiries."

Department Alert

Demonstrating that the department's land office has its ear to the ground, its nose to the wind and its mind on the future, Commissioner Fred W. Johnson replied:

"New lands which may be designated as public domain under the sovereignty of the United States are subject to the jurisdiction of the General Land Office. Consequently, those portions of the moon which may become public domain are susceptible of acquisition under the more than 5,000 public land laws administered by this office, relating to mineral developments, homesteading, grazing or other types of land use.

23 Million Cutback to Free 6,000 Workers in 5 War Plants by First of Year

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A $23,000,000 cutback in production of machine guns for Army planes was officially approved tonight. The move, it was explained, will release man power for more critical ordnance items, including ammunition.

The decision, announced by the Production Executive Committee of the War Production Board, will release 6,000 workers from five plants about Jan. 1.

"Immediate action" is being taken by the War Man-Power Commission to channel the laid-off employees into critical jobs, it was stated.

The output of .50-caliber guns for aircraft has been running ahead of schedule. The Army described the adjustment as "a leveling off of machine-gun production and not a complete curtailment."

Meanwhile, informed W. P. B. officials estimated the new gun and shell plant expansion program for 1945 would cost between $250,000,000 and $500,000,000, including construction of facilities for mortar ammunition.

Both W. P. B. and Army sources indicated that the W. P. B. chairman, J. A. Krug, had misspoken a fortnight ago when he told a news conference of tentative plans for a $500,000,000 construction program for mortar ammunition alone.

The new and lower estimate, it was stated, would be the cost if new facilities had to be built from the ground up, and would include not only plants for medium and heavy artillery and ammunition, but nitrate and sulphuric acid facilities and brass strip mills which might be needed to meet the expanded ammunition schedules. It is possible that present facilities can be adapted to larger production without new construction in each case.

Plants to be affected by the curtailment of orders for aircraft machine guns are: Brown-Lipe-Chapin division of General Motors, Syracuse, N. Y.; Savage Arms Corporation, Utica, N. Y.; Kelsey Hayes Wheel Company, Plymouth, Mich.; Colt's Patent Firearms Manufacturing Company, Hartford, Conn.; Buffalo Arms Corporation, Buffalo.

Nazis Preparing War III, Russ Say

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—The Soviet Embassy published today charges that Germany was preparing for a third world war, with Spain and Argentina "chosen for preservation of the Hitlerite reserves."

The embassy bulletin carried an article from Trud, organ of the Soviet trade unions, urging strong measures to "avert fresh German aggression."

It said:

"Spain is the storehouse and portage for German capital, which is now organizing abroad the industrial place d'armes of Fascist aggression.

"A considerable part of this capital is on the territory of Argentina. To this reservoir, through secret channels from Spain, flow money and materials representing the embryo of the new German war machine. To Argentina have rushed a crowd of German agents who are now creating a peculiar storage place for German capital and secret military inventions in the Western Hemisphere.

"Characteristic in this respect are the lately intensified reactionary measures taken by the Argentine Government, in particular its attempts to restrict the activities of trade unions."

Army To Shift 80,000 Men To Ground Forces

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP) — The War Department said today it expects the transfer of 80,000 air and service force personnel to ground forces will be completed during January.

To provide more combat troops for the ground forces, 55,000 enlisted men will be shifted from air forces and 25,000 from service forces. The department said that "the majority of men transferred from the AAF will be replaced by enlisted men of the ground forces, who are not qualified for combat duty."

Stimson Says Minimum Draft Age Will Remain

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, said today the War Department does not contemplate any request for lowering the minimum selective service age from 18.

The Secretary said at his news conference there is sufficient manpower in the 18 to 38 age group to take care of all the army's requirements.

NOMINATION CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 — (AP) The Senate confirmed today the nomination of Norman Armour of New Jersey as ambassador to Spain. He succeeds Carlton Hayes.

War Cost Hits New Low

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP) — November war expenditures dropped to a new low for 1944.

The War Production Board today reported that the November expenditures amounted to $7,095,000,000, a decrease of $352,000,000 or 4.7 per cent. from October.

This country spent $236,700,000,000 for war purposes between July 1, 1940, and November 30, 1944.

WHITE HOUSE AID IS DENIED

Corcoran, Niles Say No Pressure Was Used In WMCA Sale

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP) — A White House aide and a former close associate of President Roosevelt denied today that they used White House influence in the sale of Radio Station WMCA, New York.

The witnesses, before the committee investigating the Federal Communications Commission, were Thomas G. (Tommy the Cork) Corcoran, early New Deal adviser now practicing law, and David K. Niles, one of Mr. Roosevelt's assistants "with a passion for anonymity."

They were summoned by Chairman Lea (D., Cal.) after reports were injected in committee hearings that Administration pressure was used to bring about sale of the station by Donald Flamm to Edward J. Noble for $850,000 in 1940.

The committee subpoenaed Corcoran's income-tax records to see if he obtained any fee in the transaction.

Corcoran told reporters after the day-long private questioning that he was in Mexico when the deal went through and had nothing to do with it.

Nothing Except Price

"I saw nothing wrong in the sale except the high price," he added.

"To my knowledge, Dave Niles had nothing to do with the case. Neither did anyone else in the White House."

Flamm has charged that he was "coerced" into selling by two of his employes, who told him he was going to lose his license, issued by the FCC.

Chairman Lea said that Noble will testify tomorrow.

ACTION ON HURLEY DELAYED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 — (AP) Postwar economic policies may come in for Senate debate in consideration of nominations of former Gov. Robert A. Hurley of Connecticut and Lieut. Col. Edward Heller to be members of the Surplus War Property Board. The Senate today postponed action on them.

At hearings by the Senate Small Business committee, David L. Podell, counsel of the Smaller War Plants corporation, complained that currently manufacturers seem to be getting "first crack" at buying surplus property.

Seaboard Rail Strike Averted By White House

DEC 15 1944

Trainmen Threatened to Quit Today; Emergency Board of Inquiry Named

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The White House took action tonight to check a threatened strike on the Seaboard Air Line Railway.

President Roosevelt named an emergency mediation board to inquire into the strike, which had been called by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen for noon tomorrow.

Effect of the Presidential action is to halt the strike pending a determination of the issues.

The dispute had been referred to the President by the National Mediation Board, which said it had been unable to settle the differences between the railroad and the complaining brotherhood.

The President named the emergency board, he said in a proclamation, because the proposed strike threatened to affect interstate commerce in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida, and deprive a large section of the country of essential transportation service.

D. B. Robertson, president of the union, an independent organization, said the strike had been ordered because of failure to obtain from the railroad the right to represent members employed as engineers, in handling their individual grievances and claims against the company.

J. C. Wroton, general manager of the Seaboard, at Norfolk, Va., said it was purely a jurisdictional question between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers over reinstatement of engineers.

The railroad, Mr. Wroton said, would abide by any decision of the emergency board.

It will be composed of David J. Lewis, of Maryland, a former Congressman; Huston Thompson, a Washington attorney, and Major General William H. Tschappat, retired, of Virginia.

It had been learned from government sources that the National Mediation Board had referred the case to the White House before Mr. Robertson made his announcement that the strike would be called.

Mr. Robertson explained that his union is recognized by the Seaboard Railway as representative for firemen but that the railroad insists that the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers must present grievances of the engineers. He said, however, that approximately 300 engineers employed by Seaboard are members of his union, and estimated that this is half the total number of engineers employed by the railroad.

Mr. Robertson said the representation right sought by his union has been accorded to his brotherhood by every railroad in this country and Canada with the exception of Seaboard.

He said "it is my understanding that the railroad has asked the government for the appointment of another emergency board to consider this dispute and thus avert a strike.

"In other words, the people of the United States are being asked to pay the cost of another re-examination of the question in dispute to rescue the railroad from its folly and irresponsible heedlessness in refusing to employees and their legally designated representatives rights accorded to them" by law.

SURPLUS-SALE PLAN ATTACKED

DEC 15 1944

U.S. Official Says Treasury Favors Manufacturers

Washington, Dec. 14 (AP)—A Government official complained today that the Treasury is giving manufacturers first crack at buying surplus property and asserted this threatens full employment after V-day.

In addition, such a practice keeps goods from consumers and permits the manufacturer to make a "double profit," David L. Podell, general counsel of the Smaller War Plants Corporation, told a subcommittee of the Senate Small Business Committee.

The committee is investigating surplus property disposal.

Podell said manufacturers have a tendency to hold on to surplus material which they purchase and to "dole it out" sparingly to maintain prices.

Will Have Heavy Backlog

This means, he said, that when peace comes they will have a heavy backlog of goods and will not swing quickly to full production.

Podell's reference to a "double profit" applied, he said, to a manufacturer who sells an item to the armed services, repurchases it at lower price from the Treasury's surplus property office and then puts it back on the market at a markup.

Podell also complained, and his view was echoed by SWPC Chairman Maury Maverick, that there is not sufficient advertising of surplus property booked for sale. He cited particularly the sale of 10,700 10-ton hydraulic jacks, sold by the Army, to two manufacturers.

Jacks Sold At Loss

Lee W. Moran, chief of the automotive division of the Treasury's surplus disposal office, testified earlier than these jacks were sold at a loss of $35 each but that he considered it a fortunate deal because there appeared to be no demand for that many jacks.

Podell said that if the SWPC had known the jacks were surplus it would have found distributors within a week to handle their sale and would have gotten "a very excellent price" for them.

Virgil J. Rader, deputy regional director of the Treasury's office, testified that the Treasury often offered surplus goods to manufacturers first because the manufacturer is in the best position to obtain wide distribution of scarce goods. Selling to one or two distributors, he said, would restrict the area of consumer sales and tend to give "monopoly" to one or two firms.

Fish for Congress Pension

Moreover, He Would Have Colleagues "Openly Adopt" Plan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 (AP).—A lame duck told luckier members of Congress today that what they ought to do is vote themselves a pension.

"I am convinced," said Representative Hamilton Fish, Republican, of New York, who was defeated in November after twenty-four years in the House, "that it would be for the best interests of Congress to openly adopt a retirement system."

He said he didn't like to use the word "pension" because it seems to have "a kind of opprobrium." "If you present the facts properly the public will support you," Representative Fish declared.

He isn't interested for himself, the New Yorker said, explaining: "I'll get a large retirement in New York State." Representative Fish has subscribed to the New York State retirement-system plan during his twenty-four years in Congress.

E-BONDS EXPECTED TO REACH QUOTA

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14—(AP) With two days left in the Sixth War Loan drive, sales of series E-bonds reached $1,535,000,000 today—60 per cent of the $2,500,000,000 E-bond quota.

Though the four-week selling campaign ends Saturday, Treasury officials now believe that if sales efforts continue vigorous to the end, the E-bond quota will be oversubscribed.

Their optimism over getting the remaining 40 per cent is based on these facts:

1. The daily figures here run several days behind payment of the cash by bond-buyers, because of the delay in forwarding the money to federal reserve banks.

2. As previously announced, bond money deposited throughout December will count in the drive. A larger proportion of E-bond sales than ever before are being made through extra payroll deductions.

This money comes in gradually and much of it will not actually be enough to buy a bond and count in the drive until near the end of December.

Final totals will be announced January 2.

Total individual sales to date are $3,796,000,000 about 76 per cent of the individual quota of $5,000,000,000.

With corporation sales of $12,672,000,000 the grand total recorded so far $16,468,000,000.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO RESTRAIN PETRILLO

DEC 15 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP) The Senate today passed legislation designed to prohibit James Caesar Petrillo's American Federation of Musicians from interfering with broadcasting of non-commercial cultural or education programs.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) was approved by unanimous voice vote during a routine call of the calendar of unopposed bills. It now goes to the House.

The legislation grew out of Petrillo's cancellation of a broadcast by the National High School Symphony orchestra from the National Music camp at Interlochen, Mich.

SENATE CONCLUDES CIGARET PROBE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 — (AP) The Senate War Investigating committee's inquiry into the cigaret shortage ended today with its members pretty well fagged out.

They packaged up a lot of new testimony from a manufacturer who could increase production 25 per cent if he had more tobacco and a grower who fears for the price of the crop if 1945 quotas are raised more than 7 per cent.

Rolled up in the other evidence was the tiny spark of hope that things might conceivably get better for smokers as soon as the Army-Navy pipelines (no relation to pipes) get filled up.

S. Clay Williams, chairman of board of the R. J. Reynolds tobacco company, (they make Camels), said 51 1-2 per cent of his production goes to the armed forces.

In normal times, he explained, manufacturers operate on a machine to mouth basis, keeping the supply only 30 days ahead of consumption.

Because the military can't take chances, they must keep the chain smoke line between this country and troops overseas constantly filled and a minimum 90 days' supply abroad.

He brought this out when Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) wondered if the soldiers were overpuffing, a wonder raised by the thought of 12,000,000 Americans using up 51 1-2 per cent of a supply made for the whole population.

The thought that the Army eventually will catch up with its supply line needs figured in an assertion by W. C. Winn, assistant chief of the AAA's tobacco division that a 7 per cent acreage increase allowed growers for 1945 would be adequate.

While 1945 growth would not be usable for cigarets for from a year and a half to two years, Winn expressed belief that the steady increase in demand would abate by 1947.

GALLUP POLL METHODS FACE HOUSE INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(AP) A detailed explanation of the vote-sampling methods used by the Gallup poll in New York, Maryland and Massachusetts has been asked by the House Campaign Investigating committee.

Committee investigators recently went to New Jersey to question Dr. George C. Gallup, conductor of the poll. Chairman Anderson (D-N.M.) said today the requested statement is intended to fill out the background on that examination.

In addition to the detailed summary for the three states, the poll is expected to file a general statement of its operations and methods in all states prior to this year's election.

Anderson said the New York, Maryland and Massachusetts details were chosen because the committee regards those as typical states.

WARD OFFICIALS FAIL TO APPEAR

AT WLB HEARING

DEC 15 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14 — (AP) Montgomery Ward and the government appeared headed tonight for a new collision over labor policies such as led last Spring to seizure of the mail order firm's Chicago properties.

Officials of the company failed to appear at a War Labor board hearing to which they were summoned to show cause why they had not complied with WLB directives concerning four Detroit stores.

WLB Chairman William H. Davis then announced that unless the company complies with "all terms and conditions of our orders" by nightfall Monday, the defiance would be referred to Economic Stabilizer Fred M. Vinson.

This could lead to government seizure of the Ward plants involved, if not all of its properties. Hearings similar to the one called for today are scheduled for tomorrow on cases involving Ward stores in six other cities.

The WLB received a telegram signed by John A. Barr, labor relations manager for Ward's, which said the company's position on compliance "remains the same." Barr added that the company's "reason for believing the Board's orders are illegal and unenforceable has been frequently and fully stated to you."

A similar impasse brought on last Spring's Ward case which was climaxed when soldiers, acting under instructions from Attorney General Francis Biddle, carried Sewell Avery, board chairman of Ward's, bodily from his office.

In that case, however, the company contended that the C.I.O. united retail, wholesale and department store employes did not represent a majortiy of employes. A collective bargaining election was held and the C.I.O. union won.

In the present case, the C.I.O. union has raised the threat of a strike in all Ward stores throughout the country unless the government forces the company to comply quickly with the WLB directives. A strike has been underway at the Detroit stores since Saturday.

Called to explain the Detroit strike, Samuel Wolchak, union president, said the union was "ready for an economic showdown" with Montgomery Ward.

Then, he asserted flatly that if the board and President Roosevelt were unable to secure compliance with the Board's directives, the union was prepared to strike at the company's properties everywhere in the country. He said his union had a majority among the 60,000 to 65,000 Ward employes.

The WLB directives as to the Detroit stores call for a contract providing maintenance of union membership, checkoff of union dues and certain minimum wage scales.

The stores and plants involved in other pending cases are in Chicago, Denver, St. Paul, Portland, Ore., San Rafael, Calif., and Jamaica, N. Y.

ARMY BOOSTS MORALE

MURRAY SCORES STEEL COMPANIES

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 14.—(AP) A conference between U. S. Steel subsidiaries and the United Steelworkers of America (C.I.O.) was "recessed" today and USWA President Philip Murray declared "it has been made clear that the companies do not intend to engage in any bona fide collective bargaining."

The company and union representatives had met to discuss a War Labor board directive of Nov. 25 which tentatively approved wage adjustments for 485,000 workers in 86 basic steel companies, retroactive to last December.

Murray stated the subsidiaries had filed a petition with the WLB requesting it to "set aside its directive as illegal" and that "John Stephens, spokesman for the steel case research committee and also for the United States Steel corporation, announced at the same time that the steel companies have not accepted the directive."

Murray quoted Stephen as saying the companies will not accept the directive "until after action has been taken by the Office of Price Administration and the Director of Economic Stabilization."

The officers of the USWA have arranged a conference in Washington with Judge F. M. Vinson and Chester Bowles for tomorrow morning in order to ascertain how quickly the impasse will be terminated.

30. 24— 21247

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 14 (AP)—Lieut. Vereen McNeill Bell, son of State Supreme Court Chief Justice R. C. Bell and the author of the novel, "Swamp Water," and many short stories, died when his ship the Gambier Bay was sunk Oct. 25 in the second battle of the Philippines. Justice and Mrs. Bell and Mrs. Vereen Bell, the officer's wife, received notice of his death today from the Navy Department.

Lieutenant Bell, 33, volunteered for the Navy in 1943 and was assigned to a bomber squadron as intelligence officer. Later he volunteered for additiional service as technical observer and went on many bombing missions.

The Gambier Bay, escort aircraft carrier, was sunk in the Pacific off San Bernardino Strait during a surprise attack by the Japanese Navy Oct. 25.

Lieutenant Bell wrote a number of juvenile stories for magazines and served as associate editor of American Boy-Youth's Companion in Detroit. His latest magazine story, published Nov. 11 this year, depicted an anxious father whose son was missing in action.

Navy Launches Plane Carrier Of 27,100 Tons

DEC 15 1944

The Boxer Is 17th Ship of Essex Class Built by U. S. Since Pearl Harbor

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Dec. 14 (AP).—The Navy's mighty flat-top fleet was further strengthened today with the launching of the Boxer, seventeenth Essex class aircraft carrier built since Pearl Harbor.

The eighth carrier launched at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company plant in three years, the Boxer slid smoothly into the James River a moment after a bottle of champagne was smashed against her bow by Ruth D. Overton, of Alexandria, La., daughter of Senator John H. Overton. Present at the launching was the Boxer's prospective skipper, Captain Donald F. Smith, of Timmonsville, S. C.

The Boxer, fifth warship to bear the name, was built at a cost of more than $60,000,000. When completed, her displacement tonnage will be 27,100, and she will carry more than eighty aircraft. The 850-foot ship will be capable of a speed of more than thirty knots.

LORD RENNELL SAID FALSE HOPES HAD BEEN RAISED BY PUBLICITY "GIVEN TO THE COUNCIL'S MEETINGS AND OF WHAT THE GOVERNMENTS WERE GOING TO DO."

DEFENDING UNRRA, LORD SELBORNE, MINISTER OF ECONOMIC WARFARE, SAID "THE GOVERNMENT IS SATISFIED UNRRA IS FITTING IN AS INTENDED WITH OTHER MACHINERY IN EXISTENCE."

WHEN ONE SPEAKER ASKED ABOUT GREECE, HE REPLIED THAT THE FIGHTING AND RIOTING HAD NO DOUBT HINDERED THE SUPPLY OF FOOD, BUT THE SUPPLY WOULD GO ON AS FAR AS IT COULD BE MANAGED.

SELBORNE SAID UNRRA COULD GO INTO A COUNTRY ONLY WITH PERMISSION OF THE MILITARY AND GOVERNMENTS CONCERNED AND SO FAR INVITATIONS HAD COME ONLY FROM GREECE AND ITALY.

IN OUTLINING THE TREMENDOUS RELIEF JOB AHEAD, HE SAID 14,000,000 WOULD HAVE TO BE "TAKEN BACK TO THEIR PROPER HOMES" IN EUROPE AND THAT THE ECONOMIC PROBLEMS WOULD BE AS GRAVE AS ANYTHING EVER KNOWN IN HISTORY.

THE PRIME MINISTER LATER WAS DRAWN INTO A DISCUSSION OF COUNT CARLO SFORZA'S ASSERTIONS THAT CHURCHILL HAD URGED RETENTION OF KING VITTORIO EMANUELE IN ITALY.

IVOR THOMAS, LABORITE, REPEATED SFORZA'S STATEMENT AND ASKED HOW THIS SQUARED "WITH THE PRIME MINISTER'S OFT-REPEATED ASSURANCE THAT HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT HAD NO DESIRE TO INTERFERE IN CONSTITUTIONAL MATTERS AFFECTING ITALY."

CHURCHILL REPLIED, "THAT IS NOT SO AT ALL. I GAVE A FULL ACCOUNT TO THE HOUSE WHEN I EXPLAINED THAT WE THOUGHT IT BETTER TO GO ON WITH THE KING VITTORIO-MARSHAL BADOGLIO REGIME UNTIL THE MILITARY SITUATION HAD GOT INTO A BETTER CONDITION, AND WE DID GO ON

FOR SOME CONSIDERABLE TIME; THE RESULTS NOT BEING UNSATISFACTORY AS FAR AS OUR ARMIES WERE CONCERNED.

"I SAID NOTHING IN MY CONVERSATION WITH COUNT SFORZA WHICH I HAD NOT ALREADY MADE CLEAR AS BEING THE POLICY OF HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT AT THAT TIME."

EARLIER, CHURCHILL SAID HE TOLD SFORZA HE "WELCOMES THE ASSURANCE GIVEN TO THE UNITED STATES IN HIS LETTER TO MR. BERLE (ADOLF A.BERLE, THEN ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE), WHICH I READ TO THE HOUSE ON DEC. 6, THAT MATTERS OF INTERNAL POLICY INCLUDING THE MONARCHY WOULD BE ADJOURNED UNTIL ITALY WAS FREE; AS REGARDS THE FUTURE THAT WOULD BE FOR THE ITALIAN PEOPLE TO DECIDE."

ADD PARIS-(KENNEDY) XX GEN

LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY HAD A SERIOUS PROBLEM IN THE MASSIVE PILLBOXES OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE, EVEN AFTER SUCH POSITIONS ARE TAKEN. THE GERMANS DEFENDING THE SAARLAND ARSENALS HAVE AN UNPLEASANT HABIT OF FILTERING BACK AT NIGHT INTO THE RECAPTURED PILLBOXES AND OPENING FIRE THROUGH THE REAR EMBRASURES.

THE LITTLE FORTS ARE SO NUMEROUS AND SO STRONG THAT TONS OF XPLOSIVES WOULD BE REQUIRED TO BLOW THEM ALL UP, AND TRUCK SPACE
S NEEDED URGENTLY FOR OTHER TRAFFIC. MOREOVER, IT WOULD REQUIRE
AR TOO MANY MEN TO OCCUPY ALL THE FORTS. ENGINEERS OF THE 95TH IVISION AROUND SAARLAUTERN FOUND ONE SOLUTION: THEY WELDED THE TEEL DOORS SHUT WITH TORCHES.

AT ENDORF, A SAARLAUTERN SUBURB, THREE MORE OF THESE PILLBOXES
ND EIGHT FORTIFIED HOUSES WERE CAPTURED. ENEMY ARTILLERY WAS EDUCED CONSIDERABLY ALTHOUGH MORTARS STILL THREW FITFUL BURSTS.

THE 90TH DIVISION, TEXANS AND OKLAHOMANS COMMANDED BY MAJ.GEN.
JAMES A.VAN FLEET, GOT MORE ARMOR ACROSS THE SSAR AT DILLINGEN AND IPED OUT A GERMAN SALIENT BETWEEN TWO OF ITS REGIMENTS. THE NEMY COUNTERATTACKED TWICE YESTERDAY. IN THE FIRST, 40 GERMANS
HARGED IN UPRIGHT POSITIONS WITH RIFLES AT PORT ARMS AND THEY WERE HOPPED DOWN WHOLESALE. THE OTHER ATTACK BY 300 INFANTRYMEN,

WO TANKS AND THREE SELF-PROPELLED GUNS ALSO WAS REPELLED.

THE 35TH DIVISION OF MAJ.GEN.PAUL W.BAADE DISABLED THREE TANKS IN BEATING OFF TWO COUNTERATTACKS AGAINST THE HABKIRCHEN INVASION SECTOR THREE MILES NORTHEAST OF SARREGUEMINES. THE GERMANS, HOWEVER, WRECKED AN AMERICAN BRIDGE SPANNING THE FLOODED BLIES RIVER.

SOME 398 MORE GERMANS ENTERED THIRD ARMY PRISON CAGES YESTERDAY, RAISING THAT ARMY'S TOTAL SINCE NOV. 8 TO 34,159.

JUMPING OFF EARLY YESTERDAY SOUTH OF THE HURTGEN FOREST, N AN AREA WHERE THERE HAS BEEN VIRTUALLY NO ACTIVITY SINCE THE EICH FIRST WAS PENETRATED LAST SEPTEMBER, TWO OF LT. GEN. COURTNEY H. HODGES' DIVISIONS ADVANCED AS MUCH AS TWO MILES BEFORE NIGHTFALL ON THE FIRST ARMY'S RIGHT FLANK.

THE NORTHERN ARM OF THIS TWO-PRONGED ASSAULT WAS OPERATING EAST AND SOUTHEAST OF ROTGEN, FIRST GERMAN VILLAGE CAPTURED BY THE AMERICANS LAST SEPT. 12 IN THE ORIGINAL PLUNGE FROM BELGIUM. THREE TOWNS WERE SEIZED IN THAT SECTOR YESTERDAY -- ROLLESBROICH, BICKERATH AND SIMMERATH.

SOME SIX OR SEVEN MILES TO THE SOUTH, THE OTHER ARM DROVE AT LEAST TWO MILES SOUTHEAST OF MONSCHAU ALONG A HIGHWAY THAT FINALLY TWISTS AND TURNS GENERALLY NORTHEAST INTO THE RHINE CITY OF BONN, SOME 40 AIRLINE MILES FROM MONSCHAU. MONSCHAU LIES THREE MILES EAST OF THE BELGIUM BORDER.

BETWEEN THE TWO ARMS, THE ROER RIVER, SWEEPING OUT OF BELGIUM, FLOWS EASTWARD THROUGH MONSCHAU, THEN WINDS NORTHEAST AND NORTH PAST BESIEGED DUREN, JULICH AND LINNICH BEFORE BENDING WEST AND JOINING THE MAAS IN HOLLAND. IN THE NORTH THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES HAVE VIRTUALLY CLEARED THE STREAM'S WEST BANK.

THE FIRST ARMY DIVISION OPERATING SOUTHEAST OF MONSCHAU THUS WAS IN POSITION FOR AN EXTENDED SWEEP BEHIND THE ENEMY'S ROER RIVER DEFENSES, BUT HOW FAR OR HOW FAST IT COULD GO WAS PROBLEMATICAL. PILLBOX FIRE STALLED THE FIRST THRUST YESTERDAY. OTHER STREAMS FLOW INTO THE ROER FROM THE EAST.

DEC 15 1944

AS THESE NEW OPERATIONS EXTENDED THE ACTIVE FIRST ARMY FRONT TO 25 MILES, FIELD DISPATCHES SAID THAT HODGES HAD SENT OTHER TROOPS ALMOST TO THE RIVER AT DUREN, MAJOR KEY TO THE APPROACHES TO COLOGNE, AND THAT GERMAN DEFENSES HAD CAVED IN ALONG A FIVE-MILE SECTION OF THE STREAM SOUTH OF DUREN.

YESTERDAY, THE YANKS CLEARED MARIAWEILLER, JUST ACROSS THE ROER FROM THE NORTHERN EDGE OF DUREN, AND BY NIGHTFALL THEY HAD CHASED THE GERMANS FROM ALL EXCEPT THE FINAL THIRD OF SCHOPHOVEN, ON THE STREAM TO THE NORTH.

GAINS WERE FEW ELSEWHERE ON THE WESTERN FRONT YESTERDAY. ACTIVITY ON THE U.S. NINTH ARMY AND BRITISH-CANADIAN SECTORS IN THE NORTH WAS LIMITED TO ARTILLERY EXCHANGES AND PATROLLING. IN THE CENTER U.S. THIRD ARMY ADVANCES WERE MEASURED IN YARDS.

THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY, DRIVING NORTHWARD WEST OF THE RHINE TOWARD THE PALATINATE BORDER OF GERMANY, WAS CHECKED TO SOME EXTENT BY GERMAN DESTRUCTION OF BRIDGES ACROSS THE WIDE SELTZBACH RIVER. HOWEVER, THE SEVENTH CAPTURED MATTSTALL AND SOULTZ, FOUR AND SEVEN MILES, RESPECTIVELY, FROM THE FRONTIER NORTH OF HAGUENAU.

SOUTH OF STRASBOURG ON THE ALSATIAN PLAIN GERMAN RESISTANCE CONTINUED VERY STRONG AND THE FRENCH FIRST ARMY MADE LITTLE PROGRESS. THE GERMANS YESTERDAY MADE A HEAVY COUNTERATTACK AT SELESTAT, NORTH OF COLMAR.

DEC 15 1944

THE AMERICANS SHOT NORTHWARD THREE MILES IN THE FIRST THREE HOURS, THEN PLUNGED STEADILY AHEAD AGAINST COMPARATIVELY LIGHT RESISTANCE UNTIL THEY NEARED THE REICH SHORTLY BEFORE NIGHTFALL.

THE GERMANS HAD RESISTED STRONGLY AROUND SELTZ AND NIEDERROEDERN O THE WEST UNTIL DAYBREAK, THEN PULLED BACK FAST WITH THE YANKS RIGHT T THEIR HEELS.

ONLY SPORADIC FIGHTING, CONSISTING MAINLY OF SMALL ARMS FIRE, ARKED AMERICAN PROGRESS THE REMAINDER OF THE DAY.

TOWNS IN THE PATH OF THE FAST-MOVING AMERICANS WERE EVACUATED SO UICKLY BY THE GERMANS THAT THEIR DAMAGE WAS SLIGHT IN COMPARISON WITH THE HEAVY KNOCKS HAGUENAU TOOK.

LATE IN THE DAY, THE GERMANS OPENED UP WITH A FEW ROUNDS FROM BIG GUNS APPARENTLY HOUSED IN THE SIEGFRIED FORTS BEHIND THE BORDER AND ALSO ACROSS THE RHINE, BUT THE AMERICANS' 240-MM AND EIGHT-INCHERS DELIVERED EASILY 15 TIMES AS MANY SHELLS.

AMONG THOSE DIRECTING ARTILLERY ON THE GERMANS WERE CAPTS. WILLIAM THOMAS, THOMASTON, ALA., AND RANDOLPH YOUNG, ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., AND LT. JUSTIN SPENCE, RED BANK, N.J.

DDESPITE ERRATIC WEATHER, THUNDERBOLTS POUNDED THE GERMANS HEAVILY BEYOND THE BORDER IN THE BIEN WALD FOREST, ESPECIALLY AT BUCHELBERG, WHICH IS IN A CLEARING IN THE MIDDLE OF THE WOODS NORTH OF LAUTERBOURG.

AIRMEN REPORTED SEEING NEARLY 100 PILLBOXES EMPLACED AROUND BUCHEL-BERG. THEY ALSO REPORTED THAT THE MAXIMILIANSAU BRIDGE NORTH OF LAUTERBOURG LEADING ACROSS THE RHINE TO KARLSRUHE STILL IS INTACT.

IN THE ADVANCE THE AMERICANS SEIZED NEARLY A DOZEN TOWNS, INCLUDING MUNCHHOUSE AND MOTHEREN, VIRTUALLY ON THE BORDER FACING THE RHINE; SCHAFFHOUSE, WINTZENBACH AND NEEWILLER, AND REACHED SALMBACH, A MILE WEST OF SCHEIBENHARD.

SEVERAL OTHER TOWNS WESTWARD ALONG THE 35-MILE FRONT WERE TAKEN. AMERICANS WERE HOLDING HIGH GROUND AROUND BITCHE AT THE WEST END OF THE FRONT, WHICH APPARENTLY WAS EVACUATED ALTHOUGH ONCE STRONGLY FORTIFIED.

IT IS NOW PERMITTED TO REVEAL THAT THE GERMANS HAVE REINFORCED THE COLMAR AREA IN SOUTHERN ALSACE WITH TROOPS SPED ACROSS THE NEUF BRISACH BRIDGE, WHICH AMERICAN BOMBERS HAVE TRIED UNSUCCESSFULLY TO DESTROY.

AMERICANS, INCLUDING THE 36TH DIVISION, HAVE BEEN ATTACKED SEVERAL TIMES BETWEEN KAYSERBERG AND OSTHEIM, BOTH NORTH OF COLMAR, BUT SO FAR ARE HOLDING POSITIONS.

THE GERMANS ALSO ARE ATTACKING THE FRENCH FURTHER SOUTH IN THE MULHOUSE AREA. THESE ATTACKS APPARENTLY ARE DESIGNED TO RELIEVE PRESSURE AGAINST THE SIEGFRIED LINE IN THE NORTH.

IN THE OUTSKIRTS OF MARIAWEILER, GERMANY, DEC 13-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A COMPANY COMMANDER AND SIX OF HIS MEN WHO HAD BEEN CUT OFF AND SURROUNDED FOR 24 HOURS IN THE SOUTHEAST SECTOR OF THIS ROER RIVER HAMLET OPPOSITE DUREN MADE CONTACT WITH THEIR BUDDIES THIS AFTERNOON AND WENT AHEAD WITH THE DIRTY AND PAINFUL WORK OF MOPPING UP.

THE COMPANY COMMANDER WAS CAPT.JACK HERNDON, (ADDRESS UNAVAILABLE), WHOSE BATTALION HAS WON TWO PRESIDENTIAL CITATIONS. YESTERDAY AFTER-NOON HE AND HIS HANDFUL OF MEN MOVED TOO FAST AND FOUND THEMSELVES FIVE BLOCKS AHEAD OF THE MAIN FORCE AND SURROUNDED BY 50 GERMANS.

THE AMERICANS LAID LOW IN A CELLAR THE REST OF THE AFTERNOON AND ALL NIGHT WHILE THEIR COMRADES, KNOWING THEIR PLIGHT, POURED MACHINEGUN FIRE ON THE GERMANS AND PUT A TANK TO WORK ON THE NAZIS.

THE GERMANS POSTED TWO SENTRIES OUTSIDE THE CELLAR BUT THEY DIDN'T DARE TO TRY TO CLEAR OUT THE AMERICANS. THIS MORNING SOMEBODY KILLED THE TWO SENTRIES.

THIS STORY WAS TOLD BY CAPT.LLOYD TALLENT, 1333 ENGLEWOOD ST., DALLAS, TEXAS, WHO HAD ALL THE DETAILS EXCEPT THE NAMES OF THE SIX MEN WITH CAPT.HERNDRON.

FIRST ARMY HEADQUARTERS OFFICIALLY REPORTED MARIAWEILER "CLEARED" TONIGHT, BUT AT 4 P.M.THERE WAS PLENTY OF SHOOTING ON THE FRINGES.

ONLY 200 YARDS FROM THIS CROSSROADS ON THE WEST SIDE OF MARIAWEILER THERE WAS A GERMAN COMPANY COMMAND POST WITH EIGHT GERMANS IN IT STILL DARING THE DOUGHBOYS TO MOP THEM UP--100 YARDS BEHIND OUR MAIN LINE OF ADVANCE.

TWENTY-EIGHT SCRUFFY LOOKING PRISONERS--ABOUT HALF OF THEM POLES--WERE MARCHED UP HERE A FEW MINUTES AGO. THEIR LONG HEAVY OVERCOATS WERE CAKED WITH MUD AND THEY JUST STOOD AND GAZED AT THEIR CAPTORS WITH UTTERLY DULL AND EXPRESSIONLESS FACES.

THE FLAG, SOGGY FIELDS LEADING UP TO THIU LITTLE CLUMP OF STONE DWELLINGS ARE FILLED WITH SCARS AND SPLOTCHES THAT TELL HOW DESPERATELY THE GERMANS ARE DEFENDING EVERY FOOT OF THEIR HOME SOIL. MINES SEEM TO BE EVERYWHERE AND THE FIELDS ARE DOTTED WITH DEAD HORSES.

AS WE DROVE INTO ECHTZ THIS AFTERNOON A BIG SHELL HIT JUST A BLOC UP THE STREET, BUT THIS ARMY'S FOLLOW UP WORK WENT ON WITHOUT A HITCH.

WITH THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, DEC.14-(AP)-AN UNIDENTIFIED AMERICAN INFANTRY UNIT PUSHED ACROSS THE GERMAN BORDER TODAY IN A NEW PENETRATION OF THE REICH SIX MILES EAST OF SARREGUEMINES.

THE CROSSING WAS JUST ACROSS THE BORDER SOUTH OF NIEDER-GAILBACH, IN A SECTOR WHERE RESISTANCE WAS REPORTED MODERATE TO STIFF.

ADVANCING IN TWO COLUMNS NORTHEAST FROM THEIR CROSSING OF THE BLIES RIVER IN THE VICINITY OF HABKIRCHEN, UNITS OF THE 35TH DIVISION MEANWHILE PUSHED A MILE INTO GERMANY AND OCCUPIED PART OF A RIDGE OVERLOOKING HABKIRCHEN.

OTHER ELEMENTS OF THE 35TH CLEARED OUT A SALIENT IN THE AMERICAN LINES NEAR BLIESBRUCK AND MOVED ON HALF A MILE NORTH OF THIS CAPTURED FRENCH CITY.

THE 90TH DIVISION ROOTED OUT FOUR MORE SMALL FORTS AND TOOK 60 PRISONERS IN THE DILLINGEN AREA EAST OF THE SAAR RIVER, WHERE THE AMERICANS WERE CHOPPING THEIR WAY INTO THE SIEGFRIED DEFENSES FOOT BY FOOT. THERE WAS NO APPRECIABLE NET ADVANCE.

FROM THE SAARLAUTERN ZONE, WHERE THE 95TH IS HAVING THE SAME KIND OF A GRINDING JOB, THERE WAS NO WORD OF LINE CHANGES.

INFANTRY WHICH MADE THE FRESH CROSSING OF THE FRANCO-GERMAN BORDER ADVANCED ABOUT A HALF MILE THROUGH SMALL WOODS. OTHER UNITS SLIGHTLY SOUTHEAST NEARED OBERGAILBACH IN GAINS UP TO A MILE.

WITH THE THIRD ARMY FRONT AS NEARLY STATIC AS IT HAS BEEN FOR WEEKS, IT IS APPARENT THAT THE PHASE OF THE GERMAN PLANNED RETREAT FROM THE MOSELLE RIVER TO THE SIEGFRIED LINE IS ABOUT OVER AND THE BATTLE FOR THE WESTWALL MAY BE JOINED SOON ALL ALONG LT.GEN. GEORGE S.PATTON'S FRONT.

THE GERMANS HAVE YET TO COMMIT GOOD TROOPS IN ANY LARGE NUMBERS. IF THEY DO, IT IS POSSIBLE THE SIEGFRIED BATTLE MIGHT BE THE FINAL LARGE-SCALE ONE ON THIS FRONT.

A FORWARD BASE OF THE U.S. 14TH AIR FORCE, CHINA, DEC. 12-(DELAYED)-(AP)-HEARTENED BY JAPANESE REVERSALS IN KWEICHOW PROVINCE, MAJ. GEN CLAIRE CHENNAULT'S AIRMEN ARE HITTING THEIR STRIDE IN OPERATIONS FROM ALTERNATIVE BASES TO WHICH THEY HAD BEEN FORCED TO WITHDRAW BY EARLIER ENEMY SUCCESSES.

WITHIN THE LIMITS IMPOSED BY WINTER WEATHER AND THE CRUEL LOGISTICS OF SUPPLY, THE 14TH AIR FORCE IS FIGHTING A HIT-RUN BATTLE, A CAMPAIGN OF RAPIERLIKE THRUSTS INTO THE CENTERS OF JAPANESE POWER IN CHINA IN ADDITION TO CARRYING ON TACTICAL OPERATIONS AT THE FIGHTING FRONT.

THE SUPREME OBJECTIVES ARE TO HELP CONTAIN JAPANESE OFFENSIVE MOVES EITHER ON THE KWEICHOW FRONT OR FROM FRENCH INDO-CHINA IN DIRECT PROTECTION OF THE AMERICAN SUPPLY BRIDGEHEAD INTO SOUTHWEST CHINA.

SECONDARILY THE 14TH AIMS TO MAINTAIN STRATEGICAL ASSAULTS ON 1944 TARGETS FAR BEHIND THE ENEMY LINES FOR MAXIMUM HARRASSMENT AND ATTRITION.

THE DEC. 8 FIGHTER ATTACKS ON HONGKONG AND NANKING WERE A STRIKING ILLUSTRATION OF THE 14TH'S APPLICATION OF GUERRILLA-LIKE AIR TACTICS AGAINST STRATEGICAL OBJECTIVES. AS VICTORIES IN THE FACE OF TREMENDOUS ODDS THEY WERE REMINISCENT OF THE OLD SWASHBUCKLING DAYS OF THE "FLYING TIGERS" OF THE AMERICAN VOLUNTEER GROUP.

FOUR PILOTS IN P-51S YESTERDAY STRAFED THE TIENHO AIRDROME AT CANTON AND DESTROYED NINE PLANES.

THE BASIS OF CHINA'S RESURGENCE ON THE KWEICHOW FRONT CANNOT BE FULLY OUTLINED, BUT ONE REASON WAS THE USE OF BETTER GROOPS FOR THE COUNTEROFFENSIVE THAN THE JAPANESE HAD ENCOUNTERED PREVIOUSLY. MANY TROOPS SENT INTO THE ATTACK ACTUALLY HAD LEATHER SHOES.

A FLIGHT BY THIS CORRESPONDENT IN A SINGLE-ENGINED C-64, PILOTED BY CAPT.LEON R.MCMULLEN, 1200 SOUTH FIRST ST., MONROE,LA., CHIEF LIAISON PILOT OF THE CHINA AIR SERVICE COMMAND, DEMONSTRATED THE FORBIDDING NATURE OF THE KWEICHOW TERRAIN. STAFF SGT.FRANKLIN J. STOUER OF SYCAMORE,OHIO, WAS CO-PILOT.

IMITZ HERE WHILE EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, A NAVY PRESS RELEASE ISCLOSED TONIGHT.
THE VISIT WAS PARTICULARLY SIGNIFICANT AGAINST THE BACKGROUND OF EPEATED NIMITZ DECLARATIONS THAT A BEACHHEAD MUST BE ESTABLISHED ON
HE CHINA COAST. RECENT JAPANESE SUCCESSES IN CHINA MAKE THE OUTLOOK
F SUCH AN OPERATION MUCH LESS HOPEFUL NOW THAN THEY WERE SIX MONTHS GO.
NELSON SPENT SEVERAL WEEKS IN CHUNGKING HEADQUARTERS OF CHINA'S ENERALISSIMO CHIANG KAI-SHEK SINCE THE RECALL OF GEN.JOSEPH
TILWELL. OBVIOUSLY NIMITZ WAS SUPPLIED WITH A FULL UP-TO-THE-INUTE REPORT BY NELSON ON THE COMPLEXITIES AND DIFFICULTIES OF THE HINESE POLITICAL AND MILITARY SITUATION.

SAN JOSE,C.R.,DEC.14-(AP)-ALFONSO ROCHAC, A MEMBER OF THE EL SALVADOR GOVERNMENT-IN-EXILE, REPORTED TONIGHT THAT "SALVADOREAN REVOLUTIONARY TROOPS ENTERED THE PROVINCIAL CAPITAL OF AHUACHAPAN TODAY AMID THE CHEERS OF THE POPULACE AND THE RINGING OF CHURCH BELLS."

QUOTING A COMMUNIQUE FROM THE EXILED GOVERNMENT IN GUATEMALA, ROCHAC SAID THE INVADING FORCES CAPTURED ARMS AND AMMUNITION BELONGING TO THE DEFEATED ELEVENTH INFANTRY REGIMENT OF THE FORCES OF PRESIDENT OSMIN AGUIRRE SALINAS.

"OUR MEN NOW CONTROL THE CAPITAL AND ALL THE ADJOINING TERRITORY IN THE PROVINCE OF AHUACHAPAN," ROCHAC DECLARED, ADDING THAT THE REVOLUTIONISTS HAVE ADVANCED INTO THE NEIGHBORING PROVINCE OF SANTA ANA.

THE ROCHAC ACCOUNT CONFLICTED WITH STATEMENTS ISSUED BY THE AGUIRRE GOVERNMENT WHICH, ACCORDING TO TRAVELERS ARRIVING FROM EL SALVADOR, SAID 600 REBELS ATTEMPTING TO INVADE AHUACHAPAN FROM GUATEMALA WERE "SURROUNDED BY SALVADOREAN REGULARS AND NOW WERE BEING ANNIHILATED."

WASHINGTON,DEC.14-(AP)-WAR-BRUISED FINLAND WAS REPORTED TONIGHT WILLING TO PAY ANOTHER SEMI-ANNUAL INSTALLMENT ON HER DEBT TO THE UNITED STATES TOMORROW.

BUT WHETHER THE UNITED STATES WILL ACCEPT THE MONEY THIS TIME WAS UNCERTAIN.

SINCE JUNE 15, WHEN THE LAST PAYMENT WAS MADE, THIS COUNTRY HAS BROKEN DIPLOMATIC RELATIONS WITH THE FINNS.

SINCE IT IS A FOREIGN POLICY MATTER, IT WAS ASSUMED THE WHITE HOUSE OR STATE DEPARTMENT WOULD MAKE THE DECISION.

FINLAND STILL OWES AROUND $9,000,000 ON HER WORLD WAR 1 DEBT. FINLAND WAS THE ONLY NATION TO CONTINUE PAYMENTS ON THE OLD WAR DEBTS AND HAS NEVER DEFAULTED, THOUGH SOME POSTPONEMENTS HAVE BEEN ARRANGED VOLUNTARILY BY THE UNITED STATES, AS DURING THE FINN'S WAR WITH RUSSIA IN 1940-41.

THEY WERE FLOWN IN DOUGLAS C-54 PLANES WHICH CARRY UP TO 24 LITTER CASES, OR 35 WALKING CASES. MEN WHOSE QUICK REMOVAL TO UNITED STATES MAINLAND HOSPITALS IS MOST URGENT ARE SELECTED FOR EVACUATION BY AIR.

DEC 15 1944

IT WOULD BE POSSIBLE FOR THE AIR-TRANSPORT COMMAND TO HAVE WOUNDED MEN IN CALIFORNIA 48 HOURS AFTER THEY WERE PICKED UP ON A LEYTE BATTLEFIELD, COL.ANDREW SMITH, IN CHARGE OF THE HOSPITAL HERE, SAID. BUT AS A MATTER OF PRACTICE, THEY ARE UNLOADED AT A HAWAIIAN HOSPITAL, WHERE THEY ARE EXAMINED, AND WHERE DOCTORS DECIDE WHICH CASES SHALL REMAIN THERE FOR TREATMENT, BE SENT ON SHIPS, OR RUSHED HOME BY AIR.

PVT.HAROLD KNUTH, 20, (3404A NORTH SEVENTH ST.) MILWAUKEE, WIS., ARRIVED HERE BY AIR. DOCTORS ON LEYTE WERE ABLE TO REMOVE MORTAR SHELL FRAGMENTS FROM A WOUND IN HIS LEG, BUT HE STILL HAS SOME PIECES OF THE SHELL IN HIS HEAD.

"WE CAME UPON A GRASS HUT," KNUTH RECOUNTED. "THERE WAS A SNIPER IN THAT HUT. ONE OF OUR MEN FIRED A RIFLE GRENADE AND I WENT IN TO SEE IF WE HAD GOT THE JAP.

"WE GOT HIM ALL RIGHT. HE WAS BLOWN OPEN. BUT WHEN I WAS LEAVING THE HUT A MORTAR SHELL FIRED BY SOME JAPS FARTHER ON HIT ME, AND WOUNDED FIVE OTHERS IN THE PARTY."

PVT.HERBERT SCHNEIDER, 19, (4135 NORTH 25TH ST.) MILWAUKEE, WIS., WAS PURSUING A RETREATING JAPANESE DETACHMENT WHEN MACHINE GUN BULLETS WOUNDED HIM IN THE HIP AND FRACTURED HIS LEFT LEG.

"THE JAPS WOULD FIRE AND THEN RUN," HE SAID. HE EXPECTS TO BE IN A CAST FROM THE HIPS DOWN FOR THREE MONTHS. THEN, HE SAID, "I'LL WALK AND WALK AND WALK AND WALK."

PVT.JAMES WILLIAMS, 22, (606 SOUTH L ST.) LAKE WORTH, FLORIDA, CAME BACK FOR A LEG OPERATION. A MACHINE GUN BULLET STRUCK HIM NEAR THE KNEE AS HE WAS ADVANCING THROUGH A CANE FIELD. HE HAD BEEN OVERSEAS ONLY A SHORT WHILE.

U. S. INVADES MINDORO

YANKEES DRIVE INTO PALATINATE

6th Army Troops In Bloodless Landing

New Beachhead Within 150 Miles of Manila—MacArthur Calls Move 600-mile Advance—Imperial Lifeline Imperilled—200 Jap Planes Destroyed, Perhaps 300 in Great Sweep—Guerrillas Give Effective Aid.

OCT 16 1944

By C. Yates McDaniel

MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Dec. 16 (AP) — A naval-borne U. S. Sixth Army force crossed the Philippines and gained a virtually bloodless beachhead on Mindoro island, within 150 miles of Manila, Friday morning (Philippine time), Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today.

Spans Heart of Philippines

The daring amphibious brea spanning the heart of the Japanese-dominated Philippines established for the Americans an east-west corridor through the archipelago which will give them access to routes leading to the coast of China, the supreme commander said.

Swarms of carrier-based planes that day and the day before scourged virtually every Nipponese airfield in the farflung archipelago, destroying more than 200, perhaps 300, enemy aircraft.

The 600-mile overwater movement took the convoy from Leyte, where the Americans first landed Oct. 20, south and west past the Japanese-occupied islands of Mindanao, Bohol, Cebu Negros and Panay but heroic guerrillas meanwhile had turned it into a fairly safe convoy by seizing airfields and strategic ports along the way in secret actions just disclosed.

Coastlines of Other Islands Visible

Eyewitnesses told of the convoy going so close to these islands that the rugged coastlines were plainly visible.

Three beachheads were established quickly on southern Mindoro. Elmont Waite, Associated Press war correspondent, told of tanks rolling ashore, of bulldozers starting roads, of piers being erected and of engineers moving inland with the troops to construct base installations.

(Tokyo radio said the landings occurred near San Jose, which is on Mindoro's southwest coast and were made by about a division, which ordinarily would be around 15,000 men. The enemy broadcast was without Allied confirmation).

Amazing Ease of Landings

Waite emphasized the amazing ease of the landings by saying a sergeant moving inland with his company was halted only when a native woman seized him and embraced him.

Jim Hutcheson, another Associated Press War Correspondent with the invasion forces, reported the only persons encountered on one beach were some waving Filipinos and their carabaos.

Front line dispatches said the Japanese obviously fled inland when warships began shelling the beaches and the advancing Yanks still had not established contact with the enemy after pushing a considerable distance through the brush from the landing points.

Widespread Aerial Attacks

(Some of the enemy uncertainty possibly was due to widespread aerial attacks elsewhere on Japanese positions, particularly on Luzon, main island of the archipelago. In a two-day smash, U. S. Naval carrier planes on December 14-15 (Philippines Time) destroyed 224 enemy aircraft and raked the 100 or more Japanese airfields there).

From the Mindoro convoy, commanded by Rear Adm. A. D. Struble, Associated Press Correspondent Murlin Spencer reported the surprise was so complete that lights ashore were burning brightly when the Yanks moved in for the landing just before dawn.

Army Takes Over In Three Hours

Three hours after the first assault waves hit the beach the army took over, still without encountering resistance from shore. The convoy ships, protected throughout by Rear Adm. Russell S. Berkey's close covering force and 7th Fleet carriers under Rear Adm. T. G. Ruddock pulled away for the return voyage.

The Fifth Air Force and Navy and Marine planes fought off the best the Japanese could throw against the in-bound convoy but even the strongest air umbrella was not completely impervious to a determined enemy. A different story might have been told if the operation had not been coordinated with the heavy attacks on Luzon by Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet.

The weather was with the Yanks, at least while the convoy was inbound and during the beach operations. A typhoon moving westward from the Pacific swerved to the north, otherwise aerial support would have bee nlimited if not recalled altogether.

(As it was, the Yanks went ashore in comparative peace, and one description of the operation gave it eve na pastoral tinge. George Folster, of NBC, said cruisers and destroyers lined up to shell the beach had to hold their fire "because a bunch of Filipinos was on the beach with their cattle—sort of a welcoming party.")

The new advance "threatens the supply and reinforcement of enemy troops" in the central Visayas group of the archipelago, MacArthur reported.

OCT 16 1944

Imperial Life-line Imperilled

The conquests of Japan to the south (of the newly created corridor) are rapidly being isolated, destroying the legendary myth of the greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere and imperiling the so-called "imperial life-line," the supreme commander added.

Guerrilla forces in the meantime have kept up aggressive operations against the Japanese on Mindanao island, to the south, and in the Visayan group, MacArthur reported, and have captured large areas, including coastal strongpoints and airfields.

This, he said, had seriously disrupted the enemy's communication lines and impeded free movement of Japanese reserves.

Japs Suffr on Other Islands

"Heavy casualties have been inflicted upon the enemy (by the guerrillas)," MacArthur reported. Specifically, on Mindanao, under the command of Col. Wendell W. Fertig of the Engineer Corps, they have invested numerous important coastal points and enemy held airfields and have liberated the entire provinces of Lanao and Misamis Occidental."

Guerrillas on Panay island, half way between northern Leyte and southern Mindoro, havecaptured several towns and are maintaining heavy pressure on the Nipponese. They are commanded by Col. McAriao Peralta, Jr.

On Negros island, southeast of Panay, infantry under Lt. Col. Salvador Abcede cut loose with a general offensive against the Nipponese and cleared the southern half of the island with the exception of the Dumaguette area, where the enemy was driven into a pocket and has been under siege. Positions on the Negros east coast also were taken.

Southern Part of Cebu

On Cebu, southeast of Negros, forces under Lt. Col. Charles Cushing of the Engineers Corps directly attacked the enemy and cleared most of the southern part of the island.

Far to the southeast, in the Sulu Archipelago, guerrillas under Lt. Col. Alejandro Saurez "pinned down enemy forces into small, restricted areas." Other forces have freed virtually the whole island of Bohol, to the southeast of Cebu.

Japs Concede New Invasion

By The Associated Press

Acknowledging American invasion of Mindoro in the Philippines, Tokyo radio said last night that about one division (upwards of 15,000 men) of ground troops went ashore near San Jose which is on the southwest tip of that island.

"Japanese garrison units intercepted the enemy forces and fighting is now in progress," said the broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

This claim was at variance with eyewitness accounts of war correspondents with the American invaders who agreed the landing was unopposed, the Nipponese having retreated inland.

1 GI Ambushed On Mindoro: Scared Native Girl Hugs Him

By ELMO

With Assault Forces at Mindoro, Philippines, Dec. 15 (AP)—Staff Sergeant William Hantone, of Canandaigua, N.Y., was the only man of his reinforced company who found his progress barred in today's invasion of Mindoro.

While pushing inland through brush from the northernmost beachhead, he suddenly was clasped tightly.

His "captor" was a native woman. In near-hysteria she exclaimed:

"Oh so happy to see you but so scared!"

Evidently what Japanese were on the island had retreated speedily inland as the dawn bombardment of our ships paved the way for the invaders.

A Football Game

Small units of troopers pushed swiftly after them with no immediate contact reported.

The Yanks stood up to watch and cheer our destroyers but Capt. Neil Taylor, of Greenwood, Miss., stopped that.

"What do you think this is?" he asked. "A Saturday afternoon football game?"

He grinned.

"Now get yourselves dug in."

The appearance of Japanese planes at that moment speeded up the digging. Anti-aircraft fire dotted the whole sky over the bay.

Ranging as far as the horizon southward from Captain Taylor's beach were other landing areas.

LST's nosed in to the sand. Bulldozers crawled out with a splash and began pushing piles of sand and dirt into driveways, or piers up to ships' ramps. Trucks and other vehicles began pouring out.

Meanwhile, double lines of men, facing each other three feet apart, formed from ship to shore. Along that double row came box after box of provisions. Each pair tossed the box to the next two men until the storage pile was reached.

Enginering parties already were speeding far inland.

One Lone Sniper

The only contact with the Japanese in the first few hours of invasion was a harassing air attack by a few enemy planes—that, plus a lone sniper, who didn't last long.

Filipinos greeted troops on the northern beachhead with great bunches of ripe bananas and fresh eggs. Two of them eagerly offered a native canoe as transportation to get this correspondent across a wide river and down to the southern beachheads. They refused pesos. They also refused American money — although their eyes gleamed at the sight of such souvenirs.

"No pay, no pay, very glad help Americans," they said.

JAPS SCARCELY OPPOSED FLEET

Mindoro Convoy Steamed Boldly Past Enemy-Held Shores

Aboard Admiral Struble's Flagship Off Mindoro, Philippines, Dec. 15 (AP)—Unchallenged and nearly untouched, the United States Navy in one of the boldest actions of this war steamed to Mindoro Island today and landed troops only 150 miles from Manila.

The amazing thing about this operation is that for two days the strong American force under Rear Admiral Arthur D. Struble moved boldly past Japanese strong points and the enemy was either disinclined or unable to make an attempt to stop it.

The convoy, predominantly made up of warships, passed Negros, Panay and Mindanao Islands, in the heart of the Japanese-dominated Philippines—passed so close that the rugged coastlines were plainly visible, and it was known that the enemy had airfields there.

Storm Ashore

Shortly before dawn today, Yank units stormed ashore on Mindoro with all their equipment, on three beaches on the southwestern part of the island.

It was what they officially call "an unopposed landing" and it was a great achievement for the Navy and air forces that the Japanese, in one of their strongest positions, could be pinned down to permit such an invading force to land unmolested.

Less than 24 hours after the convoy started for Mindoro the Japanese picked us up and attacked half-heartedly. Later that day, December 13, there was a second attack. But yesterday, which was considered the critical period because we were so close to key Japanese bases, passed without a single attack on the 20-mile-long convoy.

Halsey Sweeps Did It

When Admiral Struble was asked why the Japanese did not attack, he replied, "I guess Admiral Halsey's sweeps on the Japanese airfields have been pretty successful."

There were few periods of excitement in this long jump into Japanese territory—a jump which has advanced Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces 240 airline miles north of Leyte—one which United States forces would not have dared to try a few months ago.

Carrier and land-based planes gave the convoy constant protection, and in one fight destroyed four Japanese planes, one of which hit the water and bounced again into the air before going down for good.

Jap Transport Bombed

An unsuspecting Japanese transport cut across our path several miles ahead and was bombed by a Catalina patrol plane.

Attesting to the belief that the Japanese were not sure where we were headed was the fact that lights were seen ashore on Mindoro as we moved in for the attack. They blacked out only after the convoy neared shore.

After destroyers and rocket ships had bombarded Mindoro's flat shore line and the troops swept ashore the Navy's number one task was finished—the job of getting the men there without a single soldier being touched. The number two objective is to get back.

Japs All At Other End Of Mindoro

General MacArthur's Philippine Headquarters, Saturday, Dec. 16 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur struck where the Japanese are weak in invading southern Mindoro—just far enough from where the enemy is strong to prevent him from opposing strength with strength.

The northern coast of Mindoro is separated from the rail and road center of Batangas on Luzon Island by 8½-mile Verde Strait. The southern tip of Mindoro is 155 miles due south of Manila.

But rugged 8,000-foot high mountain ranges block communication of northern and southern Mindoro except on the eastern seaboard where a coastal plain is traversed by a road.

It has an area of 3,794 square miles. Its longest coast, roughly in a north-south direction, is more than 100 miles in length and is 50 miles across at its widest point.

82,554 Jap Casualties Estimated.

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—The first fifty-five days of American invasion of the central Philippines have cost Japan 82,554 casualties, or about 1,500 a day, Gen. Douglas MacArthur estimated today as the campaign on Leyte pressed ahead despite bitter resistance.

An American carrier raid on Luzon Island, which wiped out ninety-one enemy planes, and three fresh attacks on Iwo Jima in the Volcano Islands, were reported simultaneously by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz at Pearl Harbor.

Gen. MacArthur gave the American casualties for the Philippines invasion up to the middle of this week as 10,409—2,176 killed, 7,976 wounded and 257 missing. The Japanese thus are losing eight men for every American. The General's figures, covering the Leyte and Samar Island fighting, listed 33,801 abandoned Japanese dead, some 30,000 drowned in the smashing of ten reinforcement convoys, 253 captured and an estimated 18,500 dead inside the enemy lines.

Capture Enemy Supplies.

Americans of the Senevty-seventh Division driving north from Ormoc, seaport on western Leyte captured last Sunday, seized the enemy's main supply depots one mile from the city after severe fighting, today's communique said. The Thirty-second Division maintained pressure at the north of the Ormoc corridor, where thousands of crack Japanese troops are bottled up.

Iwo Jima was raided on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday by land-based Liberators and Lightning fighters, all of which returned despite heavy anti-aircraft fire. Iwo Jima is an important base on the B-29 route between Saipan and Tokyo. Haha Jima, 650 miles south of Tokyo, was bombed on Sunday, and other bombers hit tiny Marcus Island, 1,000 miles southeast of Tokyo, on Monday.

In the Philippines, Liberators bombed Bacolod airdrome on Negros Island with eighty-eight tons of explosives. Three small freighters were sunk by patrol planes off the southwest Luzon coast. Petroleum installations on Borneo were set aflame for the fourth straight day. Two coastal vessels were sunk there.

224 Jap Warplanes Destroyed on Luzon

90 More Damaged on Ground—U. S. Fighters Blast Nearly 100 Enemy Airfields—First Major Night Offensive of Carriers.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 15 (AP)—American carrier planes destroyed a total of 224 Japanese aircraft in a two-day smash at Luzon island in the Philippines, Dec. 13-14, and bombed and strafed 90 more enemy planes on the ground, the Navy announced today.

Add 133 Planes

Today's communique revised yesterday's report of 91 planes destroyed in these forays, adding 133 to the toll of enemy aircraft knocked from the skies or blasted on the ground by fighters and bombers.

Most of the enemy's 100 airfields on the island, on which Manila is situated, were swept in the raids.

The tactical purpose of the first full power carrier blow at Luzon since Nov. 24 apparently was to wipe out as many as possible of the air reinforcements which the Nipponese have been able to bring into the Philippines since that time.

In a dispatch from Vice Adm. John S. McCain's flagship, AP War Correspondent Rembert James said fighter patrols flew over the Luzon airfields through the night of Dec. 13, preventing the enemy from bringing in more aircraft.

This was the first major scale night offensive fighter operation attempted by U. S. carrier pilots, the world's most experienced and tactically expert fliers.

Carrier Fighters

Up to this time, carrier fighters have been employed on defensive patrols for intercepting enemy night air attacks on task forces.

The new fighter operation aims at stopping the enemy planes before they can get very far from their base fields.

While the fleet's powerful air arm struck at Luzon, the strategic air force's land-based Liberators hammered airstrips on Iwo Jima in the Volcano Islands, 725 miles north of Saipan. They made two strikes, the 11th and 12th of this month.

The communique reported a second raid on Dec. 12, in addition to the heavy bombing the same day announced yesterday. The big Liberators hit the same targets again Wednesday and were opposed by a single Japanese fighter, which was shot down.

Important Development

James' description of offensive night operations by carrier planes discloses one of the Pacific war's most important developments.

Heretofore, when a carrier task force was attacking enemy land bases it was subject to air attack during the hours of darkness. Discouraged by antiaircraft power of battleships and cruisers screening American carriers, the Japanese have made their most vigorous air attacks on task forces during the night.

Instead of waiting for Japanese night attackers to come to the ships, American carriers apparently now are able to send a number of night interceptors off flight decks to stop the enemy planes at their fields before they can locate the task force.

Obviously many long hours of practice rehearsals have been necessary to train fliers in the difficult technique.

Nimitz To Move HQ Westward

Fleet Headquarters, Pearl Harbor, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Pacific war has moved so far west of Pearl Harbor that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz soon will set up advanced headquarters in a forward area to control more effectively the ground, sea and air forces "as their operations converge on Japan."

Whether Guam and Saipan were

30. 24 - 21263

uppermost among possible sites, as unofficially reported, the admiral would not say. Nimitz commands the Pacific fleet and Pacific Ocean areas.

Significantly, his announcement last night followed conferences embracing China and the Aleutians—conferences suggesting new strategic moves impending against Japan.

Main Post At Pearl Harbor

At either Guam or Saipan, the advanced fleet headquarters would be closer to the Japanese homeland than Nipponese planes were to the United States when they delivered their attack on Pearl Harbor from aircraft carriers December 7, 1941.

Main headquarters will remain at Pearl Harbor.

Last night's press release pointed out, however, that the "capture of the Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas, Ulithi and Palau has permitted moving the center of gravity of the ground, sea and air forces, Pacific Ocean areas, far westward."

5,000-Mile Advance

American warships in Leyte Gulf are more than 5,000 miles from Pearl Harbor.

The big naval base which has been under construction at Guam since the recapture of that island last August is 3,800 miles southwest of Pearl Harbor.

In reporting during recent months warship shellings of the Volcano Islands and carrier-based attacks on Formosa and the Ryukyus, Nimitz's communiqués have covered naval operations occurring as much as 5,170 miles from Pearl Harbor and as near as within 400 miles of Japan.

U.S. Planes Pin Down Luzon's Air Force

DEC 16 1944

San Francisco, Dec. 15 (AP)—Some 400 American carrier planes, the Japanese news agency Domei said, struck at Japanese installations on Luzon Island in the northern Philippines today (Japan time).

By Rembert James

Aboard Vice Admiral McCain's Carrier Force Flagship off the Philippines, Dec. 14 [AP—Via Navy Radio—Delayed] — Employing startling new and devastating seaborne airplane tactics, Vice Admiral John S. McCain's great air armada by day and by night pinned down the Japanese air force on Luzon Island and held it there while others of his Hellcats sank their claws into Japanese military targets.

Every one of Luzon's airfields—numbering almost 100 and including Manila's Clark Field—were smothered by the rocket-bearing Hellcats. Of the Japanese 300 or more planes, few got their wheels off the ground.

Taken By Surprise

Admiral McCain's carrier planes swept in from cloudy morning skies, which gave good coverage, and caught the Japanese by surprise.

The effectiveness of the Hellcat umbrella over Luzon's 40,000 square miles was demonstrated by the helplessness of the Japanese to strike back by air. Pilots returning from the early strikes said they met no airborne opposition and that the planes they caught and destroyed in the air were there by accident.

Two Destroyers Fired

An early score indicated that at least 85 planes were destroyed—14 in the air and 71 on the ground.

[Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific Fleet commander, in a communiqué issued at Pearl Harbor, Thursday, said that American planes had destroyed 91 Japanese planes, 14 in the air and 77 on the ground.]

As a side dish, pilots shot up four trains, set two Japanese destroyers afire in Subic Bay, damaged one large cargo vessel, destroyed one small oiler off Iba and fired a medium oiler near Lingayen Gulf.

Hover Over Fields

While daylight combat air patrols were still circling the enemy's Luzon fields, night patrols took off from the carriers to hover over the Japanese fields and hunt targets of opportunity.

It was the first time American carrier planes had been over the Philippines since November 28, when the last of five major carrier strikes started against Luzon, seat of the Japanese-held Philippine capital.

Veteran pilots said that day and night patrols over almost a hundred enemy fields was something which has never been done before by carrier forces.

Can't Bring In Planes

The effectiveness of this airtight coverage by day and night lies in the fact that the enemy cannot bring in planes from the outside fields to replace planes destroyed in revetments and hiding places and thus field operation stops.

The Japanese, past masters of camouflage, have developed a great skill in hiding planes under trees and other places, pilots reported. There is one case in which planes taxied long distances down highways and were hidden in a thicket and buildings several miles from the nearest airport.

Crew Of B-29 Rescued From Pacific After Raid

Twenty-first U.S. Bomber Command, Saipan, Dec. 15 [Via Navy Radio—AP]—A United States destroyer yesterday picked up the entire eleven-man crew of a Superfortress bomber which landed in the water Wednesday night while returning from the big attack on Nagoya, Japanese industrial city.

It was the second such rescue since the start of Saipan-based B-29 raids on Honshu, the principal Nipponese island. None of the crewmen involved in this latest rescue was injured, although Bombardier Second Lieutenant Russell S. Morris, of Matthew, N. C., was thrown through the glass nose into the water.

[A 20th AAF communique from Washington Thursday reported that one B-29 was unreported and presumed missing from the Nagoya strike.]

15 SUBMARINE MEN DECORATED

Pearl Harbor, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Ten officers and five enlisted men of the United States submarine service have been presented decorations by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific ocean areas.

A Gold Star in lieu of a second Navy Cross went to Commander Antone R. Gallaher, Newport, R. I., who penetrated a strong enemy escort screen to sink vessels totaling over 24,000 tons, the citation said.

The Navy Cross was awarded Captain William V. O'Regan of New London, Conn., for extraordinary heroism as submarine commander operating against the Japanese from June 14 to August 1, last.

Commander Eli T. Reich of Washington, D. C., also received the Navy Cross for torpedo attacks in which he sank 19,000 tons of enemy shipping.

Commander William Beckwith Perkins of Bon Air, Va., received the Legion of Merit for outstanding service as a submarine commander during a war patrol.

Commander Norvell G. Ward of Roanoke, Va., was presented a Gold Star. He assisted in extinguishing a fire on his submarine at Cavite in 1942. Later, Ward's skil as navigator of a submarine penetrating strange and confined waters contributed to the sinking of enemy ships totaling 53,000 tons and damaging another 10,000 tons, his citation said.

Lieut.-Commander Herbert I. Mandel of New London received a Gold Star for his work as assistant approach officer of a submarine which sank 17,000 tons of enemy shipping.

Silver Stars were awarded Lieut. (j.g.) William J. Godfrey of Manitowoc, Wis., diving officer of a sub which sank more than 22,000 tons of enemy ships and damaged over 20,000 tons more, all during one war patrol, and Chief Pharmacist's Mate Leslie J. Lindhe of Highland, N. Y.

Nipponese Call Forays "Nuisance Raids"—Threaten Yank Airmen.

DEC 16 1944

By The Associated Press

The aerial invasion of Japan by American Superfortresses hit three areas, including Tokyo, Friday (Japanese time), the Tokyo radio said, labeling the forays "nuisance raids" and reiterating threats against Yank airmen.

The sky giants stabbed twice in small force at Tokyo, dropping incendiary bombs, said the unconfirmed broadcast. It was recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

Three Superforts appeared over the capital in the first thrust, about 3:30 a.m., said the enemy report, and a single plane attacked about two hours later. It added that there was "hardly any damage" from the raid.

Osaka, Kobe Hit

The Osaka-Kobe district on the east coast of Honshu, principal homeland island, was visited by a single B-29, which did not drop any missiles, Tokyo reported. Government monitors were unable, because of atmospheric conditions, to catch the name of the third area under attack or observation.

There was no claim that any of the raiders were shot down during the day's activity, nor was there any mention of aerial interception or antiaircraft fire.

The threat against American aviators was made by a political correspondent of the Japanese Domei news agency, broadcast in English to North America and recorded by FCC. He recalled the recent statement of the imperial government that it would hold responsible under international law "those enemy aviators who are clearly found to have deliberately broken the established practices of warfare."

Evacuation Continues

Evacuation of children, the aged, the ill and expectant mothers from Tokyo continued, Domei said, but had "not entered the compulsory stage."

As if to bolster his courage, the broadcaster said the people of Tokyo are "not a bit afraid of incendiaries." He added the city is being "littered" with air raid shelters.

"All in all," the broadcaster was quoted as saying, "Tokyoites and people in other cities are adjusting their daily occupation and living to the enemy nuisance raids with a view to keeping production at the highest level. . . . The American propagandists are badly mistaken and merely indulging in wishful thinking if they think that Tokyo people have been thrown into a panicky state."

Other Flights Reported

The radio told of flights by "lone B-29's" over two other Japanese areas. One went over the Osaka-Kobe district on the east coast of Honshu, main island of Japan, but because of atmospheric conditions Government monitors could not hear the name of the second area. No bombs were reported dropped by these planes.

The Japanese news agency Domei said the Japanese Government would "hold responsible under the stipulations of international law those enemy aviators who are clearly found to have deliberately broken the established practices of warfare."

"Nuisance Raid" Label

Nipponese propagandists labeled the attacks as "nuisance raids" and said:

"The Americans are badly mistaken and merely indulging in wishful thinking if they think that the Tokyo people have been thrown into a panicky state by the raids."

At the same time they announced "evacuation of children and expectant mothers, the aged and the ill' from Tokyo is proceeding. The broadcast asserted every attention is being paid to construction of bomb shelters. In fact, "Tokyo authorities intend to dig air-raid shelters at every available space in the capital. Tokyo is now being littered with dugouts."

Incendiaries Dropped On Tokyo, Japs Say

San Francisco, Dec. 15 (AP)—American Superfortresses, the Japanese announced in an unconfirmed broadcast, flew over Tokyo and dropped some incendiary bombs in two separate incursions today (Japanese time).

At the same time the Japanese branded American attacks as "nuisance raids," and repeated previous threats against American aviators.

Three Superfortresses hit the capital about 3.30 A. M. The broadcast recorded here said, while a lone B-29 paid a visit about 6 A. M.

103d Div. First In Crossing

Vanguards Come Under Fire of Siegfried Line Fortifications.

RACE TO REACH GERMANY FIRST

Third Army Enters Saar Basin Town of Nieder-Gailbach—First Annihilates Resistance.

DEC 16 1944

By Austin Bealmear

PARIS, Dec. 15 (AP)—Three divisions of the U. S. Seventh Army drove into Germany's industrial Palatinate today at three points along a 12-mile front, four months to the day after they stormed the Mediterranean shore and began chasing the Germans 500 miles across France.

103d Division First

The first to make the crossing was the 103d Division, which pushed across at 1:05 p.m., against sporadic opposition north of Climbach and four miles west of the French frontier city of Wissembourg in the northeastern corner of Alsace.

Forty-five minutes later the 45th Division crossed the border along wooded ridges at an undisclosable point, but in the same general area.

Ten minutes later, the 79th Division burst the Lauter river line at the frontier near Scheibenhard, nine miles east of Wissembourg, and plunged into the fastnesses of Bien Wald forest on the Rhine plain some 11 miles west of the Baden province capital of Karlsruhe.

Comes Under Siegfried Line Fire

A late front dispatch said the vanguards of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's divisions, which moved up to the frontier while the Siegfried line's guns were singularly silent, had come under fire of the fortifications and were pressing against outpost bunkers and pillboxes.

Other elements of the 103d Division, overrunning at least seven towns in their path, were within a mile and a half south of Wissembourg, standing at the entrance of a gap leading into Germany.

79th Smashes Into Lauterbourg

Forces of the 79th Division smashed into Lauterbourg, at the east end of the invasion front between the Vosges and the Rhine, and were fighting within 10 miles of Karlsruhe, which is across the Rhine.

In their spectacular six-day dash that virtually routed the Germans from northern Alsace, the Americans seized 2,087 prisoners.

Cracking of the German border by the doughboys, who pounded 80 miles in little more than a month, placed all four American armies on the western front inside the Reich for the showdown battles of the winter offensive designed to

AMERICANS CROSS BORDER OF BAVARIA

KENNEDY
DEC 16 1944

Two Spearheads of Patch's Forces Enter Germany—Six Armies Are Now Beyond Frontier of Reich.

Paris, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—The United States Seventh Army, becoming the sixth Allied Army to invade Germany, drove two spearheads today over the boundary near the fortress city of Wissembourg and near Scheibenhard.

The crossing at Scheibenhard was only three and a half miles west of the easternmost tip of France and thirty-five miles south of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen. This was the easternmost point Allied armies have reached in northwest Europe.

Three Seventh Army divisions made the crossing into the Palatinate of Bavaria before 6 P. M., two plunging across the line west of Wissembourg while the Seventy-ninth Infantry established a bridgehead over the Lauter River near Scheibenhard.

Fighting Still Rages.

Stiff fighting still raged tonight in both Scheibenhard and Lauterbourg, just across the river in Germany.

The 103d Infantry division, one of those which crossed west of Wissembourg, first cleared the towns of Climbach, Cleebourg, Keffenach, Birlenbach, Drachenbronn and Bremmelbach on the French side of the frontier. (The third division involved was not immediately identified.)

These forces had not yet reached the main Siegfried defenses, although they were under fierce German pillbox and bunker fire.

DEC 16 1944

To the north the United States First Army clinched firmer control of a fourteen-mile stretch of the west bank of the Roer by driving a mile beyond Kufferath and seizing high ground dominating the river three miles south of Duren.

First Army Gains.

The First Army's right wing also pushed forward a mile and a quarter in the Kesternich area northeast of Monschau, and advanced to within 1,000 yards of Siegfried Line forts in the forest area behind Strauch.

The Seventh crossed the frontier exactly four months after wading ashore on the French Riviera, 425 air line miles to the south, but much farther as it wound through the mountains of southern and eastern France.

The First and Ninth armies, first to break into Germany, were drawn up along the Roer River fifteen miles beyond Aachen where the Siegfried Line was first broken in September. The bitter fighting appeared to be subsiding.

The Third Army, which crashed into the industrial Saarland last month, was hacking its way slowly forward in the first works of the Siegfried fortifications on the Seventh Army's left.

Six of Gen. Eisenhower's armies now are inside Germany.

The British Second Army holds a bit of Reich soil around Geilenkirchen. The Canadian First Army is in the De Wyler Forest, six miles from Kleve, northern end of the Siegfried Line. The Allied First Airborne and the French First armies have not yet entered Germany, but the French are on or near the Rhine for seventy-five air line miles from Strasbourg south to Switzerland.

Lieut.-Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army shock troops crossed the frontier at 1:50 P. M. A month earlier, he broke the strong German line in the Vosges east of Luneville and drove from there ninety miles northeast to the point of invasion.

Staten Island Man Among First.

Doughboys realized they had reached the border when they spotted a boundary sign. Among the first across was Lieut. Norman J. Young of Staten Island, N. Y., and the first tank to rumble over the frontier in this sector was manned by Sergts. Elmer Weber, Fort Scott, Kan.; Edward Farquhar, Dallas, Tex., and Pfc. Edward Dowd, Red Bank, N. J.

When the Americans crashed into Lauterbourg and Scheibenhard, they found the bridges at both points destroyed. Major Merritt (Dutch) Hursh of Paterson, N. J., led the Americans at Lauterbourg.

The Siegfried Line was being shelled at perhaps its weakest points. The Germans said that American artillery was cratering Karlsruhe itself.

Gen. Hermann Balck, commander of German Army Group G, rushed reinforcements to his buffeted First and Nineteenth armies. He also tried to relieve pressure by reinforcing the 600-square-mile pocket around Colmar, below Strasbourg.

Menaced by Devers's Troops.

His counterpart, Lieut.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers, threatened envelopment of the Palatinate and the Saarland to the west from the rear. Gen. Devers's fourteen or more American and French divisions stood on or near the Rhine for 105 miles from Switzerland to the border town of Lauterbourg, against which the Americans were charging.

The United States Third Army of Lieut.-Gen. George S. Patton Jr., continued its indecisive battering of the Siegfried fortifications in the Saarland at Saarlautern and Dillengen. This force, on Gen. Devers's left flank, widened its front inside Germany by crossing the border six miles east of Sarregumines.

The United States First Army strengthened its positions on the Roer River before Duren by capturing Birgel, less than two miles to the southwest. The 104th and Ninth divisions cleared all the west bank of the Roer from Mariaweiler north to Shophoven, deploying at places within twenty and a half miles of Cologne.

Less Than Mile From Duren.

The First Army finally reduced the northernmost pocket of German resistance on the Roer front, the G[illegible]ns in the Mullenack castle. The Ninth Division mopped up the Mariaweiler factory area less than a mile from Duren. The Fifth Armored Division pushed due east from Gey for two miles into Kufferath, where bitter, close quarter fighting developed.

The 7th Army, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch and included in Devers's 6th Army Group, was immediately southwest of Lauterbourg and presumably was closest to Karlsruhe on the Rhine just east of the town.

Karlsruhe is a strongly fortified city in the Siegfried Line, six miles beyond the Rhine. Mannheim is a great chemical and munitions center and close by the university city of Heidelberg. Ludwigshafen is a twin city of Mannheim lying across the Rhine in Bavaria. All three threatened places have been frequent bomb targets.

Shelling Siegfried Line

Patch, indeed, had already opened his assault upon the Siegfried Line with 8-inch guns and 240-millimeter howitzers. Allied planes bombed the West Wall defenses and railroads supplying the German front and funneling in reinforcements.

His arrival at the Bavarian boundary represented an advance of more than 500 miles since his veteran 3d, 36th and 45th divisions waded ashore in southern France exactly four months ago today.

Among the towns toppled by the 7th Army were Riedseltz, two miles from Wissembourg; Sambach, a mile from the frontier corner; Munchhouse, Schaffhouse, Wintzenbach and Neewiller, the last but a mile from the frontier. The latest reports of 7th Army progress lagged hours behind the action.

7th's Front 35 Miles

In the Karlsruhe corner between Wissembourg and the Rhine, the Germans had been forced from French soil except for sacrificial rear guards. The 7th was moving forward on populous, industrial areas on a 35-mile front.

Once the 7th crosses the Palatinate border, it will be against the Siegfried Line. But because of the speed of the advance, the line likely will be less strongly manned than at any other place. This was the situation which precipitated the shattering of the Siegfried Line east of Aachen and led to the present battle for the Roer.

Once Haguenau, a key base and traffic center fifteen miles south of the frontier fell, German defenses gave way. The enemy, however, retired skillfully through northeastern Alsace and now apparently plans to try to slow down the 7th Army in front of the Siegfried Line so that it will not be able to hit the line with full momentum.

Mullenack Castle Taken

The 1st Army finally reduced the northernmost pocket of German resistance on the Roer front, the Germans in the Mullenack Castle.

The 9th Division mopped up the Mariaweiler factory area less than a mile from Duren. The 5th Armored Division pushed due east from Gey for two miles into Kufferath, where bitter, close quarter fighting developed.

The 83d Division in Gurzenich and Birgel fought off two counterattacks supported by tanks, of which four were destroyed.

Nazis Regain Some Ground

On the southern section of the 1st Army front, resistance stiffened in difficult terrain, thickly mined. Cannon broke up a German attack at Simmerath. The Nazis fought back into Kesternich, but virtually all of the hamlet remained in American hands. Around Vossenack, Nazi patrols infiltrated United States lines and gained some ground.

DEC 16 19

The 1st Army took 647 prisoners yesterday, raising its total to 213,526. Since D-day General Eisenhower's armies have captured at least 763,819 prisoners, more than 77,000 of them in the current offensive.

crush Hitler's Germany.

Third Enters Nieder-Gailbach

The U. S. Third Army on the Seventh's left flank, in a mile and a half gain six miles east of Sarreguemines, entered the Saar basin town of Nieder-Gailbach. It drew up its lines inside or within a mile of the border from the south on a 10-mile front east of the Saar river.

The U. S. First Army wiped out the last organized resistance west of the Roer in the vicinity of the Rhine plain's fortress of Duren, taking over high ground commanding all the west bank from Duren seven miles south to Bergstein. Two more fortified villages were captured.

Hold 27 Miles On Roer

With the U. S. Ninth Army, massed to the north, the Americans now hold undisputed sway over 27 miles of the west bank of the Roer, greatest single natural obstacle short of the Rhine itself, from Linnich to Bergstein.

On the southern Alsatian sector, the French First Army beat off furious counterattacks by reinforced Germans northwest of Colmar, where enemy infiltration for a time menaced supply lines, and at Selestat, farther north. On the south, the Germans threw in Panther tanks between Belfort and Mulhouse, but the situation was reported under control.

Race To Enter Germany First

As Patch's forward elements crossed the border—some of them so intent on being the first to enter Germany that they refused rest leaves—follow-up forces cracked into Lauterbourg and nearby Scheibenhard, and were engaged in hard fighting.

Before the forces battling through the two towns stood only the Lauter river. Once across it they will come to grips with the Germans in the Siegfried fortifications, 35 miles from the busy war factory cities of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen which face each other on opposite sides of the Rhine.

The Seventh crossed into Germany at a point where the border deserts the Rhine and cuts westward to Luxembourg.

Point Of Invasion

It chose for a point of invasion the Rhine plain east of the high Vosges mountains, where the going should be easier.

The Germans were meeting the surge of the Seventh with artillery, machineguns and tanks, operating from bunkers and pillboxes in front of the Siegfried line, and threw in a strong counterattack 23 miles west of Wissembourg near the Maginot fortress town of Bitche.

Wissembourg, last northern Alsatian city still in German hands, was closely pressed from east, south and west as the Seventh took seven towns along its approaches, including Cleebourg, but two and a half miles south.

Patch's seasoned Mediterranean campaigners had driven 17 miles north in three days after the capture of Haguenau, fighting across difficult wooded hills country and a plain laced by numerous streams.

The first crossings at 1:50 p. m. today were little more than a month after the Seventh broke the Germans' Vosges line and smashed through to the Rhine at Strasbourg. Ten minutes later the 79th hammered out its bridgehead inside the Reich across the Lauter.

Germans Skillful In Retreat

The German retreat from Haguenau was skillful, avoiding entrapment of any sizable forces, and the enemy plan appeared to be to slow the Americans before the Siegfried fortifications so they would be unable to strike it with full momentum.

The French First Army, at grips with a reinforced enemy on the southern Alsatian plain, repulsed counterattacks at Mulhouse and on the Rhine at Loeschle, six miles north of the Swiss border.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army was driving the Germans across the Roer south of Duren and 14 miles to the southwest finally cleared the Germans from Kesternich, previously reported captured, in a one-mile advance.

The Fifth Armored Division captured Kufferath, three miles south of Duren, and ranged on a mile east, seizing high ground dominating the Roer.

A mile to the north, the 83d Division erased the German stand inside iBrgel. In the area from Kufferath and Birgel north to Duren there still were isolated pockets, but north of Duren the 104th and Ninth Divisions had completely cleared the Roer's west bank to Schophoven.

More Trained Troops Needed As Replacements in Europe

GALLAGHER

Shortage Laid to Washington's Policy in Sending Heavy Commitments to Pacific Theater of War.

With the United States Ninth Army in Germany, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Already plagued by shortages of ammunition and tires, American forces on the western front now are confronted with the problem of obtaining trained infantry replacements.

Instead of a steady flow of such replacements direct from the United States, men are being taken from newly arrived divisions or from quiet sectors to fill the ranks of divisions which have had high battle casualties.

The replacement problem as yet has not impaired seriously the overall fighting efficiency of Gen. Eisenhower's forces, but some local commanders feel it has worked hardships on them.

[Much the same situation existed in the American expeditionary force of world war I. Several divisions sent overseas as combat units were made depot or replacement divisions on arrival in France.

[An indication of efforts to meet the replacement problem was Washington's announcement early this week of a tightening of draft regulations affecting men in the 26 through 37 age group.]

The assertion is made here that the situation on the western front is due to short-sighted and optimistic planning in Washington which led to heavy commitments for the Pacific theater along with general cuts in munitions and men in the belief that the European war would be over this year.

In some cases divisions newly arrived in Europe have been drawn on heavily to replace losses in some veteran divisions. Field commanders have asserted that such scrambling is bad for morale.

"One of the chief reasons soldiers fight well is pride in their divisions and confidence in their local commanders," one officer said. "A division becomes a soldier's home and when he is yanked out and sent to some other outfit where he does not know any one his morale goes down, for a while at least."

[A Rome dispatch said United States forces in the Italian theater already had begun retraining soldiers from other branches to become infantrymen. These include anti-aircraft gun crews, who have little to do since the decline of the German Air Force. Several hundred men already are undergoing such training, with thousands scheduled to follow.]

Many senior officers fighting on the western front have become convinced that the day of separately organized infantry and armored divisions is ended. They believe the Army must create a new division of mixed armor and infantry forces. The general proportion suggested is three battalions of tanks and six battalions of infantry.

"As things stand, we are doing about that now," one high officer said. "When one of our tank divisions makes an attack, it usually has an extra infantry regiment attached, or if an infantry division attacks, it gets a couple of extra tank battalions.

"The trouble now is that in such cases the infantry is not trained to operate with tanks and tanks are not trained to operate with the infantry, and worse still, the infantry commanders don't know how to use tanks properly."

The new theory of these officers, mostly young professionals who may be guiding Army policy in years to come, is that with one type of division trained to work as a unit, any combination can be achieved of trained men by breaking the division into combat teams to fit particularly the task of welding divisions together into larger striking forces.

Such a system, they pointed out, would greatly simplify training and supply problems and end a good deal of unnecessary conflict among infantry and tank men on how the war should be fought.

The veteran German Army has come to a similar conclusion with the creation of armored and grenadier divisions which have a higher proportion of infantry in them than the old armored divisions.

Allies, Foe Share Same House In Battle Area

NORDHESS

With British Troops in Holland [AP—Delayed by Censor]—Allied troops smashed headlong into a small Dutch village and discovered to their great astonishment that 80 American and British paratroopers and pilots and one Polish officer already had "liberated" the town.

But these ragged, bearded and emaciated paratroopers were elated to see the British troops, for, as they said, the British had "damn well" liberated them.

In Same Building As Nazis

In the group were paratroopers who had been slated for the airborne invasion of Holland and some glider pilots who had been shot down by ack-ack fire. They hid in the woods, buildings and ditches—often within yards of the enemy—and one time they were in the same building and using the same washroom facilities as the Germans.

When the British arrived, the 80 had eleven German prisoners in tow, including one Austrian Officer who had deserted to them.

"It was difficult to avoid the Germans," said Sergt. Paul R. Moukad, of Brooklyn. Moukad's group of fifteen, including a glider pilot, had been knocked down by flack September 18, eight mlies northwest of the village. They dashed into a woods, stayed there several hours and then entered the village and met 28 British paratroopers. Moukad's men found living space in the second floor of a house and the British group moved on to an adjacent hamlet.

Move To Another House

The Americans stayed in this house for only a few hours because some Germans moved into a building across the street an dit got hot. They shifted into another house during the night.

"That was really tough," said Tech. 4/g Terry Lair, of Springfield, Ill. "We were there only an hour when a German Luftwaffe headquarters moved in downstairs. Gosh, there was only one toilet. We used to put on a robe we found in the room and go down in that. We would pass the Germans, snitch cigars or cigarettes off their desks and they never got wise."

"We even had the Heinies peeling potatoes for us, but they did not know it," laughed Moukad. "They would peel them and we would sneak down and grab handfuls of them. But it was tough to speak in whispers all the time and be quiet so the Jerries couldn't hear us."

All Meet In Woods

After a time they sneaked away and found more Americans and British in the woods near a farmhouse. It was in these woods that all the American and British paratroopers and pilots finally gathered. All of the groups had amazing adventures.

"Three British officers and one Polish officer landed with two jeeps," related Pfc. Charles Toepker, of Cincinnati. They started down a road on the wrong side—you know how they drive in England—and darn near ran down a German convoy coming straight at them.

"So they got over on the right side. Then, as the convoy approached, they opened up on the convoy at point blank range, let loose with machine-gun speed, fire and splattered that convoy all over the place. The surprised Jerries were flopping all over like chickens with their heads cut off, trucks were jumping ditches and smashing into trees and the men were squealing. They sure did their part in the war that day."

Baltimorean's Story

A glider pilot, Flight Officer Philip Jacobson, 5105 Palmer avenue, Baltimore, told how they had fixed up an altar. "All of us attended that service. It was so nice some of us kinda cried. I guess we weren't as tough as we looked."

Sergt. John J. Burke, of Cleveland, said the men became discouraged when the battlefront became quiet. He said the weather was miserable and the half-hungry and cold soldiers felt they couldn't keep away from the Germans forever.

Go In Fighting

"Finally," Burke reported, "when the battle sounded as though it was coming closer, we decided to hell with it, we would go into the village and go in fighting. We did and killed several, wounded more and captured six.

"The civilians came out and threw us flowers, kisses, coffee and food. They thought we had liberated them. Then, a day and a night after our arrival, the real liberators—charging British troops and tanks—got into the town. Boy, were we glad to see them. A few hours behind the enemy lines seemed like years."

NAZI CASUALTY RATE IS HIGH

BRADLEY

Bradley Reports Many Green Troops Are Captured

U.S. 12th Army Group Advanced Headquarters, Dec. 15 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, United States 12th Army Group commander, said today that German battle casualties are greater than American and that the offensive is being pressed despite poor weather because the Germans cannot long stand their losses.

Remarking that the Americans are capturing a considerable number of "green" enemy troops, Bradley pointed out the advantage of attacking them now instead of waiting until they get several months' experience.

"If we had three months of good weather, it would make a whale of a difference," he told a press conference. "We are going ahead as best we can without it because time is playing in favor of the enemy."

Arms Superiority Noted

The heavier German attrition rate is due, he said, to American superiority in air support, artillery, equipment and infantry. However, he warned against overoptimism, saying: "We are now suffering from the optimism of August, September and October, and the war is being prolonged on account of it."

Ground troops, Bradley observed, at first were skeptical of air support, but since air and ground combat teams gained battle experience, they now have "full confidence in it."

DEC 16 1944

"Now our armies never hesitate to call for air support even 500 yards or less from our front lines," Bradley said. "Even the German air force in its heyday had nothing like the fine co-operation that exists between our ground and air forces. Only because of this co-operation were we able to advance as fast as we did, commencing with the St. Lo breakthrough and continuing through France."

Luftwaffe Kept Away

Bradley added that the 9th Air Force also "has been keeping the German air force off our necks. Now you ride around without even looking up. It was different in Africa."

Maj. Gen. Hoyt Sanford Vandenberg, commander of the 9th Air Force, disclosed that since D-day his outfit has destroyed 1,408 enemy aircraft; 15,851 motor transports; 1,462 armored vehicles and tanks; 9,432 railroad cars and 2,296 locomotives, in addition to gun positions, ammunition dumps, bridges and power stations.

GI Patients' Enjoy Series; Players Talk

By William F. Boni

WITH THE FIRST UNITED STATES ARMY, Dec. 15 (AP)—Convalescent patients in the First Army's hospital in Belgium, plus several hundred other G. I.'s, saw the official American League film of the 1944 World Series last night and then heard brief, entertaining talks by Mel Ott, Dutch Leonard, Bucky Walters and Frankie Frisch.

J. Roy Stockton of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch was the master of ceremonies.

Each of the ball-playing entertainers was equally amusing in his own way—Ott telling of the New York Giants' peaceful games with the Brooklyn Dodgers; Leonard recounting anecdotes about some of baseball's daffiest players; Walters describing the difficulties of pitching in Philadelphia's Baker Bowl "where usually you pitched with the bases loaded;" and Frisch telling about his jousts with the umpires.

It was the fourth show of the day for the athletes and they had driven 100 miles to keep their appointment here but they made it all seem fresh and staged a fitting climax by tossing baseballs to all who asked questions.

Ott is the manager of the Giants; Frisch bosses the Pittsburgh Pirates; Walters is star right handed pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds and Leonard is the knuckle-ball king of the Washington Senators.

Dutch Troops Assume Army Occupation Duties

U.S. 9th Army, Inside Germany, Dec. 15 (AP)—Dutch volunteer troops recruited in Holland assumed army occupation duties in Germany today on a limited scale.

The Dutch, under direction of a 9th Army provost marshal, will guard bridges and depots and take over some military police duties now discharged by Americans. The Dutch Government assigned their countrymen.

A Belgian brigade is being formed for the same purpose.

Lieut. Col. Vernon Smith, Franklinton, La., provost marshal of one corps, said the Dutch were eager to take over occupation duties after four years of occupation by the Germans.

Eisenhower Tells Nazis They Can Form Unions

Bars Strikes and Lockouts That Threaten Security

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—General Dwight D. Eisenhower told German workers today they would be permitted to form democratic trade unions under Allied military government but served notice that "strikes threatening military security, directly or indirectly, will be prohibited."

"So will lockouts," the supreme commander's spokesman said, in the twelfth of a series of broadcasts to the German people.

The Nazi-controlled Labor Front will be abolished at once, Eisenhower said, and all deductions of pay or collections from workers for its support will cease.

"Deductions of payments for social insurance, unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation of normal Reich taxes will be continued," he said. Collective bargaining with employers will be permitted, but for the time being the limits on wages will be maintained as under the most recent German regulations.

Eisenhower said that civilian labor requirements of Allied military forces will be given the first priority but due recognition will be given to the retention of key civilians in public services, utilities for essential industries.

"It is the policy of the supreme commander," he said, "to insure fair and reasonable working conditions for Germans who are employed by the Allied military forces."

AMG To Set Up Trade Unions In Reich

New York, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Nazi-controlled Labor Front will be dissolved in conquered Germany along with other party organizations, but German workers will be allowed to form democratic trade unions "when circumstances permit," a proclamation broadcast in the name of General Eisenhower said today.

The broadcast was reported here by the Office of War Information.

The twelfth in a series outlining to the German people the plans of Allied Military Government for ruling their country, the proclamation said that "all forms of free economic association and combination among workers will be permitted, provided that they do not assume any political or militaristic complexion."

Collective Bargaining

The trade unions will be permitted to bargain collectively with employers, the proclamation said, but "strikes threatening security, directly or indirectly, will be prohibited" and "so will lockouts."

Pay deductions for the benefit of Nazi party organizations will cease, the Germans were told, but "deductions of payments for social insurance, unemployment insurance, workman's compensation, or normal Reich taxes will be continued."

Workers Must Register

For the time being, German regulations concerning wages will remain in force, the proclamtion said, and "existing laws, decrees and regulations regarding the registration of labor will continue," so that all workers will be required to register.

The Germans were told that "it is the policy of the supreme commander to insure fair and reasonable working conditions for Germans who are employed by the military forces."

His Arm Nearly Cut Of Yank Sticks To Job

A U.S. 8th Air Force Bomber Station, England, Dec. 15 (AP)—His right arm nearly severed by a jagged piece of flak over Germany recently, Lieut. Frederic T. Kiessel, Los Angeles, Cal., a Flying Fortress bombardier, regained consciousness in time to aim his bombs at the target.

Kiessel now is in a hospital recuperating from his injuries. His arm had to be amputated.

While on a recent bombing mission over Ludwigshafen, Kiessel's ship was hit by flak. He was thrown into a corner, his arm severely cut and his hip stinging from another piece of shrapnel. But Kiessel regained consciousness and dragged himself back to his station to do his job.

Reds Invade W. Slovakia To Open Vienna Roads

DEC 16 1944

By W. W. Hercher

LONDON, Saturday, Dec. 16 (AP)—Russian troops, invading western Slovakia for the first time, yesterday captured Ipolysag (Sahy) Junction, 85 miles east of Bratislava, Slovak capital, in a bold operation aimed at cutting off German troops far to the east and breaking open the roads to Vienna, 115 miles to the west.

Cross Ipoly Frontier

Red Army troops, crossing the Ipoly River frontier from Hungary at a point 34 miles northwest of besiged Budapest, actually broke into Ipolysag Thursday, crushing the Axis garrison after a bitter all-night fight, Moscow announced. Eight hundred Germans were killed trying to hold this key town on the Budapest-Bratislava-Vienna highway, a midnight bulletin said. Ipolysag is a half-mile inside Slovakia, and in taking it the Russians skirted the 2,700-ft. Borzsony mountains, between the town and the big Danube bend to the south, and reached a road network radiating into central and western Slovakia. To the west the roads lead down into the plains before Bratislava and Vienna.

Budapest, already two-thirds encircled; thus was further outflanked on the northwest, and the Red Army also increased the danger of encirclement to large numbers of Germans holding a big salient jutting eastward as far as the Presov-Kassa Line in Slovakia.

Soviet Troops

Soviet troops were steadily driving the Germans back into Slovakia from Hungary on a 125-mile front extending from Ipolysag eastward to Satoraljaujhelly, and Berlin told of renewed Russian attacks in southern Poland in the Debica-Tarow area.

These latter thrusts may be the beginning of a northern envelopment movement against Slovakia, and Berlin also speculated on the possibility of the opening of Russia's Winter offensive there, aimed at Krakow, 44 miles west of Tarnow. Krakow is the big German base defending German Silesia.

Moscow said the Germans threw in an SS (Elite Guard) assault brigade and some tank units in their unsuccessful effort to hold Ipolysag.

The stroke by Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's Second Ukraine Army also was likely to draw out into the open again a compact fighting force of 25,000 free Czecho-slovak troops which not long ago were driven out of their headquarters at Banska Bystrica, 46 miles north of Ipolysag.

Mountain Edge Seized

Without relaxing their grip on Budapest, two thirds of which was encircled, Marshal Malinovsky's troops skirted the northern edge of the 27,000-foot Borzsony Mountains and reached a road leading downhill into the plains stretching westward to Bratislava and Vienna.

The Russians gained up to 5 miles on a 50-mile front in their fighting arc above Miskolc, and were folding back the German southern line while Gen. Ivan Petrov's 4th Ukraine Army hammered the Germans in eastern Slovakia.

The communiqué said that 1,015 German and Hungarian troops were captured in Thursday's fighting in the area above Miskolc.

In Freezing Weather

Moscow dispatches said that the new battle across the Ipoly River in western Slovakia was fought in freezing weather, and pictured it as a determined attempt to break the stalemate at Budapest and carry the battle into the little Hungarian plain between the capital and Vienna, Austrian capital.

Heavy rains have impeded the Russian encircling movement around Budapest, but Moscow said that freezing weather now had descended on the Hungarian front. The Germans still were throwing in reinforcements, including SS (Elite) troops, in an effort to save Budapest and keep the battle away from Austria.

Soviet front reports quoted fugitives as saying that a Nazi reign of terror was under way in the capital, with "one pogrom after another" directed against Jews and anti-Axis Hungarians.

Elsewhere on the comparatively quiet Eastern front, Germany's high command reported that Russian bombers were making "violent" attacks against the West Latvian port of Liepaja.

Seventeen miles northwest of Miskolc, which is eighty-five miles northeast of Budapest, the Russians seized Sajovelezd, five miles from the Slovak frontier and only two miles southeast of Putnok junction, whose capture would cut an important Axis rail escape railway from Russian-held Eger to the south.

Savage Fighting Flares East Of Bratislava

London, Dec. 15—The Paris radio said today Hungarian Prime Minister Ferenc Szalasi has been seriously wounded in an attempted assassination. A week ago Szalasi was reported to have visited Adolf Hitler at the Fuhrer's secret headquarters.

Moscow, Dec. 15 (AP)—Russian mechanized infantry columns have engaged a German Elite SS force in savage battle along the Ipoly River north of the Danube bend and little more than 85 miles east of the Slovakian capital of Bratislava, field dispatches said today.

This powerful thrust by parts of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine Army was closely coordinated with joint operations by his right wing and Gen. Ivan Petrov's 4th Ukraine Army seeking to cut off the Germans in eastern Slovakia from a chance of escape.

Drive At Ipolysag Tried

[Although this dispatch did not make clear whether Malinovsky's forces had invaded western Slovakia, a Berlin broadcast said they had attempted to storm Ipolysag, a half-mile north of the border.]

These Russian attacks against the strongest natural defenses still guarding the shortest invasion route to Vienna, 115 miles to the west, came while Budapest, the outflanked Hungarian capital, quivered under siege warfare.

It is expected that if Malinovsky is able to consolidate and reinforce his position along the Ipoly his next great lunge forward would be aimed at reaching the immediate approaches of Bratislava and the Vienna Plain.

Nazis Bring In Reserves

The German command, however, is reported here to have rushed reserves into the line to meet the threat.

A Russian communique said Red army troops yesterday drove forward six miles to within two miles of the rich iron and coal center of Szendro, 95 miles northeast of Budapest. The gains carried the Russians to within nine miles of the central Slovakian border at two points.

[The Moscow communique did not mention the Budapest battle, but a German broadcast said "the next few days will decide whether concentrated German and Hungarian forces will be able to stop the Russians."]

Red-backed Poles Return to Lublin

MOSCOW, Dec. 15 —Polish leaders of the Soviet-sponsored National Liberation Committee have returned to Lublin in Poland after talks with Russian officials here, and agitation is reaching a climax for the formation of a provisional government.

The Russian press again generously reported a popular demand in liberated Polish territory for elevation of the committee to governmental status and Boleslaw Berut, president of the committee's council, this week forecast that the next session of the council at Lublin would construct such a government. That development would leave the London Polish Exile regime out in the cold, observers were convinced.

Russia Says Poles Favor Lublin Leaders

Moscow, Dec. 15 (AP)—Agitation for formation of a Polish provisional government from the Soviet-sponsored Committee of National Liberation reached a climax today as Polish committee leaders returned to Lublin after a series of conferences in Moscow.

The Russian press printed in considerable length stories reporting a growing popular demand in liberated Polish territory for elevation of the committee to governmental status.

Play About U.S. Sausage King Gives Russ Audience Laugh

By Daniel De Luce

DEC 16 1944

Moscow, Dec. 15 (AP)—Alexander Korneichuk, the amiable playwright who used to be a Vice Foreign Commissar of the Soviet Union, tickled Moscow theatergoers last night by injecting a shot of laughing gas into Russian-American relations.

Arrayed in a wrinkled blue suit, Korneichuk stood nervously in the wings of the Satire Theater while his newest production, a three-act comedy entitled "Mr. Perkins's Mission to the Land of the Bolsheviks" was presented to an audience of 867 Russians and three Americans.

Chicago Sausage King

Any resemblance between Mr. Perkins and any American big business man who [illegible] toured Russia in wartime was, of course, purely coincidental. The three Americans out front—all journalists—decided that Korneichuk's dramatic potpourii combined a number of ingredients, including corn, but as an effort to extract fun from contemporary history the play was a success. It not only laughed at but with Americans.

In brief, the story follows the travels of Mr. Perkins, a sausage king from Chicago who has come to Russia to "see Mr. Stalin and learn the weaknesses there must be in this system." In journeying from Moscow to a collective farm and a front-line dugout he rubs shoulders in robust friendliness with every Russian he meets.

Villain Is U.S. Journalist

The villain of the piece is a rodent-faced American journalist who accompanies Mr. Perkins on his tour, always skeptical and sneering at the Russian character and accomplishments. He finally is disowned by his millionaire patron, who tells him:

"The only weakness I've found in the Soviet system is that it doesn't know its own strength."

Idea Of American Traits

The audience was much amused at the supposedly American traits attributed to Mr. Perkins. When a charming girl guide asks Mr. Perkins whether he would like to see Anna Karenina," his reply, "I haven't time for women," brought howls of laughter from the spectators, most of whom had seen that play here recently.

The audience was equally appreciative when a captured German parachutist slurs President Roosevelt in Mr. Perkins's presence and is promtply knocked down by a handsome Russian sergeant who says:

"You can't do that in front of our Allies."

DEC 16 1944

White Laughs, "Won't Sue"

Kornechuk's satire is the second Russian criticism of American journalists to appear in a week. Last Saturday a "Pravda" commentator bitterly criticized William L. White, journalist-author of a book on Russia, who accompanied Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, on a trip to the Soviet Union last summer. Mr. White, who is visiting in New York, laughed yesterday as he heard about the play and said: "A sense of humor on both sides of the Atlantic is a healthy thing at any time, and particularly this one. I hope the play is a success. I won't sue."

Supreme Soviet Defers Elections For Year

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Moscow radio announced today that elections to the Supreme Soviet—legislative body of the Soviet Union—have been postponed until December, 1945, because of the war.

The present members, elected for a term of four years, will carry over to that time.

Churchill Backs Red Demands in Poland

DEC 16 1944

In Historic Speech to Commons, British Leader Dumps Polish Exile Govt.—Redraws Map of Central Europe—Calls for Big 3 Meeting.

By Alex H. Singleton

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill dumped overboard the present Polish exile government today, backed Russia's demand for a new western frontier, and drew a map for central Europe in which Germany would lose vast tracts of her northern and eastern territory.

Historic Address

In an historic address, he suggested a "practical" approach by the United States to Poland's future and, inferentially, to that of all Europe, and disclosed a mysterious misfire in plans for a new meeting with President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

Rivalling in world significance his dramatic "blood, toil, sweat and tears" pronouncement which rallied Britain four years ago, Churchill bluntly made these main points today in the House of Commons:

Poland must accept Russia's demands for a western boundary running along the old Curzon Line, including the loss of Lvov.

Poland, with British-Soviet backing, would be free to expand to the west, taking over all of East Prussia south and west of Konigsberg, including once-free Danzig, and enjoying a 200-mile Baltic coastline rather than the old, narrow Polish corridor.

Remainder to Russia

By implication, through omission of mention, Russia would receive the remainder of East Prussia to the north.

President Roosevelt has been kept fully informed of Russian-British agreements on the future of Poland.

Mass transfers of population would be made to prevent war-breeding minority problems.

The whole story cannot yet be told because, "I find great difficulty in discussing these matters because the attitude of the United States has not been defined with the precision his Majesty's government have thought wise to use."

Restoration of the German populations inside reduced postwar boundaries would cause no great difficulty because "six or seven million Germans" already have been killed" and more will be killed."

"The fighting which will occupy the Spring and Summer x x x will involve the fiercest and largest battles fought in this war.

Meeting Impossible

"It has been found impossible to arrange any meeting of the three great powers. x x x We had grounds for believing we might have met before Christmas. x x x Nothing definite has been settled. There ought to be a meeting of the three great powers at the earliest moment."

"It seems unlikely that the evil forces in Germany x x x will have the power to restrict the decisions of a peace conference."

In tones of solemn significance—his word reflecting an obvious anxiety over apparent lack of full accord among the United Nations on all the snarled problems of Europe—he reminded the United States of "how much a failure on the part of the three greatest powers to work together would damage all our hopes for the future of world government."

To a tense House of Commons—sometimes sharply caustic in its criticism of his policy and clearly divided in its reception of his stand—the 70-year-old Churchill served notice he had no confidence in the recently-reconstructed Polish government-in-exile.

Wants Mikolajczyk

With all the eloquence at his command, Churchill made it clear that he wanted to see peasant-born Stanislaw Mikolajczyk immediately restored as Polish premier and lead the way to an accord with Russia and the Soviet-sponsored Polish National Liberation Committee which has set up shop in Lublin.

Dolefully, he implied that even that move might now be too late, that the Poles in London had delayed too long, that the authority of the Lublin committee would grow and its contacts with the Soviet government will become more intimate and strong.

"I do not know what misfortunes will attend such developments," said Churchill.

"In this diplomatic crossroads of world affairs, there has been ever-growing anticipation that Russia soon would recognize the Lublin committee as the provisional government.

"Grim, Bare Bones"

While the bulk of his speech dealt directly with the "grim, bare bones of the Polish problem," Churchill's implications went far beyond that immediate issue as he strove to bring the proposed Anglo-Soviet solution within the tenets of the Atlantic charter.

Solemnly he contended that there were no divergencies from that policy in a solution which would give Russia part of Poland and Poland part of Germany, contending that words were inserted in the charter which permitted such changes before the peace table provided they are "mutually agreed."

Coming as it does at the end of the war—a speech which drew from one member the comment that the Atlantic Charter has become a ghost—the Prime Minister also appealed to President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin to meet with him "at the earliest possible moment."

Apparently distraught over diplomatic developments which have raised differences among the United Nations, the Prime Minister confessed disappointment that it had "been found impossible to arrange any meeting of the three great powers."

[This coincided with a copyright Associated Press dispatch from makers what he called "the bare grim bones of the Polish problem," Washington forecasting no such meeting could take place before the end of January.]

Churchill said President Roosevelt had been informed of Russian-British decisions of Poland, but "I find difficulty in discussing these matters because the attitude of the United States has not been defined with precision. However, he said, "the President is aware of everything that has passed."

Three Proposals Set Forth

Placing before Britain's law-Churchill made these points:

1. The Poles have no alternative but to meet Russia's demands for a western frontier along the Curzon Line.

2. In return, Poland would be compensated with territory "at Germany's expense," including Danzig and all of East Prussia south and west of Konigsberg.

3. Mass transfers of population would be made to prevent minority disputes from troubling the future peace.

Russian Agreement Hinted

Between the lines of Churchill's speech apparently lay agreement between Britain and Russia on perhaps even more than the problems of Poland.

His pronouncements took on increased significance in the light of Britain's policy in the affairs of Europe's restive lands, contrasting to the hands-off attitude laid down by the United States.

From one of the first members to rise after Churchill concluded—Henry Raikes, Conservative barrister who once served in the RAF—came the sharp retort that "the Atlantic Charter has become a ghost." "And," he said, "that ghost was laid today."

Big Three Could "Effect" Transfer

Churchill said he had no doubt "that the great powers, if they agree, can effect" the transfer of population implicit in the assignment of part of East Prussia to Poland. It was here, he added, that he found "great difficulty in discussing these matters because the attitude of the United States has not been defined with the precision which the British Government have thought it wis to use."

"We know, however," he said, "that the Government and the people of the United States have set their hearts upon a world organization to prevent the outbreak of future wars, and this world organization will be fatally ruptured by a quarrel between any of the three most powerful empires which compose the grand alliance of the United Nations. The President is aware of everything that has passed. . . ."

Takes Exiles To Task

Churchill took Poland's exiled Government to task for what he called its delaying tactics.

As a result, he contended the authority of the rival, Soviet-sponsored Polish National Liberation Committee, will "grow and its contacts with the Soviet Government will become more intimate and strong."

Loses Confidence

Although he said "we still recognize the Polish (exiled) Government," Churchill made it clear that he held no confidence in its administration, since it was reconstituted "in a form which in some respects I certainly am not able to applaud."

In an apparent last desperate effort to obtain a compromise between the Lublin and London Poles, he heaped tributes upon Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, who stepped out as Premier of the London group recently. It was clearly a bid to persuade Mikolajczyk and his Peasant party to return to the coalition government in the leading role.

Will Meet Anywhere

Although suggesting Britain as a meeting site for the Big Three, Churchill agreed to go "any place" if such a session could be arranged.

"There ought to be a meeting of the three great powers at the earliest moment," he told the House of Commons. "So far as I and the Foreign Secretary (Anthony Eden) are concerned we will proceed to any place at any time under any conditions where we can meet the heads of our two chief allies.

Would Like To Be Host

"We should welcome above all a meeting in this island—a meeting in Great Britain which has waged the war from the outset and risked without flinching national annihilation in the cause of freedom."

The House rang with cheers.

The Churchill speech today was perhaps the first chief-of-state declaration that Germany would be sliced up after victory.

Mutual Agreements Excepted

"Our British principle," he said, "has been enunciated that all territorial changes must await the conference at the peace table after victory has been won, but to that there is an exception in principle. That exception is changes mutually agreed. That must not be forgotten."

Of Poland's loss in land in the east, he said flatly "this is a great gift they have to give to Russia."

Suggest Transfer Of People

"I cannot believe such an offer could be rejected by Poland," he emphasized, adding that it would have to be accompanied "by a disentanglement of populations in the west and north and the transfer of several millions of people from the east to the west and north, and the total expulsion of the Germans."

Standing before a tensely attentive House, Churchill drew a new map of central Europe.

Polish Gains Listed

"If Poland gives Lwow and the surrounding area on the south known as the Curzon Line—if Poland makes this concession and these lands are joined to the Ukraine, Poland will gain in the north all of East Prussia south and west of Koenigsberg, including Danzig, one of the most magnificent cities in the world, famous for centuries and a great gathering place for the trade of the Baltic, and indeed, of the world."

He said that "instead of the threatened and artificial corridor built up so laboriously after the last war, Poland would stretch broadly across the Baltic along 200 miles. The Poles are free so far as Russia and Britain are concerned to extend their territory at the expense of Germany to the west."

No Polish Sacrifice

He scoffed at opposition protests made previously by Poles here that a plan along this line would mean sacrifice of one third of Poland.

"That," he said, "includes vast tracts of the Pripyat Marshes, a most desolate region which, though it swells the acreage, does not add to the wealth of those who own it."

He emphasized that there must be a clean sweep—a transfer to prevent a "mixture of population to cause endless struggle as in Alsace-Lorraine."

Transfers Easier Now

He maintained that such "transferences" are "more possible than they ever were before, through modern conditions."

"Nor do I see," he said, "that there should not be room in Germany for the German population of East Prussia and of the other territories I have mentioned. After all, six million or seven million Germans have been killed already in this dreadful war into which they did not hesitate for a second time in a generation to plunge all Europe and the world.

More Germans To Be Killed

"At present we are told that there are ten million or twelve million prisoners or foreigners used as slaves in Germany who will, we hope, be restored to their own homes and lands when victory is gained. Moreover, we may expect that many more Germans will be killed in the fighting which will occupy the Spring and Summer and which will involve the fiercest and largest battles fought in this war."

Significantly, Churchill's speech drew a reaction sharply contrasting to that which followed his address just a week ago on Britain's policy in Greece, Italy and Belgium.

Conservatives Criticize

This time, it was members of his own Conservative party in Commons who arose to criticize,

Early Meeting Of Big 3 Is Called Imperative

DEC 16 1944

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—Siding with Russia in the Polish dispute, Prime Minister Churchill today confessed disappointment at delays in reconvening the Big Three and bespoke unity among the great powers lest a new structure of world government die in inception.

The Prime Minister virtually abandoned the London Polish Government, at least as now constituted, and supported as reasonable the Russian demands for territory in old Poland which the exiled government has refused to yield. Once Churchill spoke of conditions "if" the great powers agree. Again, he mentioned "how much a failure on the part of the three greatest powers to work together would damage all our hopes for the future structure of world government." A quarrel among these powers, he declared, would fatally rupture this world organization.

He said Russia was entitled to certain territory in the east of old Poland as a matter of reassurance about her western frontiers.

Poland, Churchill said, would be compensated for its sacrifice of Lwow and territory near the Ukraine by tracts of East Prussia and Danzig, to be wrested from Germany.

Suggest Big Three Parley

In one of the most significant and those who lean to the Left who gave him support.

From Laborite Morgan Phillips Price came the assertion:

"Some Poles . . . live in the land of make-believe. They still think that Russia can be kept back as a weak power. The time has come to speak plainly. Our patience is not inexhaustible. The Polish Government is fast losing its appeal."

Exiled Poles Defended

Conservative Alan Graham sharply inquired: "It is any wonder that Mikolajczyk and the Polish Government refuse to set their hands to what would be nothing less but the suicide warrant for their nation."

On the other hand, Miss Eleanor Rathbone, an independent, struck out at what she called a "growing disposition to treat Russia as a nerve doctor treats a highly hysterical patient."

"If we are to look forward to years of postwar co-operation with Russia—let us put it plainly—Russians have to get accustomed, whether they like it or not, to our habit of speaking our minds," she said.

Atlantic Charter Cited

Conservative K. W. Pickthorn jibed at Churchill with the suggestion that the Prime Minister did not appear to have read the Atlantic Charter.

"I don't know who composed it," he said, and I do not suppose Mr. Churchill has read it. Mr. Churchill has told the House that there was a special proviso in the Atlantic Charter about mutual agreement for territorial changes. There was nothing of the sort.

Little Hope For Exiles

As Churchill opened debate on the "grim bare bones of the Polish problem," he indicated he had little hope that the newly reorganized Polish exiled government in London could reach an accord with Russia or with the rival Soviet-sponsored Polish Committee of National Liberation.

"Already," he said solemnly, "I imagine the prospects of reconciliation between the Polish Government and the Lublin Committee with the Soviet Government behind them have definitely receded, though they might perhaps advance again were Mr. Mikolajczyk able to speak with authority for the fortunes of the Polish nation."

Early Solution Imperative

Churchill reminded Commons that he had cautioned Mikolajczyk of the danger of delaying efforts to reach a solution.

He maintained that if Mikolajczyk had been able to return to Moscow "after the very friendly conversations which passed between him and Marshal Stalin" and members of the rival Soviet-sponsored National Liberation Committee, "the difficulties inherent in the formation of a Polish government in harmony with the Lublin Committee might well have been overcome."

Regrets Withdrawal

Intimating strongly that Britain seriously regretted Mikolajczyk's withdrawal from the exiled government, Churchill said the peasant-born ex-premier "and his colleagues were more qualified to fill the place" of the late Polish patriot leader General Sikorski "than any other of the Polish leaders."

He told Commons that if Mikolajczyk had returned to Moscow "he would be at this moment at the head of a Polish Government on Polish soil, recognized by all the United Nations and awaiting the advance of the Russian Army moving further into Poland as the country was delievered from the Germans."

Churchill On Polish Question

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—Part of the text of Prime Minister Churchill's address in the House of Commons today follows:

Opening this debate, I find myself in a position to read to the House again some extracts from the carefully considered statements that I made to them in February after I returned from Tehran, and also in October of the present year. . . .

It is not often that one wishes to repeat what one has said two months ago, still less ten months ago. But I propose to do so, because in no other way and in no other words can I remind the House and bring home to them the grim, bare bones of the Polish problem.

On February 22 I said that at Tehran I took occasion to raise personally with Marshal Stalin the question of the future of Poland. . . .

It was with great pleasure that I heard from Marshal Stalin that he, too, was resolved upon the creation and maintenance of a strong, integral, independent Poland as one of the leading powers in Europe.

He several times repeated this declaration in public. I am convinced that that represents the settled policy of the Soviet Union. Here I may remind the House that we ourselves have never in the past guaranteed on behalf of the British Government any particular frontier line to Poland.

Russia's Right

I have intense sympathy with the Poles: . . . And I also have sympathy with the Russians. . . . Russia has the right of reassurance against future attacks from the west: and we are going all the way with her to see that she gets it—not only by the might of her arms but with the approval and assent of the United Nations. . . .

I cannot feel that Russia's demands for reassurance about her western frontiers goes beyond the limit of what is reasonable or just. Marshal Stalin and I also spoke and agreed upon the need for Poland to obtain compensation at the expense of Germany, both in the north and in the west.

The hopes I thought it necessary to express in October have failed. When Mr. (former Prémier) Mikolajczyk left Moscow my hope was that he would return within a week or so with the authority of the Polish Government in London to agree about the Polish frontier on the basis of the Curzon Line and its prolongation to the southward. . . . I have several times drawn up Mr. Mikolajczyk's attention to the dangers of delay. Had he been able to return . . . with the assent of his colleagues I believe that the difficulties inherent in the formation of a Polish Government in harmony with the Lublin Committee might well have been overcome.

Respects To Mikolajczyk

In that case he would be at this moment at the head of a Polish Government on Polish soil recognized by all the United Nations and awaiting the advance of the Russian armies moving farther into Poland as the country was delivered from the Germans. . . .

I have the greatest respect for Mr. Mikolajczyk and his able colleagues whom we met, Mr. Romer and Mr. Grabski.

I am sure that they are more qualified to fill the place of the late General Sikorski than any other of the Polish leaders. After endless discussions, into some of which we were drawn on Mr. Mikolajczyk's return from Moscow, the Poles utterly failed to obtain agreement.

In consequence, on November 21 Mr. Mikolajczyk and Mr. Romer and the other Polish Ministers resigned from the Polish Government, which has been almost entirely reconstituted in a form which in some respects I certainly am not able to applaud. . . .

Mr. Mikolajczyk's ordeal has been a most severe and painful one, torn between love of his country and the intense desire to reach a settlement with her mighty neighbor which was most abhorrent to many of his fellow-countrymen, and confronted with the obstinate and inflexible resistance of his London colleagues. . . . In these circumstances, Mr. Mikolajcyk decided to resign.

Almost a month has passed since then and now I imagine the prospects of reconciliation between the Polish Government and the Lublin Committee with the Soviet Government behind them have definitely receded, though they might perhaps advance again were Mr. Mikolajczyk able to speak with authority for the Polish nation. . . .

Lublin Authority To Grow

As . . . the Germans are expelled from large new tracts of Poland the authority of the Lublin Committee and the area it administers will grow and its contacts with the Soviet Government will become more intimate and strong.

I do not know what misfortunes will attend such developments. The absence of an agreement may well be grievous for Poland, and the relationship and misunderstanding between the advancing Russian armies and the Polish underground movement may take forms which will be most painful to all who have the permanent well-being of Poland and the relationship between Poland and Russia at heart.

. . . we still recognize the Polish Government as the Government of Poland, as we have done since they reached our shores in the early part of this war. This, of course, has been continued up to the present by all the rest of the United Nations except Russia only, which is the power most concerned and the power whose armies will be the first to enter the heart of Poland.

Recompense

. . . I cannot accept the view that the arrangements proposed about frontiers are not solid and satisfactory, or that they would not give to Poland that abiding home I spoke about in February. If Poland gives Lwow and the surrounding area on the south known as the Curzon Line; if Poland makes this concession and these lands are joined to the Ukraine, Poland will gain in the north all of East Prussia south and west of Konigsberg, including Danzig. . . .

Instead of the threatened and artificial corridor built up so laboriously after the last war, Poland would stretch broadly across the Baltic along a front of 200 miles. The Poles are free so far as Russia and Great Britain are concerned to extend their territories at the expense of Germany to the west.

I do not propose to go into exact details, but the extension will mean in the west and north territories more important and more highly developed than those they lose in the east.

Marshes To Be Ceded

We hear one third of Poland is to be ceded, but that includes vast tracts of the Pripyat marshes, a most desolate region, which, though it swells the acreage, does not add to the wealth of those who own it.

Thus I have set before the House what in outline is the offer which the Russians, on whom the main burden of liberation still falls, make to the Polish people. I cannot believe that such an offer should be rejected by Poland. It has, of couse, to be accompanied by the disentanglement of peoples in the west and north.

The transference of several millions of people would have to be effected and . . . total expulsion of the Germans from the areas to be acquired by Poland in the west and the north. There will be no mixture of population to cause endless struggle as in Alsace-Lorraine. A clear sweep will be made.

Nor do I see that there should be room in Germany for the German population of East Prussia and of the other territories I have mentioned. After all, 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 Germans have been killed already in this dreadful war, into which they did not hesitate for a second time in a generation to plunge all Europe and the world. . . . Moreover, we may expect that many more Germans will be killed in the fighting which will occupy the spring and summer and which will involve the fiercest and largest battles fought in this war.

First Arose At Tehran

When these matters which arose at the Tehran conference were first foreshadowed by me to the House, the British and American armies had not landed on the Continent. France was not liberated. . . . Then the armies of General Eisenhower were still gathering in this island and not along the Rhine, where they are growing in strength as the great waves of American manhood cross the Atlantic and take their place in the crusade and in the line of battle. Nor had the Russians advanced to the Vistula. . . .

In those days the Poles might well have had some show of reason in asking whether the great Allies would have the power, even if they were so minded, to deliver the new territory to Poland which was to compensate her for what she was giving up in the East.

But the situation has changed vastly in favor of the Allies, and it seems also extremely unlikely that after the spring and summer campaigns have been fought—if it be necessary to go so far in to business, and we shall go whatever distance is necessary to complete our object—it seems unlikely that the evil and hateful forces in Germany who conceived, planned and began this war, will have the power to restrict the decisions of a peace conference or an armistice peace conference at which the principal victorious powers will be assembled.

U.S. Views Undefined

The prospects of final victory have in the time that has passed since these matters were first discussed at Tehran become for the Allies solid and spacious. Therefore, I say what has always been said by the Poles when I have been discussing with them: "Here we know what we have to give up: what certainty have we of receiving compensation in other quarters?"

They have much more certainty of it now than they had at this time last year. I cannot see any doubt whatever that the great powers, if they agree, can effect this transference of population.

I find great difficulty in discussing these matters because the attitude of the United States has not been defined with the precision which the British Government have thought it wise to use. The friendship of the United States Government for Poland, no less than our own, the large mass of Poles who have made their homes in the United States and who are or are becoming American citizens, the constitutional difficulties of the United States in making treaties or making foreign agreements of every kind—all these have not enabled the Government of that great nation to speak in the terms which I have thought it my duty, with the assent of my colleagues, to use in this House.

We know, however, that the Government and people of the United States have set their hearts upon a world organization to prevent the outbreak of future wars, and this world organization will be fatally ruptured by a quarrel between any of the three most powerful empires which compose the grand alliance of the United Nations.

The President is aware of everything that has passed and of what is in the minds of the Russians and of the British. He had at Moscow in Mr. Averell Harriman, the Ambassador, a most accomplished representative in the capacity of observer, and he was present at all, or nearly all, of our Polish talks on the occasion of our last visit.

The President therefore has been kept fully informed, not only by the British Government but also by his own highly competent and distinguished representative and by all the many sources and channels that are open to the unceasing vigilance of the State Department.

Why Except Poland?

I am particularly careful not ever to pretend to speak in the name of any other power unless so directed beforehand, and I hope the House will make allowance for the care with which I pick my words upon this point. All I can say is that I have received no formal disagreement during all these long months upon the way in which the future of Poland seems to be shaping itself or is being shaped.

There is no doubt that when the time comes the United States will make their own pronouncement upon these matters, bearing in mind, as they will, the practical aspects which these matters assume and also how much a failure on the part of the three greatest powers to work together would damage all our hopes for the future structure of world government, which, whatever else it might fail to do, will at any rate be equipped with all the powers necessary to prevent an outbreak of further war.

It is asked: why cannot all questions of territorial changes be left over to the end of the war? I think that is a most pertinent question, and it is in fact the answer which I and the foreign secretary gave in almost every case that has been presented to us: They must wait until the end of the war. . . . So why should Poland be excepted from this general rule?

Deals With Russian Armies

It is only for the Polish advantage and to avoid great evils which might occur. Russian armies—I know nothing of their intentions, but speaking only of what is obvious to anyone who studies war maps—the Russian armies will probably during the early part of next year traverse large areas of Poland, driving the Germans before them.

If during those marches fierce quarrels and fighting break out between large sections of the Polish population and the Russian troops, very great suffering which can still be avoided will infallibly occur and new poisoned wounds will be inflicted upon those who must dwell side by side in peace, in confidence and in good neighborliness.

They must dwell side by side in peace and friendship if the tranquility of Europe is to be assured, or the smooth working of the world organization for the maintenance of peace is to be created and maintained. . . . Our British principle has been enunciated in what I have said: that all territorial changes must await the conference at the peace table after victory has been won. But there is an exception in principle, and that exception is "changes mutually agreed." It must not be forgotten that words are inserted in the Atlantic Charter "no changes before the peace table except changes mutually agreed."

30.24— 21269

To Poland's Interest

I am absolutely convinced that it is in the profound future interest of the Polish nation that they should reach agreement with the Soviet Government about their disputed frontier in the East before the march of the Russian armies through the main part of Poland takes place. . . . I must, however, say . . . that at that conference we shall adhere to the line which I am now unfolding to the House, and shall not hesitate to proclaim that the Russians are justly and rightly treated in being granted the claim they make to the Eastern frontiers along the Curzon Line as described. . . .

We have never weakened in any way in our resolve that Poland shall be restored and stand erect as a sovereign, independent nation, free to model her social institutions or any institutions in any way her people choose; provided, I must say, that these are not on Fascist lines, and provided that Poland stands loyally as a barrier and friend of Russia against German aggression from the west.

In the task, of course, Poland will be aided to the full by a Russian-British guarantee and assistance, and will also, I cannot doubt—though I cannot declare—be aided by the United States of America, acting at least through the world organization which we are determined to erect. . . .

Big-3 Meeting Waits

I have spoken of fading hopes and of disappointment at the failure to reach a Russo-Polish agreement. But there has been another disappointment. It has been found impossible to arrange any meeting of the three great powers. We had good grounds for believing we might have met before Christmas. Indeed, I confidently expected that we should. So far, however, although the prospect is earnestly desired and looked forward to, nothing definite has been settled.

Therefore, the strong and authoritative if provisional decisions which are now required, not only on the Russo-Polish question, but on a host of vital matters—political, international, military, economic . . . stand at the bar and wait.

There ought to be a meeting at least of the three great powers at the earliest possible moment. So far as I and the foreign secretary are concerned, we can only repeat what we have so often said, that we will proceed to any place at any time under any conditions where we can meet the heads of our two chief allies: and that we should welcome above all a meeting in this island—in Great Britain, which has waged the war from the very outset and risked, without flinching, annihilation in the cause of freedom.

DEC 16 1944

By The United Press.

LONDON, Dec. 15—The text of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's address on Poland in the House of Commons today follows:

In opening this debate I find myself in a position to read to the House again some extracts from the carefully considered statement that I made to them in February after I returned from Teheran and also in October of the present year.

When I read them over again last night in preparation for this debate, I found it very difficult to improve upon them or to alter them in any way. This may accuse me of infertility of mind, but it also gives me some confidence that I have not misled the House or felt myself stultified, in all respects at any rate, by the harsh, unforeseeable movement of events.

It is not often that one wishes to repeat what one has said two months ago, still less ten months ago. But I propose to do so because in no other way and in no other words can I remind the House and bring home to them the grim, bare bones of the Polish problem.

On Feb. 22 I said that at Teheran I took occasion to raise personally with Marshal Stalin the question of the future of Poland. I pointed out that it was in fulfillment of our guarantee to Poland that Great Britain declared war on Nazi Germany and that we had never weakened in our resolve, even in the period when we were all alone, and the fate of the Polish nation held prime place in the thoughts and policies of the British Government and the British Parliament.

Stalin's Promises Cited

It was with great pleasure that I heard from Marshal Stalin that he, too, was resolved upon the creation and maintenance of a strong, integral, independent Poland as one of the leading Powers in Europe. He several times repeated this declaration in public. I am convinced that that represents the settled policy of the Soviet Union.

Here I may remind the House that we ourselves have never in the past guaranteed on behalf of the British Government any particular frontier line to Poland. We did not approve the Polish occupation of Vilna in 1920, and the British view in 1919 stands expressed in the so-called Curzon Line, which attempted to deal, at any rate partially, with the problem.

I have always held the view that all questions of territorial settlement and adjustment should stand until the end of the war and that the victorious Powers should then arrive at a formal and final agreement governing the articulation of Europe as a whole.

However, the advance of Russian armies in the Polish regions in which the Polish underground army is active makes it indispensable that some kind of friendly working agreement should be arrived at to govern wartime conditions and to enable all anti-Hitlerite forces to work together against the common foe.

During the last few weeks the Foreign Secretary and I have consulted with the Polish Government in London, with the object of establishing a working agreement upon which the fighting forces can act and upon which I trust a loyal comradeship may be built between Russians and Poles.

Intense Sympathy With Poles

I have intense sympathy with the policies of that heroic race, whose national spirit centuries of misfortune cannot quench, and I also have sympathy with the Russians. Twice in our lifetime Russia has been violently assaulted by Germany, many millions of Russians have been slain, and vast tracts of Russian soil have been devastated as a result of repeated German aggression. Russia has the right of reassurance against future attacks from the west and we are going all the way with her to see that she gets it, not only by the might of her arms, but with the approval and assent of the United Nations.

The liberation of Poland may presently be achieved by Russian armies after those armies have suffered millions of casualties in breaking the German military machine. I cannot feel that Russian demands for reassurance about her western frontiers go beyond the limit of what is reasonable or just. Marshal Stalin and I also spoke of, and agreed upon, the need for Poland to obtain compensation at the expense of Germany, both in the north and west. I said that nearly a year ago. I have nothing to alter in it from the point of view of His Majesty's Government.

On Oct. 27, more recently, I reported upon my last visit to Moscow and said the most urgent and burning question was, of course, that of Poland. Here again I speak words of hope, of hope reinforced by confidence—but I am afraid this does not hold in the same degree at the present time. To abandon hope in this matter would indeed be to surrender to despair.

Two Crucial Issues Involved

In this sphere there are two crucial issues. The first is the question of the western frontier of Poland and new territory to be added to Poland in the north and west. The second is the relation of the Polish Government with the Lublin National Liberation Committee. On these two points, apart from many subsidiary and ancillary topics, we held a series of conferences with both parties.

I could tell the House we reached a solution of these problems. It is certainly not for want of trying. I am quite certain we have got a great deal nearer—this is subject to some review in the light of events. I hope Mikolajczyk will soon return to Moscow and it will be a great disappointment to the sincere friends of Poland if an agreed arrangement cannot be made which will enable him to form a Polish Government on Polish soil, a Government recognized by the Great Powers and indeed by all these Governments of the United Nations which now recognize the Polish Government in London.

Though I do not underrate the difficulties which remain, it is a comfort to feel that Britain and Russia and, I do not doubt, the United States are all firmly agreed on the re-creation of a free, independent, sovereign Poland, loyal to the Allies and friendly to her great neighbor and liberator Russia.

Speaking more particularly for His Majesty's Government, it is our persevering and constant aim that the Polish people, after their suffering and vicissitudes, should find in Europe an abiding home and resting place which, though it may not entirely coincide or correspond with the pre-war frontier of Poland, will nevertheless be adequate for the needs of the Polish nation and not inferior in character and quality, taking the picture as a whole, with that they previously possessed.

Warns Against Waste of Time

These are critical days and it would be a great pity if the time were wasted in indecision or protracted negotiations. If the Polish Government had taken the advice we tendered at the beginning of this year, the additional complications produced by the formation of the Polish National Committee of Liberation at Lublin would not have arisen; and anything like prolonged delay in settlement can only have the effect of hampering common action which the Poles and Russians and the rest of the Allies are taking against Germany. I hope no time will be lost in pressing these discussions to a successful conclusion.

The hopes I thought it necessary to express in October have failed. When Mikolajczyk left Moscow, my hope was that he would return within a week or so with the authority of the Polish Government in London to agree about the Polish frontier on the basis of the Curzon Line and its prolongation to the southward called the Curzon Line "A," which passed on the Russian side of Lwow.

I have several times drawn Mikolajczyk's attention to the dangers of delay. Had he been able to return after the very friendly conversations which passed between him and Mr. Stalin and also the conversations which he had with the members of the Lublin National Committee—had he been able to return with the assent of his colleagues, I believe that the difficulties inherent in the formation of a Polish Government in harmony with the Lublin Committee might well have been overcome.

In that case he would be at this moment at the head of a Polish Government on Polish soil recognized by all the United Nations and awaiting the advance of Russian armies moving farther into Poland as the country is delivered from the Germans. He was also assured in this task the friendship and friendly help of Marshal Stalin.

Respect for Polish Leaders

Thus he could, at every stage, have established good relations between the Polish underground movement and the advancing Russians, and a Polish administration would have been set up by him in newly delivered regions as they expanded. I have the greatest respect for Mr. Mikolajczyk and his able colleagues whom we met, Mr. Romer and Mr. Grabski. I am sure that they are more qualified to fill the place of the late General Sikorski than any other of the Polish leaders.

After endless discussions, into some of which we were drawn on Mr. Mikolajczyk's return from Moscow, the Poles utterly failed to obtain agreement. In consequence, on Nov. 21 Mr. Mikolajczyk and Mr. Romer and other Ministers resigned from the Polish Government, which has been almost entirely reconstituted in a form which, in some respects, I am certainly not able to applaud.

Mr. Mikolajczyk and his friends remain, in the view of His Majesty's Government, the only light that burns for Poland in the immediate future. Just as I said that if the Polish Government had agreed in the early part of this year upon a frontier, there never would have been any Lublin Committee to which Soviet Russia has committed herself, so now I say that if Mr. Mikolajczyk could swiftly have returned to Moscow early in November, as he hoped and expected to do, with the power to conclude an agreement of frontier line, Poland might now take her full place in the ranks of the nations contending against Germany and would have the full support and friendship of Marshal Stalin and the Soviet Government.

That opportunity too is for the time being suspended. This prospect vanished like the last and it remained one of the stories of the Sibylline Books in which, on every occasion, the price remained the same and the number of volumes decreased until at the last they had to be bought on the most unfavorable of terms.

Severe Ordeal for Mikolajczyk

Mr. Mikolajczyk's ordeal has been a most severe and painful one. Torn between love of his country and intense desire to reach a settlement with her mighty neighbor, which was most abhorrent to many of his fellow-countrymen, and confronted with the obstinate, inflexible resistance of his London colleagues and their veto, like the veto which played so great a part in the former ruin of Poland, in these circumstances Mr. Mikolajczyk decided to resign.

Almost a month has passed since then and, I imagine, the prospects of reconciliation between the Polish Government and the Lublin Committee with the Soviet Government behind them. They have definitely receded, though they might perhaps advance again were Mr. Mikolajczyk able to speak with authority for the Polish nation. The consequence of this recession of hopes of this working agreement between Russia and the Poles has been masked to British eyes by the fact that the Russian armies on the long Vistula front have been motionless and if and when they move forward, as move forward they surely will, and the Germans are expelled from large new tracts of Poland, the authority of the Lublin Committee and the area it administers will grow in its contacts with the Soviets more intimate and strong.

I do not know what misfortunes will attend such developments. The absence of agreement may well be grievous for Poland and the relationship and misunderstanding between the advancing Russian armies and the Polish Underground movement may take forms which will be most painful to all who have the permanent well-being of Poland and the relationship between Poland and Russia at heart.

The fact that a Prime Minister resigns from a Government and that a new Government is born does not, of course, affect the form of diplomatic relationships between States. We still recognize the Polish Government as the Government of Poland, as we have done since they reached our shores in the early part of this war. This, of course, has been continued up to the present by all the rest of the United Nations, except Russia only, which is most concerned and is the power whose armies will be the first to enter the heart of Poland.

200 Miles on Baltic for Poland

It is a source of grief to me that these forces have not been joined together more closely against the common foe. I cannot accept the view that the arrangements proposed about the frontier are not solid and satisfactory or that they would not give to Poland that abiding home I spoke about in February.

If Poland gives Lwow and the surrounding area on the south known as the Curzon Line A, if Poland makes this concession and these lands are joined to the Ukraine, Poland will gain in the north all of East Prussia south and west of Koenigsberg, including Danzig, one of the most magnificent cities in the world, famous for centuries and the great gathering place for the trade of the Baltic and indeed of the world. Instead of the threatened and artificial corridor built up so laboriously after the last war, Poland would stretch broadly along the Baltic on a front of 200 miles. The Poles are free, so far as Russia and Great Britain are concerned, to extend their territories at the expense of Germany to the west.

I do not propose to go into the exact details, but an extension in which they will be supported by Britain and Russia, bound together as they are by a twenty-year alliance, this extension will mean in the west and north territories more important and more highly developed than those they lose in the east.

We hear of one-third of Poland to be ceded, but that includes vast tracts of the Pripet Marshes, a most desolate region which, though it swells acreage, does not add to the wealth of those who own it.

Thus I have set before the House what, in outline, is the offer which the Russians, on whom the main burden of liberation still falls, make to the Polish people. I cannot believe that such an offer should be rejected by Poland. It has, of course, to be accompanied by the disentanglement of peoples in the west and north and transference of several millions of people would have to be effected from east to west, or to north, and because that is what is proposed, the total expulsion of Germans from the areas to be acquired by Poland in the west and north, for expulsion is the method which, so far as we have been able to see, will be most satisfactory and lasting.

No Mixture of Population

There will be no mixture of population to cause endless struggle, as in Alsace-Lorraine. A clean sweep will be made. I am not alarmed at the prospect of the disentanglement of population nor even am I alarmed by these large transferences which are more possible than they ever were before, through modern conditions.

The disentanglement of populations which took place between Greece and Turkey after the last war was in many ways successful and has produced friendly relations between Greece and Turkey ever since. That disentanglement which at first seemed impossible to achieve and about which it was said that it would strip Turkish life in Anatolia of so many extra services, and about which it was said that the extra population could never be assimilated and sustained by Greece, that disentanglement solved problems which before had been the cause of immense friction, of wars and of rumors of wars.

Nor do I see that there should not be room in Germany for the German population of East Prussia and of other territories I have mentioned. After all, six million or seven million Germans have been killed already in this dreadful war into which they did not hesitate for a second time in this generation to plunge all Europe and the world.

At present we are told that there are ten million or twelve million prisoners, or foreigners, used as slaves in Germany, who will, we hope, be restored to their own homes and lands when victory is gained. Moreover, we may expect that many more Germans will occupy spring and summer will be killed in fighting which and which will involve the fiercest and largest battles fought in this war.

When these matters which arose were first foreshadowed by me to the House, British and American armies had not landed on the Continent. France had not been liberated. She was powerless, not like now when she is rising with great rapidity to a strong and fine position among the nations of the world. The armies of General Eisenhower were still gathering on this island and not along the Rhine where they are now growing in strength as great waves of American manhood cross the Atlantic and take their place in the crusade and in the line of battle.

Nor had the Russians advanced to the Vistula. Vast distances separated them even from the frontiers of Poland. Nor was one large German Army cut off in the peninsula which has Memel and Libau as its bases. There was not that great position which Russian armies hold in the extreme north, nor was their left hand reaching out beyond Budapest in the south, threatening advance into the very heart of Austria. Nor had Rome been occupied, nor the Apennines pierced.

Situation Has Changed Vastly

In those days the Poles might well have had some show of reason in asking whether the Great Allies would have power, even if they were so minded, to deliver new territory to Poland which was to compensate her for what she was giving up in the east.

But the situation has changed vastly in favor of the Allies and it seems also extremely unlikely that after the spring and summer campaigns have been fought, if it be necessary to go so far in the business, and we shall go whatever distance is necessary to complete our object, it seems extremely unlikely that the evil, hateful forces in Germany who conceived and planned and began this war will have power to restrict the decision of the peace conference or armistice-peace conference at which the principal victorious powers will be assembled.

The prospects of final victory have in the time that has passed since these matters were first discussed at Teheran become for the Allies solid and spacious. Therefore I say what has always been said by the Poles when I have been discussing with them: "Here we know what we have to give up; what certainty have we of recovering compensation in other quarters?"

They have much more certainty of it now than they had at this time last year. I cannot see any doubt whatever that the Great Powers, if they agree, can effect this transference of population.

I find great difficulty in discussing these matters because the attitude of the United States has not been defined with the precision which the British Government have thought it wise to use. The friendship of the United States Government for Poland, no less than our own, the large mass of Poles who have made their homes in the United States and who are, or are becoming, American citizens, constitutional difficulties of the United States in making treaties—all these have not enabled the Government of that great nation to speak in terms which I have thought it my duty, with the assent of my colleagues, to use in this House.

President Aware of Everything

We know, however, that the Government and the people of the United States have set their hearts upon world organization to prevent outbreak of future wars and this world organization will be fatally ruptured by a quarrel between any of the three most powerful empires which compose the Grand Alliance of the United Nations.

The President is aware of everything that has passed and of what is in the minds of the Russians and British. He had at Moscow in Mr. Averill Harriman a most accomplished representative in the capacity of observer and he was present at all, or nearly all our Polish talks on the occasion of our last visit. The President, therefore, has been kept fully informed, not only by the British Government but also by his own highly competent and distinguished representative and by all the many sources and channels that are open to the unceasing vigilance of the State Department.

I am particularly careful not ever to pretend to speak in the name of any other Power unless so directed beforehand and I hope the House will make allowance for the care with which I pick my words upon this point. All I can say is that I have received no formal disagreement during all these long months upon the way in which the future of Poland seems to be shaping itself, or is being shaped.

There is no doubt that when the time comes the United States will make their own pronouncement upon these matters, bearing in mind, as they will, the practical aspects which these matters assume and also how much failure on the part of the three greatest Powers to work together would damage all our hopes for the future structure of a world government which, whatever else it might fail to do, will at any rate be equipped with all powers necessary to prevent outbreak of further war.

It is asked why cannot all questions of territorial changes be left over to the end of the war. I think that a most pertinent question and it is one, in fact, which I and the Foreign Secretary gave in almost every case that has been presented to us. They must wait until the end of war. Armies, it is said, move here or there as they advance or recede. They may be in occupation of this ground or the other, but it is at the peace table alone that the permanent destiny of any land or people will be decided. Why cannot that be said in this case? It may be said in every case, or almost every case except in that of Poland. So why should Poland be excepted from this general rule?

Sees Trouble for Russian Armies

It is only for the Polish advantage and to avoid the great evils which might occur. Russian armies—I know nothing of their intentions, but speaking only of what is obvious to anyone who studies war maps—Russian armies will probably during the early part of next year traverse large areas of Poland, driving Germans before them. If during those marches fierce quarrels and fighting break out between large sections of the Polish population and Russian troops, very great suffering, which can still be avoided, will infallibly occur and new poisoned wounds will be inflicted upon those who must dwell side by side in peace and in confidence and in good neighborliness.

They must dwell side by side in peace and friendship if the tranquillity of Europe is to be assured or a smooth working world organization for the maintenance of peace is to be created and maintained. All these matters are among the most serious which can possibly be imagined so far as our present lights allow.

Our British principle has been enunciated in what I have said, that all territorial changes must await the conference at the peace table after victory has been won, but there is exception in principle and that exception is "changes mutually agreed." It must not be forgotten that words are inserted in the Atlantic Charter, "No changes before the peace table, except changes mutually agreed."

I am absolutely convinced that it is in the profound future interest of the Polish nation that they should reach an agreement with the Soviet Government about their disputed frontier in the east before the march of Russian armies through the main part of Poland takes place. That is the great gift that they have to give Russia, a settlement now at this time which gives firm title of mutual agreement to what might otherwise be disputed at the peace conference.

I must, however, say, because I am most anxious that the House should understand the whole position, speaking on behalf of His Majesty's Government, and in a way which I believe will probably be held binding by our successors, that at that conference we shall adhere to the line which I am now unfolding to the House and shall not hestiate to proclaim that the Russians are justly and rightly treated in being granted the claim they make to the eastern frontiers along the Curzon Line as described.

The Foreign Secretary and I have labored many months. We have spared no labor or travel, no risk of political rebuffs and consequent censure in our efforts to bring about that good understanding between the Poles, whom we still recognize, and the mighty ally which has so heavily smitten German military power.

"Poland Shall Be Restored"

We have never weakened any way in our resolve that Poland shall be restored and stand erect as a sovereign independent nation, free to model her social institutions, or any institution, in any way her people choose. Provided, I must say, that these are not on Fascist lines and provided that Poland stands loyally as a barrier and friend of Russia against German aggression from the west.

In this task Poland will be aided to the full by Russian and British guarantee and assistance and will also, I cannot doubt though I cannot declare, be aided by the United States, acting at least through world organizations which we are determined to erect, which she and the whole of the United Nations are determined to erect for the salvation of mankind toiling here below from the horrors of repeated wars.

Another great war, especially an ideological war, fought as it would be not only on frontiers but in the heart of every land with weapons far more destructive than men have yet wielded, will spell doom perhaps for many centuries of such civilization as we have been able to erect since history began to be written. It is that peril which, according to the best judgment of this National Government of all parties, has so lately renewed its troth to stand together for the duration of the war against Germany, that we have labored and are striving sincerely and faithfully to ward off.

Other powerful States are with us on every side, some more powerful, perhaps, than the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations. We can only trust and can only try our best, and if we cannot solve the problems, we can at least make sure that this problem is faced in all its somber magnitude while time remains. I have spoken of fading hopes and of disappointment at failure to reach a Russo-Polish agreement.

But there has been another disappointment. It has been found impossible to arrange any meeting of the Three Great Powers. We had good grounds for believing we might have met before Christmas. Indeed, I confidently expected that we should. So far, however, although the prospect is earnestly desired and looked forward to, nothing definite has been settled. Therefore, strong authoritative, if provisional decisions which are now required, not only on the Russo-Polish question, but on a host of vital matters, political, international, military, economic—apart from such progress as can be made by correspondence and individual visits, so far these decisions stand at bar and wait. There ought to be a meeting at least of the Three Great Powers at the earliest possible moment.

So far as I and the Foreign Secretary are concerned, we can only repeat what we have so often said, that we will proceed to any place at any time, under any conditions where we can meet the heads of our two chief allies and that we should welcome above all a meeting in this island, in Great Britain, which has waged war from the very outset and risked, without flinching, annihilation in the cause of freedom.

Charter Called 'Ghost'

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—No vote of confidence was involved in the House of Commons discussion today of the Soviet-Polish problem and no such vote was sought by Prime Minister Churchill, for criticism came from his own supporters among the Conservatives. In contrast with what happened just a week ago when he defended his policy of intervention in Italy, Greece and Belgium, it was from the Laborites of Left-Wing leanings that he found his support today.

A Conservatitve M. P., Henry Raikes, protested: "The Atlantic Charter has become a ghost, and that ghost was laid today."

From Morgan Philips Price, Laborite, came the assertion: "Some Poles . . . live in the land of make-believe. They still think that Russia can be kept back as a weak power. The time has come to speak plainly. Our patience is not inexhaustible. The Polish government is fast losing its appeal."

Nazis Denounce Polish 'Sell-Out'

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—The German radio tonight denounced what it called Prime Minister Churchill's "shameful selling out" of Poland. It jeered that Churchill's proposal to compensate Poland with parts of East Prussia and Danzig was "astounding" in its moderation.

"The plan to give certain German territories in the east to a Soviet Poland has long been known to German political quarters," Berlin said. "The only astounding point is that Churchill merely referred to East Prussia including Danzig, while the Lublin (Polish National Liberation) Committee has extended its aims much farther to the west.

"But all this includes a lot of wishful thinking which has yet to materialize and we may answer Churchill with that well-known British saying: 'It's a long way to Tipperary.'"

American Poles Send Protest on Russia to Eden

Urge Britain to Persuade Stalin to Adopt Hands-Off Policy on Borders

CHICAGO, Dec. 15 (AP).—The Polish American Congress, which says it represents six million Americans of Polish descent, has told British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden "it will be to the best interests of England to persuade Russia to adopt a hands-off policy with reference to her peaceful neighbors."

30.24-21271

"The fate of the democracies is tied up with the fate of Poland," said the Congress's cablegram, sent to Mr. Eden Tuesday and disclosed today by its president, Charles Rozmarek. He said it was sent for "full consideration" before the opening of discussion of the Polish problem today in the House of Commons.

"The fact that already armed bands of Communists are trying to incite civil war in China, Greece, France, Italy, Belgium and Poland in order to gain control of their governments cannot be passed off as a mere incident," the message said. "It is the logical sequence of a foreign policy based upon concessions aimed at placating the growing might of a wayward ally. There can be no basis for the assumption that Russia wants democratic neighbors. . . . Russia has a right to expect friendly neighbors, but the plain fact is that it is not the small countries but Russia who refuses to be a friendly neighbor."

The message said that England's "solemn obligations, recorded in treaties, are now apparently being interpreted to the detriment of Poland's right to equality, freedom and territorial integrity. It is disturbing to learn that increasing pressure is being exerted upon the Polish government to accept a fatal course of appeasement tantamount to national suicide."

Churchill's Polish Stand Attacked In Senate

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's pronouncement on Poland today produced a none too favorable reaction in the Senate.

Senator Connally (D., Texas), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said it meant another Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting was necessary because America "must be consulted" on European boundaries.

To Senator Taft (R., Ohio) the Prime Minister's declaration "looks like the end of the Atlantic Charter and a return to power politics." Echoing Taft on power politics was Chairman Reynolds (D., N.C.) of the Military Committee.

Reynolds added that it was disheartening to find Churchill "acquiescing in the dismemberment of territories and the enslavement of a people for whom he advised going to war."

Senator Austin (R., Vt.), member of the Foreign Relations Committee, suggested boundary settlements should wait on the creation of a world peace organization.

Another committee member, Senator Pepper (D., Fla.), put it in slightly different form—that issues which often breed war should be settled not by two nations but by the United Nations, "with a decent respect for the opinion of mankind in general."

1,200 U.S. Planes Raid Rail Centers

London, Saturday, Dec 16 (AP)—More than 500 RAF Lancasters attacked Ludwigshafen, 65 miles east of the Saarbrucken front, with more than 3,000 tons of bombs last night after some 1,200 American bombers and fighters had pounded the rail hubs of Hannover and Kassel with 2,000 tons of explosives in a daylight assault.

Four of the United States 8th Air Force's bombers and two fighters were missing from the attack.

Meanwhile RAF Lancasters escorted by Spitfires bombed a boat pen at Ijmuiden, entrance to the North Sea Canal running to Amsterdam in northern Holland, and Italian-based American Fortresses and Liberators hit supply and other targets in Rosenheim and Amstetten, Linz and Salzburg and rail yards at Innsbruck, northern terminus of the Brenner Pass route.

GERMANY BLASTED BY TWO AIR FORCES

London, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—United States heavy bombers from Britain and Italy struck Germany multiple blows today.

Fortresses and Liberators of the Italy-based Fifteenth Air Force bombed the Innsbruck railyards, which make up the northern terminus of the Brenner Pass route. They also hit targets at Linz, Salzburg, Rosenheim and Amstetten.

More than 650 Flying Fortresses from Britain hammered the western Germany rail and industrial centers of Hannover and Kassel with more than 2,500 tons of bombs.

The bomber fleet, from the Britain - based United States Eighth Air Force, was accompanied by 550 Mustang and Thunderbolt fighters.

ROBOTS HIT ENGLAND

London, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—For the thirtieth night in a row, the Germans attacked southern England with V-bombs last night.

The Air Ministry's announcement today was confined to the routine "damage and casualties have been reported." But London newspapers played up scenes of recent devastation with pictures of labor corps—British and American—already beginning the preliminary job of patching up the battered capital to relieve a serious housing shortage.

Meanwhile, the German radio defended use of the flying bomb as a "strictly military weapon."

"It is not a terror weapon as is shown by the comparatively small number of fatal casualties caused by it," the broadcast said.

Attacker of Giraud to Die

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—An Algerian military tribunal has sentenced to death a Senegalese soldier charged with shooting and slightly wounding General Henri Giraud at Oran early in September, the Paris radio said today. The Senegalese was declared drunk at the time.

Nazis Halt Bonuses For War Prisoners

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—The German Government has stopped sending special monthly allowances to her war prisoners in Britain, it was learned today.

With the end of this novel Nazi "bonus" plan, thousands who maintained their defiant arrogance long after their capture have now agreed to work on the land for cigarette money.

Under the Geneva Convention of rules for war, commissioned officers are paid by their captors, and this is charged against their own country. There is no provision for paying other soldiers, however.

The Nazis instituted a "bonus plan" whereby noncommissioned officers were sent $5 and others $3 monthly, shortly after D-day. The funds, estimated at about $4,000,000 a month, were transmitted through Switzerland.

Decision On Wodehouse Attacked In Commons

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—Three members of Parliament demanded today that the Government reconsider its decision not to prosecute P. G. Wodehouse and other British subjects who broadcast over the German radio.

Quintin Hogg (Conservative), Harold Nicolson (National Labor) and Clement Davies (Liberal) insisted in Commons that the Government let a jury decide whether the author's purpose in broadcasting was treasonable.

Hogg said the Government decision was "an affront to the conscience of this nation."

Sir Donald Somervell, the Attorney General, replied that a careful investigation of available evidence failed to justify criminal proceedings, but that if further evidence became available "this case and others will be reconsidered."

Birthday Ball Given by King

London, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—King George VI, who was 49 years old yesterday, gave a birthday ball at Buckingham Palace last night, the first dance there since the start of the war. It was the first ball attended by both Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose in London. Guests numbered about 100.

George VI On Air Dec. 25

LONDON, Dec. 15 (AP).—King George VI will make his seventh annual Christmas broadcast, to the empire at 3 p. m. (10 a. m. New York time) Dec. 25, it was announced tonight.

Churchill Must Go, H. G. Wells Declares

London, Dec. 15 (AP)—Novelist H. G. Wells declares that Prime Minister Churchill has "outlived" his role as Britain's fighting symbol and asserts that "it is high time he retired upon his laurels before we forget the debt we owe him."

In an article published yesterday in the Weekly Tribune, the historian said the Prime Minister's intervention in the Greek situation was a "discredit" to the nation. He declared Churchill had "lost his head completely" and become a "would-be British Führer."

Wells asserted the British policy in Greece resulted from Churchill's "pro-Royalism," his "snobbishness" and "limited range of ideas." The article was entitled "Churchill Must Go."

Nazis Move Vienna Factories

Bern, Switzerland, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Basler Arbeiter Zeitung said today the Germans are hastily dismantling Vienna's armament factories and transporting them to Straubing, Regensburg and Linz. The factories have been employing about 1,600,000 persons, the paper said.

Tirpitz Casualties Set at 1,542

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 15 (AP).—Forty-two German officers were killed and 1,500 members of the crew were either killed or injured when the battleship Tirpitz was sunk by British bombers at Tromsoe, Norwegian Legation officials said tonight.

Says 250,000 Died at Warsaw

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 15 (AP).—Between 250,000 and 300,000 Poles were killed in the unsuccessful Warsaw uprising this fall, a Swedish woman who lived through the long battle told reporters on her return here today. The eyewitness was Elna Gistedt, a one-time Warsaw grand opera star. She said the destruction in 1939 when the Germans took the city was slight "compared with the present situation."

NAZIS IN ITALY TIGHTEN LINES

Veteran Troops Brought Up To Meet Canadian Drive

Rome, Dec. 15 (AP) — Canadian troops fought hard tonight to expand a newly won bridgehead across the Naviglio Canal west of Ravenna as the Germans threw more reinforcements into a fierce and tenacious defense of the eastern Po Valley.

The Canadians established their mile-wide bridgehead in a night attack northeast of Bagnacavallo, road center 10 miles northeast of Faenza, and held it against day-long counterattacks by Nazi infantry and Panther and Tiger tanks.

The original Canadian bridgehead over the Lamone river east and south of Bagnacavallo had been expanded to a width of 10 miles and was approximately 2½ deep. Fighting raged today only a mile from Bagnacavallo, whose church towers were being used by the Germans as observation posts.

500 Prisoners Taken

Since they crossed the Lamone Sunday night the Canadians had captured 500 Nazis, killed or wounded hundreds more and destroyed twelve enemy tanks and self-propelled guns. Their drive was bringing terrific pressure on Faenza, Po Valley terminal of railway through the Apennine Mountains from Florence.

As the Germans saw their Po Valley defenses slowly crumbling they began rushing picked units from other sectors in a desperate effort to stop the Canadians. The veteran 98th Infantry Division has been brought from below Bologna and thrown into the fighting around Bagnacavallo.

Germans Claim Victory

Thirteen miles west of Faenza and south of Imola British troops of the United States 5th Army continued mopping-up operations in Tossignano and Borgo Tossignano after repulsing repeated German counterattacks. Heavy losses were inflicted on the enemy.

[The German radio declared that a battalion of the 6th British Tank Division had been "annihilated" by a Nazi counterattack in the fighting southwest of Imola.]

In their efforts to "starve out" German front-line troops Allied fighters and fighter-bombers yesterday cut railway lines in northern Italy in 42 places, destroyed four rail bridges and cut or damaged seven others.

Eighth Army Troops Cross Canal In Italy

Rome, Dec. 15 (AP) — Canadian troops of the 8th Army have established a bridgehead west of the steeply banked Canale Naviglio in a night attack northeast of Bagnacavallo and are holding it against strong opposition, Allied headquarters announced today.

The advance was made by the same forces who two days ago smashed their way through stiff German defenses in crossing the Lamone River due west of Ravenna. The attack threatened the road center of Bagnacavallo, ten miles northeast of Faenza in the Po Valley.

Nazi Blows Repelled

Allied headquarters said the Canadians turned back a number of German counterattacks but heavy fighting continued.

On the 5th Army front, British troops were cleaning the last Germans from the villages of Tossignano and Borgo Tossignano, southwest of Imola.

Despite German opposition, the Canadians expanded their foothold west of the canal to 1,500 yards in width. The canal parallels the Lamone more than two miles to the west and runs south almost to the Rimini-Bologna highway.

British Honor Kelly

Fort Benning, Ga., Dec. 15 (AP)—The British Military Medal has been presented to Tech. Sergt. Charles E. (Commando) Kelly, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor and the Silver Star.

The British decoration was pinned on Sergeant Kelly's tunic yesterday by Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, commandant of the infantry school here in the name of "His Majesty the King of England."

General Walker was commander of the 36th Division in Italy when Kelly's exploits won him the Medal of Honor. Kelly is a member of the academic regiment at the infantry school here.

The citation accompanying the Military Medal said for "gallantry and intrepidity beyond the call of duty," on September 13, 1943—the same action that brought Kelly the Medal of Honor from the United States.

Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark, then commanding the 5th Army in Italy, recommended Kelly for citation and it was approved by Gen. H. R. Alexander, of the British Army.

SICILIANS ATTACK DRAFT OFFICES

Rome, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—A Government decree summoning the classes of 1921 and 1922 to the Italian colors touched off a series of riots yesterday in Catania, Sicily, during which guards were reported to have fired upon a crowd attempting to storm recruiting headquarters.

Dispatches from Sicily said that a number of university students had taken part in the demonstration and one had been killed.

The independent daily Il Tiempo said that rioters succeeded in setting fire to the city hall, conscription headquarters, the courthouse, Bank of Sicily building and the tax collection offices. They attempted to storm the jail but were driven off.

The Government said that necessary measures had been taken to restore order and a large number of arrests were reported. Italian press dispatches said Sicilian Separatists leaflets had been distributed among the rioters.

It was the second such outbreak in Sicily in two months. Nineteen persons were killed and more than 100 wounded at Palermo in October.

Before the audience the legislators bought medals and rosaries for blessing. The Pope gave each a small autographed picture and a rosary, white for Mrs. Luce and black for the men.

Taylor Asks Food for Italy

Tells Congress Group American Attention Should Be Called to Hunger Problem.

Rome, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Myron C. Taylor, President Roosevelt's representative in the Vatican, says he believes that if Communism makes headway in Italy "it will do so on empty stomachs because we can't feed the country properly."

Speaking to the visiting United States House Military Affairs Committee yesterday, Mr. Taylor appealed for American attention to the problems of the Italian people. The discussion developed at a dinner given the committee in Rome.

Mr. Taylor said today that he had nothing to add to his statement.

Pope Pius XII received the touring American committee today and at the conclusion of the audience asked Representative John M. Costello, a California Democrat, to convey greetings to President Roosevelt.

The pontiff said that he was sending a special blessing to the United States. He expressed the hope for a peace based on understanding, justice and charity, and added that a great obligation rested upon legislators and those responsible for government to see that such a peace is established throughout the world, the congressmen said later.

The committee was received in the pontiff's library privately and then together with other members of the party, including several military policemen assigned to the group.

Representative Costello and Representative J. Parnell Thomas, a New Jersey Republican, thanked the Pope for the honor of an audience. Representative Clare Boothe Luce, Connecticut Republican, said "women always had less be than men in peace by force 2 more in peace through unde standing and charity.

Nazi Peace Feeler Denied

ROME, Dec. 15 (AP).—A high Allied diplomat, accredited to the Vatican, described today as "absolutely without foundation" reports published abroad that the Germans were seeking through the Holy See to obtain a more precise definition of the Allies' demand for unconditional surrender.

Greek Regency Seen Solving Athens' Crisis

Fighting Continues, However, in Rain-soaked Capital.

By Stephen Barber

ATHENS, Dec. 15 (AP).—An agreement in principle that a regency might solve the strife in Greece was reported tonight although fighting continued in the rain-soaked capital.

The regency question was discussed at a lengthy conference among Reginald Leeper, the British ambassador; Harold MacMillan, British resident minister in the Middle East; and Themistokles Sophoulis, Greek elder statesman who has acted as an intermediary between the opposing forces.

It was understood that appointment of a regency council of three was suggested by Greek Premier George Papandreou. Proposed members were said to have been Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens, Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs Philip Dragoumis and Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, who led the Greek revolution of 1922.

One-man Regency

However, it was expected the eventual agreement would call for a one-man regency of the archbishop of Athens.

Informants said Damaskinos had been approached and had accepted. Some Athens sources, on the other hand, said there was no indication that King George of Greece, now in London, would agree to this plan—which is said to call for the regency to continue until a plebiscite has determined whether Greece will remain a monarchy or become a republic.

The regency was a point in armistice terms believed to have been presented by the warring Greek left-wingers.

"I am informed reliably that the EAM (National Liberation Front) leaders' proposal contained three main terms:

Amnesty for leaders in the civil strife.

A national government representing all parties.

Creation of a regency.

The offer was withdrawn temporarily to meet British insistence that it be signed by heads of the ELAS, military arm of the EAM, as well as by the EAM central committee, but it was reported unofficially that the British would agree to the proposals as the basis for an armistice.

There was a flurry of conferences among the British commander, Lieut. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie; the British Ambassador, Reginald Leeper; the British Resident Minister in the Middle East, Harold MacMillan, with Greek Premier George Papandreou and Themistokles Sophoulis, old-time political leader who is deemed acceptable to all parties.

Archbishop Mentioned As Regent

The possibility also was mentioned that the Archbishop of Athens might be named temporary regent pending a plebiscite to determine whether Greece is to remain a monarchy or become a republic. Some Athens sources said, however, that there was no indication that King George of Greece, now in London, would agree to this plan.

Meanwhile, fighting went on, with the ELAS hammering at British positions with fresh artillery and with a renewal of sniping.

British 25-pounder guns shelled ELAS concentrations in the hills behind the stadium at Zappion Park, and British reinforcements continued to come in despite road [illegible] erected by the ELAS on boundary streets.

Scobie Tells Of Attack

The British cleared mines which the ELAS laid during the night in Omonia Square.

General Scobie's communiqué said today "at 7.25 o'clock this morning insurgent forces launched an unprovoked attack against Indian troops on the mainland of Greece north of Patras," and that "guerrilla activity in the Aslonika area continued," while fighting continued generally in the Piraeus and Athens areas.

Brig. Gen. P. L. Sadler, head of the American wing of the military relief organization, took the occasion to explain that Americans in Greece "are not connected with the operations in any way. We are concerned solely with relief and rehabilitation essential to relief."

"So far," he said, "we have managed to keep hospitals of both sides in medical supplies and food."

GREEK LEFTISTS SUBMIT TERMS TO END REVOLT

Proposals May Be Accepted by British as Basis for Armistice.

ELAS CONTINUE FIGHTING

Amnesty, National Government and Plebiscite Chief Points in Peace Program.

Athens, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Greek insurgents have handed the British terms for ending the thirteen-day Leftist revolt, the Associated Press was informed by a reliable source tonight, with the possibility the British would accept them as a basis for an armistice.

Meanwhile, however, the ELAS hammered British defense positions in central Athens with fresh bursts of artillery and rifle fire and attacked Indian troops on the mainland north of Patrai.

The ELAS' reply to British proposals for ending the conflict was reported to contain three main points—amnesty for the rebellious political leaders, a national government representing all parties and a regency to rule until a plebiscite decides whether the country will remain a monarchy or become a republic.

Demand EAM Sign.

The reply was temporarily withdrawn to meet British insistence that it be signed by ELAS military leaders as well as the parent organization, the EAM central committee.

British Ambassador Reginald Leeper sent for Emmanuel Sophoulis, Greek political leader who is believed acceptable to all parties, drawing speculation that negotiations for a new Government were under way.

The possibility that the Archbishop of Athens might be named regent also was reported.

The cleric was believed ready to attempt formation of a government acceptable to all parties, pending a plebiscite to decide whether the country is to remain a monarchy or become a republic. However, in Athens there was no indication that King George would agree to the plan. The King is in London.

Infiltrating ELAS entered Omonia Square during the night, laid teller mines and engaged in a brief skirmish with British parachute troops before withdrawing. British headquarters said that they retired before the mines were properly laid, and the explosives were later cleared.

The British reported further progress by British reinforcements in Piræus, the port of Athens, where the neck of the main peninsula has been secured.

ELAS forces demolished a number of lath-and-plaster buildings in Athens and barricaded entries to the city through narrow side streets. Apparently they hoped to contain British troops in the central area with the intention of mounting assaults later on both ends of British-held University street which connects the two principal ELAS objectives, Omonia and Constitution squares.

British reinforcements, including tanks and artillery, continued to reach the Athens area, and Major-Gen. Ronald Scobie was believed to consider the military situation improving.

Militiamen Called Up

Three additional classes of militiamen were called to the colors today by Premier Papandreou.

Seven age groups now have been called up by Papandreou's British-supported Government, but it was questionable how many men the latest summons would bring in, inasmuch as only five square miles of Athens and about twenty per cent of the port of Piraeus are under the Premier's immediate control.

Two-Hour Conference

Rain and low-hanging clouds hindered operations of RAF planes which attempted to check on the regrouping operations of ELAS elements in their mountain hideouts outside Athens yesterday afternoon, although the air scouts dropped down almost to rooftop level on the lookout for new Partisan moves.

Rumors still were current that Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, who led the Greek revolution in 1922, might attempt to form a new government acceptable to all factions and bring an end to the strife, but there was no confirmation. Plastiras conferred for two hours yesterday with Papandreou, but declined to make a statement.

Later the Premier conferred for 90 minutes with Harold MacMillan, British resident Minister in the Mediterranean, who arrived here Tuesday.

Food Plan Collapses

It became apparent, meanwhile, that regardless of the outcome, it will take several months to restore normal relief administration. At present there are only eighteen trucks available for relief work in the entire city, and it has been necessary to cancel a plan for opening soup kitchens because of the transportation shortage.

Under a bilateral agreement with the ELAS, Swiss and Swedish Red Cross committees were to issue and ration flour, but the plan collapsed because bakers lacked fuel.

A limited distribution plan provides four ounces of flour per head, but so far only 75,000 of the city's 1,500,000 people have been reached.

New Delhi, Nov. 21 [AP—Delayed]—Air smuggling — fabulous by comparison with the most notorious exploits of the old sea-runners—is estimated to have netted Americans $4,000,000 in two years of flying over the "top of the world," it was learned today.

Scores of Americans soldiers and civilians in the C-B-I theater have been court-martialed or arrested for operations between India and China over the world's highest and most hazardous airline.

The vast trade involved British, Chinese and Indian racketeers while the Americans were only "small fry"—mostly "fall guy go-betweens" who transported contraband.

Directed By Baltimorean

The crackdown by United States Army criminal investigators, working in co-operation with British, Chinese and Indian officials, also largely smashed an international syndicate which traded in stolen lend-lease supplies, Government property, gold, currency and other goods flown into isolated, inflation-ridden China. This syndicate was composed of Far Eastern gangsters and wealthy Chinese and Indians who instigated and financed smuggling activities.

The investigators are being directed by the theater provost marshal, Col. Harry Cooper, 3401 Pinkney road, Baltimore.

Profits of American participants in the India-China trade totaled an estimated $4,156,000 in 87 major and 213 minor cases in which army criminal action has been completed or is under way. Major cases are those classified as involving profits of more than $5,000 each.

can manufacturers and British. Indian, Chinese and other civilians. The Army withheld the names.

The records showed some American officers and enlisted men made staggering profits. Some officers of one American troop carrier squadron, including the commanding officer, amassed an estimated $50,000 before the authorities stepped in.

A staff sergeant cleaned up over $5,000 by smuggling gems and gold money in a few months' flights to China and by selling Government property in China's black market.

Fallen Plane Loaded With Loot

One plane which crashed in the Burma jungle en route to China was found overloaded with loot. The crew members involved used every available space on the plane to hide contraband.

Plane crewmen often concealed gems in plane instruments and in their underwear. The authorities found 500 cartons of British-issued cigarettes under the floorboards of a China-bound plane.

One American soldier and four Chinese aides were caught in Kunming with $7,000 worth of sulfanilimide pills in suitcases. In most instances, the drugs were Government property.

Then Syndicate Takes Over

Most of the Americans involved started in a small way by carrying into China only such things as cigarettes. Later, a wealthy organization of Chinese, Indians and Greeks with British citizenship enticed some American Air Force men and civilian pilots to enter their plans by painting "get-rich-quick" schemes.

Smuggling and black-market activities are continuing and the Army's criminal investigation division is working on many more cases. However, the large-scale operations are believed to have been wiped out.

Cooper Promoted In March

Col. Harry Cooper, in charge of investigation of smuggling and black-market activities in the China-Burma-India theater, was promoted last March from lieutenant colonel.

A member of the Corps of Military Police, he served for many years as a member of the United States Secret Service. His stations included Washington, Cleveland, Boston, Omaha and Des Moines.

Unit in Bhamo

Burma Town's Garrison of 1,200 Crushed; British Press on Toward Akyab

DEC 16 1944

MYITKYINA, Burma, Dec. 15 (AP).—What was left of a Japanese suicide force, originally estimated at 1,200 men, was crushed today in by-passed Bhamo by the Chinese 38th Division.

Besides a few snipers, the only Japanese remaining in the town were dead or wounded. The capture of Bhamo is expected to release another powerful Chinese force to push south toward the old Burma Road.

Bhamo's fall came suddenly but was no surprise. Squeezed into the southwest corner of the town, the Japanese soldiers took a terrific pounding day and night from bombers and artillery for more than two weeks.

Under the cover of darkness in the early morning, about 200 Japanese managed to escape through the Chinese ring around Bhamo, but they were trapped at a point three miles down the Irrawaddy River by a column of pursuing Chinese.

Meanwhile, forward units of the British 14th Army advanced southeast of Maungdaw to within forty miles of Akyab on the west Burma coast, under combined Anglo-American air cover.

In the Arakan hills, all the territory west of the Kalapanzin River has now been reoccupied. Other British forces have cleared Buthedaung, sixty miles north of Akyab, and have continued their advance southward along the dense Mayu Range terrain.

troops before the monsoon, now has been reoccupied, the bulletin said.

In the North Burma fighting zone, some 800 Japanese troops of a suicide force commissioned to fight to the death at Bhamo have been squeezed into an area of about 6,000 square feet in the southwestern part of the town, as the 38th Chinese Division made gains in the northern sector.

Chinese Plan Cited

The Japanese "teakwood fortress" at Bhamo on the east bank of the Irrawaddy River has been under siege by the Chinese for more than two weeks. The garrison was said to have sufficient food and ammunition, but there were indications it was suffering heavy casualties.

The present Chinese plan apparently is to bring heavy artillery to bear on what has been described by American liaison officer as "the best defense system yet encountered in North Burma."

Recently a heavy Chinese artillery barrage of 70 rounds from 155-mm. guns was hurled into one section of Bhamo. Ten direct hits were scored on one bunker before is was knocked out.

Many dugouts are under fifteen feet of teakwood logs, each log and earth position supported by two other dugout positions.

Lakes Form Moats

The 38th Division is facing a series of connecting lakes on the perimeter of the Japanese Bhamo defenses, which serve as moats.

To the west in the Indaw-Katha region, the British 36th Division consolidated positions and engaged in light patrol action. On the Chindwin front the 11th East African Division captured Shwegyin and pushed on up the Shwegyin-Yeu road to a village two miles to the north.

Allies Push Toward Akyab

Southeast Asia Command Headquarters, Kandy, Ceylon, Dec. 13 (AP)—Advance Allied elements have reached positions fourteen miles southeast of Maungdaw, on the west coast of Burma, and are within 40 miles of the important west coast of Akyab, a Southeast Asia communique disclosed tonight.

Jap Troops Squeezed

These elements have cleared Buthiedaung, 60 miles above Akyab in the Arakan district, and have continued the advance down the Mayu Range. All the territory to the west of the Kalapanzin, which had been vaacted by Allied

Chinese Mop Up Enemy Suicide

Chinese Begin To Surround Kwangsi Town

Three Columns Fan Out For Assault on Hochih.

CHUNGKING, Dec. 15. (AP)—Chinese forces counter-attacking against the recent Japanese drive into Kweichow province made further gains today. They now are closing in on and out-flanking the town of Hochih in Kwangsi province on the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad 95 miles northwest of the former American air base at Liuchow, the Chinese high command announced.

Chinese units, now 40 miles inside Kwangsi, have fanned out in three columns in preparation for the assault on Hochih. One column is driving straight along the railway line and now is 15 miles from the town; another is 12 miles west of Hochih and a third is 18 miles southwest of the city, the announcement said.

Because of the current Chinese effort which halted and then threw back the lightning Japanese thrust, China's military situation has become further stabilized, according to Maj. Gen. Chang Tung-Chuen, an Army spokesman who claims there has been no indication that the enemy plans to re-invade Kweichow.

Enemy Forces

The bulk of enemy forces still remain concentrated along an irregular line from the Changsha area, through Hengyang and Kweilin, both former 14th Air Force bases, and southwestward to the Liuchow district, the officer said.

The current Chinese ground successes have come at a time when, according to U. S. ambassador, Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley, the nation is "tired, bruised and bleeding after nearly eight years of war."

"In my opinion," Hurley added. "China is eager to meet the invader in battle . . . and she will fight to victory."

According to a statement issued yesterday by the American diplomat there has been "no animosity or ill feeling of any kind" between Chinese and American authorities with regard the recent recall of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell to Washington.

Reports that the United States had been "exerting pressure" upon China before the Stilwell recall were assumed by Hurley to be "propaganda not emanating from the Allies."

CHINESE TROOPS CLOSING ON HOCHIH

Chungking, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Counterattacking Chinese are closing in on Hochih and at the same time executing an outflanking movement against that city on the Kweichow-Kwangsi Railroad, the Chinese High Command said today. Hochih is ninety-five miles from lost Liuchow, former site of an important U. S. air base.

A point about five miles northwest of Hochih was recaptured last night, the High Command reported.

Major-Gen. Chang Tung Chuen, an army spokesman, calling the military situation further stabilized, said there was no indication of a renewed Japanese plan to invade Kweichow province.

In the west the Chinese pressed northeast toward Wanting, city on the Burma border in Yunnan province, where the Burma road cuts across the frontier. They captured a village eight miles from Wanting, the High Command said.

Hurley Denies Chinese Rift

Chungking, Dec. 15 (AP) — Maj. Gen. Patrick Hurley, United States Ambassador to China, said today there had been "no animosity for ill feeling of any kind" between Chinese and American authorities in connection with the recent recall of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell to Washington.

Reports that the United States had been "exerting pressure" upon China before Stilwell's recall were denied by Hurley, who said he assumed such reports were "propaganda not emanating from the Allies."

"No Ill Will Nor Acrimony"

While there may have been arguments and straight talk, he added, "there was no ill will nor acrimony, but always a desire for unification of all forces for defeat of the enemy."

Hurley said his own relations with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek have been direct and cordial. "We've not only become friends," he declared, "but have established a degree of comradeship."

"One Team, One Objective"

Hurley expressed the conviction that recent changes in the Chungking Government "all are intended to promote co-operation and efficiency," and said they are in large measure responsible for the fact that "the Chinese Government, United States headquarters and this embassy are one team with one objective."

He said that he had participated in conversations affecting the Chinese communists and had made a trip to Yenan, where communist headquarters are located. He declined to elaborate, however, beyond saying:

"I hope every element of our own forces and all the strength of China will be united to defeat the invader.

"China is tired, bruised and bleeding after nearly eight years of war," Gen. Hurley added, "but in my opinion China is eager to meet the invader in battle again. I've no qualms about China's attitude. She will fight to victory."

CONGRESS GROUP VISITS AUSTRALIA

Melbourne, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Ten members of the United States House of Representatives Subcommittee of Naval Affairs arrived here today on a continuation of their tour of Pacific battlefronts. They came here after visiting the Superfortress base at Saipan.

Expressing satisfaction that a powerful British fleet is to join the United States and Australian navies in the Pacific, Chairman James E. Heffernan (D.-N. Y.) said that the touring members have been impressed by the co-operation the United States has been getting from Australia.

Mr. Heffernan said the committee was particularly impressed by the miracles achieved in Saipan where a base was being built for an intense aerial offensive against Japan.

El Salvador Uprising Reported Near Capital

Rebels Believed Fighting in Santana, Radio Asserts

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Dec. 15 (AP).—Radio station La Voz de Guatemala said today that an armed uprising broke out this morning in Santana, El Salvador's second largest city, twenty-five miles from San Salvador, the capital.

The sation said armed civilians were storming a government barracks while a revolutionary contingent was advancing toward Santana from neighboring Ahuachapan.

[Earlier in the day the Salvadorean Foreign Minister lodged a formal protest with the Guatemalan Minister, asserting that arms captured from revolutionists in Ahuachapan apparently had belonged to the Guatemalan Army.]

Big 3 Plan Conference Early In 1945

DEC 15 1944

Grave Concern Exists Over Divergent Courses of Allies.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—A second Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference at last has been arranged—for late January or early February.

Dictating the need for it were new demands on both sides of the Atlantic for consultations at top levels and grave concern over divergent courses of Allied diplomacy.

The principal factor governing the time apparently is President Roosevelt's schedule. It calls for a fourth term inauguration on January 20. The meeting will be held soon thereafter unless world events force a change in plans. The place is expected to be somewhere outside the United States.

Disclosure of the decision for another meeting follows weeks of discord, some under the surface, some in the open, over Allied policies toward Greece, Italy, Poland and other areas once infested by Nazis.

Personal Attention

While there has been evidence of progress toward restored harmony, the size of the problems was such as to call for the personal attention of the big three. In addition, they have numerous other issues of war and peace requiring their attention—perfection of the Dumbarton Oaks security plan, for instance.

Among signs that some of the Allies are approaching a greater degree of agreement, at least bilaterally, was Churchill's announcement to Parliament today that Britain was switching toward Russian views on Polish boundary and population problems.

It followed a greater measure of accord achieved by Britain and the United States over Italian politics.

Furthermore, Secretary of State Stettinius promised a statement soon of America's views toward British and Russian steps in Europe. Stettinius may accompany the President to the forthcoming conference.

Unfavorable Reaction

While the decision that the meeting will be held soon after the inauguration helped allay some uneasiness over trends in Europe, Churchill's pronouncement on Poland produced a none too favorable reaction in the Senate.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee said it meant another Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting was necessary because America "must be consulted" on European boundaries.

To Senator Taft (R-Ohio) the prime minister's declaration "looks like the end of the Atlantic charter and a return to power politics." Echoing Taft on power politics was Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of the military committee.

Reynolds added that it was disheartening to find Churchill "acquiescing in the dismemberment of territories and the enslavement of a people for whom he advised going to war."

Senator Austin (R-Vt), member of the foreign relations committee, suggested boundary settlements should wait on the creation of a world peace organization.

Another committee member, Senator Pepper (D-Fla) put it in slightly different form—that issues which often breed war should be settled not by two nations but by the United Nations, "with a decent respect for the opinion of mankind in general."

Signs Legislature

President Roosevelt signed legislation authorizing "admirals of the fleet" and "generals of the army," and quickly sent the names to the Senate.

They are:

For the new Nevy rank—Admiral William D. Leahy, the President's personal chief of staff; Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet and chief of naval operations; and Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet and of the Pacific ocean areas.

For the new Army rank—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff; General Douglas MacArthur, commander in the southwest Pacific; General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in western Europe; and General H. H. Arnold, commander of the Army Air Forces.

Alct Swiftly

The Senate acted as swiftly as the White House, approving the nominations unanimously without even referring them to committee, despite scattered questions on the wisdom of the move.

Senator Russell (G-G.) told the Senate he thought it "perfectly absurd" to create a "super rank to compete with that of Field Marshal" and other high-sounding titles of top-ranking Allied officers.

"There's no use getting into a contest," he said. "Some one might create the rank of super-duper field marshal."

Senator Clark (D-Mo) seconded him.

Military Pranks

"This business of creating military ranks may ultimately become the subject of international treaties to permit nations to go so high and then stop," commented Senator Chandler (D-Ky).

All three joined in the confirmations, however, asserting their views on the need for higher ranks were not intended to reflect on the "character, courage or ability" of any of the seven.

The legislation authorized advancement of four in each service to the new ranks and Mr. Roosevelt surprised by nominating only three admirals of the fleet. Beforehand speculation had been that the title would go to the three who were named and also to Admiral William F. Halsey who has led the forces carrying out the Pacific war plans laid by King, Leahy and Nimitz.

Navy Chief of Chaplains

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Legislation creating a Navy chief of chaplains was passed by the House today and sent to the President. "This will bring religious aid and comfort to our boys and girls in the Navy," Representative Charles A. Plumley, Republican, of Vermont, said.

The new officer would hold the rank of rear admiral and his office would exist only during the present war. His duties would include general supervision of all naval chaplains and religious matters pertaining to the Navy. At present the Navy usually designates some officer to handle such work, but he has only "a courtesy title" and his responsibilities are not specific.

8 ACES STILL ARE ON ACTIVE DUTY

One Is Dead, One a Prisoner and Three Missing.

Washington, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Eight of the nineteen top-scoring aces of the American airforces are still on active duty today, with continuing opportunity to increase their totals.

Six others are in the United States on leave, serving as instructors, or recuperating from illness; one is a prisoner of war; one is dead and three are listed as missing in action.

Leading the list on the basis of number of planes shot down is Major Richard Ira Bong of Poplar, Wis., who this week received the Congressinal Medal of Honor for his exploits which include shooting down thirty-eight enemy planes. He still is on duty with the Fifth Air Force in the Pacific.

In second place is Commander David S. McCampbell, West Palm Beach, Fla., who has destroyed thirty-four Japanese planes in the air, including nine he bagged in a single fight. He now is on leave after a tour of duty as commander f Air Group 15 aboard the Carrier Essex.

Others still on the fighting fronts in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps records show, are:

MAJOR THOMAS B. McGUIRE JR., whose father lives at 51 Chestnut street, Ridgewood, N. J., and whose wife lives in San Antonio, Tex., who has been credited unofficially with thirty victories and officially with twenty-four. He is with the Fifth Air Force in the Pacific.

MAJOR GEORGE E. PREDDY of Greensboro, N. C., twenty-four victories, with the Eighth Air Forces.

LIEUT. CECIL HARRIS of Cresbard, S. D., who destroyed twenty-four Jap planes while flying with Navy fighters, on duty in the Pacific.

MAJOR FRED J. CHRISTENSEN JR., of Watertown, Mass., twenty-two victories, with Eighth Air Force in England.

MAJOR JAY T. ROBBINS of Coolidge, Tex., twenty-one victories, with Fifth Air Force in Pacific.

CAPT. JOHN J. VOLL of Goshen, Ohio, ttwenty-one victories, with Fifteenth Air Force in the Mediterranean.

The ranking ace of the Marines, Major Gregory Boyington of Okanagan, Wash., is listed as missing in action. He was shot down on January 3, 1944, on the same flight in which he destroyed his twenty-sixth Japanese plane.

Others missing in action are:

COL. NEEL E. KEARBY of Dallas, Tex., missing since March 5, credited with twenty-two victories while with the Fifth Air Force in the Pacific.

COL. JENN E. DUNCAN of Houston, Tex., credited with twenty-one and one-half planes before he was listed as missing while with the Eighth Air Force in England.

Among other top-scoring aces, with their total victories, are:

LIEUT.-CO. FRANCIS S. GRABESKI of Oil City, Pa., twenty-eight victories with the Eighth Air Force before he was reported a prisoner of war on July 20, 1944.

MAJOR ROBERT S. JOHNSON of Lawton, Okla., twenty-seven victories with Eighth Air Force before returning to United States for training duty.

MAJOR JOE FOSS, Marines, of Sioux Falls, S. D., twenty-six Japanese victories, now in hospital at Klement Falls, Ore., suffering from malaria.

FIRST LIEUT. ROBERT HANSON, Marines, of Newtonville, Mass., killed over Rabaul after shooting down twenty-five Jap planes.

CAPT. DON S. GENTILE, of Piqua, Ohio, twenty-three victories with Eighth Air Force before returning for assignment to experimental work at Wright Field.

CAPT. KENNETH A. WALSH, Marines, of Washington, D. C., twenty Jap victories, now an instructor at Jacksonville, Fla.

CAPT. DONALD ALDRICH, Marines, of Chicago twenty Jap victories, now instructing Marine Corsair pilots.

MAJOR WALKER M. MAHURIN, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., twenty victories with Eighth Air Force before assignment to duty in the United States.

DEMANDS ACTION TO SAVE THE JEWS

FEB 16 1944

Washington, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Senator Gillette (D.-Iowa) called today for drastic action to halt what he said was an unabated German campaign of mass murder against Jews in Axis-occupied Europe.

Urging that the United Nations issue a joint declaration proclaiming that crimes against Hebrews in Europe be considered war crimes and punishable as such, Mr. Gillette declared in a prepared Senate address:

"There are still approximately 1,500,000 Hebrews in slave labor battalions, in concentration camps and in other areas in German-occupied territories. Unless some new and drastic measures be undertaken by our Government and the other governments of the United Nations, even these survivors will be slaughtered by the Germans."

He said the United Nations War Crimes Commission in London does not consider the murder of Jewish people a war crime since the Hebrews are not recognized as one of the United Nations.

"We must let Germany and the world know that we consider these atrocious murders war crimes," he said.

G. I.'S ALIEN CHILDREN

Washington, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Commenting in the House on his bill to amend the nationality act of 1940 so that children born of American service men under 21 now overseas would be United States citizens, Representative Dickstein (D.-N. Y.) said:

"I am told that in Australia there are at least 11,000 to 14,000 American men under 21 years of age who have married and have children. These children, under present law, will have to be considered aliens."

Objecting on the grounds that the amendment would "liberalize the immigration laws," Representative Sumner (R.-Ill), a woman, said the bill would give foreign women, "that much more incentive to go after these minors who could not get married under the same circumstances in the United States without the consent of their parents."

Notwithstanding, the Dickstein amendment was approved by the House and is now in the Senate.

U.S. Won't Release Funds For Finland to Pay Debt

New State Department Policy Is Not Clear to Treasury

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Finland offered to pay today her $235,445 war-debt installment but apparently it will not be accepted.

The Treasury Department, which would have to grant a license before Finland could use part of her frozen funds to pay the installment, said it had asked the State Department for guidance but a Treasury spokesman said:

"We have received a letter from the State Department which appears on the surface to state a new policy but the policy is not clear to us. We will have to study it before we can make any statement."

It was understood the State Department felt the government should accept the payment, even though it had broken off diplomatic relations and officially considers finland "enemy territory."

It was also understood the Treasury is opposed to releasing the frozen assets on the grounds that by so doing it would set up the United States government as a preferred creditor of Finland.

The Treasury recently refused to allow Finland to use part of the blocked bonds to pay interest on Finnish government bonds. Treasury officials were reported to feel that releasing the funds to pay the United States would be inconsistent with the previous decision.

Nelson Back in Washington

Is Silent on China Trip Pending Report to Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson has returned to Washington from a second mission to China.

The White House said today he would report to President Roosevelt as soon as possible, but would have nothing to say about his trip before seeing the Chief Executive.

The former War Production Board chairman, who became a personal assistant to the President with the equivalent of Cabinet rank, has been in China attempting to stimulate greater war production there. He flew back by way of Australia.

Fate of State Dept. Nominees Doubtful

Chandler Insists Senate Act on Hurley, Heller First—Sizeable Group Favors Presidential Reconsideration—Filibuster Possible.

DEC 16 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The fate of the State Department's big reorganization remained in doubt tonight as an end-of-the-session jam held up Senate action on six disputed nominations.

Chandler Insists

Senator Chandler (D-Ky) insisted that the Senate act first on the nominations of Robert A. Hurley and Lt. Col. Edward Heller to the surplus property board. The Hurley-Heller nominations held priority on the calendar over those of Joseph C. Grew as undersecretary of state and of five newly appointed assistant secretaries of state.

Chandler's strategy was welcomed by a sizeable Senate group antagonistic toward some if not all of the men nominated by President Roosevelt as assistants to Secretary of State Stettinius.

Chandler in a sharp encounter late today blocked an effort to take up the State Department nominations immediately. He turned a deaf ear to Republican pleas to put off the surplus board nominations until tomorrow.

Earlier, Senator Pepper (D-Fla) told a reporter he and others opposed to the State Department slate would resist any effort to take their names up in advance. He expresed hope the President might "reconsider these nominations."

Into Filibuster

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) wanted to know if Chandler was "proceeding into a filibuster."

Chandler denied any knowledge of a filibuster.

Chandler began an appeal for confirmation of Hurley and Heller after a confusing barrage of parliamentary points of order betrayed the bitterness engendered over the State Department nominations.

Failing to gain recognition for their consideration, Chairman Connally of the foreign relations committee, troubled by many fights within that group, expressed only the hope that the Senate would act on them "with all speed."

"This is a very critical period in our foreign relations," he said. "It is of the highest importance that the secretary of state have his choice of subordinates, who are also the choice of the President."

With Acting Minority Leader White, Senator Austin (R-Vt) and others asking the surplus property nominations go over until tomorrow, Chandler declared:

"I'm going to keep the floor, or else nobody else is going to have it."

Nominees Are

In addition to Grew, former ambassador to Japan, the nominees are W. L. Clayton, former surplus property administrator; Nelson Rockefeller, coordinator of inter-American affairs; Brig. Gen. Julius C. Holmes; James C. Dunn, and Archibald MacLeish, the poet who became librarian of Congress. The confirmation of all has been recommended by the foreign relations committee by margins varying from 15 to 4 for Holmes to a shaky 11 to 10 for MacLeish.

An unusual Saturday session of the Senate was in prospect, and it appeared likely that most—maybe all—of the day would be devoted to the surplus property nominations and the consideration if last-minute conference reports on pending bills. Thus it may be Monday before the Senate can get started on the State Department officials. When that debate will end is anybody's guess.

Opponents of the appointments may turn to their advantage the scantiness of time remaining in the current session, which must be closed out by Jan. 3. Leaders now are hopeful of ending the session by the middle of next week. The invitation to a filibuster was obvious.

4,700 Soldiers Released For War Production

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Army announced today it is furloughing 4,700 soldiers to work in plants producing artillery and mortar ammunition, military tires and cotton duck.

The announcement said that the soldiers are being sent to 180 plants in which manpower shortages have been retarding production. Every effort is being made to get the men into the factories before Christmas.

The War Department said this was a "temporary emergency measure to help meet urgent demands from Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. MacArthur for increased shipments to the battlefronts of critical military supplies." As rapidly as civilian workers come forward to fill jobs, the furloughed soldiers will be returned to military duties, the Army said.

No soldier who has been alerted for overseas duty or who is assigned to the infantry or undergoing aircraft training will be furloughed for industrial work.

Widows' Bill For Veterans of 1918 Is Signed

Pensions Granted Families of Deceased World War Men; $74 a Month Top

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP).—President Roosevelt signed today a bill providing pensions for widows and children of deceased veterans of the World War.

Estimated to cost $37,000,000 in its first year, the pension system provides benefits up to $74 a month for families of men who served in the World War.

The measure extends coverage to the families of virtually all World War veterans, since it provides pensions regardless of the cause of death. Previously, pensions were allowed widows and children only if the veteran died of a disability connected with his war service or if he died of some other cause, but had been disabled in the war.

Widows without children will get $35 a month. A widow with one child will receive $45, and $5 will be paid for each additional child.

A child of a deceased veteran, whose mother is also dead, will get $18. Two orphans will receive $27, three will get $36, and for each additional orphan, $4 is provided.

No childless widow can draw a pension unless her annual income is under $1,000, nor can a widow with children qualify for an income unless her income is less than $2,500.

A veteran must have served at least ninety days for his family to be eligible. And, to discourage women from marrying veterans with the idea of obtaining pensions, the law says that any woman who has married a veteran after the effective date of the act must have been married to him for ten years to receive the pension upon his death.

Air Group Lost 2,400 Planes Against 5,600

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP) — The Italy-based 15th Air Force has lost approximately 2,400 planes in combat and suffered 16,000 casualties while flying 150,000 sorties, the War Department reported today.

Summarizing operations by the force since its activation November 1, 1943, the department said that planes of the 15th had flown more than 150,000,000 miles and dropped 200,000 tons of bombs on 630 industrial and military targets in twelve countries.

The B-17's and B-24's of the 15th destroyed 3,660 enemy planes in combat and more than 2,000 on the ground.

The 12th Tactical Air Force, in fifteen months of flying from Mediterranean bases, dropped 127,371 tons of bombs and destroyed 752 enemy planes in aerial combat. The 12th lost 1,173 planes to anti-aircraft fire and in aerial combat. The announcement did not report the number of enemy planes destroyed on the ground by the Tactical Air Force.

Shipment Stopped Of Civilian Munition

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15—(AP)—Shipments of civilian shotgun shells and rifle ammunition have been halted at the factory, War Production Board sources disclosed tonight.

The freeze was agreed upon informally several days ago by WPB and the manufacturers, to conserve supplies until it can be ascertained how much civilian ammunition, if any, can be made after this month.

The army's small arms ammunition expansion—called for after commanders reported four times as many bullets being spent on the Siegfried line as military men had anticipated—will take up the bulk of output of commercial firearms companies, WPB officials said, as well as government plants.

There was indication, however, that some civilian production will be maintained. Its volume probably will be the minimum necessary for law enforcement agencies and for farmers and ranchers who need ammunition to protect crops and livestock.

Hunters and sportsmen probably will lose their present ammunition rations when controls over retail sales are tightened to match the reduced output, it was stated. Hunters have been eligible since late August for the same quota as farmers.

Draft of More Men Ages 26-37 Ordered

Selective Service Rules That Registrants Whose Job Shifts Not in Best Interests of War Effort Be Put in 1-A.

DEC 16 1944

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP) — Selective Service announcing a "much larger" proportion of older men will be inducted after February 1, tonight sent out instructions implementing the government's "produce or fight" edict.

For Induction

It ordered that registrants in the 26 through 37 age bracket whose job shifts are not in the best interests of the war effort should be put in 1-A and placed near the top of the list for induction.

Draft boards were directed that when these registrants are put in 1-A after leaving essential jobs they should be made available for service "in the same manner as registrants who leave agriculture x x x"

This would make them available immediately after volunteers and "delinquents"—those who violate draft regulations.

In leaving to local boards determination as to which changes will aid in prosecution of the war, the agency made it clear that in some cases a switch may be approved even though consent of the board was not obtained prior to a move.

It also ruled that men who changed jobs before Dec. 12 are excluded from the new provision for clearance through local boards.

Boards Instructed

The memorandum instructed boards to "give greater determent consideration to registrants 26 through 37 who are engaged in war production or in support of the war effort, than those engaged in activities not supporting immediate prosecution of the war."

Implementing a directive of the Office of War Mobilization and reconversion, the revised regulations provide that registrants who are now in war industries "must stay on or run the risk of losing their occupational deferment classification."

The memorandum said registrants of lesser skills in war plants "may be found more important to the war effort than those of greater skills in other activities not in direct support of the war effort."

While the primary aim of OWMR Director James F. Byrnes' directive of last week-end is to curb labor turnover in critical war programs, selective service pointed up the need for replacements for the armed services.

"Estimates of available men indicate that the armed forces' calls after Feb. 1 cannot be filled substantially from men aged 18 through 25. The larger number of American divisions now actually engaged in combat, the continuing pressure against the enemy has increased the requirements for physically fit soldiers and sailors.

$848,620,000 Surplus Goods Held By U.S.

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Federal agencies as of November 30 had declared surplus $848,620,000 worth of capital and producers' goods, including aircraft, Jesse Jones, Secretary of Commerce, reported today.

He said the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, disposal agency for such equipment, has sold $112,975,000 worth of the surplus goods, receiving $84,391,000 for it.

Of the total declared surplus, property costing $635,855,000 came from other Federal agencies—including $520,686,653 of aircraft and aircraft equipment—and $212,765,000 represented property owned by the RFC itself.

Maritime Board Accused in Deal With N. J. Yard

Contract Favoritism Charged by House Committee in East Coast Company Case

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP).—The Maritime Commission was accused today by a Congressional committee of favoritism in its dealings with the East Coast Shipyards, Inc., at Bayonne, N. J.

The House Merchant Marine Committee made the accusation in a report on an investigation of East Coast's operation of a Bayonne yard after taking it over from the Marine Maintenance Corporation by the comimssion's order.

"Provisions in the contract (with the commission) providing for the payment of fees and costs favored East Coast as compared to the situation common to other yards," the report said.

It also recommended that the commission "proceed immediately an adjustment of the rights of the Marine Maintenance Corporation subject to a satisfactory reimbursement to the Maritime Commission for the increased facilities placed in the yard."

The committee said that through one contract arrangement between the commission and the firm regarding operation of a Bayonne shipyard "the government has been paying East Coast a profit on material which the government purchases and owns, and which was transferred to East Coast solely by a bookkeeping entry . . . thus, in effect, presenting East Coast with hundreds of thousands of dollars of additional working capital."

East Coast took over the yard in February, 1943, when the commission ordered its work transferred from the Marine Maintenance Corporation.

The committee said that commission action "was justified on the basis of the facts as they appeared at that time, but the method of substituting a new control with the equity interest vested in a single individual is subject to serious questioning."

"Certain inadequacies in the financial structure and working capital of East Coast were evident from the time it took over. . . . On various occasions East Coast failed to take cash discounts, although the contracts provided for taking them," the committee said. "There is also evidence that East Coast was permitted to take over the job with a smaller capital than other applicants were told would be necessary. . . . The contract was granted to East Coast although it had but $600 in equity, $50,000 in debentures and but $200,000 in bank credit.

"In most cases, 50 per cent of the fee is paid on launching and the remainder on completion of the vessel, but the contract with East Coast provided that the payment was to be made in ten semi-monthly installments."

Pay Increase Urged To Stop Labor Shortage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—Higher pay for workers in some industries and a stepped-up recruiting program were proposed today as methods of wiping out the manpower shortage in war plants.

The higher pay suggestion came from Chairman Mead (D-N.Y.) and Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) during a Senate war investigating committee hearing at which the War Manpower Commission's recruiting plan was outlined by WMC Deputy Chairman Charles M. Hay.

Cornerstone of the WMC plan is increased pressure to channel workers to war plants from less essential industry.

Ferguson and Mead both expressed belief that the greatest shortage of manpower is in the ranks of workers performing heavy labor on unskilled tasks in "unattractive industries," such as foundries, steel mills and cehmical works.

These jobs, they declared, could and should be made "more attractive" through pay boosts, along with improved housing facilities.

Expressing impatience that the manpower problem had not been solved long ago, Ferguson blamed the failure on "propaganda" used to persuade workers into war industries.

Chandler Asks Approval For Hurley, Heller

Senate G.O.P. Prepares to Fight Disposal Board Nominees.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Senator Chandler (D-Ky) asked the Senate today not to reject the nomination of Robert A. Hurley for chairman of the Surplus Property Board "just because he was defeated for governor."

Chandler defended President Roosevelt's appointment of Hurley and Lieut. Col. Edward H. Heller, army finance officer, to the three-member board. Republicans made ready to fight them at tomorrow's unusual Saturday session.

Hurley, a former Democratic governor of Connecticut, made an unsuccessful race for that office in the November 7 election.

Austin Opposes

Senator Austin (R-Vt) served notice he will take the floor at the 11 a. m. session, an hour earlier than the regular convening time, in opposition to confirmation.

Chandler asserted there was nothing in the record of Senate military hearings to justify a disqualification of Hurley, former vice president of the Narragansett Machine Co., of Pawtucket, R. I., subject of a House Military Committee investigation several months ago.

The Kentuckian devoted most of his speech to praise of Col. Heller, a wealthy resident of San Francisco, now assigned to the army fiscal office at Boston.

Referring to a $2,000,000 loan made to the Narragansett Co., under a War Department guarantee, Chandler said the action was urged by the Boston ordnance district, and that Heller's part in recommending it was "justified" by the emergency.

Hurley has testified he had nothing to do with the concern's financing.

Senators Vote Rise to Selves For Clerk Hire

Approve $4,020 to $5,040 More Yearly; House Voted Itself a $3,000 Increase

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Senators today voted themselves an additional $4,020 to $5,040 yearly for clerk hire in passing a $564,000,000 supplemental appropriation bill.

The measure, carrying $165,000,000 more than the House previously approved, was sent back to that body for consideration of the amendment, which was immediately accepted.

The House recently voted in another bill to allow its own members an additional $3,000 each for clerk hire.

The increase for members of both houses would become effective Jan. 1.

Under the Senate's action, Senators from states having a population of 4,000,000 or more would have an additional $5,040 allowance, those from smaller states $4,020.

No basic objection was voiced, although some Senators from smaller states objected to the larger increase for Senators from more populous states.

The Senate appropriated $30,000,000 to the Agriculture Department for obtaining foreign farm laborers. The House had allowed only the $8,000,000 balance from a previous appropriation and authorized contract commitments for a additional $10,000,000.

A major part of the money in the bill is for the Navy, with the Bureau of Yards and Docks getting $250,000,000. The biggest addition made by the Senate was $100,000,000 for the Smaller War Plants Corporation.

Other Senate additions included $10,000,000 for war housing, $7,500,000 for community facilities to be administered by the Federal Works Agency, $13,000,000 to the Agriculture Department for conservation work and $2,000,000 for the Colorado-Big Thompson reclamation project in Colorado, including the Alva B. Adams Tunnel.

A possibility arose today that the House and Senate would be unable to agree on a half-billion-dollar post-war rivers and harbors bill. The bill got involved in parliamentary procedure when the Senate refused to approve a compromise version drawn up by a conference committee and sent it back to conference. The House refused to name a new conference committee to reconsider the bill and sent it back to the Senate.

The Byrd economy committee reported today that Federal appropriations or authorizations totaling $87,509,000,000 remained unobligated as of last Oct. 1.

Including obligated funds, the committee said $151,233,000,000 were available for expenditure on that date.

The committee pointed out that the $87,509,000,000 figure does not include deficiency and supplemental appropriations which will be made during the rest of the current fiscal year. Those appropriations, the report predicted, will increase the unobligated balance "considerably."

The War Department had $49,318,000,000 available during the year ending June 30, 1945, of which $8,266,000,000 had been obligated through September. Comparable figures for the Navy were $32,043,000,000 and $5,340,000,000.

The committee recommended that the Bureau of the Budget be required to submit a report to Congress "showing the condition of the balances of appropriations and contract authorizations at any time prior to, but not later than six months after, the conclusion of the European and Japanese wars and that Congress consider unexpended balances then current and provide legislation to lapse or cancel out all unnecessary balances."

Noble Denies Pressure In Purchase of WMCA

Says Corcoran Was Not Asked to Head Off Investigation

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP).—Edward G. Noble, former Under Secretary of Commerce, characterized as "ridiculous" today allegations that he employed "pressure" in purchasing radio station WMCA in New York.

At the same time, Mr. Noble, who acquired the station in 1940 for $850,000 from Donald Flamm, denied he had called Thomas G. Corcoran, early New Deal braintruster, to use his influence in heading off a Congressional investigation of the station's sale.

Mr. Flamm has charged he was coerced into the sale.

Mr. Noble made his remarks to reporters after emerging from a closed House subcommittee hearing investigating the Federal Communications Commission.

His only contact with Mr. Corcoran at the time he bought the station, Mr. Noble told reporters, was prior to the purchase when he questioned him regarding the qualifications of William Dempsey, an attorney he subsequently hired to represent him in the WMCA negotiations.

"I haven't done a thing that couldn't be shouted from the housetops," Mr. Noble told reporters.

Hancock Named Head Of Commodity Credit

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—Marvin Jones, War Food Administrator, announced today the designation of Frank Hancock, former North Carolina Representative, as president of the multibillion-dollar Commodity Credit Corporation.

Hancock, a native of Oxford, N.C., succeeds J. B. Hutson, who last week was named assistant to War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes to plan agriculture's reconversion to peacetime conditions.

Selection of Hutson, a career man in the Agriculture Department, to help formulate future Administration farm policies, has led to speculation that he may later be named Secretary of Agriculture.

S.A.L. HEARINGS START MONDAY

Mediation Board To Take Up Labor Dispute

Washington, Dec 15 (AP) — A three-man board named by President Roosevelt to mediate a dispute of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen on the Seaboard Air Line Railway will begin hearings here Monday morning.

The President intervened late last night, after the brotherhood called a strike to begin at noon today on the Seaboard, which operates between New York city and Florida. The White House action automatically put off the strike.

Chairman To Be Picked

Mr. Roosevelt named David J. Lewis, former Congressman from Maryland; Huston Thompson, Washington attorney, and Maj. Gen. William H. Tschappat (retired), of Virginia, to the board.

Thompson said no plans for a meeting of the emergency board had yet been made, but that the three probably would get together and pick a chairman in advance of the Monday hearings.

PUBLIC DEBT $1,800 PERSON

Byrd Group Reports 87 Billion Of Unobligated Funds

Washington, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Byrd Economy Committee called today for a balanced postwar budget and a peacetime taxing program favoring the maintenance of "high levels" in business activity and employment.

Noting that the public debt on November 29, 1944, totaled $214,077,915,000, the committee termed this a "tremendous sum" requiring annual interest charges of nearly $5,000,000,000.

Per Capita Debt Is Heavy

"The measure of the public debt," the committee said, "may be more fully realized in the fact that it will mean a per capita debt equivalent to $1,800 for every man, woman and child in the United States."

Translating this in terms of working people, the committee said it would mean a per capita debt "equivalent to approximately $4,200 for each employable person."

Unobligated Funds High

The committee's views on the postwar budget were embodied in a report recommending Congressional action shortly after the war to wipe out "unnecessary" unobligated balances on Federal appropriations or contract authorizations.

Unobligated funds on October 1, the committee said, amounted to $87,509,000,000 exclusive of anticipated deficiency and supplemental appropriations which will boost the unobligated balance "considerably." Approximately $151,000,000,000, including obligated funds, was available for expenditure on that date, the committee reported.

illegal and uneconomic, at hearings yesterday and today. It was advised by the board to meet the terms of WLB directives before the deadline, or, in effect, to take the consequences.

This means sending the whole file of cases in which the firm has been found to be in non-compliance within the last two years to economic stabilizer Fred M. Vinson—the first step toward presidential intervention.

The Justice department was directed by the President to take over Wards big Chicago plant last Spring to end a strike there. The civilian agency was backed up by the army in the seizure, climaxed by the removal of Sewell L. Avery, chairman of the board, from his offices by two soldiers.

This time the Chicago properties affected are the printing department and display factory.

Staring at the vacant chairs for company attorneys in the crowded hearing room, Samuel Wolchok, president of the CIO Retail Employes Union, assailed Avery today as "bending over backwards" to hurt labor.

Wolchok said the board, by acting swiftly, could avert the spread of the Detroit strike to Denver and Jamaica, where he said his union represents the workers. He spoke also for the Chicago plants. Yesterday he told a news conference

Ward Stores Threatened With Government Seizure

By Harold W. Ward
Associated Press Labor Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 — Pre-Christmas seizure of Montgomery Ward properties in seven cities was threatened today.

The War Labor Board reaffirmed all its orders against the company and demanded compliance by Monday night.

Plants Included

The stores and plants include four retail outlets in Detroit, where the CIO-Retail Employes Union has been on strike for a week and pickets have attempted to discourage holiday shoppers. Others are located in Chicago, Denver, St. Paul, Portland, Ore., San Rafael, Calif., and Jamaica, N. Y.

The big mail order firm which has refused to comply with WLB orders on the ground that they are his union with a "large majority" of the 60,000 to 65,000 Ward employes, was "ready for an economic showdown with the company."

There are approximately 500 stores, mail order units and plants.

Harry Bridges' International Longshoremen and Warehousemen, rival CIO union in the Ward properties, drew some fire from the chunky retail union chief, after Douglas Hall, attorney for the

30.24 — 21277

ILWU, who said that group would continue to obesrve the no-strike pledge at the St. Paul plant "regardless of the provocations of the company."

Some People

Said Wolchok: "Some people want to ride on somebody else's back."

But, he said, his union was reluctant to strike, and he said the labor groups representing Ward workers in the seven cities were unanimous in wanting the board to force the company to comply.

The AFL teamsters, through Frank Tobin, represented the Portland, Ore., employes, and the AFL retail clerks represented those at San Rafael.

The board ordered the company to enforce maintenance of union membership at all seven places, and established minimum wages and other conditions at some.

Flying Axis Planes Excite U.S. Air Spotters

Wright Field, Ohio, Dec. 15 (AP)—Two captured enemy aircraft flew across the western United States today—and spotters along the route lifted their brows and began notifying the military authorities promptly.

The Air Technical Service Command announced it had received reports after the planes, accompanied by an American plane, sped southwest from Kansas City this morning en route to an Army Air Force show at Los Angeles.

The enemy ships are a German JU88 and a Japanese Zeke, both shot down in combat theaters.

CASUALTIES SET AT 40 MILLIONS

Historian Says War Losses Top Those for 8 Centuries.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Dr. Lee Owens, head of the Oklahoma City University history department, predicts that nine European countries will suffer more casualties in this war than they have in a combination of all other wars fought during the past 825 years.

Dr. Owens has just completed a study of war casualties of England, France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Austria, Lithuania, Denmark and Spain for the period between 1101 and 1925.

His figures show that during that period the total army strength of these countries was 171,607,600 men and there were 35,416,485 casualties. This does not include those who died from epidemics or other causes indirectly associated with war. He estimates the casualties of the nine countries at 40,000,000 in this war.

Russia Not Included.

Dr. Owens did not include Russia, he says, because he considers it an Asiatic nation which was not engaged in any major wars until comparatively late in its history.

Dr. Owens said that during the twelfth century less than 3 per cent of the men engaged were casualties while for the first twenty-five years of this century casualties numbered over 35 per cent.

"A reason for the higher number of casualties now is that war has grown incessant. There is hardly a minute when fighting is not going on some place. Before 1900 most wars were fought on-and-off."

Lists Losses by Centuries.

There were 60,425,000 men in the armed forces and 22,035,150 casualties for the quarter century, while the total for the eight centuries was a fighting force of 112,182,600 with 13,381,335 casualties.

Dr. Owens's figures:

Year.	Army Strength.	War Casualties.
1101-1200	1, 161,000	29,940
1201-1300	2,372,000	68,440
1301-1400	3,947,000	149,929

LEGIONNAIRE PROTESTS

San Francisco, Dec. 15 (A. P.).—Erasure of the names of sixteen Hood River, Ore., Japanese-American soldiers from the county honor roll today drew the fire of Robert D. Cozzens, assistant director of the War Relocation Authority, who placed blame on the Hood River Post of the American Legion.

Mr. Cozzens announced that he had written a protest to Commander Jess Edington of the Legion post, speaking "as a member of the American Legion and as a veteran of World War I."

"I know that your disgraceful act cannot be condoned by a vast majority of American Legionnaires," the letter said, "nor by the Lost Battalion rescued in this war by Nisei. . . . You have betrayed the Legion by a deliberate insult to our Army, its uniform and the brave men who wear it. . . . You desecrate the grave of the unknown soldier."

THERE WAS NO VOTE OF CONFIDENCE INVOLVED IN THIS CASE, AND NONE SOUGHT BY CHURCHILL, FOR THIS TIME THE CRITICISM CAME FROM HIS OWN SUPPORTERS AMONG THE CONSERVATIVES. IN SHARP CONTRAST TO JUST A WEEK AGO WHEN HE DEFENDED HIS POLICY OF INTERVENTION IN ITALY, GREECE AND BELGIUM, IT WAS FROM THE LABORITES OF LEFT-WING LEANINGS THAT HE FOUND HIS SUPPORT TODAY.

CONSERVATIVE HENRY RAIKES PROTESTED: "THE ATLANTIC CHARTER HAS BECOME A GHOST, AND THAT GHOST WAS LAID TODAY."

LONDON, DEC. 15-(AP)-POLISH QUARTERS INTERPRETED PRIME MINISTER CHURCHILL'S SPEECH TODAY AS A STRONG BRITISH ATTEMPT TO BRING FORMER PREMIER STANISLAW NIKOLAJCZYK BACK INTO POLAND'S STRIFE-TORN EXILED GOVERNMENT.

IF THIS FAILS, POLISH QUARTERS WERE OF THE OPINION THAT THE BRITISH WOULD RECOGNIZE THE SOVIET-SPONSORED LUBLIN COMMITTEE AS THE PROVISIONAL REGIME OF POLAND. THERE WAS NO OFFICIAL POLISH COMMENT ON CHURCHILL'S BLUNT CRITICISM OF THE EXILED GOVERNMENT'S INABILITY TO REACH ANY SORT OF AGREEMENT WITH RUSSIA AND THE LUBLIN COMMITTEE, BUT THE EFFECT OF HIS WORDS SPREAD GLOOM OVER SOCIALIST PREMIER ARCISZEWSKI'S FLOUNDERING REGIME.

SOME DIPLOMATIC QUARTER BELIEVED GEN.DEGAULLE'S FRENCH PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT WAS LIKELY TO FOLLOW UP CHURCHILL'S SPEECH BY RECOGNIZING THE LUBLIN COMMITTEE. THERE WERE REPORTS THAT THE FRENCH LEADER HAD COMMITTED HIMSELF TO SUCH A COURSE DURING HIS RECENT TALKS WITH MARSHAL STALIN.

INSTEAD, THEY BELIEVED THERE WOULD BE A LULL DURING WHICH RUSSIA WOULD TRY TO STRENGTHEN THE LUBLIN COMMITTEE IN AN ATTEMPT TO BRING FULL RECOGNITION FROM ALL THE UNITED NATIONS.

POLISH QUARTERS ADMITTED POLAND "WOULD BE HAPPY TO GET" EAST PRUSSIA AND UPPER SILESIA, BUT DECLARED "WE DON'T LIKE TO MAKE AN EXCHANGE OF LVOV FOR GERMAN TERRITORY."

SHOULD BRITAIN, THE UNITED STATES, RUSSIA AND FRANCE AGREE AS A BODY TO RECOGNIZE THE LUBLIN POLES AS THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT, ONE OF THE BIG PROBLEMS WOULD CONCERN THE LARGE POLISH ARMY WHICH IS UNDER THE LONDON POLISH REGIME. BEYOND THAT, HE AGREED BY IMPLICATION TO RUSSIA'S ANNEXATION OF A LARGE SLICE OF EAST PRUSSIA LYING BETWEEN KONIGSBERG AND SOVIETIZED LITHUANIA, AND INCLUDING A PRIZE ALL-YEAR SEAPORT, MEMEL.

CHURCHILL CONFINED HIS ANALYSIS TO STATING WHAT POLAND WOULD GET AT GERMANY'S EXPENSE AS COMPENSATION FOR THE LOSS OF LANDS EAST OF THE CURZON LINE. WHICH THOUSANDS OF GERMANS FLOCKED EVERY YEAR. HITLER TRIUMPHANTLY ENTERED MEMEL FROM THE SEASIDE MARCH 23, 1939, AFTER BROW-BEATING LITHUANIA INTO CEDING MEMELLAND. THE SECTION ALSO INCLUDES AS THE PRINCIPAL INLAND CITY OF THIS SECTION, HISTORIC TILSIT WITH 50,000 POPULATION.

THIS SECTION IS, HOWEVER, NOT NEARLY AS VALUABLE AS THE PORTIONS OF EAST PRUSSIA OFFERED TO POLAND, ESPECIALLY NOT THE COASTAL AREA BETWEEN THE TWO OUTSTANDING PORTS OF DANZIG AND KONIGSBERG. CONSIDERING THAT POLAND ALREADY HAS THE ULTRA MODERN HARBOR OF GDYNIA, CHURCHILL'S REARRANGEMENT OF THE EUROPEAN MAP WOULD MAKE POLAND A FORMIDABLE BALTIC SEA POWER.

THE BRITISH PRIME MINISTER BY IMPLICATION THREW THE ATLANTIC CHARTER INTO THE SCRAP HEAP THEREBY, IT MAY BE ASSUMED, PLEASING STALIN, WHO NEVER WAS A DECLARED PARTY TO THAT CHARTER.

BY LOUIS P.LOCHNER

AMS

LONDON, DEC.15-(AP)-JOSEPH STALIN SHOULD BE THE MOST PLEASED MAN IN EUROPE TODAY.

WINSTON CHURCHILL FREED HIM FROM ANY MORAL OBLIGATION TO ADHERE TO THE ATLANTIC CHARTER, OFFERED THE NORTHERN TIP OF GERMAN EAST PRUSSIA TO THE SOVIETS, PROPOSED "COMPENSATIONS" TO POLAND WHICH WOULD ENABLE RUSSIA TO GARNER A SIZABLE SLICE OF POLISH TERRITORY, AND SENT HITLER'S CHICKENS HOME TO ROOST IN THE SENSE OF MOVING VAST POPULATIONS IN GIGANTIC "VOELKERWANDERRUNGS."

CHURCHILL TECHNICALLY REMAINED WITHIN THE PROVISIONS OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER IN THAT HE SOUGHT "NO AGGRANDIZEMENT, TERRITORIAL OR OTHERWISE," FOR GREAT BRITAIN, BUT HE DISCLOSED NO INHIBITIONS ABOUT APPROVING TERRITORIAL DESIRES ON THE PART OF HIS ALLIES.

FOR POLAND, ACCEPTANCE OF CHURCHILL'S PROPOSAL WOULD MEAN ESTABLISHING HERSELF FORMIDABLY AS A BALTIC SEA POWER, FOR IN ADDITION TO HER EXCELLENT PORT OF GYDNIA SHE WOULD GAIN PILLAU AND DANZIG.

FOR RUSSIA IT WOULD MEAN GAINS OF BOTH POLISH AND GERMAN TERRITORY, AND AN INCREASE OF HER PORTS ON THE BALTIC BY ONE OF THE BEST IN NORTHEASTERN EUROPE--THAT OF MEMEL.

MARALLY

NOTHING AT LEAST THE SCORE STOOD: ROOSEVELT AND CHURCHILL SPONSORS OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER; STALIN NEVER PERSONALLY COMMITTED TO ITS PROVISIONS BUT ALSO NOWHERE ON RECORD AS DISAVOWING IT. ON THE CONTRARY, THE IMPRESSION WAS DEFINITELY LAUNCHED AFTER THE TEHRAN CONFERENCE THAT, SINCE THERE WAS FULL AGREEMENT BETWEEN THE BIG THREE, THIS MUST ALSO APPLY TO THE FUNDAMENTALS FOR THE ATTAINMENT OF WHICH THE WESTERN POWERS WERE FIGHTING.

CHURCHILL TODAY MADE SHORT SHRIFT OF ARTICLE TWO OF THE ATLANTIC CHARTER, WHICH READS, "THEY DESIRE TO SEE NO TERRITORIAL CHANGES THAT DO NOT ACCORD WITH THE FREELY EXPRESSED WISHES OF THE PEOPLES CONCERNED."

(CHURCHILL TOLD THE HOUSE OF COMMONS LAST MAY 24 THAT THE ATLANTIC CHARTER "IN NO WAY BINDS US ABOUT THE FUTURE OF GERMANY. IT HAS NO QUALITIES OF A BARGAIN OR CONTRACT WITH OUR ENEMIES," AND "THERE IS NO QUESTION OF GERMANY ENJOYING ANY GUARANTEE THAT SHE WILL NOT UNDERGO TERRITORIAL CHANGES IF IT WOULD SEEM THAT THE MAKING OF SUCH CHANGES RENDERS MORE SECURE THE PEACE OF EUROPE.")

THE PRIME MINISTER APPEARED TO BE FULLY AWARE OF THE PROBLEMS CREATED BY SO-CALLED IRREDENTISTS, THAT IS, DISSATISFIED SECTIONS OF ONE NATIONALITY INCORPORATED IN THE TERRITORY OF ANOTHER COUNTRY, ONE CLASSIC EXAMPLE OF WHICH WAS THE SUDETENLAND. HE THEREFORE STIPULATED THAT ALL GERMANS MUST BE CLEARED OUT OF EAST PRUSSIA.

CHURCHILL'S REVELATION OF WAR AIMS IN EASTERN EUROPE WOULD SEEM TO INDICATE THAT HE BELIEVES THE TIME IS PAST WHEN THE EFFECT OF ALLIED UTTERANCES UPON GERMAN FIGHTING MORALE NEED BE CONSIDERED. FOR, THERE CAN BE LITTLE DOUBT IN THE MINDS OF THOSE WHO FOLLOW GERMAN

OME FRONT PROPAGANDA THAT JOSEPH GOEBBELS WILL HAVE A FIELD DAY DENOUNCING THE UNITED NATIONS AS DISCIPLES OF POWER POLITICS.

THE BRITISH PRIME MINISTER EVIDENTLY IS SO CONVINCED OF COMPLETE, SMASHING VICTORY THAT HE IS WILLING TO LET THE GERMAN PROPAGANDISTS GET WHAT COMFORT THEY CAN FROM WHATEVER INTERPRETATION THEY CHOOSE TO PLACE UPON HIS WORDS.

DEC 16 1944

THE BRITISH STATESMAN APPARENTLY SOUGHT ALSO TO "SMOKE OUT" THE WHITE HOUSE AND THE AMERICAN DEPARTMENT OF STATE. IT WILL BE UP TO ROOSEVELT AND STETTINIUS TO INDICATE WHETHER AMERICA APPROVES OF CHURCHILL'S PROPOSED SOLUTION OF THE POLISH QUESTION AND WHETHER THE ATLANTIC CHARTER IS STILL THE BASIS OF THE FIGHT AGAINST NAZISM.

PARIS--THIRD ADD FIRST LEAD WESTERN FRONT X X X OFFENSIVE.

THE THIRD ARMY'S 95TH DIVISION IN THE SAARLAND CLEARED OUT THREE MORE BLOCKS OF FRAULAUTERN AND HAD MORE THAN HALF OF THIS SAARLAUTERN SUBURB UNDER CONTROL AFTER A DOZEN DAYS OF FIGHTING. (KENNEDY)

OTHER ELEMENTS PUSHED AHEAD A FEW MORE BUILDINGS IN NEARBY ENSDORF, LIKEWISE HALF CAPTURED. OTHER TROOPS HOLD ABOUT ONE-FOURTH OF SAARLAUTERN-RODERN, ON THE NORTH SIDE OF THE SAARLAUTERN RIDGE.

THE 90TH DIVISION REPORTED NO CHANGES AT ITS SAAR CROSSING AREA AROUND DILLINGEN. ITS FIRE POWER AND ARMORED STRENGTH WERE INCREASED AGAIN OVERNIGHT.

THE 35TH DIVISION MOPPED UP HABKIRCHEN, ACROSS THE BLIES RIVER FRONTIER, AND FOUGHT GERMANS HOLED UP IN FORTIFIED FARM HOUSES ON THE NORTH. NINE MILES SOUTHEAST OF SARREGUEMINES, OTHER INFANTRY UNITS CLEARED THE VILLAGE OF RIMLING AND ADVANCED ANOTHER HALF MILE EASTWARD.

THE THIRD ARMY'S SLOW CRAWL THROUGH THE FIRST OBSTACLES OF THE SIEGFRIED FORTIFICATIONS DEFINITELY DID NOT MEAN THAT PATTON'S FORCES WERE TEARING THEMSELVES TO PIECES IN INCESSANT BLOODY COMBAT, A FRONT DISPATCH SAID. RATHER IT MEANT THAT IN THE FACE OF THE TRULY FORMIDABLE DEFENSES, MANNED BY FAIR TO POOR GERMAN TROOPS, THE AMERICAN INFANTRY COMMANDERS WERE FEELING THEIR WAY SLOWLY AND CAREFULLY TO SAVE LIVES.

AS STRONGPOINTS ARE LOCATED, THEY ARE WATCHED BY PATROLS WHILE ARTILLERY IS BROUGHT TO BEAR UPON THEM. IF THE SHELLS DO NOT CRACK THE FORTS, AN EFFORT MAY BE MADE TO EFFECT A SURRENDER. NOT INFREQUENTLY, THIS WORKS. IF IT FAILS, DEMOLITION CHARGES ARE SHOVED AGAINST THE WALLS BY INFANTRY CRAWLING UP CLOSE.

ALL THIS TAKES TIME. BUT IS THRIFT OF MANPOWER.

THE SEVENTH'S HEAVY ARTILLERY BEGAN ARCHING SHELLS INTO SIEGFRIED LINE FORTIFICATIONS LATE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON. THE BERLIN RADIO SAID SOME FELL IN THE BIG INDUSTRIAL CITY OF KARLSRUHE, CAPITAL OF BADEN PROVINCE TEN MILES NORTHEAST OF LAUTERBOURG ACROSS THE RHINE.

THE SEVENTH ARMY THUS WAS CHALLENGING THE GERMANS AT A POINT WHERE A BREAK THROUGH THE SIEGFRIED LINE WOULD IMPERIL THE RHINELAND CITIES OF LUDWIGSHAFEN AND MANNHEIM, 35 MILES TO THE NORTH.

GAINS NORTHWARD WERE REGISTERED ALL ALONG THE SEVENTH'S 35-MILE FRONT AND A DOZEN FRENCH TOWNS WERE CAPTURED. THE 79TH DIVISION, SPEARHEADING THE DRIVE TOWARD LAUTERBOURG AND THE ADJACENT FRONTIER VILLAGE OF SCHEIBENHARD, THRUST FORWARD SEVEN MILES FROM DAWN TO DUSK. RESISTANCE WAS COMPARATIVELY LIGHT.

THE 79TH REACHED SALMBACH, WHICH IS A MILE FROM THE FRONTIER THREE MILES WEST OF LAUTERBOURG, AND RIEDSELTZ, WHICH IS TWO MILES SOUTH OF WISSEMBOURG, FRONTIER CITY LOATED ON THE LAUTER RIVER NINE MILES NORTHWEST OF LAUTERBOURG. SEVEN MILES SOUTHWEST OF WISSEMBOURG THE 103RD DIVISION SEIZED THE MAGINOT FORTRESS TOWN OF LEMBACH, TWO MILES FROM THE BORDER.

A DISPATCH FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENT THOBURN WIANT SAID THE GERMANS WITHDREW SO RAPIDLY THAT TOWNS SEIZED YESTERDAY WERE ONLY SLIGHTLY DAMAGED.

AS PATCH'S TROOPS PULLED UP TO THE FRONTIER, THUNDERBOLTS POUNDED THE GERMANS LODGED IN THE HEAVY FORST BEYOND, ESPECIALLY AT BUCHELBERG, LOCATED IN A CLEARING JUST NORTH OF LAUTERBOURG. THE AIRMEN REPORTED NEARLY 100 PILLBOXES AROUND BUCHELBERG.

ON THE SEVENTH'S EXTREME LEFT FLANK, THERE WERE INDICATIONS THE GERMANS MAY HAVE ABANDONED THE OLD MAGINOT FORTRESS CITY OF BITCHE. IT WAS VIRTUALLY ENCIRCLED AS THE AMERICANS LUNGED TO WITHIN THREE MILES OF THE BORDER.

POSSIBLY IN AN ATTEMPT TO RELIEVE THE PRESSURE AGAINST THE KARLSRUHE AREA, THE GERMANS HAVE RUSHED FRESH TROOPS WESTWARD ACROSS THE RHINE IN SOUTH CENTRAL ALSACE. THEY LAUNCHED FUTILE ATTACKS YESTERDAY AGAINST AMERICANS NORTH OF COLMAR AND AGAINST THE FRENCH FIRST ARMY TO THE SOUTH.

YESTERDAY'S ADVANCES GIVE LT. GEN. JACOB L. DEVERS' SIXTH ARMY GROUP A HOLD ON 50 UNBROKEN MILES OF THE WEST BANK OF THE RHINE NORTH AND SOUTH OF STRASBOURG AS WELL AS SOME 12 MILES IN THE SOUTH FROM MULHOUSE TO THE SWISS FRONTIER.

THREE OTHER AMERICAN ARMIES ALREADY FIGHTING ON GERMAN SOIL ALSO MADE OUTSTANDING GAINS YESTERDAY.

ON THE COLOGNE PLAIN, THE U.S. FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES SET UP A SOLID 15-MILE FRONT DIRECTLY ON THE WEST BANK OF THE ROER RIVER FROM THE DUREN AREA NORTHWARD.

FIRST ARMY ARTILLERY WAS DRAWN UP OPPOSITE DUREN. THE 83RD DIVISION SEIZED THE SUBURBAN VILLAGE OF GURZENICH, JUST TO THE WEST. THE RETREATING GERMANS BLEW UP THE LAST THREE BRIDGES OVER THE ROER IN THAT AREA, INCLUDING ONE ON THE COLOGNE SUPERHIGHWAY. THE RIVER AT THAT POINT IS 150 FEET WIDE AND RUNNING BANK FULL.

THE U.S. THIRD ARMY, OPERATING INSIDE AND ALONG THE SAARLAND FRONTIER, MADE A NEW PENETRATION OF THE ENEMY'S HOMELAND SIX MILES EAST OF SARREGUEMINES, CAPTURED STRONGLY-FORTIFIED HABKIRCHEN NEAR WHERE IT MADE ITS FIRST INVASION OF THE SAAR FROM THE SOUTH, AND PUSHED A MILE BEYOND.

INSIDE THE SAAR ABOVE SAARLAUTERN, THE THIRD ARMY'S 90TH DIVISION ROOTED OUT FOUR SMALL FORTS AND TOOK 60 PRISONERS IN THE DILLINGEN AREA. THERE WAS NO WORD OF ANY CHANGES AROUND SAARLAUTERN OR ON THE APPROACHES TO SAARBRUCKEN.

(EDITORS: YOUR ATTENTION IS CALLED TO THOBURN WIANT'S SEVENTH ARMY STORY IN THE NIGHT REPORT)

THEN THERE WAS C-47 PILOT LT.WILLIAM F.BAK.., 308 HOWELL ST., FLORENCE, ALA., WHO WAS SEPARATED FROM THE REST OF HIS CREW FOR A TIME AND FOUND SOME OTHER PARATROOPERS. "BOY, THEY SURE WERE A GRAND BUNCH," HE SAID. (EDITORS' NOTE:-DELETIONS HERE BY CENSOR).

T/4 DEVAN F.JOHNSON, OF MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., SAID: "ONCE WE AMBUSHED SOME GERMANS AND CAPTURED TWO BICYCLES. THEY CAME BACK THOUGH, AND IN A FIGHT WE WOUNDED SEVERAL."

"MANY TIMES WE HAD DETERMINED TO BREAK THROUGH TO OUR OWN LINES," RELATED SGT.W.R.VOUGHT, OF 444 STONER AVE., SHREVEPORT, LA. "THE GERMANS NEVER BOTHERED US BUT OUR OWN LINES CERTAINLY DID. THEY WOULD SEND THROUGH SUCH A BARRAGE OF MORTAR, ARTILLERY AND MACHINEGUN FIRE, WE WOULD HAVE TO RETREAT."

DEC 16 1944

STANLEY A.SULIMA, 6215 SOUTH KOLMAR AVE., CHICAGO, ILL., (NO RANK GIVEN) TOLD HOW THEY CAPTURED FIVE GERMANS, INCLUDING AN AUSTRIAN CAPTAIN. THE GERMANS SAID THEY WERE WANTED FOR ALLEGED COMPLICITY IN THE HITLER DEATH PLOT.

AMONG THE PARATROOPERS WHO WERE LIBERATED WERE: SGT.JACK B.ALM, 21 ELEANOR AVE., YOUNGSTOWN, O.; CORP.GROVER LEE PORTER, TABOR CITY, N.C. THE NINTH DIVISION LIQUIDATED ONE POCKET IN A FACTORY NEAR MARIAWEILER, WEST OF DUREN, AND THE 104TH SQUEEZED THE ENEMY FROM A CASTLE SOUTHWEST OF SCHOPHOVEN, NORTH OF DUREN.

THE 83RD DIVISION AROUND BIRGEL BEAT OFF TWO TANK-SUPPORTED COUNTERBLOWS YESTERDAY, KNOCKING OUT FOUR TANKS.

NINE MILES SOUTH WEST OF DUREN IN THE VOSSENACK SECTOR STRONG ENEMY PATROLS SUCCEEDED IN REGAINING SOME GROUND WITH INFILTRATION TACTICS.

THE FIRST ARMY TOOK 647 PRISONERS THURSDAY, MAKING ITS TOTAL 12,411 SINCE THE OFFENSIVE BEGAN NOV. 16 AND 213,511 SINCE D-DAY.

LT.GEN.GEORGE S.PATTON'S THIRD ARMY WAS GOUGING SLOWLY DEEPER INTO THE SAARLAUTERN AREA, STILL COUNTING GAINS BY YARDS, AND WAS RUNNING INTO NEW DEFENSIVE TACTICS IN ITS INVASION OF THE SAAR FROM THE SOUTH.

THE 35TH DIVISION, AFTER MOPPING UP HABKIRCHEN, THREE MILES NORTHEAST OF SARREGUEMINES, FOUGHT ON INTO WHAT LOOKED LIKE OPEN COUNTRY SOUTH OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE ONLY TO FIND THE GERMANS DEFENDING FARM HOUSES LIKE FORTS.

NINE MILES EAST OF SARREGUEMINES, OTHER INFANTRY UNITS CLEARED RIMLING, AND FANNED OUT NORTH AND EAST. ONE FORCE WENT ON A MILE EAST. ANOTHER ENTERED ERCHING, ONE MILE NORTH AND THREE-FOURTHS OF A MILE FROM THE SAAR BORDER.

THE 95TH DIVISION'S 377TH REGIMENT CLEARED THREE MORE BLOCKS IN FRAULAUTERN, GIVING IT CONTROL OF MORE THAN HALF OF THIS SAARLAUTERN SUBURB AFTER 12 DAYS OF HARD FIGHTING.

OTHER ELEMENTS PUSHED AHEAD A FEW MORE BUILDINGS INSIDE NEARBY ENSDORF, AND NOW HOLD ALMOST HALF OF THIS SIEGFRIED LINE TOWN.

THE 90TH DIVISION REPORTED NO CHANGES IN ITS SAAR CROSSING AREA AROUND DILLINGEN, THREE MILES NORTH OF SAARLAUTERN, BUT MORE TANKS AND GUNS WERE BROUGHT UP OVERNIGHT FOR RENEWED ASSAULTS.

BY WILLIAM F. BONI

LAMMERSDORF, GERMANY, DEC. 15-(AP)-U.S. INFANTRYMEN HAVE FOUGHT OUT OF THE WOODS IN A SALIENT POINTING EAST FROM HERE TOWARD THE SIEGFRIED LINE AND WHILE THEY ARE DOING WELL AND HAVE CLEARED THE GERMANS FROM A NUMBER OF VILLAGES IT'S HARDLY A HAPPY POSITION.

THERE IS A SINGLE ROAD THAT LEADS EAST AND SOUTH FROM HERE, AND IT IS ONE OVER WHICH MUST BE MOVED SUPPLIES FOR TROOPS IN XXX ROLLES-

BROICH, BICKERATH, SIMMERATH AND KESTERNICH.

FOR ALMOST ALL THE WAY, ONCE IT TAKES LEAVE OF THE LAST HOUSE IN LAMMERSDORF, THAT ROAD IS UNDER DIRECT OBSERVATION AND THE ACCURATE FIRE FROM GERMAN GUNS IN AND THIS SIDE OF THE SIEGFRIED LINE.

THUS, ~~XNXRXK~~ UNTIL THE GERMANS WERE DRIVEN BEYOND ROLLESBROICH AND FROM KESTERNICH ALL THE SUPPLIES, AMMUNITION AND FOOD HAD TO BE CARRIED IN BY HAND AND THE WOUNDED BROUGHT OUT THE SAME WAY.

DEC 16 1944

~~XNXX~~ THE CLEARING OF KESTERNICH FINALLY WAS ACCOMPLISHED AFTER INFANTRYMEN WENT OVER IT WITH "A FINE TOOTH COMB" TODAY, ACCORDING TO REPORTS TO MAJOR JOSEPH O. KAISER, 120 SOUTH BOULDIN, BALTIMORE, MD.

BRINGING OUT THE WOUNDED WAS TOUGHER THAN IT SOUNDS. ON ONE STRETCH THEY HAD TO BE TAKEN DOWN A 200-FOOT HILL, WHOSE GRADIENT IN PLACES WAS 70 DEGREES. THE BEARERS SIMPLY HAD TO TAKE THE WOUNDED FROM ~~XNNNX~~ LITTERS AND BRING THEM DOWN THERE ON THEIR BACKS.

WITH THE CLEARING OF ROLLESBROICH AND KESTERNICH THE AMERICANS HAVE GAINED SOME INVALUABLE HIGH GROUND, BECAUSE IN THIS FINGER OF AMERICAN-HELD OPEN COUNTRY PROBING INTO GERMANY THE ENEMY IS ON DOMINATING HEIGHTS AT SEVERAL POINTS.

HIGH GROUND NORTH OF ROLLESBROICH WAS TAKEN WITH A MAXIMUM OF ARTILLERY AND A MINIMUM OF INFANTRY LOSSES.

THE HILL WAS KNOWN TO BE CONSIDERABLY FORTIFIED WITH A NUMBER OF CONCRETE BUNKERS. BUT GUNS OF THE ENTIRE AREA WERE CALLED DOWN ON THE OBJECTIVE, INCLUDING EIGHT-INCHERS, AND AS A RESULT IT TOOK A RELATIVELY SMALL FORCE UNDER LT. IRVIN MAGHRAM (HOME TOWN UNAVAILABLE) TO TAKE THE POSITION.

DEC 16 1944

NOW THE AMERICANS COMMAND A CONSIDERABLE AREA FARTHER NORTH AND EAST INTO WHICH THE GERMANS HAD BEEN RUNNING SELF-PROPELLED GUNS WITH GREAT FREEDOM.

IN ROLLESBROICH THE LAST ENEMY STRONGHOLD WAS ~~XNX~~ A FORTIFIED HOUSE AT A ROAD JUNCTION. IN ASSAULTING IT, SEVEN OF OUR MEN WERE WOUNDED. THE GERMANS CAME OUT UNDER A RED CROSS FLAG AND TOOK THEM INSIDE ALONG WITH AN AMERICAN MEDIC.

A FEW MOMENTS LATER TWO AMERICANS, CONVOYED BY FIVE GERMANS, WERE SEEN MAKING A RUN FOR THE ENEMY LINES. OUR MACHINEGUNS CUT DOWN TWO OF THE GERMANS.

SHORTLY THEREAFTER, THE THREE REMAINING GERMANS AND THE TWO AMERICANS CAME OVER, THE YANKS HAVING PERSUADED THE TRIO THAT THIS WAS THE BEST MOVE. THE GERMANS SAID TEN MEN WERE LEFT INSIDE THE HOUSE AND WERE WILLING TO GIVE UP, BUT THE SINGLE OFFICER REFUSED. WHEN THE STRONGPOINT WAS TAKEN THE GER OFFICER WAS CAPTURED AND THE FIVE OTHER WOUNDED AMERICANS WERE RETRIEVED.

DEC 16 1944

SIMERATH WAS CLEARED YESTERDAY BY TWO PLATOONS OF A COMPANY COMMANDED BY LT. JEFFERSON SHERMAN, LITTLE ROCK, ARK. THE REGIMENTAL COMMANDER CALLED HIM AND TOLD HIM TO ATTACK THE TOWN.

"I'VE ALREADY DONE IT SIR," SHERMAN REPLIED, "AND WE'RE SITTING IN HERE WAITING FOR YOU."

BY TOM YARBROUGH

ON THE ROER RIVER FRONT IN GERMANY, DEC. 15-(AP)-AN UNUSUALLY HIGH PRICE IN AMERICAN BLOOD AND HUMAN MISERY WAS PAID FOR ANCIENT, MOATED MULLENARK CASTLE NEAR SCHOPHOVEN, ONE OF THE LAST TWO KNOTS OF GERMAN RESISTANCE THIS SIDE OF THE ROER NORTHWEST OF DUREN.

A SINGLE COMPANY OF THE 104TH DIVISION ATTACKED THIS MEDIEVAL-STYLE STRONGPOINT BEFORE DAWN WEDNESDAY AND WAS PINNED DOWN, WATER-SOAKED AND ALMOST FREEZING, IN THE MUD OUTSIDE THE MOAT.

THEY HAD TO LIE THERE, STIFFENING SLOWLY IN THE COLD, WHILE MORE THAN 200 GERMANS FIRED AT THEM FROM THE WINDOW SLITS AND THE RAMPARTS.

CAPT.FRANK BOWMAN, 3118 UPTON AVE., NORTH, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., COMPANY COMMANDER, WAS SO HOARSE AND FULL OF COLD HE CROAKED LIKE A CROW AS HE TOLD THE STORY.

HE LAY IN THE MUDDY, WAIST-DEEP WATER UNTIL DARKNESS THURSDAY NIGHT AND THEN GROPED AMONG HIS MEN UNTIL THEY COULD IMPROVE THEIR PRECARIOUS POSITIONS.

"WE ALL REALIZED," BOWMAN SAID, "THAT IF WE GOT PINNED DOWN WE WOULD HAVE TO SUFFER ALL HELL, BUT WE ALSO KNEW THAT WE WERE GOING TO TAKE THAT CASTLE AT ALL COSTS."

THEIR HELL WAS LYING IN THOSE HOLES FOR 24 HOURS AND MORE UNDER CONTINUAL FIRE; THEIR COST WAS HIGH--HIGHER THAN CAN BE TOLD BY A SPECIFIC NUMBER.

WHEN THE SECOND MORNING CAME, MANY WHO WERE NOT EVEN WOUNDED WERE SO STIFF FROM THE COLD THEY COULD NOT MOVE. ONLY ONE PLATOON HAD GOT ACROSS THE MOAT THE FIRST DAY. ON THE WAY ACROSS THE CASTLE YARD, THE PLATOON PASSED A GERMAN MORTAR POSITION AND HERE OCCURRED ONE OF THOSE QUEER QUIRKS OF WAR.

A GERMAN FROM THE POSITION MOTIONED TO THE AMERICANS TO COME OVER. THE PLATOON LEADER SHOOK HIS HEAD AND MOTIONED TO THE GERMAN. THE GERMAN STAYED WHERE HE WAS, AND FOR SOME REASON DID NOT SHOOT.

THREE MEN IN THE COMPANY WHO DISTINGUISHED THEMSELVES WERE LT. GEORGE R.DAY, NORMANDIE VILLAGE, LOUISVILLE, KY., STAFF SGT. THOMAS B.TENBREV, NEW BRIGHTON, PA., AND SGT.DALE HITCHCOCK, HOOKER, OKLA.

IN THE EARLY STAGE OF THE BATTLE, OUR MEN WERE THROWING GRENADES FROM ROOM TO ROOM IN THE DARKNESS OF A SUBORDINATE STRUCTURE OUTSIDE THE MOAT.

MULLENARK CASTLE FINALLY WAS CLEANED OUT THURSDAY AFTERNOON BY THE COMPANY'S REMAINING EFFECTIVES, SUPPORTED BY ARTILLERY AND TANKS. SOME GERMANS HAD PULLED OUT DURING THE NIGHT DESPITE THEIR NUMERICAL SUPERIORITY.

THE CLEANUP OF THE SECOND STRONGPOINT, A TEXTILE FACTORY NEAR MARIAWEILER ABOUT FIVE MILES TO THE SOUTHEAST, WAS A HAPPY CONTRAST TO WHAT HAPPENED AT THE CASTLE.

A NINTH DIVISION COMPANY COMMANDED BY LT.JUDSON GATCH, COLUMBIA, S.C., TOOK THE FACTORY AND 92 PRISONERS IN TWO DAYS AT A COST OF FOUR MEN KILLED AND TWO WOUNDED.

WITH THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY IN GERMANY, DEC. 15-(AP)-SPEARHEADS OF THREE SEVENTH ARMY DIVISIONS HAD CROSSED INTO GERMANY BY 6 P.M. (1 P.M., EASTERN WAR TIME) TODAY.

TWO OF THEM PLUNGED ACROSS THE FRONTIER WEST OF WISSEMBOURG. THE THIRD--THE 79TH DIVISION--ESTABLISHED A BRIDGEHEAD AT SCHEIBENHARD.

DEC 16 1944

THE AMERICANS HAVE NOT YET REACHED THE MAIN SIEGFRIED LINE DEFENSES. IN SOME AREAS THE GERMANS ARE RESISTING FIERCELY FROM BUNKERS AND PILLBOXES IN THE LINE'S OUTER DEFENSES. IN OTHER CASES THE GOING WAS EASIER. SOME UNITS PUSHING ALONG A WOODED RIDGE MET ONLY LIGHT RESISTANCE FROM REARGUARD GERMAN MACHINEGUNS AND MORTARS.

THESE CROSSINGS INTO GERMANY CAME JUST FOUR MONTHS AFTER LT.GEN. ALEXANDER M.PATCH'S SEVENTH ARMY WADED ASHORE IN THE INVASION OF SOUTHERN FRANCE.

DOUGHBOYS REALIZED THEY HAD REACHED THE BORDER WHEN THEY SPOTTED A BOUNDARY SIGN. AMONG THE FIRST ACROSS WAS LT.NORMAN J.YOUNG OF STATEN ISLAND, N.Y., AND THE FIRST TANK TO RUMBLE OVER THE FRONTIER IN THIS SECTOR WAS MANNED BY SGTS.ELMER WEBER, FORT SCOTT, KAS.; EDWARD FARQUHAR, DALLAS, TEX., AND PFC.EDWARD DOWD, RED BANK, N.J.

PVT.SILAS NEWMAN OF KENNETT, MO., WAS AMONG THE FIRST ENLISTED MEN IN THE INFANTRY TO STEP OVER THE BORDER.

WHEN THE AMERICANS CRASHED INTO LAUTERBOURG AND SCHEIBENHARD, THEY FOUND THE BRIDGES AT BOTH POINTS DESTROYED. DEC 16 1944

MAJ.MERRITT (DUTCH) HURSH OF PATERSON, N.J., LED THE AMERICANS AT LAUTERBOURG.

OVER A TELEPHONE FROM A DIVISION COMMAND POST, LT.COL.JOHN A. GLORIOD OF GULFPORT, FLA., SAID:

"I JUST WANT TO REMIND YOU--YOU ARE IN THE LAST TOWN IN WHICH YOU CAN FRATERNIZE WITH CIVILIANS."

BUT THERE WAS NO TIME FOR FRATERNIZATION.

"IF IT WEREN'T FOR THE GEOGRAPHICAL LINE, IT WOULD BE JUST LIKE ADVANCING ANYWHERE ELSE," SAID LT.STUART NOVINS, FORMER CBS ANNOUNCER, OF BOSTON, MASS.

"WE ARE MEETING WHAT AMOUNTS TO 'NO OPPOSITION,'" SAID LT.COL. EVERETT DUVALL OF SPOKANE, WASH.

HERE THE BIG SIEGFRIED GUNS WERE STRANGELY SILENT AFTER SEVERAL DAYS OF NOISY OPPOSITION AS THE AMERICANS DROVE TOWARD THE BORDER.

ALL THREE DIVISIONS KEPT CLOSE TAB ON EACH OTHER IN THE NECK AND NECK RACE TO CROSS THE GERMAN BORDER.

WHEN MAJ.GEN.IRA T.WYCHE OF PINEHURST, N.C., THE 79TH'S COMMANDER, WAS INFORMED THAT THE SCHEIBENHARD BRIDGEHEAD HAD BEEN ESTABLISHED, HE COMMENTED, "THIS IS A GOOD WEDDING ANNIVERSARY PRESENT FOR MY WIFE."

THE TERRAIN AHEAD AT WISSEMBOURG IS HEAVILY FORESTED AND HILLY, WHILE AT SCHEIBENHARD THE YANKS ARE DRIVING INTO THE THICK BIENWALD FOREST.

WITH THE 79TH DIVISION INSIDE GERMANY, DEC.15-(AP)-A BATTALION OF HARD-SLUGGING DOUGHBOYS FOUGHT WITHOUT SLEEP THROUGH THREE NIGHTS, SAVED BRIDGES IN THE PATH OF THE 79TH DIVISION AND MADE POSSIBLE ONE OF TODAY'S THREE PENETRATIONS OF GERMANY.

THE 79TH DIVISION CROSSED INTO GERMANY NEAR SCHEIBENHARD TEN MINUTES AFTER ELEMENTS OF THE 103RD DIVISION CROSSED AT WISSEMBOURG, NINE MILES FARTHER WEST. THE VETERAN 45TH DIVISION PUNCHED OVER THE BORDER THREE-QUARTERU OF AN HOUR LATER.

IN THE NECK AND NECK RACE TO BE THE FIRST OF LT.GEN.ALEXANDER M.PATCH'S SEVENTH ARMY TO ENTER GERMANY, THE THREE DIVISIONS HAD KEPT A CLOSE CHECK ON ONE ANOTHER'S PROGRESS THROUGHOUT THE DAY.

BUT THIS IS PRIMARILY THE STORY OF THE YEOMAN SERVICE OF THE SLEEPLESS BATTALION OF THE 79TH, COMMANDED BY LT.COL.ROY V.PORTER, CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA, WHICH KEPT THE DIVISION ROLLING SWIFTLY.

PORTER AS WELL AS HIS MEN VOLUNTARILY WENT WITHOUT SLEEP, SHOOTING THEIR WAY THROUGH TOWNS, SEIZING AND HOLDING BRIDGES BEFORE THE RETREATING GERMANS VXVMMMMCOULD BLOW THEM.

DEC 16 1944

SOME TIMES IT WAS CLOSE.

THERE WAS THE TIME AT BIRCHWILLER, WHERE 25 MEN LED BY CAPT.

WILLIAM MCKEAN, BRAINTREE, MASS., A BATTALION EXECUTIVE OFFICER, BRAVED 88 ARTILLERY, MORTAR AND MACHINEGUN FIRE AND PREVENTED THE SUICIDAL ATTEMPT OF FIVE GERMANS TO PULL THE FUSE ON A 500-POUND BOMB ATOP A HEAVILY-MINED BRIDGE.

PORTER TOLD THE STORY AS WE SAT IN THE BATTALION COMMAND POST EATING FRIED CHICKEN AS GERMAN SHELLS LANDED 200 YARDS AWAY.

MCKEAN AND THE OTHERS KNEW THE BRIDGE MIGHT EXPLODE IN THEIR FACES, BUT THEY ALSO KNEW THAT THE 79TH WOULD BE GREATLY DELAYED IF THE 150-FOOT SPAN WAS WRECKED.

DEC 16 1944

LT.VERNON L.HAYDEN, TYLER,TEX., AND A CREW OPERATING 57-MM GUNS BLAZED AWAY AT THE GERMANS, KEEPING THEM FROM THE OPPOSITE END OF THE BRIDGE.

THE GERMANS TOOK SHELTER IN A HOUSE. THEN ONE OF THEM DARTED OUT TOWARD THE BRIDGE AND WAS DRILLED BEFORE HE TOOK TEN STEPS. ANOTHER MET THE SAME FATE.

THEN THE GERMANS TRYING TO PROTECT THE SUICIDE SQUAD OPENED WITH EVERYTHING THEY HAD.

"IT WAS SO NOISY," SAID HAYDEN, "THAT I COULDN'T MAKE MY MEN HEAR ME, EVEN BY SHOUTING."

A THIRD GERMAN WAS SHOT IN THE FOOT BY LIT.LUCIUS W.JORDAN, KOSCIUSKO, MISS., AND WAS CAPTURED BY SGT.JOHN R.WILLIS, BOUND BROOK, N.J., WHO WAS COVERING JORDAN WITH A MACHINEGUN.

A FOURTH GERMAN CAME WITHIN INCHES OF BLOWING THE BRIDGE. HE RAN OUT ON IT AND HAD HIS HAND OUTSTRETCHED TO PULL THE FUSE WHEN JORDAN DROPPED HIM BESIDE THE BOMB. STILL ALIVE, THE GERMAN TRIED TO SQUIRM TO THE FUSE BUT JORDAN FINISHED HIM WITH SEVERAL MORE ROUNDS.

THEN MCKEAN RAN OUT ON THE BRIDGE AND TRIED TO CUT THE WIRE FROM THE BOMB TO THE DYNAMITE UNDERNEATH. THE ENEMY FIRE WAS SO INTENSE HE JUMPED OUT ON THE BANK, DIVED UNDER THE BRIDGE, AND CUT THE WIRE THERE.

"I'M IGNORANT ABOUT EXPLOSIVES," MCKEAN CONFESSED, "SO I DIDN'T KNOW WHETHER HANDLING THE WIRE WOULD SET OFF THE TNT. I FELT PRETTY GOOD WHEN NOTHING HAPPENED."

SGT.MERRILL CUMMINGS, ATLANTA,GA., WHO HAD FRIED THE CHICKEN HANDED ANOTHER PIECE TO MCKEAN.

ON THE WEST, THE FIRST OF MAJ.GEN.CHARLES C.HAFFNER S 10.RD DIVISION TO CROSS THE FRONTIER WAS A COMPANY COMMANDED BY LT.WILLIAM MCCUTCHEON ST JOSEPH MO A FEW MINUTES LATER ANOTHER COMPANY LED BY CAPT JOSEPH F KASON BISBIE ARIZ ALSO DROVE ACROSS

IT WAS A WALK OVER IN THIS SECTOR LT COL EVERETT D.VALL SPOKANE WASH SAID THERE WAS NO OPPOSITION THE BIG SIEGFRIED LINE GUNS, WHICH HAD BEEN SHELLING THE AMERICAN ADVANCE FOR THE LAST FEW DAYS WERE STRANGELY SILENT

WITH THE U.S. SEVENTH ARMY NEAR THE GERMAN BORDER, DEC. 15-(AP)-FOR THE 45TH DIVISION--VETERANS OF SICILY, SALERNO AND ANZIO--TODAY'S INVASION OF THE REICH WAS JUST A WALK OVER.

TONIGHT THE DIVISION HAD TROOPS ACROSS THE BORDER ON A 1,000-YARD

FRONT WEST OF WISSEMBOURG IN SOME DEPTH AND WAS PUSHING AHEAD AGAINST SMALL ARMS FIRE.

MEN OF COMPANY L, 180TH REGIMENT, LED BY LT. WILLIAM DENHAM, 232 NORTH ADELE ST., DELAND, FLA., SAW THE SIGN AHEAD WHICH SAID: "ACHTUNG, FRONTIER."

DEC 16 1944

ALONG WITH COMPANY K, WHICH FOLLOWED THEM, THESE MEN WERE SUPPOSED TO HAVE BEEN PULLED OUT OF THE LINE FOR A REST, BUT THEY ASKED TO BE LEFT IN UNTIL THEY CROSSED THE BORDER.

IN THE PARTY WERE SGTS. JOHN KAUFFMAN, LONG BEACH, CALIF., AND JOSEPH EVANS, NATHALIA, VA., PFC JOHN L. DUKE, CHARLESTOWN, S.C., AND PVT. JAMES J. LYNCH, JERSEY CITY, N.J.

COMPANY K, WITH PFC STANLEY OGINSKI, APOLLI, PA., IN THE VAN, HAD COME SLIPPING THROUGH THE WOODS, BUT L COMPANY WON THIS LITTLE CONTEST, BECAME THE FIRST TO CROSS, AND WILL GET THE BOTTLE WHICH XXXXXXXXXXXX LT. NORMAN YOUNG, STATEN ISLAND, N.Y., K COMMANDER, HAD BET DENHAM.

OTHERS IN THE WALK ACROSS THE BORDER INCLUDED LTS. RICHARD BARNES, SILOAM SPRINGS, ARK.; PAUL FRANK, 1968 89TH ST., BROOKLYN, N.Y., AND HUGH DOLAN, MEHEANBORO, ILL.

"THIS," SAID DENHAM, "IS A PRETTY GOOD START FOR OUR NEW YEAR."

THIS WAS THE 367TH DAY OF ACTUAL COMBAT FOR THIS VETERAN OF THE ITALIAN AND SICILY LANDINGS.

THE BIG SIEGFRIED LINE GUNS, WHICH HAD BEEN BOOMING NOISLY THE LAST FEW DAYS, WERE STRANGELY SILENT AS THE AMERICANS ADVANCED ON THE BORDER, PUSHING ALONG A WOODED RIDGE.

DEC 16 1944

"IF IT WEREN'T FOR THE GEOGRAPHICAL LINT, IT WOULD BE JUST LIKE ADVANCING ANYWHERE ELSE," SAID LT. STUART NOVINS, FORMER RADIO ANNOUNCER FROM BOSTON, MASS.

"WE ARE MEETING WHAT AMOUNTS TO 'NO OPPOSITION,'" AGREED LT. COL. EVERETT DUVALL, SPOKANE, WASH.

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY GROUP IN FRANCE, DEC 15-(AP)-THE GERMANS HAD COUNTERATTACKED AT SELESTAT AND SGT. BERNARD BETZ, AUGUSTA, MICH., SAW FOUR OF THE ENEMY SLIPPING ALONG A DRAINAGE DITCH.

DEC 16 1944

HE CUT LOOSE WITH HIS RIFLE, WOUNDING ONE AND CAPTURING ANOTHER.

PFC CLARENCE LASKY, PORTLAND, CONN., COMBAT CORRESPONDENT IN A NEARBY HOUSE WRITING A STORY, RAN OUT TO SEE WHAT THE SHOOTING WAS ABOUT. HE SAW THE ONE WOUNDED GERMAN AND THE TWO OTHERS FLEEING. THE THREE SURRENDERED TO THE REINFORCED BETZ. LASKY WENT BACK INSIDE, TAPPED OUT A STORY ABOUT BETZ TAKING HIS PRISONERS.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN HOLLAND, OCT.22-(DELAYED)-(AP)-EXULTANTLY SINGING "THE VOLGA BOATMAN" UNDER A HAIL OF GERMAN MORTAR FIRE, 138 MORE SURVIVORS OF THE ILL-FATED ARNHEM BATTLE HAVE WITHDRAWN ACROSS THE RHINE.

NOW RESTING AT A HOSPITAL SAFELY WITHIN THE BRITISH LINES, THEY APPEARED TOO EXHAUSTED TO TALK MUCH. BUT ONE WEARY WARRIOR SAID: "IT'S LIKE COMING BACK FROM THE DEAD."

AFTER THE FIRST EVACUATION OF SEVERAL THOUSAND SURVIVORS OF THE BRITISH 1ST AIRBORNE DIVISION IN LATE SEPTEMBER, MORE THAN 100 MEN REMAINED IN HIDING IN THE NAZI-HELD ARNHEM AREA. LIAISON WAS ESTABLISHED, AND AT A PRE-ARRANGED HOUR KNOWN TO BRITISH TROOPS ON THE SOUTHERN BANK OF THE RIVER A LONE BRITISH OFFICER CRAWLED THROUGH THE WOODS TO THE ENEMY-HELD NORTHERN BANK AND FLASHED A RED LIGHT. IT WAS THE SIGNAL FOR BRITISH TROOPS TO SEND ACROSS SMALL RUBBER ASSAULT BOATS.

THEN, IN THE PITCH DARKNESS, THIS RAGGED, HALF-CRIPPLED BAND OF "RED DEVILS" WAS LED TO THE RIVER-EDGE BY THE FLASH OF BOFORS GUNS WHICH WERE FIRED ON THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE RHINE.

AT FIRST THEY MOVED SILENTLY. BUT ONCE IN THE BOATS SOMEONE BEGAN TO SING. IN AN INSTANT, AND DESPITE GERMAN MORTAR SHELLS SPLASHING ON ALL SIDES, THE MEN TOOK UP THE SONG IN A WILD, FULL-THROATED CHORUS.

IN ADDITION TO THE MEN OF THE BRITISH DIVISION, FOUR AMERICAN PILOTS, TWO CANADIAN FLIERS, TWO RAF MEMBERS AND TWO RUSSIANS WERE RESCUED.

WITH THE SIXTH ARMY GROUP, FRANCE, DEC. 15-(AP)-KATHARINE CORNELL, BRAIN AHERNE AND THEIR COMPANY ARRIVED IN SOUTHERN FRANCE TODAY FROM THE ITALIAN FRONT TO PRESENT "THE BARRETTS OF WIMPOLE STREET" TO U.S. SEVENTH ARMY AUDIENCES.

ROME, DEC 15-(AP)-BRIG.GEN.PAUL W.KENDALL OF PALO ALTO, CALIF., NOW IS COMMANDING THE 88TH "BLUE DEVIL" DIVISION OF THE U.S. FIFTH ARMY.

THE HUSKY, HARD-JAWED VETERAN DOUGHBOY OF THE FIRST WORLD WAR, SUCCEEDED MAJ.GEN.JOHN E.SLOAN, WHO RETURNED TO THE UNITED STATES ILL. SLOAN LED THE DIVISION THROUGH THE GOTHIC AND HITLER LINES IN ITALY AND ON THE MARCH TO ROME. ALL ITS TROOPS WERE FURNISHED BY SELECTIVE SERVICE.

KENDALL HAS BEEN ACTING COMMANDER SINCE LATE AUGUST.

STRANGELY, THE DIVISION TOOK ITS NICKNAME FROM ENEMY RADIO BROADCASTS. THE GERMANS CALLED THE GIS BLUE DEVILS BECAUSE OF THEIR BLUE FOUR-LEAF CLOVER INSIGNIA AND BECAUSE OF THE WAY THEY FOUGHT ON THE GARIGLIANO RIVER BETWEEN NAPLES AND ROME, IN THEIR FIRST ACTION.

DEC 16 1944

THE NEW COMMANDER JOINED THE 88TH AS ASSISTANT DIVISION COMMANDER DURING ITS TRAINING AT CAMP GRUBER, OKLA., AND FORT SAM HOUSTON, TEXAS. HE LED ADVANCE UNITS OF THE DIVISION OVERSEAS.

KENDALL WAS WOUNDED WHILE CROSSING THE RAPIDO RIVER NEAR CASSINO.

WHEN THE 88TH BROKE AWAY FROM THE GARIGLIANO LAST MAY AND THE INFANTRY TRAVELED SO FAST IT WAS OUT OF COMMUNICATIONS FOR DAYS, KENDALL WAS THE "GENERAL ON HORSEBACK" WHO WENT OUT TO FIND THEM.

ON ONE OCCASION, HE SHOT FOUR SNIPERS WHO FIRED AT HIM.

KENDALL WAS GRADUATED FROM WEST POINT IN 1918 AND WON THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR. HE SERVED WITH THE 27TH DIVISION IN SIBERIA LATER. HE ALSO HOLDS THE SILVER STAR WITH OAK LEAF CLUSTER, THE LEGION OF MERIT, THE PURPLE HEART AND TWO CROIX DE GUERRE.

DEC 16 1944

THE STORY OF THE ATTACK ON GEN. GIRAUD, FORMER CO-PRESIDEN WITH GEN. DEGAULLE IN FRENCH NORTH AFRICA, AS TOLD BY INFORMED MEMBERS OF GIRAUD'S ENTOURAGE WAS THAT WHEN THE GENERAL WAS WITHIN 12 OR 15 YARDS OF HIS VILLA THE ARAB SENTRY OPENED FIRE WITH A RIFLE FROM ABOUT ONE-YARD RANGE. AT THAT INSTANT GIRAUD TURNED HIS HEAD AND THE BULLET STRUCK HIM IN THE NECK AND CAME OUT THROUGH THE CHEEK.

DURING AN INVESTIGATION OF THE SHOOTING BY FRENCH MILITARY AUTHORITIES, THE ASSAILANT ---A MARABOUT, FANATICALLY RELIGIOUS MOSLEM --- WAS QUOTED AS SAYING, "ALLAH TOLD ME I KILL GIRAUD."

ATHENS, DEC. 15 -(AP)- PVT. JOSEPH VOGEL OF 974 CHESTNUT ST. UNION, N.J., HAS CLOCKED 1,000 MILES ON HIS JEEP --- MOST OF THEM THROUGH HOTLY-CONTESTED GREEK TERRITORY IN DAILY RUNS BETWEEN THE U.S. AIR TRANSPORT COMMAND'S ATHENS BOOKING OFFICE AND THE AMERICAN AIRFIELD.

HE HAS BRAVED BOTH ELAS AND BRITISH FIRE ON A ROUTE WHICH TAKES HIM THROUGH BRITISH-HELD CENTRAL ATHENS, ACROSS THE OMONIA SQUARE BATTLEGROUND --- PAST HIS OWN BILLET WHICH IS IN THE MIDDLE OF A SNIPER-INFESTED AREA --- THENCE ALONG PIRAEUS ST. WHERE, DESPITE THE STARS AND STRIPES INSIGNIA ON HIS WINDSHIELD ELAS HEAVY MACHINE GUNS SOMETIMES LET FLY AS HE DASHES OUT OF TOWN.

DEC 16 1944

"ELAS FORCES HAVE BUILT A SERIES OF ROADBLOCKS OUTSIDE THE CITY," VOGEL EXPLAINED. "SOME OF THEM ARE DESIGNED TO SLOW YOU DOWN AND HAVE "S" BEND GAPS LEFT IN THEM WHILE OTHERS BLOCK THE ROAD.

"ELAS GUIDES TAKE ME OVER DETOURS TO GET AROUND THESE, AND BOY, THOSE DETOURS REALLY TAUGHT ME WHAT A JEEP CAN DO. ONE OF THEM TAKES ME DOWN THE EDGE OF A SMALL MOUNTAIN, INTO THE BED OF A STREAM AND UP THE OPPOSITE BANK." VOGEL SAID.

DESCRIBING HOW ELAS ROADBLOCKS ARE BUILT, VOGEL SAID,

"WOMEN AND CHILDREN CARRY BOULDERS ON THEIR BACKS TO WHERE TI MEN LAY THEM IN PLACE."

"WE'RE STRICTLY NEUTRAL BUT THAT DOESN'T MEAN WE'RE ALWAYS RECOGNIZED," VOGEL SAID. "WE'VE HAD IT BOTH WAYS --- ELAS SNIPERS INSI ATHENS WHERE THEY CAN'T ALWAYS SPOT WHETHER YOU'RE BRITISH OR AMERICAN AND BRITISH BEAUFIGHTERS OUTSIDE THE CITY."

DEC 16 1944

ONCE WHEN VOGEL WAS DRIVING INTO TOWN WITH MAIL HE WAS STOPPEI BY A FRANTIC ELAS GUARD. "I DIDN'T KNOW WHAT HE WAS TALKING ABOUT," VOGEL RELATED. "BUT HE MADE SIGNS, GRABBED ME BY THE ARM AND PULLED ME FROM THE JEEP AND INTO A DITCH. A FEW SECONDS LATER A BRITISH PLANE SWOOPED DOWN AND BLASTED A NEARBY ROADBLOCK WITH ITS 20-MILIMETER GUNS

ANOTHER TIME VOGEL WAS SAVED FROM DANGER BY A 14-YEAR-OLD ELAS FIGHTER WHO STOPPED THE GI'S JEEP JUST IN THE KNICK OF TIME 100 YARDS FROM A BLAZING AMMUNITION TRUCK.

COMBINED ANGLO-AMERICAN AIR COVER. IT WAS ANNOUNCED THAT A SUICIDE GARRISON OF ABOUT 800 JAPANESE, ORDERED TO FIGHT TO THE DEATH AT BHAMO IN THE NORTH BURMA AREA, WERE WEDGED INTO A 6,000-SQUARE-FOOT POCKET IN THE SOUTHWEST CORNER OF THE TOWN.

IN THE ARAKAN HILLS, ALL THE TERRITORY WEST OF THE KALAPAN-TIN RIVER WHICH HAD BEEN ABANDONED BY ALLIES TROOPS BEFORE THE MONSOONS, HAS NOW BEEN REOCCUPIED. OTHER BRITISH FORCES HAVE CLEARED BUTHEDAUNG, 60 MILES NORTH OF AKYAB, AND HAVE CONTINUED THEIR ADVANCE SOUTHWARD ALONG THE DENSE MAYU RANGE TERRAIN.

AT BHAMO, WHERE AN ENEMY SUICIDE FORCE HAS BEEN HOLDING OUT IN A "TEAKWOOD FORTRESS" UNDER HEAVY CHINESE SIEGE FOR MORE THAN TWO WEEKS, THERE WERE INDICATIONS THAT HEAVY JAPANESE CASUALTIES WERE BEING SUFFERED.

DEC 16 1944

APPARENTLY THE CHINESE PLAN WAS TO USE HEAVY ARTILLERY ON THE STRONGHOLD OF THICK TEAKWOOD LOGS--WHICH IS PART OF WHAT AN AMERICAN LIAISON OFFICER DESCRIBED AS "THE BEST DEFENSE SYSTEM YET ENCOUNTERED IN NORTH BURMA." MANY DUGOUTS ARE UNDER 15 FEET OF LOGS. CHINESE 36TH DIVISION TROOPS FACE THE FURTHER PROBLEM OF A SERIES OF CONNECTING LAKES WHICH SERVE AS MOATS FOR THE JAPANESE DEFENDERS.

DURING RECENT FIGHTING A HEAVY CHINESE BARRAGE OF 70 ROUNDS FROM 155-MILIMETER GUNS WAS LAID ON ONE SECTION OF BHAMO AND 10 DIRECT HITS WERE SCORED ON ONE BUNKER POSITION BEFORE IT WAS WIPED OUT.

WEST OF BHAMO, IN THE INDAW-KATHA AREA OF THE GANGAW RANGE, THE BRITISH 36TH DIVISION CONSOLIDATED ITS POSITIONS AND CARRIED OUT LIGHT PATROL OPERATIONS.

THE 11TH EAST AFRICAN DIVISION ON THE CHINDWIN FRONT TOOK THE VILLAGE OF SHWEGYIN AND DROVE ON UP THE SHWEGYIN-YEU ROAD TO A TOWN WO MILES TO THE NORTH.

AS THE DRIVE STARTED, LT.GEN.SIR PHILIP CHRISTISON, COMMANDER OF ARAKAN FORCES, ENJOYED COMPLETE AIR SUPERIORITY OVER THE JAPANESE DEFENDERS, AMERICAN B-25 MEDIUM BOMBERS P-38 AND P-47 FIGHTERS AND RAF FIGHTERS SUPPLIED CLOSE SUPPORT FOR THE JUNGLE ADVANCE. NOT A SINGLE ENEMY PLANE WAS ENCOUNTERED.

ALL ALONG THE FRONT INFANTRYMEN REPORTED JAPANESE TROOPS WERE HIGH-TAILING IT WITHOUT OFFERING TO FIGHT.

BUTHEDAUNG, 60 MILES NORTH OF AKYAB, WAS CLEARED OF JAPANESE BUT BRIGADE COMMANDERS WARNED THAT THE WITHDRAWAL MIGHT MEAN THAT THE ENEMY PLANNED TO MAKE A STAND ON THE KNIFE-LIKE HILL FEATURE SOUTH OF THE TOWN.

A TRIPLE SERIES OF BRIDGES GUARDING THE APPROACH TO BUTHEDAUNG WERE TAKEN WITHOUT A STRUGGLE. ONLY STRAY ENEMY SHOTS WERE HEARD AS THE BRITISH APPROACHED THE TOWN AND THE KALAPANZIN RIVER.

AIR COMMODORE THE EARL OF BANDON, COMMANDER OF AIR OPERATIONS IN ARAKAN, SAID THUNDERBOLT AND LIGHTNING SQUADRONS HAD FIGURED IMPORTANTLY IN CLOSE SUPPORT FOR THE INFANTRY ADVANCE.

THE BUTHEDAUNG PINCERS ITSELF WAS SPLIT INTO SEVERAL COLUMNS WHICH PROBED ALL THE TOWN'S APPROACHES, AND BY NIGHTFALL RNE COLUMN HELD POSITIONS IN THE NORTHWEST SECTOR WHILE ANOTHER ENTERED FROM THE WEST. A THIRD ELEMENT ADVANCED SOUTH OF THE TOWN.

AS GRINNING WEST AFRICANS, BARE TO THE WAIST, SWEPT THROUGH THE JUNGLE, THE COASTAL PINCERS REACHED OVER THE NARROW MAYU PLAIN FROM T SEA TO THE WESTERN FOOTHILLS IN A RAPID ADVANCE.

HE SAW THE SUN'S GLINT ON THE SUPERKORT'S TAIL AT A POINT 85 MILES NORTH OF SAIPAN JUST BEFORE NOON, THURSDAY, AFTER A SIX-HOUR SEARCH. HE SUMMONED A DESTROYER AND CIRCLED OVER THE SPOT FOR FOUR AND A HALF HOURS UNTIL THE WARSHIP ARRIVED.

SILVESTER SAID THE CREW TOOK THE CRASH LANDING CALMLY. THE RADIOMAN, CPL.PAUL J.LALKA OF (308 E.70TH ST.) NEW YORK CITY, HAD THE ONLY DIFFICULTY. HE FOUND THE FRONT EXIT JAMMED AND CLIMBED THROUGH THE LONG TUNNEL TO THE WAIST, WHERE THE EXITS ALSO WERE CLOSED.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, PHILIPPINES, SATURDAY, DEC. 16-(AP)-GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR TODAY LIFTED THE VEIL ON THE LONG-GUARDED ACTIVITIES OF AMERICAN AND FILIPINO GUERRILLA FORCES, ACTIVE AGAINST THE JAPANESE SINCE THE EARLY DAYS OF THE PHILIPPINE WAR IN 1942.

MACARTHUR SAID "THE FORCES IN THE WESTERN VISAYAS AND MINDANAO HAVE SUSTAINED AN AGGRESSIVE OFFENSIVE AGAINST ENEMY GARRISONS ON SEVERAL MAJOR ISLANDS."

ON LUZON, COL.WENDELL W.FERTIG FOUGHT THE EARLY DAYS OF THE BATTLE OF BATAAN, FROM WHERE HE WENT TO MINDANAO. DURING THE PAST TWO YEARS HE HAS DONE THE MAJOR PART OF THE WORK IN UNIFYING SEVERAL AMERICAN AND FILIPINO BANDS INTO AN EFFICIENT STRIKING FORCE.

MACARTHUR SAID UNITS UNDER COLONEL FERTIG'S COMMAND LIBERATED THE ENTIRE PROVINCES OF LANAO AND MISAMIS OCCIDENTAL.

LT.COL.CHARLES CUSHING, WHO ELUDED THE JAPANESE WHEN THEY OVERRAN CEBU, LED FORCES IN CLEARING THE ENEMY FROM THE MAJOR PART OF SOUTHERN CEBU.

GUERRILLAS HAVE BEEN A CONSTANT THORN IN JAPAN'S "GREATER EAST ASIA" PROGRAM FOR THE PHILIPPINES. THE SMALL BANDS HAVE DISTRIBUTED AMERICAN PROPAGANDA MATERIAL UNDER THE VERY NOSE OF HIGH JAPANESE OFFICERS IN ADDITION TO MAINTAINING DISRUPTIVE ATTACKS AGAINST NIPPONESE LINES OF SUPPLY.

TODAY'S COMMUNIQUE, DISCLOSING THEIR WELL-SECRETED ACCOMPLISHMENTS, DETAILED CONQUESTS ALL THE WAY ALONG THE ROUTE TAKEN BY THE CONVOY.

(APPARENTLY THE CONVOY SAILED THROUGH SURIGAO STRAIT BETWEEN SOUTHERN LEYTE AND NORTHERN MINDANAO, THROUGH THE MINDANAO SEA BELOW BOHOL, CEBU, AND NEGROS THEN NORTH THROUGH THE SULU SEA PAST NEGROS AND PANAY TO MINDORO).

ON MINDANAO, THE GUERRILLAS HAVE CLEARED THE CONNECTING PROVINCES OF LANAO AND MISAMIS OCCIDENTAL, WINNING THEM AIRFIELDS AND A COASTLINE OF 125 MILES SKIRTING ILIGAN BAY.

ON BOHOL, THE NEXT ISLAND WEST OF SOUTH LEYTE, THE GUERRILLAS HOLD ALL BUT THE AREA AROUND THE TOWN OF TAGBILARAN ON THE SOUTHWEST.

ON THE NEXT ISLAND, CEBU, THE GUERRILLAS DROVE THE JAPANESE OUT OF THE SOUTH PART WHICH JUTS DOWN TO THE MINDANAO SEA.

WESTWARD, ON NEGROS, IN THAT ISLAND'S SOUTHERNMOST PART WHICH GUARDS THE WESTERN ENTRANCE OF THE MINDANAO SEA, THE GUERRILLAS CLEARED OUT ALL BUT THE DUMAGUETTE AREA. HOWEVER, THEY OUTFLANKED IT BY SEIZING THE TOWNS OF SIBUTAN AND LUZURIGA ON EITHER SIDE. SEVERAL AIRFIELDS WERE SEIZED.

ON PANAY, FLANKING THE SULU SEA APPROACH TO MINDORO, THE TOWN OF PATNONGON ON THE SOUTHWEST WAS CAPTURED, THE TOWNS OF SAN MIGUEL AND ZARRAGA ON THE SOUTHEAST AND ESTANCIA ON THE NORTHEAST AS WELL AS SEVERAL VITAL AIRFIELDS.

STILL OTHER GUERRILLAS FAR TO THE SOUTH BETWEEN MINDANAO AND BORNEO PINNED DOWN JAPANESE IN SMALL RESTRICTED AREAS IN ISLANDS OF THE SULU ARCHIPELAGO.

ABOARD ADMIRAL MCCAIN'S FAST CARRIER FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF THE PHILIPPINES, DEC 15-(AP)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-SUPPORTING GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S NEW LANDINGS ON MINDORO ISLAND TO THE SOUTH, THE U.S. PACIFIC FLEET SHOWED THE WORLD A NEW TRICK IN CARRIER WARFARE TODAY BY TAKING AROUND-THE-CLOCK CONTROL OF THE NORTHERN PHILIPPINES AIR.

FOR MORE THAN 24 HOURS VICE ADM.JOHN S.MCCAIN'S PLANES HAVE DENIED THE JAPANESE USE OF THEIR ALMOST 100 AIRFIELDS ON THE GREAT ISLAND OF LUZON. STRONG AMERICAN COMBAT AIR PATROLS STERILIZED THE ENTIRE ISLAND OF ENEMY AIRCRAFT YESTERDAY AND STILL HELD FULL SWAY TODAY.

DURING ALL LAST NIGHT DOZENS OF AMERICAN CARRIER PLANES RANGED LUZON SKIES BOMBING AND DESTROYING AND GIVING THE ENEMY NO REST.

REVISED FIGURES SHOW ENEMY LOSSES FOR THE 24-HOUR PERIOD AS 37 PLANES SHOT OUT OF THE AIR AND 139 DESTROYED ON THE GROUND OR ON THE WATER, AND 80 DAMAGED ON THE GROUND.

DURING THE SAME PERIOD A MEDIUM-SIZED FREIGHTER WAS HIT AND EXPLODED AND A MEDIUM OIL TANKER WAS SUNK OFF THE WEST COAST OF LUZON.

A SMALL TROOP CONVOY IN THE SAME AREA WAS SURPRISED AND ATTACKED WITH BOMB ROCKETS AND STRAFED, AND ONE LARGE TRANSPORT LADEN WITH TROOPS WAS LEFT DAMAGED AND SMOKING FROM ROCKETS.

SMALLER TRANSPORTS, ALSO TROOP-FILLED, AND TWO ESCORT WARSHIPS IN THE CONVOY ALSO WERE DAMAGED.

IT WAS THE BIGGEST DAY IN MANY WEEKS FOR MCCAIN'S FLIERS, WHO OPERATEE ALMOST EXCLUSIVELY WITH NAVY HELLCAT FIGHTERS EQUIPPED WITH BOMBS AND ROCKETS. THEY ACHIEVED APPARENTLY FULL SURPRISE IN OPENING THE ATTACK, FINDING IN ONE INSTANCE AT SOUTH APARRI AIRPORT CATTLE WANDERING OVER THE RUNWAY.

THE GREATEST BAG OF THE DAY CAME LATE IN THEAFTERNOON WHEN ONE FLIGHT OF 27 ENEMY PLANES, APPARENTLY FROM FORMOSA, TRIED TO LAND IN NORTHERN LUZON. AMERICAN FIGHTERS SHOT DOWN 18 OF THIS GROUP AND ALSO BAGGED ONE OF A FLIGHT OF EIGHT OTHER PLANES.

ON THE WATER THEY DESTROYED SEVEN TO TEN LARGE FLYING BOATS AT

:AVITE SEAPLANE BASE AND SHOT DOWN ANOTHER SEAPLANE WHICH WAS
:SCORTING AN ENEMY CONVOY OFF LUZON.
THREE LARGE TRANSPORT PLANES WERE DESTROYED, TWO OF THEM BLOWN PART ON THE GROUND.
IN SWEEPS AROUND CLARK FIELD, WHICH HAS MANY SEPARATE RUNWAYS, TRAFINGPLANES HIT FOUR FUEL DUMPS AND BLEW UP AN AMMUNITION DEPOT.

ABOARD A COVERING FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF MINDORO, PHILIPPINES,
DEC 15-(AP)-WAVES OF AMERICAN TROOPS ARE POURING ASHORE UNOPPOSED
ON MINDORO ISLAND AFTER A SLOW CONVOY TRIP OF 600 MILES THROUGH SUPP-OSEDLY JAPANESE DOMINATED WATERS WITH INCREDIBLY LIGHT AIR OPPOSITION.
THE ONLY HITCH IN THE LANDING CAME WHEN A WARSHIP
SIGNALLED: "BEACH IN FRONT OF OUR BOMBARDMENT SECTOR IS CROWDED WITH WELCOMING FILIPINOS AND CARABAOS (WATER BUFFALOS). WHAT SHALL WE DO?"
REAR ADM.RUSSELL S.BERKEY REPLIED: "WITHHOLD FIRE."
THE FIRST ACTION TODAY CAME JUST BEFORE DAWN WHEN A PATROLLING CATALINA PLANE SCORED A BOMB HIT ON A JAPANESE FREIGHTER WHICH APPARENTLY DRIFTED UNWITTINGLY ACROSS THE CONVOY'S COURSE. BUT ENEMY
AIR ATTACKS ON THE SPRAWLING CONVOY WERE SO SPORADIC AND LIGHT THE MEN WENT BELOW FOR THE TRADITIONAL PRE-LANDING STEAK BREAKFAST.
ARMY LIGHTNINGS, MARINE CORSAIRS AND NAVY WILDCATS OVERHEAD
FURNISHED CONFIDENCE BUT THE MEN ABOARD THIS FLAGSHIP BREATHED MORE EASILY WHEN THEY HEARD THAT ADM.WILLIAM F.HALSEY'S PLANES HAD GIVEN NEARBY LUZON ISLAND AIRFIELDS A HEAVY PLASTERING.
TWILIGHT THE FIRST DAY OUT BROUGHT THE MOST CONCENTRATED JAPANESE ATTACK. AFTER THE SHOOTING SUBSIDED OUR LOUDSPEAKER ANNOUNCED:
"TWO JAPANESE PLANES IS THE SCORE FOR THE FIRST INNING."
THE VOYAGE'S MOST SPECTACULAR DOGFIGHT WAS SILHOUETTED
AGAINST A CLOUD-BANKED SULU SEA HORIZON. TWO AMERICAN CARRIER
WILDCATS GOT ON THE TAIL OF AN ENEMY LIGHT BOMBER. THE JAPANESE PLANE
DIVED ALMOST TO THE WATER'S SURFACE BUT THE WILDCATS BORED IN RELENT-LESSLY AS THE ENEMY CRAFT'S REAR GUN FLASHED IN A FUTILE EFFORT TO BEAT OFF THE PURSUIT.

NEW YORK, DEC. 15-(AP)-GERMANY'S ABILITY TO MAKE STEEL--THE BACKBONE OF WAR--HAS BEEN CUT NEARLY IN HALF BY TERRITORIAL LOSSES, THE AMERICAN IRON AND STEEL INSTITUTE ESTIMATED TODAY.

BOMBINGS, PLUS SABOTAGE, MAY HAVE CUT ANOTHER 20 PER CENT FROM HER PRODUCTIVE ABILITY, THE TRADE ORGANIZATION SAID IN ITS PUBLICATION STEEL FACTS.

"AT THE CREST OF GERMAN POWER, CLOSE TO 60,000,000 TONS OF STEEL CAPACITY WAS AVAILABLE IN AXIS EUROPE, OF WHICH PERHAPS AS MUCH AS 28,000,000 TONS WERE IN GERMANY ITSELF," THE REPORT SAID.

"SINCE THEN, THROUGH THE LOSS OF MOST OF ITALY, FRANCE, BELGIUM, LUXEMBOURG, THE BALKANS AND HUNGARY, THE AMOUNT OF STEEL CAPACITY AVAILABLE TO GERMANY HAS PROBABLY DECREASED TO NOT MORE THAN 36,000,000 TONS.

"HOW MUCH DAMAGE FROM BOMBING AND SABOTAGE HAS BEEN DONE TO THE VARIOUS PLANTS STILL CONTROLLED BY GERMANY IS CONJECTURAL, BUT THE LOSS IN PRODUCTION IS BELIEVED TO BE CONSIDERABLE--PERHAPS AS MUCH AS 20 PER CENT."

IN ADDITION, THE INSTITUTE SAID, PLANTS IN THE SAAR AND RUHR, WHERE BOMBING HAS BEEN HEAVY, WERE PRINCIPAL SOURCES OF HIGH QUALITY STEEL.

MT.VERNON, N.Y., DEC. 15-(AP)-EXPRESSING HOPE "THAT FOREIGN PROPAGANDA IN THE GUISE OF NEWS NEVER SHALL BE UNDERTAKEN BY OUR GOVERNMENT AFTER THE WAR," KEPT COOPER, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, SAID TONIGHT:

"THERE SHOULD BE NO DOUBT AS TO WHAT OUR GOVERNMENT'S FUNCTION AS RESPECTS NEWS DISSEMINATION OUGHT TO BE.

"BUT BECAUSE OF RUMORS, AN AUTHORITATIVE STATEMENT OF WHAT PROPOSALS HAVE BEEN MADE AND WHAT ONES ARE TO HAVE CONSIDERATION IS DUE THE PUBLIC AS EARLY AS POSSIBLE."

COOPER WAS A SPEAKER AT A CELEBRATION IN HISTORIC ST.PAUL'S CHURCH, COMMEMORATING THE 153RD ANNIVERSARY OF THE RATIFICATION OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS.

THE QUAINT, 279-YEAR-OLD PARISH, DESIGNATED AS THE "NATIONAL SHRINE OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS," ADJOINS A VILLAGE GREEN, SCENE OF THE GREAT ELECTION OF 1733, FOR THE TRUTHFUL REPORTING OF WHICH, JOHN PETER ZENGER WAS ARRESTED AND IMPRISONED. HIS SUBSEQUENT TRIAL AND ACQUITTAL ESTABLISHED FREEDOM OF THE PRESS IN THE COLONIES.

AMONG OTHER SPEAKERS WERE JAMES E.STILES, FORMER PRESIDENT OF THE NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION OF NEW YORK STATE, AND JOSEPH M.PROSKAUER, FORMER STATE SUPREME COURT JUSTICE.

STILES DECLARED THAT THE PRESS SHOULD BE MORE AGGRESSIVE BUT "CONTINUOUSLY ALERT AGAINST BECOMING THE VEHICLES THROUGH WHICH PRESSURE GROUPS EXPLOIT THEIR SELFISH INTERESTS UNDER THE GUISE OF SOCIAL ADVANCEMENT."

PROSKAUER APPEALED FOR "AN INTERNATIONAL BILL OF RIGHTS GUARANTEEING THOSE FUNDAMENTAL FREEDOMS WHICH ARE THE INALIENABLE RIGHT OF EVERY HUMAN BEING CREATED IN THE IMAGE OF GOD."

DISCUSSING GOVERNMENT PARTICIPATION IN THE NEWS FOR PROPAGANDA PURPOSES, COOPER SAID: "SOME INDIVIDUALS, HIGHLY PLACED, PATRIOTIC AND WELL-MEANING, FAVOR IT."

"UNFORTUNATELY," HE CONTINUED, "THEY ARE WHOLLY IGNORANT OF THE DANGERS INVOLVED AND THE DEGRADATION TO WHICH SUCH AN EFFORT WILL HAVE TO LOWER ITSELF."

THE PRESS ASSOCIATION EXECUTIVE THEN ASSERTED THAT ALLIED WAR AIMS SHOULD INCLUDE ESTABLISHMENT OF WORLD-WIDE UNRESTRICTED NEWS AND ACTION "TO IMPOSE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ON GERMANY."

"MY DREAM," HE SAID, "IS THAT FREEDOM OF THE PRESS WITH WHICH ZENGER'S NAME IS HISTORICALLY CONNECTED CAN BE MADE WORLD-WIDE."

MAINTENANCE OF PEACE THROUGH THE NEWS, COOPER SAID, HAS BEEN FAVORABLY COMMENTED UPON BY THE PRESS OF THE UNITED STATES AND THE BRITISH COMMONWEALTH, FORMER SECRETARY OF STATE HULL AND HIS SUCCESSOR EDWARD R.STETTINIUS. HE ADDED:

"THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES TOLD ME THAT WITH THREE-FOURTHS OF THE WORLD IN DARKNESS THE IDEA IS 'SO RIGHT.'

"YET IT IS GOING TO TAKE THE PE T ENT, MILITANT DEMAND OF OUR PEOPLE TO BRING THE BLESSINGS OF FREEDOM OF INFORMATION TO EVERY COUNTRY.

DEC 16 1944

"WITHOUT IT NO ASSOCIATION OF NATIONS EVER CAN FUNCTION SUCCESSFULLY."

COOPER CONTINUED:

"IF A FREE PRESS AND FREEDOM OF INFORMATION ARE FORCED ON GERMANY AND PROTECTED AND FOSTERED BY US IN THE SURROUNDINGS WHERE WE SHALL HAVE TRANSPLANTED IT AFTER THE WAR, THE DAY CAN COME WHEN FUTURE GENERATIONS WILL GRATEFULLY ACKNOWLEDGE OUR BENEFACTION.

"AND SO AT THIS SHRINE OF LIBERTY X X X I EXPRESS THE HOPE THAT EVERY AMERICAN WILL DEMAND OF HIS GOVERNMENT THROUGH HIS CONGRESSMAN, HIS SENATOR AND HIS PRESIDENT THAT UNSELFISH PLANS FOR WORLD WIDE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION BE PUT INTO EFFECT WITH VICTORY."

WASHINGTON,DEC.15-(AP)-AMERICAN LANDINGS ON MINDORO ISLAND IN THE PHILIPPINES PLACES MACARTHUR IN ONE BOLD STROKE WITHIN DEADLY RANGE OF THE GRAND PRIZE OF LUZON AND MANILA.

THE DARING THRUST HAS LOPPED OFF ABOUT HALF THE 315 AIR LINE MILES BETWEEN LEYTE AND MANILA BAY. IF AMERICAN AIR POWER CAN BE ESTABLISHED ON THE SOUTHERN SHORES OF MINDORO, LUZON AND ALL THAT

IT CONTAINS WILL BE IN STONE'S THROW DISTANCE TO U.S. FLYERS.
ANOTHER KEY TO THE RECAPTURE OF THE PHILIPPINES, CORREGIDOR ISLAND IN THE MOUTH OF MANILA BAY, ALSO COMES INTO EASY AIR DISTANCE WHEN A HOLD IS ESTABLISHED ON MINDORO.

THE MINDORO LANDING WILL BEYOND DOUBT THROW FURTHER CONSTERNATION INTO THE YAMASHITA FORCES OF JAPAN SEEKING TO STAY MACARTHUR. THE AMERICAN HAS ADVANCED DEEP INTO TERRITORY HELD BY THE JAPANESE. THAT HE HAS DONE IT PROVES HE BELIEVES HE HAS THE POWER TO MAINTAIN IT AND THAT VERY FACT WILL BE A FURTHER SMASHING BLOW AGAINST JAPANESE DETERMINATION TO CARRY ON THE FIGHT THROUGHOUT THE ISLANDS.

FROM A POSITION ON MINDORO, UNITED STATES FORCES WILL BE IN A POSITION TO DEAL WITH THE JAPANESE ISLAND-TO-ISLAND ROUTE BY WHICH THE ENEMY REINFORCES HIS TROOPS ON THE LEYTE BATTLEGROUND.

DESPITE THE SUPREME EFFORTS OF AMERICAN NAVAL AND AIR FORCES THE JAPANESE HAVE FILTERED A MORE OR LESS STEADY STREAM OF REINFORCEMENTS SOUTH THROUGH THE CHAIN OF ISLANDS AND WATERWAYS TO LEYTE.

WASHINGTON,DEC. 15-(AP)-BRIG.GEN.CARLOS P.ROMULO, MINISTER OF INFORMATION OF THE PHILIPPINE GOVERNMENT, JUST BACK FROM THE FIGHTING IN LEYTE, TONIGHT DESCRIBED THE LANDINGS ON MINDORO ISLAND AS "DEFINITE PROOF THAT WE ARE FIRMLY ESTABLISHED ON LEYTE."

DEC 16 1944

ANNOUNCEMENT BY GENERAL DOUGLAS MACARTHUR THAT A FORCE OF THE SIXTH UNITED STATES ARMY HAD LANDED VIRTUALLY UNOPPOSED ON MINDORO SIGNIFICANTLY SHOWS "THAT SO FAR AS LEYTE IS CONCERNED, IT DEFINITELY HAS BECOME AN AMERICAN VICTORY," ROMULO ADDED.

ROMULO DECLINED TO COMMENT ON WHETHER THE MINDORO LANDINGS MEANT A SPEEDUP IN THE PHILIPPINE CAMPAIGN, BUT ADDED, "IT IS ON SCHEDULE."

THE OPERATION AT LEYTE IS "PRACTICALLY OVER," THE PHILIPPINE OFFICER SAID, "OR THIS SECOND OPERATION AT MINDORO WOULD NOT HAVE BEEN STARTED."

THE SECOND SIGNIFICANT FACTOR IN THE MINDORO LANDINGS, ROMULO SAID, IS THE "IMPORTANCE THE PHILIPPINE GUERRILLAS ARE PLAYING IN THE OPERATIONS AS MAPPED OUT BY GENERAL MACARTHUR."

A DOMEI JAPANESE NEWS AGENCY BROADCAST YESTERDAY (FRI.) REPORTED A POWERFUL ALLIED CONVOY HAD MOVED WESTWARD INTO THE SULU SEA THURSDAY (JAPAN TIME, WEDNESDAY U.S.) WHILE AMERICAN NAVY CARRIER PLANES POUNDED NIPPONESE AIRFIELDS ON LUZON, PHILIPPINES, TO THE NORTH OF THE SEA.

THE AGENCY'S REPORT FROM TOKYO, MONITORED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COOMISSION BUT UNCONFIRMED BY ALLIED SOURCES, INTERPRETED THE MOVEMENT OF THE CONVOY AS A MAJOR EFFORT TO EXPAND AMERICAN OPERATIONS IN THE PHILIPPINES.

DOMEI ALSO SAID 400 AMERICAN CARRIER PLANES HIT JAPANESE AIRPORTS ON LUZON, INCLUDING CLARK FIELD NEAR MANILA, YESTERDAY (JAPAN TIME). THIS LIKEWISE WAS UNCONFIRMED, BUT IF TRUE WOULD BE A FOLLOW-UP OF THE PREVIOUS DAY'S BLOWS WHICH, ADM.CHESTER W. NIMITZ SAID, DESTROYED 91 ENEMY AIRCRAFT.

IN ATTACKING LUZON AIRFIELDS AND NSTALLATIONS THE U.S. NAVY WAS "INTENT ON PROTECTING AND AIDING THE UNITS ATTACKING IN THE SULU SEA, THE AGENCY DECLARED.

THE BROADCAST SAYING THE CONVOY HAD SAILED THROUGH MINDANAO STRAIT AND I TO THE SULU SEA WAS BEAMED TO THE JAPANESE-CONTROLLED PRESS IN THE ORIENT.

IT SAID "THIS ENEMY SURFACE UNIT IS NOTHING TO MAKE LIGHT OF" AND EMPHASIZED THAT "THE WAR SITUATION OF THE PAST FEW DAYS HAE BEEN THE MOST ACUTE SINCE THE START OF THE PHILIPPINES BATTLE."

DOMEI SAID "THERE IS NOT A SHADOW OF DOUBT THAT THIS IS AN IMPORTANT MOVE BY THE ENEMY TO TURN THE TIDE OF THE PHILIPPINE BATTLE IN HIS FAVOR BY EXTENDING HIS LINES WESTWARD WHILE MAINTAINING HIS PRESENT STATUS QUO ON LEYTE (PHILIPPINES.)"

IT GAVE THIS AS THE REASON FOR A "DEEP" FEELING THAT THE "PHILIPPINE BATTLE IS ABOUT TO EMERGE FROM A RESTRICTED LOCALIZED FIGHT-ING TO A VAST EXTENSIVE THEATER."

(SINCE LAST SUNDAY, WHEN THE AMERICANS ON LEYTE ISLAND CAPTURED ORMOC, PRINCIPAL ENEMY SUPPLY PORT ON THE WEST COAST, THE JAPANESE STUATION HAS BEEN DESCRIBED BY GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR AS "DESPERATE."

(JAPANESE OFFICIALS HAVE SAID THAT UPON THE OUTCOME OF THE BATTLE FOR THE PHILIPPINES DEPENDS THE FATE OF NIPPON IN THE WAR.)
DOMEI SAID THE CONVOY HAD MOVED INTO THE SULU SEA DESPITE ATTACKS BY JAPANESE LAND-BASED PLANES.
"JUDGING FROM THE TOTAL STRENGTH DEPLOYED BY THE ENEMY," THE AGENCY ASSERTED, "THE MAGNITUDE OF HIS HOPES PLACED ON THIS SINGLE OPERATION IS NOT HARD TO IMAGINE."

Village Of San Jose, Five Miles From New Beachhead, Is Captured

DEC 17 1944

General MacArthur's Philippine Headquarters, Sunday, Dec. 17 (AP). United States forces on Mindoro Island have taken the town of San Jose, 5 miles inland from their newly established beachhead, Gen. Douglas MacArthur announced today.

The operation was covered in a broad advance of 7 to 9 miles and resistance was negligible.

Yank and Australian engineers were rushing work on an airfield.

Planes based there will be within easy flying range of Manila and its network of airfields 155 miles to the north.

New Crisis For Japs

The San Jose airfield is five miles inland and along the Busunga river.

The United States' 6th Army's invasion of Mindoro Island in the Philippines plus new American fleet tactics and Filipino guerrilla successes today put a crisis before Japanese war leaders.

Sailing 600 miles between islands which the Nipponese in nearly three years in the Philippines have failed to conquer wholly, the Yanks made their beachheads Friday morning on southern Mindoro with little loss, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said.

4 Ships Sunk, Japs Say

[Tokyo radio said a Japanese communiqué reported heavy fighting in Mindoro and that Nipponese "suicide" planes which attacked the convoy en route to that island sank four transports.

[The enemy broadcast also said 21 other vessels in the convoy including eight transports, two battleships and three cruisers, were damaged and set ablaze by the Japanese pilots. None of these claims have been confirmed by American official sources.]

To The China Coast

With American troops firmly established on Samar and Leyte Islands east of Mindora, MacArthur said the latest landing not only cut the Philippine archipelago in two but will enable the Allies to "dominate sea-and-air routes which reach to the China coast."

It put the Americans 155 miles from Manila to the north; 900 miles from the China coast to the northwest and about 800 miles from the French Indo-China coast directly west.

The crisis facing Tokyo leaders was summed up by MacArthur's statement that "conquests of Japan to the south are rapidly being isolated, destroying the legendary myth of the Greater East Asia Co-prosperity Sphere and imperilling socalled 'Imperial lifeline.'"

[The Hsinking radio said Japanese Cabinet advisers and Premier Kuniaki Koiso met today for two hours to hear a report on the war situation by Maj. Gen. Shuitsu Matsumura, chief of the Japanese Army press section.]

Manila Hit, Tokyo Says

New knockout tactics of American carrier planes were demonstrated by Vice Admiral John S. McCain's task force flyers who destroyed or damaged 347 Japanese planes on Luzon Island airfields and sank twelve vessels in day and night thrusts while the Mindoro invasion convoy was under way and during the landing.

[Tokyo radio reported that waves of American planes hit Manila again today. The report was not confirmed.]

It was the first time that carrier planes had maintained day and night smothering flights, not only to blast enemy craft in the area but also to halt reinforcement enemy flights from Japanese home-island fields.

Filipino guerrillas, aided and sometimes commanded by Americans who had escaped capture when Bataan and Corregidor fell, are playing a star role in American Philippine successes, MacArthur said.

On major islands, such as Mindanao, Bohol, Cebu and Negros, the guerrillas have cleared some of the coast areas of Japanese, captured airfields and seriously disrupted Nipponese communications.

Troops, Tanks Put Ashore 155 Miles From Manila

(Map on Page A-3.)

By the Associated Press.

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Dec. 16.—A huge, 20-mile-long American warship convoy, moving 600 miles along enemy islands of the Central Philippines while carrier planes knocked out more than 300 Japanese aircraft, landed mechanized troops yesterday on Mindoro within 155 miles of Manila, headquarters disclosed today.

The Yanks swarmed ashore "with little loss."

This bold stroke, unlocking the sea approaches to embattled China by crossing to the western side of the archipelago from Leyte, was completed with stunning ease, but preparations were made for violent Japanese reaction.

(Japanese imperial headquarters in an unconfirmed broadcast today said American and Japanese forces are engaged in "heavy fighting" on Mindoro and that Japanese planes inflicted heavy damage on the American convoy.

(The Japs claimed they sunk four transports, "heavily damaged and set ablaze" the following: Eight transports, two battleships, three cruisers, two cruisers or destroyers, six ships of unidentified category.

(In an earlier broadcast the Japs said a "violent sea and air battle" was unfolding in the Sulu Sea.

(The Japanese said about one division of American troops made the initial landings at San Jose, Southwestern Mindoro.)

Three Beachheads Overrun.

Three strong beachheads on Southern Mindoro were overrun at dawn yesterday by 6th Army troops of Lt. Gen. Walter Krueger, who were greeted excitedly by Filipinos, the Japanese having fled inland under bombardment of destroyers and rocket ships.

Between the Yanks' beachhead and the big American base on nearly conquered Leyte, Yank and Filipino guerrillas were disclosed today to have seized strategic airfields and ports on intervening Panay, Negros, Cebu and Bohol as well as a 125-mile stretch of coast on Northern Mindanao.

The guerrillas, some of whom fought the losing battle of Bataan, did their work so well that the huge convoy moving south and west from Leyte was able to steam within sight of the rugged coastline of those islands.

"The operation has driven a corridor from east to west through the Philippine archipelago, which is now definitely cut in two and will enable us to dominate the sea and air routes which reach to the China coast," some 900 miles away, Gen. MacArthur said.

Conquests Being Isolated.

"Conquests of Japan to the south are rapidly being isolated, destroying the legendary myth of the Greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere and imperilling the so-called 'imperial lifeline.'"

Employing new tactics, rocket-firing planes of a fast aircraft carrier task force of Vice Admiral John S. McCain kept Luzon's 100 airfields, including the network around Manila, under attack night and day for more than 24 hours.

More than 300 enemy planes were knocked out in raids which began the day before the Mindoro landing.

Covered by an umbrella of carrier and land based planes, the convoy, commanded by Rear Admiral A. D. Struble, left Leyte Gulf in midafternoon Tuesday.

"Less than twenty-four hours after the convoy started for Mindoro, the Japanese picked us up and attacked half-heartedly," reported Murlin Spencer, Associated Press War correspondent aboard Admiral Strubble's flagship, in a December 15 dispatch.

Attacks Die Down.

"Later that day, December 13, there was a second attack. But yesterday, which was considered the critical period because we were so close to key Japanese bases, passed without a single attack on the twenty-mile-long convoy."

Aboard a covering force flagship off Mindoro, Jim Hutcheson, Associated Press war correspondent, said:

"The only hitch in the landing came when a warship signaled: 'Beach in front of our bombardment sector is crowded with welcoming Filipinos and carabaos (water buffalos). What shall we do?'"

Rear Admiral Russell S. Berkey ordered "withhold fire" until the Filipinos could seek safety.

Greeted by Woman.

Elmont Waite, Associated Press war correspondent with the assault forces, said that the landing at 7:30 A. M. Friday on the northernmost beachhead was so bloodless that the only man in one company whose progress was impeded was Staff Sergt. William Hantone of Canandaigua, N. Y. Arms imprisoned him. When he broke the embrace—he confronted a native woman who was almost hysterical from joy and fright.

Mr. Waite saw tanks roll ashore, bulldozers begin clearing roads, piers pushed up to ships' ramps, trucks and vehicles rumble on the beach, engineering parties speed inland with the troops to start construction of military installations, double rows of men formed from ship to shore toss box on box in relays to a beach storage pile.

The elated Filipinos declined pay for their services, exclaiming:

"No pay, no pay, very glad help Americans."

Mr. James, aboard McCain's flagship, said that two enemy destroyers were set afire in Subig Bay. A small troop convoy off West Luzon was pounced on; a large transport loaded with troops was set ablaze by rockets; other troop-filled smaller transports were damaged. In the same area a medium-sized freighter was blown up and an oil tanker sunk.

Near Manila at the Cavite seaplane base, from seven to ten large flying boats were destroyed at anchor and another was shot down while escorting the convoy. Three large transport planes were included in the twenty-four-hour bag of the carrier-based raiders.

DEC 17 1944

Big Airfields Within Range.

Clark and Nichols fields, which will be within easy range of land-based planes once airfields are secured on Mindoro, were among the enemy bases hit.

Gen. MacArthur's disclosures concerning the guerrillas lifted the veil on activities of Americans and Filipinos in progress since the early days of 1942.

On Mindanao, they have cleared the northern provinces of Lanao and Misamis occidental, thus securing Iligan Bay.

On Bohol, just west of southern Leyte, they have cleared the Nipponese from all the island except the town of Tagbilarn on the southwest end.

On Cebu, they have driven the Japanese from the south end into the central sector and are playing havoc with communications there.

On Negros, all the south half is in guerrilla hands except the town of Dumaguette on the southeast and it is flanked by the capture of Sibutan and Luzuriga. They also hold Bais in the southeast, San Carlos in the northeast and Isabella in the central interior.

On Panay they have captured Estangia in the northeast, Zarraga and San Miguel in the southeast and Patnongon in the southwest. They hold several vital airfields on Panay, Negros and Mindanao.

Among the leaders of these guerrillas, reported Dean Schedler, Associated Press war correspondent, are such men as Col. Wendell W. Fertig, who fought the early days of the battle of Bataan before he escaped to Mindanao, and Lieut.-Col. Charles Cushing, who eluded the Japanese when they overran Cebu.

U.S. PLANES SINK 17 JAP VESSELS

Carrier Forces Destroy 235 Aircraft in Paralyzing Foe On Luzon.

By LEIF ERICKSON

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 16—(AP) American carrier planes in three nights of constant aerial blanketing of Luzon, Philippines, sank or damaged 17 Japanese ships, destroyed 235 aircraft and damaged 138 more planes, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today.

The communique detailed the damage inflicted by the powerful carrier task force in unrelenting round-the-clock air attacks which sought to pin down and paralyze Japanese activity on Luzon, while Gen. Douglas MacArthur's troops invaded Mindoro island to the south.

The toll of enemy shipping included an oiler and small cargo ship sunk and four destroyers and destroyer escorts damaged.

Carrier Hellcat fighters and bombers started their forays through Luzon skies Wednesday. Their bombs and bullets hit Japanese land transport carrier planes as well as fighter aircraft, destroyed four locomotives and six railroad cars at San Fernando and 15 railroad cars and truck convoys at another transport yard near San Fernando.

Other Convoy Attacked

Four other enemy vessels, besides those listed as sunk or damaged, were attacked in a convoy. The communique report of shipping blasted was as follows:

One medium oiler sunk at Lingayen; one medium cargo ship exploded and left burning off Cape Bolinao; one small cargo ship destroyed west of Iba; three small cargo ships left burning at Olongapo; two small cargo vessels burning off Calatagan; three small cargo ships burning in San Miguel bay; one large transport left beached and burning in Subic bay; one medium oiler beached and set ablaze near Iba.

One destroyer or destroyer escort damaged off Vigan; one destroyer and one destroyer escort damaged near Subic bay, and one destroyer damaged in Manila bay.

The convoy which also was brought under attack included two cargo ships, destroyer and an escort vessel.

The communique said buildings and fuel and ammunition dumps were destroyed at Angeles and Clark airfields in the Manila area, and a sugarmill was damaged at San Fernando.

Reporting night operations of U. S. carrier planes in a communique for the first time, Nimitz said that "repeated night attacks were launched from our carriers Dec. 13, 14 and 15."

In a dispatch from Vice Adm. John S. McCain's flagship of the carrier force which made the strikes, Rembert James, Associated Press war correspondent, said the night air patrols over nearly 100 Luzon airfields had almost completely stopped Japanese attempts to bring in plane reinforcements from Formosa.

Meager Resistance

Nimitz tersely reported that "meager air resistance was offered by the enemy."

Besides balking Japanese efforts to use Luzon-based planes to interfere with MacArthur's Mindoro landings Friday morning, McCain's pilots prevented any effective Nipponese air attack on the U. S. task force vessels.

The communique said "an attack was attempted on our surface units Dec. 15, but all eight planes in the enemy force were intercepted and shot down."

Eleven Japanese planes were destroyed and 48 more damaged in the air sweeps over Luzon Friday, the latest foray in the three-day attacks reported in the communique.

Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon's strategic airforce Liberator bombers continued their heavy daily battering of Iwo Jima island in the Volcano islands, 750 miles from Tokyo, hitting the two airstrips there Thursday, the communique said.

One of four attacking Japanese fighters were shot down over Iwo Jima and anti-aircraft fire damaged one of the Liberators, but all returned to their Saipan base 725 miles south of the Nipponese island.

Marine fighter planes also bombed and strafed Japanese supply areas on Babelthaup, largest island in the Palau group, on the same day of the Iwo Jima raid.

LEYTE BATTLE FOR GROVE WON

U. S. 77th Division Troops Stop Bitter Attacks.

With the Seventy-seventh Division at Leyte, Dec. 14 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The battle of Coconut Grove, north of the fallen city of Ormoc, was nearing its end tonight after three days of some of the most bitter fighting of the Leyte campaign.

Dug in behind heavily reinforced concrete and coconut blockhouses and machine gun positions, the enemy made a stand some 600 yards north of Ormoc on the road toward Valencia.

Three times the Nipponese counter-attacked before the tide was turned. Once, supported by mortars, machine guns and artillery they bent our lines slightly but the ground was later regained.

The enemy is paying a high price for his fanatical stand and his coconut grove stronghold is piled high with his dead. But he continues to make suicidal attacks and the doughboys of Major-Gen. Andrew D. Bruce are blasting every Japanese out of his hole.

During the heavy artillery concentration laid down by gun crews under Col. Roy L. Bruner of Palo Alto, Cal., the Japanese moved forward to avoid the shellacking and charged our lines. They were mowed down by machine guns. In yesterday's fighting alone an estimated 500 of the enemy were killed.

Infantrymen reported seeing Japanese bodies blasted into the air by artillery bursts but the Japanese kept bringing in new troops as others were wiped out in strongpoints.

A few enemy barges seen around the mouth of the river northwest of Ormoc were sunk by Corsairs sweeping in low.

Today the infantrymen of the Seventy-seventh were advancing through the blood-soaked coconut grove and on up the road, but they still were meeting stubborn resistance. Their line tonight stretches about 1,000 yards north of ruined Ormoc.

There are a few pockets of Japanese left in the coastal plain south of Ormoc where Major-Gen. Archibald V. Arnold's Seventh Division has been pounding them for three weeks.

His forces have driven what was left of them into heavily wooded mountains to the east where, it is estimated, 2,000 of them are encircled by Gen. Arnold's troops and other elements of the Sixth Army.

Rescued B-29 Flyers Return to Saipan Unit

Brooklyn and Neponsit Men Among Survivors

AT 21ST BOMBER COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Saipan, Dec. 16 (AP) (Via Navy Radio)—Ten happy men who survived a B-29 water landing in returning from the Tokyo raid of Dec. 3, and passed eleven days afloat on three rafts rejoined their unit today.

The airplane's co-pilot went down with the ship but the other ten escaped injury and weathered the long sea waft in such remarkably good condition that none was hospitalized upon his return here.

They were picked up by a destroyer, December 14, more than 300 miles north of Saipan almost at the same time that another destroyer was picking up eleven survivors from another B-29 crash about 300 miles away. This plane was returning from the Nagoya raid, December 13. These eleven were brought here yesterday.

The ten survivors of the Tokyo strike who were brought here, are:

Equipment Failed.

Airplane commander Capt. Francis James Murray of 8420 Third avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.; navigator Lieut. Alton C. Ayers of Corpus Christi, Tex.; flight engineer Second Lieut. Franklin I. Tennyson of Washington, D. C.; bombardier Flight Officer Thomas L. Waters of 230 Beach 146, Neponsit, L. I., N. Y.; central fire control Sergt. Franklin Moore Jr. of Oshkosh, Wis.; left gunner Sergt. Charles C. Dean of Camden, Ark.; right gunner Corporal Dale R. Coates of Madison, S. D.; radio operator Corporal Orville J. Granneman of St. Louis; electrical specialist Corporal Edward Yaeger of Battleground, Wash.; tailgunner Sergt. Clifton L. Sewell of Baltimore.

Capt. Murray, the skipper of the ill-fated B-29, told how the Superfortress became a terrible ice-encased trap over Tokyo, December 3, when the defrosting equipment failed.

Thick frost on the windows prevented the pilots from seeing other planes in their formation and forced them to drop out to avoid a collision.

Jap Fighters Attacked.

Bombardier Waters was unable to see when the other planes in the formation dropped their bombs and was forced to drop his by guess—probably in the center of Tokyo—and the gunners were unable to see the enemy fighters which concentrated their fury on the blinded B-29.

Due to enemy fire, which failed to injure any crew member, the plane lost first one engine and then another and finally a third just before she was "ditched" at 8:30 P. M. in the pitchblack night in heavy swells. The plane broke in two in the middle. All but the co-pilot got out within two minutes, Capt. Murray said. He added that the co-pilot was probably knocked out. He was never seen again.

The tail of the plane sank within ten minutes and the nose went down a half hour later.

For five days the men in the three rafts kept their position and then gave up hope and started sailing toward the Philippines with the wind and the current, Capt. Murray said.

"We rationed food and water. In ten days five planes passed over us very high without seeing us—B-24s. At 2:30 P. M., December 13, Yaeger (the electrical specialist) heard a plane which turned out to be another Navy B-24, in Navy terminology known as a PB4Y.

"Dean fired two rockets which the plane did not see, then he asked me for a third which had a punctured primer and would not work when we tried it before. This time it went off. The plane saw it and circled back.

"Every one of us cried and we are not ashamed to admit it."

The PB4Y dropped rations and flares and departed.

Next morning at 8, a Martin Mariner search plane piloted from a base somewhere in the Marianas by Navy Lieut. Robert W. Kobert of Sioux City, Iowa, sighted the men and dropped a note saying that they would be picked up within an hour by a destroyer. They were—at 9:15 A. M.

Japs' 100 Airfields on Luzon Kept Idle During New Landing

U. S. Carrier Planes Gave Enemy Flyers No Rest for 24 Hours During Invasion

By REMBERT JAMES,
Associated Press War Correspondent.

ABOARD ADMIRAL McCAIN'S CARRIER FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF THE PHILIPPINES, Dec. 15 (Via Navy Radio) (Delayed).—Supporting Gen. MacArthur's new landings on Mindoro Island to the south, the United States Pacific Fleet showed the world a new trick in carrier warfare today by taking around-the-clock control of the Northern Philippines air.

For more than 24 hours Vice Admiral John S. McCain's planes have denied the Japanese use of their almost 100 airfields on the great island of Luzon. Strong American combat air patrols sterilized the entire island of enemy aircraft yesterday and still held full sway today.

During all last night dozens of American carrier planes ranged Luzon skies bombing and destroying and giving the enemy no rest.

Revised figures show enemy losses for the 24-hour period as 37 planes shot out of the air and 139 destroyed on the ground or on the water and 80 damaged on the ground.

During the same period a medium-sized freighter was hit and exploded and a medium oil tanker was sunk off the west coast of Luzon.

A small troop convoy in the same area was surprised and attacked with bomb rockets and strafed, and one large transport laden with troops was left damaged and smoking from rockets.

Smaller transports, also troop-filled, and two escort warships in the convoy also were damaged.

It was the biggest day in many weeks for Admiral McCain's flyers, who operated almost exclusively with Navy Hellcat fighters equipped with bombs and rockets. They achieved apparently full surprise in opening the attack, finding in one instance at South Aparri Airport cattle wandering over the runway.

The greatest bag of the day came late in the afternoon when one flight of 27 enemy planes, apparently from Formosa, tried to land in Northern Luzon. American fighters shot down 18 of this group and also bagged one of a flight of eight other planes.

On the water they destroyed seven to 10 large flying boats at Cavite seaplane base and shot down another seaplane which was escorting an enemy convoy off Luzon.

Three large transport planes were destroyed, two of them blown apart on the ground.

In sweeps around Clark Field, which has many separate runways, strafing planes hit four fuel dumps and blew up an ammunition depot.

Pilots told scores of stories on attacks on enemy fields and shipping. One was related by Ensign Richard K. Reynolds, New Royal Oak, Mich., who caught a large Japanese troop ship off Western Luzon's coast and attacked it with rockets. "I stuck a rocket in her stern," he said, "and left her burning so badly she had to be abandoned."

Only a few minutes earlier, Ensign Reynolds along with Lt. (j. g.) R. L. Hunt, Kansas City, and other pilots destroyed a similar craft just off Iba, a thousand yards from the coast.

Telling about it, Lt. Hunt said: "Lt. Fred Keene, Douglastown, Long Island, hit it first with five 100-pound bombs. Then I flew in at masthead height and smacked it right amidships with a big one. She spiit in two."

Lt. Comdr. Leonard J. Check, Minto, N. Dak., a fighter squadron leader, killed two Japanese pilots and destroyed their planes and a truck in a deadly game of hide and seek this morning. It took two strafing runs but Comdr. Check caught both and set the truck afire. Then he went back to the field and strafed their planes.

But Comdr. Check's day was not over. He flew to nearby Clark Field, 50 miles north of Manila, and found two more enemy planes trying to land. He attacked one and shot it down while other flyers in his division got the other.

Two pilots who helped keep Luzon

30. 24— 21303

under combat patrol all last night told how they strafed a factory and railroad cars at the town of San Ferando; attacked shipping off the coast and heckled air fields.

Lt. Theodore Wolfe, Memphis, Tenn., flying along Subic Bay shore today spotted an enemy destroyer which he attacked and damaged.

Two Years In Pacific

Private Baker, 22, was employed as a salesman before joining the United States Marine Corps three years ago. His sister, an employé of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, lives at the Franklin street address.

A veteran of two years' duty with the Signal Corps in the Pacific theater, he has participated in numerous campaigns, including the Palau and New Britain engagements. He holds th eexpert rifleman's badge.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baker, of Martinsburg, W.Va., he attended Martinsburg High School.

Baltimorean's Idea Brings Game Broadcast To Peleliu

DEC 1 - 1944

The following story, distributed by the Associated Press, was written by Sergt. William Boniface, of Bel Air, Md., Marine Corps combat correspondent formerly of The Evening Sun.

Somewhere in the Pacific—[Delayed]—A handful of battle-battered marines on Peleliu wanted to hear a football broadcast from San Francisco, some 8,000 miles away. They did—via a Japanese telephone.

A combination of endeavors by Pfc. Clyde Lucas, of McEwen, Tenn.; Pfc. Claude L. Baker, of 117 West Franklin street, Baltimore, and Sergt. John E. Morgan, marine combat photographer, of Nashville, Tenn., made the reception possible.

Picked From Jap Rubble

Lucas obtained the instrument itself, an old-fashioned French-style phone he picked from the rubble of a Jap command post.

When Morgan saw it he figured it might be put to use somehow, so Lucas gave it to him. But figuring didn't do any good for a while and the instrument knocked around Morgan's tent for a couple of weeks.

It was Baker who came through with the brilliant idea. Without a word, he went to see the communications officer in charge of the big radio set up at the command post. The next thing was to run wires from the command post to Morgan's tent.

They Laughed When He Said It

"They're for a loud-speaker and headquarters has agreed to tune in on the football scores in the morning," Baker said. This statement was greeted with loud guffaws because everyone knew there was not an extra loud-speaker within miles.

"Go ahead and laugh," Baker replied.

He had the last laugh, too. There was a broad grin on his face when he picked up the Jap telephone and in less than 5 minutes had the receiver working as a speaker, loud enough for everyone in the tent to hear.

Morgan's tent was always crowded after that when there was a good football broadcast.

Japs Admit Losses Now Are 162,159 In Philippines

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 16.—The Tokyo radio, in a broadcast heard by NBC, admitted Japanese Army and Navy losses of 162,159 in the Philippines since November 1, but claimed, without Allied confirmation, that a half million Americans had been killed in that period.

The radio made this breakdown of Japanese losses: Army, 83,748; Navy, 78,411.

Japs Make Claim.

Japanese Imperial Headquarters in an unconfirmed broadcast today said that American and Nipponese forces are engaged in heavy fighting on Mindoro Island and that Japanese planes inflicted heavy damage on the American convoy, sinking four transports and damaging others.

Recorded by the FCC and reported by the A. P., the broadcast said between Wednesday and Friday Japanese planes in a series of attacks on the American convoy approaching Mindoro had, in addition to sinking four transports, "heavily damaged and set ablaze" eight transports, two battleships, three cruisers, two cruisers or destroyers and six ships of unidentified category.

New Yorker Blasts Japanese Tanker

A Naval Air Base, Philippines, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—A asingle Navy Liberator, swishing in at mast-head height, recently destroyed a 10,000-ton Japanese tanker and damaged another in that Celebes Sea. Lieut. Griswold Forbes of 522 East 86th street, New York, commander of the plane, dropped three bombs which scored directa hits on the tanker.

The same Liberator crew recently sank a small merchantman off Mindanao and lugger near Luzon, as well as destroying three enemy seaplanes in an attack on a Japanese base at Lapos, Celebes.

GERMANS ATTACK AT 12 POINTS ON FIRST ARMY LINE

Seek to Ease Pressure Against Duren Sector by Counter Thrusts.

LOOSE ARTILLERY FIRE

Heaviest Fighting Taking Place in Ardennes Forest Region.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, Paris, Dec. 16. — (AP) German counterattacks were opened today at a dozen points on the 70-mile First U. S. army front between Duren and Trier, the heaviest fighting occurring in the Ardennes forest.

The counter thrusts were an apparent effort to draw off pressure against the Duren sector.

Although the full extent of the assault can not yet be determined, it included attacks at widely separated points including the area of Monschau, the neighborhood of Krewinkel, eight miles north of Prum, at Peterskirche, 14 miles southwest of Prum, and Echternach, 10 miles northwest of Trier.

The drive was pointed at the Ardennes region or mountain forests through which the German army passed in 1940.

The Germans drew an armored division from another front and hurled it today at the U. S. Seventh army, which poured more troops into the Reich's Palatinate after smashing the enemy stand in the French frontier city of Lauterbourg.

All along a front of more than 200 miles, where four American armies have invaded Germany, the enemy loosed artillery barrages which reached an intensity of 100 shells an hour on some U. S. First army sectors, and up to 250 an hour on the U. S. Third army front in the Saar basin.

Destroy Bridges

The thunder of explosions set off by the Germans destroying the last bridges across the Roer river indicated that they had given up hope of holding back the First army on the west bank of that stream.

The Germans counterattacked for the first time in two weeks against the U. S. Ninth army north of Lindern, but were thrown back.

(A German broadcast said the U. S. Ninth Army had turned on giant loudspeakers which blared out "advertising" of an impending offensive.)

The U. S. Third army bored 300 yards deeper into the Siegfried line in the western Saarland, and infantry crossed the southern border of the basin at a new point nine miles east of Sarreguemines.

Heavy fighting inside Germany was reported on Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army front as infantry took on the first Siegfried line pillboxes and supporting artillery answered the Siegfried's guns.

(U. S. Seventh army doughboys are driving deeper into Germany and have seized Scheibenhard, German border town near the Rhine, and a number of Reich villages, a dispatch from Thoburn Wiant and Robert C. Wilson, Associated Press correspondents, reported. They also said that Wissembourg and Lauterbourg, Alsatian border cities, had been seized by the Seventh).

There were four crossings on a 17-mile front into the old Bavarian palatinate, a region of war industry and agriculture, and already the Seventh was drawing off German strength and relieving pressure farther north on the western front.

Might Outflank Basin

The German high command was aware that to leave the Siegfried line lightly defended here was to invite a breakthrough that not only would menace such arsenal cities as Ludwigshafen and Mannheim, 35 miles farther down the Rhine, but might outflank the entire Saar basin, a coal and steel region of the ... importance.

first impe...

The panzer division reinforcement rumbled into battle as the Siegfried line guns poured heavy fire on the advancing Americans.

The 45th division was believed to be about two miles inside the palatinate west of Wissembourg, the 103rd division invaded in the same general area, and the 79th forged two bridgeheads across the borderline Lautern river near Lauterbourg, near the Rhine.

The heaviest fighting appeared to be on the 79th's sector, where the Germans had the advantage of the bunker-studded forest of Bien Wald.

Twenty-three miles west of Wissembourg around Bitche the Germans were fighting fiercely from the Maginot line, swinging the fortifications' guns around and blazing away at the Americans attacking from the south.

Other diversionary attacks were aimed by the Germans far to the south in Alsace around Colmar, but there the French First Army and elements of the U. S. Seventh held foothill positions and, fighting from behind flooded streams, could not be dislodged easily.

Rapidly squeezing the Germans from their last footholds west of the Roer, the First Army's 83rd Division captured Berzbuir, near the river three miles south of Duren, and made other gains up to 1,000 yards opposite that river stronghold.

The Fifth armored division coming up on the flank occupied more of the Roer's west bank.

the 1st Army's positions along the long-dormant front at the Luxembourg-German border.

The 3d Army's new entry into the Saar was made north of Erching, 9 miles east of Sarreguemines. A few miles west the 35th Division contained a counterblow north of Habkirchen.

Fighting In Dillingen

The 90th Division crawled ahead 300 yards along a 900-yard sector in the western Saar's fortified city of Dillingen and was hotly engaging German forces which had turned a church into a strong point.

Three miles south the 95th Division shoved another 250 yards deeper into Ensdorf. The Germans in this area, maintaining their strong resistance, threw 6,000 rounds of artillery into Saarlautern alone yesterday.

From the British-Canadian front in eastern Holland came reports of heavy German transport movement in the Ruhr. The Germans, trying to learn British intentions, tried vainly to raid an outpost east of Venray, along the Maas River.

More Of West Bank Occupied

The 5th Armored Division, coming up on the flank, occupied more of the Roer's west bank.

In the Monschau sector 20 miles southwest of Duren the 2d and 78th divisions pressed eastward along both banks of the Roer through pillboxes, barbed wire and mine fields of the West Wall.

Heavy enemy shelling was reported from the southern end of ... north, American First Army infantry and armor cleaned out more German pockets west of the Roer River and added to their holdings along a twenty-seven-mile stretch of the river's west bank. The Germans demolished the remaining bridges over the Roer—a sign they have abandoned hopes of holding anywhere on the west shore. Heavy German artillery fire harassed the First Army front.

Southward, the American Third Army scored fresh but slow gains. The Ninetieth Division crawled another 300 yards into Dillingen, with fierce fighting in the southern part of the city. The Ninety-fifth Division advanced 250 yards inside Ensdorf east of Saarlautern. Nine miles east of Sarreguemines, infantry moved half a mile beyond Erching and reached the German border.

The Forty-fifth, Seventy-ninth and 103d divisions of the Seventh Army were battling into Germany at points along a seventeen-mile front, meeting heavy resistance. American artillery thundered in a duel with Siegfried Line cannon.

Four crossings of the Nazi border were forged by Lieut.-Gen. Alexander M. Patch's veterans, with the 79th Division entering the Reich at two points near Lauterbourg, a city only two miles from the Rhine, but the 79th immediately ran into a stiff fight.

The German command pulled a Panzer division from another sector and flung it into battle to stop the threat to the chemical and industrial centers of Mannheim and Ludwigshafen thirty-five miles to the north.

Units of the 45th and 103rd divisions crossed at points west of Wissembourg, eleven miles west

Lauterbourg, 2 Miles From Rhine at Border, Falls to Patch's Men.

4 COLUMNS DRIVE FORWARD

First Army Mops Up West of Roer—Third Grinds On in Saar Sector.

Kennedy

Paris, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—The American Seventh Army poured more troops into its four-pronged invasion of Germany today, seized the French border town of Lauterbourg only two miles from the Rhine, and beat against the first pillboxes of the Siegfried Line in the Bavarian Palatinate.

German West Wall artillery reacted violently, and a fresh Nazi armored division was flung in as reinforcement in attempts to stem the Seventh's thrust into the Palatinate.

Two hundred miles to the ...

of Lauterbourg, and were closing on that gateway city to Germany from northeastern Alsace.

Made Deeper Penetrations.

Both of these divisions apparently made deeper penetrations of Germany. The 45th advanced six miles Friday after opening its attack in the morning four miles below the border.

Third Army troops farther west again began boring through the serried Siegfried defenses in the Dillingen and Saarlautern zones and gained up to 300 yards today. But German artillery drumfire increased. The Germans slammed 6,000 rounds into the Saarlautern area alone yesterday.

Some Nazi Pockets Remain.

On the Duren front before Cologne the 1st and 9th armies occupied or controlled 27 miles along the west bank of the Roer from Linich down to Bergstein.

South of Mariaweiler a mile and a half west of Duren, there still were some German pockets, but these, dominated by American guns, were being mopped up. Fighter bombers battered at German fortified towns and supply centers across the Roer.

(The Berlin radio said today the United States 1st Army had thrown its latest attacks against German bridgeheads along the Roer west of Duren, and added without explanation that "smaller gaps made by the Americans were sealed up in counterthrusts.")

Supreme headquarters said the 1st Army had buried 17,078 Germans since D day.

Allied planes spotted heavy German transport movement in the Ruhr by road and rail, presumably indicating strong efforts to reinforce that great industrial area.

Planes Batter Rail Lines.

Ninth Air Force planes supporting the Third Army wrecked or damaged 170 railroad cars and seven locomotives. Black Widows at night punished a road convoy between Saarbrucken and Homburg.

Gen. Patch's Seventh Army became the sixth Allied Army to break down a western door to German soil.

The Seventh Army's attack was a major peril to the Germans, since a breakthrough in this sector could outflank Germans facing the Third Army on the Saar front.

In compelling the Nazi command to move an armored division into the Palatinate, the Seventh has already lightened the load of Allied armies pressing in elsewhere along a great arc.

The Germans in another counter-measure are reinforcing troops in the Alsace pocket around Colmar and counter-attacking in efforts to divert Seventh Army elements from northern Alsace.

In the Bitche area west of the Seventh's border crossings, Germans still battling on French soil continued tough resistance, using Maginot Line forts to good effect. Here they have turned about the Maginot's disappearing guns which swing on revolving turrets.

The French First Army scored an additional small gain near Selestat, north of Colmar.

Dugouts De Luxe On West Front

By ROBERT EUNSON

Somewhere in Holland, Dec. 16 (AP)—Dugouts on the Western front this winter season feature hot-and-cold running water, electric lights and shingled roofs made from mortar-shell boxes.

I have just visited a field artillery outfit in the Nijmegen sector, where bitter cold and misty rain have caused something of a stalemate, and found the crews enjoying the comforts of home.

One gu ncrew had sunk the body of a German truck in the ground and had remodeled the inside into a comfortable metal roofed home for four. Another dugout was a two-room suite beneath the roots of trees a half mile from the German lines.

Gift-Laden Christmas Tree

In one very elegant dugout there was a Christmas tree, complete with presents.

Hot water was provided by an ingenious if somewhat crude flash oil pan fire, designed by scientific minds in the battery who resorted to their knowledge of high-school physics.

Piped into the dugouts, the system made the morning shave less unpleasant and provided the underground kitchen with hot water at all times.

Flashlight bulbs inserted into reflectors made from tomato cans and powered by dry-cell batteries were vastly superior to old-fashioned lanterns.

In one artilleryman's elaborate flat a majestic grandfather clock ticked away.

—But Adds Time Plays in Favor of Nazis.

Twelfth Army Group, Advance Headquarters, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—The offensive of the American First, Third and Ninth armies is a "paying proposition" and Lieut.-Gen. Omar Bradley, commander of the Twelfth Army Group, is going to push ahead regardless of poor weather.

At a press conference yesterday Gen. Bradley said German battle casualties were anywhere from three to five times greater than those of the Americans and the Germans cannot long stand this heavy rate of attrition.

Gen. Bradley said the Yanks were capturing a considerable number of green troops, and it was better to take them now than waiting until they had several months' experience.

"If we had three months of good weather it would make a whale of a difference," he said. "We are going ahead the best we can without it because time is playing in favor of the enemy."

Yanks Superior in Air.

The heavier German attrition rate, he said, was due to American superiority in air support, artillery equipment and the infantry.

However, he said "we are now suffering from the optimism of August, September and October, and the war is being prolonged on account of it."

Discussing Allied air superiority, Gen. Bradley said the Germans had flown only 6,500 missions against his troops since D day as compared to more than 190,000 sorties flown against the enemy by the Ninth Air Force—air arm of the Twelfth Army Group.

Gen. Bradley said ground troops at first were skeptical of air support after American bombs killed American troops at St. Lo, but since air and ground combat teams have gained battle experience, the doughboys now have "full confidence in it."

"Now our armies never hesitate to call for air support even 500 yards or less from our front lines," Gen. Bradley said. "Even the German air force in its heyday had nothing like the fine co-operation that exists between our ground and air forces. Only because of this co-operation were we able to advance as fast as we did, commencing with the St. Lo break-through and continuing through France."

Gen. Bradley added that the 9th Air Force also "has been keeping the German air force off our necks. Now you ride around without even looking up. It was different in Africa."

Maj. Gen. Hoyt Sanford Vandenberg, commander of the 9th Air Force, disclosed that since D day his outfit has destroyed 1,408 enemy aircraft, 15,851 motor transports, 1,462 armored vehicles and tanks, 9,432 railroad cars and 2,296 locomotives, in addition to gun positions, ammunition dumps, bridges and power stations.

Bans War Teaching In Reich

London, Dec. 16 (AP)—The Allies will ban teaching in German schools of military subjects or anything dealing with the "art of war," General Eisenhower told the German people today in a message broadcast by the Luxembourg radio.

Churchill Admits Error In Speech Before Commons

Aide Explains Reference to 'Territorial Changes' in Atlantic Charter.

LONDON, Dec. 16—(AP) Prime Minister Churchill had "a lapse of memory" when he erroneously told the House of Commons that an insertion in the Atlantic Charter permitted "mutually agreed" territorial changes prior to the peace, it was acknowledged today.

It was announced incidentally that he might "quite possibly" broadcast to the world Sunday night a review of the war and the political situation. He was believed working on this tentative address at his official residence, No. 10 Downing street, when there came from those hushed and scrupulously correct precincts the frank admission that Churchill had "just made a slip" in his speech yesterday.

Confused Statements

In a voice charged with all the solemn augustness of his position, one of the Prime Minister's private secretaries explained to the Associated Press that Churchill, while dealing with Polish territorial changes in his address to the House of Commons, had confused the wording of the Atlantic Charter with the British government's statement of foreign policy drafted in September, 1940.

While both sides of the Atlantic were considering the content of Churchill's statement that an insertion had been made in the Atlantic Charter, and mutually agreed on by the three great Allied powers, that territorial changes could be settled before the peace conferences, the secretary explained:

"Mr. Churchill was speaking from memory and just made a slip. What he attributed to the Atlantic Charter was actually in the British government's statement of foreign policy laid down in 1940. Later during yesterday's debate, Mr. Eden (Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden) pointed out that Mr. Churchill had erred."

He added that the Prime Minister had no prepared text for yesterday's speech. "He spoke from notes and memory and the Prime Minister made a slip."

If Churchill was disturbed over his "lapse of memory," there was no evidence of it tonight. Diplomatic quarters were of the opinion that the Prime Minister considered that Eden had explained his error and that the whole thing would be forgiven.

May Broadcast Today

At the same time a Downing street spokesman said it was "quite possible" that the Prime Minister would discuss the European political situation in a broadcast tomorrow.

The spokesman said the plans were still tentative and no hour had been fixed for the broadcast.

Although Churchill's statement was explained as a "lapse of memory," a feeling grew in diplomatic quarters that perhaps some changes may have been made in the Atlantic Charter which have not yet been disclosed.

It was recalled that the British press and certain members of Parliament earlier this year suggested revision of the charter in view of war developments.

Last April, the then United States Secretary of State Hull and Under Secretary Stettinius made statements that there was a growing concern on both sides of the Atlantic for a new interpretation of the Charter.

"Give Me Quarter Hour"

When asked by the Associated Press for an explanation of the Churchill statement of yesterday, a secretary at No. 10 Downing street said:

"Give me a quarter of an hour. I'll see what I can do."

Ten minutes later he telephoned back to say Mr. Churchill had just made a "slip."

Churchill in his statement before Commons said:

"Our British principle has been enunciated that, as I have said, all territorial changes must await conference at the peace table after victory has been won, but to that there is an exception in principle, and that exception is changes mutually agreed. It must not be forgotten that in the Atlantic Charter is inserted an exception that there should be no changes before the peace table except those mutually agreed."

Kenneth Pickthorn, a National Conservative member, immediately challenged the point and asserted that the Atlantic Charter contained no such insertion, but that the United Nations desired to see no territorial changes which did not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the people concerned.

Eden's Correction

Eden in the debate that followed said:

"What Mr. Churchill intended to convey was that, in the view of his Majesty's Government, there was an exception to the general principle that there should be no territorial changes before the peace table.

"Mr. Pickthorn was perfectly correct in pointing out that the exception is not in the Atlantic Charter.

"The exception was in cases where the changes were mutually agreed, but that is not part of the Atlantic Charter, but part of a statement of our own foreign policy which we made in September, 1940, when the Prime Minister said we had not at any time adopted since the war broke out the line that nothing could be changed in territorial structures of various countries."

Says Churchill Was Confused

Secretary Explains He Mixed Up Wording of Charter and Policy Statement.

London, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—One of Winston Churchill's private secretaries told the Associated Press today that the Prime Minister had a "lapse of memory" in speaking on Poland yesterday and confused the wording of the Atlantic Charter with a British Government statement on foreign policy drafted in 1940.

Mr. Churchill's sensational statement that there was an insertion in the Atlantic Charter that territorial "changes mutually agreed" upon could be made before the peace table, brought this explanation at No. 10 Downing street:

"Mr. Churchill was speaking from memory and just made a slip.

"What he attributed to the Atlantic Charter was actually in the British Government's statement of foreign policy laid down in 1940. Later during yesterday's debate Foreign Secretary Eden pointed out that Mr. Churchill had erred."

Was Answer to Question.

The Secretary's statement came when the Associated Press called the British Foreign Office to learn whether there was any explanation of Mr. Churchill's statement. A Foreign Office spokesman declined to comment, and suggested that No. 10 Downing Street be asked the question.

"Give me a quarter of an hour," a secretary at No. 10 said. "I'll see what I can do."

Ten minutes later he called back with the lapse of memory

30. 24 — 21305

explanation.

The text of that section of Mr. Churchill's statement before the House of Commons yesterday was:

"Our British principle has been enunciated that, as I have said, all territorial changes must await conference at the peace table after victory has been won, but to that there is an exception in principle, and that exception is changes mutually agreed. It must not be forgotten that in the Atlantic Charter is inserted an exception that there should be no changes before the peace table except those mutually agreed."

DEC 17 1944

Statement Was Challenged.

In the debate which followed Kenneth Pickthorn, a National Conservative member, jumped on this point, asserting that the Atlantic Charter contained no such insertion, but that it said the United Nations desired to see no territorial changes which did not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned:

Mr. Eden, in the debate, said:

"What Mr. Churchill intended to convey was that, in the view of his Majesty's Government, there was an exception to the general principle that there should be no territorial changes before the peace table. Mr. Pickthorn was perfectly correct in pointing out the exception is not in the Atlantic Charter. The exception was in cases where the changes were mutually agreed, but that was not part of the Atlantic Charter, but part of a statement of our own policy, which we made in September, 1940, when the Prime Minister said we had not at any time adopted since the war broke out the line that nothing could be changed in territorial structures of various countries."

In diplomatic quarters, nonetheless, the feeling was growing that perhaps some changes had been made in the Atlantic Charter, but had not yet been disclosed. It was recalled that the British press and some members of the Commons early this year suggested that the Atlantic Charter should be revised in view of war developments. Last April Cordell Hull, then Secretary of State, and present Secretary Stettinius declared there was increasing concern on both sides of the Atlantic for a new interpretation of the Atlantic Charter.

Churchill Talk Shows Allied Unity Waning, London Paper Says

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The London Daily Mail declared today that Prime Minister Churchill's speech on the Polish question had made "very clear" that "the United Nations have drifted a long way from that fine accord they reached at Teheran."

DAY

The newspaper said the Prime Minister's plea for a new meeting between himself, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin was an obvious proposal to obtain a full unity of purpose once more among the big three.

"We still are waiting to know where the United States stands in relation to Poland," the Daily Mail said.

The London Times observed that the changes in the map of Central Europe demanded by Russia and seconded yesterday by Mr. Churchill "might result in creating sounder political foundations, a stronger and more closely knit Polish nation."

The Moscow radio today broadcast a long extract of the Prime Minister's speech, but added no comment.

A German Foreign Office spokesman, in a broadcast today, described the Churchill speech as "a priceless contribution to Germany's war effort."

"The German people are grateful to Churchill for the brutal frankness with which he announced his plans of dividing and destroying Germany," he said. "We shall see to it that these plans are taught in every school, that every German soldier will carry them and they can be read on the walls of every factory."

Churchill May Broadcast Today

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP).—A spokesman at No. 10 Downing Street said today it was "quite possible" that Prime Minister Churchill would discuss the European political situation in a broadcast tomorrow. He said that plans were indefinite and that no hour had been fixed.

Mr. Churchill voiced an intention to take the government's case to the people when he spoke in the House of Commons Wednesday.

Roosevelt View On Poles Sought In the Senate

Vandenberg Calls for It as Churchill Text Is Put in Congressional Record

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP).—A suggestion that President Roosevelt's views on Russian territorial claims against Poland be placed in the Congressional Record was made in the Senate today.

DEC 17 1944

Arising after Senator John H. Danaher, Republican, of Connecticut, had offered a text of Prime Minister Churchill's speech in Commons yesterday supporting the Russian claims, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, of Michigan, declared:

"I should greatly appreciate the inclusion also of a speech from the President should one become available for insertion in the Congressional Record."

Senator Vandenberg's brief comment came after Senator James J. Davis, Republican, of Pennsylvania, suggested the Administration "should make its position clear."

Subsequently, Senator Robert A. Reynolds, Democrat, of North Carolina, told the Senate in an extended address that he is today "more thoroughly in favor of isolationism" than ever before.

The retiring chairman of the Senate Military Committee—he did not seek re-election to the Senate for the term starting next January—spoke of what he called Prime Minister Churchill's "desertion of Poland."

Long a foe of Administration foreign policy, Senator Reynolds declared that "if we had attended to our own personal business, we would not be involved everywhere on the face of the earth."

Senator Vandenberg earlier had called for "plain speaking" by the United States "in relations with Russia and Britain."

As Washington watched with obvious concern diplomatic developments abroad, and as it was confirmed that Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill will meet early in 1945, Senator Vandenberg declared:

"The United States should not be the only silent partner in this command. I think it would be a shocking thing if so fundamental a question (as the Polish post-war problem) were to be determined to suit the self-interests of Moscow and London without either consultation or consent of Washington."

Commenting on Prime Minister Churchill's apparent abandonment of the London Polish government, Senator Vandenberg said if the United States has been consulted, "the matter is a state secret" and if it has not, it is a "state scandal."

It should be no threat to military unity, he asserted, "for us to be as plainspoken as our military allies."

ASKS ROOSEVELT FOR A SHOWDOWN ON POLISH CRISIS

Senator Vandenberg Holds It's Time for Candor by Washington.

Washington, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—Senator Vandenberg (R.-Mich.) called today for plain speaking by the United States in relations with Russia and Britain.

As Washington watched with obvious concern diplomatic developments abroad, and as it was confirmed that President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill will meet early in 1945, Senator Vandenberg declared:

"The United States should not be the only silent partner in this command. I think it would be a shocking thing if so fundamental a question (as the Polish post-war problem) were to be determined to suit the self interests of Moscow and London without either consultation or consent of Washington."

Commenting on Prime Minister Churchill's apparent abandonment of the London Polish Government, Senator Vandenberg said that if the United States has been consulted the matter was a State secret, and if it has not, it was a State scandal.

It should be no threat to military unity, he asserted, "for us to be as plain spoken as our military Allies."

Senator Connally (D.-Tex.), Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that the Prime Minister's pronouncement means a Big Three meeting is necessary because the United States must be consulted on European boundaries.

That the Big Three of the United Nations convene in late January or early February was confirmed yesterday by highly placed Washington officials.

This is the earliest date on which the three chiefs of State can gather despite Mr. Churchill's appeal to President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin to meet with him at the earliest possible moment.

President Roosevelt's tight home-front schedule precludes a Big Three conclave before his January 20 inauguration.

Though the time has been set definitely, the site is a subject of speculation. Premier Stalin may not be willing to leave Russia if the Red Armies uncork another winter offensive.

The leaders probably will rendezvous outside the United States.

Churchill Statement Stirs Senate Protest

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16. — (AP) British-Russian plans for pushing Poland farther westward set off a string of verbal firecrackers on Capitol Hill today but the rest of official Washington remained silent.

Centering his fire on Premier Stalin of Russia, retiring Senator Reynolds (D-SC) declared that when the war ends the question will not be whether there is to be "power politics" in Europe but "whether Mr. Stalin is going to extend his rule to all of it."

Senate debate was touched off when Senator Danaher (R-Conn) offered a text of Prime Minister Churchill's House of Commons speech of yesterday for the official record.

Reynolds, chairman of the Military Affairs committee who did not seek reelection this year, declared he was "very unhappy" to learn from Churchill's speech that "our Allies have deserted Poland."

And Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), who earlier had called for "plain speaking" in our relations with Russia and Britain said:

"I should greatly appreciate the inclusion also of a speech from the President should one become available for insertion in the Congressional Record."

A suggestion that the Administration "should make its position clear" was voiced by Senator Davis (R-Pa) as he inserted an editorial from the Philadelphia Inquirer. The editorial urged the earliest possible get-together of the heads of the "Big Three" as a result of "Mr. Churchill's surprising speech."

State Dept. Studying Stand

The State department labored through it all over the precise wording of an expression of views on the Polish question, a statement almost certain to have a profound impact on this country's relations with Britain and Russia.

Before being released, it probably will be submitted to President Roosevelt for his approval and may even be issued from the White House.

The department was urged in a telegram made public by Representative Barry (D-NY) to "inform Churchill that Poland is an ally and not an enemy nation, and that we Americans haven't suffered more than half million casualties to divide Europe between Great Britain and Russia."

STUTTGART YARDS BOMBED BY YANKS

Other U.S. Planes From Italy Hit Oil Plant

DEC 17 1944

London, Dec. 16 (AP)—A force of 100 United States heavy bombers dumped explosives on railroad yards north of Stuttgart today, blasting the enemy transportation hub for the second time in eight days in support of 7th Army columns invading Germany north of Strasbourg.

Pilots of 100 Mustangs which escorted the Flying Fortresses reported the Germans failed to intercept the attack concentrated on freight yards at Kornwestheim, northern Stuttgart suburb. One group of heavies bombed visually. Others used the "magic eye" in the overcast.

Today's mission was the smallest dispatched by the 8th Air Force in many months, but warnings from the German radio indicated much heavier attacks were being carried out by bombers of the 15th Air Force, which sent its heavyweights from Italy toward Munich and into Czechoslovakia.

Late in the afternoon, the RAF sent a force of Lancasters against the industrial and railway center of Siegen, about 45 miles east of Cologne. Fighters went along.

Many of the American bombers participating in the Stuttgart raid landed on the continent because of bad weather.

YANK BOMBERS HIT SOUTHWEST REICH

DEC 17 1944

London, Dec. 16 (AP)—German warnings said American bombers from Italy and Britain struck southwest Germany today for the fourth joint attack on the Reich in less than a week. British-based bombers hit the area in front of Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh Army invading the Palatinate.

Two groups of bombers from Italy were reported to have flown into Germany, one toward Munich and the second toward Czechoslovakia.

DAY

British night bombers climaxed yesterday's two-way attack on German rail and industrial centers with a heavy raid on Ludwigshafen which ran the 24-hour bomb weight dropped on the Reich to 6,000 tons. Hannover, Kassell and Osnabruck had been bombed earlier by British-based Fortresses, while United States Fifteenth Air Force bombers from Italy struck railway yards at Innsbruck and targets at Linz, Salsburg, Rosenheim and Amstetten.

German fighters again remained on the ground yesterday. From the combined fleet of Allied war planes approximating 1,700, eighteen failed to return. In addition British Lancasters with six-ton earthquake bombs struck German E-boat and R-boat pens at Ijmuiden, on the west coast of Holland.

Fighters and bombers assigned to support the Allied armies in France, Germany and Italy made more than 4,000 trips over the battlelines. Three hundred American medium bombers pounded five German villages east of Monschau and blew up an oil dump at Ruthen, seventy-five miles northeast of Cologne.

Strike In Sudetenland

Rome, Dec. 16 (AP)—Liberators and Fortresses of the United States 15th Air Force flew deep into enemy territory today and bombed a synthetic oil plant at Brux in Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland 49 miles northwest of Prague.

The bombers encountered intense flak and clouds, which necessitated bombing by instrument.

Other Liberator formations bombed Innsbruck, at the head of the Brenner rail route into Italy, for the second consecutive day.

United States 12th Air Force fighters and bombers launched another all-out assault at the enemy's strongholds and communications in the Po Valley.

Seven waves of American Thunderbolts dived under the clouds and plastered enemy troops near Toss Ignano, twenty miles southeast of Bologna.

Fortress Gets Back With Shell In Gas Tank

A U.S. Heavy Bomber Base, England, Dec. 16 (AP)—The crew of the Flying Fortress "Take It Easy" today considered themselves just about the luckiest ever.

On a recent raid on Merseburg, "Take It Easy" returned safely to its base with an unexploded German 20mm. shell sloshing around in a gas tank.

Lieut. Donald Sparttman, of Anderson, Ind., and Lieut. Charles Bomer, of Chicago, members of the crew, said the sky over Merseburg was "crammed with Nazi fighters, flaming Fortresses and exploding shells."

REDS DRIVING TOWARD VIENNA

Salient Extended Almost To Slovakia At New Point

London, Sunday, Dec. 17 (AP)—The Red Army salient 100 miles northeast of Budapest was extended almost to the Slovak border at a new point yesterday, while other Russian tanks and infantry smashed westward toward Vienna from the newly won bridgeheads at Ipolysag in western Slovakia northwest of the Hungarian capital.

Moscow's broadcast communiqué last night restricted itself to reporting gains some 27 to 30 miles north and northeast of Miskolc which is 85 miles north and north east of Miskolc, which is 85 miles northeast of Budapest, but the Germans announced withdrawals to new positions north and west of Ipolysag in the face of continual Russian assaults.

Strengthen Bridgehead

Unofficial Moscow dispatches also said the Russians were strengthening their bridgehead over the Ipoly River at Ipolysag and thrusting toward the Slovak capital of Bratislava, 87 miles to the west, and toward Vienna, 115 miles in the same direction.

The communiqué listed the capture of 30 towns, including Barakony, directly north of Miskolc and less than 4½ miles from the Slovak frontier and within 24 miles southwest of the already outflanked Nazi eastern Slovakian stronghold of Kassa (Kosice.)

The Germans were reeling backward along a 125-mile front into Slovakia extending from Ipolysag to Satoraljaujhely, and last night's communiqué listed the capture of Sarospatak, a large town on the Miskolc-Satoraljaujhely-Kassa railway 7 miles southwest of Satoraljaujhely.

Abaujszanto Falls

The Russians also listed the capture of Felsoregmec and Vitany, on the Czech border 6 miles north of Satoraljaujhely.

Abaujszanto, 18 miles northeast of Miskolc and 30 miles south of Kassa, also fell to the Russians. Abaujszanto is on another rail line leading north to Kassa.

The naval section of the communiqué announced the sinking of three German destroyers by the Red Fleet in the Baltic.

Possibly heralding the final big push to wipe out the remnants of the German Baltic armies pocketed on the Baltic coast of Lithuania and Latvia, the communiqué reported also the sinking of six German transports and the damaging of a seventh in a raid on the Germans' evacuation port of Liepaja.

Breaches Admitted

Malinovsky's drive into Slovakia turned attention from the battle for Budapest, where the Russians bored in upon the two-thirds encircled capital from the northeast and north through mazes of German traps and fortifications. They continued to encounter the bitterest resistance. Berlin admitted two breaches were carved in the city's defense arc, but said they were sealed off later.

The next goal of Malinovsky's forces was believed to be Leva (Levice), an important rail junction 18 miles northeast of Ipolysag and on the railway leading to Bratislava.

Czechs Still Operating

A strong thrust was likely toward Banska Bystrica, 46 miles north of Ipolysag. Banska Bystrica, seized by the Germans last October, was the headquarters for an estimated 25,000 free Czech fighting troops. They remain a formidable operating force with which Malinovsky may attempt to effect a juncture.

The Czechoslovak Press Bureau in London reported that the Germans in Bohemia and Moravia were feverishly fortifying the frontiers with Slovakia and Austria, and were drafting Czech peasant youths as fortification builders.

REDS CAPTURE VITAL TOWN IN WEST SLOVAKIA

Strive to Open Roads to Vienna and Trap Big Force to East.

GERMAN TROOPS REEL BACK

Berlin Says Russian Armies Are Attacking in South Poland—More Localities Freed.

London, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—Striking into western Slovakia for the first time, Russian troops today pressed a bold offensive from captured Ipolysag (Sahy) Junction, attempting to smash open the roads to Vienna, 115 miles to the west, and at the same time trap German divisions in the east.

Ipolysag, on the Budapest-Bratislava-Vienna highway, was seized by Red Army spearheads which bridged the Ipoly River frontier from Hungary thirty-four miles northwest of beleaguered Budapest, Danube-straddling capital already two-thirds encircled by the Soviets.

Moscow announced that Ipolysag fell Thursday after a bitter all-night fight in which 800 Germans were killed. It is a half-mile inside Slovakia. In taking it the Russians skirted the 2,700-foot Borzsony Mountains between the town and the big Danube River bend to the south.

Nazi Troops Reel Back.

German troops reeled back into Slovakia along a 125-mile front from Ipolysag eastward to Satoraljaujhely in the face of the increased tempo of the Russian drive.

Berlin reported the Russians also were attacking more heavily in the Debica-Tarnow area of southern Poland, and speculated these renewed thrusts may be the beginning of a northern envelopment movement against Slovakia as well as a winter offensive aimed at Krakow.

The stroke northward from Hungary by Second Ukraine Army troops appeared likely to aid a fighting force of 25,000 free Czecho-Slovak troops.

Nearing Bratislava Plain.

Other Red Army troops skirted the northern Borzsony Mountains and reached positions leading down hill into the plains extending westward to Bratislava.

Moscow said that the combined drives toward central and eastern Slovakia had swept through thirty-one more localities, among them the manganese center of Szendro, twenty miles north of toppled Miskolc and eighty-five miles northeast of Budapest.

Moscow pictured the fighting along the Ipoly River front as a determined effort to break the stalemate at Budapest, where heavy rains had interfered with progress of the huge Russian pincers strangling the strife-torn city.

LONDON, Dec. 16 (AP).—A Russian communique tonight announced the sinking of three German destroyers in the Baltic Sea. The communique announced also that six German transports had been sunk.

RUSSIANS REVISE DESIGNS OF TANKS

Emphasis Put On Reducing Size And Adding Armor

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Moscow, Dec. 16 (AP)—A 35-year-old Soviet tank wizard, Lieut. Gen. Joseph Kotin, said today designers of the land dreadnaughts for the Red Army were doing their utmost to reduce their size and lighten running gear.

"Each kilogram that can be taken off the traction gear and other running parts means that much thicker armor and a larger caliber gun," explained Kotin, who created the "KV" tank.

In an experimental factory which he directs at the Kirov works he even used a wind tunnel to study aerodynamics as relating to the tank.

Cut Down Cooling System

"Wind-tunnel tests showed us how properly to direct the flow of air into the tank," he said. "As a result, we've cut the size of the cooling system. We've found we can do with one radiator instead of two. This gives us quite a bit of extra room."

Kotin was interviewed by the Moscow News at the People's Commissariat of the tank industry here. He was laying out a set of blueprints on a big drafting board for "a new one."

Once an apprentice fitter at the Kharkov boiler works, Kotin studied in night school to prepare himself for a technical college and the Red Army military academy. He entered the designing office of the Kirov works seven years ago.

Norway Sabotage Increase Noted

London, Dec. 16 (AP)—The Norwegian Government reported today that sabotage had broken out "throughout the length and breadth" of the homeland in the path of the Germans retreating from northern Norway before the Russians.

"Oslo in particular," said a spokesman, "has been subject to sabotage during the last month or six week, and hardly a night goes by without an explosion of some kind."

Norwegian patriots were credited with sinking two ships, including the 16,000-ton Schleswig, in Oslo harbor, blowing up a chemical factory and dynamiting the offices of quislings and storm troopers.

They were so active at Bergen, the spokesman declared, that the Germans had to impose a curfew after watching shipbuilding installations, transformers and an engineering workshop go up in flames.

The wave of sabotage was touched off with the Russian liberation of Kirkenes six weeks ago, the spokesman added, and anything of value to the enemy has been the target of saboteurs, from engineering shops to clothing cleaners—one of which blew up just after receiving 20,000 German uniforms.

ARCIZKEWSKI STILL HOPEFUL

Poles Preparing New Proposals In Russian Dispute

London, Dec. 16 (AP)—While official comment was withheld Tomasz Arciszewski, head of the Polish Government in exile, tonight called the plan to amputate the eastern part of Poland "unjustified" unless the Allies first give a formal and explicit guarantee of the nation's sovereignty and independence.

Arciszewski, in an interview with the London Times, said he still hoped for a settlement and his government now was preparing "a new set of proposals which we intend to submit in due time to the Soviet and other Allied governments after they have been approved by the underground state in Poland itself."

Gloom In Polish Circles

Prime Minister Churchill's statements in Commons on the Polish question generally spread gloom in Polish circles and one member of the exiled Government described it as an "unfair attempt to impose upon the Poles Tehran decisions taken without our knowledge or agreement."

"The Polish-Russian dispute can be divided into four parts," Arciszewski said. "One—guarantees for the re-establishment of a free, sovereign, independent Polish state; two—the frontier problem; three—civil administration in the territory liberated by the Red Army; four—the future of Polish-Russian relations.

Would Defer Frontier Issue

"With regard to the first problem, I greatly appreciate all the favorable statements about the future of the Polish state made by Mr. Churchill . . . but these do not seem to justify making the amputation of the eastern part of Poland—which is not all marshland but includes territory of vital importance—the preliminary condition of any Russian-Polish settlement.

"I believe we could base the future of a country faced with such enormous difficulties only on international treaties of an explicit character. My Government intends, therefore, to do the utmost to obtain—first of all—formal Allied guarantees for the re-establishment of the Polish state. When we have secured that, we can undertake discussion of frontier adjustment."

Masefield Pins Hope On Rus

Burcote Brook, Near Abingen, Berkshire, Dec. 16 (AP)—John Masefield, England's Poet Laureate, said today he believes Russia will be one of the strongest forces for peace in the postwar world.

"Russia seems determined there shall not be another European war; that the craze for conquest shall not again get out of hand on this continent," the 69-year-old gray-haired man of letters said in an interview.

Masefield predicted that Russia would come out of the war "with plenty of weight behind her convictions; for we have seen an astounding feat in the east, a profoundly significant rebirth of a vast nation within a generation.

"Voice Will Be Strong"

"Russia will emerge triumphantly from the war, knowing her political system will stand almost any shock and with the knowledge that she virtually has saved Europe. Her voice will be strong indeed in world councils."

Masefield said the two "danger points" in Europe as he saw them "are Germany and the Balkans. Russia will have her realistic way dealing with the Germans, and she may well be a means of controlling threats in the entire Balkan area. People of those lands, hot-tempered mountaineers, love fighting and thrive on national hatreds to a degree incomprehensible to us and especially to Americans.

"Most of the other European countries—even Italy should have had her fill of war—desire lasting peace. That will provide Russia with her golden chance. It should be our chance, too—to help build a practical community of nations in spirit of confidence and independence and a proud determination to achieve unprecedented national greatness in co-operation with her neighbors. I think that determination will be nobly fulfilled."

30. 24 — 21307

Fears Long War

Masefield expressed the fear that the war "might go on so long that war will become the chief occupation of all young men, and the world will become one vast military society."

Literature would cease to have meaning in human life then, he asserted, "and the great cultural and artistic values so necessary to civilization would all but disappear.

"If the war ends fairly soon, however, creative forces will be released and the impact upon the arts might be impressive. It must be remembered, though, that after the last war there was no stamina left in the peoples who had been fighting.

"Millions died from influenza and other diseases because their resistance was gone. That had its spiritual counterpart—'brain influenza' similarly affected a huge number of people. Perhaps we can avoid that this time."

Europe.

Masefield added, however, that "what I fear is that most of the European nations—perhaps all except Russia—will be too tired after the war, just as they were after the last war, to do what will be required to keep the peace.

"Nations will want to rest rather than to tackle peace problems boldly and vigorously. Alas, active scoundrels then will be quick to take advantage of such unguarded and apathetic times, just as they did before."

Masefield is more of a reporter-historian in wartime than a creater of poetry. He told the story of Dunkerque in "The Nine Days Wonder." His book about London's emergency health services under years of fire will be published soon. Now, with the accent still upon high heroism but shifted to an ancient age, he is translating Homer's Iliad.

To Be Solved By Europe

Masefield, who smiles gently but has the inward toughness of a man who has been a ship's cook, farm hand, hobo, dock walloper and New York saloon porter, did not wish to try to unravel the snarled skeins of conflicting motives in Greece, Italy and Poland.

He emphasized, however, that "most of the problems ahead of us will have to be solved by the European peoples."

"The United States will be able to help, of course, by counsel and by example of political morality and social consciousness, but by hardly more than that.

Gives Views On France

However well intended the United States may be, however generous of money and manpower, they are too far away to be able to play a really vital part in Old World reconstruction, and it is too difficult for Americans to understand our problems over here."

Of France, Masefield asserted, "That country will, I feel, amaze the world."

In short, this is why he thinks so:

"Whatever General de Gaulle may lack in long-range statecraft, he assuredly is the man for the moment. In him there is no compromise, no defeatism, no taint. Thanks largely to him, all feelings of martyrdom and self-pity have gone out of France.

"Now swelling in her are a new

Paris Paper Sardonic On Representative Luce

Paris, Dec. 16 (AP)—Under a sardonic headline, "Gay Paris," the Leftist newspaper Franc-Tireur today suggested that on the basis of Representative Clare Boothe Luce's reports, American women will be asking their husbands to send them packages of food and clothing from France.

The newspaper quoted a report which said the Connecticut Congresswoman, who visited Paris recently with the House Military Affairs Committee, cabled to the United States that French children were fat, healthy and richly clothed while English children were thinly clad.

In an allusion to the comforts Americans are alleged to be giving German prisoners, the paper remarked:

"Madame Luce certainly must think we are receiving benefits of the Geneva Convention."

Terms Of Russo-French Pact To Be Published

Paris, Dec. 16 (AP)—General de Gaulle returned to Paris from Moscow today and it was announced that the terms of the French-Soviet pact he concluded with Marshal Stalin would be announced simultaneously in Paris and Moscow at 7 P.M. tomorrow.

De Gaulle told ministers who met him at the airport that the results of his mission were good.

Two on Eisenhower's Staff Married

Paris, Dec. 16 (A. P.)—Two members of Gen. Eisenhower's staff, Wac Corporal Pearlie Hargrave of Pillager, Minn., and Sergt. Michael (Mickey) McKeogh, former New York bellhop, were married today. Gen. Eisenhower, Lieut.-Gen. W. B. Smith, his chief of staff, and other members of Supreme headquarters attended the ceremony, which was held in a chapel where royal weddings once took place. The Supreme commander later gave a reception for the couple.

The bride, who is a chauffeur for distinguished visitors to headquarters, was given in marriage by Lieut.-Col. Ernest R. Lee of San Antonio, Tex. Sergt. Margaret Chick of Toledo, Ohio, was the bridesmaid and Sergt. John Farr of Elmira, N. Y., was best man. Chaplain John Keegan of Boston, Mass., performed the ceremony.

Sergt. McKeogh is the son of Mrs. Mary K. McKeogh of 9810 35th avenue, Corona, N. Y.

PARIS POLICE BAR DANCING

Paris, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—The French police today banned dancing in the Paris area on the grounds that it is too frivolous while three-million French-men are in prison camps and soldiers are dying at the front.

The ban applies to American soldiers as well as to the French people in night clubs and dance halls, but the Red Cross and other service clubs were excepted from the order.

8TH ARMY CLOSING RING ROUND FAENZA

British Gain Foothold on Ridge Dominating City—Fifth Army Beats Off Assaults

ROME, Dec. 16 (AP)—British and Polish troops and tanks, closing a ring around strategic Faenza, on the edge of the Po plain, gouged out a foothold today on a dominating ridge two miles west of the city as heavy fighting flared abruptly along almost half the Italian front.

The ridge runs from Celle, one and a half miles west of Faenza, to Pideura, four miles southwest. The Germans tried vainly to blast the British Eighth Army's forces from it with an artillery barrage. As the barrage lifted, four Mark VI tanks and infantry sprang to the attack, but they were hurled back and the Allies took more than 200 prisoners.

Steadily clearing the enemy from all high ground west of Faenza in this sector, the Poles stormed and captured strongpoints and a height southwest of Pideura. The enemy's reaction was equally violent and just as futile northeast of Faenza, where the Canadians maintained and widened to 3,000 yards a bridgehead over the Naviglio Canal, one of the waterways blocking an attack on the city from the east.

The Germans attacked all day yesterday and then gave ground slowly under Canadian blows. The Lamone River bridgehead in this sector, having been strengthened to a width of two miles, the Canadians in a surprise jab fought up the east bank of the Naviglio Canal to within 300 yards of the road center of Bagnacavallo, nine miles northeast of Faenza.

A number of German tanks were knocked out in close fighting in this push. The Germans are strongly entrenched in Bagnacavallo, however.

Some ten miles west of the Celle-Pideura fighting, the enemy counter-attacked viciously in an attempt to drive the British from Tossignano, eight miles southwest of Imola.

Nine miles due south of Bologna the Germans tried to encircle without success the Fifth Army's forces at Poggio di Spora. Another counter-blow was warded off northeast of Grizzana, eighteen miles southwest of Bologna.

Allies Renew Attack Southwest of Faenza

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Dec. 16.—British and Polish troops today renewed the attack southwest of Faenza and gained a foothold on the ridge running between Celle and Pideura, Allied headquarters announced.

Celle is less than 2 miles west of Faenza and below the Bologna-Rimini highway.

Canadian forces north of the highway tangled with the Nazis in fierce fighting and extended their newly-won bridgehead across the Naviglio Canal to 3,000 yards.

In the 5th Army sector fierce fighting continued. British troops repulsed a number of enemy attempts to recapture Tossignano.

Immediately south of Bologna Americans of the 5th Army repulsed a strong enemy attack. Heavies of the Italy-based United States 15th Air Force yesterday bombed strategic targets at Innsbruck, Linz, Salzburg, Rosenheim and Amstetten. Ten aircraft were missing.

Fascist General Gets Six-Year Jail Term

Rome, Dec. 16 (AP)—Attilio Teruzzi, lieutenant general of the Fascist militia who now is in German-occupied Italy, has been sentenced in absentia by the Rome Tribunal, Minor court, to six years and three months imprisonment.

He was charged with seizing from a judge by threats of violence valuables which had been confiscated from him after the overthrow of Mussolini.

RIOTING BREAKS OUT IN 10 TOWNS IN SICILY

ROME, Dec. 16.—(AP) New disorders have broken out in 10 towns in Sicily, including Palermo, an Italian government spokesman announced tonight, attributing the demonstrations largely to youths of the recalled military classes of 1921 and 1922.

These disorders, disclosed at a press conference, followed rioting at Catania Thursday in which one person was killed and public buildings were set afire.

Pope To Celebrate Mass At Midnight

Vatican City, Dec. 16 (AP)—Pope Pius XII will celebrate midnight mass Christmas Eve in St. Peter's for the first time since he became Pontiff in 1939, the Vatican announced tod...

St. Peter's will be open to the public, and Rome streets, ordinarily dark because of the shortag... electricity, will be lighted.

BRITISH SAY NO TO PEACE BID BY GREEK EAM

Offer Fails To Provide For Cessation Of Leftist Resistance

Athens, Dec. 16 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie rejected peace proposals of the EAM (left wing national liberation front party) today because the Leftists' offer failed to provide immediate cessation of resistance, and fighting continued in the capital.

A British headquarters statement said, "General Scobie must continue to insist upon satisfactory fulfillment of this condition."

Scobie, the British commander in Greece, has demanded that all ELAS (fighting branch of the EAM) supporters in Athens and its port, Piraeus, stop fighting against British and Greek Government troops and surrender their arms.

Tone Seen Hopeful

The tone of his reply to the EAM peace offer today, however, was regarded as hopeful.

The headquarters statement said Scobie "does not believe there will be any difficulty in Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander's being able to initiate necessary steps to bring the turmoil to an end and restore to all Greeks, whatever their opinions, the enjoyment of their democratic liberties."

Scobie earlier had pledged that Alexander, supreme Allied commander in the Mediterranean, would take over the task of ending the conflict within Greece when the armed civil strife is ended.

Conditions Listed

The EAM peace offer included these conditions:

That a new government be formed to deal with the question of disarming guerrilla forces.

That suspected Axis collaborators be prosecuted promptly.

That Greek Government troops be removed from Athens.

In regard to the latter, the British statement said that Scobie was prepared to order these troops to return to the barracks where they were when hostilities with the ELAS began if his requirements were carried out by the EAM and ELAS.

A communiqué from General Scobie's headquarters said "good progress" was made in clearing areas in Piraeus, including a strongly held feature east of the main harbor. In Athens, the bulletin added, there "is no change in the situation."

Fighting In West

Fighting is continuing in western Greece, the communiqué said, with casualties to both sides. Ground troops were receiving support from British warships.

Meanwhile, there was no indication of whether EAM-ELAS leaders would be satisfied with creation of a regency under Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens until a plebiscite is held to determine whether Greece will be a monarchy or a republic.

General Scobie, Harold Macmillan, British resident minister in the Middle East, and Greek Premier George Papandreou were reported earlier to be pinning their hopes on EAM-ELAS acceptance of a regency.

The archbishop was regarded as acceptable to all sides, but it was understood that Papandreou desired a triumvirate with Nicholas Plastiras, who led the Greek revolution of 1922, and Philip Dracoun.is, under secretary of foreign affairs, acting with Damaskinos.

Battle For Capital Continues

While negotiations for peace persisted, the battle in the capital continued, with the latest British estimate of casualties suffered by the ELAS revised upward to 1,000, with 600 dead. In addition 2,800 prisoners were taken.

EAM sources said their terms for a temporary truce, handed to General Scobie in reply to his original terms, included also an agreement to withdraw from Athens and Attica, and asked removal from Athens of the Greek mountain brigade and the sacred battalion, Greek Government units which EAM accuses of having Fascist leadership.

Although demolitions by ELAS forces continued in the capital, General Scobie had ordered Greek Government forces to remain strictly on the defensive, and to make no move which might provoke fresh outbreaks.

Elas Leader Recalls Germans

ATHENS, Dec. 16 (AP)—General Scobie released today the text of a reply received from Gen. Stephan Saraphis in which the commander of the Elas forces said:

"You are trying to conquer and occupy Greece, taking the place of the Germans and overlooking the services and sacrifices our nation had made."

The reply, dated Dec. 8 and received two days later, asserted that while the Elas is fighting with the fighters of Athens. We will continue the struggle wherever necessary until you realize your responsibility to history and, after reconsidering your decisions, cease to attack.

"Thus can the formation of a genuine national Government be brought about—a Government that will guarantee free expression of the people's will in accordance with the terms of the Atlantic Charter and the Teheran agreement. We hope that as our friends and allies you will remain neutral."

General Saraphis asserted that the repatriated Greek Government had caused conditions "bordering on anarchy," created, he said, by the repeated employment by the Government "of persons who are culpable collaborationists."

EAM SETS OUT ITS TERMS FOR ENDING FIGHT

Wants New Government to Disarm Guerrillas and Try Collaborationists.

DISORDER EASING IN ATHENS

Greek Government Forces Are Ordered by Scobie to Remain Strictly on Defensive.

Athens, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—The Left Wing EAM (National Liberation Front) informed Lieut.-Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, today that it would cease fighting if a new government were formed to deal with the question of disarmament of guerrillas, and if suspected collaborationists were brought to trial.

[BBC Correspondent John Nixon said in a broadcast from Athens that Gen. Scobie rejected the EAM conditions for a temporary truce, CBS reported. He said Gen. Scobie pointed out that one of the British terms—that all ELAS forces in Athens and Piraeus cease resistance and hand in their arms—had been ignored, and added that the British commander insisted on satisfactory fulfillment of this condition.]

Fighting slackened in Athens as the British were reported to be continuing negotiations with the EAM for a solution of the Greek crisis.

The reply of EAM and its armed force, the ELAS, to Gen. Scobie's terms were handed to the British commander at noon today, and the proposals, according to EAM sources, include:

1. Agreement by ELAS to withdraw from Athens to Attica.

2. Formation of a new government to settle the question of disarmament.

3. Removal from Athens of the Greek Mountain Brigade and the Sacred Battalion, Greek Government units which EAM accuses of having Fascist leadership.

4. Trial of persons suspected of collaborating with occupation forces.

British Are Hopeful.

There was no immediate comment from British headquarters. An emissary who handed the reply to Gen. Scobie expressed hope the terms would mark the beginning of successful negotiations for concluding the civil war in Greece.

It was disclosed late in the day that Gen. Scobie had ordered Greek Government forces to remain strictly on the defensive, and to make no move which might provoke fresh outbreaks. Meanwhile, demolitions by ELAS forces continued. The explosives destroyed Greek intelligence headquarters and a police station, both previously abandoned.

The British-held center of the capital was ringed by barbed wire entanglements. Light artillery was placed at strategic points along the main artery, University street. British twenty-five-pounders traded fire with the ELAS who shelled the city during the day. The British reported progress in Piraeus, where the neck of the Kallipolis Peninsula was secured by the capture of Castle Hill.

British parachute troops blocked the subway between the suburbs and Omonia Square by which the ELAS, armed forces of the EAM, had been infiltrating at night. The EAM's radio was believed knocked out when R. A. F. Spitfires strafed the Leossia station just outside the city.

The EAM's radio also was believed knocked out when RAF Spitfires strafed the Leossia Station just outside the city. The British, broadcast over the same wave length last night.

(The Cairo radio said the station had been recaptured by the British.)

Lt. Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece; Harold MacMillan, British Minister of State in the Middle East, and Greek Premier George Papandreou were understood to be pinning their hopes on the formations of a regency in their negotiations with the ELAS.

Regency Proposed.

Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens, Philip Dracoumis, Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs, and Nicholas Plastiras, who led the 1922 Greek revolution and was recalled from an 11-year exile by Premier Papandreou, were the proposed members of the regency to rule for King George II until a plebiscite determines whether Greece will be a monarchy or a republic.

Archbishop Damaskinos was understood to have accepted a place on the proposed regency, but Plastiras told reporters he considered military force was the only hope for peace and that he believed a military solution was only a "matter of days."

There was a tendency among rightists of Premier Papandreou's supporters to hope that endeavors to patch up a peace will fail. Police officers expressed alarm at the idea that the British might agree to a political amnesty for EAM leaders.

Premier Papandreou declared in an official news bulletin last night for just punishment of "those responsible for the present tragedy."

Peter Rallis, merchant marine minister, said he had informed King George that the "Populist party repudiates the idea of setting up a regency."

Issue Discussed.

Discussing the issue were Reginald Leeper, the British Ambassador; Harold MacMillan and Themistakles Sophoulis, Greek elder statesman, who has acted as an intermediary between the opposing forces.

However, it was expected the eventual agreement would call for a one-man regency, possibly under Archbishop Damaskinos.

Other armistice terms reliably reported to be acceptable to the British, and said to have been presented by the EAM leaders, included amnesty for leaders in the civil struggle and formation of a national government representing all parties.

In the meantime, the ELAS hammered at British positions with fresh artillery and a renewal of sniping. ELAS concentrations were subjected to bombardment by 25-pound British shells.

ELAS casualties in the struggle so far were estimated by British authorities as 600 to 700 dead and 1,000 wounded.

AMERICANS HIT IN GREECE

Man and Woman, UNRRA Aides Suffer Bullet Wounds

ATHENS, Dec. 16 (AP)—Two American workers for the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration have been injured by bullets fired in the civil warfare, it was announced today. They were Marie Berger, Arlington, Va., and William Tait of Fairfield, Conn.

Miss Berger was wounded in the leg by a stray sniper's shot. Mr. Tait, a district director for the UNRRA, suffered a bullet wound in the right foot while riding a truck.

Last week Norman Russel of East Orange, N. J., and Duncan Marnoch of Gurock, Scotland, both UNRRA workers, were injured by bullets while delivering foodstuffs and medical supplies in Red Cross trucks.

Swedes Launch Cruiser.

Stockholm, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—A new 7,000-ton Swedish cruiser, Kronor, was launched today at Goteborg by Crown Princess Louise. The cruiser is the first of two authorized by the Government in 1940.

CHINESE REACH HOCHIH VICINITY

Credit Mindoro Landing With Diverting Jap Troops

Chungking, Dec. 16 (AP)—The counterattacking Chinese, continuing their advance in Kwangsi province down the Kweichow-Kwangsi railway, have reached the vicinity of Hochih, 95 miles from Liuchow, the Chinese high command announced today.

Yesterday the Chinese were within 12, 15 and 18 miles of Hochih in three directions. The town has been outflanked on the southeast by Chinese forces which continued to progress today.

Chinese in this capital meanwhile hailed the American landings on Mindoro Island in the Philippines as bringing much nearer an ultimate landing on the China coast.

The Chinese expressed belief that already the Japanese operations in China might have been affected. For example, they said, the Japanese apparently were keeping the bulk of their strength in reserve in Changsha, Hengyang, Kweilin and Liuchow so they could move east toward the coast, rather than hurling these forces westward against the Chinese.

CHINESE THREATEN JAP-HELD HOCHIH

Chungking, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—Chinese troops outflanking Hochih on the south have driven deep into Kwangsi Province to a point eighteen miles southeast of that Japanese-held city, the Chinese High Command announced today.

Hochih, strongpoint on the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad along which the Japanese developed their recent threat to the Burma Road town of Kweilin, also was threatened from the north and west by other Chinese columns. Hochih is ninety-five miles northwest of Liuchow, former advance American air base.

Chinese Cleaning Up After Capturing Bhamo

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, Kandy, Ceylon, Dec. 16.—The crushing of the last organized resistance in the North Burma town of Bhamo was expected today to release another powerful Chinese force for the push south toward the old Burma road.

Only a few snipers remained from a Japanese suicide force, originally estimated at 1,200 men, which had held out for weeks in the by-passed town, 80 miles south of Myitkyina.

Bhamo fell yesterday to the Chinese 38th Division, which laid siege to the enemy's fortress of teakwood logs, described by an American liaison officer as "the best defense system yet encountered in North Burma."

American Flyers Sink Destroyer at Hong Kong

By the Associated Press.

CHUNGKING, Dec. 16.—Bomb-carrying fighters of the United States 14th Air Force sank an enemy destroyer in Hong Kong Harbor on December 8, American Army headquarters announced today.

In a review of air operations from December 7 through December 13 headquarters announced that American planes destroyed 42 enemy aircraft of all categories, probably destroyed, 10 and damaged 22. Six were shot down in air combat. No American planes were lost.

Boy Takes Girl Tiger Hunting On Burma 'Date'

By the Associated Press.

MYITKYINA, Burma, Dec. 16.—Dancing is too tame for American boys and girls in Myitkyina, so when they have dates here they sometimes go tiger hunting.

Corpl. Charles J. McCrary, a military policeman of Centralia, Ill., called on Carol Hagerman, a Red Cross worker of Kansas City, Thursday night, and they drove out a few miles from Myitkyina and shot a 300-pound tiger that was seven and half feet long.

Miss Hagerman drove the jeep within a hundred yards of the tiger. Corpl. McCrary killed it with one shot.

Australia May Import Wheat Next Year

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 16 (AP)—Australia, "which before the war was the world's third largest exporter of wheat, may herself have to import wheat next year for the first time since the disastrous drought of 1897," an authoritative agricultural source forecast today.

North and South America were mentioned as possible sources of imports.

Chiefly because of failure of the new South Wales and Victoria crops as a result of drought, Australian wheat production this season "is not expected to exceed 50,000,000 bushels," this informant said.

Latin-American Unions Denounce Argentina

By The Associated Press.

CALI, Colombia, Dec. 16—The Latin-American Confederation of Labor passed unanimously yesterday a resolution calling for a continent-wide one-day protest strike next Jan. 25 against the present regime in Argentina.

The resolution demanded freedom for Argentine political prisoners and a "cessation of the tortures of which they are the victims."

Another resolution called for measures to end purported racial discrimination in the Panama Canal zone.

Five Chilean Prelates Attack Communism

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 16 (AP)—Five of the highest archbishops and bishops of the Catholic Church in Chile today published a pastoral letter declaring "no Catholic can sympathize with Communist doctrines." The publication of the letter followed an announcement last Monday of Chile's establishment of diplomatic relations with Russia.

The letter was signed by Archbishops Jose Maria Caro, Santiago; Alfredo Silva, of Concepcion; Alfredo Cifuentes, of La Serena, and Bishops Rafeal Lira, of Valparaiso, and Manuel Larrain, of Talca.

The letter declared it was "impossible to conceive of a Catholic Communist."

"Catholics cannot collaborate," the letter said, "in any way with Communism."

L. B. Pearson Is Named Ambassador by Canada

Minister Will Succeed Leighton McCarthy in Washington

OTTAWA, Dec. 16 (AP).—Appointment of Lester B. Pearson as Canadian Ambassador to the United States was announced today by Prime Minister W. Mackenzie King.

The new Ambassador at present holds the post of Minister at the Canadian Embassy in Washington. He succeeds Leighton McCarthy, who has resigned.

Heads Allied Food Board

Lester B. Pearson, forty-seven years old, is chairman of the interim commission of the United Nations food conference, which was held at Hot Springs, Va., in June, 1943. The commission was set up to develop a detailed plan for the permanent organization to carry out the conference's recommendations for international collaboration in improving nutrition, stimulating world agriculture and generally improving the well-being of the populations.

On Sept. 16, 1944, Mr. Pearson was elected chairman of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration conference in Montreal. He also heads the committee on supplies.

Prior to his new appointment he was minister with the rank of counselor in Washington.

DUCE KICKS, HAS TROUBLES

Objects To "Difficulties" His Regime Labors Under

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—The long-silent fallen Duce, Benito Musso-

lini, spoke out today from puppet headquarters at Milan, asserting that his regime faced "unbelievable and ever-increasing difficulties" in the shifting fortunes of war.

Federal Communications Commission monitors said Mussolini appeared in good voice as he harangued his followers for 55 minutes in the Lyric Theater on the anniversary of the assassination of Aldo Resega, Fascist commissioner of Milan province.

Persistent reports from neutral capitals indicated recently that Mussolini was seriously ill.

"Tooth And Nail"

Mussolini professed to see "signs of a revival" among his followers and declared that German and Fascist troops would defend the Po Valley "tooth and nail" against Allied forces fighting up from the south.

His troubles were multiplied, the Duce said, by activities of the underground—Milan long has been a rallying point of anti-Fascists—and a "moral inertia which events have produced in many classes of people."

Contribution Extolled

Mussolini bid for greater recognition from his Axis partners, saying that since Italy's surrender his regime's contribution to the cause was "far greater than is commonly believed."

No less than 786,000 Italians were now engaged as workers or soldiers on Germany's side, he declared.

The German agency Transocean, in a broadcast recorded in London, reported that the Duce charged the Allies intended to deport hundreds of thousands of Italians "in event of their victory."

Bomb Chemicals As Matches, If—

San Francisco, Dec. 16 (AP)—American Superfortress bombers are helping mend the match shortage in Tokyo, the Japanese radio said today.

Unburned chemicals in the thin sheet-iron cylinder incendiary bombs dropped by the B-29s are useful to make matches, provided the bombs are extinguished soon enough, said the broadcast heard by the Federal Communications Commission.

An amateur inventor discovered the chemical mixture could be used as a substitute for ordinary matches, the broadcast said.

Finnish War Debt Payment With Frozen Funds Rejected

By the Associated Press.

Finland's new offer to pay $235,444 on its World War debt got the cold shoulder from the United States, and therein lies a strange diplomatic situation.

The State Department apparently was willing for the installment to be accepted when it came due yesterday—though the two nations do not maintain diplomatic relations and Finland still is officially considered "enemy territory."

But the Treasury Department balked, being unwilling to thaw out part of Finland's frozen funds in this country.

It was from those funds that the Finns proposed to pay the installment, the same way the last payment was made on June 15.

The State Department sent a letter to the Treasury yesterday. Though its contents weren't revealed, the department evidently indicated it would not object to receiving the money.

A Treasury official said last night the letter seemed "on the surface" to lay down "a new policy" which isn't clear to the Treasury and will require further study.

This left the question open for future discussion. But the due date has passed and no money changed hands.

The Treasury declined to make a further statement, but the background is this:

Recently Finland asked permission to use part of the frozen funds to pay interest which she owed to holders of Finnish government bonds. The Treasury refused.

If the Treasury were now to free the money to pay our Government some officials are reported to feel that this would be inconsistent and unfair to the bondholders who were denied their interest payments.

Roosevelt Tells Chiang Of Confidence In China

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt told Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek he was confident China "will worthily share in the approaching phase of final victory."

Mr. Roosevelt's statement was included in an exchange of messages on the third anniversary of Pearl Harbor published today by the State Department.

The Chinese leader assured President Roosevelt that China will "soon be able to inflict a crushing defeat on the enemy despite his present desperate struggle on the Asiatic mainland."

U.S. War Goods Flow To Russia Via Iran

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—More than 4,380,440 tons of war goods from American factories have been delivered to Russia through the Persian corridor route, the War Department disclosed today.

The department made public a report from headquarters of the Persian Gulf Command.

Delivery to Russian points was by rail and truck from Persian Gulf ports. The military railway service of the command operates the Iranian State Railway and the command maintains port facilities and truck routes.

British agencies have aided in operating the supply system, moving about one sixth of the total tonnage delivered to date.

Under Secretaryship Of War Is Continued

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt today signed legislation continuing until six months after the war's end his authority to appoint an Under Secretary of War.

The emergency position, now held by Robert P. Patterson, was to have expired after next January 20.

HURLEY APPROVED TO HEAD BOARD ON SURPLUS PROPERTY

Former Governor's Nomination as Chairman Confirmed by 41-28 Vote.

DEC 17 1944

HELLER ALSO WINS

Republicans Oppose Both; State Dept. Selections to Be Taken Up Monday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16—(AP) The Senate confirmed two members of the Surplus Property Disposal Board late today and by doing so cleared the way for debate next week on six disputed State department nominations.

Former Gov. Robert A. Hurley of Connecticut and Lt. Col. Edward H. Heller, an Army finance officer from San Francisco, were approved as members of the Surplus Property Board which will handle the sale of an estimated $100,000,000,000 worth of government-held commodities, machines, factories and land. The President has designated Hurley as chairman.

The votes of approval—41 to 28 for Hurley, 43 to 26 for Heller—adhered very closely to party lines. Both men are Democrats.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) said he was shocked beyond expression, disappointed beyond expression" by the appointments.

The President, he asserted, had not risen to the same height as Congress did when it wrote the law under which more than $100,000,000,000 in surplus war goods, plants and land will be sold.

The Michigan lawmaker said that while he did not wish to reflect on the character of the men the President had chosen, the appointments did not measure up to the magnitude of the task.

Austin Critical

Senator Austin (R-Vt.) had opened the day's Debate by arguing that Hurley and Heller lack "experience and standing." As an obligation to the nation's fighting men, he said, the Senate should inquire closely into the appointments and determine whether they will "command the confidence and inspire the morale of the men at the front."

When Republicans commented that both the appointees are Democrats, and that Senator Gillette, Iowa Democrat defeated for re-election, has be mentioned confidently as a probable third nominee, Senator Chandler (D-Ky) said he didn't think that being a Democrat disqualified a man from holding office.

Austin referred to Hurley's recent position as a vice president of the Narrangansett Machine company, Pawtucket, R. I., which obtained the government's guarantee of a $2,000,000 loan. He noted that Heller, as an Army finance officer, had taken part in inquiries concerning the loan, which has been criticized by the House Military Committee.

Chandler Defends Choices

Senator Chandler (D-Ky) said that members of his party had made an effort while the nominations were before the Military Affairs committee "to prove that being a Democrat didn't wholly disqualify one to hold office." Some Republican members, he added, still didn't seem to be convinced.

Chandler, a leader in a successful fight last week to send back to the Foreign Relations committee four of President Roosevelt's State department nominations, challenged the Republicans "to be just as diligent" in ascertaining "the political motives and views" of those appointees.

Immediately after the confirmation of Heller, Senator Connally (D-Tex) made certain that the pending business before the Senate was the nomination of Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, as Undersecretary of State. Five other men, designated by the President as assistant Secretaries of State, follow Grew on the confirmation calendar.

The long-awaited debate will begin when the Senate meets at noon Monday.

There were some indications, meanwhile, that concerted opposition to the nominations was beginning to crumble. Senator Clark (D-Mo), who had been sharply critical of the nomination of Poet-Librarian Archibald MacLeish as one of the assistant secretairies, surprised his colleagues by announcing that he thought he would vote for all six.

The Missouri Senator explained that there was an apparent effort to tie in his opposition to MacLeish with sentiment in other quarters of the Senate against some of the other nominees. He said he strongly approved the nomination of Grew, and the selection of W. L. Clayton as one of the asistant secretaries.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla), who voted against all the nominations in the Foreign Relations committee, introduced a resolution late in the day proposing that the Senate postpone further consideration of the nominations until Jan. 3. That is the date the new session of Congress will begin.

Connally, floor monager for the State department nominations, is expected to raise a point of order against the resolution Monday when Pepper intends to try to call it up. Technically, the Senate is in executive session to consider a nomination, he argues, and legislative matters such as consideration of a resolution would be out of order.

Action Seen Soon

Acting Democratic Leader Hill (Ala) said he belived the nominations could be brought to a vote by Tuesday or Wednesday.

On the other hand, Senator Guffey (D-Pa), announced he wanted to make a speech approximately four hours long against Grew, and Pepper was insistent that the Senate have "an adequite opportunity for full discussion" of all the appointees.

"In no sense of the word are we interested in a filibuster," he added, talking to reporters.

"We don't feel these gentlemen as a team—whatever their individual excellence—will make a team to win the peace."

In addition to the nomination of Grew as undersecretary, and of Clayton and MacLeish as asistant secretaries, James C. Dunn, Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes and Nelson A. Rockefeller were named as assistant secretaries.

Senators who wanted action on them chafed impatiently as the debate on Hurley and Heller droned on until sundown.

Bankhead Raps Clayton

Jumping the gun on the State department nominations so he could go home for Christmas, Senator Bankhead (D-Ala) got the floor for a speech in opposition to Clayton, whose new assignment would embrace foreign economic affairs.

Clayton, former surplus property administrator, is the chief stockholder in Anderson, Clayton & Company, a leading cotton trading firm. Bankhead was sharply critical of Clayton's cotton operations in foreign countries, claiming he had built up production in South America to the detriment of American cotton farmers.

Calling Clayton "the king of cotton," Bankhead declared the nominee had opposed "every effort to lift up a little the standard of living of the cotton producers and relieve them of competition with cheap oriental labor in the world cotton markets."

"He opposes every program that has been passed by Congress to help the cotton farmers bring about living prices for their cotton," he said. " I am afraid to have a man with his qualities placed in an exalted position dealing with foreign economic affairs."

Maloney, Danaher Split

Here is the vote by which the Senate confirmed the nomination of former Gov. Robert A. Hurley:

For confirmation (41).

Democrats for — Bailey, Bilbo, Byrd, Caraway, Chandler, Chavez, Clark of Missouri, Connally, Downey, Ellender, George, Gerry, Gillette, Green, Guffey; Hall, Hatch, Hayden, Hill, Lucas, Magnuson, Maloney, Maybank, McCarran, McClellan, McFarland, McKellar, Mead, Murdock, Murray, O'Mahoney, Pepper, Radcliffe, Reynolds, Russell, Stewart, Thomas of Utah, Truman, Walsh—(39)

Republicans for—Johnson of California, Langer—(2)

Against confirmation—(28)

Democrats against—Johnson of Colorado—(1)

Republicans against — Aiken, Austin, Brewster, Brooks, Bushfield, Butler, Capper, Cordon, Danaher, Davis, Ferguson, Gurney, Hawkes, Jenner, Millikin, Reed, Revercomb, Robertson, Smith, Taft, Vandenberg, Weeks, Wherry, White, Wiley, Willis—(26)

Progressive against—LaFollette—(1)

The following pairs were announced:

Thomas (Okla), Democrat for and Bridges, Republican against.

Wagner, Democrat for and Burton, Republican, against.

Bankhead, Democrat for and Nye, Republican against.

Tunnell, Democrat for and Thomas (Idaho) Republican against.

Tydings, Democrat for and Wilson, Republican against.

Barkley, Democrat for and Wheeler, Democrat against.

Not voting but announced as favoring confirmation:

Andrews, Eastland, Glass, Clark (Idaho), O'Daniel and Wallgren, Democrats.

Produce or Fight Is Draft Edict

More Men in 26 to 37 Age Group Seen Due for Induction After February 1.

Washington, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—Draft-age men in industry were told today to meet their war responsibilities on the production front or face swift induction.

Translating the Government's recent produce or fight edict into you can and you can't regulations, Selective Service predicted that a much larger proportion of men in the 26-37 age group will be inducted after February 1.

"The war isn't a young man's war, but everybody's war," said a Selective Service memorandum last night to local draft boards. The critical situation requires, it added, that civilians remain in war-supporting industries or obtain war-supporting employment if not already so engaged.

Local boards were directed to fill calls for the armed forces by reclassification as it becomes necessary of men from the older groups.

The order does not add up to an outright freeze in their present jobs of occupationally deferred workers in the 26 through 37 bracket. However, they must stay on unless they can show that a change would promote the war effort.

This means that a worker who changes jobs without permission runs the risk of losing his occupational deferment classification, as Selective Service phrased it. Actually he's inviting induction.

The regulations do not apply to registrants who left their employment prior to December 12, but effective December 12 a registrant with a 2-B occupational deferment who leaves the employment for which he was deferred is to be classified as available for service unless:

1. His request is granted for a determination that it is in the best interest of the war effort for him to leave such employment for other work; or

2. The local board finds that there were adequate reasons involving the registrant or his immediate family which justified him in leaving.

Local boards were directed to place a much stricter interpretation on the rules for occupational deferment.

As of November 1, 4,264,000 registrants were classified in 2-A and 2-B (deferred occupations other than agriculture), and the number in 1-A totaled 891,000. This was the first time since September, 1943, that the number in 1-A had dipped below a million.

Soldier Workers in Jersey

First 6 of 28 Allotted Report to Newark War Plants

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 16 (AP).—The first six of twenty-eight soldiers on leave alloted to the Newark area by the Army to fill war-necessary jobs have been placed at the American Steel Castings Company plant in Newark and the Atlas Foundry Company plant in Irvington, the Regional War Man-Power Commission said today.

The men, sent here from Camp Atterbury, Ind., are part of a contingent of 4,700 soldiers skilled in war work who will be sent on leave to hard-pressed industrial areas "until civilian workers come forward to fill vacant jobs," the W. M. C. said.

WASP To Close Their Careers As Army Pilots On Wednesday

By PAUL B. MASON

DEC 17 1944

Cincinnati, Dec. 16 (AP).—A colorful chapter without precedent in the nation's military history, will end next Wednesday when 1,000 Women Air Force Service Pilots (WASP) step from Army planes for the last time.

Their disbandment was ordered October 3. Since then, their aim has been to fly as many planes as far and as often as possible, "to cram all the hours we can into the logbooks."

The 1,000 WASP have been distributed among the AAF, including 140 with the ferrying division of the Air Transport Command, with headquarters in Cincinnati.

Skyways Veteran At 30

Mrs. Nancy Harkness Love, of Houghton, Mich., and Boston, Mass., 30-year-old skyways veteran who is special assistant to the commanding general, ferrying division, for WASP, says the 140 have flown 9,000,000 domestic miles in fair weather and foul.

In June, July, August and September, this year, they delivered 25 per cent of all pursuit ships ferried by the division within the continental United States.

[When Gen. H. H. Arnold ordered the WASP disbanded, he said they have done "outstanding work, even exceeding our expectations." He said approximately 1,000 women of the service were capable of operating all types of aircraft, including the fastest fighters and the Superfortresses.

[The disbandment was ordered because sufficient male pilots are available to fill all flying assignments in this country and overseas. Recruiting for the WASP was ended last spring. Thirty members of the corps have been killed in service.]

Own Flying Service

Some WASP started their army careers, in training, with as little as 35 hours air time, the minimum for granting a private pilot's license. A number, however, were instructors, were engaged in aircraft sales promotion, or, like Mrs. Love, operated their own flying services.

Neither Mrs. Love nor her girls are happy over severing their relationship with the Army.

"They have been calling me up at all hours of the night, from all parts of the country, to insist that 'they can't do this to me,'" she said, then went on to sketch the 27-month record of these $250 a month civil service pilots.

Although 96 per cent. of the girls fly four-engine bombers, "Our training emphasis has been upon pursuit ships," Mrs. Love asserted. Mrs. Love herself is a class 5-P pilot—capable of flying anything—and said she has "flown just about everything but the Superforts." She was the first woman to ferry a B-17 Fortress in this country.

"Women," she explained, "are physically and temperamentally suited for fighter plane operation. They are smaller, hence more comfortable in a tiny crowded cockpit. They are quickker to react under many circumstances and are supposed to have a lighter, more delicate touch and thus are better able to surmount emergencies when they arise."

Looking back on the WASP record, Mrs. Love said, "They definitely have proved that women are useful in military flying and can replace men for combat. The theory that women 'can't take it' physically, has been thoroughly disproved. I have it in writing, from excellent authority, that the women's physical record is equal to, if not better, than men over a two-year period.

"Eager Beavers"

"We have an expression 'eager beaver' to describe anyone who is always willing and anxious to do a task. The WASP really have been 'eager beavers.' Their conscientiousness has been marvelous—in part, I daresay, because they know that, as women, they 'had to make good.'"

"It hasn't been an easy job, or highly paid, or glamorous," she smiled. "You can't be glamorous when, on a one or two-week trip away from base, you have room in your fighter plane for only one clean shirt, a toothbrush and maybe a pair of pajamas."

What the women pilots will do, once disbanded, is a "real problem" in Mrs. Love's opinion.

"To Get Away And Think"

A return to the life of an air school instructor would be "humdrum," she ventured; airlines have plenty of men in their pilot-pools and the war is not yet at a point where airplane factories are ready to do much "sales promotion" for planes of the peacetime era.

Mrs. Love's own postwar plan?

She laughed—a laugh without much mirth.

"I have none," she said. "I'm leaving today, flying a C-54 [four-engine transport] to California. . . . Going to fly all night. I want to get away and think what all has happened to me. . . . And to us. . . ."

Picked Up Delirious

"I had to keep under the water intermittently until I found a break on the surface where there were no flames. Somehow I managed to reach the windward side of the ship. As I cleared the flames, I saw many of the crew floating on the water, but I could not recognize any because their faces were charred. I recalled attempting to hold one man up, but it was impossible to do so. . . .

"I was told that I was picked up about an hour and a half after, in a delirious condition, by a United States destroyer escort."

Giant U.S. Tanker Blows Up In Atlantic; Only Two Saved

DEC 17 1944

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP).—A giant American tanker carrying supplies to the European theater went down in the Atlantic several weeks ago following a "terrific explosion," it was announced today. There were only two survivors.

In announcing the loss today, the War Shipping Administration said the ship was believed to have been torpedoed.

The survivors were a merchant seaman and a navy gunner who escaped the flame-covered waters that quickly surrounded the vessel.

No announcement was made by WSA as to the number of casualties. Big tankers normally carry a crew in the neighborhood of 50.

Navy gun crews may be as large as 30 or 40.

The Jacksonville

The tanker, identified as the Jacksonville, was of a class known as T-2's. These tankers, nearly 17,000 deadweight tons, are capable of carrying about 135,000 barrels of petroleum products.

The Jacksonville was under the command of Capt. Edgar Winter, of Long Beach, Cal.

Listed as survivors were Fireman-Watertender Frank B. Hodges, of Tampa, Fla., of the merchant marine, and Seaman 1/c Marcellus Raymond Wegs, of New York, of the navy armed guard.

They were rescued by a United States Navy destroyer escort. Both suffered severe burns.

This is Hodges's story as released by War Shipping Administration:

"When the explosion blasted the ship, I ran out of the messroom and found the vessel enveloped in flames and smoke. I tried to reach the boat deck to get my life jacket but flames and smoke soon engulfed me. However, I managed to reach the rail over the stern and jumped. . . .

Law Reaches Washington

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—British Minister of State Richard Law and a party of experts arrived in Washington by Royal Air Force transport plane this afternoon. They are here for discussions with American authorities of supply problems in liberated European territories.

ARMY CASUALTIES

Washington, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—The War Department announced today the names of 1,413 United States Army casualties in the European and Mediterranean war areas.

Bars Rise in Civilian Output

WPB Issues Drastic Order Designed to Thwart Labor Shift From War Plants.

Copyright, 1944, by Associated Press

DEC 17 1944

Washington, Dec. 16.—The WPB, in a drastic new move to meet vital war needs, has ordered that all civilian production be frozen indefinitely at present levels.

The order, dated December 7 and circulated within the War Production Board but not announced, is designed to discourage the movement of labor from war plants into peacetime activity while heavy demand continues for some vital weapons and material.

In effect a hold-the-line order on production, the ruling instructs the WPB staff neither to increase civilian goods production above the level of this quarter nor to relax existing orders if increased output would result.

Some Expansion Leeway.

Some slight leeway for expansion was left, however, by two mechanisms provided in the order, which was signed by Samuel Anderson, WPB's program vice-chairman:

First, the Office of Civilian Requirements, or another agency speaking for a segment of the domestic economy, may seek an increase in production by making a positive demonstration that a program is clearly below essential requirements. Even so, rejection will result unless the increase can be made without serious threat of interference with more essential production, the order states.

Second, the "spot" plan for consumer goods production by individual factories which are not needed for war work is continued in effect and made the sole method of increasing the output of any article above the officially approved level.

This might mean an increase in "spot" authorizations in areas which have relatively plentiful labor supply, but the Government recently banned new spot approvals for ninety days in some 120 cities of acute labor scarcity.

Where there is both military and civilian demand for the same product, a military cutback hitherto has usually been followed by a compensating increase in civilian output.

That practice is curbed by the new edict for a list of seventeen products, even though the total resulting production may be lower than the present rate.

This clause applies to the following items:

Trucks and truck tractors, motorcycles, bicycles and power-cycles, cutlery, typewriters, steam and Diesel locomotives, railroad cars, buses and bus bodies, commercial electric food equipment, commercial laundry machinery, 35 mm. moving picture equipment, tracklaying tractors, heavy motor graders, power cranes and shovels, off-the-highway trucks (which are used for lumbering, mining and similar purposes), truck trailers, and industrial power trucks.

SECURITY TAX FREEZE SIGNED BY ROOSEVELT

House Cheers Rayburn's Announcement as It Waits Expectantly.

VETO HAD SEEMED CERTAIN

President Reluctant to Approve, He Says—Asserts Security Plan Must Broaden.

Washington, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—Speaker Rayburn announced to the House today that President Roosevelt has signed legislation freezing social security pay roll and pay check taxes at 1 per cent.

The Speaker's announcement cheered by the House, many of whose members had stayed here in expectation of a veto of the administration-opposed legislation.

There was no message to the Congress, the Speaker explaining that a statement outlining the President's views was being prepared at the White House.

The President signed "reluctantly." In a formal statement he rapped the knuckles of Congress for freezing the tax which is now 1 per cent each on the pay rolls of employees and the pay checks of employees. Without the legislation, the rate would have automatically increased on January 1 to 2 per cent on each.

Declaring it would be incumbent upon the next Congress to review thoroughly methods of financing social security benefits, the presidential statement added:

"At an early date I plan to submit to the Congress a comprehensive plan for broadening and improving the social security system. At that time I hope that a clear understanding of the Government's financial responsibilities for social security will emerge and that a long-term plan for allocating the costs of social security will be developed."

The executive branch of the Government, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, will always stand ready to help Congress work out a satisfactory solution.

Sees Policy Unsound.

The President's statement said he had felt in the past and still felt that scheduled increases in the social security vote, which have been repeatedly deferred by Congress, should be allowed to go into effect. Long-run financial requirements of the security system justified sticking to the schedule, he said, and an increase was consistent with wartime fiscal requirements.

He said he was sure Congress did not intend to jeopardize benefit rights built up in the past and due to grow in the future. But he said he was less disturbed about comprehensive coverage under old - age and survivors' insurance in view of expressed commitments of both the Republican and Democratic parties.

"Two matters should be clearly understood," the Chief Executive declared. "The Congress should realize that this bill deferring a statutory increase in contributions toward existing social security merely defers until next year the necessary fiscal receipts to pay the benefits. Also, it does not seem to me wholly sound to enact a tax law and then defer the taxes year after year."

Chairman Doughton (D.-N. C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee said he was "pleased that the President recognized the overwhelming majorities for the social security freeze in Congress as the sentiment of the people of the country in the first major issue since his re-election."

Mr. Roosevelt previously had indorsed a broader social security system. He gave no idea today of what he had in mind specifically, but for some time the question of bringing into the plan farmers, domestics and other groups now outside the system has been under consideration.

U. S. MARITIME BOARD ACCUSED OF FAVORITISM

House Group Charges East Coast Shipyards, Inc., Has Profited Unduly.

NO OWNERSHIP RISKS TAKEN

Report Sets Out That Federally Owned Material Was Switched by Bookkeeping Entry.

Washington, Dec. 16 (A. P.).—The Maritime Commission is charged by a House committee with "presenting hundreds of thousands of dollars" and other favors to the East Coast Shipyards, Inc., of Bayonne, N. J. The Merchant Marine Committee of the House in a sharply worded report made yesterday on an investigation of "charges of favoritism," said:

"The Government has been paying East Coast a profit on material which the Government purchases and owns and which was transferred to East Coast solely by a bookkeeping entry," thus "in effect presenting East Coast with hundreds of thousands of dollars of additional working capital."

The commission was urged in the report to "proceed immediately to an adjustment of the rights of the Marine Maintenance Commission for the increased facilities placed in the yard."

Other charges made in the report were:

1. "Provisions in the contract (between the commission and East Coast) providing for payment of fees and costs favored East Coast as compared to the situation common to other yards."

2. "Certain inadequacies in the financial structure and working capital of East Coast were evident from the time it took over" the yard in February, 1943, when the commission ordered its work transferred to the firm from the Marine Maintenance Corporation. "On various occasions East Coast failed to take cash discounts, although the contracts provided for taking them."

3. "There is also evidence that East Coast was permitted to take over the job with a smaller capital than other applicants were told would be necessary."

Delay in Deliveries.

4. "Although East Coast took over the former marine maintenance shipyard and . . . partially completed hulls on February 19, 1943, these vessels were not ready for delivery until nine months thereafter."

5. "Absenteeism in this yard was extremely high."

6. "Seven automobiles were supplied to executives of the East Coast for their full-time use, with chauffeurs being provided for some of them," and "their depreciation was charged to yard overhead and was thus paid for in most part by the Government."

The committee report estimated the items transferred from Marine Maintenance to East Coast at $223,457 in material used in repair work and $165,343 in material on the yard premises "generally intended for use on new construction."

The report said on this score:

"These inventories were placed at the disposal of East Coast, and withdrawals of material were made from it for new construction work on Maritime Commissions vessels, for War Shipping Administration repairs, and for work on private vessels.

Its Inventory Financed.

"In addition to the inventory existing at the time of the takeover, arrangements were made with the Maritime Commission whereby all purchases of material by East Coast would be immediately charged to and paid for by the commission and then placed in the general inventory to be drawn against for the three types of work mentioned above.

"Under this arrangement the Maritime Commission had been financing all inventory maintained at the East Coast shipyard.

"East Coast has borne no risks incident to the ownership of this material, and East Coast has been permitted to use this inventory for War Shipping Administration and private work.

"This is the only shipyard in which inventory is so financed by the Government, for in other shipyards purchases of material are made by the yard from its own funds and the risk of loss is carried by the yard."

Crop-Insurance Program Is Approved by Senate

Revived Plan Offers Bonuses to Boost Flax Output

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP).—The Senate completed Legislative action today on a bill reviving the Federal crop-insurance program which was dropped last year. The bill now goes to the White House.

Broader than the old law, the measure would provide insurance next year on wheat, cotton and flax, with other crops to be added on an experimental basis in subsequent years. Payment up to 75 per cent of the value of the crop, based on average yields, would be made for losses caused by such hazards as bad weather, insects and plant diseases.

In addition, the measure carries a $30,000,000 fund to spur the production of flax, needed to remedy a linseed oil shortage. Incentive payments would go to farmers who co-operate in a flax-planting program.

Red Cross Minimum Goal Is ~~$180,000,000~~

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—The minimum goal for the 1945 Red Cross fund will be $180,000,000.

Announcing this today, Basil O'Connor, chairman of the American Red Cross, said:

"Our new budgets represent an appreciable increase in the services we will render in Europe, in the Pacific and at home, but we have been able to keep the total 1945 goal slightly under the one for 1944 because of oversubscription of our earlier campaigns and certain economies in this year's operations."

Colby M. Chester, chairman of the executive committee of the General Foods Corporation, will be chairman of the 1945 campaign.

Cruiser Oklahoma City To Be Commissioned Friday

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 16.—The light cruiser Oklahoma City will be commissioned at the Philadelphia Navy Yard December 22, 4th Naval District authorities announced today.

The American flag and ship's commissioning pennant will be raised during the ceremony as command of the ship is assumed by Capt. Charles B. Hunt, Pasadena, Calif.

The ship, which was built at Cramp's Shipbuilding Corp., Philadelphia, is unofficially reported to be 600 feet long, 61½ feet abeam and to displace 10,000 tons.

New Device Allows Flyers To Take Photos at Night

Synchronizes Camera Shutter With Burst of Flash Bomb

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 16 (AP).—The General Electric Company revealed today development of a robot camera device that permits military photography at night.

It is an electronic control, which automatically synchronizes a new type aircraft camera shutter with the bursting of a flash bomb. It has been developed by General Electric in collaboration with the Folmer Graflex Corporation.

The device enables military observers to photograph from high altitudes, and at night, destruction caused by explosives.

The camera, through use of the electronic control, takes advantage of the peak illumination of the bomb by beginning an exposure approximately 1/100th of a second after the flash. After the desired exposure, the control closes the shutter.

The brains of this robot control is a sensitive photoelectric cell that acts on the light impulse coming from the bomb. When the flash explodes the photoelectric cell picks up a light impulse, amplifies it and transforms it into a current to which the shutter responds in less than 1/500ths of a second.

By use of this combination, an aerial camera ordinarily of use for daylight photography only, can take night photographs of the ground in sufficient detail to permit close military study, the G-E company said.

ELECTORS' VOTE DUE TOMORROW

President's Popular Plurality Now Set At 3,592,769

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Roosevelt gets elected to a fourth term Monday. The vote won't be counted for nearly three weeks, but it will be 432 for him to 99 for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

If you think that's a combination of stale news and rash prediction, hunt up your copy of the Constitution and it will remind you that it wasn't a President you voted for on November 7 but a set of electors.

Those electors get together in each state December 18 for the voting which technically determines who will run the country in the next four years. Congress does the counting on January 6, at a joint Senate-House session. And that makes the result of the election official.

Few Rechecks Still Under Way

While a few of the official counts are still under recheck, the latest totals Saturday night showed a plurality of 3,592,769 for Mr. Roosevelt over Governor Dewey.

A state has as many electors as it does Congressmen and Senators, and the national total is 531. If a state went Democratic, its electors are morally—but not legally—bound to vote for Roosevelt.

Just what would happen if a batch of them changed their minds and voted for some other candidate is a matter that provokes a lot of intermittent discussion.

Some members of Congress want to junk the whole electoral-college system, even though it is a century and a half old.

Some Call System Archaic

They say that's one of its faults—that it's archaic. They say, too, that it is possible for a man to win a majority of the popular vote and still not get enough electoral votes to make him President.

There wasn't any chance of that happening this year. The newest Associated Press tabulation of popular votes showed today that of a total of 47,969,828, Roosevelt got 25,610,946 and Dewey 22,018,177. Other candidates polled 340,705, or 0.7 per cent.

In Maryland the total vote was 609,419. President Roosevelt received 316,138, or 51.9 per cent. Governor Dewey received 293,281, or 48.1 per cent. The President's plurality was 22,857.

In Delaware, of a total of 125,361 votes, 68,166 were Democratic and 56,747 Republican. The percentages were 54.4 and 45.3, and the plurality 11,419.

Close Vote In Pennsylvania

Pennsylvania, with a total vote of 3,794,787, gave Roosevelt a plurality of 105,431. Democratic votes toatled 1,940,479, or 51.1 per cent; Republican, 1,835,048, or 48.4 per cent.

Virginia went Democratic by a plurality of 97,033. Of a total of 388,485 votes, 242,276, or 62.4 per cent, were for Roosevelt; 145,243, or 37.4 per cent, were for Dewey.

In West Virginia the total vote was 715,596, with 392,777 Democratic and 322,819 Republican. The Democratic plurality, with 54.9 per cent to 45.1 per cent of the vote, was 69,598.

Ward Requests New Injunction Against Pickets

Says Strikers at 4 Stores in Detroit Area Threaten Workers Staying on Job

DEC 1-7 1944

DETROIT, Dec. 16 (AP).—Montgomery Ward & Co., confronted by picket lines of striking Congress of Industrial Organizations unionists at its four Detroit area stores, sought a second injunction today against violence and interference with its non-striking employees.

Petitioning for a temporary injunction in Wayne (Detroit) County Circuit Court, the company alleged that threats and violent acts had been directed against employees.

Circuit Judge John V. Brennan deferred action until Monday, asserting he wanted to study the petition thoroughly.

Friday the company obtained from Oakland County Circuit Judge Frank L. Doty a temporary order restraining striking members of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees, C. I. O. union, from interfering with or molesting employees of its store in suburban Royal Oak. This action followed picket line disturbances in which three Ward employees were reported injured.

A. F. of L. Has No Quarrel

Meanwhile, possibility of friction between the C. I. O. strikers and members of American Federation of Labor unions appeared, as Frank X. Martel, Wayne County A. F. of L. leader, claimed the A. F. of L. had 95 per cent of the employees of the Royal Oak store as members and that employees of one of the Wayne County stores had requested A. F. of L. membership.

Mr. Martel, president of the Detroit and Wayne County Federation of Labor, said A. F. of L. members at the Ward stores were not on strike and had no quarrel with Montgomery Ward.

C. I. O. union leaders said 1,500 of 2,200 employees of the four Detroit area department stores of the company had joined the strike, which began a week ago in an attempt to force the management to comply with War Labor Board directives on back pay, union maintenance of membership, dues check-off and arbitration of grievances.

Today's Mongtomery Ward injunction petition sought to restrain officials of the striking union and its members and the United Automobile Workers, C. I. O., from interfering with employees entering or leaving the stores and from interfering with merchandise deliveries.

The bill of complaint charged that a clerk was attacked and kicked, that police had to rescue a merchandise manager and cashier surrounded by pickets, that two women employees were snowballed and that pickets scattered carpet tacks on the Dearborn store's parking lot.

Davis Says Union Awaits Justice

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP).—William H. Davis, chairman of the War Labor Board, said tonight the "underpaid workers" of Sewell Avery, board chairman of Montgomery Ward, are "still waiting for justice to be done them."

Mr. Davis said Mr. Avery "draws a veil" over the company's "refusal to increase its sub-standard wages" by "deliberately repeating all of his familiar misstatements regarding maintenance of membership."

The W. L. B. chairman said Mr. Avery had published in newspaper advertisements a statement to his employees "in which he gives the impression that maintenance of membership is the only issue involved in the Detroit strike."

The statement followed by one day an order by the W. L. B. to Montgomery Ward to comply with its directives in its stores and properties in six cities in addition to Detroit—Chicago, Denver, St Paul, Portland, Ore.; San Rafael, Calif., and Jamaica, N. Y.—by next Monday.

The W. L. B. had stated that, failing in compliance, the case would be certified to Fred M. Vinson, Director of Economic Stabilization.

Ball Cites Fight For Power

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Senator Ball (R., Minn.) today said "much of the power politics maneuvering now going on in Europe might have been averted" if a security organization like the one proposed at Dumbarton Oaks had been formed two years ago.

"Certainly we would not have the spectacle of members of the Big Three making unilateral political decisions had a United Nations organization been functioning," Ball told the American Labor Conference on International Affairs.

"Much of that maneuvering," he said, "represents a scramble for national security, growing out of cynicism regarding plans for collective security which have been all too slow materializing."

Great Britain's Desire

Sir Norman Angell, British economist and 1933 Nobel peace prize-winner, said Great Britain, "more than any great power, will desire some international organization," adding:

"But until it becomes a dependable political reality she is not only likely to cling to the international organization which does exist and has enabled her to avoid defeat in this war . . . but if possible to strengthen it, its main bases and its lines of communication."

Angell referred, he said, to "the Common Wealth organization," and declared that "we shall not see, I think, the liquidation of the empire to which Churchill objected."

Churchill's Way

Dr. James T. Shotwell, director of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, said "Churchill's way for saving Britain is the old way—by power politics." "British Labor and Liberal opinion is as much against that as any of us," he asserted.

William Green said the American Federation of Labor, which he heads, would "stand firm and immovable in its demand for adequate representation at the peace conference" and emphasized what he termed "the necessity of establishing . . . united labor movement on a national basis as a primary requisite to the development of world unity."

Speaks Of Poland

Departing from his prepared address, Green expressed hope "that our own country will say 'no' to those who seek to apportion the territory of Poland.

"Surely we are not going to engage now in invading the territorial rights of men and women living in countries which fought and suffered so much," he said.

The conference's political committee indorsed the Dumbarton Oaks proposals "wholeheartedly" in a resolution, but proposed several amendments "to implement the pledge made in the Atlantic Charter and in Moscow."

Asserting that the "Security Council in its projected form gives excessive dominance to four or at most five great powers," the committee urged "that the rule of unanimity be replaced by a two-thirds majority of all members, including a majority of the permanent members of the Security Council."

Fallen Out Over Spoils

Asserting that "the statesmen have fallen out over the spoils" before victory is assured, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said "provocative and dangerous" Communist policy in liberated countries was endangering the cause of the United Nations.

"Our liberal 'realists' are violently attacking Great Britain for her policy in Greece and Belgium," he said, and added that resistance leaders in these countries were "avowed Communists." The same realists, he continued, demanded unity only so long as it was "consistent with the international policies of the Russian Government."

Woll charged that Russia was forming her own government in Poland, "without any regard for the wishes of the majority" or the Polish Government in London.

Expressing confidence, however, that international unity could be attained, Woll advocated amendment of the Dumbarton Oaks proposals to include all nations as members.

Cooper Warns Against Postwar Propaganda Under Guise of News

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, said last night he hoped the United States never would undertake "foreign propaganda in the guise of news."

Speaking at a celebration marking the 153d anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights, Mr. Cooper declared: "If we are worthy of the heritage we got through that grant of freedom, we, as citizens, never will approve any step toward peacetime propaganda dissemination by our Government.

"There should be no doubt as to what our Government's function as respects news dissemination ought to be.

Urges Authoritative Statement.

"But because of rumors, an authoritative statement of what proposals have been made and what ones are to have consideration, is due the public as early as possible."

Mr. Cooper spoke at St. Paul's Church in nearby Eastchester, "national shrine of the Bill of Rights," and paid tribute to John Peter Zenger, pre-Revolutionary publisher, who was arrested and imprisoned for truthful reporting of an election held on the village green adjoining the church in 1733. Mr. Zenger's subsequent trial and acquittal established freedom of the press in the Colonies.

James E. Stiles, former president of the Newspaper Publishers' Association of New York State, and former State Supreme Court Justice Joseph M. Proskauer also addressed the gathering in the 279-year-old church.

Mr. Cooper urged establishment of world-wide untrammeled news, including "freedom of information in Germany."

Persistent Demand Needed.

By this action, he said, "we will convince ourselves that our country never should involve itself in even a first step that might lead us to a practice of what brought on Germany's moral degradation as a nation."

"It is going to take the persistent militant demand of our people to bring the blessings of freedom of information to every country," he said, adding: "Yet without it no association of nations ever can function successfully."

NEWS FREEDOM HELD U.S. AIM

Plans In The Making To Insure Application To Reich

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—American officials hope to bring international freedom of news a step nearer at the forthcoming United Nations conference on world security.

At the same time they are readying plans, for discussion with Britain and Russia, to see that defeated Germans have that freedom.

Secretary of State Stettinius, responding to a call from Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, for an authoritative statement of this Government's position, said today:

"I shall support any practical measure to give international recognition to the principle of freedom of news. I earnestly hope that it will be possible to have this subject brought up at the United Nations conference when it meets."

No Propaganda

Cooper, speaking last night at Mount Vernon, N.Y., in a celebration of the one hundred and fifty-third anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights, spoke of "rumors" about this Government's plans for dissemination of news. He expressed the hope the United States never will undertake "foreign propaganda in the guise of news."

The AP executive asserted that "an authoritative statement of what proposals have been made and what ones are to have consideration; is due the public as early as possible."

Cooper also called for world-wide establishment of untrammeled news. He specifically urged "freedom of information in Germany" as proof that this nation never will take even the first step toward "a practice of what brought on Germany's moral degradation as a nation."

Eliminate Restrictions

On Germany the American official view, which has not yet been worked out in detail, is that all Nazi propaganda should be eliminated and that within security limits Germans should have free access to world news.

The plan is to work out a program for identical application in all th eoccupation zones—American, British and Russian.

Indicating the German hunger for news, front dispatches have said that people in Aachen have been begging for copies of American papers.

The policies on news distribution during the period of battle rests entirely with front line commanders, but decisions for the period to follow will be made by the Allies together.

Stettinius Plans United Nations Action on Press

Hopes to Gain Recognition of Free News Principle at Security Conference

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP).—Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius jr. declared today that he hoped to bring up international recognition of freedom of the press at the forthcoming United Nations conference on world security.

Responding to a call from Kent Cooper, executive director of The Associated Press, for an authoritative statement on the government's position, Mr. Stettinius said:

"I shall support any practical measure to give international recognition to the principle of freedom of news."

Mr. Cooper urged last night "that foreign propaganda in the guise of news never shall be undertaken by our government after the war."

Mr. Stettinius's comment said: "The whole question of freedom of information is, as you know, under study in the Department of State. I shall support any practical measure to give international recognition to the principle of freedom of news. I earnestly hope that it will be possible to have this subject brought up at the United Nations conference when it meets."

With the nomination of Archibald MacLeish as the sixth Assistant Secretary of State, the State Department indicated that it plans a thoroughgoing revamping of its public information and cultural relations set-up, particularly with respect to the post-war world. Mr. MacLeish has not yet been confirmed by the Senate.

It has already been disclosed, however, that the government intends to expand information facilities, especially abroad. Secretary Stettinius has expressed privately his desire to see special officers trained for this work, to be assigned to American Embassies and Legations.

State Department officials assert that these activities will be carried on through established news channels.

NEGRO PILOTS' USE PROTESTED

Race 'Not Yet Qualified,' Says Father Of Collision Victim

Anniston, Ala., Dec. 16 (AP)—An Anniston business executive whose son was killed in a recent air collision involving an army pursuit plane piloted by a Negro today protested the "sudden elevation of the Negro to duties he is not yet qualified to perform" in a letter to the Anniston Star and the War Department.

Earl C. Knowlton, head of the Anniston Water Works, said his only son, Lieut. Earl C. Knowlton, Jr., pilot of a B-24, and 11 others were killed, in addition to the Negro pilot of the pursuit plane, in a recent accident near Charleston, S.C.

"I knew that my boy might have to give his life for his country," Knowlton wrote, "but I expected it to accomplish some useful purpose, and not to be sacrificed to the fanatical idea that all men must be allowed to perform on the same level regardless of background qualification."

Forbears Of North And South

"My father's people fought for the North; my mother's for the South," in the war between the states, Knowlton said.

"I hold no blame against the Negro who flew a fighter plane into a bomber, killing my boy and eleven others. He flew that plane because he was ordered to do so," Knowlton wrote.

"But, with all my heart, I resent our Government's apparent determination to raise the Negro overnight, as it were, to a place in civilization which he is as yet unprepared to assume.

"With rare exceptions, his mind is not prepared to make the split-second decisions which mean life or death in the operation of so swift and so complicated and so deadly a mechanism as an airplane. . . .

Negroes Offer Sympathy

"Negroes were among the first to come to my home to offer sympathy in my boy's death. They attended the funeral service. They loved him. He loved them. So, this is not a letter of hate.

"It is the expression of the very deep resentment I feel toward the fetishism of our Government in its attitude toward an unnatural and possibly sudden elevation of the ...gro to duties he is not yet qualified to perform.

"Some will say that the accident might have happened if a white man had been piloting the fighter plane. That is true. But the percentage against it would have been in my boy's favor."

Knowlton has a daughter, Capt. Louise Knowlton, on duty in France with the WAC.

NAACP Statement

In New York, Roy Wilkins, acting secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said in a statement:

"We can understand the grief and disappointment of a father who expected that if his son should lose his life in serving his country, it would not be in an accident, but in combat against our enemies.

"But the record of Negro combat pilots to date in actual combat with German planes in the Mediterranean theater of war, over the Anzio beachhead, at Salerno, with the British 8th Army up the Italian peninsula and in escort work for our big bombers over southeastern Europe and southern France during the German occupation would seem to prove that Negroes are capable of handling a combat airplane and making split-second decisions at more than 400 miles an hour.

"Main Thesis" Condemned

"Mr. Knowlton says his letter is not one of hatred and we believe him so far as his feeling for this one Negro pilot is concerned; but his main thesis, which is that the Negro is still a kind of uncivilized, lower animal incapable of adjusting himself to civilization, is an underhand cut at the whole Negro race.

"From the beginning in 1940, Negro-Americans have spent more of their energies struggling to get a chance to fight the enemies of our country, and this incident is just one more of the many that have been used to discourage him and to relegate him to strictly menial and service work in uniform."

In Washington, a War Department spokesman declined comment. He said, however, that if the letter came to the War Department it would "of course, be answered." The spokesman said he did not know whether the letter had been received.

STATE POSTS IS AIM OF GOP

Brownell Returns To Job With $350,000 In Till

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Armed with the first cash surplus the party ever brought out a presidential contest, Herbert Brownell, Jr., started the ball rolling today on a four-year Republican campaign aimed at electing mayors, governors, members of Congress and finally a President.

The GOP national chairman, back from a month's vacation in the West, said he hadn't decided yet whether he wants to keep the non-paying job he took over last summer when his long-time friend, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, became the party's presidential nominee.

Arranges Conferences

But Brownell gave every appearance, as he arranged a series of conferences with Republican leaders, of a man who intends to keep his hand on the party reins. That issue will be determined when the National Committee meets, probably early in February in some mid-Western State the GOP carried in the Presidential campaign.

Committee members heard that the 40-year-old chairman already has sufficient written pledges to assure his re-election if he wants to ho'd on.

Brownell has made it plain, friends said, that if he remains as chairman it will be with the understanding that he will run a party and not a Dewey show. He is understood to have told the New York Governor that. There is no indication that Dewey disagreed.

Dewey As Spokesman

The New York Governor, however, seems likely to remain for the next couple of years the party's No. 1 spokesman and in the public mind its chief contender for the 1948 presidential nomination. What happens in the 1946 gubernatorial election will bring him into sharper focus or dim him out as a possible candidate.

Brownell arranged to talk over his four-year campaign ideas in a conference with Dewey here tomorrow. He lunched with John Foster Dulles, the New York Governor's adviser on foreign affairs, today, presumably got a report on Dulles' recent conferences with Secretary of State Stettinius and Congressional leaders.

Forthcoming conferences are planned in Washington at which Brownell will talk over his ideas with members of the House and Senate, heads of the Congressional campaign committees and others.

$350,000 Left Over

The Republicans reportedly wound up the presidential contest with $350,000 in the till, something that never happened to them before. Their early start on a national campaign thus has the financial backing the party of a defeated presidential candidate often has difficulty in obtaining.

As he has outlined his ideas to friends, Brownell thinks the National Committee ought to build its organization from the precinct level. If he has his way, the committee will give active help in efforts to elect GOP mayors and county officials in politically strategic areas.

Looks To House Control

Obviously, the chief Republican effort will be directed in the next two years toward winning control of the House of Representatives and building up party membership

ARCISZEWSKI SAID FRIDAY'S COMMONS DEBATE RAISED THE QUESTION NOT ONLY OF POLAND'S EASTERN FRONTIER BUT ALSO OF ITS WESTERN BOUNDARY WITH GERMANY AND ADDED: DEC 17 1944

"HERE WE HAVE NO GRAND IDEAS OF EXPANSION. WE ARE TRYING ONLY TO PRESERVE THE UNITY AND INTEGRITY OF THE POLISH STATE. WE HAVE PUT FORWARD OUR CLAIMS AGAINST GERMANY AND HAVE DEMANDED THE INCORPORATION INTO POLAND OF EAST PRUSSIA, UPPER SILESIA AND PARTS OF POMERANIA AND WE APPRECIATE THE POSITIVE ATTITUDE OF THE ALLIES--INCLUDING RUSSIA--WHO PROMISED US HELP IN THIS MATTER. BUT WE DO NOT WANT TO EXPAND OUR FRONTIER IN THE WEST TO INCLUDE EIGHT TO TEN MILLION GERMANS.

"WE DO NOT WANT--THAT IS--EITHER BRESLAU OR STETTIN. WE ARE CLAIMING JUST OUR ETHNICAL AND HISTORIC POLISH TERRITORIES WHICH ARE UNDER POLISH DOMINATION."

THE SUNDAY OBSERVER SAID ARCISZEWSKI WAS "DETERMINED TO USE POLISH POLITICAL INFLUENCE IN THE UNITED STATES MUCH MORE FIRMLY THAN DID HIS PREDECESSOR." AND THAT A "SPECIAL ENVOY WHOSE TASK IT WILL BE TO ORGANIZE LARGE-SCALE PROPAGANDA CAMPAIGNS IN FAVOR OF POLAND AMONG AMERICANS OF POLISH ORIGIN IS TO LEAVE FOR THE UNITED STATES."

U.S. BOMBER BASE IN ENGLAND, DEC 16-(AP)-THE CONGRESSIONAL MEDAL OF HONOR WAS AWARDED TODAY TO LT.EDWARD S.MICHAEL, DOUGLAS, ARIZ., WHO CHEATED A SWARM OF GERMAN FIGHTERS OF A SURE KILL AND BROUGHT HIS RUINED FLYING FORTRESS HOME.

THE 23-YEAR-OLD PILOT, NOW IN THE UNITED STATES FOR TREATMENT OF SEVERE WOUNDS, STARTED A BOMBING MISSION OVER GERMANY APRIL 11.

AN HOUR AFTER CROSSING THE COAST HE RAN INTO MORE THAN 100 TWIN-ENGINED ENEMY FIGHTERS.

THE FIGHTERS RIPPED MICHAEL'S PLANE WITH 20-MM SHELLS UNTIL IT DROPPED SPINNING OUT OF FORMATION. A SHELL EXPLODED IN THE COCKPIT, WOUNDING THE PILOT AND CO-PILOT AND WRECKING MOST OF THE INSTRUMENTS.

WHEN THE PLANE PULLED OUT OF THE SPIN AFTER DROPPING 3,000 FEET, THE BOMB BAY, LOADED WITH INCENDIARIES, WAS FLAMING AND THE LEVER FAILED WHEN AN ATTEMPT WAS MADE TO SALVO THE BOMBS TO PREVENT AN EXPLOSION.

MICHAEL ORDERED THE PLANE ABANDONED AND SEVEN MEN JUMPED, BUT THE BOMBARDIER'S PARACHUTE AS DESTROYED BY ENEMY BULLETS AND MICHAEL DECIDED TO TRY TO FLY HOME. THE CO-PILOT ALSO ELECTED TO REMAIN.

GERMAN FIGHTERS STILL WERE ATTACKING. AFTER 45 MINUTES, THE RIDDLED FORTRESS FOUND COVER IN A CLOUD BANK AND SHOOK OFF THE PURSUING FIGHTERS. MICHAEL BROUGHT THE BIG FELLOW DOWN TO TREETOP LEVEL TO DODGE THE FLAK ACROSS FRANCE.

MICHAEL PASSED OUT FROM LOSS OF BLOOD AND EXHAUSTION BEFORE HE REACHED ENGLAND. WHEN THE BOMBER REACHED AN RAF FIELD, THE CO-PILOT CIRCLED SEVERAL TIMES UNTIL THE BOMBARDIER BROUGHT MICHAEL AROUND. BOTH PILOTS WERE NECESSARY TO LAND THE PLANE.

MICHAEL TOOK OVER WHAT WAS LEFT OF THE CONTROLS AND MADE A SUCCESSFUL CRASH LANDING. HE WAS CARRIED FROM THE PLANE TO A HOSPITAL.

MICHAEL'S HOME IS AT 652 FOURTEENTH ST., DOUGLAS.

NINE MEN INSIDE THE 30-TON MONSTER FELT IT, TOO.

THE TENTH FELT NOTHING. HE LAY SLUMPED ACROSS THE CONTROLS IN THE CO-PILOT'S SEAT, MORTALLY WOUNDED. IT WAS THE WEIGHT OF HIS BODY AND HIS DEATH GRIP ON THE THROTTLES THAT WERE SPEEDING THE BOMBER DOWN.

THE GERMAN ANTI-AIRCRAFT SHELL WHICH HAD KILLED THE CO-PILOT, LT. GEORGE CLARK, 123 MAPLE AVE., NOBLESVILLE, IND., HAD NOT HARMED THE PILOT IN THE NEXT SEAT, LT.CHARLES WALLACE OF 2152 SHELBO ST., SEATTLE WASH.

THE 23-YEAR-OLD PILOT WAS THE ONLY PERSON ABOARD WHO IN THOSE FEW SPILIT SECONDS COULD DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT.

HE PULLED CLARK'S HANDS OFF THE THROTTLES AND WEDGED THE BODY AWAY FROM THE STICK, AT THE SAME TIME STRUGGLING WITH HIS OWN CONTROLS.

WITH AGONIZING DELIBERATENESS THE BOMBER FINALLY RESPONDED, SHUDDERING AS IF IN A GALE, AND LEVELLED OFF.

THE LANDING FLAPS HAD BEEN TORN AWAY AND THE INSTRUMENTS SHATTERED. GASOLINE TANKS WERE LEAKING AND FUMES FILLED THE PLANE.

WALLACE FOUND AN AMERICAN FIGHTER BASE IN FRANCE AND SENT THE CREW INTO CRASH POSITIONS IN THE RADIO ROOM. HE CRASHLANDED WITH THREE ENGINES.

THE U.S. 78TH INFANTRY DIVISION IS FIGHTING UNDER THE FIRST ARMY COMMAND, IT WAS DISCLOSED TODAY, AND HAS TAKEN THE TOWNS OF KESTERICH, ROLLESBROICH AND SEVERAL OTHER VILLAGESX NORTHEAST OF MONSCHAU.

IT FIRST WENT INTO COMBAT AT 6 A.M. LAST WEDNESDAY AFTER JOINING THE FIRST ARMY DEC. DEC 17 1944

SINCE ITS ACTIVATION AUG. 15, 1942, AT CAMP BUTLER, N.C., THE NEW 78TH HAS BEEN UNDER COMMAND OF MAJ.-GEN. EDWIN PARKER, JR., OF WHYTHEVILLE, VA., WHOSE WIFE NOW LIVES IN RICHMOND.

THE 78TH HAD A PECULIAR HISTORY IN THAT FOR ALMOST A YEAR OF ITS CAREER IT WAS USED AS A TRAINING OUTFIT WHICH HEADED BETWEEN 50,00 AND 60,000 MEN FOR SERVICE IN THE PACIFIC AND EUROPEAN THEATERS. EVEN AS LATE AS APRIL OF THIS YEAR WHEN IT WAS MOVED OUT OF MANEUVERS TO CAMP PICKETT, VA., IT LOST ALL ITS REGIMENTAL COMMANDERS AS WELL AS EVERY PRIVATE FIRST CLASS.

A FIFTH DIVISION COMMAND POST, DEC. 15-(DELAYED)-(AP)-THE BATTLE BAPTISM OF PVT. DALE REX CAME IN ONE OF THE HOTTEST SPOTS OF THE WAR ON THE U. S. THIRD ARMY FRONT, BUT REX EMERGED WITH THE DISTINGUIUHED SERVICE CROSS AND PROMOTION TO A SERGEANTCY.

THE SIX-FOOT, FIVE-INCH SON OF MR. AND MRS. SAMUEL REX OF RANDOLPH, UTAH, WAU A REPLACEMENT WHEN HE JOINED COMPANY G IN THE SECOND BATTALION OF THE 11TH INFANTRY REGIMENT. HE HAD HAD NO REAL BATTLE EXPERIENCE WHEN HE WAS THROWN INTO THE DORNOT BRIDGEHEAD ACROSS THE MOSELLE, FIVE MILES SOUTH OF METZ.

THAT AREA WAS MORE THAN SIZZLING WHEN THE 250-POUND FORMER

30.24— 21319

BASKETBALL CENTER FOR BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY MOVED IN SEPT. 8 TO TAKE OVER A MACHINE GUN AFTER THE ORIGINAL GUNNER HAD BEEN KILLED.

THE 22-YEAR-OLD REX KEPT IT CHATTERING FOR THE BETTER PART OF 60 HOURS AGAINST THE GERMANS, WHO WERE CHARGING ALMOST SHOULDER TO SHOULDER IN A DETERMINED EFFORT TO DRIVE THE AMERICANS BACK ACROSS THE MOSELLE.

NO ONE CAN SAY ACCURATELY HOW MANY OF THE ENEMY DROPPED IN THE SPLATTERING LEAD FROM REX' MACHINE GUN AND ANOTHER WHICH WAS EMPLACED NEARBY. BUT RIFLEMEN WHO WERE THERE SAY "HUNDREDS--THREE OR FOUR HUNDRED, ANYWAY."

THE AMERICANS FINALLY WERE FORCED TO PULL OUT OF THE BRIDGEHEAD UNDER AN INCREASING SHOWER OF ARTILLERY, MORTAR AND SMALL ARMS FIRE. REX STRIPPED OFF HIS CLOTHES, GAVE THEM TO A WOUNDED MAN AND THEN SWAM BACK AND FORTH ACROSS THE 300-FOOT WIDE RIVER, HELPING OTHER SWIMMERS.

BETWEEN TIMES HE SAVED ONE MAN FROM DROWNING AND HELPED LOAD AND UNLOAD BOATS.

DEC 17 1944

APPROPRIATELY, MAJ. GEN. LEROY IRWIN PINNED THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS ON REX A FEW DAYS AGO IN METZ--THE GOAL OF THE FIFTH DIVISION DURING THAT FIRUT ATTEMPT TO CROSS THE MOSELLE MORE THAN THREE MONTHS AGO.

NEW DELHI, NOV. 21-(DELAYE-(AP)-AN INVESTIGATION BY U.S. ARMY AUTHORITIES HAS RESULTED IN COURT MARTIAL AND ARREST OF SCORES OF AMERICAN SERVICE MEN AND CIVILIANS IN THE PAST YEAR ON CHARGES OF SMUGGLING CONTRABAND INTO CHINA OVER THE FAMOUS "HUMP" AIRLINE, IT WAS LEARNED TODAY.

WITH THE COOPERATION OF BRITISH, CHINESE AND INDIAN OFFICIALS, ARMY INVESTIGATORS NOW HAVE LARGELY SMASHED AN INTERNATIONAL SYNDICATE WHICH FOR THREE YEARS DEALT IN STOLEN LEND-LEASE SUPPLIES, GOVERNMENT PROPERTY, GOLD CURRENCY AND OTHER GOODS FLOWN INTO ISOLATED AND INFLATION-RIDDEN CHINA, IT WAS SAID.

THE ARMY WITHHELD ALL NAMES.

THE AMERICANS WERE DECLARED MOSTLY "SMALL FRY" IN THE OPERATIONS --GO-BETWEENS WHO TRANSPORTED THE GOODS UNDER PLANS ENGINEERED BY THE SYNDICATE, SAID TO BE MADE UP OF WEALTHY CHINESE AND INDIAN CITIZENS AND GREEKS WITH BRITISH CITIZENSHIP.

THE INQUIRY WAS BEGUN, ONE HEADQUARTERS OFFICER SAID, WHEN IT WAS DISCOVERED THAT "MUCH OF OUR SUPPLIES THAT TOOK VALUABLE SPACE ON PLANES WERE GETTING TO THE BLACK MARKET. IN SOME CASES BANDITS OPERATING IN THE CHINA HILLS HAD BEEN KNOWN TO ROB AMERICAN ARMY SUPPLY TRUCKS WITH AMERICAN PISTOLS."

THE ARMY'S CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION DIVISION STILL IS WORKING ON A NUMBER OF CASES, BUT THE LARGE SCALE OPERATIONS ARE BELIEVED WIPED OUT.

THE INVESTIGATION IS IN CHARGE OF COL. HARRY COOPER OF 3401 PINKEY STREET, BALTIMORE, PROVOST MARSHAL IN THE CHINA-BURMA-INDIA THEATER.

MOST OF THE AMERICANS INVOLVED STARTED IN A SMALL WAY, CARRYING INTO CHINA ONLY SUCH THINGS AS CIGARETTES. LATER THE SYNDICATE INVOLVED SOME U.S. AIR FORCE MEN AND PILOTS WITH "GET RICH QUICK" SCHEMES.

THE PROFITS OF AMERICAN PARTICIPANTS IN THE SMUGGLING ACTIVITIES WERE ESTIMATED TO TOTAL $4,156,000 IN WHAT HAVE BEEN CLASSIFIED AS 87 MAJOR AND 213 MINOR CASES IN WHICH ARMY PUNITIVE ACTION HAS BEEN COMPLETED OR IS UNDERWAY. IT WAS EXPLAINED THAT CASES WERE CLASSIFIED AS MAJOR IF THEY INVOLVED PROFITS OF MORE THAN $5,000.

THE 300 CASES INVOLVED SOME MEMBERS OF THE FAMED "FLYING TIGERS," EMPLOYES OF THE CHINA NATIONAL AIRWAYS CORPORATION, U.S. ARMY PERSONNEL, AMERICAN RED CROSS WORKERS, TECHNICAL REPRESENTATIVES OF AMERICAN MANUFACTURERS, AND BRITISH, INDIAN AND CHINESE AND OTHER CIVILIANS.

A74

SOME OFFICERS OF ONE AMERICAN TROOP CARRIER SQUADRON, INCLUDING THE COMMANDING OFFICER, WERE LISTED AS HAVING AMASSED AN ESTIMATED $50,000 BEFORE THE AUTHORITIES STEPPED IN.

ONE PLANE WHICH CRASHED IN THE BURMA JUNGLE ENROUTE TO CHINA WAS FOUND OVERLOADED WITH LOOT.

OFTEN GEMS WERE CONCEALED IN PLANE INSTRUMENTS AND IN THE UNDERWEAR OF CREWMEN. IN ONE INSTANCE, THE AUTHORITIES FOUND 500 CARTONS OF BRITISH ISSUE CIGARETTES UNDER THE FLOORBOARDS OF A PLANE.

ONE AMERICAN SOLDIER AND FOUR CHINESE WERE CAUGHT IN KUNMING WITH $7,000 WORTH OF SULFANILIMIDE PILLS IN SUIT CASES. SOME AMERICAN SOLDIERS WERE SELLING PISTOLS TO BLACK MARKET DEALERS FOR $300 TO $1,000 APIECE, AN OFFICER SAID.

ABOARD VICE ADMIRAL JOHN S. MCCAIN'S FAST CARRIER FORCE FLAGSHIP OFF THE PHILIPPINES DEC.15 (DELAYED)-(VIA NAVY RADIO) -(AP)-SHIELDING GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S NEW MINDORA ISLAND LANDING, A LARGE FORCE OF NAVY PLANES TODAY KEPT THE 7,008 ISLANDS IN THE PHILIPPINES CUT OFF FROM THE JAPANESE EMPIRE FOR A SECOND DAY.

NO ENEMY SHIP AND HARDLY AN ENEMY PLANE MOVED IN THE NORTHERN PHILIPPINES WITHOUT DRAWING THE ATTENTION OF VICE ADMIRAL JOHN S. MCCAIN'S CARRIER PLANES.

FROM EARLY YESTERDAY, WHEN THE AROUND-THE-CLOCK COMBAT PATROLS BEGAN HOVERING OVER LUZON, A TOTAL OF 347 ENEMY PLANES HAVE BEEN PUT OUT OF COMMISSION UP TO MIDMORNING TODAY.

OF THIS TOTAL 41 WERE SHOT OUT OF THE AIR; 191 WERE BURNED ON THE GROUND AND 115 WERE DAMAGED ON THE GROUND.

TWELVE ENEMY SEA-GOING SHIPS, INCLUDING ONE LARGE TROOPS TRANSPORT, WERE SUNK DURING THE SAME PERIOD.

A FLIER WHO RETURNED TO THIS CARRIER FOR MORE GASOLINE, BOMBS AND BULLETS TO RESUME THE DAY AND NIGHT FLYING CIRCUS PERFORMANCES OVER SOME 100 ENEMY AIR FIELDS ON LUZON SAID THAT THE JAPANESE ARE TRYING TO BRING IN PLANES FROM FORMOSA BUT THAT SO FAR THEY HAVE FAILED.

THIS IS THE FIRST TIME IN THE HISTORY OF NAVAL AVIATION THAT A CARRIER TASK FORCE HAS EVER KEPT A SMOTHERING BLANKET OF FIGHTER PLANES DAY AND NIGHT OVER ANY LAND MASS EVEN APPROACHING THE SIZE OF LUZON.

THERE ARE APPROXIMATELY 100 FIELDS ON THE ISLAND WHICH IS MORE THAN 300 MILES LONG. ADDING TO THE DIFFICULTY OF MAINTAINING AIR CONTROL IS THE FACT THAT LUZON LIES WITHIN EASY FLYING DISTANCE OF FORMOSA THE GREAT JAPANESE WAR CENTER.
THE EXPERIENCE FOR THE JAPANESE WAS A NEW ONE. THEY PREVIOUSLY HAD BEEN ATTACKED OFTEN IN THE DAYTIME AND THEIR FIELDS HAD BEEN MADE USELESS TEMPORARILY. ON ONE OCCASION A SMALL PATROL OF NIGHT FIGHTERS FLEW OVER LUZON ON HECKLING MISSIONS BUT THIS IS THE FIRST FULL SCALE DAY AND NIGHT BLANKETING OF A WHOLE ISLAND.

SOME OFTHE PEOPLE OF TOKYO AND OTHER CONGESTEDJAPANESE METROPOLITAN AREAS THREATENED BY AMERICAN AERIAL BOMBS APPARENTLY ARE GOING TO BE EVACUATED TO A COLDER AND MORE RUGGED PART OF THE NIPPON HOMELAND---HOKKAIDO ISLAND.
TOKYO BROADCASTS TODAY ANNOUNCING CABINET APPROVAL OF THE NATION'S 1945 ORDINARY BUDGET, REPORTED IT CONTAINED INCREASED APPROPRIATIONS FOR "COLONIZATION EXPENDITURES" FOR HOKKAIDO AS WELL AS OTHER ITEMS MARKED FOR WAR PRODUCTION, FOODSTUFFS AND AIR RAID DEFENSE. THE BROADCASTS WERE RECORDED BY THE FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION.
HOKKAIDO LIES JUST NORTHOF HONSHU, THE MAIN ISLAND OF JPAN. IT HAS FIGURED LITTLE IN THE WAR THUS FAR. IT IS RELATIVELY THINLY POPULATED AND SUSCEPTIBLE OF AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT, BUT THE GOVERNMENT NEVER HAS BEEN ABLE TO EXPLOIT IT AS A PLACE FOR RESETTLEMENT BECAUSE THE JAPANESE DISLIKE ITS COLD WINTERS.
THE NEW BUDGET LSO CONTAINS ITEMS FOR THE COLONIZATION OF UNNAMED "SOUTHERN REGIONS" AND FOR "CONSOLIDATIONOF THE GREATER EAST ASIA RACES."
IT CALLS FOR 22,244,000,000 (BILLION) YEN, AND IS FOR ORDINARY GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES. IS 1,656,000,000 YEN HEAVIER THAN THE 1944 BUDGET. IT DOES NOT INCLUDE THE MILITARY BUDGET, WHICH IS A SEPARATE AND EVEN LARGER APPROPRIATION. LAST YEAR THE MILITARY BUDGET WAS 38,000,000,000 YEN, AND THE DIET ADDED TO THAT 25,000,000 YEN FOR SUPPLEMENTARY MILITARY EXPENDITURES.
THE PRE-PEARL HARBOR VALUE OF THE YEN WAS ABOUT 25 CENTS.
SOME OF THE INCREASE IN THE ORDINARY BUDGET, THE TOKYO RADIO SAID, WAS DUE TO EXTRA SPENDING TO INCREASE PRODUCTION OF WAR GOODS AND DAILY NECESSITIES.
"IT IS NOTEWORTHY," SAID DOMEI, JAPANESE NEWS AGENCY, "THAT THE GREATER PART OF THE INCREASE WILL BE MET BY THE INCREASE IN BOND ISSUES."
THIS MEANS THE JAPANESE WILL HAVE TO BUY MORE BONDE.
RUSSELL BRINES, ASSOCIATED PRESS CORRESPONDENTFORMERLY STATIONED IN TOKYO, REPORTED A YEAR AGO UPON HIS RELEASE FROM A JAPANESE PRISON CAMP IN CHINA THAT THE JAPANESE UPPER AND MIDDLE CLASSES REGARD WAR BOND PURCHASES AS GOVERNMENT CONFISCATION, AND DO NOT EXPECT THEIR MONEY BACK.

THE OFFICIAL GERMAN NEWS AGENCY, DNB, SAID IN A PROPAGANDA BROADCAST TODAY THAT AMERICAN FORCES ON THE FIRST AND THIRD ARMY FRONTS WERE USING CIVILIANS AND GERMAN PRISONERS OF WAR AS SHIELDS AND "BULLET CATCHERS."

THERE WAS NO COMMENT FROM ALLIED QUARTERS.

DNB SAID THE GERMAN FORCES DID NOT WITHHOLD THEIR FIRE.

"NEAR DILLINGEN, FOR INSTANCE, AMERICAN TANKS CHASED CIVILIANS THAT HAD BEEN ROUNDED UP, INCLUDING 12 WOMEN AND SEVEN CHILDREN, IN FRONT OF THEIR TANKS IN ORDER TO PREVENT A GERMAN DEFENSE," IT SAID. "WHEN, HOWEVER, GERMAN ARTILLERY OPENED FIRE, THE AMERICANS HURRIED TO GET AWAY."

IN THE HURTGEN AREA, DNB DECLARED, THREE GERMAN WAR PRISONERS WERE FORCED TO RIDE IN FRONT OF THREE U.S. TANKS THAT WERE ATTACKING.

"ONE OF TWO SERGEANT MAJORS SUCCEEDED IN SAVING HIS LIFE BY JUMPING DOWN IN TIME," SAID DNB. "ALL THREE TANKS WERE DESTROYED BY FULL HITS, WHEREBY THE REST OF THE GERMAN SOLDIERS LOST THEIR LIVES."

Rip American Lines In Bitter Onslaught

Reinvade Belgium and Luxembourg—Thrust With Thousands of Troops and Scores Of Tanks—Yanks Holding at Some Points —Foe's Air Force Comes Out of Hiding—Loses 143 Planes to U. S. 33.

DEC 18 19

By Edward Kennedy

PARIS, Monday, Dec. 18 (AP)—The German army reinvaded Belgium and Luxembourg in an all-out offensive yesterday, denting U. S. First Army lines with thousands of troops and scores of tanks attacking on a 60-mile front.

This first major counter-offensive since Normandy was gaining in intensity.

Enemy Held At Some Points

At some points along a front between Monschau, 16 miles southeast of Aachen, on southward to the German fortress of Trier the enemy had advanced some miles while other thrusts were being held by the Americans.

(The depths of the German penetrations weer not given. Kennedy reported that some of his dispatches were altered by censorship.)

Seizing the initiative for the first time since D-Day, the Germans swept back along the paths of their 1940 conquests, spurred by an order from Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd Von Rundstedt that "your hour has struck."

What appeared to be the main blow carried to within 10 miles of the Belgian city of Malmedy, 23 miles south of Aachen.

(Malmedy is 14 miles west of the German border and, assuming American lines were at the frontier, that would mean a penetration of four miles. However, Allied lines on that long-quiet sector are ill-defined.)

An Inferno Of Artillery Fire

An inferno of artillery fire plunged into the American lines. Parachute troops in considerable numbers dropped behind the American positions in two corps areas on the First army front and also behind the U. S. Ninth army. Dropping in groups of four to eight, many were captured.

The long-hidden German air force roared out at least 450 strong and by nightfall had lost 143 planes in terrific air battles that cost the Americans 33 fighters. It was the enemy's greatest show of air power since the Allies stormed the French coast.

The battle flared along a 60-mile front from Rotgen, 10 miles southeast of Aachen, on south into Luxembourg, where at least two small penetrations were made before the Americans held.

Concentrated South Of Aachen

Associated Press Correspondent William F. Boni said the land assault was concentrated some 23 miles south of Aachen, where German infantry and from 30 to 50 tanks overran advance American positions in the area of Honsfeld on the route to the Ardennes forest.

From Honsfeld, two miles inside Belgium, the Germans pressed on west to within 10 miles of Malmedy before the attack eased late in the afternoon. The doughboys appeared to have the situation fairly well under control.

Rundstedt's order to his troops declared, "Strong attacking armies are advancing today against the Anglo-Americans. I don't need to say more to you. Bear in yourselves a holy duty to give everything and achieve the superhuman for our fatherland and our fuehrer."

Supreme headquarters said that while the German drive represented a major effort which is not underestimated, there was no reason for alarm of anxiety.

Information at supreme headquarters was that the Germans made three major advances toward the American lines, and had attempted others which were sealed off.

A dispatch from the First Army front said the German intent appeared to be to ease pressure on the Duren front east of Aachen and on the Saar and Palatinate fronts.

One from the Ninth Army front said it was doubtful if the German high command hoped to capture and hold any large amount of territory.

The German army does not appear to have resources for such adventures, and it seemed likely the main objective was to disrupt Gen. Eisenhower's winter offensive.

Smaller attacks were mounted all along an 80-mile front from Duren south to the area of the German fortress city of Trier in what looked like a grand attempt to ease the tremendous pressure of the U. S. First and Ninth Armies on the Roer river line before Cologne and the Rhine.

Third Army Pressing Fight

The U. S. Third Army pressed the fight against stubborn opposition in the Saar area by clearing Middelsheim, two miles inside the border, and Walsheim, a mile and a half east of Sarreguemines. These advances followed the Third Army's brilliant victory gained by smashing the primary Siegfried line defenses at Dillingen.

Deepening its invasion of the southern Saarland to two miles, the Third also forged into Gerscheim, seven miles northeast of Sarreguemines.

To the southeast, four divisions of the U. S. Seventh Army reached the Siegfried line beyond captured Wissembourg, moving steadily ahead against gradually stiffening resistance. They took Schweighofer, three miles northeast of Wissembourg, and Kapsweyer, a mile farther north and reached a point about three miles south of Bergzabern after sweeping through several more villages.

The Germans were blowing up bridges behind them as they withdrew from this area between the frontier and the main Siegfried defenses. Farther westward, other Seventh army forces made some progress south of Bitche.

Three Miles Deep In Reich

The day's advances put the Seventh as much as three miles deep in the Reich at points along a 14-mile front and some American troops were only eight miles west of the Baden Province capital of Karlsruhe. The enemy's withdrawal from several villages in the border area put U. S. vanguards within 33 miles of the arsenal cities of Ludwigshafen and Mannheim on the Rhine.

It was disclosed that the Germans have at least five divisions facing the Seventh army on the Palatinate front as well as miscellaneous units such as fortress battalions trained to fight in prepared positions and having little or no transport. The German divisions include the 11th Panzer, the 25th Panzer Grenadiers, the 361st, 245th and the 256th Infantry.

Advantages in South

On the southern end of the Seventh Army's front, counterattacking Germans retook the Alsatian villages of Benwehr and Mittelwehr, both of which are northwest of Colmar. The enemy also surged back into the village of Diebolsheim, east of Selestat, and recaptured the peak of Mount Hohneck in the Schlucht Pass. In the Bonhomme Pass, however, Allied troops fought ahead one mile.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' First Army reacted quickly to the threat to its right flank posed by the biggest German attack since the abortive attempt at Mortain last August to sever the Avranches Corridor and cut off American armored spearheads racing through Brittany toward Paris.

"In Paris By Christmas"

(Blue Network Correspondent Gordon Frazer from the front said prisoners declared they expected to be in Paris by Christmas).

Associated Press Correspondent William F. Boni said there were three other penetrations in addition to the enemy thrust toward Malmedy.

One was some 19 miles southeast of Malmedy at a point just south of the German village of Heckhuscheid, where the Americans hold a slender strip of enemy soil. An attack by 100 German troops was broken up by artillery fire. Herckhuscheid is five miles northeast of the junction of the Belgian, Luxembourg and German borders.

The second was 17 miles farther south, where 150 Germans moved into the wooded area southwest of the Luxembourg border town of Vianden.

A third carried into Luxembourg south of Echternach, a border town 13 miles southeast of Vianden.

The attacks were turning toward the Ardennes forest, once considered too tough an obstacle for a real offensive. This military myth blew up in 1940 when the Germans broke through for the battles that spelled the downfall of France and The Lowlands.

Over Thousand Prisoners Taken

All along the First Army front, small bodies of Germans were infiltrating the American lines, but many were being seized so quickly that yesterday's total of prisoners rose abruptly to 1,059, more than double that of the day before.

German artillery fire, which opened up Friday in a prelude to the push, still rained down and was particularly heavy also in the sector opposite the Roer river stronghold of Duren.

In reporting the first of the series of small attacks that preceded the German push, Boni said the enemy appeared to have shifted strength from the Duren sector—where the bulk of his forces were withdrawn to the Roer's west bank—for the diversionary assaults.

The German attacks fell yesterday with hammerlike precision from north to south, beginning at daylight on the U. S. Ninth army front and then dropping southward.

Alert First army troops smashed the Germans bak in their attempts to retake Mariaweiler and Gurzenich, a mile and a half northwest and a mile west of Duren respectively.

Three attacks followed in the Monschau arear, 16 miles southeast of Aachen, where the First army was moving up both banks of the Roer. These were broken on rocklike American resistance.

Always the attacks were preceded by violent artillery barrages and the German waves came over in a blaze of small-arms fire.

Falling Back Before Patch

While the Germans were lashing out here, they still were falling back in the southwestern part of the Reich before the advance of Lt. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army doughboys.

Three divisions were pushing into the Palatinate, a region studded with war factories, from the Vosges to the Rhine, and were nearing the main fortifications of the Siegfried line. Resistance still was negligible.

On the west Seventh Army men took Bobenthal, two miles inside the Reich in a forested area northwest of Wissembourg, along with the villages of Schweigen and Rechtenbach, five miles farther east.

On the east flank near the Rhine they overran the German villages of Scheibenhardt, just north of the French town of Scheibenhard, and Berg, eight miles west of the big industrial city of Karlsruhe.

The Germans were fighting back savagely from the Maginot line on the Seventh's west flank in the Vosges. The 44th Division fought into Hottviller, four miles west of the anchor city of Bitche.

Several Thousand Holed Up

Several thousand Germans were holed up in this most formidable of the Maginot line positions, where the French still were firing when the 1940 armistice was signed.

Here a series of four Maginot forts, buttressed by satellite forts in the manner of the Metz defenses, were holding out. These main fortresses were Simserhof, Schiessck, Otterbiel and Grand Hohekirkel.

But the Americans had reduced one of the fortresses, Freuneburg, with artillery fire and were timing the raising and towering of turrets in the other forts and firing their guns when the turrets were raised. As a result they were scoring telling blows when the enemy gunners were most exposed.

Despite repeated German counter-attacks all around the Colmar-Mulhouse perimeter in southern Alsace, the U. S. 36th Division seized Kaysersberg on advantageous heights five miles northwest of Colmar.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army partly breached the west wall in the Dillingen area in a climax to ten days of the toughest kind of knock-down fighting.

The victory was scored by Texas and Oklahoma veterans of the 90th Division, which broke a stalemate in the fortified Saar town of Dillingen.

90th Div. Takes 1,000 Prisoners

In its slugging match with the enemy inside the west wall, the 90th knocked out 365 pillboxes, took 1,000 prisoners, killed up to 800 Germans and wounded 1,500 others, and destroyed 15 tanks.

The 90th was pressing east for fresh tests, possibly in the eastern edge of Dilingen, or farther back in the hills behind the city where the fortifications are spread out in depth.

In the southern Saar basin, the 35th Division fought into Gerscheim, two miles inside the Saar, seven miles northeast of Saareguemines.

Advances up to a mile along a two and a half-mile sector here placed American spearheads about five miles south of the main Siegfried fortifications.

The Germans were moving reinforcements into the Saar also. Night fighting Black Widow warplanes of the 19th Tactical Airforce pounded on a 10-mile long German column early today and set it aflame near Nunkirchen, 12 miles northeast of Saarlautern.

The German fighter force which had been conserved for months, was thrown up to screen the German army's winter counterattack, and on the Ninth Army front German planes flew over in an almost continuous stream last night. Seventeen were shot down during the night.

German-Held Maginot Forts Slow 7th Army

With American Troops Outside Bitche, Dec. 16 (Delayed) (AP).—Several thousand Germans are holed up in the vast Maginot Line fortresses of the Vosges peaks in this part of northern Alsace ing the entry of the U. S. Army left flank into Ger y.

"It looks like we will be the last ones over the border," said Maj. John Nickels, Philadelphia, "but then maybe we'll be the first ones out."

The Germans are making big use of the Maginot Line in this sector. They well know the strength of the fortifications here, having tried unsuccessfully to take them themselves in 1940. The French still were firing from the pillboxes when the armistice was signed.

Four Main Fortresses

The Maginot Line here consists of four main fortresses—Simserhof, Schiesseck, Otterbiel and Grand Hohekirkel—each surrounded by 6 to 11 subsidiary forts. A single main fortress can hold 900 men. It consists of three or four underground levels with impenetrable roofs.

"You hear a lot of stories that the Maginot Line was flimsy because dishonest French contractors built much of it of inferior materials, but that is not true here," said Maj. Thomas Sheehan, Montclair, N. J. "Our biggest shells are bouncing off the forts like pebbles."

A prisoner fror one of the forts said the only result of the heavy shelling was that it gave the German occupants earaches and caused them "mental anguish."

Yank Trick Gets Results

However, Yank marksmanship has accounted for the Fortress Freunenburg—whose steel door was smashed in by a shell, scaring the Germans and causing some to surrender.

Lieut. William Kennedy of Tallahasee, Ala., pulled off the neatest trick of all.

While spotting for artillery he timed the rise and fall of the turrets and sent back his calculations. Later, an American shell arrived just as a turret rose out of the fort. Two were smashed in this manner in shooting from a range of 7 to 10 miles.

The Maginot Line here has a fire coverage over an area 3 miles deep and more than 10 miles wide.

Survivors Assert Nazis Murdered U.S. Captives

Say They Were Herded Into Field and Mowed Down

AN AMERICAN FRONT-LINE CLEARING STATION, Belgium, Dec. 17 (AP).—Muddy and shivering survivors, weeping with rage, reported today that German tankmen with machine guns shot down captured Americans who were herded into an open field.

"Those of us who played dead got away," said Technician Fifth Grade William B. Summer, of Glenville, W. Va., "but we had to lie there and listen to German non-coms kill with pistols every one of our wounded men who groaned or tried to move.

Summers escaped with a gashed hand. His artillery observation battalion was trapped at a road fork by a powerful German armored column which has driven several miles into Belgium in the current major Nazi offensive.

Heavy guns on the enemy's Tiger tanks quickly shot up more than two dozen American trucks and lightly armed vehicles. About 150 captured Americans were led into a field and, as the German column moved past less than fifty yards away, German gunners deliberately raked the defenseless group with machine guns and machine pistols, the survivors said.

The survivors expressed hope that perhaps a majority of the men had escaped with their lives by diving to the ground and lying still, but three hours after the mass slaughter was attempted fewer than twenty had made their way back to their own lines.

Yank Fighters Bag 110 Nazis In Air Battles

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force Dec. 17 (AP).—U. S. Ninth Air Force fighterbombers shot down 110 German planes and lost 35 today in terrific air battles over the front as the German air force came out in the strongest numbers in months in support of the German counter-offensive.

The Germans flew approximately 450 sorties in their biggest effort since the Allied invasion of the continent.

This was less than half the number the Ninth U. S. Air Force sent over however.

Yanks Continue To Drive Inland

On Mindoro Is.

Shove Outer Defense 6 Miles Beyond San Jose

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Monday, Dec. 18 (AP)—United States forces who landed against weak opposition Friday on Mindoro island are pressing inland, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Headquarters announced to day, and have shoved their outer defense six miles beyond the town of San Jose.

The Americans on Saturday seized command of strategic high ground, and have established an arc of defense reaching at the farthest point 11 miles from the beachhead where the dawn landings were made.

In the advance to secure airfield positions, only scant resistance was encountered, the communique reported.

MacArthur said the southern end of Mindoro island, which lies less than 155 miles from Manila, is "now secure."

Struggle Continues

The sanguinary struggle for Leyte island continues unabated, with the first cavalry and 32d division pressure from the north end of the Ormoc corridor and the 77th infantry division pushing up from the south.

Japanese casualties were mounting apace. The communique reported an additional 2,012 enemy slain up to last Saturday.

These Japanese dead have not been previously reported. There is every indication that the Japanese have been hard-pressed as the doughboys' drive continued with increasing speed.

The communique reported additional enemy supply dumps captured, with artillery pieces, mortars, light and heavy machineguns and several tanks.

The Yamashita line on Leyte was outflanked from the south as the 77th Division, which captured Ormoc, has pushed seven miles northward in a fierce struggle.

Planes Cleared

Army and Navy fliers have practically cleared the Philippines of Japanese planes, and continued also to harass enemy shipping.

Patrol planes set fire to two small freighters off Masbate, and bombed Puerto Princesa on Palawan. At Zamboanga, night patrol planes damaged a 3,000-ton freighter transport and again blasted an oil tank farm at Tarakan, Borneo, a frequent target.

Airdromes at Jolo and Tawai on the Sulu archipelago were attacked and large fires started. In the Moluccas, medium bombers, attack planes and fighters bombed enemy airdromes, bivouacs and supply dumps. Airdrome runways and warehouses at Halmahera, Boeroe, Ceram and Amboina were left unserviceable by American bombs. Other raids were made on enemy facilities at Dobo in the Aroe Islands, and in the Wewak area of New Guinea.

30. 24— 21329

Some Casualties

The communique noted that a single Japanese plant bombed American positions at Morotai, causing casualties.

The 77th Division's outflanking drive north of Ormoc placed its outer defense within two miles of Valencia, headquarters for the top-ranking Japanese officer on Leyte, Lt. Gen. Sosaki Suzuki.

A spokesman said heavy enemy casualties were caused in part by heavy "hand to hand fighting."

The 7th Division continues to reduce trapped elements of the Japanese 26th Division around Ormoc.

A late report said 12 P-47 fighters in a strike over Negros Thursday destroyed an entire Japanese bomber unit of 14 planes. In addition six enemy fighters were downed.

The past four days air operations (Dec. 13, 14, 15 and 16), show a bag of 581 planes destroyed — the total breaking down thus:

MacArthur's communique, Dec. 17 said 24 Japanese planes were shot down over the beachhead and shipping at Mindoro.

122 Planes

MacArthur's spokesman said that on Dec. 13 and 14 a total of 122 planes had been shot down in other Philippine sectors by the Far East Air Force made up of Liberators, Thunderbolts and the 7th Fleet (Vice Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid's) in raids on Luzon, the Visayas and Mindanao. (The totals for the 15th, 16th and 17th are still missing.)

(Associated Press Correspondent Rembert James with Vice Admiral John S. McCain's carrier task force, operating under Admiral Halsey's 3rd fleet, reported 435 planes put out of action. Of this number, said James, 61 were shot out of the air, 207 were burned on the ground and 167 were damaged.

(McCain's carrier force also accounted for 30 vessels sunk and 57 others damaged. Two of the sunken ships were large troop transports and two were medium-sized oilers).

MacArthur's aviators added to this bag of ships sunk: 1 destroyer, 1 ammunition sea truck, 3 coastal vessels, 1 lugger and four barges; damaged one 1,000-ton tanker, a gunboat, and sank or damaged four smal cargo ships and 11 luggers.

Russians Take Town 5½ Miles From Budapest

Red Army Also Reaches Slovak Border at New Point in 15-Mile Gain

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Red Army advanced to within five and a half miles of besieged Budapest yesterday and reached the Slovak border at a new point seventy-two miles northeast of the Hungarian capital in a rapid but methodical slashing apart of the remaining small German holdings east and northeast of the Danube River.

Susa Taken

The thrust to Slovakia ture of the town of Susa ed a gain of 15 miles f ously-reported Soviet po... that area northwest of Miskolc. En route, the Russians seized the big rail town of Putnok, eight miles east of Susa, said the Soviet communique.

A supplemental communique this morning said more than 600 of the enemy were slaughtered at Putnok and eight German tanks and self-propelled guns were knocked out.

Hundreds of the enemy also were slain in bloody fighting that resulted in capture of Fot, 5 1-2 miles northeast of Budapest, and Mogyorod, eight miles from Budapest, the Russians announced. This was the first official word on the great battle for the Hungarian capital since Wednesday.

Other Red Army units took the big town and railway station of Paszto, 37 miles northeast of Budapest, and Kisbarkany, six miles north of Paszto, in a drive north from the Hatvan area, while others fanning out northwest and northeast of Miskolc captured more than 40 communities.

Rail Center

These included the rail and road center of Putnok, 80 miles northeast of Budapest and only four miles from the Slovak border.

The advances in the Budapest area were the first announced by the Russians since last Wednesday when they reported the capture of Kisalag, two miles northwest of Fot, in the drive through the thick defense zone northeast of the capital.

The spearhead through northern Hungary which brought the capture of Putnok appeared headed toward Losonc, a hub of Slovak-Hungarian frontier communications 35 ...les west of Putnok.

Tonight's Soviet communique made no mention of operations in Slovakia, saying there were no material changes on that front. The German communique, however, again referred to a Russian drive along the road from Ungvar to Kassa, claiming that Red army attacks had been "smashed or stopped."

Unverified Operation

Moscow has not verified this operation, possibly being carried out by units of Gen. Ivan Petrov's Fourth Ukranian Army, which also is driving westward toward the Slovak strongpoint of Presov, 17 miles north of Kassa.

The extreme right wing of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's second Ukranian army in Hungary also apparently is pushing toward Kassa and was last reported 30 miles south of the town.

Another Malinovsky spearhead already has broken into Slovakia at Ipoly-Sag (Sahy) above Budapest, and is fighting within 80 miles of Bratislava, the Slovak capital and the threshold to Vienna.

In an interpretation of the Hungarian campaign today, Col. Nikolai Gavrilov, war observer for the official Soviet Tass News Agency, said the Germans were defending the country tenaciously because it was the most important on the approaches to Germany's southern frontier.

Moscow Radio

His article, broadcast by the Moscow radio, traced the Hungarian front from Szendro, 19 miles north of Miskoloc, down west of Miskolc, then southwestward to north of Eger and bending sharply northwest at Ipoly-Sag in Slovakia. From there it goes south along the east bank of the Danube to the siege area of Budapest, reaching Alsoged, seven and one-half miles north of the Hungarian capital.

"From here the line turns around Budapest in an arc, one end of which is formed by Kisalag, seven miles northeasst of Budapest," Gavrilov said, "while the other end of the arc rests on Dunaharaszti, six and one-quarter miles south. The apex of the arc, Isaszeg, is 12 1-2 miles east of Budapest."

The German radio admitted pressure was being increased on this arc, but gave no details.

From the Budapest arc ,the Hungarian front crosses both branches of the Danube about 11 miles south of the capital, reaching Ercsi. It then runs southwest and passes less than eight miles south of Szekesfehervar to swing down to the eastern shore of Lake Balaton and south to Barcs on the Yugoslav frontier.

The Soviet war bulletin tonight said 1,150 German and Hungarian officers and men had been taken prisoner northeast of Miskolc Saturday, bringing Malinovsky's bag of captives to 34,740 in 38 days. It also said that Russian troops Saturday disabled or destroyed 14 tanks.

BRITISH BOMB ULM AFTER DAY AIR WAR

RAF by Night Strikes First Blow at South Reich Rail and Industrial Center

NAZIS LOSE 143 AT FRONT

Cost to U. S. Ninth Air Force in Battling Luftwaffe Over Lines Is 35 Planes

LONDON, Monday, Dec. 18 (AP)—Heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force last night attacked Ulm, south German industrial and railway center, following daylight American heavy bomber strikes from Italy over Austria and a tremendous outbreak of air combats over the western front.

It was the RAF's first bombing of Ulm, which is on the Danube between Stuttgart and Munich. Ulm's factories produce tanks, armored vehicles and a large portion of Germany's fire-fighting equipment. It is a junction for Nazi rail traffic to both the Rhineland and the Italian fronts.

The big British Lancasters went aloft to hit Ulm after a day of unfavorable weather over the Continent had kept British-based United States Eighth Air Force bombers grounded.

The German Air Force rose in strength to support the Nazi counter-offensive on the western fronts and sacrificed 143 planes in combat.

The day brought out the greatest number of Luftwaffe fighters seen over the front at one time, an estimated 450 to 550 Nazis appearing. Enemy groups ranging in number up to fifty were tackled by pursuit planes of the Continent-based United States Ninth Air Force, which lost thirty-five planes in spectacular dogfights.

Nazi losses were the greatest since an American bomber-fighter armada from Britain knocked down 114 German planes on a mission over the Merseburg oil works on Nov. 26.

Heavy Bombers

Heavy bombers of the U. S. 15th Air Force, based in Italy, also met the first large formations of Nazis they had seen in more than a month when they attacked the railyards at Salzburg, Austria, and bombed the Austrian city of Wels.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators from Italy hammered installations in Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia Saturday in a day of diversified attacks in which 15 Allied planes were lost.

Photographs showed good coverage with bomb hits Saturday by Eighth Air Force Flying Fortresses on the Stuttgart-Kornwestheim rail center, an operation that cost three bomebrs. Later in the day RAF Lancasters attacked the rail hub of Siegen east of Cologne.

The Ruhr city of Bochum, one of Germany's chief coal, iron, and industrial centers with normal population of 320,000, has been almost completely devastated by two RAF bombing attacks in the last two months, the Air Ministry announced.

Reconnaissance showed 92 per cent of the city's most fully built-up commercial and administrative areas had been destroyed.

Crowd Scores British Policy

LONDON, Dec. 17. (AP)—Twenty thousand persons jammed in Trafalgar Square at the foot of Nelson's monument condemned Britain's armed intervention in Greece today and approved a resolution calling on the government "to stop using troops against the democratic resistance forces in Greece."

The resolution termed the government's policy in Greece "disastrous."

The Red flag of Russia and the British Union Jack flew side by side above the platform from which spokesmen from the labor commonwealth and communist parties cried out their bitterness against the British policy, denounced Prime Minister Churchill's stand and demanded the recall of Tommies on duty in Greece.

Saying British prestige has "fallen with a bump" Lord Strabolgi, a Laborite, contended the intervention threatened to lengthen the war by months and had brought American isolationists out again into the open. He added that "if this is the price we have to pay for Churchill's domination the price is too high."

Churchill Fails To Broadcast

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill did not deliver the radio talk to Britain tonight which it was said yesterday he might make. But he is expected to make a statement on the war and European political problems before the House of Commons recesses on Thursday for the Christmas holidays.

The prime minister may broadcast before Christmas if he is able to announce that a meeting with President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin has been arranged.

The Paris radio, quoting informed London circles, said tonight that the next meeting of President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill would be held in Rome. No date for the proposed meeting was predicted.

Shinwell Sees More War In Plan to Change Poland

Says 'Perhaps' Seeds of Future Conflict Are Already Laid

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP).—Emmanuel Shinwell, a Laborite member of Parliament, declared today that "perhaps the seeds of future wars already are laid" in the plan to partition Poland.

In a speech at suburban Kingston-on-Thames, Shinwell said: "We had a painful example of that in Friday's Parliament debate on Poland, the results of which filled me with foreboding apprehension. If there is to be any filching here and filching there and transfer of populations and the like, we cannot escape future wars."

Shinwell continued: "I am not complaining about our Soviet friends. Far from it. I can understand their anxiety to protect their frontiers and ward off possible enemies, but the best way to ward off an enemy and prevent conflict is to promote human and intelligent understanding."

Lord Templewood Quits As Ambassador to Spain

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 17—Lord Templewood, British Ambassador to Spain, has resigned, the British Foreign Office announced.

The announcement said Lord Templewood, the former Sir Samuel Hoare, had accepted the appointment in May, 1940, and "at that time it was expected the mission would be of short duration." The statement added:

"But in the ensuing years situations arose which made it desirable for him to continue his special mission. However, he now feels the time has come when he can be relieved."

A Madrid dispatch on Dec. 13 said Lord Templewood was retiring from the Ambassadorship and had left for London.

Yankees Will Bomb Nantes With Presents

A U. S. BOMBER BASE, England, Dec. 17— (AP) —Flying Fortresses will "bomb" Nantes with tons of presents during a Christmas party for some 3,000 French children.

Gifts including candy, toys, and soap will come from rations of the personnel of the 96th Bombardment Group, a veteran U. S. Eighth Air Force Fortress unit in England, and from parcels requested from home.

Officers and men of the unit also contributed $1,850 toward a fund to purchase more gifts and equipment for orphanages in Nantes.

The Christmas party plan was originated by Lt. P. Oscar Picard of Linwood, Mass., of the bomber group commanded by Lt.-Col. Theodore Milton, Washington, D. C., which has made 240 operations over Europe since June, 1943. It hit targets at Nantes several times during the German occupation.

France, U.S.S.R. Pledge Economic, Military Aid

By Joseph Dynan

PARIS, Dec. 17 (AP)—The new French-Russian Alliance pledges mutual economic and military assistance for at least 20 years and cooperative steps to bar Germany from any future aggression, it was disclosed tonight.

The text of the historic alliance, released by the Quai D'Orsay, declared the two countries were resolved to collaboration in establishing a world organization for peace, and pledged a common, no-quarter struggle until final victory over Germany.

Article three commits Russia and France to "undertake to adopt all necessary measures in common accord at the end of the present conflict with Germany to eliminate any new threat emanating from Germany and to bar the way to any kind of initiative rendering possible a new German attempt at aggression."

If such measures, or any German aggression, involves either nation in hostilities with the Reich, "the other party will immediately bring it all the aid and assistance in its power," the treaty asserted.

Under the pact signed in Moscow Dec. 10, both nations agreed to lend each other all possible economic aid "to facilitate and speed up the reconstruction of their respective countries and contribute to the prosperity of the world."

Agree to Fight

They agreed to fight on side by side and with the other United Nations until "final victory over Germany," and not to enter separate negotiations with Germany or conclude an armistice or peace treaty "either with the Hitlerite government or with any other government or authority set up in Germany with the aim or prolonging or nourishing the policy of German aggression."

France and Russia "undertake not to conclude alliances or enter coalitions aimed against one or the other of them," the text said, but this treaty does not affect their respective commitments in previous alliances — such as the Anglo-Russian pact.

Gen. Charles De Gaulle and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault gave the cabinet a lengthy explanation of the alliance today, and decided to submit the treaty to the consultative assembly before ratification.

The cabinet, it was announced, studied the pact with satisfaction and termed it "a capital factor in solidar[illegible] the United Nations" as well as an essential element in the future security of France.

To Submit Pact

De Gaulle will submit the pact to the assembly this week. Ratification was declared certain.

The treaty will be valid for 20 years, continuing indefinitely after that period unless either party gives at least a year's notice of renunciation.

The alliance signed by Bidault and Russian Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, declared reestablishment of lasting peace depended on close collaboration between France and the U. S. S. R. and all the United Nations.

The two countries are "resolved to collaborate in order to set up a system of international security permitting the effective maintenance of the general peace and safeguarding the development of harmonious relations between the nations."

[The French news agency A. F. P., in a domestic broadcast reported by the Federal Communications Commission, quoted Soviet Ambassador Alexander E. Bogomolov as saying at Paris that the treaty "makes it possible to think" the Allies can assure "a stable and lasting peace" in Europe.]

The Franco-Russian Treaty

PARIS, Dec. 17 (AP).—The following is the complete text of the new Franco-Russian treaty of alliance and mutual assistance which was made public here today:

The Provisional Government of the French Republic and the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics,

Determined to pursue together to the end of the war against Germany, convinced that once victory has been achieved the re-establishment of peace on a stable basis and maintaining of peace on a lasting basis require as prerequisites the existence of close collaboration between them (France and Russia) and all the United Nations, resolved to collaborate in order to set up a system of general peace and safeguarding harmonious development between the nations, anxious to confirm reciprocal engagements resulting from an exchange of letters on Sept. 9, 1941, regarding joint action in the war against Germany, and in the knowledge that by concluding an alliance between France and the U. S. S. R. the interests and sentiments of the two peoples are best assured, as are the necessities of war and the needs of peace and economic reconstruction in complete conformity with aims envisaged by the United Nations, have resolved to conclude to this effect a treaty and have appointed their plenipotentiaries.

Pledge Fight to the End

These are: For the Provisional Government of the French Republic, Georges M. Bidault, Minister of Foreign Affairs; For the Presidium of the Supreme Council (Parliament) of the U. S. S. R., M. (Viacheslav M.) Molotov, People's Commissar for Foreign Affairs.

After duly having exchanged credentials, they agreed on the following:

1. Each of the contracting parties will continue, at the other's side and that of the United Nations, to fight until final victory over Germany. Each of the contracting parties undertakes to give to the other help and assistance in this fight with the means at their disposal.

2. The high contracting parties will undertake not to enter into separate negotiations with Germany nor conclude without mutual agreement an armistice or peace treaty either with the Hitlerite government or with any other government or authority set up in Germany with the aim of prolonging or supporting a policy of German aggression.

3. The high contracting parties will undertake to adopt all the necessary measures in common accord at the end of the present conflict with Germany to eliminate any new threat emanating from Germany, and to bar the way to any kind of initiative rendering possible a new German attempt at aggression.

Mutual Aid Promised

4. In the event of one or the other high contracting parties finding itself implicated in hostilities with Germany either as a result of aggression committed by Germany or as result of circumstances mentioned in article 3, the other party will immediately bring it all the aid and assistance in its power.

5. The high contracting parties undertake not to conclude alliances or enter into coalitions aimed against one or the other of them.

6. The high contracting parties agree to exchange all possible economic assistance after the war so as to facilitate and speed up the reconstruction of their respective countries and contribute to the prosperity of the world.

7. The present treaty does not affect in any way any previous engagement contracted by any of the two parties with third nations by virtue of extracts published.

Treaty Valid Twenty Years

8. The present treaty, drawn up both in French and Russian, will be ratified and the instruments of ratification will be exchanged at Paris as soon as it is feasible to do so.

The treaty will enter into effect immediately when the instruments of ratification are exchanged and will be valid for twenty years.

If the treaty is not denounced at least one year previous to the lapse of this period by either of the two contracting parties, it will remain valid indefinitely, with either of the contracting parties retaining the right to end it by declaration to that effect upon one year's notice.

In pledge of the above, the following plenipotentiaries have signed and put their seals to the present treaty, which was issued in duplicate in Moscow, Dec. 10, 1944.

BIDAULT,
Minister of Foreign Affairs.
MOLOTOV,
People's Commissar of Foreign Affairs.

Airborne French Agents Of Reich Are Captured

By The Associated Press.

LIMOGES, France, Dec. 17—German agents of French nationality on a sabotage mission landed by parachute near a town southeast of here Thursday night, it was reported here today.

One of the men committed suicide upon arrest. Two others were prevented from doing so. Both carried large sums in French, American and British banknotes and bore arms and capsules of poison.

All three were believed to be members of the old Vichy militia. The two prisoners said they had been dropped by parachute from a German plane to sabotage military installations. Police, military authorities and troops of the French Forces of the Interior searched the hills for other parachutists.

Dunckel's Cabin Bombed

ABOARD A UNITED STATES WARSHIP OFF MINDORO, Dec. 15 (Delayed) (AP)—Slightly wounded in the head and an arm by bomb fragments during a Japanese attack on a United States ship yesterday, Brig. Gen. William C. Dunckel refused to return for hospitalization and landed to command American Sixth Army forces on Mindoro today.

General Dunckel was the first American general to be wounded in the Philippines campaign. He had a narrow escape when his cabin was pierced by two bomb fragments that tore through the bulkhead within a foot of each side of his head.

The general is a former backfield coach at the University of Missouri.

Rear Admiral Russell S. Berkey, who commanded the convoy covering force during the Mindoro landing, was thoroughly at home during the operation. He surveyed the waters for the Navy in 1935.

The admiral was former commandant of a naval base on Iceland.

His wife lives near Lyme, Conn., and his mother, Mrs. Lenora Berkey, at 1619 Riverside Drive, Tulsa, Okla.

Mindoro Key Battle, Jap Paper Warns

By the Associated Press

The important Tokyo newspaper Asahi in an editorial Sunday (Japan time) warned the Japanese that the victor in the battle of Mindoro Island, Philippines, where American troops landed Friday, "will assume full control of tomorrow's military situation."

Domei, the Japanese news agency, broadcast Asahi's comment and said that all metropolitan Tokyo newspapers had "editorially prominenced" the new landings.

Mainichi, another newspaper, said the American assault on Mindoro was "an act of desperation," and declared that the "fighting spirit of American military leaders and the enemy' ability to maintain their lines of supply cannot be minimized."

Domei said that Mainichi's editorial analysis came up with the Leyte the enemy now is bent on establishing on Minrodo a firm base to launch an eventual reconquest of all the Philippines."

(The American operation on Leyte island, Philippines, is anything but a failure in the opinion of U. S. military leaders. The Japanese there have lost their remaining principal supply port, Ormoc, and are being pressed into the northwest corner of the island. It was from Leyte that the Yank force departed for the successful landing on Mindoro.)

Asahi bluntly stressed "that now is the time when we must rise as one and exert our utmost effort to tax every ounce of our energy to produce and rush supplies to reach our force x x x."

Yank Railroaders Winning Battle All Their Own

By Lewis Hawkins

With the 3d Army, Dec. 8 (AP)—Not all of the smoke of war is from shellbursts. Much of it rolls thick and black from stacks of French locomotives whose shrill whistles pipe perky salutes to American soldiers — railroaders who are rolling thousands of tons of freight daily over patched-up lines.

Courage, sweat and skill are commonplace among men of the 2d Military Railway Service under Brig. Gen. Clarence L. Burpee and only a railroad man could assay fully the amazing obstacles they have overcome to fuel the Americans' greatest war machine and feed Europe's liberated millions.

One Example

When the soldier-railmen moved into one key yard in France they found bomb-scrambled tracks and equipment under the wreckage of 1,300 locomotives and cars. But Army engineers and railmen working simultaneously cleared this chaos so that now more than 60 trains run through that yard each day.

At Lemans French railway men told the Americans they would be lucky if they could move two trains their first day there. But by midnight 27 had been cleared through.

One night a captain and four enlisted men brought 2,100 gallons of fuel oil in 5-gallon cans 5 miles from a dump and poured it by hand into tanks of three Diesel locomotives in order to keep the trains moving.

Close To The Battle

Once they moved into a freight yard so close behind action that trains still were burning and they had to bury the dead which littered the area.

Often they outran their fuel supplies and firemen kept up steam with crossties, scrap lumber and even straw. As frequently water lines were useless and civilian fire departments were called on to pump water into the boilers or it was dipped from ditches or shell craters and passed along by bucket brigades sometimes made up of prisoners.

Night after night trains had to be driven without headlights when there was no way of knowing what the enemy might have left across the tracks. And every tunnel was a potential death trap where exposives could be planted.

Equipment Hodge-Podge

In a normal military train crew the conductor is a sergeant, engineer a technician (fourth grade), fireman a technician (fifth grade), and brakeman a private (first class).

Never have crews been called upon to operate such a hodgepodge of equipment. Much of it is American, including locomotives and cars shipped from the United States recently and old cars left over by the AEF in Begium in 1918. But a majority is foreign, including French, German, Italian and Belgian.

Anzacs Take Italian Fort

City of Faenza

Rome, Dec. 17 (AP).—New Zealand troops in a foot-by-foot slugging match today captured Faenza, Po Valley fortress city (population 45,000) on the broad highway arrowing to Bologna 29 miles away, ending a long siege and decisively defeating the Ninetieth Panzer Grenadier Division.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Bernard C. Freyberg's troops toppled the city on the Bologna-Rimini highway with simultaneous punches into the town from the southwest and east, and then speared 3 miles up highway 9 toward Bologna, to the Senio River, reaching a bridge blown by the Germans.

Faenza, famed for Faience pottery, had been squeezed for weeks by British Eighth Army flanking operations.

Hilltop Town Captured

Freyberg's men captured the hilltop town of Celle, southwest of Faenza, after a day-long battle, taking 200 prisoners, and then broke over highway 9. Some units drove up to the Senio River on a wide front. Others turned down the road into Faenza. British and Indian troops also inched their way over a ridge west of the city, which other Eighth Army units forced in from the east across the Lamone River.

Faenza fell only after a bitter street battle.

The hard-fighting German Nintieth Armored Division was a successor to the German Nintieth Light Division which surrendered in toto to Freyberg in Tunisia May 12, 1943.

In 24 hours the Eighth Army in this Adriatic sector took 550 prisoners.

Canadian Bridgehead Expanded

Farther north despite continued bitter German opposition, Canadians in the Eighth Army expanded their bridgehead over the Naviglio Canal to 3 miles in width, but the fortified road town of Bagnacavallo still held out.

The Canadians fortified positions between the deep canal and Forro Munio as they cut forward through the network of waterways slicing the Po valley in this area above Highway 9. In one action Friday, the Canadians took 150 prisoners and knocked out a Tiger tank, despite heavy enemy artillery fire.

American Fifth Army troops, meanwhile, engaged in scattered patrol clashes and underwent harassing enemy cannon fire.

The town of Tossignano 18 miles southeast of Bologna on the main Imola-Florence Highway became a bloody battle scene, with the Germans inside firmly entrenched.

CLARK TAKES NEW POST

Tells Fifth Army of Importance of Campaign as He Leaves

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark today assumed command of the Fifteenth Army Group in Italy.

In a farewell message to his former United States Fifth Army command he said the Italian campaign was forcing the Germans to employ many of their best divisions that otherwise would be used on the western and eastern fronts.

"Never underestimate the vital and continuing importance of your role in the Italian campaign," he said.

General Clark succeeds Field Marshal Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, who has been named Commander in Chief of all allied forces in the Mediterranean.

Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott Jr. took General Clark's place as commander of the Fifth Army.

Maj. Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, who has been Chief of Staff of the Fifth Army since its organization, accompanied General Clark as Chief of Staff of the Fifteenth Army Group.

General Clark took command of the Fifth Army Jan. 5, 1943, when it was activated.

Little Improvement For Italy Predicted

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP) — Premier Ivanhoe Bonomi in a broadcast to the nation tonight held out little hope of improved economic conditions while the year lasts and appealed to Italians to "fight to win the war without party distinctions."

The premier said a newly-activated Italian division soon would enter the line against the Germans and that others would be in action before Spring. About 200,000 Italian workers are engaged in essential activities behind the lines, he added, asserting that "Italy is fighting for her liberation and for nothing else."

He concluded that "this liberation means—if words have a precise meaning—that Italy must not stop at reoccupation of her regions contaminated by the German invader, but must preserve these same regions from the danger of falling anew under foreign domination."

12TH AIR FORCE MAKES ITS 350,000TH SORTIE

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP)—The honor of flying the United States Twelfth Air Force's 350,000th combat sortie went to a 22-year-old major who feels old "seeing all these kids come in" to replace his mates.

He is Maj. Hughes Dow of South Fort Worth, Tex., who left college at 18 and hitch-hiked to Canada to enlist in the Royal Canadian Air Force. He switched to the American Air Force in England in 1942.

To celebrate the air force's milestone after twenty-five months of combat in the Mediterranean theatre they dressed the major up in his best uniform, decked him out in his Silver Star, DFC and Air Medal ribbons and brought him to town for a press conference.

The modest flier skimmed over the time early in 1942 in Tunisia when he shot down an ME-109 with a P-39—how the first time he ever had been in aerial combat he scored a victory over his German opponent, and other exploits later when the 350th Fighter Group switched to P-47s. But he got a kick out of telling about the time in Sardinia when he built his own ME-109 out of parts taken from wrecked German planes.

"I first painted it olive drab," he recalled, "but the ack-ack gunners around the island got mad so I painted it yellow."

"It was some plane," he said. "It could outclimb anything I've ever seen and it had speed too. But we always could outrun the Messerschmitts."

Major Dow is credited with 210 operational missions of which more than seventy-five were combat flights over Tunisia, Sicily and Italy. The rest were convoy patrols.

NAZIS IN YUGOSLAVIA HIT

RAF Bombers From Italy Attack Retreating Enemy Columns

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP)—German columns in full flight in Yugoslavia along the Podgorica-Matesevo road were heavily attacked yesterday by a flight of British and South African bombers of the Mediterranean Allied Air Force.

A number of roadblocks were created and hundreds of Nazi vehicles jammed up on the road behind them.

Including bombings by United States Fifteenth Air Force "heavies" of an oil plant in Czechoslovakia and the Innsbruck rail yards and by tactical planes of the La Spezia drydocks, the MAAF flew 1,800 sorties and lost fifteen planes during the day.

Congressmen Now Touring Italian Front

Warned By Gen. Clark Of "Tough" Going—See Battle Movie.

ROME, Dec. 17 (AP)—The House Military Affairs committee began touring the Italian front today after a "briefing" in which Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark, commanding Allied ground troops, told them they could go close to the front, but warned them it would be "tough."

The representatives were outfitted with helmets, warm field clothes, and new type parkas being issued to frontline troops.

They witnessed the first general showing of the Army pictorial service film, "San Pietro," compiled from films by soldier photographers with the American Fifth Army.

With the actual sound of battle, it showed ground won at one point at the cost of a man to each yard, showed scenes of American dead and of Americans wrapped in canvas sacks being lowered into graves.

Several representatives said some of these scenes should be eliminated before the film is showed in the United States, but four enlisted men who were special guests at the showing declared they should not be cut.

"The homefolk don't really know what war is like," one of them, Pvt. Harry Murray of Westerly R. I., declared.

The other three, also decorated with the distinguished Service agreed. They are Sgts. Sylvester Singletad, Waseca, Minn; Sam McGowan, Clemson, S. C.; and Pvt Jack Green of Seattle, Wash.

At the airport where the committee began its tour there was an international guard of honor—detachments of Nurses, WACS, white and Negro American infantrymen, British guards, Brazilians and South Africans.

The first stop was at a huge ordnance plant commanded by Col W. H. Jaynes, Lancaster, Penn., which employs 12,000 Italian civilians. Here the representatives saw equipment from watches to tanks being repaired under supervision of U. S. troops.

ATHENS IS SHELLED, RAF HITS ELAS GUNS

Fighting Flares After British General Rejects Peace Bid and Demands Disarming

SHIFT BY PREMIER SEEN

Papandreou Is Understood to Be Not Opposed to Archbishop as Single Regent

ATHENS, Dec. 17 (AP)—Royal Air Force Spitfires and rocket-firing Beaufighters attacked Elas forces in Athens today after the Left-Wing troops had resumed heavy artillery and mortar fire in the city.

The Beaufighters attacked the Elas radio station while Spitfires, armed with cannon, attacked an Elas-controlled locomotive and strafed the Stadium area and a concentration of Elas troops on the northwestern outskirts of the capital.

Earlier in the day there was scattered fighting, a British communiqué said, after the British commander, Lieut. Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, had rejected as unsatisfactory a peace proposal by the Left-Wing Eam-Elas.

The British said that hundreds of armed Bulgarians had infiltrated northern Greece, but declared it was not known whether they had entered the country at the invitation of the Elas or were simply reoccupying territories that they evacuated under the terms of the armistice — Thrace and eastern Macedonia.

Considered Inadequate

Scobie was said by British headquarters to have rejected the EAM peace offer because it did not provide for the immediate cessation of the 2-week-old civil war, for the surrender of ELAS arms, and for the evacuation of Athens and the Attica Peninsula by ELAS forces as a preliminary to final peace negotiations.

While Premier George Papandreou's press secretary announced that the ELAS had been completely cleared from Pireaus, port of Athens, the British were not entirely satisfied and were continuing operations there.

The Papandreou government also announced that messages had been received from the Aegean Islands of Syros, Naxos, Paros and Hydra reaffirming the islands' loyalty to the government and their readiness to help suppress the ELAS, military arm of EAM (National Liberation Front Party.)

One of the peace demands of the EAM was the formation of a new government to supplant the present one.

British headquarters said that Indian troops, which had been attacked by ELAS forces near the Gulf of Patrias had been avacuated and that "elsewhere in Greece the situation is unchanged."

Strike Called in Salonika

A general strike was called today in the port of Salonika where vessels crammed with relief supplies for the Greeks remained unloaded. The British communique said it had been "confirmed" that members of the Socialist Party and the Union of Popular Democracy Party in the Salonika area of northern Greece had broken away from the EAM and that the leaders of the two parties had been arrested by the ELAS.

Brig. Gen. Percy L. Sadler, deputy commander of United States forces in the Middle East and in charge of the distribution of American relief supplies in Greece, said the activity of Americans in the country was "strictly limited to relief and rehabilitation."

"American personnel," he said "will refrain from any action which could possibly be interpreted as intervention in Greek politics, although naturally complying with British security regulations."

General Sadler said relief supplies were being distributed "equitably" to both sides in the current dispute.

Germans Use Bombs To Neutralize Screens

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 17—(AP)—The Germans are using a new type of light-bomb to neutralize Allied smoke and fog screens on the western front, according to the Berlin correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Aftonbladet.

The light-bombs are dropped be-and the Allied screens so Allied soldiers are silhouetted against the light and enable the Nazis to direct their fire, the newspaper said.

German military commentators also claimed to have solved the problem of bringing up ammunition in the face of overwhelming Allied air superiority, Aftonbladet reported. The newspaper said four-barreled anti-aircraft guns had been set up along roads behind the Aachen and Saar fronts making it difficult for Allied fighters to sweep lower than 3,000 feet over German supply lines.

PRAVDA DEFENDS RED ARMY MOVES

Says Russians Are Fighting as Many Foes in Hungary as Allies Are in West

MOSCOW, Dec. 17 (AP)—Soviet resentment at asserted foreign depreciation of the scope of the Red Army's Hungarian offensive boiled over today in another attack by Pravda on the American Army and Navy Journal.

Pravda released figures purporting to show that as many German divisions were engaged on the southern sector of the Eastern Front as against all the Allied forces in the west.

The Moscow News, only English-language newspaper in the Soviet Union, announced yesterday that as of Dec. 1, 220 enemy divisions—200 of them German—were tied up in the east. Seventy were located at the southern extremity of the front, presumably from Yugoslavia across Hungary into eastern Slovakia.

[Various unofficial estimates have said that seventy German divisions were arrayed against the Allies on the Western Front.]

Today, Russian language newspapers repeated these figures, with Pravda directing its verbal fire against the Army and Navy Journal as "a source for pro-Hitlerite propaganda"—much the same language it used Dec. 3 in attacking that publication for allegedly casting doubt whether Russia had fulfilled the military decisions of Teheran.

(Last week the Army and Navy Journal said:

Since D-day

("Since D-day in France, greater preoccupaton has been shown by Russia in her Baltic and Balkan campaigns, intended to insure her security, and by Great Britain in

Italy, Greece and Albania, to protect her lifeline through the Mediterranean, than in achievement of the prime objective of our armies—the prompt defeat of Germany and concentration of all possible power to that end.

("The result has been that the expectation in Washington that the war in Europe would be over by the Pearl Harbor anniversary this week has not been realized.")

The Pravda editorial appeared to derive consolation, however, from articles in the Christian Science monthly and the New York Times emphasizing importance of gains by Russian troops in southeast Europe.

Foreign oversevers here have assumed that the biggest Winter blow by the Red army would be struck somewhere in Poland.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—John Callan O'Laughlin, president and publisher of the Army and Navy Journal, urged tonight that Russian blows be aimed through Poland to shorten the war.

"The shortest route to Berlin is and always has been through Poland," observed Mr. O'Laughlin, whose unofficial publication was assailed by Pravda. The journal previously had spoken critically of Russian and British "preoccupation" in eastern and southern Europe.

"We profoundly believe that Rus holds that her paramount interest as our own is to win the war at the earliest possible moment," he said in a prepared statement, "and so believing, we urge that the blows of the powerful Red Armies be delivered directly and simultaneously toward the German heart at which our American Armies now are striking."

PRAVDA HITS NEO-FASCISM

Assails Liberation That Merely Exchanges Tyrannies

LONDON, Dec. 17 (AP)—The Moscow press declared today that "one cannot liberate a people from fascism of one kind and deliver them into the hands of Fascists of another kind."

Without direct reference to any country, Ilya Ehrenburg in the Communist party organ Pravda declared: "There can be no half measures. If fascism is left to breed anywhere then in ten or twenty years' time rivers of blood will flow again."

The article, as reported by the Soviet monitor, added: "The Red Army has shown what it means to liberate. The Poles, the Norwegians, Serbs and Slovaks know it. We do not replace Fascists by semi-Fascists."

Given Awards

MOSCOW, Dec. 17 (AP)—The U. S. S. R. supreme Soviet today announced the award of decoration to more than 100 members of the Russian purchasing commission in the United States for "successful efforts in supplying the Red army and navy with needed war supplies and materials." Heading the list was Rear Admiral Mikhail Ivanovich Akulov who received the order of Lenin.

Moscow Accepts Offers to Set Up Consular Relations

MOSCOW, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Soviet Union has announced acceptance of Nicaragua's offer of establishment of diplomatic and consular relations with Russia. A communique published today in the Russian press said the acceptance followed an exchange of notes by the ambassadors of the two nations at Mexico City.

The offer from Nicaragua coincided with establishment Monday of diplomatic relations between Russia and Chile.

U.S. Jungle Fighters Engaged in N. Burma

"Mars Task Force" Closer to Mandalay Than Any Other Allied Troops—Contact Japs 65 Miles South of Bhamo.

By Frank L. Martin

BHAMO, Northern Burma, Dec. 17 (AP)—American infantry and artillery troops known as the "Mars Task Force" are now fighting in the North Burma area and advance elements of this unit are closer to Mandalay than any other Allied forces in Burma, it was disclosed.

U. S. Force

The U. S. force is under the command of Brig. Gen. John P. Willey of Hampton, Va., whose wife is from San Antonio, Tex. The first news that American ground troops were fighting alongside the British and Chinese was released after one American unit commanded by Col. Ernest Easterbrook of Carmel, Calif., made contact with the Japanese at Tonkwa, 65 road miles south of Bhamo and some 120 miles north of Mandalay. Col. Easterbrook is Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's son-in-law.

The action at Tonkwa occurred on the night of Dec. 9 when a small party of Japanese attacked U. S. and Chinese positions. The enemy suffered 30 killed before retreating southward.

The "Mars Task Force" is made up of veteran jungle fighters from the old "Marauders" who saw action in Burma last summer under Maj. Gen. Frank Merrill, plus infantry replacements from America and volunteers from U. S. forces stationed in the India-Burma theater.

Jungle-Green Uniforms

Troops of the new task force, wearing jungle-green uniforms being tried out for the first time, marched more than 200 miles through dense jungles and swamps before coming in contact with the enemy.

Maj. Gen. Daniel I. Sultan, successor to Stilwell in Burma, visited captured Bhamo yesterday and went on a five-hour inspection tour of the former Japanese "teakwood fortress" where a suicide enemy garrison held out for two weeks in this Irrawaddy river town.

Sultan walked eight miles through Bhamo and saw the still-burning fortress, watched wounded Japanese being carried to a hospital and tasted some of their rations.

Commenting on the enemy defense positions the American commander said, "The Chinese infantry and artillery deserves the highest praise for knocking out Bhamo which I believe was one of the strongest Japanese positions in North Burma."

Japs Dug Out

The last four remaining Japanese soldiers defending the town literally were dug out of their ruined bunkers in time to see a powerful American and Chinese tank force roar into the town yesterday too late to take part in the "killing."

The tank units reached Bhamo after a gruelling 100-mile run down the Ledo road through mountains and rivers from a point near Myitkyina. Several times they were forced to cross rivers where the water was five feet deep.

In view of the great stores of Japanese ammunition and food found in the town, Gen. Sultan expressed the belief that the 200 enemy soldiers who escaped from Bhamo had planned to remain, but that they were put under such pressure they decided to go down fighting in one final break out attempt.

The tanks have pushed on to the south to assist in the chase of the escaped Japanese force.

Push Forward

On the British 14th Army front advance elements of the 11th Indian division operating on the east bank of the Chindwin river, northwest of Mandalay, have pushed 2 1-2 miles east of the village of Shwegyin and a town south of the Shwegyin-Yeu road has been occupied, a southeast Asia command headquarters communique said today.

On the 15th Corps front in the Arakan sector destroyers of the Royal Navy have shelled Japanese positions northeast of Udaung which is 12 miles southeast of the coastal town of Maungdaw.

Indian troops have occupied a feature 17 miles south-southeast of Maungdaw.

Medium bombers of the Eastern Air Command made repeated attacks during the past few days along the Ragoon-Mandalay railroad and branch lines, the communique added. Heavy bombers raided the port of Akyab yesterday.

Children's Cans of Water Helped Save Burma Road

By The Associated Press.

MAUNGDAW, Burma, Dec. 17—Hundreds of Arakanese children, armed with tin cans, kept the supply routes from blowing away as the Allies prepared for the current Western Burma offensive against the Japanese.

The main supply road on the Mayu Peninsula is deep in dust at this time of the year, and with winds sweeping across the peninsula there was danger of the road being blown away. The children, however, sprinkled the route with water laboriously hauled from the paddy fields.

They made a game of it but the Army gives them credit for keeping the trucks rolling in the critical pre-offensive period when supplies had to be stored up forward.

British Landings On Burma Coast Possible

NEW DELHI, Dec. 17—(AP)—The possibility of major seaborne British landings on the West Burma coast was indicated today by an India command announcement that a series of raids had been made along the 300-mile coastline during the past few weeks.

The raids, by Southeast Asia command troops put ashore by Royal Indian Navy ships, were described officially as having given the jitters to Japanese who now are forced to watch their rear while withdrawing from North Burma.

DOG SAVES U. S. TROOPS

Scents Japanese Ambushes and Warns Patrols on Leyte

WITH THE SEVENTH INFANTRY DIVISION on Leyte, Dec. 9 (Delayed) (AP)—Laddie, a big German shepherd has a keen nose for Japanese—so keen in fact that he flushes them every time he goes out and twice he has saved American patrols from ambushes.

Laddie is one of a number of scout dogs trained at San Carlos, Calif.

Laddie's fame began to grow soon after he landed on Leyte with his handler S/Sgt Alfred Bresset, 34 years old, of Ogdensburg, N. Y., under fire on A-day. The Japanese had set up an ambush around San Pablo airfield.

"I noticed Laddie suddenly stiffen, Sergeant Bresset related, "and I knew there were Japs about. We pulled back and just then a machine gun opened up on us. Only Laddie stopped us from walking into the murderous fire."

The other day Laddie came through again. He picked up the Japanese' scent in a dry stream bed near Ormoc. Sergeant Bresset began combing the area and saw a Japanese standing by a banana tree watching the American patrol. The Japanese opened up but Laddie's warning gave the patrol time to take cover and await reinforcements before returning to find seventy-five freshly dug Japanese foxholes.

Soft Drinks, Coffee Served On Leyte Front

By Al Dopking

With the 77th Division, Leyte, Dec. 17 (AP).—To get a soft drink in western Leyte you have to go—of all places—up to the front line.

There Red Cross Field Director Otis B. Sykes, 31, of Austin, Tex., and his three assistants, Richard L. Clark, 35, of Sandusky, Ohio; Wilbur D. Albright, of Tacon, Miss., and Herbert Johnson, of Brooklyn, N. Y., are doling them out to the fighting men under enemy mortar and artillery fire. It was the first time in seven beachheads I've landed on in the Pacific war where soft drinks and hot coffee were served virtually in newly dug foxholes.

The Japanese were only a stone's throw outside of fallen Ormoc when Sykes moved into a shattered building on the outskirts. Volunteers from the artillery, signal corps and chemical battalions helped him clear the debris and by nightfall his canteen was doling out coffee, cigarettes, chewing tobacco, soft drinks and candy.

The Red Cross workers served 200 gallons of coffee to doughboys, ambulance drivers and medical officers that night. They gulped it down between mortar blasts.

By next day word went up and down the front: "They're serving hot coffee in the field."

The consumption leaped to 700 gallons that day and Sykes was all grins.

When the troops moved north Sykes wanted to go along, but he had no transportation. He solved the problem by trading a quart of gin for a jeep (that's about the right price for liquor here). Now Sykes keeps up with the front in a jeep which he calls his "flying canteen."

Some rear echelon officers, hearing about the canteen, sent word they would like some hot coffee. Sykes sent back a crisp reply: "It's for the front line, but come on up and if there's any left it's yours."

Japs To Last Through 1946, Harmon Says

Believes B-29 Raids Cannot Knock Nippon Out Quickly.

PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, U. S. ARMY AIR FORCES, Dec. 17 (AP)—"We expect that Japan will be on her feet and fighting in 1946," Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, commander of the strategic air force, Pacific Ocean areas, said today.

Harmon, who directs the Marianas-based Superfortress operations against Japan, made it plain that he holds no hope that B29 raids on Tokyo industrial centers can quickly knock Nippon out of the war.

"This is no Gilbert and Sullivan war out here," he said. "It's real and it's tough."

No Quake Damage

In a radio interview Harmon said that reconnaissance Superforts have not observed any serious damage as the result of the Dec. 7 earthquake in Japan.

"Our planes have been over much of the area where the quake was supposed to have centered. I'm afraid that the Jap counterpart of the Hawaiian volcano Goddess Madame Pele was not on our side."

Tokyo cannot be destroyed by incendiary bombing, he said.

"No one gives the Jap credit for being a resourceful enemy except those who have to fight him," the general added. "Our photographs of Tokyo reveal that a large system of firebreaks has been built. These firebreaks are lanes fully a block wide, where houses have been razed. They run for miles throughout Tokyo.

Flimsy Houses

"Burning flimsy houses will not best the Japs. Our targets are war industries. We want to stop them from making airplanes. We will try to paralyze their power system and knock out their steel mills."

Harmon said that the Superfortresses fly through "weather hell," a belt extending 1,000 miles south of Tokyo.

Winds and clouds over Japan have been far more effective protection to the enemy than either his fighter planes or antiaircraft fire, the general said.

B-29 in Trouble Jettisons Bombs

Saipan, Dec. 17 (AP).— Lieut. Robert J. Anderson, 28, Euclid, Ohio, yesterday bombed Hamamatsu, former Japanese musical instrument center now reported to be producing airplane parts.

While en route to Nagoya, his B-29 developed engine trouble, and rather than waste bombs he dropped his load in the center of the littel seacoast town on Honshu's east coast.

Other B-29s crossing the town later reported intense fires there, and the crew of one plane said there were two explosions.

Superfortresses on weather reconnaissance missions continued to keep Tokyo awake nights. On the night of December 13 three planes commanded by Capt. Dale Peterson, Portland, Oreg., Lieut. Carroll G. Hornor, Glenridge, N. J., and Capt. Ted Morgan, Forth Worth, Tex., bombed the city intermittently from dusk to dawn.

Major Fred L. Trickey, Berlin, Wis., bombed the Japanese capital on the night of December 14, and the next night Lieut. John G. Growser, Salisbury, N. C., took over.

Major Bong Raises Plane Score to 39

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS Philippines, Dec. 17, (AP)—Major Richard I. Bong, of Poplar, Wis., who recently was presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor, was credited today with having shot down 39 enemy planes.

His latest was downed Dec. 1[illegible] in a fighter sweep over Negros island in support of amphibious landings at Mindoro.

BOMBING IN EL SALVADOR

Honduran Planes Said to Have Attacked Revolutionists

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Dec. 17 (AP)—Jorge Paredes, former Salvadorean Minister to Peru, said today the Honduran Air Force on Saturday had bombed the Salvadorean town of San Antonio because the population had joined in rebellion against the Salvadorean regime of Gen. Osmin Aguirre y Salinas.

José Maria Zepeda, Honduran Minister here, promptly declared that Honduras would not even trouble to deny this report, because it came from the exiled Salvadorean Government of Dr. Miguel Thomás Molina, with which Honduras had no relations.

Señor Paredes reported that the Salvadorean revolutionaries withdrew from the provincial capital of Ahuachapán after combating superior Aguirre forces, but sporadic encounters still were occurring throughout El Salvador.

Cuban Officer's Home Bombed

HAVANA, Dec. 17 (AP).—A bomb exploded early today in a garden adjoining the home here of Pedro Diaz, former lieutenant colonel of police forces, who is now in Mexico City. The explosion caused minor damage to the building.

Army Ship Aground in Alaska

HEADQUARTERS, ALASKA DEPARTMENT, Anchorage, Dec. 17 (AP).—A 3,000-ton Army supply ship out of Seattle was driven aground at Cold Bay, Alaska, yesterday as terrific storms and heavy seas buffeted the Aleutian chain. There was no report here of any loss of life aboard the vessel, which was abandoned. Heavy seas and winds tied up shipping and grounded air traffic.

Chinese Communist Seeks Govt. Change

(By the Associated Press)

Mao Tse-Tung, chairman of the central committee of the Chinese Communist Party, has appealed to the people of China to demand a "national convention," the Communist radio at Yenan said Sunday in an English language broadcast reported by the FCC.

The Yenan radio quoted him as saying that negotiations between the Communists and the Kuomintang government at Chungking had not "attained the least result" and that there was little chance of accomplishing the unification of China by negotiation.

The radio said Mao's appeal was made Friday at the Second People's Congress in the capital of the Communist - controlled northern border region of China.

It reported he had stated that "the task of the Chinese people in 1945 is to rise as one man to demand that the Kuomintang authorities should change their present policy so that a democratic coalition government can be set up."

Mussolini Reviews Troops in Milan

By the Associated Press

Benito Mussolini, making his second public appearance in two days in Milan, seat of his puppet Fascist regime, today attended a review of troops in the city's Via Dante, the Nazi-controlled Fascist radio reported.

The former dictator ascended the balcony of the local military barracks and declared four Italian divisions "trained in Germany" were "about to set free the soil of the motherland," said the broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission.

It added that he later mounted a tank to view the troops as they marched past.

Japanese Claim 4 Submarines

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17 (AP)—The Tokyo radio claimed today that Japanese surface vessels had sunk four American submarines in the Central Pacific the past week. The report, which was without Allied confirmation, was intercepted by the Blue Network.

Baron Ikki Dies

NEW YORK, Dec. 17 (AP)—Baron Kitokuro Ikki, former president of the Japanese privy council and one of Emperor Hirohito's personal financial advisors, died today of pneumonia at his home in Tokyo at the age of 71, Domei agency said in a broadcast recorded by the Federal Communications Commission. Baron Ikki was appointed to the privy council in August, 1917.

B-29s Reported Over Korea, Manchuria

By the Associated Press

American Superfortress bombers made reconnaissance flights over Manchuria and Korea yesterday, (Monday, Japanese time) Domei, the Japanese news agency, said in a broadcast heard by the Federal Communications Commission.

A single B-29 appeared over the Hsinking sector, central Manchuria, about noon and two or three planes were seen over western Korea about the same time, the report said. They dropped no bombs. There was no Allied confirmation.

Nagoya and Hankow Are Raided by B-29s

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP).—B-29s of the twin bomber commands of the 20th Air Force today attacked targets in the Hankow, China, area, and the Nagoya area in Japanese homeland.

General H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the 20th Air Force, announced the raids at the War Department here. The attack on Hankow was the first made on that target, the War Department said. A previous attack was made on Nagoya on Dec. 13.

Army Rescinds Act Excluding Japs In West

"Progress of War in Pacific, Other Developments" Given As Reason.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—The War Department today revoked its order excluding all persons of Japanese ancestry from the west coast.

An announcement by the Army said that the revocation order was issued by Maj. Gen. Henry C. Pratt, chief of the Western Defense Command with the approval of the War Department. At San Francisco, General Pratt said the revocation would become effective midnight Jan. 2.

"Favorable progress of the war in the Pacific, as well as other developments," was given as the reason for the revocation.

Revocation Order

The revocation order provides that any person of Japanese ancestry about "whom information is available indicating a pro-Japanese attitude" will continue to be barred from the coast states.

More than 115,000 persons of Japanese ancestry were evacuated from strategic areas on the west coast, the states of California, Washington and Oregon. The majority of them eventually were transferred to relocation centers located chiefly in the mountain states including Arizona, Utah, Wyoming and Colorado.

The evacuation was carried out early in 1942 under the terms of a presidential executive order, by Lt. Gen. J. L. Dewitt, then chief of the Western Defense Command.

In its announcement the Army said:

Army Scrutiny

"Those persons of Japanese ancestry whose records have stood the test of Army scrutiny during the past two years will be permitted the same freedom of movement throughout the United States as other loyal citizens and law-abiding aliens.

"The decision to revoke the exclusion orders, first applied on March 24, 1942, was prompted by military considerations. Since the evacuation, our armed forces steadily have pushed the enemy in the Pacific farther from our shores and closer to the Japanese home islands. Although hard fighting is ahead in the Pacific, it no longer can be said as it could be said in 1942, that an enemy invasion on the West Coast on a large scale is a substantial possibility."

The department said that it was "aware that the rescission of mass exclusion will create certain adjustment problems beyond military considerations."

Adequate Solution

It added, the belief, however, that adequate solutions for these problems exist.

"The Department of the Interior has informed the War Department," the Army said, "that it intends to put into effect a program based on a gradual and orderly return to the West Coast and a vigorous continuation of its efforts to relocate persons of Japanese descent throughout the United States.

"The War Department believes that the people of the Pacific coast area will accord returning persons of Japanese ancestry all the consideration to which they are entitled as loyal citizens and law-abiding residents."

President Roosevelt, at a news conference last month, estimated that 20 or 25 per cent of the persons transferred from the west coast have left relocation centers and taken up life elsewhere in the country.

The President at that time said many lawyers believed citizens of Japanese extraction could not be kept locked in concentration camps.

While there was no further elaboration by the President on this point, it was known that the War Department for some months had felt that the legality of the exclusion order, predicated on a military situation no longer existing, was insecure.

When cases challenging the exclusion order began to reach the courts, the army expressed its views to the Justice Department.

Gov. Earl Warren of California said about the time of the President's news conference comments that if the federal government decided military necessity no longer required the exclusion of Japanese from the west coast his state would give "full recognition of their constitutional and statutory rights."

U. S.-Japanese Seen Vindicated By Army Order

Leader of Citizens League Says Combat Record of Troops Spurred Decision

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 17 (AP).—Saburo Kido, president of the Japanese American Citizens League, said tonight that lifting of the Pacific Coast exclusion orders was "a vindication of the loyalty of the Japanese-American population to the United States."

Mr. Kido, former San Francisco attorney, who continued the office he held when the evacuation orders were issued, declared that the government "has taken a step which will strengthen its moral leadership in a world at war." . . .

"We are not unmindful of the fact that what President Roosevelt called 'the wonderful combat record' of American soldiers of Japanese ancestry in Italy and France, as well as in the war in the Pacific against Japan, has contributed greatly toward the decision to restore those rights of freedom of travel and of residence which have been denied the evacuees," Mr. Kido said, adding:

"We would like to remember today that many of those Japanese-American soldiers who distinguished themselves in combat in recent months, and many who sleep today in Army cemeteries in France and Italy, volunteered for that combat duty from behind the barbed wires of the government relocation camps.

"These Japanese-Americans kept their faith with democracy throughout the trying evacuation experience. The lifting of the evacuation orders is vindication of their faith." . . .

Gradual Return Planned

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17 (AP).—The Western Defense Command said today it expected the war relocation authority to see that the return of the Japanese to the Pacific Coast was gradual and that those who returned would be carefully screened.

Major General Conger Pratt, of the Western Defense Command, told a press conference that an individual exclusion order is being substituted for the mass eviction order.

Gen. Pratt said the order was to be effective Jan. 2. He said those affected by the new individual exclusion order will not be on a permanently excluded list and that their names would not be made public.

Persons excluded, he said, will have the right to appeal to a three-officer board, which will fully examine the case and report recommendations to the commanding general of the Western defense area, who will make the final decision. He said he did not believe there would be any trouble requiring Army intervention.

In Sacramento, Governor Earl Warren, calling on Californians to respect the constitutional rights of the persons involved, said the new order was designed to aid the war effort and that any provocative acts could only retard the flow of materials "to our boys."

In Boise, Governor C. A. Bottolfsen of Idaho said he is "heartily in accord" with the War Department'sorder.

Allies Consider Improvement Of Relief Situation

Europe's Civilians Face Worst Winter Since War Began.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Hopeful that less physical hunger might mean more political stability in liberated European countries, the United States and Great Britain today began mapping ways to improve the relief situation.

Grim official predictions that Europe's civilians are facing their worst winter of the war formed the background as British Minister of State Richard Law and Secretary of State Stettinius arranged to begin discussing the problem Monday.

Distribution of relief to cold and hungry civilians in Italy, Greece, Belgium and France—restless and disappointed at prospects that they will be colder and hungrier this winter than they were before their liberation—is hampered, American officials said, by three main difficulties.

1—Shortage of shipping.

2—Overcrowded port facilities, due mainly to the thorough Nazi job of destruction before German troops were pushed out.

3—Shortage of some supplies, such as fats and oils; along with inadequate supplies of machinery and overland transportation equipment.

Greece is considered by officials here as a prime example of the circumstances which can arise from political instability and lack of supplies.

It is felt that although feeding the Greeks could not solve their political problem, it would help provide an atmosphere more conducive to a solution.

On the other hand, fighting in Greece due to political clashes and a general strike called in protest against British political policy has hampered progress in handing out badly-needed relief.

While Law's visit has important political implications he is expected to dwell primarily on the technical aspects of getting food and materials into the liberated countries.

He was accompanied here by three British supply experts.

A prime factor underlying estimates that this winter will be even bleaker than last in Europe is the fury of fighting along the western front.

Lasting longer and consuming more supplies than was expected, the battle for Germany necessitates military use of transportation and shipping lanes.

ington yesterday revoked its order which had excluded persons of Japanese ancestry from United States west coast states since shortly after the Pearl Harbor attack. "Favorable progress of the war in the Pacific, as well as other developments" was the reason given for the revocation. More than 115,000 persons were evacuated from strategic coastal areas under the order.

Reports of action in north Burma disclosed yesterday that American infantry and artillery troops are fighting alongside British and Chinese forces in that area.

The American unit, known as the "Mars Task Force," composed of veterans of Merrill's Marauders who fought in Burma last Summer and troops from America and the India-Burma theatre, contacted the Japanese at Tonkwa Dec. 9, when the enemy attacked U. S. and Chinese positions. The Nipponese retreated southward.

Tonkwa is 65 road miles south of Bhamo, recently captured by the Chinese, and 120 miles north of Mandalay.

Raids by southeast Asia command troops along the west Burma coast indicated possibility of major British seaborne landings there, threatening the rear of Japanese withdrawing from north Burma.

Allied headquarters said Indian units of the 14th British army have progressed down the east bank of the Chindwin river, northwest of Mandalay. In the Arakan sector, west Burma, British destroyers shelled Japanese positions near Udaung, 12 miles southeast of the coastal town of Maungdaw. Allied heavy bombers raided the port of Akyab, farther south.

Chungking radio reported that the Chinese offensive in Kwangsi Province, southeast China, has reached within a mile of the City of Hochih after the capture of Wuyu, a village about 10 miles to the southeast.

He went immediately to the home of his parents, to whom he had written that he did not want to come home yet because "I have a score to settle with the Jerries" in Berlin.

His brother, Sgt. Roland A. Ehlers, 26, was fatally wounded storming the beaches of Normandy June 6.

Mayor R. E. Busenbark said there would be a public welcoming ceremony tomorrow when "the lieutenant has had time to rest up a bit." Other officials promised a parade in his honor and a celebration with "speeches and everything."

Lieutenant Ehlers was decorated with the country's highest military award in Paris Dec. 11 by another Kansan, Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, for his feats near Caumont, France, June 9-10, when he cleaned out two machine-gun nests, silenced two mortar positions, killed four Germans with his bayonet and accounted for "at least eighteen altogether." Then a sergeant, he was wounded by a sniper, killed the German as he fell, rescued a companion and covered a withdrawal of his unit.

Lieutenant Ehlers was cited Dec. 6 by another Kansan, Gen. Clarence Huebner, commander of the First Infantry Division, who dedicated the six months' anniversary observance of D-day to Lieutenant Ehlers and the men living and dead who had tried to follow his example.

Quito Report Says Plaza Will Not Return to Post in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP) — Officials of the Ecuadorean Embassy staff tonight expressed surprise at a report from Quito that Ambassador Galo Plaza Lasso would not return to his post in Washington.

"It is a complete surprise to me," declared Dr. José A. Correa, first secretary of the Embassy. "In fact, I had a dispatch from Ecuador yesterday which indicated that the Ambassador would return."

Dr. Correa said he knew of no reason for the Ambassador's reported decision to remain in Ecuador.

War Prisoners End Strike

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill:. Dec. 17 (AP).—German prisoners of war here, who have been on a bread and water diet since their refusal to work last Tuesday, will resume their duties tomorrow morning. Colonel George H. Cushman, post commander, reported. Colonel Cushman said the ringleaders in the strike have been transferred to another post, where they will serve out the full fourteen-day bread and water sentence.

The argument that a cartel agreement "helps foreign trade is like the argument that a railroad wreck promotes transportation," he added.

formal endorsement. Its purpose primarily to promote discussion in the new Congress convening in January, the committee explained, adding that the present Congress "never came to grips" with the problem of maintaining in peace the "full employment" brought about by the war.

However, Chairman Murray (D-Mont(said "it is anticipated that the bill in perfected form, will be formally introduced by a group of senators early in the coming session."

The committee draft would require the President to submit to Congress on the first day of every session a national production and employment budget. This would estimate the total number of jobs needed for "full employment," the amount of investment and expenditures needed to provide that number of jobs, and the prospective total of investments and expenditures by business and other non-federal sources.

To Be Made Up

"Any prospective deficiency in the budget is to be made up," the committee explained, "first by providing full opportunity and encouragement for increased non-federal expenditure and, second, through increased federal investment or expenditure."

The group suggested that the Senate and House establish a joint committee which would study the President's budget and recommend legislation.

The subcommittee was commissioned a year ago to make an investigation of the termination of war contracts and "related problems."

In a year-end report on its studies, it estimated that production of goods and services currently is at a rate of $196,000,000,000 a year is that the entire edifice will topple over."

Economic Substitute

"Unless an economic substitute is found for war contracts," the report continued, "mass unemployment will become a serious threat and the number of unemployed men and women in this country could easily surpass anything that was dreamed of during the last depression."

The report noted that President Roosevelt said in a campaign speech that an adequate postwar program must provide "close to 60,000,000 productive jobs." It commented:

"Statistians may debate among themselves as to wether the precise goal should be a little more or a little less than the President's 60,000,000 figure But no thoughtful American—no matter what his creed or station in life—would deny that every man or woman in the country who is willing to work and capable of working has the right to a job."

Leish linked him with opponents of Grew and Clayton.

New Deal Trio

The New Deal trio — Senators Pepper (D.-Fla.), Murray (D.-Mont.) and Guffey (D.-Pa.) — are associated with Senator LaFollette (Prog.-Wis.) in a resolution to postpone consideration of all six names until the new Congress meets in January.

Pepper told reporters he would seek to call the resolution up for consideration Monday.

"That would give the President a chance to reconsider this team and make the changes in it which a reconsideration would surely bring," Pepper asserted.

Pepper and his associates say they question the "big business" background of home of the nominees.

The rush of senators to leave as soon as the confirmaton votes are completed blackened the chance for agreement on the rivers and harbors bill.

The House wants to make an exception to a reclamaton law restriction in the case of the Central Valley Authority in California. The restriction bars any individual from irrigating more than 160 acres with water from any government financed project.

Congress Uncertain About Adjournment

Senate Held Up By Controversy Over State Dept. Nominees—Leaders to Go Home Wednesday—House Members Are Dispersing.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—The bitter Senate controversy over six State Department nominations threw a shadow of uncertainty today over pre-Christmas adjournment plans of Congress.

By Wednesday

The leadership wants to go home by Wednesday.

The nominations, including that of Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, as undersecretary, were the principal obstacle to adjournment, save for a $564,000,000 deficiency appropriations bill that must be passed, and a $500,000,000 river and harbor bill snagged on a House amendment.

In the opposition to the appointment of Grew and five assistant secretaries — Nelson Rockefeller, Brig. Gen. Julius Holmes, James C. Dunn, W. L. Clayton and Archibald MacLeish—President Roosevelt is confronted by an unusual alignment of forces spark-plugged by three senators who usually vote the administration way.

So unusual is the tie-up that Senator Clark (D.-Mo.) threatened at Saturday's closing hour to desert it rather than have it appear that his own opposition to Mac-

Different Picture

In the case of the State Department nominations, a different picture is presented. Few voices have been raised in opposition to any of the nominees except Clayton, Texas cotton man, and MacLeish, librarian of Congress.

With Christmas just a week away, the lawmakers are looking up train schedules home. Only the intense interest in the State Department nominations is keeping a quorum on hand in the Senate. House members began streaming away from the Capitol over the weekend, taking Mr. Roosevelt's acceptance of the social security tax rate freeze as the end of any

Wallace Urges Use Of Plane For Peace

Vice-President Presents Collier Trophy For 1943 to Capt. De Florez—Airplane Linked With International Goodwill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—Vice President Wallace said today this nation has a responsibility to make the airplane as "powerful a force in peace as it has been in war."

Wallace described the airplane as having a great potential in international goodwill during a talk in which he presented the Robert J. Collier trophy for 1943 to Captain Leuis de Florez of Pomfret, Conn., director of special devices in the Navy Aeronautics Bureau. The award is for "greatest achievement in aviation in America, the value of which has been demonstrated by actual use during the preceding year."

Capt. de Florez has charge of the special training equipment through which Navy fliers have been developed rapidly and safely.

Speaking on the 41st anniversary of the first flight of the Wright brothers at Kittyhawk, N. C., to an audience which included Orville Wright, Wallace said that the airplane was not a panacea for the world's ills, but that "it has possibilities far beyond the usual imagination."

"These possibilities, in fact, are

Grover Loening, aircraft adviser to the War Production Board and chairman of the Collier Trophy committee of the National Aeronautics Association, said that special training devices had saved many lives and a great deal of time and money for the armed services, and that "later, all of this will go right into civil aviation life as of great value."

The National Aeronautic Association meanwhile announced that Dr. Edgar Fuller of Washington, assistant director of the Civil Aeronautics Administration aviation education program, will be presented the Frank G. Brewer trophy Tuesday.

The trophy will go to him as the individual making the greatest contribution to the education of American youth in aviation during 1944.

Dewey Tops FDR Rivals

By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, in losing the presidential election, won the consolation prize of being high man on a popular vote percentage basis among President Roosevelt's four opponents.

The New York governor's share of the November 7 vote, compiled by The Associated Press was 45.9 per cent. The late Wendell Willkie, President Roosevelt's 1940 challenger, received a larger popular vote than Dewey, but his percentage was lower—44.8.

Mr. Roosevelt's plurality was 3,592,769, the smallest by which he has won his four elections. It was 4,938,711 in 1940, when 49,815,312 votes were cast; 11,072,014 in 1936, out of a total of 45,647,117 votes, and 7,060,016 in 1932 when the popular vote was 39,816,522.

The total vote this year was 47,969,828. Of this, 25,610,946 went to Roosevelt, 22,018,177 to Dewey and 340,705 to minor party candidates.

WLB Member Hits Montgomery Ward

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17 (AP)—Frank P. Graham, War Labor Board member, said today that Montgomery Ward, Big mail order house, "is blasting at the foundations of maximum production."

In a formal statement on Montgomery Ward strikes in the Detroit area and a WLB ultimatum for compliance with its directives there and at other Ward establishments by tomorrow night, Graham said:

"Montgomery Ward in this most critical hour is defying the government of the United States. While General Eisenhower is calling for more production, Montgomery Ward is blasting at the foundations of maximum production. The maintenance of (union) membership provision, in addition to the sub-standard wages, in issue in these cases, is vital to the production front and the battle front. x x x

"Montgomery Ward would have us return to a policy which would make paramount a disruptive conflict between capital and labor above the global conflict between the United Nations and the Axis powers." x

The mail order house has taken the position that WLB orders are not enforceable and sought a settlement in court.

THESE RULES SHOULD BE APPLIED TO THE "PRESENT SITUATION IN EUROPE, WHETHER IN GREECE, BELGIUM, FRANCE OR HOLLAND--OR DENMARK AND NORWAY IN THE FUTURE," ADDING, "OUR FORCES WERE CONSCRIPTED TO DESTROY FASCISM IN ALL ITS WORKS AND NOT TO PUT HUMPTY DUMPTIES BACK ON THEIR THRONES AGAIN."

WITH THE U.S.NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY DEC 17-(AP)-FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE DAYS OF THE NORMANDY BEACHHEAD LAST JUNE THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND WON THE INITIATIVE IN WESTERN EUROPE TODAY WITH A POWERFUL COUNTERATTACK IN NORTHERN LUXEMBOURG AND BELGIUM.

INTO IT THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND HAD PITCHED ITS RESERVES. WHETHER IT IS THE ONLY BLOW THE GERMAN ARMY HAS UP ITS SLEEVE ON THE WESTERN FRONT, THE NEXT FEW DAYS SHOULD TELL. IT PROBABLY IS NOT.

FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE LANDINGS ON THE NORMANDY BEACHES SIX MONTHS AGO, THE GERMAN AIR FORCE CAME OUT IN STRENGTH, THROWING AN ESTIMATED 350 FIGHTERS AND BOMBERS OVER THE U.S.FIRST AND THE SOUTHERN EDGE OF THE U.S.NINTH ARMY FRONTS.

IT IS DOUBTFUL IF THE GERMAN HIGH COMMAND HOPES TO DRIVE ANY DEEP SALIENT INTO THE ALLIED LINE, OR TO CAPTURE AND HOLD ANY LARGE AMOUNT OF TERRITORY.

THE GERMAN ARMY HAS GIVEN NO INDICATION OF HAVING SUCH RESOURCES.

IT IS MORE LIKELY THAT THE CHIEF GERMAN HOPE IS TO DISRUPT GEN.EISENHOWER'S WINTER OFFENSIVE PLANS BY CHEWING UP SIZEABLE AMERICAN FORCES AND DISRUPTING OTHERS WHICH WILL BE FORCED INTO ACTION TO COUNTER THE BLOW.

IT IS CERTAIN THAT AMERICAN AIR SUPERIORITY IS GOING TO INFLICT A CRUSHING BLOW ON THE GERMAN AIR FORCE IF GERMAN PLANES STAY IN THE FIGHT AS THEY DID TODAY. GERMAN PLANES WERE FALLING AT AN EXPENSIVE RATE.

PLANES WERE SHOT DOWN TODAY AS THE ENEMY AIR FORCE TANGLED WITH THE U.S. 29TH TACTICAL AIR FORCE IN THE GREATEST AERIAL BATTLES SINCE THE U.S. NINTH ARMY REACHED THIS FRONT.

IN ADDITION TO THE 20 PLANES SHOT DOWN BY DAYLIGHT, NIGHT FIGHTERS DESTROYED SIX OF MORE THAN 300 OVER THE COLOGNE AND AACHEN AREA LAST NIGHT.

THIS MORNING THE GERMANS THREW UP A FIGHTER SCREEN BETWEEN THE FIRST AND NINTH ARMIES OF AN ESTIMATED 250 PLANES.

GERMAN PLANES, WHICH HAD BEEN AVOIDING COMBAT FOR MONTHS APPARENTLY CONSERVING STRENGTH FOR TODAY'S PUSH, EAGERLY JUMPED INTO THE BATTLE TODAY.

TWELVE TO 15 U.S. THUNDERBOLTS WERE JUMPED IN THE BONN AREA.

IN OTHER CASES AMERICAN SQUADRONS ENCOUNTERED FROM 40 TO 50 PLANES FLYING IN ONE FORMATION.

WITH FLYING WEATHER PERFECT FOR A CHANGE, RESULTS OF THE B-26 BOMBINGS OF THE WESTWALL SOUTH OF BERGZABERN WERE DESCRIBED AS EXCELLENT. THE U.S. BOMBERS MET NO RESISTANCE AND THE FEW GERMAN PLANES IN THE AREA APPARENTLY WERE THERE ONLY FOR RECONNAISSANCE PURPOSES.

THE U.S. 14TH ARMORED DIVISION, IT WAS REVEALED FOR THE FIRST TIME, IS PARTICIPATING IN THE DRIVE INSIDE THE REICH. THE 14TH SEIZED THE VILLAGES OF SCHWEIGEN AND RECHTENBACH, BOTH ABOUT A MILE AND A HALF NORTH OF CAPTURED WISSEMBOURG, FRENCH BORDER CITY.

NORTHEAST OF LAUTERBOURG, ANOTHER CAPTURED FRENCH BORDER TOWN, THE U.S. 79TH DIVISION OCCUPIED BERG NEAR THE RHINE WHERE THE GERMANS OFFERED ONLY MODERATE RESISTANCE. NORTHWEST OF WISSEMBOURG, WHERE FELLED TREES AND ROAD BLOCKS WERE SLOWING THEIR ADVANCE, THE YANKS CLEARED BOBENTHAL.

AN AMERICAN B-25 BASE, EAST BENGAL, INDIA, DEC.16-(AP)--(DELAYED)-ARAKAN SKIES ARE FULL OF U.S. MEDIUM BOMBERS TODAY, STRIKING AT JAPANESE SUPPLY LINES AND AMMUNITION DUMPS IN SUPPORT OF THE BRITISH LAND OFFENSIVE TO REGAIN THE STRATEGIC AKYAB CORNER OF SOUTHWEST BURMA.

THE 12TH BOMBARDMENT GROUP, GRIMLY NAMED "EARTHQUAKERS" WHEN THE UNIT SUPPORTED THE DRIVE THROUGH NORTH AFRICA, HAS BEEN HAVING A FIELD DAY SINCE THE ARAKAN PUSH OPENED.

RANGING FROM KALAPANZIN TO KALADAN RIVERS, THE "EARTHQUAKERS" HAVE DESTROYED THREE KEY BRIDGES, A JAPANESE HEADQUARTERS AND A DOZEN OTHER PRIME TARGETS.

A SQUADRON LED BY CAPT.JOHN N.DORY, KENMORE, (STATE UNCERTAIN), WIPED OUT A 680-FOOT RAILWAY BRIDGE SOUTH OF TOUNGOO. BOMBARDIER LAWRENCE A.CULLEN, OF WHITTAKER,PA., GAVE THE SIGNAL WHICH LOOSED THE BOMBLOADS ON THE SPAN, ONE OF THE SIX LONGEST IN BURMA.

THE BOMBS LANDED SQUARELY ON THE SPAN. THE OPERATION TOOK OUT ANOTHER BITE FROM THE USABLE JAPANESE RAILWAY BETWEEN RANGOON AND MANDALAY.

ABOARD SEVENTH U.S. FLEET HEAVY COVERING FORCE FLAGSHIP, SULU SEA, DEC 17-(AP)-GIANTS OF THE "SCRAPIRON" NAVY AND JEEPS OF THE "SUICIDE" FLEET, RANGING FARTHER WEST THAN ANY PREVIOUS AMERICAN TASK FORCE, PROVIDED SAFE CONDUCT AND OPENED UP THE SULU SEA FOR THE MINDORO, PHILIPPINES, INVASION CONVOY.

IT WAS NO MEAN FEAT FOR THIS LATEST STRANGEST TEAM OF REFURBISHED PEARL HARBOR BATTLEWAGONS AND PNY CARRIER ESCORTS UNDER COMMAND OF REAR ADM.T.D.RUDDOCK. YET IT WAS ACCOMPLISHED WITH AN ASTONISHING LACK OF ENEMY OPPOSITION.

AT NO TIME DID JAPANESE SURFACE FORCES REMOTELY THREATEN THE FLEET.

JAPANESE AIRCRAFT, TEMPTED BY THE SLOW-PACED CONVOY CREEPING ALONG A 960-MILE COURSE TO ITS OBJECTIVE AND RETURN, MADE ONLY THREE MAJOR ATTACKS IN FIVE DAYS AND LOST 79 PLANES, INCLUDING 18 ON THE GROUND.

LESS THAN SEVEN WEEKS AGO THIS SAME COMBINATION OF FEATHERWEIGHT CARRIERS AND OLD BATTLESHIPS, SUPPORTED BY CRUISERS AND DESTROYERS, WON DECISIVE VICTORIES WHEN POWERFUL JAPANESE BATTLE FORCES STRUCK THROUGH SURIGAO STRAITS AND OFF EASTERN SAMAR ISLAND, IN THE PHILIPPINES.

NOW IT IS THE AMERICANS WHO CHALLENGE.

WHILE AMPHIBIOUS FORCES UNDER REAR ADM.ARTHUR D.STRUBLE WERE BEACHED AT MINDORO, DISCHARGING GEN.DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S INVASION FORCE, RUDDOCK'S BATTLESHIPS, CRUISERS, CARRIERS AND DESTROYERS PATROLLED ONLY 120 AIRLINE MILES FROM THE SOUTH CHINA SEA--A POSITION CONSIDERABLY WESTWARD OF THE POINT REACHED BY ADM.WILLIAM F.HALSEY'S FORCES IN HIS RECENT STRIKE AT FORMOSA.

CONSTANT AIR COVER FROM THE JEEP CARRIERS UNDER THE TACTICAL COMMAND OF REAR ADM.FELIX B.STUMP MADE THE BOND MANEUVERING OF THIS FORCE POSSIBLE. THERE WERE NO LESS THAN 75 ENEMY AIRFIELDS WITHIN RANGE OF THE SPRAWLING TASK FORCE FROM THE TIME IT SET OUT UNTIL ITS RETURN.

BUT THE COORDINATED SWEEPS OF VICE ADM.JOHN S.MCCAIN'S CARRIER TASK FORCE AIRMEN OVER LUZON ISLAND, TO THE NORTH AND ARMY BOMBERS OVER MINDANAO ISLAND AND THE VISAYAN GROUP TO THE SOUTH TEMPORARILY NEUTRALIZED MOST OF THE JAPANESE AIRDROMES.

WHEN THE ENEMY WAS UNABLE TO PRESS HIS AIR ATTACKS AGAINST THE AMERICAN SHIPS. STUMP SENT WILDCATS, HELLCATS AND AVENGERS STREAKING AGAINST NIPPONESE FIELDS ON NEGROS AND PALAWAN ISLANDS.

THIRTEEN ENEMY PLANES, INCLUDING EIGHT BOMBERS, WERE BURNED AT BACOLOD AIRDROME ON NEGROS ISLAND IN SUCCESSIVE STRIKES DEC 14 AND 15, WHILE FIVE MORE WERE DESTROYED AT PUERTO PRINCESSA ON PALAWAN DEC. 16.

THE ENEMY'S MOST DAMAGING RAIDS CAME DEC. 13 WHEN THE AMERICAN FORMATION WAS STEAMING INTO THE SULU SEA AT SUNSET.

THE AMERICAN FORMATION TURNED INTO THE WIND WHILE CARRIER ESCORTS LAUNCHED MORE FIGHTERS, AND BEFORE DARKNESS CAME A TOTAL OF 17 ENEMY PLANES WERE DOWNED.

AN AFTERNOON ASSAULT DEC. 14 AND EARLY MORNING RAID DEC. 15, WHEN THE AMERICAN TROOPS WENT ASHORE AT MINDORO, AND INNUMERABLE SNEAK ATTACKS, ALL WERE TURNED BACK.

THE YANK NAVY FLIERS ACCOUNTED FOR 24 JAPANESE PLANES THE SECOND DAY, 17 ON THE THIRD DAY AND 10 MORE THE FOURTH, FOR A TOTAL OF 68. SHIPS' GUNFIRE ACCOUNTED FOR 11 MORE.

ABOARD VICE ADMIRAL MCCAIN'S FAST CARRIER FLAGSHIP OFF THE PHILIPPINES, DEC.16-(DELAYED)-(VIA NAVY RADIO)-(AP)-CARRYING THEIR HISTORY-MAKING AERIAL SIEGE OF LUZON ISLAND INTO ITS THIRD DAY, VICE ADM. JOHN S.MCCAIN'S FLIERS RAISED THEIR TOTAL OF ENEMY PLANES PUT OUT OF ACTION IN LUZON TO 435.

(INCOMPLETE TOTALS FROM GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS SHOW AN ADDITIONAL 24 PLANES SHOT DOWN OVER MINDORO AND 122 DESTROYED BY THE FAR EAST AIR FORCE OF LIBERATORS, THUNDERBOLTS AND CARRIER PLANES FROM VICE ADMIRAL THOMAS C.KINKAID'S SEVENTH FLEET WHICH OPERATES UNDER GEN. MACARTHUR).

(THIS TOTAL--MCCAIN'S 435 AND MACARTHUR'S 146--ADDS TO 581)

OF THOSE BAGGED BY MCCAIN'S AIRMEN, 61 WERE SHOT DOWN, 207 WERE BURNED ON THE GROUND AND 167 WERE DAMAGED.

IN ADDITION, HIS BOYS BROUGH THEIR SHIP SINKINGS TO 30 WITH 57 OTHER VESSELS DAMAGED. TWO OF THESE SUNKEN SHIPS WERE LARGE TROOP TRANSPORTS.

THE JAPANESE, FRIGHTENED BY THE DAY AND NIGHT AERIAL SIEGE, BLACKED OUT MANILA FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THEY CAPTURED IT.

UP TO THE LAST TWO NIGHTS, AMERICAN FLIERS VERY SELDOM HAD BEEN OVER MANILA AFTER DARK AND THEY NEVER HAVE ATTACKED IT. NEVERTHELESS, THE JAPANESE BECAME JITTERY AS NAVY COMBAT PATROLS CRUISED ABOVE IT FOR THE SECOND NIGHT LAST NIGHT, AND ENFORCED A STRICT BLACKOUT.

PINNED DOWN AS THEY HAVE BEEN SINCE THE DAWN OF DECEMBER 14 BY CONSTANT PATROLS OF NAVY PLANES OVER ALL OF THE HUNDRED AIRFIELDS ON LUZON, THE JAPANESE WERE UNABLE TO MOUNT ANY KIND OF AN AIR ATTACKS ON THIS CARRIER FORCE LYING OFF THE PHILIPPINES UNTIL THIS MORNING, WHEN THEY GOT 10 PLANES INTO THE AIR.

AMERICAN PATROLS SHOT DOWN NINE OF THEM. THE LONE PLANE TO ESCAPE WAS A HIGH-FLYING JAPANESE FIGHTER WHICH FLED INTO THE CLOUDS.

IT WAS A FEEBLE ATTEMPT AT REPRISAL FOR ALL THAT THE AMERICAN PLANES HAVE DONE TO THE ENEMY IN THE PHILIPPINES DURING THE LAST THREE DAYS.

THE AERIAL SIEGE ALSO PROTECTED GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S MINDORO LANDINGS FROM STRONG AERIAL ATTACK--PARTICULARLY HIS TROOP-LADEN TRANSPORTS.

THE DAY AND NIGHT AERIAL PATROL WAS DEVISED BY ADMIRAL MCCAIN AND HIS STAFF TO MEET THE PHILIPPINES' SITUATION IN WHICH THE JAPANESE HAD PREVIOUSLY BEEN ABLE TO BRING IN PLANES AT NIGHT FROM OTHER BASES SUCH AS FORMOSA.

A45PA

TWO OF THE LATEST BAG OF PLANES WERE SHOT OUT OF THE AIR BY LT.WOODROW W.ODOM (5303 PARKLAND AVE.) DALLAS, TEX., AS HE LED A COMBAT PATROL ACROSS LUZON.

HE SAID: "THE FIRST WAS A JAP FIGHTER FLYING HIGH COVER FOR A COUPLE OF BOMBERS. I RODE THAT ONE DOWN THROUGH THE CLOUDS AND GOT HIM." ODOM LATER ADDED ANOTHER FIGHTER TO BRING HIS SCORE TO THREE FOR HIS PRESENT TOUR OF DUTY.

A FAST TWIN-ENGINED BOMBER WAS SHOT DOWN BY LT.ANTHONY D. CHRISTOPHER (432 REVERE ST.) REVERE, MASS. HE SAID: "THAT WAS THE FIRST JAP PLANE I EVER SAW--BELIEVE IT OR NOT--AND AFTER THE TIME I'VE BEEN OUT I WASN'T GOING TO LET IT GET AWAY. I RODE THAT BIRD'S TAIL AND KEPT SHOOTING UNTIL HE BLEW UP IN THE AIR."

SEVERAL PLANES, INCLUDING A COUPLE PILOTED BY LT.JOHN BRIDGES OF SHELBY, N.CAR., AND LT9 (JG) ROBERT BARTON, 23, (81-I QUINCY ST. N.W.) WASHINGTON, D.C., WERE ON A MISSION WHEN A DOGFIGHT BEGAN IN WHICH THE COMBAT PATROLS INTERCEPTED ENEMY PLANES HEADED TOWARD CARRIERS.

LT.BARTON TOLD IT THIS WAY: "WE HEARD A LOT OF TALK ON OUR RADIO SHOWING THERE WAS A DOGFIGHT SOMEWHERE AROUND. AS SOON AS THAT NEWS CAME OVER THE AIR EVERY PILOT AROUND THERE WANTED TO GET INTO IT. THE PLANES WENT WHOOSH ALL AROUND ME, HEADED FOR THE FIGHT. I SAW A STREAM OF FLAME WHICH WAS A JAP PLANE FALLING. THEN A JAP FIGHTER GOT ON BRIDGES' TAIL. WELL, I WENT AFTER HIM AND GOT IT IN A LUCKY BURST AND FOLLOWED THE JAP AS HE FLAMED DOWN."

ABOARD A LIBERATOR OVER MINDORO, DEC.15-(DELAYED)-(AP)-A FILIPINO HANGING OUT HER MORNING WASH LESS THAN A MILE FROM THE BEACH WHERE THE YANKS WERE MAKING THEIR LANDING TODAY LOOKED UP WHEN OUR LIBERATOR ROARED OVER. SHE WAVED. THAT'S WHAT THE LANDING ON MINDORO ISLAND LOOKED LIKE.

AN HOUR LATER, TROOPS WALKED INTO SAN JOSE, THE NEAREST TOWN, APPARENTLY WITHOUT FIRING A SHOT.

THEY WALKED IN LEISURELY, STANDING UP AND SELDOM CROUCHING OR HITTING THE DIRT.

YOU COULD SEE HOW EASY IT WAS WHEN THEY WAVED AT US WHILE WE CIRCLED LESS THAN A 100 FEET OVERHEAD. THEY OBVIOUSLY WERE NOT WORRIED ABOUT THE POSSIBILITY OF HIDDEN MACHINEGUN NESTS AND SNIPERS.

"IT CERTAINLY LOOKS EASIER THAN I EXPECTED," SAID LT.COL.ALEX GUERRY, JR., OF SEWANEE, TENN., WHO WAS AT THE CONTROLS.

DURING THE HOUR AND A HALF OVER THE LANDING, I DIDN'T SEE A SINGLE JAPANESE PLANE IN THE AIR. THE ONLY ENEMY PLANES WERE A COUPLE OF WRECKED FIGHTERS ON THE BEACH AND A TWIN-ENGINED BOMBER WITH ITS NOSE IN THE MUD---ALL VICTIMS OF PREVIOUS ACTIONS.

SIMILARLY THE ONLY YANK PLANES COVERING THE LANDING WE SAW WERE SIX HELLCATS WHICH ZOOMED ONLY BRIEFLY OVER THE BEACHHEAD. OUR LIBERATORY WAS THE ONLY LAND-BASED PLANE THERE AND WE JUST WERE THERE FOR A LOOK.

SAIPAN, DEC.17-(AP)-WEATHER IS ONE OF THE BIGGEST SINGLE FACTORS TO OVERCOME IN REALLY EFFICIENT SUPERFORTRESS BOMBING OF JAPAN, THE TWENTY-FIRST BOMBER COMMAND WEATHER OFFICER SAID HERE IN AN INTERVIEW.

LIEUT.COL.JAMES T.SEAVER,JR., 23 BAYBERRY ST., BRONXVILLE,N.Y.

AND PLANDOME, LONGISLAND, FORMER STAFF WEATHER OFFICER FOR THE EIGHTH AIRFORCE, IS NOW WEATHER OFFICER FOR BRIG.GEN.HAYWOOD HANSELL.

"WE ARE JUST GETTING STARTED NOW IN WHAT IS JAPAN'S BEST WEATHER--WINTER IS THE CLEAREST SEASON THERE, EVEN THOUGH ON RAIDS AND RECONNAISSANCE MISSIONS SO FAR WE'VE CHIEFLY ENCOUNTERED OVERCAST SKIES," HE SAID.

"WE ARE OUT OF THE TYPHOON SEASON NOW, THANK GOODNESS. BUT THE APPROACH OF THE SOUTHWEST MONSOON SEASON IN MARCH WILL MEAN JAPAN'S INDUSTRIAL AREA ON THE SOUTHEAST SIDE (OF THE PRINCIPAL ISLAND OF HONSHU) WILL BE CLOSED IN ALL SPRING AND SUMMER, AND WE WILL HAVE TO BOMB THROUGH CONSTANT OVERCAST.

DEC 18 1944

"PROBABLY WE WON'T DO OUR BEST IN VISUAL HIGH LEVEL PRECISION BOMBING UNTIL NEXT WINTER. IT WAS THAT WAY IN EUROPE. IN OUR FIRST YEAR OVER GERMANY WE PLOWED UP A LOT OF POTATO PATCHES. WE DID SOME GOOD ON SUBMARINE PENS, ALTHOUGH THEY WERE TOO STRONGLY BUILT TO DAMAGE MUCH.

"BUT THOSE MISSIONS DID PROVIDE TRAINING SO THAT NEXT WINTER EXPERIENCED CREWS HAD THE CORRECT DATA, AND KEPT TO THEIR COURSES. IT'S ALL PART OF THE GROWING PAINS YOU EXPECT IN GETTING A NEW OUTFIT TOGETHER."

LOSS OF THE CHINESE AIR BASES WILL BE A HANDICAP TO SPRING AND SUMMER BOMBING OVER JAPAN, THE WEATHER OFFICER ADDED, EXPLAINING THAT THE SAIPAN-BASED RAIDERS WILL NOT HAVE ADEQUATE WEATHER REPORTS.

SEAVER HEADS A WEATHER TEAM INCLUDING CAPT.JAMES E.BENNETT, [illegible], MICH., ALSO FROM THE EIGHTH AIRFORCE, APT.WILLIAM J.PLUMLEY, OAK PARK, ILL., CAPT.REID A.BRYSON, 311 NORTH OAK PARK AVE., OAK PARK ILL., AND LIEUT.LOREN W. CROW, 2640 COTTAGE GROVE, DES MOINES, IOWA.

BENNETT IS CHARGED WITH MAKING SURFACE WEATHER REPORTS, PLUMLEY THE UPPER AIR, BRYSON WITH THE TROPICAL SECTION AND CROW THE LONG RANGE REPORT, ALL CONTRIBUTING TO THE PREPARATION OF THE WEATHER FORECAST.

DEC 18 1944

BRYSON, FOR EXAMPLE, CHARTS THE FIRST SIGNS OF TROPICAL DISTURBANCES SO THAT THE COMMAND WILL NOT BE CAUGHT WITH PLANES ALOFT IN A TYPHOON.

COMPARING FORECASTING FACILITIES IN THE EUROPEAN AND ORIENTAL THEATERS, SEAVER SAID BRITISH SHIPS AT SEA AND PLANES IN THE AIR, PLUS A NETWORK OF WEATHER STATIONS IN GREAT BRITAIN, ALL CONTRIBUTED TO FLEXIBLE AIR OPERATIONS FROM ENGLAND SO THAT TARGETS COULD BE CHANGED WITHIN SIX HOURS IF THE WEATHER SHIFTED.

"HERE OUR WEATHER INFORMATION IS 18 TO 20 HOURS OLD BEFORE THE MISSION STARTS. WE GET SOME WEATHER REPORTS FROM CHINA, SOME WHICH IS NOT TOO VALUABLE FROM THE ALEUTIANS AND VERY LITTLE FROM OUR FLEETS," SEAVER SAID.

"OUR FLIERS ARE INEXPERIENCED IN WEATHER OBSERVATION. BUT EXPANDING RECONNAISSANCE OPERATIONS AND EXPANDING REPORTS FROM THE 20TH BOMBER COMMAND (UNDER WHICH B29S OPERATE IN ALL THEATERS), WITH THE ADDITION OF NEW EQUIPMENT, WILL BRING GRADUAL IMPROVEMENT."

BUCHANAN CITED PREWAR PROPAGANDA WORK OF THE GOVERNMENT-CONTROLLED NEWS AGENCIES IN GERMANY, JAPAN AND ITALY AND DECLARED THAT "DISTORTION OF THE NEWS IN THE INTERESTS OF THE DICTATORS HAS BEEN ONE OF THE UNDERLYING CAUSES OF THE WAR."

HE SAID A PROVISION FOR WORLD NEWS FREEDOM WOULD BE "A FOUNDATION FOR WORLD PEACE" AND URGED CANADIANS TO "INSIST THAT THE NEWS FREEDOM YOU HAVE ENJOYED SHOULD BE EXTENDED TO EVERY NATION OF THE WORLD."

"ACROSS THE BORDER IN THE UNITED STATES," BUCHANAN SAID, "THE THREE NATIONAL NEWS ASSOCIATIONS (THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, UNITED PRESS AND INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE) ARE FREE OF GOVERNMENT DOMINATION. THEY STAND SIDE BY SIDE IN SUPPORT OF THE FREE EXCHANGE OF NEWS. THEIR VIEW HAS THE BACKING OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS. XXX

"CHRISTOPHER CHANCELLOR, GENERAL MANAGER OF REUTERS, HAS PLACED THIS AGENCY ON RECORD IN FAVOR OF FREE NEWS. BUCHANAN SAID VERY FEW PEOPLE LISTENED WHEN KENT COOPER, EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, CAMPAIGNED TO GET THE FREE NEWS PRINCIPLE INCORPORATED INTO THE PEACE TREATIES IN 1919, BUT HE PERSISTED.

"KENT COOPER IS HAVING SOME SUCCESS," HE SAID. "XXX IT NOW REMAINS FOR OTHER COUNTRIES TO FOLLOW THE LEAD OF THE UNITED STATES CONGRESS."

BUCHANAN SAID THAT "I THINK MANY OF US RENEWED OUR FAITH IN DEMOCRACY IN THE RECENT CONSCRIPTION CRISIS," BROUGHT ON BY THE DECISION OF PRIME MINISTER W.L.MACKENZIE KING'S GOVERNMENT TO ORDER SOME DRAFTED MEN ABROAD.

"IT WAS AN EXCITING FACT," HE ADDED, "THAT THE WHOLE THING COULD BE ARGUED OUT IN STREET CARS AND BUSES, IN THE VILLAGE STORE, IN PARLIAMENT, WITH THE DAILY AND WEEKLY PRESS FAITHFULLY REPORTING VIEWS OF ALL PARTIES, AND SUCH INCIDENTS AS OCCURRED.

95 ENEMY TANKS BAGGED BY U.S. 9TH AIR FORCE IN STRONG COUNTERBLOWS

Enemy Looses New V-Weapon, Bombards Forward And Rear Areas Day And Night–Paratroops Landed Behind 9th Army

DEC 19 1944

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—The Germans have recaptured Malmedy, Belgium, Ronald Walker, correspondent of the London News Chronicle, reported today.

Walker said the Germans put at least 1,000 single-engined fighters and bombers into the air over the Aachen area yesterday in their greatest demonstration of offensive arerial strength since the battle of Britain in 1940.

Supreme Allied Headquarters, Paris, Dec. 18 (AP)—The German counteroffensive, hammering a deep dent in United States 1st Army lines, plunged at least 18 miles inside Belgium today despite a strong ground defense and Allied air blows that knocked out 95 enemy tanks and armored vehicles and damaged 26 more.

The first indication of the extent of the German drive came from the United States 9th Air Force, which announced that British Typhoons had attacked 20 German armored vehicles "west of Stavelot," which is 18 miles west of the frontier and 24 miles southeast of the fortress of Liege. It is 6 miles southwest of Malmedy.

This was 15 miles from where the lines stood before the German push began.

Both the 1st and 9th Army sectors were bombarded day and night by a new German V-weapon of undisclosed nature. The front rocked to the explosions of the weapons and American anti-aircraft fire. Flares lighted the night sky.

265 German Vehicles Destroyed

Through heavy censorship of ground troop movements on the 1st Army front came reports of pilots participating in the greatest destruction of enemy armor since the battle of the Falaise Gap, in Normandy, last summer.

United States fighter-bombers destroyed 265 transport vehicles and pounded German troops and gun positions. Ten fighter-bombers were missing.

DEC 19 1944

The German high command hurled thousands of crack troops and large numbers of tanks into the great fluid battle that may decide the course of World War II.

Once more the Germans threw their air force into the battle, attacking up to 300 strong, but 45 of them were knocked down in swirling dogfights above the battlefield.

Strict Censorship Imposed

Front-line officers of the United States 1st Army made no attempt to minimize the seriousness of this effort to stall the Allied drive on the Rhine.

At 4 P.M. a strict censorship was imposed on the entire 1st Army front, which earlier dispatches had said was alive with German attacks of varying strength from Duren 80 miles south to southern Luxembourg.

KENNEDY DEC 19 1944

Paris, Dec. 18 (A. P.).—American tanks and infantry lashed back today at scores of thousands of crack German troops and armor in a great fluid battle swirling across the hills and forests of Belgium and Luxembourg that may affect the entire course of the war.

Front-line officers of the American First Army made no attempt to minimize the seriousness of this supreme effort to stall the Allied drive on the Rhine—a counter-offensive reminiscent of Ludendorf's final push in the spring of 1918.

At 4 P. M. an ironclad censorship of news was imposed on the entire length of the First Army front. DEC 19 1944

Earlier dispatches had described this front as alive with German attacks from Duren eighty miles southward to southern Luxembourg.

As the battle mounted in intensity, the Germans uncorked a brand new V-weapon and by day and night bombarded forward as well as rear areas. Its nature was obscured by official censorship.

More parachute troops in small groups were dropped last night behind the American Ninth Army's lines to the north, where the new secret weapon was first reported. The Germans also were hammering the Ninth's positions with big railway guns on an increased scale.

Lieut.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges's First Army struck back at the advancing columns of Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt, who was attempting his greatest counter-offensive against American troops in Europe.

Front-line dispatches said that British Spitfires and Tempests came down from Holland to lend a hand to the American air forces.

[Berlin said tonight the Germans had crossed the northern part of Luxembourg on a broad front and were nearing the Luxembourg-Belgium border. The Allied-controlled radio station at Eindhoven, went abruptly off the air without explanation.

The northern tip of Luxembourg is at least eight miles across. A German penetration there would place the Nazis about fifty miles from Namur and in a position to threaten communication links between the First Army and other Allied armies to the south.

Fast German units and armored battle groups on the northern wing reached the Malmedy area, Berlin declared. Many bitter battles were fought inside towns and villages and some American tank forces were wiped out, the broadcast added.]

Nazi Air Force in Action.

The German air force continued to support the German winter strike on the biggest scale since the Allied landings in Normandy.

More Nazi parachutists were dropped behind American lines last night. But these may have numbered no more than ten. Six were caught.

Tabulations from Ninth Tactical Air Command headquarters said 129 German planes had been shot down in twenty-four hours—more than 20 per cent of the number of carefully husbanded aircraft put over the lines by the German air force.

Lieut.-Gen. William H. Simpson, commander of the American Ninth Army on Hodges's left flank, praised the work of the Allied tactical airmen, declaring that despite the great number of planes used by the Germans they are "not able to bother us a great deal."

[The Germans declared forward American positions along a twenty-mile front had been overrun between Luxembourg and the Hohe Venn, "high marshland," a swampy tract 2,200 feet above sea level extending for thirty miles from Rotgen to Malmedy. But the German command also adopted a cautious attitude and said it was withholding details of the action.]

Yank Lines Penetrated.

Throwing hundreds of carefully conserved planes, hundreds of tanks, many divisions and even parachutists into the counter-offensive, Marshal Von Rundstedt had achieved a penetration of several miles in the American lines, re-invaded Belgium in the Monschau area sixteen miles south of Aachen, and re-entered Luxembourg at two other points.

Today the Germans were pushing their advance along an eighty-mile front from the Monschau area to the southern tip of the Luxembourg border with new and more violent attacks.

Elsewhere along the eighty-mile front the Germans were delivering stiff punches aimed at seeking soft spots, and there were indications the supreme German effort would mount in intensity before it subsided. On many other army fronts there were signs of impending German blows.

Indications of More Attacks.

American Third Army dispatches said the heaviest enemy rail movement ever seen behind the Third Army front had been observed yesterday. Reports from the British Second Army front to the north said German flyers in the greatest strength since D day had appeared in the skies along the Aachen sector, along with many reconnaissance aircraft over the British front. A ten-mile-long German column was blasted by Allied fighter bombers in the Neunkirchen area, ten miles northeast of Saarbrucken.

In the Alsace Plain German counter-attacks rolled over three villages in the Colmar and Selestat areas.

But at Gen. Eisenhower's Supreme Headquarters it was said the Allied command is taking measures to deal with the situation, and that there was no cause for undue alarm.

May Be Last Assault.

Marshal Von Rundstedt undoubtedly has thrown a large part of his strategic reserve into this supreme effort, it was said, with the most likely purpose of derailing the Allied winter offensive and holding the Americans on the Roer River and the fringe of the Saar Basin until spring.

It is possible, it was stated, that this may prove to be the final north, where the new secret weapon first was reported. The Germans also were hammering the 9th's positions with big railway guns on an increased scale.

Civilians Flee West

Once more some Belgian civilians, fearful of a major German breakthrough, were picking up their belongings and fleeing west, just as they had done in 1940.

Far to the southwest four United States divisions edged forward into the German Palatinate's Siegfried Line defenses on a 14-mile front extending from the Rhine westward. One tank division penetrated seven rows of the line's dragon-teeth tank barrier north of Wissembourg. Twenty-three miles west of Wessembourg, the German-manned Maginot fortifications around the fortress of Bitche were crumbling under combined assault of infantrymen, engineers and artillerymen.

Farther west, the United States 3d Army announced it had driven to the eastern edge of the Siegfried fortified city of Dillingen, in the western Saar, and that only five strong pillboxes remained to be reduced before the occupation was complete.

Three miles south, another strong point in the Saarlautern suburb of Roden fell, and in the southern Saar gains of a half mile were recorded.

The heaviest enemy rail movements yet seen in the Saar indicated that the Germans were bringing up reinforcements to meet these threats.

These developments were dwarfed, however, by the struggle raging on the 1st Army front, where the Germans' winter offensive had gouged out the greatest gains yet scored by the enemy against the Americans in Europe.

[The Berlin radio said the Germans had crossed northern Luxembourg on a broad front and were nearing the Belgian border. This would put them about 8 miles beyond positions from which they struck two days ago.

[This account said the Germans also had reached the area of the Belgian city of Malmedy, 14 miles west of the German frontier. Other enemy broadcasts said forward American positions had been overrun for 20 miles northward from Luxenbourg's northern tip.]

If the German counteroffensive succeeds even moderately, the end of the war may be delayed many months. A full-scale victory for Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt would give the Germans time to prepare fresh blows that would drag the war throughout 1945.

The Germans fed heavy concentrations of armor into key points, front-line dispatches told bluntly of enormous numbers of tanks and armored vehicles supporting the infantry.

In one respect, the German counteroffensive has failed. It has failed to force the 1st Army to let up pressure on the crucial Roer River front, gateway to the Rhineland, without whose heavy industry production the enemy could not long wage war.

Americans Clear Rolsdorf

The Americans cleared the suburb of Rolsdorf, less than a mile southeast of the Roer stronghold of Duren. The village of Lendersdorf, a mile farther south and only a half mile from the Roer, was all but cleared of the enemy.

While the 1st Army fought to seal off the powerful offensive, the 9th Army jumped off in local line straightening operations and in advances of 1 and 2 miles took Wurm and Mullendorf and cleared Beeck north of Geilenkirchen. Opposition was light, and many pillboxes actually were unmanned.

A shortage of ammunition, admitted by General Eisenhower and President Roosevelt, and a shortage of manpower which a front dispatch said recently forced the draining of new divisions to replace battlefront casualties, may be decisive factors.

On these may hinge whether the German offensive can be broken before it effectively cripples Allied winter plans.

Germans Well Supplied

The Germans are abundantly supplied for this current drive.

[The London Daily Mail quoted captured Germans as saying Adolf Hitler visited the Roer front ten days ago to buck up morale, and told troops to hold on until December 16, when he promised the Americans would be dealt a nasty surprise.]

The 1st Army fought back savagely, hurling the full weight of its own armor against crack enemy Panzer divisions which, a front dispatch said, had been specifically trained for this drive.

Expected Minor Action

One front dispatch said the Germans were feeding in numerous attacks all along the front, probing for weak spots.

The character, quality and scope of the offensive came as a surprise. Observers who have returned from the front since the battle began said minor action had been expected, but few realized it was an all-out winter offensive until a number of American positions had been overrun and the Germans had bit deeply into Belgium.

Censorship permitted disclosure only that the drives were aimed at the areas of Honsfeld, east of Malmedy, at the Luxembourg frontier town of Vianden, 31 miles south of Honsfeld, and had reached Echternach, 13 miles southeast of Vianden.

The last two drives both were stalled by United States tanks and dug-in infantry. Echternach is 18 miles north of the duchy's capital.

In the first 36 hours of the offensive, the Germans lost 194 planes.

In the southern Palatinate, the 79th Division on the eastern end of the front probed beyond Berg, 8 miles west of Karlsruhe, capital of Baden Province.

The 14th Armored Division struck the stiffest opposition on the western end of the Rhine Plain north of Wissembourg, where forward elements broke through seven rows of dragon teeth. They were pinned down by intense enemy fire.

4 Miles Inside Reich

The Germans, fighting from the Siegfried fortifications — deepened to 20 miles on this sector—let fly with everything, from heavy guns to grenades, as the Americans felt out the defenses, a front dispatch said.

Northwest of Wissembourg, the 103d Division fighting along heavily wooded ridges made the deepest penetration into the Reich—about 4 miles—and was nearing the village of Reisdorf.

On the west, the 45th Division captured Nieder-Schlettenbach and Bundenthal, both 2 miles inside Germany in forests northwest of Wissembourg. The 45th ran into heavy fire from pillboxes.

At the western edge of the 7th Army front, two sections of Fort Simserhoff, 2 miles northwest of Bitche, and eight sections of Fort Schiesseck, less than a mile from the city, were overrun by troops who had been hammering at them nearly a week.

Elements of five German divisions were facing the 7th along its 35-mile front.

DEC 19 1944

DEC 19 1944

German effort to turn the tables. By some it was compared to the great German counter-offensive in the spring of 1918.

Shrewdly timed when the Americans were drawn up at the Roer and presumably preparing for the serious effort of getting across that barrier toward Cologne and the Rhine, Marshal Von Rundstedt's blow was aimed at the Ardennes Forest, path of German conquest in 1940.

Airmen Have Big Day.

Ninth Tactical Air Force headquarters in Belgium said hundreds of Thunderbolts and Lightnings pounded on concentrations of as many as 300 to 400 tanks and armored vehicles with rockets, bombs and machine guns as part of the Allied reaction.

Outnumbering the German fighters as much as ten to one, the Allied fighters along the entire front accounted for at least 113 out of 550 planes put over the lines by the Germans yesterday and the night before. The Allied planes went down to "deck level" to get in their blows, and thirty-three of them were lost.

British Flyers Also Score

"The German air force definitely is coming out and we are shooting them down every chance we get, but fundamentally we now are out there to beat up the German Army," said Maj. Gen. Elwood R. Quesada, commander of the 9th Tactical Air Force.

British fighters also tangled with 100 German planes flying down from northern airfields and destroyed eleven in one series of dogfights. The 29th Tactical Air Force accounted for 23 more.

Altogether, Allied planes knocked out 25 tanks and armored vehicles, 16 locomotives, 400 trucks and 300 railway cars.

Nazi Jet Planes Used

The German air force continued its bombing and strafing last night, but its diminished effort suggested that it already was spent as a result of prohibitive losses.

NAZI OFFENSIVE HITS WEAK SPOT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18—(AP) The German counter offensive struck the weakest part of the Allied line on the Western front, War department sources disclosed today. They conceded that some Allied units may get bottled up in the advance.

On the whole, however, these sources were inclined to minimize the force of the Nazi thrust. They said it probably was aimed:

1.—At drawing Allied reserves from seriously threatened points on the German defense line.

2.—At giving the German home front a lift at Christmas time with a report of "victory."

The sector at which the Nazi attack was thrown, officials explained, was weak because of the wide dispersion of Allied divisions. The sector was lightly held, because the terrain in front and behind the line was not considered very important.

The Germans, it was said, have thrown in a substantial part of their strategic general reserves, including at least three panzer units, and now have a numerical superiority on that sector two to three times Allied strength.

These sources declined to speculate how far the German offensive might carry, but said that it still could go a lot farther without causing serious damage.

In other sectors the German air force fought with an aggressiveness it has not shown in months.

The unceasing German aerial assault began Saturday about 10 p. m. and has continued since then despite heavy losses. More than 200 enemy fighters already have been shot down.

German night fighters and bombers strafed and bombed their own towns in Germany as well as several in Holland. They dived down out of the clouds plastering some streets with machinegun fire.

Air operations in the Ninth army sector apparently are designed to try to disrupt communications and block any supporting moves to the First army.

During the day, the German planes stuck closely to the front along the Roer river valley and thence south into Belgium and Luxembourg.

They appeared content to intercept American planes as they came over and not risk undue losses with penetrations over American

WITH THE U. S. NINTH ARMY IN GERMANY, Dec. 18—(AP) A new type of German V-weapon bombarded the U. S. Ninth and First army fronts today.

During the night the entire combined fronts were lighted by flares and rocked to the thunder of anti-aircraft guns and explosions of Hitler's new secret weapon, details of which presently are restricted.

The Luftwaffe's struggle against the Allied air forces raged on unabated up and down the Roer valley in support of the German's counteroffensive.

While the First army fought to seal off the powerful German offensive, the Ninth army jumped off in local line-straightening attacks, advancing one to two miles and taking Wurm and Mullendorf. Beeck, north of Geilenkirchen, also was cleared.

Opposition was light and for the first time the Doughboys found some of the pillboxes unmanned. Few prisoners were taken.

Clouds were so low over the front that some planes had to fly at treetop height across mountainous areas. Dogfights took place under 1,000 feet in some places.

One group of Thunderbolt fighters, jumping 30 ME-190's near Duren, reported the pilots were "of inferior caliber" and fled into the clouds.

NAZI RADIO HINTS 'MORE SURPRISES' IN STORE IN WEST

RASISCHKE

LONDON, Dec. 18 — (AP) German broadcasts, hinting at "more surprises to come," claimed today their counter-offensive had slashed to the area of Malmedy in Belgium on the north and across northern Luxembourg to near the Belgium border on the south.

Berlin military commentators threw in occasional phrases of caution but Goebbels propagandists pulled all the stops in making the most of Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt's counterblow.

"There is no greater proof that German vitality is unbroken than this new offensive at a time when our enemies already are distributing German provinces," one propaganda broadcast declared.

The German radio and press made no mention of a new secret weapon reported by American correspondents. One Nazi correspondent said that "V-1 (robot bombs) are buzzing overhead at the front."

"The first powerful assault has torn the American front open" Transocean asserted, "and American resistance was smashed in hard fighting by German artillery, tank divisions, paratroops and grenadiers.

"The first stroke fully succeeded and the Germans captured as much ground in 36 hours as the First and Ninth United States armies did at Aachen in four weeks."

Berlin radio made specific geographic claims, declaring:

"The greater part of northern Luxembourg already has been crossed on a broad front and battles are approaching the Luxembourg-Belgian frontier. The Americans have been making repeated attacks from the southwest to hold the German advance, but in vain.

"On the northern flank of the German attacking front, our formations, strengthened with armored units, have thrust to the Malmedy area." Malmedy is 14 miles west of the German border.

It was this source that suggested "further surprises" might be sprung against the British in the north.

"It may even be that British soldiers who have been promised leave in January may have to do without it," this account said.

The broadcast suggested, however, that it would be advisable "to keep an eye on the Malmedy-St. Vith sector and sectors north and south of Luxembourg."

The area south of Luxembourg is the U. S. Third army front.

A Transocean correspondent, claiming a battalion of the 78th infantry division had been "virtually wiped out," asserted that its leader, "Lt. Col. Byron W. Ladd, 31, of Illinois, two company commanders and six other officers were taken prisoners."

While this correspondent said the counter-offensive had "brilliantly succeeded," he cautioned that "there is no point, however, in drawing final conclusions, as the situation still is fluid."

The Germans conceded some setbacks in the south in the Saar and in the Palatinate. Berlin also said the French made local gains in Alsace against stiff resistance.

New V Device Used By Nazis

With the U.S. 9th Army in Germany, Dec. 18 (AP)—The Germans have launched a new "V" weapon on the Western front and are bombarding rear areas with it by night and day.

The "Silver Balls?"

The Germans have previously used both their V-1 and V-2 weapons—the robot bomb and the "telegraph pole" rocket bomb—against troops and areas behind the front.

Supreme headquarters in Paris last week said that flyers had seen clusters of "silver balls" over Germany, but gave no other information. It was speculated then that the silver balls might be a new anti-aircraft defense, or something designed to interfere with Allied radio communication.

All-Out Counterattack Laid To Rundstedt

London. Dec. 18 (AP)—Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt gathered all his top-ranking generals at his secret headquarters at Coblenz yesterday and ordered an all-out effort in his current major counterattack, according to underground reports reaching London today.

Coblenz is within easy fighter-bomber range of the Allied lines but the German West front commander still felt it necessary to get all his best military brains under one roof. They may well have had something of a shaking, because Allied planes hit a munitions dump near Coblenz Saturday night.

From the same underground source today came a report that Rundstedt received only a message from Heinrich Himmler on his 69th birthday, December 12. Himmler said he was acting for Adolph Hitler, who has been so long silent that many believe Himmler has taken his place.

Captives Say Hitler Toured Front

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—A Daily Mail dispatch from the Western front quoted captured German soldiers today as saying Adolf Hitler had visited the front ten days ago.

The prisoners asserted Hitler told troops in the Roer River area to hold on till December 16, when he promised the Americans would be dealt a nasty surprise.

Slaughter Of Yanks By Nazis Described

By Harold V. Boyle

An American Frontline Clearing Station, Belgium, Dec. 17 [AP—Delayed]—Weeping with rage, a handful of doughboy survivors described today how a German tank force had ruthlessly poured machine-gun fire into a group of about 150 Americans who had been disarmed and herded into a field in the opening hours of the present Nazi counteroffensive.

"We had to lie there and listen to German noncoms kill with pistols every one of our wounded men who groaned or tried to move," said T/5 William B. Summers, of Glenville, W.Va., who escaped by playing dead.

Caught In Ambush

The Americans were members of an artillery observation battalion ambushed and trapped at a road fork by a powerful German armored column of Tiger tanks, whose heavy guns quickly shot up the two dozen American trucks and lightly armored vehicles.

There were no heavy weapons in the American column and the entire observation unit quickly had to surrender.

"We were just moving up to take over a position at the top of a hill and as we got to the road intersection they opened up on us," said Summers.

"They had at least 15 to 20 tanks. They disarmed us and then searched us for wrist watches and anything else they wanted.

Emptied Pistol

"I guess we were lined up along that road for a full hour. Then they stood us all together in an open field. I thought something was wrong. As we were standing there one German soldier moving past in a tank column less than 50 yards away pulled out a pistol and emptied it on our fellows."

A grimy soldier sitting in the little room with Summers ran his hands through mud-caked hair and broke into sobs. There were tears in Summers's eyes as he went on:

"Then they opened up on us from their armored cars with machineguns. We hadn't tried to run away or anything. We were just standing there with our hands up and they tried to murder us all. And they did murder a lot of us.

Flopped And Played Dead

"There was nothing to do but flop and play dead."

"I never saw such slaughter before in this war," said Private William F. Geem, of Elizabethtown, Pa. "They were cutting us down like guinea pigs. Then those German non-coms began walking around and knocking off our wounded. I kept my head down, but after they had emptied their pistols I could hear them click fresh cartridges in their hands while they were reloading. Then they went on looking for more of our fellows to shoot."

"We just hoped and prayed while we lay there listening to them shoot every man that moved," said T-5 Charles F. Appman, of Verona, Pa.

Lay There For An Hour

The survivors lay in tense, rigid silence in the freezing mud for an hour before cautious glances showed that all the Germans had moved away except one Tiger tank.

"It wasn't more than 100 yards away, but we decided we had to make a break for it then or never," said T-5 Harold W. Billow, of Mount Joy, Pa. "We jumped up and scattered for the woods. The tank opened up on us, but I don't think it got many that time."

Three hours after the slaughter less than twenty survivors had made their way back to the American lines.

Jack Belden, of Time magazine, and I rode back to this clearing station with the first survivors picked up by our reconnaissance jeeps.

Cut-Off Doughboys Make 10-Day Blood-Fire Stand

DEC 19 1944

By Edward D. Ball

Dillingen, Germany, Dec. 17 AP — [Delayed] — From ice-crusted foxholes, a column of doughboys has written in blood and fire the United States 90th Division's most stirring episode since D-day.

For ten days and nights they fought, cut off most of the time from supplies and reinforcements. For five of these days each lived on a single small bar of chocolate daily. They were counterattacked 30 times—a record for so narrow a sector on the United States 3d Army front.

When their own ammunition ran low, they "borrowed" from the enemy and went right on killing and wounding Germans at an amazing rate.

From Texas And Oklahoma

All this was accomplished by the men of Maj. Gen. James A. Van Fleet's Texas-Oklahoma division fighting on the German's own terms in one of the Siegfried Line's thickest pillbox belts.

"That place up there is carpeted with dead Krauts," said Major William Dupuy, of Sioux Falls, S.D., an officer in his late twenties who commands the 357th Infantry's 1st Battalion. "Even our cooks joined the party and disposed of four pillboxes," he added.

Nazis Come In From Behind

"Two days after crossing the Saar River in assault boats the Germans began hitting us," Dupuy said. "They kept it up for five days and then came in behind us in the woods. During that time we got one carrying party through. It was led by Corporal Stanley Shedlock, of Northhampton, Mass. Later we made contact with a company commanded by Capt. B. F. Adams, of Little Rock, Ark., but they were in no better shape than we were."

"I have never seen the Germans so aggressive," said Capt. John M. McLean, of Los Angeles. "But they lacked the finesse our boys had and we simply mowed them down. Once they came over standing up and yelling 'Heil Hitler.' Again they came with their guns at port arms. I can't explain that one."

Five Kills, Four Captures For GI

Private James McDonald, of Houlton, Maine, a youthful GI who looked more like a studious schoolboy than a soldier, came out with five confirmed kills and four captures to his credit.

"Things got sort of jumbled up," McDonald explained. "My bazooka partner, Pfc. Carl Chamberlain, of Gloversville, N. Y., and I had gotten separated and I found myself surrounded by Heinies. One took a crack at me and I drilled him through the head. The second one I found in our trench. His jackboots were sticking out of a hole dug in the side. My gun jammed, but I grabbed a German rifle and let him have it. Then the German gun broke down and I ran onto a box of Heinie potato mashers. Turning a corner, I saw two more Germans and killed them with a gun taken from one of those who surrendered.

"The fifth one," McDonald continued, "I got with a potato masher. The second man I captured was reaching for his gun when I hollered 'Hey.' He reached for the sky. A couple of others down the trench watched the proceedings from their sidewall holes and surrendered, too."

Second One-Man Roundup

Another one-man roundup was carried out by Pfc. Kenneth Felger, of Van Wert, Ohio. His exploit was related by Captain McLean, who said:

"Felger worked his way to the top of a German pillbox and threw in a hand grenade. Five Germans inside yelled 'Kamerad.' Felger went inside. Germans up the line sent a couple of men down to investigate why this pillbox was not firing. Felger invited them in and disarmed them.

"They sent five more investigators and finally caught on to what was happening," McLean continued. "Without knowing the general picture, Felger ushered his prisoners—two officers, two sergeants and eighteen enlisted men—to the river and took them across."

Sneaks Through Nazi Lines

Sergt. Albert Lambright, of Amarillo, Texas, who was called from the Siegfried Line fight for home leave, came in for particular praise from his company commander, Capt. William Reckeweg, of Don Height, N.Y.

"After Lambright's outfit got cut off he sneaked throught the Germans to get aid," Reckeweg said. "The aid couldn't make it, but Lambright did. He and his boys practically were fighting the Germans with their fists when they managed to swipe a case of Heinie grenades. The next day Lambright again got through to get aid. He crossed and recrossed the enemy lines every day for the next five days.

Lieut. Col. Jacob Bealke, Jr., of Boonville, Mo., commander of the 358th Infantry, sent one tank-supported battalion under Major James Spivy, Lufkin, Texas, into an attack inside Dillingen and Spivey's outfit rolled up the following score at a cost of one man wounded.

Fifty Germans killed, 67 taken prisoner and ten pillboxes, one tank and one 75-mm. gun captured.

45th Division General Is Wounded By Mine

With the U.S. 7th Army in Germany, Dec. 18 (AP)—Maj. Gen. W. W. Eagles, commander of the 45th Division, was wounded recently when his jeep hit a mine and has been succeeded by Maj. Gen. Robert R. Frederick, of San Francisco, it was announced today.

Both the 45th and its new commander, who formerly was commander of the first airborne task force, fought in Italy before coming to France.

The 37-year-old Frederick is believed to be the youngest major general commanding a frontline infantry division. It is already a common sight to see him up close to the front for a personal check on the situation.

Pfc. Heine Wonders: Is Nazis Or Just His Boss.

With the U.S. 7th Army, Dec. 18 (AP)—One man with the 3d Division jumps every time he hears his name called. The name is Heine.

The sound of his name can mean either that someone wants him or that the Germans are coming, Pfc. Reinhold Heine, of Craig, Mo., explains.

Heine has been transferred from a rifle platoon to a mortar squad, but he still remembers the day at Anzio when the first sergeant called "Heine." He said:

"I ran out of my foxhole, only to be greeted by our fire.

"Pretty soon I was reaching for my rifle automatically when anybody called me."

BILLY CONN HELPS SAVE PILOT'S LIFE

American Air Service Command Headquarers in Europe, Dec. 18 (A. P.).—Corporal Billy Conn and his troupe of boxers touring Army bases in Britain, France and Italy rescued an American fighter pilot from his burning plane in Italy, it was disclosed today.

The plane crashed in a swamp. Conn and other boxers riding nearby in a jeep fought through the flames and dragged out the unconscious pilot.

Eisenhower Autograph Sold

PARIS, Dec. 18 (AP).—A French civilian paid 63,000 francs ($1,260) for General Dwight Eisenhower's autograph yesterday at an auction in behalf of bombed out residents of Normandy. The auction was held during a performance of the Folies Bergere.

REDS ACROSS CZECH BORDER

DEC 19 1944

Drive Within 2 Miles Of German Escape Route

London, Tuesday, Dec. 19 (AP)—Russian Alpine troops, swarming down out of the Kecske Mountains of northeastern Hungary, yesterday crossed the Czechoslovak frontier on a 10-mile front and drove to within 2 miles of the Germans' southern escape route out of Kassa, the big east Slovak stronghold.

Simultaneously, the Russians reached the Slovak frontier on a 68-mile front, pushed to within 14 miles of outflanked Kassa on the southwest, and to within 11½ miles on the southeast, as Berlin reported that other Soviet troops were attacking within 15 miles east of the communications center.

Gains Up To 12 Miles

Gaining up to 12 miles from their previous positions, Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine Army units threatened the early collapse of the entire German salient in eastern Slovakia between Poland and Hungary, as they wiped out entire German units fighting in prepared fortifications along the frontier and broke out into the broad Bodva and Hernad river valleys leading into Kassa.

The Russians crossed the Slovak frontier at two new points, the most extensive being in the Horvaty-Janok-Buzita area, 30 miles north of Miskolc and only 3 miles south of the communications center of Moldava.

Through Moldava runs the highway escape route which the Russians are on the verge of cutting. Once it is severed the German-Hungarian garrison in Hungarian-annexed Kassa would have only one route of retreat, through the center of the mountainous country infested with Czechoslovak Patriot bands.

2 Miles Inside Slovakia

The Russians now were more than 2 miles inside Slovakia.

They also crossed the frontier in the area of Banreve, 23 miles northwest of Miskolc, seizing the rail station of Kamenec, on the Slana River.

At Buzita, in the direct drive toward Kassa, the Russians were 14 miles southwest of that stronghold. At Horvaty, 10 miles to the west, they were only 2 miles from the southern highway leading into the city.

The communiqué announced the capture of 1,850 prisoners, making a total of 36,590 taken in 39 days by the Russians.

Front Outlined

They reached the Slovak frontier on a broad front whose western wing was at Susa, 70 miles northeast of Budapest and 26 miles northwest of Miskolc. The eastern wing was at the frontier in the Abaujvar-Alsokeded area, 11½ miles southeast of Kassa and 16 miles northwest of the Soviet base of Satoraljaujhely.

The Hungarian capital was being shelled as Red Army infantrymen fought within 5½ miles northeast of Budapest, but the communiqué did not announce any fresh gains in the siege arc around the city.

Claim Break Into Pest

French radio stations broadcas. reports that Soviet troops had broken into Pest, the part of the capital on the east bank of the Danube, and then crossed the river into Buda on the west bank as whole Hungarian units surrendered. But these reports were not borne out by either Moscow or Berlin.

Berlin, however, told of heavy fighting on the distant flanks of Budapest, both beyond Ipoly-Sag, where the Russians were within 85 miles of Bratislava, Slovak capital, and at the lower end of Lake Balaton, where Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's 3d Ukraine Army units were only 44 miles from the Austrian frontier.

guns, firing from newly-won positions within 5½ miles of Budapest, crashed tons of steel against the inner defenses of the Hungarian capital today, while Red Army units reached the Slovak border at a new point 72 miles northeast of the city.

The scope of the Hungarian offensive was emphasized by the official Communist party newspaper, Pravda, which said that as many German divisions were engaged on the southern sector of the Eastern front as against all the Allied forces in the West. Pravda repeated figures purporting to show that 220 enemy divisions, 200 of them German, were tied up in the East as of December 1.

The Pravda article was directed against the United States Army and Navy Journal for questioning whether Russia had fulfilled the military decisions of Tehran.

Fot, Mogyorod Captured

Hundreds of Germans were slain in the bloody fighting that resulted yesterday in the capture of Fot, 5½ miles northeast of Budapest, and Mogyorod, 8 miles from the capital, the Russians announced.

The Germans came back with furious counterblows by the Luftwaffe, self-propelled guns and waves of infantry.

The Russian thrust to Slovakia, with the capture of 40 towns, including Susa, represented a gain of 15 miles northwest of Miskolc. It appeared almost certain that the Germans cannot much longer remain in Kassa, the biggest city they still hold in southeastern Slovakia.

As Marshal Rodion Malinovsky's 2d Ukraine Army pushed forward alongside units of Marshal Ivan Petrov's 4th Ukraine Army, the entire German salient in eastern Slovakia was in extreme danger.

Other Russian units in the drive northward from Hatvan along the approaches to central Slovakia yesterday took the big town and railway station of Pazsto, 37 miles northeast of Budapest.

Meanwhile, the continued pounding of Libau, Lithuanian Baltic port, together with renewed attacks on German communications in East Prussia was seen here as a possible forerunner to new land activity on the northern end of the Eastern front.

The ground has become hard and the rivers frozen throughout the Baltic countries, turning the terrain, which had been mushy with early snows, into good tank land.

The presence of a large number of German transports at Libau gave rise to the speculation as to whether the Germans are being forced from the Baltic pocket, where they have been hanging on tenaciously and at great cost.

Russ In Buda, Paris Reports

London, Dec. 18—The Paris radio asserted today that Russian troops had smashed across the Danube from Pest into Buda, the western half of Budapest, Hungarian capital.

Violent fighting is now in progress in the streets of Buda, the broadcast said.

Moscow Gets O. W. I. Magazine, Explaining U. S. to the Russians

DEC 19 1944

By The Associated Press

MOSCOW, Dec. 18.—"Amerika," a new magazine in the Russian language, designed to acquaint the Soviet people with the United States, went on sale today.

Ten thousand copies of the monthly publication, produced by the American Office of War Information, were turned over to the Soviet book agency for sale at 3 rubles a copy. The agency will keep 25 per cent of the gross sale for the cost of distribution. The rest of the money will be deposited in the Moscow account at the American Embassy.

The first issue, 4 by 5½ inches, is a sixty-four page publication with a color cover showing the United States flag and the silhouette of an American soldier peering through field glasses.

The inside cover shows a striking color picture of the White House, and page one contains a quotation from a Presidential message to Congress. There is a five-page article on the United States service of supply by Lieutenant General Brehon B. Somervell, and the article following is on Presidential elections.

Illustrated air raids on Germany cover nine pages, and there are six pages of photographs captioned "Great Days of Invasion." Other articles are by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings, Thomas Craven and Sergei Koussevitsky.

The magazine, prepared, translated and printed by the New York office of the O. W. I., now is sent to Moscow for approval before publication, but the O. W. I. hopes to have a considerable amount of the translation done in Moscow in the future.

"Amerika" is the first United States effort to circulate propaganda in the Soviet Union. British agencies for some time have been publishing a monthly magazine and a weekly newspaper, and judging from the way British publications are read in Russia the new American monthly, a superior technical job, will be in demand with Soviet readers.

The next edition and an alternate edition will be called "Amerika Illustrated Edition." It will be 10½ by 14 inches, about eighty pages, and will resemble American picture magazines.

Colonel Joseph B. Phillips, former Moscow correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune and later managing editor of "Newsweek" magazine, is in charge of the new publication.

POLISH OFFICIAL ASKS BOUNDARY ALONG ODER RIVER

SINGLETON

DEC 19 1944

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—Moscow's Pravda, official organ of the Communist party, printed an article today by Dr. Stefan Yendrikowski of the Lublin Polish committee declaring that Prime Minister Churchill and Gen. De Gaulle's French government support Poland's claim to German territory as far west as the Oder river, within 30 miles of Berlin.

(Churchill in his Commons address last Friday did not specify the Western boundary he had in mind of Poland, but said that "so far as Russia and Great Britain are concerned," the Poles were free "to extend their territories at the expense of Germany to the west.")

Yendrikowski declared that Poland has an historical right to the territories, which include western and southern sectors of East Prussia and said that Russia, Yugoslvia and Czechoslovakia would support her claim.

"Some persons and even groups in the United States have not grasped the complex problem of our western frontiers and for this reason do not see eye to eye to our demands," he added. He laid claim to these lands:

1. Both upper and lower Silesia (including Breslau); (2) "border territories to the east of the Oder"; (3) western Pomerania to the Oder; (4) the Vistula estuary (Danzig); (5) Varmca and Masuria (western and southern East Prussia.)

"The task of the Polish people is not only to liberate land from the Germans," Yendrikowski wrote, "but to collect their historical territories."

Extension of the Polish boundary to the Oder would give post-war Poland a frontage on the Baltic sea of approximately 300 miles. Churcill mentioned a frontage of 200 miles in his Friday address, stretching west from Konigsberg in East Prussia.

Simultaneously with the publication of Yendrikowski's claim, the exiled Polish government in London issued a series of bitter charges against both the Soviet-sponsored Lublin committee and the Russian army in liberated Poland.

The statement declared that "Soviet armies accepted as a fixed rule of their policy in Poland the liquidation of the Polish home army x x x both east and west of the so-called Curzon line."

It cited a dozen alleged cases of the arrest of Polish soldiers by Soviet authorities and said there were rumors that mass deportations of Polish civilians into the depths of Russia were being prepared or had already begun. The Lublin committee, it contended, is supported only by two percent of the Polish population.

The statement was handed out by a representative of the exiled government's information service, but bore no attribution of source or sponsorship.

The Osservatore Romano, published in Vatican City, said in commenting on Churchill's speech that "the example of Poland makes one think of Versailles, where the last war was going to be buried and a new one was planted."

Lublin Pole Claims East Reich.

Moscow, Dec. 18 (A. P.).—Pravda printed today an article by Dr. Stefan Yendrikowski, representative of the Lublin Polish Committee of National Liberation, supporting claims to the German lands east of the Oder and lower Neisse. (The Oder flows within thirty miles of Berlin northeast of the German capital. The Neisse joins the Oder southeast of Berlin.)

Dr. Yendrikowski said the governments of France, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Soviet Russia and Prime Minister Churchill of Great Britain support these claims but "some persons and even groups in the United States have not grasped the complex problem of our western frontiers and for this reason do not see eye to eye to our demands."

Declaring Poland's right to "ancient Polish territories which have always been populated by Polish tribes," he laid claim to these lands:

1. Both upper and lower Silesia (which would include Breslau).
2. "Border territories to the east of the Oder."
3. Western Pomerania to the Oder.
4. The Vistula estuary (Danzig).
5. Varmca and Masuria. (Western and southern East Prussia.)

Versailles Recalled Grimly

ROME, Dec. 18 (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano, commenting today on Prime Minister Churchill's stand on Poland, said today "the example of Poland makes one think of Versailles, where the last war was going to be buried and a new one was planted."

U. S. to Approve Frontier Change If Poland Itself and Allies Agree

Stettinius, Defining Our Policy, Promises Aid in Transfer of Populations if Accord on New Boundaries Is Reached.

Washington, Dec. 18 (A. P.).—The United States said today it would have no objection to the establishment of new Polish frontiers "if a mutual agreement is reached by the United Nations directly concerned."

Secretary of State Stettinius laid down this basic policy in a statement handed out at his news conference.

The phrase "United Nations directly concerned" was not defined, but presumably would apply primarily to the Polish Government in Exile, the only Polish regime recognized by either this country or Great Britain. Or it might apply to a successor regime winning recognition.

Mr. Stettinius's three-point policy declarations was given out after he conferred separately with the British Ambassador, the Earl of Halifax, and Richard K. Law, British Minister of State here on a special mission.

The three points:

1. "This country stands unequivocally for a strong, free and independent Polish State with the untrammeled right of the Polish people to order their internal existence as they see fit."

2. Despite consistent United States policy that boundary questions should be left until the war's end, in the case of Poland this Government would have no objection provided the United Nations directly concerned reach an agreement "which could make an essential contribution to the prosecution of the war."

3. The announced American aim to assist liberated countries repair the devastation of war "applies to Poland as well as the other United Nations."

Follows Churchill Declaration.

The policy declaration followed Prime Minister Churchill's announcement to the House of Commons last Friday that Great Britain had agreed that the eastern third of Poland should be turned over to Russia.

Mr. Stettinius said it had been the United States Government's "consistently held policy that questions relating to boundaries should be kept in abeyance until the termination of hostilities." He recalled, however, an earlier statement by former Secretary of State Hull that some questions might be settled in the meantime by "friendly conference and agreement."

The Stettinius statement implied that the United States would approve the changed Polish boundaries provided the Polish Government accepted the Curzon line as its eastern border. Inferentially, it put the next step up to the Polish Government in Exile in London.

The Earl of Halifax, British Ambassador, called on Secretary Stettinius this morning before the Polish statement was issued, but the Secretary said they discussed routine matters apparently not connected with Poland.

Mr. Stettinius, while avoiding direct approval of the partition of Poland, promised American aid for Poland in any transfer of peoples necessitated by a border agreement. He said the United States could not guarantee specific European frontiers, but noted that this Government was working for the establishment of a world security organization and suggested that a Polish-Russian frontier settlement could make an essential contribution to prosecution of the war.

Mr. Stettinius also promised American help in the rehabilitation of devasted areas of Poland.

Text of Statement.

The text of his statement follows:

"The United States Government's position as regards Poland has been steadfastly guided by full understanding and sympathy for the interests of the Polish people. This position has been communicated on previous occasions to the interested government of Poland. It may be summarized as follows:

"1. The United States Government stands unequivocally for a strong, free and independent Polish State with the untrammeled right of the Polish people to order their internal existence as they see it.

"2. It has been the consistently held policy of the United States Government that questions relating to boundaries should be left in abeyance until the termination of hostilities. As Secretary Hull stated in his address of April 9, 1944, 'This does not mean that certain questions may not and should not in the meantime be settled by friendly conference and agreement.' In the case of the future frontiers of Poland if a mutual agreement is reached by the United Nations directly concerned this Government would have no objection to such an agreement which could make an essential contribution to the prosecution of the war against the common enemy. If as a result of such an agreement the government and people of Poland decide that it would be in the interests of the Polish State to transfer national groups, the United States Government in cooperation with other governments will assist Poland, in so far as practicable, in such transfers. The United States Government continues to adhere to its traditional policy of declining to give guaranties for any specific frontiers. The United States Government is working for the establishment of a world security organization through which the United States together with other member States would assume responsibility for the preservation of general security.

"3. It is the announced aim of the United States Government, subject to legislative authority, to assist the countries liberated from the enemy in repairing the devastation of war and thus to bring to their people the opportunity to join as full partners in the task of building a more prosperous and secure life for all men and women. This applies to Poland as well as the other United Nations.

"The policy of the United States Government regarding Poland outlined above has as its objective the attainment of the announced basic principles of United States foreign policy."

Statement by Stettinius

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18 (AP)— The text of Secretary Stettinius' statement on Poland follows:

The United States Government's position as regards Poland has been steadfastly guided by full understanding and sympathy for the interests of the Polish people. This position has been communicated on previous occasions to the interested Governments, including the Government of Poland. It may be summarized as follows:

1. The United States Government stands unequivocally for a strong, free and independent Polish state with the untrammeled right of the Polish people to order their internal existence as they see fit.

2. It has been the consistently held policy of the United States Government that questions relating to boundaries should be left in abeyance until the termination of hostilities. In the case of the future frontiers of Poland, if a mutual agreement is reached by the United Nations directly concerned, this Government would have no objection to such an agreement which could make an essential contribution to the prosecution of the war against the common enemy.

If, as a result of such an agreement, the Government and people of Poland decide that it would be in the interests of the Polish state to transfer national groups, the United States Government, in cooperation with other Governments, will assist Poland, in so far as practicable, in such transfers. The United States Government continues to adhere to its traditional policy of declining to give guarantees for any specific frontiers. The United States Government is working for the establishment of a world security organization through which the United States, together with other member states, would assume responsibility for the preservation of general security.

The policy of the United States Government regarding Poland outlined above has as its objective the attainment of the announced basic principles of United States foreign policy.

7. The treaty does not affect in any way any previous engagement contracted by either of the two parties with third nations.

General de Gaulle will submit the pact to the Consultative Assembly this week for formal ratification, it was announced in Paris.

British Press Praises New French-Russian Alliance

Moscow, Dec. 18 (AP) — Pravda said today that the new French-Russian agreement was of great military and political significance to both nations and would serve as a blow to German plans for any new European aggression. The Communist newspaper's editorial said the agreement had brought the two nations together as never before.

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—The new French-Russian alliance pledging mutual economic and military assistance for at least 20 years, terms of which were announced in Paris yesterday, was warmly praised today by the British press.

"Such agreements should produce others which will bind the foundations of security," the Daily Mail said.

The text of the treaty, as released in Paris, had these points:

1. Each country will continue the fight against Germany until final victory is won, giving mutual assistance within the means at its disposal.

No Separate Negotiations

2. Neither will enter into separate negotiations with Germany nor conclude without mutual agreement any armistice or peace treaty either with the Hitler Government or any other government set up in Germany with the aim of prolonging German aggression.

3. Both countries will adopt necessary measures in common accord at the end of the war to eliminate any new threat from Germany.

4. In the event either France or Russia becomes involved in hostilities with Germany in the future, the other party will immediately bring all possible aid and assistance.

5. Both countries undertake not to conclude alliances or enter into coalition aimed at the other.

Postwar Assistance

6. Both parties will exchange all possible economic assistance after the war to facilitate their reconstruction and contribute to the prosperity of the world.

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—The Moscow radio said today that 51 high state functionaries of Bulgaria had been accused of crimes against the country. Included were the ex-regents, Prince Cyril Bodgan Filov and Gen. Nikola Mikhov.

Some of the accused have fled and others are dead, Moscow said.

BIG RAF ARMADA HEADS FOR REICH

Gdynia Is Bombed After U.S. Planes Raid Rail Yards

London, Tuesday, Dec. 19 (AP)—The sky over London was filled with the rumble of heavy bombers for more than an hour last night as a large force sped toward the continent.

It was believed to be the heaviest force of heavy aircraft to pass over the city in months, indicating a particularly strong blow at the Germans was being made.

Earlier in the night, a strong force of perhaps 500 RAF Lancasters smashed at German shipping in the big Polish port of Gdynia north of Danzig last night after 1,100 British-based American warplanes had made emergency daylight attacks through clouds against three railheads used to supply the Germans' new Western front offensive.

The British heavyweights ranged 1,600 miles to deliver an estimated 2,500 tons of bombs against the Baltic port.

Cologne, Coblenz Hit

This assault brought to more than 7,000 the number of Allied planes which have pounded enemy targets with an estimated 14,000 tons of explosives in a 48-hour aerial campaign.

The American operation yesterday struck at Cologne, Coblenz and Mainz, three rail centers supplying the Germans' stab into Belgium, with 2,000 tons of bombs.

More than 500 Flying Fortresses and 600 escorting Mustangs of the United States 8th Air Force were risked in weather so hazardous that normally they would have been kept on the ground.

A communiqué said three bombers and five fighters were missing after the attack on the three rail centers.

Mosquitos Believed Out

The Mustangs killed off three Messerschmitts in scattered dogfights.

After nightfall the German radio warned that fast-flying bomber formations, probably RAF Mosquitos, were approaching southwestern Germany.

Joining the attack, heavy bombers of the United States 15th Air Force with protective fighters hammered German synthetic-oil refineries in Silesia and military targets in the Vienna area from bases in Italy.

The British-based aerial fleet was guided through cloud walls 5 miles thick by radio, and the bombardiers dropped their explosives by instrument. The Luftwaffe did not interfere with the emergency mission, and flak was reported generally meager.

So solid were the clouds the Mustangs could not find the ground to carry out any strafing jobs.

207 Planes Lost In 48 Hours

In the last 48 hours the Luftwaffe has lost at least 207 planes to Allied pilots.

In the last 36 hours possibly more than 7,000 Allied planes have pounded Nazi targets with some 12,000 tons of explosives, with at least 75 per cent of the mighty aerial power being concentrated against Field Marshal von Rundstedt's offensive.

Out of the estimated 450 enemy planes supporting the German offensive, fighter-bombers of the United States 9th Air Force shot down 100 Sunday and 20 more yesterday morning. The RAF 2d Tactical Air Force destroyed 11. Black Widow fighters knocked down five paratroop-carrying planes.

Sunday night the 1,300 RAF bombers attacking three rail centers along the Ruhr clipped 3. Ground gunners bagged 20 more and the 15th from Italy destroyed 48. In addition, 60 others were damaged or probably destroyed. The Allies lost 77.

The 9th alone crippled nearly 700 trucks, wagons and trains in the Monschau sector.

HEAVY BOMBERS AID FIRST ARMY

Hit Rail Heads Supplying German Offensive.

DEC 19 1944

London, Dec. 18 (AP).— Eleven hundred heavy bombers and fighters raced from Britain to the American First Army battlefront today and smashed three German railheads supplying the German counter-offensive.

Five hundred American Flying Fortresses dumped 2,000 tons of bombs on Cologne, Coblenz and Mainz despite solid cloud which blanketed them from view. The clouds robbed the fighter escort of 600 Mustangs of a chance to mix it with German fighters.

The daylight blows followed a night pummeling of Munich, Ulan and Duisberg by 1,300 British heavy bombers, seventeen of which were lost.

Returning to German Silesia for the second straight day heavy bombers of the American Fifteenth Air Force from their Italian bases again hammered synthetic oil refineries at Blechhammer and Odertal.

A formation of Liberators of the Fifteenth also battered targets in the Vienna area. Military installations at Sopron, Hungary, thirty-five miles east of Vienna, and at Graz, Austria, ninety-five miles southwest of Vienna, were hit.

Except at Graz, where the railway yards were plainly visible, all bombing was done by instruments.

The big R. A. F. planes dropped an estimated 7,000 tons of bombs on the three German cities, all key points in the Nazi railway network.

American fighters with belly tanks of extra fuel ranged ahead of the American heavy bombers today to meet any challenge in the skies over western Europe's battlelines.

The triple blow last night—one of the first struck by R. A. F. heavy bombers in weeks—came in the wake of a day of bitter air combat between German and Allied fighters.

108 Enemy Planes Bagged.

The Germans had 108 fighters and bombers blasted out of the air yesterday in air battles accompanying the enemy's ground attacks. Two R. A. F. fighters were lost, both due to flak, and 31 American pursuit craft were listed as missing.

From all sectors Allied fighter craft were summoned—even the R. A. F. Spitfires, Tempests and Typhoons from the Netherlands—as a sudden break in the weather exposed long columns of German tanks, trucks and troops moving slowly toward the battle raging in the American First Army lines.

The break in the weather forced the German command to rush planes in the air in an attempt to provide cover for the attacking ground troops.

Britain-Based Planes Grounded

American bombers based in Britain could not get into the fray yesterday due to bad weather. Fighter-escorted American flying Fortresses and Liberators from Italy, however, crossed the Alps and bombed railroads at Salzburg near the old German-Austrian frontier, a target at Wels; oil refineries at Blechhammer and Odertal in German Silesia and the Moravska Ostrave refinery in Czechoslovakia. Allied fighters strafed transports on a rail line southeast of Munich between Rosenheim and Wels.

In these and other operations 48 enemy aircraft were destroyed and 29 Italy-based Allied planes were missing.

RAF heavy bombers from Britain were out soon after dark for the Allies' first big raid on the southern German rail center at Ulm—midway between Munich and Karlsruhe.

The Germans still were battling blazes in Ulm when a second big bomber force rumbled over Munich and spilled incendiaries.

The third RAF operation was the blow at Duisburg, a rail head on the western edge of the Ruhr, which has been hit heavily in past weeks by British Lancasters.

Meanwhile the Germans renewed their V-weapons attack on England last night. The British Ministry of Home Security said today that damage and casualties were reported.

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—The Germans renewed their V-weapons attack on England last night. The Ministry of Home Security said today that "damage and casualties were reported."

American Scientists Aid Allied Air Forces

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—A group of American scientists, including a Nobel prize winner, who were flown overseas to help solve the problem of the rocket bombs, contributed to the Allied Air Forces' domination of the skies over Europe, it was disclosed today.

The scientists, brought from the United States at the request of Maj. Gen. Hugh J. Knerr, commanding the Strategic Air Service Command, were credited with vital assistance in developing the accuracy of strategic bombing.

The scientists are Dr. John L. Synge, chairman of the mathematics department of Ohio State University; Dr. Howard M. Jenkins, chairman of the electrical engineering department of Swarthmore; Dr. Oswald Veblen, professor of mathematics at Princeton; Dr. H. H. Germand, professor of applied mathematics, University of Florida; Dr. D. L. Webster, chairman of the physics department of Stanford, and Dr. Carl Anderson, Nobel prize-winning professor of physics at the California Institute of Technology.

No Decision on Churchill Speech

LONDON, Dec. 18 (AP)—A spokesman at 10 Downing Street said today that "nothing has been decided" whether Prime Minister Churchill would make a broadcast review of the war and political situation within the next few days. The same spokesman had said on Saturday that it was "quite possible" that Mr. Churchill would broadcast on Sunday night, but the Prime Minister did not go on the air.

Floating Night Clubs To Entertain Troops

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—Britain will send three floating "night clubs" to the Pacific to entertain her troops.

In answer to the mounting criticism that soldiers battling the Japanese are being neglected, the Government is fitting out three big liners. Each is equipped with its own brewery, bar, orchestra and floor show. The ships will brew beer as they sail.

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—Col. Philip Cochran, of Burma fame, has been appointed assistant operations officer of the 1st Allied Airborne Army under Lieut. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton. The Erie (Pa.) airman commanded the first air Commando task force in Maj. Gen. Charles Orde Wingate's air invasion of Burma.

Yank Slayer Of British Army Woman Gets Life

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—A United States Army court-martial today sentenced Private Robert Joseph Himmelmann, 19, of St. Louis, to life imprisonment after convicting him of fatally stabbing a British service woman near Exeter last August.

The young soldier was ordered dishonorably discharged and to forfeit his pay and allowances.

NAZIS HURLED BACK ON ITALIAN FRONT

ROME, Dec. 18—(AP) Patrols of the British Eighth army probed German defenses across the Senio river only five and a half miles from Imola today in preparation for a renewal of the Po valley offensive which slowly is rolling the enemy back along the ancient Via Emilia toward Bologna.

Striving to bolster their lines against the Allied attack, the Nazis threw several Italian Fascist units into action south of the highway and west of Faenza, road center which fell to New Zealand troops yesterday.

Polish forces stabbed across the Sintria river, a little tributary of the Senio, in the foothills south of the highway and captured the village of San Mamante in Curiano along with 140 prisoners. Yesterday the Poles seized Limisano and Casette.

While New Zealanders mopped up the last enemy resistance in the northern outskirts of Faenza, the Canadian corps moved up for an assault on the strategic highway center of Bagnacavallo, some 10 miles north-northeast of Faenza. Headquarters announced the Canadians had taken more than 1,000 prisoners since they opened their attack west of the Montibe river two weeks ago.

Action subsided on the American Fifth army front below Bologna after several days' hard fighting, but the Nazis continued to shell certain sectors and laid down curtains of fire against Yank patrols trying to scout their positions.

Allies Mopping Up Faenza In Italy

Rome, Dec. 18 (AP)—The Army newspaper Stars and Stripes today quoted a person who recently crossed the front line as saying the Germans hanged 35 Italian hostages in Bologna three weeks ago in reprisal for the blowing up of a Nazi ammunition truck by two Patriots who escaped.

Rome, Dec. 18 (AP)—Eighth Army troops held a line along the Senio River today stretching five miles southward from the Bologna-Rimini highway, Allied headquarters announced.

The south anchor of the line was held by Polish troops who yesterday captured Limisano and Casette in a drive toward the river against strong enemy resistance.

Mop Up In Faenza

Canadian troops to the north made further gains near Bagnacavallo, while other 8th Army units virtually cleared the Germans from captured Faenza, which fell to New Zealand troops yesterday. Headquarters said isolated pockets of enemy resistance still remain in the northern outskirts of the highway stronghold.

The Canadians have captured more than 1,100 prisoners since they launched their assaults west of the Montibe River two weeks ago, headquarters announced.

True Story In Italy Not Told, Mission Says

Advance Fifth Army Headquarters, Dec. 17 [AP—Delayed]—After a trip into the front lines during which they were under enemy fire, members of the touring House Military Committee expressed belief today that American newspapers had failed to give a complete picture of the rigors of the Italian campaign.

The Congressmen said this was possibly caused by a lack of comprehension of the importance of the Italian campaign on the part of both press and public.

Censor Questioned

Several of the Congressmen asserted they believed the correspondents were trying to present a true picture, and a query from Representative Sheridan (D., Pa.) on whether censorship was a factor brought a reply from Brig. Gen. Arthur J. McCrystal, chief of information for the censorship section, that outside of military security correspondents were free to write as they pleased.

"I think the story of the little men with wet feet and big men with wet feet has not been fully emphasized," Representative Luce (R., Conn.) said.

"Not Too Well Told"

She added also that she did not think the story of women in war had been too well told.

"I have seen too many pictures of pretty WACs with an air corps captain, as though the idea were to join the WACs to get a husband," Mrs. Luce asserted.

Earlier Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of Allied ground forces in Italy, told the committee that the 5th and 8th Armies will not sit still, but will "strike, and strike hard."

Nazi Troops "Better"

Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., successor to Clark as commander of the 5th Army, said officers who encountered Germans on the Western and Italian fronts report the Nazis have better troops in Italy.

The committee was told that the Germans are now trying to drive a wedge between the Americans of the 5th Army and the Brazilians, who recently joined the front.

British Push South From Acropolis Toward Port

By STEPHEN BARBER

Athens, Dec. 18 (AP)—The battle between British troops and Greek ELAS forces grew heavier this afternoon, moving southward in Athens toward Phaleron and the city's port, Pireaus.

British paratrooper, infantry and armored units which began their offensive south of the Acropolis at dawn this morning met stiffer ELAS resistance as the day wore on. It was a patrol job for the British and, for the most part, successful. The patrols are spread over a wide area.

Take 45 Prisoners, Lose Man

I accompanied a patrol this afternoon which lost one man and took 45 ELAS prisoners who surrendered only after hard fighting. They held out for several hours until the paratroopers used their deadly Piat one-man anti-tank guns.

The British drive against the ELAS, fighting arm of the left-wing EAM party, has been described as an all-out effort to clear the armed Leftists from the capital. Its first goal was to open the main highway between Athens, Pireaus and Kalamaki airport.

The ELAS members that I saw captured had dug themselves into a block of apartment buildings and fought back fiercely for several hours. Then one of the British paratroopers was killed and his angered companions brought up a Piat.

A Piat will blow a hole like a 75-millimeter gun in the average apartment building. Six Piat shells terrified these ELAS snipers. Ten were wounded, four seriously. One of them was a Russian and another Italian.

Householders Thank British

Householders who rushed out after the fighting to thank the paratroopers hysterically "for liberating us twice."

British armored vehicles could move over the Athens-Piraeus road tonight through Phaleron. British infantry units which moved up from Phaleron Bay consolidated in a strategic brewery building halfway up the vital highway where an ELAS heavy machine-gun position, now liquidated, had hindered the flow of British supplies for a week.

While this battle for supply lines went well for the British, the ELAS troops scored to some extent in battles north of the city at Averoff prison and RAF headquarters. Political prisoners, including those accused of collaboration with the Germans, held in the Averoff prison were said officially to be in the hands of the British.

Planes Drop Supplies

At RAF headquarters, rocket-firing Beaufighters helped the British defenders by strafing the ELAS gun positions. Wellingtons dropped supplies to the besieged garrison.

Beaufighters and Spitfires flew missions supporting the British drive to Piraeus.

It was reported today that Miltiades Porphyrogennis, emissary of the EAM and former Minister of Labor, would meet with Scobie again tomorrow. It was Porphyrogennis who delivered the EAM peace offer last week and received the rejection from Scobie. Today he conferred with Gen. Nicolas Plastiras, leader of the Greek revolution of 1922, who also had met with leaders of the Government.

British Launch Athens Drive

BARBER

Athens, Dec. 18 (AP)—British forces launched a full-scale drive against Left-Wing ELAS forces in Athens today and it appeared likely to be only a matter of hours before the siege of the capital is lifted.

Within a short time after jumping off at dawn the British had captured an ELAS stronghold on the highway leading from Athens through the summer resort of Phaleron to the Kalamaki airport. The ELAS forces, estimated at about 200, had barricaded themselves in a brewery and were equipped with heavy machine guns.

The Kalamaki airport already had been cleared to a depth of 300 yards and British armored vehicles were traversing the road from Athens to Piraeus.

British Take Hill

Before the main attack began, British forces took Sikelias Hill, due south of the Acropolis, which had been strongly held by the ELAS.

The first goal of the British cleanup operations was to open the main highway between Athens, the port of Piraeus and Kalamaki airport.

Armored forces as well as infantry participated. A number of prisoners were taken in the first hours of the drive.

Strong ELAS forces, meanwhile, made simultaneous attacks upon RAF headquarters and Averoff prison, which was held by a British detachment and Greek police. The prison houses a number of political prisoners.

British Defend HQ

RAF headquarters was defended by RAF forces and British infantry.

Fighting increased in Athens over the week end following a rejection by British commander Lieut. Gen. R. M. Scobie of EAM's peace proposals.

British headquarters reported that Scobie turned down the peace offer because it did not provide for the immediate cessation of the two-week-old civil war as a preliminary to final negotiations.

Meanwhile, the American position of strict neutrality in the Greek political crisis was reaffirmed by a high military spokesman, who said American activities were "strictly limited to relief and rehabilitation."

Planes Attack ELAS

RAF Spitfires and rocket-firing Beaufighters attacked ELAS forces in the city yesterday after they had opened up with heavy artillery and mortar fire.

Premier George Papandreou's press secretray announced that the ELAS had been completely cleared from Pireaus but the British, apparently not entirely satisfied, were continuing operations there.

Relief shipping has piled up at Pireaus and yesterday a general strike was called in Salonika, where other vessels crammed with relief supplies remained unloaded.

Brig. Gen. Percy L. Sadler, deputy commander of United States forces in the Middle East and in charge of the distribution of American Relief supplies in Greece, said Americans in the country "will refrain from any action which could possibly be interpreted as intervention in Greek politics, although naturally complying with British security regulations."

The British said that hundreds of armed Bulgarians had infiltrated into northern Greece.

300 Americans in Athens.

Rome, Dec. 18 (A. P.).—Some 300 Americans in Athens are maintaining strict neutrality, but are generally regarded by ELAS forces as opposed to British policy, Joseph Silber of Cleveland, American Red Cross field supervisor, said today.

Returning after two weeks in the Greek capital, Silber staid that the position of Americans in Athens was so ambiguous that they are a nuisance. He expressed the opinion that they should be evacuated.

A few Americans have been wounded, but none has been killd, Silber said. Americans in Athens include representatives of the UNRRA, the Red Cross, the State Department, the Air Transport Command and military liaison personnel.

Greek King's Reaction To Regency Is Awaited

London, Dec. 18 (AP)—Reliable Greek sources said tonight that King George II had not yet been approached by his Cabinet on his reaction to appointment of a regency—a move that it is hoped will end the continuing crisis in his country.

Hints in the British press that the 54-year-old Hellenic King was considering abdicating over the question of a regency brought an emphatic "no comment" from one of his close advisers.

In London the Greek King was understood to be awaiting a decision by his Government on a regency. Reports from Athens that the Archbishop of Athens would be appointed regent appeared to be not in accord with information reaching the British Foreign Office thus far.

Reliable diplomatic quarters asserted it would be premature to say a clear-cut decision had been reached.

SCOTTISH WORKERS PROTEST ELAS WAR

DEC 19 1944

London, Dec. 18 (A.P.).—Some 150,000 workers in more than 200 Scottish shipyards and aircraft factories held demonstrations today against British policy in Greece, and shouted approval of resolutions calling on the Government to arrange an immediate armistice in that nation. The protest meetings were held in lieu of originally proposed one-day work stoppages.

A crowd estimated by the police at 20,000 demonstrated in Trafalgar Square here yesterday, approving resolutions calling on the Government to stop using troops against the ELAS forces in Greece and terming Britain's policy in Greece disastrous.

Romania Abolishes Restrictions On Jews

Bucharest, Dec. 15 [AP—Delayed]—King Mihai signed a decree today abolishing Jewish restrictions and establishing the groundwork for the return of full rights of citizenship for Romanian Jews.

The decree, prepared by Justice Minister Lucretiu Patrascanu and approved by the Cabinet, was criticized by Dr. William Filderman, leader of Romanian Jews, who declared a bill prepared by the former Government of Gen. Konstantin Sanatescu would be preferable.

The new law restores property rights and contemplates complete equality in economic and social spheres, but Filderman charged it dropped certain passages from the Sanatescu bill which "made it unacceptable to Jews."

Iran Would Discuss Oil Sales To Russia

Tehran, Dec. 18 (AP)—While press blasts against the Soviets kept Russo-Iranian relations tense, Premier M. Q. Bayatt's Government today proposed that talks be resumed regarding the sale of oil to Moscow, since negotiations for the granting of foreign oil concessions in Iran now are forbidden by law.

The Government said it hoped the Russians would buy oil from north Iran fields "exploited by Iranians wit hthe help of Russian machinery and engineers and money under an Iranian company."

The American and British embassies have refused to comment on whether their governments would accept similar terms for southern Iran.

JAPS BEATEN BACK IN UPPER BURMA

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HEADQUARTERS, KANDY, Ceylon, Dec. 18 — (AP) British 14th army troops, which now hold a line extending roughly from east to west between the Irrawaddy and Chindwin rivers in upper Burma, have cleaned out the last vestige of Japanese domination in a rugged jungle area containing 2,000 inhabited localities, an Allied communique said today.

Knifing across a 100-mile-wide belt of dense hill country east of the upper Chindwin in the vicinity of Indaw, on the important Myitkyina-Mandalay railroad, British advance elements joined hands with units of the royal Scots fusiliers which had been pushing southward, thus consolidating northern Burma's scattered fronts into a single line, the war bulletin declared.

The two forces made contact in the Banmauk area on the eastern slopes of the Mingin range and, during operations which led up to the juncture, the important communications center of Pinlebu, on the Mu river 45 miles east of Sittung, was stormed and taken by the British.

Before the present line-up the 5th Indian division, striking east from the Imphal valley, and the 11th East African division, pushing down the Kalewa valley, had established contact near Kalemyo, about 145 miles southwest of Indaw.

In the northern combat area, the communique said, a task force attacked a Japanese position yesterday northwest of Tonkwa and captured it, killing many enemy troops.

Newly-identified American infantry and artillery units, known as the "Mars Task Force," last were reported operating in the vicinity of Tonkwa, 120 miles north of Mandalay and some 100 miles southeast of Indaw. This force under command of Brig. Gen. John P. Willey of Hampton, Va., is closer to Mandalay than any other Allied unit in Burma.

The communique added that on the 15th Indian corps front in the Arkan hills West African troops have made a new crossing of the Kalapanzin river south of Buthidaung and gained some high ground.

Scattered Burma Fronts United

Southeast Asia Command headquarters, Ceylon, Dec. 18 (AP)—North Burma's scattered fronts were united into a single line when the Royal Scots Fusiliers, advancing toward the south, linked up yesterday with British 14th Army elements pushing toward the east in the jungle area west of Indaw on the Myitkyina-Mandalay railway.

An area containing 2,000 inhabited localities, was freed from the last vestige of Japanese domination by the juncture, Pinlebu, important enemy base and communications center from which the invasion of India was launched last Spring, was captured during the operations leading up to the meeting.

Earlier Juncture

Prior to the present linkup the 5th Indian Division, striking out from the Imphal Valley, and the 11th East African Division, driving down the Kalewa Valley, had made a junction near Kalemyo, which is about 145 miles southwest of Indaw.

American infantry and artillery, known as the Mars Task Force, are now fighting in the North Burma theater and are closer to Mandalay than any other Allied units.

The force last was reported operating in the vicinity of Tonkwa, 120 miles north of Mandalay and about 100 miles southeast of Indaw. It is under the command of Brig. Gen. John P. Willey, of Hampton, Va.

TRIBESMEN HELP YANKS FIGHT JAPS IN UPPER BURMA

MYITKYINA, North Burma, Dec. 18—(AP) For more than 2 1-2 years 5,000 fierce Kachin tribesmen of upper Burma, who love to jump from Allied airplanes, have been parachuting into the hills killing Japanese and rescuing American pilots who were forced to bail out over enemy territory. Something of their story can now be disclosed.

During the past 30 months they have saved the lives of 220 U. S. airmen, killed 3,000 enemy soldiers and taken 35 prisoners, while operating under the command of American Army, Navy and Marine officers. Most of the American officers whose names are withheld for security reasons, and all the Kachins are volunteers.

One of the strangest of all Allied fighting units, it is known as the American-Kachin ranger force—but the Kachins themselves prefer to call it "Mhyprop Phung" meaning "lightning force."

The colorful Kachins, who know every foot of the dense jungle, have destroyed thousands of tons of enemy supplies, burned scores of bridges behind the lines and wrecked more than a dozen trains which were bringing supplies to Japanese frontline troops in north Burma.

In reprisal the Japanese have burned some of their villages, and in some cases have killed all the inhabitants, both young and old. At one time the Japanese ordered all Kachins killed on sight. One enemy report stated that to kill a single Kachin in the mountains would be worth the lives of 10 Japanese.

One reason why the jungle rangers are known as the "lightning force" is because of their rapid movement in operations. Once, after parachuting into Japanese territory, they covered as much as 54 miles in 27 hours to catch Japanese garrisons by surprise.

One American officer serving with the Kachin force has walked 1,200 miles since the middle of last June. Some of the Americans have been behind enemy lines 18 months.

One native leader among the Kachins, who is only 4 feet, 10 inches tall, is Zing Htung Maw, who was able to defend an area of 1,600 miles against the Japanese during the enemy occupation of Burma.

Some Kachins are paid as low as one rupee, or 30 cents American, per day plus their food. They are quick to understand modern arms. Given a machine gun for the first time htey can take it apart, put it back together again and name all the parts in English—all within an hour.

They maintain modern radio communications with Allied headquarters and send and receive messages in English without being able to read them, despite the fact they code and decode all the messages.

Some of the Kachins smoke opium, and all love to hunt. Once when a group was asked how the hunting was that day a spokesman replied they had flushed three tigers, four deer and two American Air Transport command pilots out of the jungle.

Specialists in jungle warfare, they specialize in ambushing with pungi traps. Pungi pits are holes in the ground studded with sharpened bamboo sticks which cause infection to anyone falling on them.

Stilwell's Son Decorated

MYITKYINA, Burma, Dec. 17 (Delayed) (AP).—Colonel Joseph W Stilwell jr. received the Legion of Merit today for "meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services during the Hukawng and Mogaung Valley campaigns." The general's son is assistant chief of staff, G-2, in the northern combat area of the Burma theater.

NEW CHINESE GAINS

Chungking, Dec 18 (A. P.).—Striking down the Kweichow-Kwangsi railroad in Kwangsi province, counter-attacking Chinese forces were less than a mile from Hochih, ninety-five miles from Liuchow, the High Command has announced. Meanwhile, Chinese units that already had outflanked Hochin captured Wuyu, Japanese strong point nine and one-half miles southeast of Hochih.

An appeal to the people of the United Nations, particularly those of the United States, to urge their leaders "to take immediate and effective military measures to fight Japan in China before it is too late," was issued by a group of leading Chinese citizens. Among the signers of the appeal were Dr. Hu Shih, former ambassador to the United States; Bishop Paul Yupin, Vicar Apostolic of Kiating; Lin Yutang, author, and James Yen, director of China's mass education movement.

AMERICANS SMASH 742 JAP PLANES DURING PAST WEEK

Invasion Troops Meet No Resistance on Mindoro Island.

ENEMY CAUGHT NAPPING

Construction Crews Repair Airfields, Yanks Drive Ahead.

GENERAL MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Tuesday, Dec. 19—(AP) Destruction or serious damaging of 742 Japanese warplanes during the past week was disclosed by Gen. Douglas MacArthur today as American invasion troops met no resistance on Mindoro island.

The Japanese planes were bagged by land-based American aircraft and planes operating from Adm. William F. Halsey's Third Fleet.

Repair Jap Airfields

The chief American purpose in seizing Mindoro island is the construction of airdromes from which further to harry the Japanese. Manila is only a half hour's flight from Mindoro. American and Australian construction men were busy putting airstrips into shape.

The communique said the Yankee landing on Mindoro had "caught him (the enemy) completely off balance," and except for a few nuisance air attacks, the Americans were making their scheduled progress.

Invasion of Mindoro has been the easiest major job of the Pacific war. Associated Press Correspondent Elmont Waite, writing from Mindoro, said "the Japanese have offered not the slightest resistance as yet, aside from harassing air attacks by a few planes."

He said the invasion has been moving "swifter than had been hoped." The Japanese at the city of San Jose fled in such haste they left their breakfast bowls of rice and clams still warm.

Six dead Japanese were found the second day of the invasion.

In the drive against the enemy on Leyte island, the 77th Division reached an airdrome west of Valencia Sunday, and continued its push northward.

MacArthur revealed 905 Japanese were counted dead on Leyte in one day. A spokesman said the majority of the casualties were inflicted by the 7th American division, which was liquidating remnants of the trapped Nipponese 26th division.

In support of the American forces in the Valencia sector, P-40 fighter bombers strafed and bombed enemy positions along the road from the Ormoc highway west toward the coast.

Liberators bombed Puerto Princesa airdrome at Palawan, leaving its runways unusable and destroying three parked planes. A coastal vessel was sunk in this area.

Bombers Hit Davao

At Mindanao heavy bombers struck Padada airdrome in Davao, and mediums hit San Roque, destroying buildings and two parked planes. Patrol planes sank a lugger and damaged three small merchant vessels.

Off Borneo's coast a heavy reconnaissance plane sank a small freighter and damaged five more. An enemy plane attempting to take off from Jesselton airdrome was destroyed.

Enemy installations on Halmahera, Boeroe and Amboina were plastered with 48 tons of bombs. In the lesser Sundas air patrols left a coastal vessel listing and afire.

Far-ranging raids also were carried out on New Guinea and the Solomons. Airfields on Rabaul were attacked, leaving runways unserviceable.

American losses continue light, Gen. MacArthur reported.

"The greatest possible care is being exercised to minimize our losses," he said. "Frontal assault methods are being avoided as far as possible and the artifice of maneuver and superior firepower is being exerted to prevent battle casualties. As a result they continue light."

The fast developing incursion of Mindoro island, just south of Luzon, already had enveloped the coastal plain area around San Jose, where the Americans landed virtually without resistance last Friday.

On Leyte, the 77th infantry division made a wide left end run to the west of the Ormoc corridor highway, advancing seven miles north to outflank the Yamashita line. From positions two miles below Valencia, it battled for that headquarters of Gen. Sosaki Suzuki, top-ranking Japanese commander on the island.

Cut Yamashita Line

North of Valencia, the U. S. First Cavalry division advanced two miles in applying pressure from the upper end of the corridor. This gain cut the Yamashita line between Valencia and Mt. Catabaran, which is about 10 miles above Valencia.

The enemy still had not recoiled from the surprise landing on Mindoro and a headquarters spokesman said Monday that resistance continued scant. The success of American carrier planes in destroying and pinning down the Nipponese airforce on Luzon again was brought out by headquarters, which said enemy air activity was "negligible."

(The enemy radio continued its unconfirmed fulminations of the "wreckage of sunken American warships and transports" covering the waters near San Jose. It said "death-defying sallies" were being carried out by special attack groups on the "remnants of enemy vessels."

(A broadcast by Domei, Japanese news agency, told of "an enemy fleet of considerable strength" being sighted in the Sulu Sea south of Mindoro and interpreted this as meaning other Philippine areas would be invaded.)

Yanks Push Ahead on Mindoro

Airfield Construction Rushed on Beachhead —Leyte Japs in Tightening Vise.

Gen. MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 18 (A. P.).—Airfields were being whipped into shape today on the southern end of Mindoro Island, now securely in American hands. Yank infantrymen were eleven miles from the beachhead they established at dawn Friday.

Only scant resistance was encountered, a spokesman reported. The Americans had command of strategic high ground and set up a wide defense six miles beyond the town of San Jose.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his Monday communique "our hold on the southern part of the island is now secure."

On Leyte Island to the southeast, troops of the Seventy-seventh American Division outflanked Japan's Yamashita line at the southern sector of the Ormoc corridor and drove seven miles north toward an ultimate junction with American forces pressing southward.

Drive Worries Japs.

American and Australian construction engineers on Mindoro were busy readying captured airstrips for day and night fighter planes. These airfields are only 150 miles from Manila—a flight of less than a half hour.

[Japan took serious note of the Mindoro invasion. Tokyo's influential newspaper Asahi warned in an editorial that an American victory there would give the Americans "full control of tomorrow's military situation." It cautioned against minimizing the "fighting spirit of American military leaders and the enemy's ability to maintain their lines of supply."]

Tremendous carrier plane strikes against the Manila area gave strong support to the Mindoro advance. Airmen of Vice-Admiral John S. McCain's carrier force off the Philippines in three days of continual strikes, including Saturday, raised to 435 their total of enemy planes put out of action. These, added to the 146 destroyed or damaged by flyers covering the Mindoro landings, make a four-day total of 581 planes.

Major Richard I. Bong of Poplar, Wis., America's top ace, shot down his thirty-ninth enemy plane Friday in a fighter sweep over Negros Island in support of the Mindoro operation.

The flanking movement on Leyte entailed some of the bloddiest fighting of the Philippine campaign. Gen. MacArthur listed 2,012 new Jap dead to add to the 37,154 already counted on Leyte. In addition, many thousands are estimated killed behind the enemy lines.

The Seventy-seventh Division was only two miles from Valencia, headquarters of Gen. Suzuki, commander of the Thirty-fifth Jap Army. At the north end of the corridor the American First Cavalry Division made a two-mile advance to cut the Yamashita Line between Mount Catabaran and Valencia, and the Thirty-second Division in the same general area captured large quantities of enemy equipment, including tanks, artillery pieces, mortars and machineguns.

Jap Air Action Weak.

Jap air activity was negligible except for a raid on Morotai Island, southeast of the Philippines, by a single plane which caused some casualties.

American aircraft, however, gave Japanese shipping airdromes and fuel installations a thorough pasting. Three freighters were set afire off Mindoro and a fourth was damaged. Two more were set ablaze off Masbate in the Visayan group.

Oil tanks at Tarakan, north Borneo, were pounded anew, and a 3,000-ton freighter-transport offshore was damaged by night patrol planes.

Fuel dumps and railway freight cars on the Bicol Peninsula of Luzon Island were bombed by patrol planes which also harassed whipping on the west coast.

The concentrated day and night attack on the Manila area by carrier and land-based planes caused the Japanese to black out the Philippine capital for the first time since they captured it.

MAJOR BONG DOWNS 40TH JAPANESE PLANE

AT A LEYTE AIRBASE, Philippines, Dec. 18—(AP) Maj. Richard I. Bong of Poplar, Wisc., America's top-ranking ace, ran his string of Japanese air victim to 40 planes by bagging a fighter over Mindoro yesterday.

It was the second victory in a week for the Congressional Medal of Honor pilot.

Taking advantage of a break in the weather, Bong stormed up to the American beachhead on Mindoro. Soon he picked up a Japanese intruder, rode up on its tail and sent it down flaming.

Invasion General's Sweet Dream

Mindora, Philippines, Dec. 18 (AP). This island thus far in the American invasion is the army's "promised land" and the operation any general's sweet dream.

The Japanese have offered not the slightest resistance as yet, aside from harassing air attacks by a few planes.

The weather has been just right; for the first time in the Philippines campaign it is helping instead of hindering the American forces.

As a result, the invasion of Mindoro has been moving swifter than had been hoped.

Brig. Gen. William C. Dunckel, commander of the invading force, said today the airfield south of San Jose will be ready for use before. It will bring Manila within a half hour's flying time.

A Catholic army chaplain raced an Australian officer to see which would be the first into San Jose on invasion morning. It was that sort of war. Lieut. Col. Joseph S. Lawrie, San Antonio, Texas, an officer of one invasion unit, acted as unofficial referee. He said the chaplain, Capt. John H. Powers, Oneonia, N.Y., won the race.

Tokyo Describes Landing 'Toll'

San Francisco, Dec. 18 (AP)—Tokyo, in an unconfirmed broadcast beamed to the United States, today claimed that "the waters near the enemy landing point at San Jose, on Mindoro Island, are now covered with the wreckage of sunken American warships and transports."

Monitors of the Federal Communications Commission recorded the broadcast, which said:

"Numerous vessels are still burning in a sinking condition. It has been observed that two medium transports and five small transports and many landing barges are still in flames. In the meantime, death-defying sallies of the Japanese special attack corps are being continued with unabated intensity upon the remnants of enemy vessels."

Negligible Air Activity

In his communiqué today, Gen. Douglas MacArthur said "enemy air activity was negligible, with two enemy planes shot down over our shipping."

The Japanese news agency Domei said today that Nipponese planes had sighted "an enemy fleet of considerable strength" in the Sulu Sea south of American-invaded Mindoro Island. There was no Allied confirmation.

"The enemy is apparently planning to move into other areas, using Mindoro Island as a base," said the romanized Japanese wireless dispatch to occupied Asia, recorded here.

"Continuous Assaults"

Domei said "our air units are carrying out continuous assaults on this fleet."

The news agency warned that "the apparent design of the enemy to advance his operational sphere to the northwestern Philippines is not to be taken lightly."

New Invasion Worries Japs
